Cornwell Speaker For Dedication Ceremonies Of Memorial Health And Physical Ed Building

Dedication of the new Memorial Health and Physical Education building of East Carolina college on Tuesday evening, January 6, was marked by brief exercises preceding the basketball game between the East Carolina Pirates and the University of North Carolina Tar Heels.

Dr. Oliver K. Cornwell, professor of physical education and director of physical education for men at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, was the principal speaker in the exercises which began at 8 o'clock.

Dr. John D. Messick, president of East Carolina, presided, presented the distinguished guests and introduced Dr. Cornwell. The program included music by the East Carolina college band under the direction of Herbert L. Carter, vocal selections by the Varsity Men's Glee club with Dr. Kenneth Cuthbert, head of the East Carolina college music department, conducting, and the invocation by Dr. Robert L. Holt, director of religious activities.

The new gymnasium and physical education building was dedicated to the memory of John B. Christenbury, East Carolina college coach who was an aviator with the armed forces during World War II at the time of his death, and to alumni of the college who gave their lives while in the service of their country.

Dr. Arthur Lee Kinsolving, rector of the St. James Protestant Episcopal church in New York City, was the distinguished guest speaker to be here for Religious Emphasis week January 18-22 is Dr. Arthur Lee Kinsolving, rector of the St. James Protestant Episcopal church in New York City.

New Gymnasium East Carolina college opened its new health and physical education building in July, 1952, with an informal reception and an aquatic show. Classes in health and physical education were begun during the second term of the 1952 summer school.

Construction of this building was begun during the summer of 1951 and the modern brick structure facing East 10th street in Greenville is located on the east campus adjacent to College stadium.

The main floor of the gymnasium has facilities for six badminton courts, three volley ball courts, and cross courts for basketball so that two games may be played simultaneously. Synchronized scoreboards are played on opposite walls in the building.

Seating for 2,397 spectators is provided in the gymnasium. These accommodations include 525 permanent balcony seats, 1008 stationary ing seats, and 864 removable folding seats which can be reversed in position and used for spectators at aquatic events.

Swimming Pool The building houses an indoor swimming pool, the first East Carolina college has had. It adjoins the main gymnasium and is separated by metal sliding doors. The pool measures 35 feet by 75 feet and is tiled in a design of white, green and black. Skylights above the pool admit natural light, and underwater lighting adds to the beauty of the pool.

Equipment in the building includes many types of supplies for ball and other games, a trampoline, "horses", parallel and horizontal bars, mirrors for corrective work and other standard supplies for a gymnasium.

Spiral stairs lead from the area near the pool to the basement dressing rooms for men and women. A heating system makes possible the regulation of water temperatures.

Enrollment for the 1952-53 Winter Term at East Carolina college exceeds all previous ones for the same time according to figures released by Registrar Orval L. Phillips.

The figures show that there are 1,932 students this quarter compared to 1,796 for last year's Winter term.

A breakdown of the 1,932 show that the women outnumber the men nine to eight here on the campus. There are 714 freshmen, 424 sophomores, 328 juniors, 343 seniors, 26 full time graduate students and 89 special graduate students.

Of the 1,932, 1,449 are prospective teachers with 14 men in elementary education. There are 127 taking a two-year business course.

There are 91 new students who registered here for the Winter quarter.

College Organizes Adult Education Classes Tuesday

Adult education classes to be offered during January and February by ten departments of instruction at East Carolina college will be organized at a meeting to be held in the Flanagan auditorium Tuesday, December 13, at 7:30 p.m.

Approximately 20 courses included in the adult education program will provide opportunities in various fields for those who wish to enroll.

All courses will be given on a non-credit basis, and there are no prerequisites for enrollment.

Courses include painting and drawing, typing, shorthand, accounting, business law, public speaking, English composition, English literature, beginning French or Spanish, current events, business mathematics or other mathematics courses to meet demands, personal and community hygiene, science applied to home and community, application of science to industry and commerce, photography, general shop work for the hobbyist and building better families.

Dean Leo Jenkins Attends Regional Education Meet

Dean Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina college will participate in the program offered at a Regional Conference on Teacher Education and Professional Standards, to be held at the Henry Grady hotel in Atlanta, Ga. January 9-10.

This sixth annual series of conferences is sponsored by the National Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards of the National Education Association of the United States.

The program will be based on an intensive study of the problems confronting American education today.

Dr. Hubert A. Coleman, faculty member of the social studies department of East Carolina college, is now serving as a consultant to the Historical Branch, Office of the Surgeon General, US Air Force.

Dr. Coleman served as chief of the Medical History Branch of the Air Force from 1944 to 1947. During this time the history was prepared. In addition to planning and supervising the project, Dr. Coleman wrote a major part of the history.

Drop Those Courses Registrar Orval L. Phillips reminds students that Monday, January 12, will be the last day on which one may drop courses without receiving a failing mark in the course.

Performing in the comedy will be an all star New York cast of musical comedy favorites. Music and lyrics for the Broadway production were written by Cole Porter.

Playhouse Stages Morality Play; Begins Religious Emphasis Week

Entertainment Series Brings Conley Here Tuesday Evening

Eugene Conley, world-renowned tenor with the Metropolitan Opera association, will appear here Wednesday night at 8 o'clock in the Wright auditorium.

Conley has come to be called the newest sensation on the operatic horizon. Stockholm, Amsterdam, Paris, London, Chicago, San Francisco . . . all have heard him and all have unanimously applauded him.

These great cultural cities of the world are a far cry from his birthplace in Lynn, Mass. There he lived the life of a typical American boy.

He sang in the church choir, fished from the waterfront, played baseball with the corner kids. He was a Boy Scout and he won medals for sprinting contests.

Conley's father was a surveyor and a self-taught "old-fashioned fiddler." His father held old-fashioned musical get-togethers Saturday nights and the boy would entertain the crowd by singing and tap-dancing.

He was a soloist with the high school glee club and sang in several local churches. He began to think of a singing career when he left high school.

Later he sang with the Handel-Haydn society in the "Messiah," the Boston Apollo club and as soloist with the Commonwealth symphony.

All the time he was singing, he was studying. He continued his radio work and the National Broadcasting company featured him on a program of his own, called "NBC Presents Eugene Conley."

The war interrupted Conley's career. He served with the Army Air Force, and his voice helped swell the coffers of the Army Air Force Aid society.

After his discharge he again resumed his singing career. Transcontinental concert tours were punctuated by appearances with the New York City Center Opera company and appearances on the radio.

Everywhere the critics used their finest superlatives to describe his performances. It wasn't long until he received invitations to sing in Europe.

He sang in Paris, Stockholm, Amsterdam, Oslo, Copenhagen, The Hague and Rome. His appearance at the Royal Opera house in Stockholm marked the first time an American had appeared there since 1939.

During the 1949-50 season the La Scala Opera house in Milan especially revived "I Puritani" for him. In the summer of 1950 he sang at the Stadium Concerts in New York and then sailed for Italy to appear in "La Boheme" at the Arena, the immense outdoor amphitheatre in Verona.

While in Rome, Conley recorded the music for "Faust," which had been made into a movie.

College Theater Scene Of Two Performances Of Drama 'Everyman'

As part of Religious Emphasis week, the Teachers' playhouse, student dramatic club, will present the morality play "Everyman," an allegorical drama dating back to the fourteenth century.

Cooperating in the production will be the Inter-Religious council, the YWCA, the YMCA, the Women's chorus, the College choir and the Varsity Men's Glee club.

McLeod Directs Gilbert McLeod is the student director of the play, which is already being rehearsed.

SPORTS ECHO

by Bob Hilldrup

It's been a big week in sports on the East Carolina campus, what with the dedication of Memorial gymnasium and the basketball game with the University of North Carolina.

The UNC game carried with it several interesting items among them being the ruling of the Student Government that the cheerleaders could not lead the yells at the game. According to the report that we have, a group of the cheerleaders went to the administration and had the Student Government's decision reversed.

Whether or not the SG's ruling will be returned to affect subsequent games could not be learned at the time of this writing, but for what has gone before it is our opinion that, although the Student Government is supposed to be representative of general student opinion, they had no right whatsoever to take such a drastic step. Support of the teams in athletic contests this year by the student body has been considerably less than par, but just the same it certainly hasn't been the fault of the cheerleaders. What right, therefore, has the student governing body to take from these girls a privilege that obviously means a great deal to them?

Other items that came to light as a result of the Carolina game include the complete and utter confusion that reigned when the tremendous crowd attempted to find seats in a new, but obviously too small, gymnasium. Although the crowd Tuesday night was far larger than average the opinion of many was borne out that the gym is far too small. Even at conference games quite a few spectators have had to stand; and just think, this gym will doubtless have to serve our rapidly growing school for many years to come.

But enough has been said about the definitely inadequate seating capacity. This is a situation that cannot be remedied overnight, so the only thing that can be done is to get out to try to find an intelligent means of doing something about the problem. We would like to offer two suggestions. When games at which extra large crowds are expected why couldn't the doors be opened earlier than one hour before game time? The doors opened at seven Tuesday night and by 7:15 the student section of the gym was filled to overflowing. Despite the fact that dedicatory ceremonies held up the contest, student spectators were still flowing in, or rather attempting to get in, up until 8 o'clock.

One second suggestion concerns the seats that were reserved for outside visitors. It is our opinion that no East Carolina student desires to bar people from other localities at college ball games, but it is definitely our opinion that campus athletics belong first to the student and secondly to the spectators that desire to attend. Seat the students first and then, if there's any space left, give that over to other spectators.

In Memorium

The dedication of the gym to John Christenbury, East Carolina coach who lost his life during World War II, and to the alumni of the school who gave their lives in the service of their country was a move of which the students and the faculty might well be proud. Let's hope that it won't be too long before a plaque can be erected to the memory of these people.

Despite the confusion that accompanied the seating of the spectators we are proud to say that the student body conducted themselves admirably considering the conditions. Perhaps one item that took the students' minds off the constant jostling was the appearance of one "Bo" Thorpe, ex-East Carolina student and currently cheerleader at Carolina.

As for the game, the students of East Carolina should have nothing but pride for their team, a game ball club that played well and lost well. The University of North Carolina gained little in their win over the Pirates; for if we are the "country school" that one Carolina partisan referred to us as, then the University should certainly have never had the trouble with such a group of "country boy" Pirates as they did.

Laurels to Cecil Heath, the stellar Pirate guard, who almost single handedly kept the Pirates in the ball game during the opening minutes. His set shots from way out were indeed a pleasure to watch.

And to the team as a whole—WELL DONE, PIRATES.

Men's Basketball Play Opens

Action in the two men's intramural basketball leagues officially opened Wednesday night in the Memorial gym. The leagues are composed of eight teams each and are scheduled to play 16 games each week.

The "A" league is composed of those boys that have had a large amount of previous court experience, whereas the "B" league has boys with a lesser degree of basketball play.

League director Homer Thomas asks that as many students as possible be present at these games to support them.

The teams are scheduled to play four nights each week with four games on tap each night.

Conference Standings

As of Thursday morning the East Carolina Pirates were firmly entrenched in the top spot of the North State conference basketball race. The standings thru January 7:

Heath Shines For Buccaneers As Grimaldi Leads Tar Heels

Stooped behind the complex looking electric writing machine with holiday trappings still in our hair and a resounding ring of yuletide carols jarring our senses like the 7 o'clock alarm, we were faced with the tedious task of writing a passable column to get the new year off its haunches. Only the demanding eye of the editor kept our seemingly lifeless digits tip-toeing over the keys with this accordingly coffin humor.

These chilling, frosty days with refrigerated winds blowing ice cubes at you makes one appreciate basketball. The cage game, the current Marilyn Monroe of sports enthusiasts, is one sport observers can speculate with comfort. Our handsome gymnasium is neat, neat and complete for warmth and all the luxuries of home. Speaking of weather, we overheard one Greenville farmer say one of his hens, caught in this torrid wind, laid the same egg three times!

Coach Porter has brought the EC basketballers around in colorful style and wears game attire that definitely matches! The starring H's plus Huffman, Hodges, Heath and Russell and Thomas show plenty of class. The powerful unit has been going great guns and have driven fear into North State enemies with their net-scoring. Sonny Russell has broken out in several scoring rashes that left the opposition scratching their heads.

East Carolina's fighting Pirates capped dedication night in the gymnasium by holding North Carolina's Southern conference leaders to a 79-66 victory Tuesday night before a crowd of around 2,500 fans.

Preceding the game, brief ceremonies dedicated the gym to John B. Christenbury, former East Carolina coach who lost his life in World War II, and to 26 East Carolina students who also gave their lives in the late global conflict.

A game group of Buccaneers battled the Tar Heels on even terms for three quarters before finally succumbing to a brilliant Carolina attack led by Vince Grimaldi who scored 24 points. The Pirates were led by little Cecil Heath as they came from behind a 6-1 first period deficit to outplay the Tar Heels and pull up to trail 39-36 at intermission.

The Bucs refused to give in as the second stanza began. At the end of the third period Carolina had managed to lengthen its lead by one point to 52-48. In the final quarter East Carolina took the lead 54-52, lost it and regained it briefly for the final time 56-54. Two timely baskets by Grimaldi set the blue-clad visitors on their way to their final splurge.

Cecil Heath and Bobby Hodges led the Pirate attack with 15 points apiece. Sonny Russell and J. C. Thomas followed with 13 and 12, respectively.

Carolina's sensation, Grimaldi, received scoring aid from Lifson who had 14 points and Maddie, who bucketed 13.

Bucs Meet Elon In Road Contest Saturday Night

East Carolina's Pirates will meet Elon college tomorrow night in a game that will probably affect the top position in the North State conference. Elon will carry a 2-0 record into the contest which will be played at Burlington.

On Tuesday, January 13, the Buccaneers will return to Memorial gym where they will meet Guilford's Quaker's. The Bucs defeated Guilford in their opening contest by a 78-69 score.

Sonny Russell and Bobby Hodges, pacesetters of the Pirate team, will lead East Carolina in these coming games. Following the Guilford contest the Bucs will play four conference clashes on the road. They will meet Lenoir Rhyne, Western Carolina, Catawba and High Point before returning home to meet Atlantic Christian in a January 30 game.

The AC game will determine which school will retain possession of the cherished "Bohunk" trophy. The trophy is at stake in every athletic clash between the two schools.

East Carolina's 1940-41 basketball team compiled a record of 16 wins and four defeats.

Recorded Broadcasts Aired Over Various Local Stations

Ten tape-recorded broadcasts featuring Christmas music performed by students and faculty members of East Carolina college were aired over a number of radio stations during the holidays. The following stations broadcast one or more of these special programs: WGTC Greenville; WGTM Wilson; WRRF Washington; WCEC Rocky Mount; WCPS Tarboro; WSJS Winston-Salem; WIAM Williamson; WENC Whiteville.

President John D. Messick and Alumni Secretary James W. Butler were presented on some of the broadcasts giving short inspirational messages and holiday greetings from the college.

The pre-holiday assembly program presented the last day of classes in Wright auditorium and highlighted by President Messick's annual holiday message to the student body, furnished program material for two semesters.

The junior choir of the campus Training school, singing under the direction of Miss Beatrice Chauncey of the college music faculty, were heard in a 15 minute broadcast of carols as performed before the Parent-Teacher association of the school.

Mr. Perry performed three Christmas broadcasts for listeners to his Organ Reveries series, pre-recorded regularly over WGTC Greenville each Saturday at 6:30 p.m.

The "Messiah," as performed in Wright auditorium by the College choir, directed by Dr. Karl V. Gilbert, was presented on the air in three broadcasts, each 30 minutes in length. These were heard first over station WGTM Wilson, which carries a weekly program in the East Carolina college Broadcasts series, scheduled at present for each Sunday at 2 p.m. The weekly feature is a presentation of the College department of Music, Dr. Cuthbert, director.

The holiday broadcasts were produced under the supervision of Mrs. George Perry, director of Campus Radio, assisted by Dr. Elizabeth Uterback, speech consultant, Dr. Robert Holt, technical advisor; Joe Johnston, student assistant; and C. L. Perkins Jr., student engineer. Booking arrangements were made by Mr. Butler. Student announcers were Jerry Sand and Al Harrington of the Campus Radio announcing staff.

Barney Discusses Social Security Law Of 1951

"Only three out of ten businessmen questioned during a recent survey knew that they were covered under the new social security law," Marshall H. Barney, manager of the Rocky Mount office of the Social Security administration, announced today.

"The self-employed person has incurred tax liability for 1951, and this liability became due and payable in the first quarter of 1952, and each year thereafter," Barney continued. "An equal number of self-employed failed to realize their self-employment earnings after 1950 were building toward old-age and survivors insurance protection for themselves and their families."

"Self-employment earnings are reported on a special section of an individual's Federal income tax return, and is due by March 15 of each year. A self-employed person does not report his income on the quarterly social security tax return for his employees, but on a special return at the end of the year."

For more detail information, get a copy of the booklet, "Do You Work for Yourself?", from your social security field office.

Betty Sugg Wins Scholarship At National 4-H Congress

Top honors in the national 4-H dairy foods achievement contest have been awarded to a student of East Carolina college, Betty L. Sugg of Craven county. As one of eight 4-H club girls in the country to place in the national contest, Betty will receive a $300 scholarship.

This 18-year-old 4-H'er from Rt. 2, New Bern, has been in 4-H club work for eight years. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Sugg, she has entered the dairy foods contest for five years now. As State winner in the dairy foods achievement contest Betty has gone to National 4-H club Congress in Chicago. She has also carried the food preparation project for eight years, the frozen foods project for six, and the food preservation project for five years.

Betty says that in carrying out her dairy foods demonstrations she gave her demonstration with the purpose of showing to others the importance of milk to the human body. "In this way I could explain and show everyone the value of milk instead of just telling them," Betty commented.

For four years, Betty has been president of her Jasper 4-H club and served as president for the Craven county 4-H council for two years. This year she is acting as the county council reporter.

Betty's varied activities do not stop with her 4-H club work, however. She has been active in numerous school organizations and at the same time has managed to maintain a scholastic average that placed her in the top quarter of her high school class for four years. Betty is a member of the Beta club, the home economics club and the French club in her high school.

ARE YOU TOUGH ENOUGH FOR # THIS JOB?

If you can make the grade, the U. S. Air Force will award you a commission, your wings and pay you over $5,000 a year!

CAN YOU "take it" 6 days a week? For 52 weeks? Can you meet the high standards required to be an Aviation Cadet? If you can - then here's a man-size opportunity! An opportunity to serve your country and build a personal career that will fit you for responsible positions both in military and commercial aviation.

It won't be easy! Training discipline for Aviation Cadets is rigid. You'll work hard, study hard, play hard - especially for the first few weeks. But when it's over, you'll be a pro - with a career ahead of you that will take you as far as you want to go. You graduate as a 2nd Lieutenant in the Air Force, with pay of $5,300.00 a year. And this is only the beginning - your opportunities for advancement are unlimited.

ARE YOU ELIGIBLE?

To qualify as an Aviation Cadet, you must have completed at least two years of college. This is a minimum requirement - it's best if you stay in school and graduate. In addition, you must be between 19 and 26 1/2 years, unmarried, and in good physical condition.

YOU CAN CHOOSE BETWEEN PILOT OR AIRCRAFT OBSERVER

If you choose to be an Aircraft Observer, your training will be in Navigation, Bombardment, Radar Operation or Aircraft Performance Engineering.

New Aviation Cadet Training Classes Begin Every Few Weeks!

HERE'S WHAT TO DO:

1. Take a transcript of your college credits and a copy of your birth certificate to your nearest Air Force Base or Recruiting Station. Fill out the application they give you.
2. If application is accepted, the Air Force will arrange for you to take a physical examination.
3. Next, you will be given a written and manual aptitude test.
4. If you pass your physical and other tests, you will be scheduled for an Aviation Cadet Training Class. The Selective Service Act allows you a four-month deferment while waiting class assignment.

Where to get more details: Visit your nearest Air Force Base or Air Force Recruiting Officer.
OR WRITE TO: AVIATION CADET HEADQUARTERS, U. S. AIR FORCE, WASHINGTON 25, D. C.
