AFROTC Officers Club Names Council Military Ball's Honorary Cadet Colonel

Col. Fuller Presents Honoree With Flowers As Souvenir Of Event

Members of the Officers club of the Air Force ROTC wing at East Carolina college were hosts Saturday evening, March 21, at the Fourth Annual Military Ball given by cadets at the college. Shirley Council of Wilmington was chosen as honorary Cadet Colonel for the evening and received chief honors among sponsors at the social event.

The Wright auditorium on the college campus, scene of the ball, was decorated in a color scheme of red, white and blue. The stage, from which the East Carolina Collegians played, had a backdrop bearing the emblem of the Air Force. Blue and white streamers hung from the ceiling and from the balconies surrounding the dance floor and gave a gala setting for the dancers. A revolving chandelier of mirrors cast a kaleidoscopic pattern of light through the auditorium.

Receives Recognition

Lt. Col. Roger G. Fuller, professor of air science and tactics at East Carolina, announced from the stage the appointment of Miss Council as honorary Cadet Colonel and presented to her a sheaf of flowers and a souvenir of the occasion.

Escorted by Cadet Capt. Dennis R. Smith of Chocowinity, Miss Council then led a dance figure and a grand march, in which senior cadet officers, the sponsors of the dance, members of the advanced class of the AFROTC and their dates participated.

Senior cadet officers and their dates were Cadet Col. Maurice Moore of Wilmington and Miss Patricia Shipp of Wilmington; Cadet Lt. Col. William A. McLawhorn of Greenville and Miss Jan Mitchell of Hillsboro; Cadet Lt. Col. Frank Madigan of Portsmouth, Va., and Miss Barbara Moore of Raleigh; Cadet Lt. Col. George M. Sauls of Grifton and Miss Kathryn McLawhorn of Grifton; and Cadet Lt. Col. George Tucker and Miss Betty Tucker, both of Monroe.

Sponsors, Escorts

Sponsors chosen by the Officers club for the Military ball and their escorts were Gale Dorsey of Wilmington and W. C. Sanderson of Wilmington; Sharlene Howard of Raleigh and Julian Vainwright of Greenville; Jean Buchanan of Raleigh and Paul Gay of Walstonburg; Betsy Loftin of Kinston and Charles Batchelor of Rocky Mount; Barbara Kinney of Raleigh and Cecil Heath of Wilmington; Vivian Tally of Wilmington and James Byrd of Kinston; and Mary Frances Peterson of Kerr and Milton Foley of Greenville.

An attraction of the evening was a cake cutting preceding the intermission at the ball. Miss Council, as chief honoree, cut the cake, which was ornamented with Air Force decorations.

Special guests of the evening included staff officers of the AFROTC wing at East Carolina, a number of college faculty members, AFROTC cadets at the college here and at other colleges in the eastern section of the state.

Anthony Returns Here For Dance

Tickets for the Ray Anthony concert and dance which is slated for April 20 will go on sale Monday, according to Dr. Richard Todd, head of the East Carolina Entertainment committee. These tickets can be obtained from the Student Budget office or from Dr. Todd in his office for one dollar each.

Dr. Todd added that the dance will be closed except to members of the college and one escort. Each student may purchase only one extra ticket, and must do this before 4 p.m., April 20. No tickets will be on sale at the door. He added further that all students must be sure to have their student identification with them for admittance.

This is a return engagement for the Ray Anthony band, and a full house is expected. The concert will take place from 8-9 p.m. and the dance will follow.

Colonel Fuller Announces Award

Lt. Col. Roger G. Fuller presents Shirley Council, honorary Cadet Colonel of the Fourth Annual Military Ball, a bouquet of flowers as Cadet Captain Dennis Smith, honoree's escort, looks on. The honorary Cadet Colonel was chosen by a vote of the Officer's club.

'Student Prince' Offers Cast Of 200 During April Showings

Fourteen student soloists will sing leading parts in a production of Romberg's "The Student Prince," to be presented at East Carolina college April 9 and 10 under the sponsorship of the Student Government association. An abridged performance will be given for visitors on the campus on High School day, April 17.

The popular musical will be given in a concert version. Soloists, costumed for their roles, will appear in scenes from the operetta. A chorus of 120 voices and the East Carolina orchestra of 60 pieces will participate. Dr. Elizabeth Utterback of the college English department will read a dramatic continuity which will link scenes of the production.

George Starling of Rocky Mount,

Carolyn Eisele of Statesville, Carolyn Mahoney of Greenville, Leonard Starling of Rock Mount, Ruth Little of Winterville and Robert E. Roebuck of Farmville are principals in the cast.

Others who will appear as soloists include Bernard Ham, Portsmouth, Va.; Andrew Meeder, Norfolk, Va.; Gerald Murphy, China Grove; Willa Rae Bullock, Farmville; Frances Smith, Robersonville; Irving Ennis, Goldsboro; Charles Starnes, Wilmington; and Mitchell Saied, Greenville. Dr. Kenneth N. Cuthbert, head of the department of music at East Carolina, is director of the operetta. Assisting him in work on the music of the production are Dr. Karl V. Gilbert, Dan E. Vornholt, and Mrs. Gladys Reichard White, faculty members of the department of Music. George McFadden, Wilmington junior, electrician for the production, is in charge of planning and executing the elaborate lighting effects which will contribute interest to the musical.

Jarvis Forensic Club Elects Mayo President

Lula W. Mayo of Greenville has been elected president of the Jarvis Forensic club at East Carolina college and will direct the activities of the debating society during the spring quarter this year. As a member of the club, Miss Mayo represented East Carolina in the recent South Atlantic Forensic tournament at Lenoir-Rhyne college at Hickory, N. C.

Other officers chosen for the spring quarter are James L. Fish of Willow Springs, vice president; Bobby R. Young of Angier, sergeant-at-arms; and Gwendola Williams of Oakboro, secretary-treasurer. Dr. Meredith N. Posey of the department of English will continue his work as faculty advisor of the organization.

Commencement Dates

Commencement exercises this year will be held May 16 through May 18. Classwork will end on Friday, May 15.

The Alumni association will hold its annual meeting Saturday morning, May 16, followed by the Alumni luncheon at one. The music department will give a recital Saturday evening.

United States Secretary of Agriculture, Ezra Taft Benson, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon Sunday morning, May 17, 11 o'clock; and United States Commissioner of Education, Earl McGrath will deliver the commencement address Monday, May 18, at 1:30.

Final Performance Of Comedy By Faculty On Slate Tonight

Forgetting their classrooms and their work as professors, 11 East Carolina college faculty members showed last night what they can do as actors and actresses. An excellent cast, skillful directing and an attractive stage setting made the play a successful venture.

The initial performance of the production of John Patrick's "The Curious Savage" was successfully presented yesterday in the College theatre. A second performance will be given there tonight at 8:15. A benefit play sponsored by the Greenville Branch of the American association of University Women, the comedy is presented to raise money for a scholarship fund to enable an East Carolina student to study abroad. George E. Perry of the faculty directs the play.

Amusing Plot

The plot centers around the difficulties of Mrs. Ethel P. Savage, a millionairess committed to the home by her money-hungry children. Mrs. Dorothy Perkins plays the eccentric lady, who seems to have lost ten million dollars worth of negotiable bonds but who cares tenderly for a toy teddy bear which is always with her.

Mrs. Agnes Barrett plays her sophisticated, six-times-married daughter, and Dr. Hubert Coleman and Dr. Theodore Eaton appear as her distinguished sons, a senator and a judge. The independent-minded old lady sets about proving that these three are crazier than she.

Ruth Lambie as the nurse Wilhelmina and Donald Amelon as a pianist, a war casualty, play roles which add a touch of romance to the play. Dr. James Pindexter in the role of Dr. Emmett presents a point of view both scientific and essentially human toward his patients.

Surplus Imagination

Beatrice Chauncey, who in last year's faculty play "The Silver Whistle" got almost a laugh a line for her portrayal of the complaining and caustic Mrs. Hamner, is cast as Fairy Mae, a plain girl with surplus imagination.

Others in "The Curious Savage" are Elizabeth Walker, who takes the part of a lady of pseudo-culture; Mrs. Sally Klingenschnitt, an artist who hates everything and is vocal only about her dislikes; and Dr. Harold Jones, a happy violinist who cannot play.

Phillips Reveals Honor Students For Winter Term

Figures released this week by Dr. Orval L. Phillips, registrar, revealed a total of 399 honor students for the winter quarter. This is an increase of 82 over last year's winter total of 317.

There were 15 students who made all ones. They were: Anne Barbour, Peggy Cherry, Margaret Eason, Jeanne Ennis, Barbara Ethridge, Gayle Flanagan, Margaret Fleming, Sadie Francis, Janice Hardison, James Limer George Lyons, Donnell Muse, Frances Radcliffe, Donald Umstead and Harriet Ward.

The Dean's list students number 91 and 293 made the Honor roll.

To make the Honor roll a student must obtain at least two quality points per credit hour on all work taken and no grade below a three. The Dean's list is composed of those students who make at least two and a half quality points per credit hour on all work taken with no grade below a three.

Industrial Arts Group Picks New Leaders

The Industrial Arts club elected new officers at a meeting held on March 23 in the Flanagan building.

Serving for the coming year will be James Henderson, of Hubert, president; Charles Wentz, of Ashboro, vice president; Giles Dail, of Kinston, secretary; Aubrey Collins, of Jacksonville, treasurer; and Thomas Blizard, of Deep Run, reporter.

Italian Movie Here

An Italian movie, "Paisan," will be presented free of charge in Austin auditorium and in the Training school auditorium at 4 and 7 p.m., respectively, Tuesday as a part of the Greenville Arts festival.

The names of the sponsors of the program were cut from the story last week because of technical reasons, but they are International Relations club, Woman's club of Greenville and the American Association of University Women.

Inter-Religious Council Sponsors Sacrificial Meal

An Easter sacrificial meal will be sponsored by the Inter-Religious council at East Carolina in Austin auditorium Wednesday evening at 5:30 o'clock. The program will be brief and will include a short worship service by members of the council.

Those attending the service will eat bread and drink water, and they are asked to sacrifice their regular supper for that day. The object of the program is to offer a chance for persons here to share the experience of going without adequate food for one meal as peoples of Korea and other parts of the world undergo every day of their lives.

An opportunity will be given to those persons who desire to attend the sacrificial meal to leave the price of the meal that they are missing to go to help the starving men, women and children of Korea.

Duck Derby Day On Tap Tuesday

Duck Derby day at East Carolina college will be observed on Tuesday, March 31. This has been an annual event on campus for three years. Special entertainment arranged by Bernie Ham, chairman of the entertainment committee, will be on program as well as the usual duck race. The entire program will be held in Wright auditorium at 8 p.m.

This event is sponsored by the Circle K club, the Association for Childhood education and the Future Teachers of America. Dr. John Reynolds, Emma L. Hooper and Dr. Eva D. Williamson, faculty advisors for these organizations, are assisting the members in the event.

Former President Of C Dies After Extended Ill

Dr. Leon R. Meadows, 68, for 30 years head of the English department at East Carolina Teachers college and president of the college from 1934 to his retirement in 1944, died at 5 o'clock p.m. Friday, March 6, at his home in Galipolis, Ohio, after an extended illness.

Dr. Meadows came to East Carolina as head of the English department in 1910, the first year of the college instructional program; and he served in that capacity for 30 years. At the death of President Robert H. Wright in the spring of 1934, he was appointed acting president, and following a unanimous petition of the faculty, was elected president on October 5, 1934.

In North Carolina, Dr. Meadows was also prominent in educational affairs. He was president of the Department of Higher Education in the North Carolina Education association, vice president and president of the North Carolina College association and district chairman of the Governor's committee for Prosperity in the South, set up in 1940.

During his more than 30 years in Greenville, Dr. Meadows was a member of the Baptist church and for years was a member of that church.

Tuesday Run-Off Decides Winners Of Three Posts

Mitchell Saied, junior at East Carolina college, was chosen as president of the Student Government association here in elections held at the college Friday. Royce Jordan opposed Saied. Votes were counted early this week, and results have been announced by Percy Wilkins, chairman of the elections committee.

Saied has been prominent in student activities at the college since he enrolled here as a freshman three years ago. During 1952-1953 he was second vice president and parliamentarian of the SGA. Several times he has represented East Carolina at intercollegiate debate tournaments, and this spring participated in the Florida Invitational Debate tournament and the South Atlantic Forensic tournament at Lenoir-Rhyne in Hickory.

In the run-offs Tuesday Milton Foley edged Harold Colson for second assistant treasurer. Royce Jordan edged Elsie Lawson for secretary of the Women's judiciary, while Gale Dorsey defeated Sarah Thompson for treasurer of the same group.

In addition to the presidency of the SGA, most influential student office at the college, eleven other posts in the organization were filled, Wilkins states.

Charles E. Huffman won over Mildred House for first vice president; and Wade H. Cooper, who was unopposed, was named second vice president. Other major posts were filled as follows: Shirley Council, secretary; Billy Laughlin, treasurer; and Ann Bynum, first assistant treasurer.

John R. Postas and Betsy Hobbs will serve as chairmen of the Men's and the Women's judiciaries of the SGA.

Chosen as officers of the Men's judiciary also were Gene Russ, chairman; John T. Hayes, secretary; and Paul Jones, treasurer. Serving on the judiciary will be Barbara Harris, vice chairman; and V. L. Harris, member-at-large.

Apply For Post

Any students who wish to be on the East Carolina "East Carolinian" annual, the "Buccannan" application immediately in such intention to the office of this year's president of the Association of the South. This matter will be discussed at a board meeting of the board might have all persons.

We Must Pull Together

"A better Student Government association for a better East Carolina." That statement was the general trend of campaign promises of the persons running for the top student positions on campus during last week's election. Officers have been elected. The new slate has begun working toward fulfilling their promises. Will the new officers live up to their promises? Is it possible for them to do all that they might want to do?

The answer to these questions is no unless there is a strong, representative group of members working with the officers on the legislature. Good leaders must have outstanding followers, or they will not be good leaders. No small group of persons can accomplish a job by themselves, but the small group, which we might say is our leaders, will be able to do wonders if they are backed by everyone at East Carolina.

When a representative on the legislature just attends meetings, he is not doing a very satisfactory job. Each member of the Student Government association, and that is each person in school here, must speak out and express his views on questionable issues that might appear before the legislature. All sides and views of the problems should be dug into thoroughly before any measure is taken to solve the problem.

Sitting back and voting "yes" on everything that is presented at the SGA meetings will not make for a better East Carolina. In the past there have been just a small minority who practically run everything that was presented before the legislature. Whose fault is this? It is not the fault of the president or any of the officers, but it is the fault of each person who just sits back and takes everything in. The presiding officer cannot make representatives participate more. To remedy this situation individual organizations should elect a representative which they can feel sure will speak out at the meetings.

According to present plans the new slate of officers plans to post on a public bulletin board what will be taken up at the weekly meeting of the legislature prior to the meeting. This will provide an opportunity for members to discuss the issues with other persons before going to the meeting. On the spur of the moment voting will thus be eliminated.

The "East Carolinian" plans to run a column each week expressing editorial comment on the happenings of the legislature. We hope that the column will help build up student interest in the legislature.

No one knows now just how effective our new legislature will be, but we do know that it will not be made effective by the work of just a few persons. We must all work and pull together if we plan to accomplish anything.

We Will Try To Explain

In recent weeks there has been some heated discussions between students concerning some of the columns that have appeared in the East Carolinian. We on the staff may be at fault for not explaining more carefully the policies of this paper.

All newspapers print columns which express the views of the individuals composing the opinions. Merely because the column appears in our paper does not mean that the paper expresses the same feelings.

There are students who say that they do not agree with all that is said and done by persons writing the columns. No one asks you to believe or agree with all that is written in the columns. We would be in a sad state today if everyone did agree with all that another said.

Oftentimes we print editorials that have appeared in other papers that we receive. It is not our intention that the readers of this paper should think that these reprinted editorials are our views. We clearly print at the beginning of each reprint that we use the name of the paper that it was taken from.

We hope that we have cleared up some of the questions that have been coming to us, and if at any time any of our readers would like to discuss the policies of this paper with us we will be more than glad to do so.

Ye Editor's Say

by Tommie Lupton

We would like to congratulate all persons who won positions on next year's Student Government association slate, and we hope that each officer will strive to make East Carolina a more democratic school.

Released recently by the Entertainment committee was the news that Ray Anthony will play here in April. Each spring the committee brings a name band to East Carolina, and the Anthony group of musicians has been selected for the second straight year.

The Ray Anthony band really put on a show last year, and we feel that everyone should enjoy his performance as much this year. Announcements will be made later concerning whether or not students will be permitted to bring guests. Student identification cards will be used in giving students their admission tickets.

What many persons at East Carolina consider the biggest dance of the year, the Military ball, is all over. From all talk that has been going around, we feel quite sure that all the cadets had a wonderful time.

We saw some naval ROTC students from other schools, as well as some officers who have graduated from here and some from the air base in Kinston.

The feeling of spring is now in the air, and we can sympathize with any persons who have late afternoon classes. One will never know how hard it is to sit through a class from 4 o'clock to 5 o'clock in the afternoon during the spring. Just think of all the baseball games we will miss.

High school day is not too far off now. We all hope that we will be able to influence as many high school seniors to come to East Carolina as have in the past few years. There are not many students in this state who plan to go to college who have not heard of our college. We have really built up a good reputation over this section of the country, and we must all work hard to not let our good name falter.

Easter will soon be upon us, and we will get a few more days of vacation. Everyone had better make good use of these days, for they will be the last 'til the end of the quarter. The school calendar should be rather full from here on out, and all should stay on the ball.

A coed at Drake university, Iowa, rushed into Spanish class a few minutes late, threw off her coat and started to sit down. Students began to chuckle. The coed looked down horrified, then quickly threw her coat around her again and ran out. She'd forgotten to wear a skirt.

College graduates are being offered higher salaries now than ever before, according to Dr. Frank S. Endicott, director of placement at Northwestern university.

He says a study of 176 major corporations shows the average starting salary is $304 a month. We wonder if these figures pertain to school teachers?

Couple Of The Week

Since the first day of registration in the fall term of 1951, Ruth Little and Jim McCormick have found each other's company very enjoyable. Even though Jim and Ruth are from the same county (Ruth is from Winterville and Jim is from Ayden), they had never met until they came here. In fact Ruth admitted that she had seen Jim quite a few times on the basketball court and thought he was the most conceited boy she had ever seen! "Of course my opinion changed after the first date," she said.

Ruth and Jim love to window shop, and so far agree on the same types of furniture, houses, etc., which is a good thing, because Jim and Ruth became engaged last December and soon they may be going more than just window shopping.

(Editor's note: By being named "Couple of the Week," Ruth and Jim will each be given a carton of Chestfields, a free pass to the Pitt theatre, a free meal at the Olde Town Inn and an item from Saslow's Jewellers.)

The 1958 girls' basketball team compiled a perfect record of five wins and no defeats. They capped their season by downing the College of Charleston 32-25 on the losers' court.

Who's Who At East Carolina

by Phyllis Carpenter

No one needs any introduction to this week's Who's Who. Warren "Sonny" Russell, for he has made a name for himself at East Carolina not only for his athletic ability but also for his friendly, good natured personality which has won the hearts of the student body.

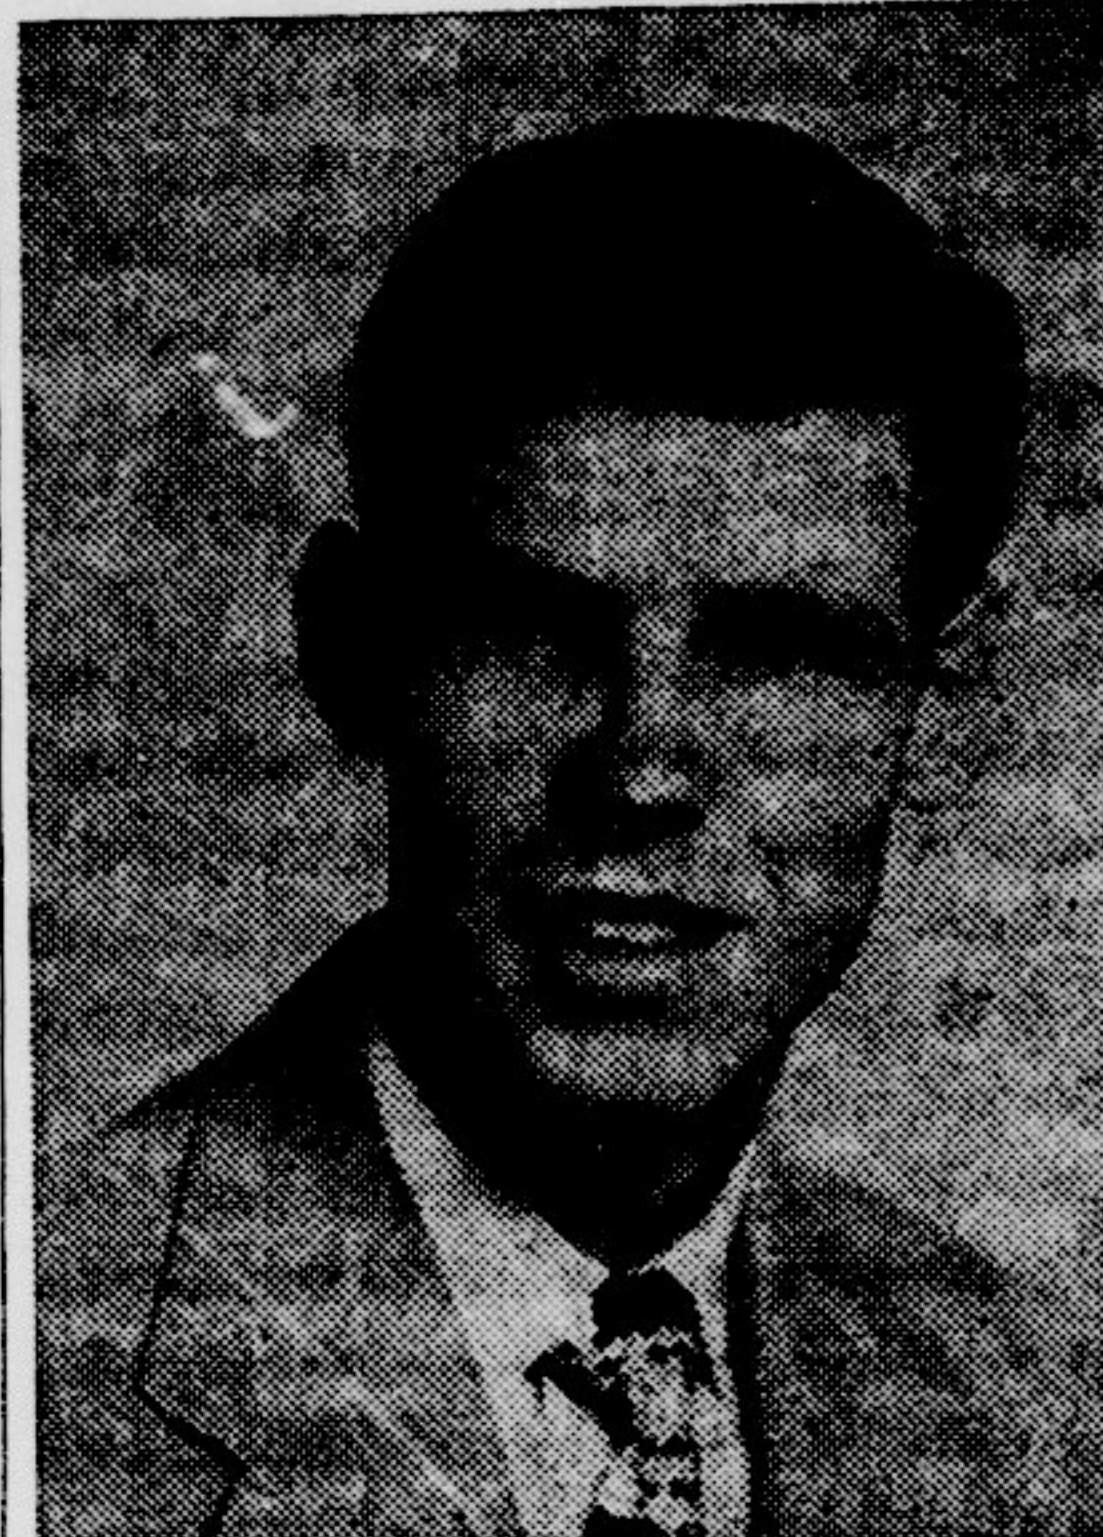

Sonny, who is attending school on a basketball scholarship, came to ECC Fall quarter of '49 and plans to graduate at the end of the Fall quarter next year with a BS degree, majoring in physical education and minoring in math. He said that he would like to teach physical education and also coach after graduating, but as yet he wasn't too sure about what the future would bring.

Plans To Fly

Sonny thinks that he will attend flight school and go into the "jet" phase of training after he receives his commission. This spring quarter will complete his military work here at East Carolina.

Most of Sonny's activities on campus consist of sports. His athletic ability has been greatly displayed in the years that he has helped lead the Pirates to victory. His basketball career has yet to be excelled by anyone attending East Carolina. Spectators have come from many miles to see Sonny display his calm, smooth technique on the basketball court. His first year here, Sonny made the first squad and held that position for four years.

These and many other reasons may help one to understand why he has received so many honors. For two years, '50-'51 and '51-'52, he was All-state in basketball, all four years he has been All-conference and for two years, '50-'51 and '51-'52, All-tournament. He made second string All-tournament this year.

Greatest Honor

"Of all the honors I've ever received, I feel that receiving the framed letter from the students commending me for my work here was the greatest thing that ever happened to me," he said. This letter was presented to Sonny on "Sonny Russell Night" in Memorial gymnasium by Bob Robinson, president of the Student Government, in behalf of the student body. "I didn't even know about the letter until the afternoon before the game," he told us. "They originally had planned not to tell me about it at all but decided that they had better to keep me from being too surprised."

Sonny never chews gum the day of a game or during a game. He said that he didn't know whether or not you would call that a superstition, but he had heard once that it would make your eyes tired. After being asked if he had had any amusing experiences on the basketball court, he thought a few minutes and said, "Well, at the time this wasn't so funny but now that it's all over, I guess it was quite amusing. I got thrown out of the game for fighting at AC this season."

Likes the South

When asked about the trip to Kansas City, the main thing he said was that the boys were glad to get back to North Carolina. "I prefer the South to the North because the people up there just aren't too friendly. Then, too, that food isn't like good old Southern home cooking." Basketball isn't Sonny's only talent, though, for he has been a member of the baseball team his freshman, sophomore and senior years. Also he likes fishing (of any kind), hunting and just any sport that takes him out-of-doors. By the way, he did major in "Y-Shop bridge" one quarter.

This outstanding athlete was recognized widely even before coming to college. He was voted the "Most Valuable Player" in the East-West basketball game and also was asked to play in the Optimist bowl. This invitation he had to decline because of a broken ankle. Sonny's life has been filled with so many activities it will be impossible to name them all because of the lack of space; however, we have enumerated the most important ones.

His wife is the former Sue Anne Harmon of Lynn, Ind. and, incidentally, they are expecting an addition to the family late in the summer.

Shooting

The Bull

by T. Parker Maddrey

Dear Mr. Legislator:

When you are deciding what to do with the state's taxpayer's money, remember a growing state-supported college in the East—namely, East Carolina. We are confident that you are handling the budget to better the state as a whole.

We appreciate the funds allocated to us in the past, but now that our school is continually expanding, we ask for more financial aid for buildings.

On behalf of the day students here, we especially need dormitories. An out-of-town student must rent a room in town because there is no dormitory space. But rooming in town is more expensive. The average day student pays $15 a month or $45 per quarter for rent while the dorm student's fee is a little more than $20 a quarter.

Not only the extra expense is a disadvantage, but the loss of true "college life" makes the day student feel that college is no different from high school with the exception of studies. This student is deprived of dormitory association.

At present there are about 1,250 beds on campus. Last year there were over 1,900 persons who applied for these beds which left over 600 in the cold. This year there were even more applicants, however, those figures are not available yet.

So, Mr. Legislator, we hope that you can see our point of view and remember East Carolina for more dormitories for us day students.

Sincerely,

The Day Students of ECC

Poll Reveals Students Oppose Drinking In Dorm, Late Dates

(ACP) Collegiate morals are higher than the popular stereotype suggests, as indicated from results of the ACP National Poll of Student Opinion.

The vast majority of students are: (1) Against drinking in dormitories, and (2) Against staying out too late with their dates. Women are more "strict" about these matters than men.

Students were asked their opinions on dormitory drinking rules. Here are the results:

Should be allowed 16%
Should not be allowed 75%
No opinion 6%
Other 3%

Only 12 per cent of the women are for dormitory drinking; 82 per cent are against it. "I don't believe in drinking, period," exclaims a sophomore coed from Geneva college, Pa.

A freshman in Engineering at Southeastern Missouri State college thinks dormitory drinking should be allowed, because it "would keep them out of trouble in taverns."

And a business student at Richmond Professional Institute, Va., declares, "The more restrictions that are imposed, the more people will want to break them. College students should be treated like adults."

One a.m. appears to be the most popular hour for getting a girl back to her dormitory after a Saturday night date, with 2 a.m. being a not very close second. Students were asked: In your opinion, at what hour on a Saturday night should a coed be required to get back to her dormitory?

The answers:

By midnight or before 14%

By 1 a.m. 45%
By 2 a.m. 24%
After 2 a.m. 8%
No opinion 4%
Other 5%

With the men, 2 a.m. is just as popular an hour as 1 a.m., both choices getting 33 per cent of the male vote. But the girls are 54 per cent in favor of 1 a.m. and only 17 per cent in favor of 2 a.m.

Another 17 per cent of the girls would just as soon be returned to their dormitories by midnight or before; eleven per cent of the men feel the same way about it.

Many of the students are careful to qualify their answers with an "except on special occasions," or "unless there's a big dance."

A sophomore in education at MacMurray college for Women, Jacksonville, Ill., thinks "it depends a lot on the size of the town and what there is for the students to do."

But a male junior at the University of the South, Seawee, Tenn., is more specific. "After 2 a.m.," he says, "way after."

Misspelling Words

by Kay Johnston

How many times have you been guilty of ruining a test paper, impromptu theme or any other piece of writing because of misspelling?

Only this morning we had two points taken off because we used protestant instead of Episcopal, simply because we were unsure of its spelling. Yes, the dictionary would be a good source, if we only had the time to look up the words.

We're not the only ones who have spelling trouble. Only yesterday we received a letter that was probably supposed to arouse a very romantic mood. Instead it produced hysteria when we read this sentence: "You have such wonderful eyes."

Not too long ago we received a letter from Mother. This letter was a little different, however, for we were a little surprised to find one of our own letters returned with every word we had misspelled underlined. Was Mother disgusted? A college sophomore! (Mother doesn't hear from us quite so often now. We don't have time to look the words up.)

The solution to this problem? Goah, we only wish we "new!"

What is "nothing"? Webster defines it as "opposed to anything and something." But what is anything? Webster defines anything as "something or other." But what is something? Webster defines something as "opposed to nothing?" So I'll ask you. What is nothing?

TIMELY TOPICS

By Bob Hilldrup

The AFOTC at East Carolina made great preparation for the annual federal inspection held here yesterday.

On Tuesday last it rained. Now rain isn't anything unusual for Greenville, but it so happened that Tuesday is one of the days set aside by the Powers That Be for the fledgling airmen at ECC to drill.

Last year it was more or less accepted that when it rained no drill would be held outside. This year, however, it seems that amphibious training has been added to the ROTC program. Promptly at 12:25 the local cadets fell in to their assigned positions, undaunted by the lowering skies and intermittent raindrops. Bravely they threaded their way through the water-filled shell-holes that mark the road from Wright building to the drill field.

Having gone through the customary procedure at the field the cadets, by this time ankle deep in mud, were dismissed, given the command "double time, march" and splattered back toward Wright in a terrifying spectacle equaled only by "The Charge of the Light Brigade."

All joking aside it does seem that despite the fact that the drill may have been an excellent example of "esprit de corps" it still was just a trifle damp for drill. Cadets may take some slight consolation in the rumor that all who participated in this ceremony "above and beyond the call of duty" will be awarded the highest of all AFOTC decorations, the cherished Mud medal.

Laurels to the APO service fraternity for erecting their bulletin board in the post office lobby. One of the items placed on the board is a list of the names of those students presently confined in the infirmary. If this service is kept up to date it can indeed be a valuable one to the student body to the extent of informing them as to who is incapacitated.

The EPO service frat on campus also seems to be attempting to live up to its code of performing service to the college. George Tucker, president of the organization, has announced that several worthwhile projects are under consideration by the group. The latest job performed by the EPO consisted of assisting with the blood drive held on campus this week. We understand that a large percentage of the group's members turned out to give blood during the drive.

Despite our fear that these groups may be the forerunners of the evil of college campuses "social" frats, we firmly believe that a hearty "well done" should be extended to these boys. Enough said.

The gripes on campus seem to cover everything from the rain to the prices at the book store. One that is heard all too often is the comments on the lack of something to do on campus.

Well, why not take a look around and see what's to be found to do. Everyone knows the library is open every night, and we hope everyone realizes the volumes of entertainment it offers. Along with the opportunity the library offers us is a great deal of free entertainment sponsored by various clubs, associations, etc.

A vast store will be offered to us during the coming weeks. Just this week an organ recital by John Williams was held in Austin on Tuesday night. On the same night, at a different time, a movie was shown in room 209 in Austin building on the Russian people. Such movies are often shown and they certainly offer us something to do and something we should all know. They are usually on a subject that is prominent in our thinking, such as the present world affairs.

On Thursday the music department of our college gave us an afternoon of musical selections rendered by the EC orchestra, the College choir and the Varsity Glee club. There was no admission charged. This concert is one of many which have been presented to the students. The concert is something to attend and something to be proud of.

Another of the highlights that pleased us was the production of The Curious Savage. The Greenville branch of the AAUW sponsored the three-act comedy featuring a faculty cast. The proceeds are going to benefit the Foreign Study fund. Students were charged 50 cents. Posters had been put up and on those nights there was no excuse for saying there was no place to go.

The production of The Student Prince will be another big attraction on campus. The Student Government association is presenting in concert this delightful entertainment on April 9 and 10. Something is going on on campus all the time. Of course it may take a little energy to find out what is doing, and maybe a little money, but the entertainment is here. It's up to us to take advantage of it.

Do Teachers Have Any Learning?

Teachers' colleges—sometimes called education's stepchildren—are again under fire, according to the New York Times.

Students preparing to be teachers, says the Times, did worse on the draft deferment test than any other group. More than 400,000 students have taken this test.

Students in engineering, the physical sciences and mathematics were in top position. Business and agriculture were just above education, at the bottom of the list.

Comments the Times, "The educational world has reason to be greatly disturbed at the conclusion contained in the report. No matter how one looks at the data, the performance of the education group is conspicuously poor."

"The conclusion is inescapable that a large number of low-ability students are preparing to enter the teaching field."

SPORTS ECHO

Last notes on basketball: More than one member of the student body was a trifle "put out" at those responsible for the basketball game Thursday night week against the N. C. State All-Stars. It seems that these students were expecting a more polished game than was seen. For those uninformed on the subject a little explanation might help.

The Pirates, having finished their regular season's play, were scheduled to meet the touring All-Stars, and since the contest was a post-season one the regular student cards were not good for admission. Consequently it was a buck and a quarter per to view the contest.

Since the visiting club had not only a local but a national reputation, quite a few plunked down the required cost for a ticket. The All-Stars lived up to their end of the bargain and put on quite a show. The likes of Bill Kukoy, Bobby Speight, Lee Terrill and Paul Brandenburg showed why they had been part of a championship aggregation.

The trouble was that the Pirates, after playing their top-notch stars for the first half and trailing at intermission by a scant five points, were forced from the court by any and all types of substitutions. Let's make it clear. These substitutes, second string squad members and visiting players from high schools did an excellent job considering the opposition they were facing. It just seems that the students who attended this game expected to see a fully competitive contest all the way, not the introduction of a group of high school stars.

If that was the type of game it was going to be—one in which new players were given the opportunity of getting the "feel" of collegiate basketball—then as much should have been announced at the time of the advance sales. Had this been done then the students would not have gone to the contest and supported the team in good faith only to see lambs, good as they might be, being fed to the lions.

The spring sports are upon us and East Carolina enters into the time when a full athletic program will be on tap. Within the next few days the Buc baseballers, golfers and racketeers will swing into action.

The diamond squad opened up this afternoon against Atlantic Christian in Wilson. The Pirates will play their first home game next Tuesday when they meet New Bedford institute of New Bedford, Mass.

From the way things shape up the battle for honors in the NS conference will be, to use a time-worn phrase, fast and furious. The Pirates last year started slowly but hit their stride and were hot on the leader's heels when a disastrous slump hit them. This year, however, the locals seem to be considerably strengthened and, barring unforeseen catastrophe, should make it hot for someone.

Pirates End Year With 18-6 Mark

The East Carolina college Pirates ended their '52-'53 basketball season last Thursday night with a loss to the touring North Carolina State college All-Stars. The loss gave the Bucs an overall record, including tournament play, of 18 wins and six defeats.

They lost to the University of North Carolina early in the season and bowed on consecutive nights to Lenoir Rhyne and Western Carolina. The Bucs lost out to High Point 68-65 in the semi-finals of the North State tournament, won the district NAIA here but bowed in the opening round at Kansas City to Arkansas Teachers, 85-81.

Only one senior will be lost from this year's Pirate squad. He is Warren "Sonny" Russell, ace All-state forward from New Bern.

Conference Play Opens With Game At Wilson; Starting Team Not Set

Coach Jack Boone's Pirates lifted the baseball curtain this afternoon as they travelled to Wilson for the season's opener against Atlantic Christian in the Spring renewal of competition for the coveted Bohunk trophy.

The Bucs left for ACC with full intentions of retaining the Bohunk which they won back during the past cage season.

As the Pirates departed, Boone had not settled on a specific starting line-up. Only two positions seemed safe. Paul Gay appeared a certainty in left field with Major Hooper the probability in right field. Battling for the center field post were Boyd Webb and Jim Corbin.

Either Jimmy Byrd or Jimmy Piner was expected to receive the starting nod for mound duty. Byrd and Piner were number one and number two last year. Ralph Britt, Bill Cline and Bill Hardee were slated to share the catching.

The infield is the deepest in recent years. W. C. Anderson and Sonny Russell were competing for first base. At second base a hot battle has been staged between Cecil Heath and Dick Hoskins. Burney Stevens and Paul Jones have been competing for the shortstop spot. At third base, a three-way war has been staged by Gaither Cline, Charlie Cherry and George Sauls.

AFROTC Rifle Team To Fire In Washington

A ten-man rifle team from the Air Force ROTC at East Carolina college have flown to Washington, D.C. today to participate in a shoulder-to-shoulder match with the Air Force ROTC unit at Georgetown university. The college team here is headed by Cadet Capt. James A. Kinion of Bath.

The East Carolina team have gone from Greenville to Washington aboard a C-47 from Pope field and will return here tomorrow.

Pirate Net Team Ready For Slate

by Bruce Phillips

The grueling tennis matches of Jack Kramer a king of the net world and the challenger Frank Sedgeman has ushered the tennis game into the limelight of the sports world. Barring none, tennis, whether playing it or watching it, is one of the most intriguing of sports and requires the peak in poise and precision.

The East Carolina meshmen are currently applying the "cat gusts" (pardon the expression) at a stiff pace. The courtin' Pirates have eight racket-teers pounding the asphalt daily in preparation for a stiff schedule.

Paul Cameron, last year's number one player, again heads the roster of what should be a top notch club. Cameron is an excellent backcourt player and handles himself well on the net. Joe Hallow, "52's" number two player, will also be back to show his prowess on the courts. A splendid all-around tennis exhibitionist with a powerful service that almost leaves the ball fustless, Hallow will probably play the number two position and team with Cameron in the doubles.

Other varsity hopefuls are J. W. Browning, Don Muse and Irvin Marnard. The team will be composed of five singles players and two doubles players.

Last year the Bucs' finished second in the strong North State conference. High Point ruled the circuit with many experienced Mexican players. In 1952 the Pirates beat Guilford and from Albright and Rutgers a match each. Their losses were afflicted by State college and High Point.

Fine crowds were on hand for last year's matches and their support was a concrete season in the tennis team's success. This year's edition of the netmen play George Washington here Saturday afternoon at approximately 2 o'clock. Come early, for a good seat and to rest for the racket-swinging Pirates.

Knights Triumph; Win Tournament By Scoring Spurt

In one of the most tremendous last minute rallies ever seen on any basketball court the Knights of the Hardwood scored six points in the final 35 seconds to defeat the Sheriffs 51-50 for the "A" league intramural championship Tuesday night.

Bob Oliver and P. J. Rose led the Knights with 14 points apiece while Stevens pace the Sheriffs with 18.

In the "B" league the Hambones beat the Jellie Bellies 49-44 for the title. Pat Hunt had 18 for the winner and D. Tucker had 13 for the Jellie Bellies.

Bucs End Season With State Team

by Sam Hux

Old man basketball bowed out last Thursday week here at East Carolina as 1,600 fans saw the North Carolina State Collegians down the East Carolina All-stars 85-67 in a charity contest.

The Collegians were composed of State's senior cagers while the All-stars consisted of the Pirates' 1952-53 squad, former Buc stars, and several high school tryouts.

High scorer for the game was State's All-American Bobby Speight, who dumped in 29 points with every conceivable shot. Leading the scoring for the Pirates was Bobby Hodges with 18 markers and Sonny Russell with 15. Russell, and All-state senior was making his final appearance for the Bucs.

Southern Trips On Tap For Pirate Grid Squad During Latter Autumn

Saturday, September 19, 1953, will mark the opening of what is probably the most ambitious football schedule ever undertaken by any East Carolina college grid team. Wilson Teachers college, of Washington, D. C., will be the visiting club as the Bucs inaugurate their schedule at College stadium.

Following the clash with the Teachers, the Pirates will play host to Lenoir Rhyne's conference champion Bears. This contest will in all probability decide whether or not the Bears' two year reign as unbeaten greats of the North State conference will come to an end.

Included on the schedule which at present boasts nine games are consecutive contests with two powerhouses from Florida, Tampa and Stetson universities. The Tampa contest is scheduled for Tampa November 7 with the Stetson game earmarked for Deland the following Saturday.

Besides the three out of conference contests with Stetson, Tampa and Wilson Teachers, the Bucs will meet six conference foes. In addition to the Lenoir Rhyne game which will be played here the Pirates will clash with Elon, Guilford and Appalachian on the home grounds while journeying to Western Carolina and Catawba for contests.

The schedule at present lists nine contests. There is, however, a possibility that an additional game will be added.

The schedule:
Sept. 19—Wilson Teachers, here
Sept. 26—Lenoir Rhyne, here
Oct. 3—Catawba, there
Oct. 10—Elon, here
Oct. 17—Western Carolina, there
Oct. 24—Guilford, here
Oct. 31—Appalachian, here
Nov. 7—Tampa university there
Nov. 14—Stetson university, there

Talent On Hand For Pirates

by Bruce Phillips

The changing of climate and giving regular Gaither Cline a changing of apparel is coinciding these days as the brief attire of the basketball player gives way to the thick woolen clothing of the baseball diamond.

The wraps have been taken off the National Pastime and the hard ball camps are in full swing. East Carolina's 1953 edition of hickory-swingers is turning out for daily practices that are lively with spirit and hustle.

Here is a spot-check of this year's club: The catchers make Coach Boone come forth smiling as the mittmen are the team's strongest point. Heading the backstops is Ralph Britt, returnee from last year. Backing up Ralph will be Bill Cline and Bill Hardee, able glovemen and powerful with the bat.

At first base is Sonny Russell, a top notch performer who can handle the post with natural ease and hold his own at the plate. W. C. Sanderson will lend assistance at the spot.

Around the keystone sack the second baseman and shortstops are really plentiful and the competition is scorching. Cecil Heath, Bill Hardison and Richard Hoskins are putting up a bitter battle for the regular's job. The shortstops have similar determination and are pushing each other to the limit. From Burney Stevens, Paul Jones and Wilbur Thompson will come the Pirates' starting short fielder.

The torrid hot corner is at its name implies—hot. Charlie Cherry, spirited freshman from Washington,

Local ROTC Unit Undergoes Federal Inspection This Week

Annual federal inspection of the Air Force ROTC at East Carolina college took place Wednesday and Thursday of this week, March 25 and 26, according to an announcement by Lt. Col. Roger G. Fuller, professor of air science and tactics at the college.

A team of three members were present on the campus to conduct the inspection. Members were Col. Adolf M. Wright, Lt. Col. Edmund J. Dodine, and Maj. Russell M. Southall, of Area C, for North Carolina, Pennsylvania and Virginia. The inspection here and in other colleges of the nation is being carried out under the direction of Col. Wright, AFROTC Inspector General.

The purpose of the inspection is to examine the training, both in the classroom and on the drill field, of ROTC cadets. Teaching procedures, adequacy of instructor facilities, effectiveness of instructors and general military bearing of cadets are some of the points on which the detachment were graded. The inspecting team reviewed the corps of cadets on parade.

The visiting officers also scrutinized the administration and supply methods of the unit and discussed the AFROTC program with school and local officials.

Annual federal inspections of the 209 AFROTC detachments throughout the nation, Puerto Rico and Hawaii are now under way and will continue through May 28, Brigadier General M. K. Deichmann, AFROTC Commandant, has announced.

This marked the first time the inspections have been carried out under the supervision of the newly created AFROTC Headquarters of the Air Force university located at Montgomery, Ala.

May Day Features Asiatic Culture In Songs, Dances

May day festivities, which this year seek to foster an understanding of the culture of six Asiatic nations, will feature dances and songs representative of these countries, according to Mrs. Grace Eaton, member of the Physical Education department and May day director.

Six sets of dancers will perform before the queen and her court following coronation ceremonies to be held at East Carolina's College stadium at five o'clock, May 1.

A Hindu, Chinese, Japanese, Israeli, Philippine (or Hawaiian) and the traditional English Maypole dance will be presented. Background music will be furnished by the Women's chorus, under the direction of Dan Vornholt, and a brass ensemble, under the direction of Robert Gray of the Music department.

"The need for an understanding of the economic, social and cultural aspects of nations was recognized by the United Nations when it organized UNESCO. In a small way, we, here at East Carolina, can promote a better understanding of at least a cultural phase of these nations by presenting their music in this May day program," commented Mrs. Eaton.

County Clubs Meet

All county clubs will meet Monday night at 6:45, James W. Butler, Alumni secretary and co-ordinator of the county clubs, announced recently.

Mr. Butler urges all members to attend this meeting and to consult the bulletin boards on campus for the building and room that the separate club will meet.

Young Democrats Elect Next Year's Officers

New officers for the coming year were elected at a meeting of the Young Democrats club March 17.

The new officials include Wade Cooper, president; Don Muse, vice president; Veryl Trueblood, secretary; and Pat Goodwin and Bill Taylor, treasurers.

Board members selected at the meeting are Hugh Young, Ed Matthews and Kenneth Belamy.

Relations Club Elects

Bettie J. Dougherty of Fayetteville was elected Tuesday by members of the East Carolina college International Relations club as their president for the 1958-1959 term. She succeeds Rudolph Alexander of Goldsboro.

A junior at the college, Miss Dougherty served this school year as vice president and program chairman of the IRC. She has also participated in activities of the campus IRC.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil
Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

Here's a sad cotton tale: poor Paul was in a stew about his hare until his paw wrote: "I ear you got a bun on because your girl left you. Now, let's look at the bre's facts. To get in on the bunny huggin', smart rabbits foot it down to any toilet goods counter for Wildroot Cream-Oil, America's biggest-selling hare tonic. So fuzz thing tomorrow, invest 29¢ in a bottle or handy tube. Contains soothing Lanolin. Non-alcoholic. Grooms the hare. Relieves annoying dryness. Removes loose, ugly dandruff. Helps you pass the Finger-Nail Test." Sheedy used Wildroot Cream-Oil and now he's a jump ahead of every Tom, Dick and Harvey. So what're you waiting for? Get Wildroot Cream-Oil today, and ask for Wildroot at your barber's. You're bound to like it!
