The Queen And Her Court

May day festivities at East Carolina last week offered the many spectators a colorful program. The above picture shows the court around Queen Nora Ellen Faulkner.

Colorful Coronation!

Senior From Kinston Reigns As Queen Of Campus May Day

Nora Ellen Faulkner of Kinston, senior at East Carolina college, was crowned Queen of May at exercises held on the campus Friday afternoon, May 1.

The coronation, followed by a pageant in honor of the Queen and her court, was held in the college stadium. A group of more than 1200 spectators from the campus, Greenville and other localities in eastern North Carolina was present to enjoy the celebration.

Staged under the direction of Mrs. Grace Janlen Eaton of the department of health and physical education, the May day festivities began with the entrance of the Queen and her maids. A procession was played by a brass ensemble directed by Robert E. Gray of the music faculty. The maids were met near the Queen's throne by their escorts and formed a semicircle around a dais where it stood.

Kennedy Crowns Queen

Nora Ellen was crowned by John K. Kennedy of Wilmington, former president of the college Student Government association. A petite brunette, she wore a bouffant dress of white lace with court train and carried a sheaf of red roses. Perry Rogers of Greenville was her train bearer.

Heralds to the court, dressed in purple and gold costumes, were Janet Kirkland and Joan Kelly. Ann Straughan, crown bearer; Betty Talley and Mary Sue Branch, flower girls; and Mitchell Saied and Charles Huffman as chief ushers participated in the coronation.

The maids were Shirley Council, Shirley Saied, Patsy Smith, Willa Dean Lindsay, Gale Dorsey, Barbara Moore, Lois Simpson, Peggy Grice, Anne Strole, Mabel Ann West, Marie Stallings, Mrs. Kitty Geringer Brinson and Verona Sparrow, maid of honor.

Escorts For Girls

Their escorts were Jerry Sandford,

Purdue University Awards Fellowship To Hilton Biggs

Robert Hilton Biggs of Williams-son, senior at East Carolina college, has been awarded by Purdue university of Lafayette, Ind., a graduate research fellowship in plant physiology carrying a stipend of $1,200 a year. He will work at Purdue in the department of horticulture.

Mr. Biggs, who is scheduled to receive the B.S. degree at East Carolina this month, is a major in the science department. During his course of study here he has been a student worker in the science department and has held an appointment as attendant in the college greenhouse.

This year he was chosen as one of a small group of students to represent East Carolina in the nationally circulated yearbook "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges." This spring when the Alpha Gamma chapter of the Chi Beta Phi Scientific fraternity was organized on the campus, he was selected to serve as its first president. He has also been vice president of the student science club.

W. C. Sanderson, Francis Madigan, Waylon Upchurch, James Stanley, Dennis Smith, Robert Chambers, Percy Wilkins, John Daughtry, George Biele, Arthur Williams and John Wessell.

The pageant presented in honor of the Queen developed the idea of "UNESCO Features the Orient" and included folk dances and songs of six Eastern countries—India, China, Japan, Hawaii, the Philippines, and Israel.

Approximately 50 students at the college, dressed in the colorful costumes of the six countries, participated in dances staged during the pageant. The Women's chorus, directed by Dan E. Vorholt of the faculty, provided a background of vocal music. A traditional maypole dance concluded the festivities.

Mrs. Eaton was assisted in planning and staging the May day program by a large number of students and staff members at the college. The committee in charge included John Robert Klutz, Christine Blalock, Mrs. Kitty G. Brinson, Royce Jordan, Percy Wilkins, Mildred Rouse, Emil Boado and Shirley Council. Royce and Ray Sears served as announcers during the pageant.

Alumni Of College Vote For Officers For Coming Year

East Carolina college alumni are now voting in a mail balloting for candidates to fill three top offices in the Alumni association.

The list of candidates was announced by Henry C. Oglesby of Washington, D. C., and Griffon, N.C., president of the association; Fodie H. Hodges of Greenville, chairman of the nominating committee; and Alumni Secretary James W. Butler of East Carolina.

President Oglesby said all ballots must be postmarked by midnight of May 10, and the new officials will be installed in their offices on Alumni day, May 16. The terms are for two years.

James L. Whitfield of Raleigh, Class of 1946, state editor of the News and Observer of Raleigh, and Mary Thomas Smith, Class of 1941, member of the Training school faculty of East Carolina college, are candidates for president of the Alumni association.

Mrs. E. Thornton Meeks Jr. of Wilson, Class of 1932, district executive of the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph company, and Margaret Carol Banks of Trenton, Class of 1947, home economics teacher in the Southwood school, Kinston, are in the race for vice president.

Camille Clarke, Class of 1940, dietitian of the East Carolina college, is opposed for treasurer.

322 Graduate At May 18 Exercises

Legislature Selects Madigan Outstanding Student Citizen

Francis H. Madigan was presented the Outstanding Student Citizen award at the Awards day program Wednesday night in Austin auditorium. This is an individual award given to the most outstanding senior citizen as determined by a vote of members in the Student legislature.

Dr. Clinton Prewett, dean of men and director of student affairs, presented awards to those students who were represented this year in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

tion award to Dr. John D. Messick, president of the college.

Individual Service awards were given to the 1952-53 Student legislature members by John Robert Kennedy, past first vice-president of the SGA.

Dean Prewett, who is also chairman of the Publications board, presented the Publications awards, which included individual awards to the staff members of the two publications. Tommie Lupton, editor of the "East Carolinian," and Donna Yancey, editor of the "Buccaneer," received these awards for the newspaper and the annual, respectively.

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, dean of the college, presented the departmental awards. These included Maggie Gattlin, business education; Rudolph Alexander, social studies; Francis H. Madigan, health and physical education; Charles Self, art; and Russell Jarrett, mathematics.

Others were Elizabeth Hodges, library science; Janice Hardison, English; Robert H. Biggs, science; Joseph W. Johnston, foreign language; Phyllis Pugh, home economics; and Leonard Starling, music.

Football and Baseball Coach Jack Boone and Howard Porter, basketball, golf and tennis coach, presented monograms to boys on the athletic teams. Gold basketballs were awarded to boys on the top intramural basketball teams on campus.

Mitchell Saied, president of the Student Government association, presided at the program and Donald Gaylor, chairman of the Awards Board Executive committee, made the introductions.

Playhouse Stages Last Performance As 'The Heiress'

Selected scenes from "The Heiress," by Ruth and Augustus Goetz, will be presented as the closing workshop play of the school term on Tuesday night, May 12, by members of the Teachers playhouse. This play, under the direction of Ralph H. Rives, graduate student at the college, will be shown in the Austin auditorium at 8 p.m.

"The Heiress," first presented in New York in 1947, is considered by many critics as one of the best of the modern dramas. It has been both a successful stage and screen play and has had within its cast at one time or another such stars as Olivia de Havilland, Montgomery Clift, Basil Rathbone, Patricia Collinge and Miriam Hopkins.

Barbara Grimes will play the title role. Quite different from her recent role as Billie Dawn in "Born Yesterday," Barbara will portray the lonely and betrayed Katherine Soper, who is the victim of hatred, selfishness and deceit.

Stuart Arrington will appear as the kind, sympathetic and romantic Aunt Lavinia and Tommy Thompson will be Morris Townsend, the faithless lover. Also, appearing in the cast will be the following students: Billie Rose Canady, David Lee, Lena Taylor and Imogene Jennette.

There will be a short evaluation session immediately following the play, to which everyone is invited to attend.

Wesley Group Initiates Pledges In Ceremonies Held At Local Center

The Alpha Zeta chapter of Wesley players held its annual initiation of pledges on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Methodist Student center.

Elaine Smith, president of the chapter, and Mamie Chandler, sponsor, conducted the initiation ceremony. Pledges initiated were Suzanne Shepherd, Pearl May, Jane Holmes, Joan Crawford, Tona Watt, Marilyn Poole and Milton Mills.

Officers of the chapter for the ensuing year are Olene Civils, president; Suzanne Shepherd, vice president; Tona Watt, secretary; Jane Holmes, treasurer.

Two Seniors Participate In Cooperative Teaching

Continuing a cooperative learning-teaching project started two years ago by Hyde county schools and East Carolina college, Nora Ellen Faulkner of Kinston and Frances E. Woolard of Washington have been spending this week observing and teaching at the Engelhard school. Both are seniors in elementary education at East Carolina.

While at Engelhard, Miss Faulkner, a primary education major, worked with the regular classroom teacher in a combination first and second grade. Miss Woolard, a student teacher in the sixth grade at the college Training school, worked in a combination sixth and seventh grade class.

Outstanding Students
Both of the seniors are outstanding students at East Carolina and were selected because of their ability as teachers. Each has devoted her time this week to getting acquainted with the school, the community and the problems of teaching boys and girls in combination grades in a rural environment.

During their work in Hyde county the college students were under the personal direction of Bettie Swindell, county supervisor of instruction; N. W. Shelton, superintendent of schools; and Poe O'Neal, principal of the Engelhard school.

A group of teachers from Hyde county spent Thursday, May 7, at the Training school on the college campus, here. They did observation work in the second and the sixth grades, in which Mrs. Sally Klingenschmitt and Mary Thomas Smith are supervising teachers.

Teachers Assist

Several college faculty members and Training school teachers accompanied the seniors to Hyde county last week end and assisted them in

College Records English As Spoken In Three Counties

English as it is spoken in Hyde, Dare and Carteret counties is now being recorded at East Carolina as part of a national study of regional pronunciation.

Dr. Meredith N. Posey of the college department of English is co-operating with C. K. Thomas, professor of speech at Cornell university, in gathering data on the speech of eastern North Carolina counties. For a number of years Prof. Thomas has been engaged in the work of collecting materials on the pronunciation of English throughout the United States.

At East Carolina Dr. Posey is making tape recordings of the speech of students whose formative pre-college years were spent in Hyde, Dare or Carteret. These recordings will be sent to Prof. Thomas and will be part of a project of national scope leading to the formation of a more detailed and accurate speech map than has hitherto been available.

Students who have cooperated with Dr. Posey and have had their speech recorded include Louise, Kathryn and Sally Credle of Scranton; Susie Marshall and Mitzi Watson of Engelhard; Jean Spencer of Swan Quarter; Larry Williams of Ocracoke; Dalton Mann of Manns Harbor; Lena Taylor of Sea Level; Bruce Fulcher of Atlantic; and Carol Willis of Havelock.

Dramatics Group Holds Laurel Day

Laurel day highlighted the year for the Teachers' playhouse members last night in the College theatre. Percy Wilkins, playhouse president, was master of ceremonies.

This is an annual event for the dramatics group. Awards were given to the individuals who were outstanding in some phase of work in the organization. The recipients of these honors were voted upon from the floor.

Included in the list of awards were: biggest boner, purple heart for physical injury, most extraordinary make-up job, outstanding legwork on part of the business staff, outstanding legs, smoothest workshop play, most responsive audience, most spectacular development as an actor and an actress, person most sure of his lines and the best impromptu actor or actress.

Students Present Play

Phi Sigma Chapter of Sigma Pi Alpha, honorary foreign language fraternity, held its last meeting of the year Tuesday night.

Mrs. Howard Mims, teacher of foreign languages at Greenville high school, aided by Miss Patricia Maddrey, Greenville high school senior, and Joe Johnston, student teacher, entertained the group with a brief play "Maid of Orleans," commemorating the life and spirit of Joan of Arc.

Graduation Program Features Benson, McGrath As Speakers

Results Of Voting

All changes to the student Government association constitution that were voted on at an all-college assembly Wednesday afternoon were passed, according to Bill Penuel, elections committee chairman.

Of the students who cast ballots, 202 voted straight "yes" on the ballot, while 147 of the voters mixed their choices.

Exercises marking the 44th Annual Commencement program at East Carolina college will have as chief event the graduation of 322 men and women students who are scheduled to receive diplomas Monday morning, May 18, at 10:30 in Wright auditorium.

Of these graduates, 268 will obtain B.S. degrees, 19 will receive A.B. degrees and 35 will be awarded M. A. degrees.

Full Program

A full program, beginning with Alumni day, Saturday, May 16, and extending through graduation exercises Monday, has been announced from the office of President John D. Messick of the college.

Ezra Taft Benson, U.S. Secretary of Agriculture, and Earl J. McGrath, former U.S. Commissioner of Education, will be principal speakers. Mr. McGrath will make the commencement address to the graduates on Monday morning. Mr. Benson will deliver the commencement sermon at services Sunday morning at 11 o'clock in the Wright auditorium.

On program Saturday will be the meeting of the Alumni association at 10 o'clock in the morning in Austin; the Alumni luncheon at 12:30 in the North Dining hall. President and Mrs. Messick will entertain alumni, seniors and faculty with a tea given at their home at 3 o'clock. Also on program for Saturday will be a lawn concert by the College band on the front campus. At 3 o'clock in the Wright auditorium the music department will present their 44th Annual recital.

Holt Speaks

Dr. Robert L. Holt, Director of religious activities, will speak at the annual YWCA-YMCA Vesper services at 7:30 Sunday evening in the College theatre. Charlie Bedford, president of the YMCA, and Guy Gurley, president of the YWCA, are arranging the program.

During the graduation Monday, men will have their training unit of the ROTC receive commission. Force reserves nomenclature tactics

Inter-Religious Council Releases '53-54 Officers

Officers of the Inter-Religious council for the year 1953-54 have recently been elected. They are Parker Marks, president, Delphia Rawls, vice-president, Joyce Willis, secretary, Ann Smith, treasurer.

Committee chairmen who were elected to work with these officers are Mattie Huber, book display; Ann Smith, finance; Charlie Bedford, publicity; Mildred Morris, conferences; Nora Mills, classrooms; and Betsy Hobgood, worship and evaluation. The remaining committee chairmanships will be taken by the officers or be elected later.

The new council has already been making plans for Religious Emphasis week and other religious services to be held on campus during the coming school year, according to the new president, Parker Marks.

Bedford Heads YMCA

Charlie Bedford will head the YMCA at East Carolina for the year 1953-54. Serving with him will be Frank Turner, vice-president, Wayne Shoe, secretary, and John Hayes, treasurer.

Others serving on the YMCA cabinet will be Julian Vainright, Jack Britt, Tommy Thompson, Boyd Webb, Matthew Prescott and Paul Cameron. Faculty advisors are Dr. John Reynolds and W. W. Howell.

From Editor To Staff

The time has come for Ye Editor to step down from the seat that he has held for two years. I would like to personally express my appreciation to my staff who has worked so hard and faithfully all year long. One person could not possibly get out a weekly newspaper, and it has been through the constant lending of help that I have been able to fulfill my job.

We have worked together; we have played together; and we have enjoyed the fellowship that means so much to us all. There were times when we might have quarrelled over some of the work, but no matter what the circumstances have been I have always been deeply indebted to all of you for the cooperation that you, the staff, have shown. I think we have had a very successful year.

I have experienced many happy and unforgettable moments in my two years as editor of this paper. I shall always cherish these memories, for the position has meant more to me in my college life than any other thing at East Carolina. The friends that I have made among my staff and others at the college will always be remembered. I look forward to working on the staff next year, not as editor but as student advisor.

In closing I would just like to say thanks to all the students, administration and faculty members at East Carolina for their help and encouragement.

Another Big Year Ends

Another great year at East Carolina college is rapidly drawing to an end. This issue of the "East Carolinian" concludes the work of the staff until next fall. We have really enjoyed serving the college during the present year, and we sincerely hope that we have lived up to the trust that was put in us by the Publications board last year.

Putting out a college weekly is not an easy job, and we could not have possibly done it without the splendid cooperation that we received from all persons we had dealings with. Our printers—Sherman, Ernest and Jimmy—have really been our friends. We have made mistakes all along that caused them more work and worry, but they were always ready and willing to do all that they could to help us. Friends like these really helped lighten our burdens.

We would like to extend our thanks to the staff in the administration building for their wonderful cooperation with the paper. Whenever we ran up with any problems, Dr. Messick and staff were always more than willing to lend any assistance. We feel that we have some real friends among the college administration.

It has been a pleasure working with the faculty this year. East Carolina has the name of being a friendly school, and its faculty is no exception. There are many wonderful persons on our faculty, and we have found that working with them was a genuine pleasure.

This paper is sponsored by the Student Government association. It is the SGA that makes the paper possible, and this staff owes many thanks to the members and officers of this group. We hope that we have been a good representative of the body.

Many, many thanks go to the Daily Reflector. We have been fortunate in being able to use many of their cuts and pictures. At times we relied on them to develop and print film for us at the last minute in order that we might be able to use more timely pictures. One's work is so much more enjoyable when you have such friendly relations with the people you do business with. We wish to thank the staff of the Reflector for their assistance.

We have had no trouble filling up the advertisement space in the paper, thanks to the businessmen in the community and elsewhere. Some college papers have trouble selling their ads, but we have found that the filling of our ad section is the least of our troubles. It has been a pleasure doing business with you and the staff of this paper thanks you.

There are many clubs and organizations on campus that have helped us out this year. We sincerely have tried to give all groups an equal display of news. We have sometimes slighted groups, but we truthfully can say that it was not intentional.

Ye Editor's Say

by Tommie Lupton

Well, dear readers, this column will be all until next fall, when there will be a different person writing it. With this issue the "East Carolinian" staff completes its year's work. We have now published 27 issues, which is a new record for East Carolina's weekly newspaper. Last year, as the year before, there were 26 copies published.

This staff has worked hard throughout the year trying to publish a paper that would be a credit to the college. We have had bright days, as well as those days that maybe we should have stayed in bed, but that's life.

Much hard work has gone into this year's papers, but we have enjoyed practically every minute of it (or at least after it was over). We have received harsh criticism at times from students and administration, and we have been complimented highly at other times. All this just goes with newspaper work, and we knew that before we accepted the duties. To serve the college's motto, has been our aim. We sincerely hope that we have not failed.

Next week seems to be one that will have much happening. Summed up, it looks as if the one word—exams—will tell the story. We wish you luck.

Fun, food, fellowship! Students attending a college like East Carolina really have a grand opportunity to gain many memorable experiences. At club meetings, parlor gatherings, beach trips, conventions and just in the classroom, we have fun and fellowship; and there usually is a bit of food where a group gathers.

As a college student looks back over the year, he remembers the good times he has had. He more than likely has forgotten that exam he failed. That trip to the football game back in November will be long remembered by most college students. Yes, we all tend to remember the fun and fellowship, but what would college life be without it? East Carolina, we are glad to say, is not lacking in this respect.

Nearly everyone has received his new "Buccaneer," East Carolina year-book, and we feel that the book is indeed a fine one. The entire annual staff should be commended for their efforts.

Awards night was held Wednesday at East Carolina. The SGA had hoped to hold the program during the day, but after consulting with college officials the group was unable to schedule the event during the day. We think more persons would attend the program if it could be held during the day.

This staff would like to extend its congratulations to all who were honored with awards.

As of yet we have not heard who, if anyone, was going to edit the "East Carolinian" during the summer school sessions. Last summer the paper was edited by Gene Piner and Janice Hardison.

From this corner of the "East Carolinian" we would like to wish the best of luck to all our seniors who will be leaving East Carolina May 18. We hope you come back to visit us next year. To all other students we wish a happy vacation, and we hope to see you all back come next fall.

Ye Editor ends this column this week wishing the greatest success to next year's staff.

Couple Of The Week

This week our couple is Martha Benton, a rising junior from Fayetteville, who is majoring in physical education, and Charlie "Bill" Moye of Greenville, who has just received his Masters degree in secondary education.

Martha and Charlie met officially in summer school last year, but Martha said, "I had had my eye on him a long time."

Charlie and Martha like tennis and golf very much, and if you ever see them playing either of the two games, you'll know they have passed the amateur standing.

Martha and Charlie are not planning to attend summer school this summer, but they do plan to see each other quite frequently.

(Editor's note: By being named "Couple of the Week," Martha and Charlie will each be given a carton of Chesterfields, a free pass to the Pitt theatre, a free meal at the Olde Towne Inn and an item from Sallow's jewelry.)

Who's Who At East Carolina

by Phyllis Carpenter

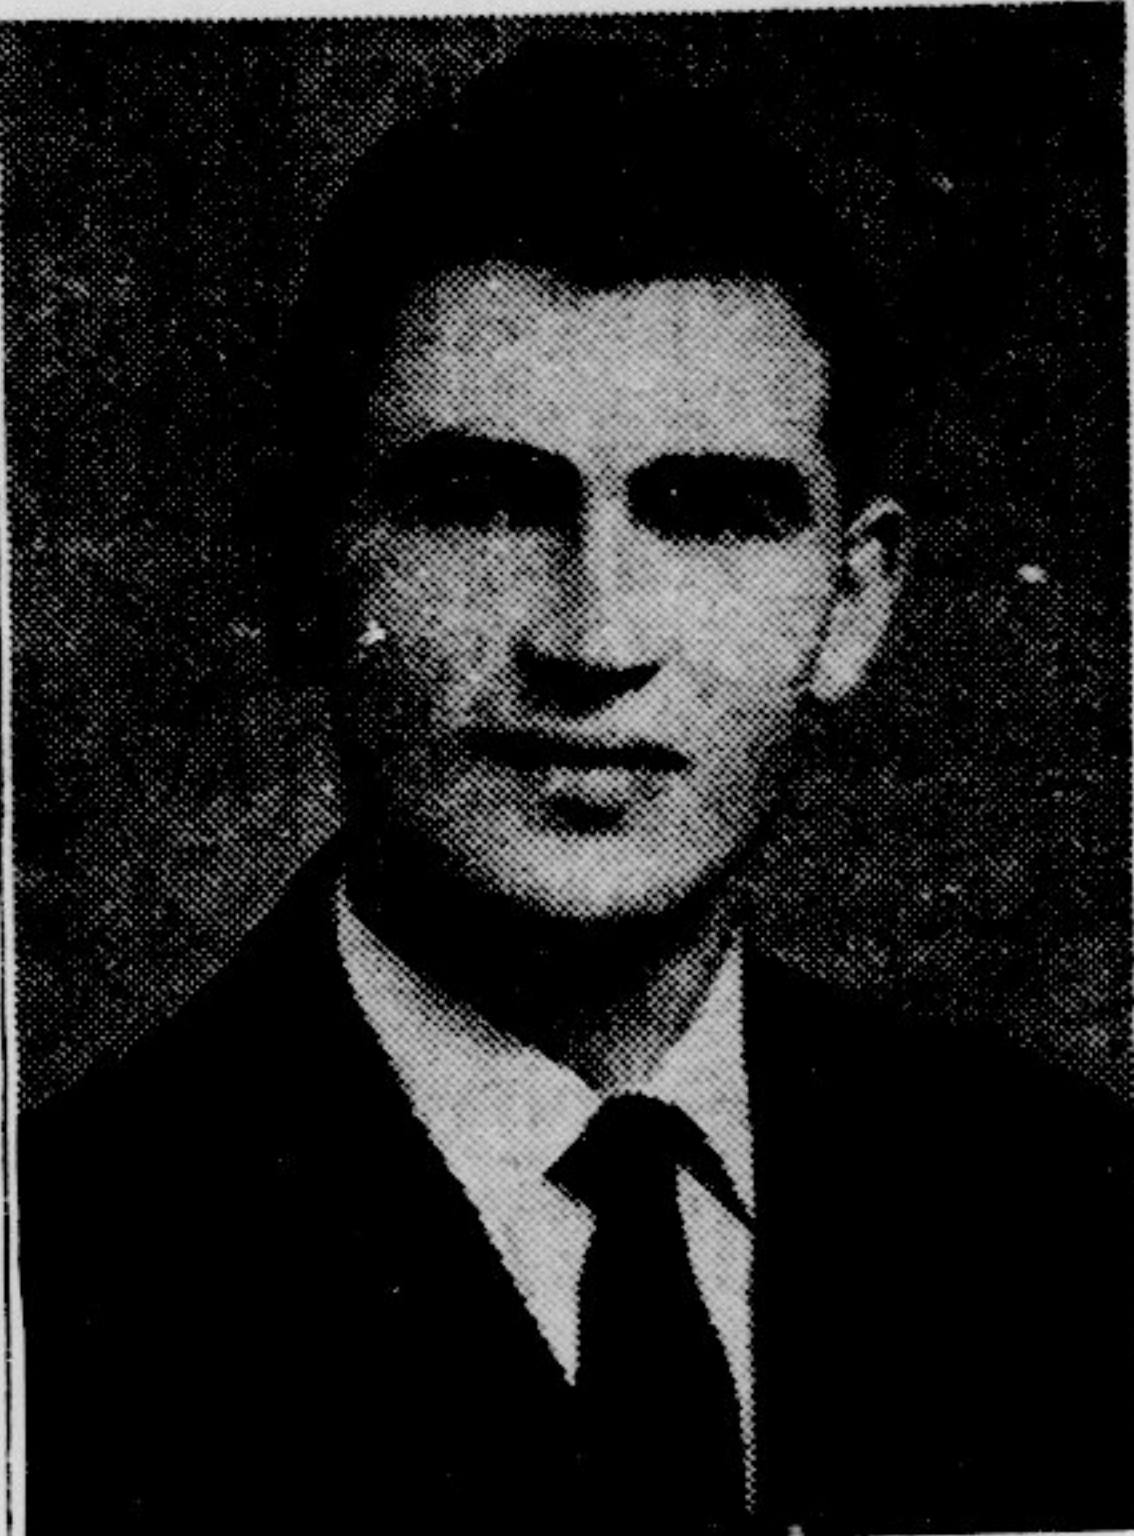

For the last issue of the East Carolinian this year, Russell V. Jarrett has been chosen for Who's Who. Russell is from Draper and came to East Carolina in the Fall of '49 and plans to graduate May 18 of this year with a B.S. degree, majoring in math and minoring in social studies.

We asked Russell why he chose East Carolina college to further his education, and he said that before he was a senior in high school he had never heard of East Carolina, but his coach, Everett Hudson, asked him if he wouldn't like to attend college. Russell said that he would, and when he went to sign the application it was ECC.

"The first time that I ever saw the campus was the day that I came over to stay," said Russell. "I was one of the few freshman boys to get a room in the dorm, for then we only had Wilson hall. That really helped me to get adjusted to college life, for if I had had to stay in town, it would have been a great disadvantage. When I came up here I didn't know a soul at all," he said. "I've really enjoyed it a lot and have never regretted coming. After seeing the campus the first time I was sure I'd like it."

Teaches In Farmville

Russell did his practice teaching in Farmville high school in a ninth grade general math class and a tenth grade algebra class. "At first I didn't think too much of teaching, for I stayed on one page in algebra for a solid week. I got kind of discouraged, but after we got moving along everything went fine. I didn't have any trouble with the students. In fact I don't believe I've ever seen a more friendly group of high school students. When the time came to leave

Russell Jarrett

I really hated to."

He said that the last day as he was teaching one class the whole other class started coming in the door and taking seats. Of course he didn't know what was up; so he said, "I guess we'll have to stop class and entertain our guests," and with that they said "That's what we've been waiting for," and some students went out to get refreshments for a party.

One day a girl from an algebra class (one that he didn't teach) came to him and asked to have some work explained to her, because she just couldn't seem to understand it. He did help her, but later, to his surprise, he found that the girl was actually making all "A's" on her work. He told us to be careful how we wrote this 'cause the students would probably be trying to find out who it was.

Russell is quite active in the clubs here on campus. His membership has been with the Math club, four years and president his senior year; Phi Sigma Pi, junior and senior years; Circle K, Student legislature and "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges" his senior year. He said that being chosen for WHO'S WHO really came as a surprise. "I hadn't ever thought about it. It is a great honor to be chosen as one of few here on campus, and I'm kind of proud of this."

Russell has done a lot of work with the Circle K this year and a while ago they sponsored one night of the "Kiwani's Follies" which was student night here at the college. The proceeds of the follies went to help and privileged children. During basketball season the Circle K also did some work with crippled children. Some of the members would go pick up the boys and girls, bring them to the games, so that they could see college basketball, and then take them back afterwards.

Since his deferment runs out in June, he will probably go into the service during the summer. He seems quite confident that he will pass. "So," he says, "I'll go! This is the reason that I haven't tried to get a teaching job." Until he is called into the service, he plans to go back to his hometown, unless he can find a suitable job in the eastern part of the state.

The Bull

by T. Parker Maddrey

We take off our hats this week to Ye Editor Tommie Lupton. For the past three years Tommie has served faithfully on this college publication. For two years he has fulfilled his duties as chief executive and has done a wonderful job.

During Tommie's editorship, this newspaper has had its name "Teco Echo" changed to "East Carolinian," which the Columbia Scholastic Press comments as being "a happy choice." The paper has also rated First Place with CSPA for these two years. Ye editor worked hard this year to send six of his staff to the convention in New York, which had never before been possible.

Tommie is a steady, level-headed editor who writes sound, mature editorials that have received much favorable comment by individuals and the CSPA. He displays fairness in the news. That is, he tries to give each story the best "build-up" that he possibly can.

Although he jokes to his staff members that he is a "slave driver," Tommie is a pleasant person to work under and he is no Simon Legree. His possession of leadership and his cooperative attitude toward his staff makes him a fine "bossman."

We wish the best of luck to you, Tommie, in practice teaching next fall and throughout your whole life. By the way, folks, Tommie is planning to teach math, but we are sure that he is capable of being a good journalist as well as a math teacher.

Old editors never die . . . not Tommie anyway. He will be with us again next year to give the new editor and his staff members assistance as student advisor.

To Tommie, who in our opinion is a potential candidate for "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities," we wish to say thanks for teaching us what journalism we know.

We would also like to tip our hats to Dr. J. D. Messick, who worked hard to obtain two more dorms, a student union in Wright, walks and drives and other permanent improvements for the college.

And to Senator Paul Jones, Pitt Representative Sam Worthington and Frank Kilpatrick who aided President Messick in securing these funds from the State for the college.

Thanks go to Dean Clinton Prewett who did an excellent job of housing, guiding and counseling the students this year.

To Dean of Women Ruth White and her staff who did good work in handling the housing and counseling of our fairer sex. We add a note of thanks to them for being so patient with the male students.

To James W. Butler and Mrs. Susie Webb of the Alumni office who mailed out over 1,000 papers for us every week, we extend our best wishes. They also did splendid work as acting co-ordinators of the county clubs which wrote to their congressmen to aid ECC in the state budget.

Our hats off and many thanks to you all.

TIMELY TOPICS

By Bob Hilldrup

Two courageous and outstanding North Carolina newspapermen have been honored with Pulitzer prize awards. These men, W. Horace Carter of the Tabor City Tribune and Willard Cole of the Whiteville News-Reporter have received recognition for their work in smashing the Ku Klux Klan in the Columbus county area.

North Carolinians can be justly proud of these men who stood up for the rights of human beings against such a despicable organization as the Klan although at times during the course of their fight for decency in that area they were forced to carry arms for their protection.

North Carolina is a better state now that the men who so flagrantly violated human rights are in prison and all those who believe in human decency should be proud of the part these men have played in eliminating the Klan from Carolina. May the day never come again in Columbus county or anywhere else, when American citizens are subjected to the self-made law of the pack.

One week from today marks the end for most of us of the 1952-53 school year. A long summer lies before us and we hope that all concerned with East Carolina find it a profitable one.

We would like to return to Greenville next fall to find that the name of East Carolina has been spread sufficiently to warrant the enrollment of a bumper crop of freshmen.

Although much of the school publicity is handled through standard channels, East Carolina students can do a great deal to further the recognition of the college. It is not childish to be proud of the institution where one is obtaining his education, and we hope the entire student body will try to see during the summer that at least a few are introduced to the name East Carolina.

These closing remarks bring to an end another chapter of Timely Topics. It has been a privilege to have our say in this column this year and we hope to be back next fall. Until then, our best wishes to the administration and student body for a happy and prosperous summer. Enough said.

POT POURRI

by Emily Boyce

All the weeks on the calendar have been slowly marked off now—all but one; the last week of this '52-'53 school year is this coming week, and after that, we are all once more free to leave school books behind us for three months of summer vacation. But one shouldn't spend all this leisure time in only folly. We hope that most of you during this past year have jotted down various projects you want to complete this summer and maybe a list of books that have caught your interest, but just haven't had time to read while the necessity of attending classes confronted you.

If such a book list has been prepared, it is a certainty that the new best seller, Desiree, by Annemarie Selinko, will top the list. This historical novel and love story combined is sweeping the western world, already number one best seller in three languages. It is translated from the German.

It is a story told in the first person by the young girl who was Napoleon's first love. It presents a picture of the youthful Napoleon who used to race his sweetheart to the hedge and used to let her win sometimes. No doubt the girls would be interested in the beauty secrets which the Empress Josephine taught the young Desiree.

The one most frequently used for very important occasion was silver paint on the eye lids. We have considered trying out aluminum stove polish to get the effect, but have decided it's too stiff. Now we want to know just what did she use? The book is really not full of such feminine foolishness, but shows how a great man knew from the beginning that he was destined to carve a career for himself, but in doing so he became quite ruthless to gain his own ends. On the other hand Desiree and her husband, Marshall Bernadotte, were aware of their destiny as founding a great new Royal dynasty in Sweden.

The style is such easy reading and events happen so swiftly that it makes one of those books that you will read until the wee small hours. Incidentally, it is an easy way to acquire some background knowledge of the Napoleonic era and we assure you of a grand time doing it.

The annuals are at last here and everyone is praising this new edition of "Buccaneer" highly. We'd like to congratulate the staff on a job well done.

This is the last issue of "The East Carolinian" for this school year. We've all enjoyed working on the staff this year under our fine editor, Tommie Lupton, and know we shall miss him next year. However, Parker Maddrey will fill his shoes well, and the staff will be back of him all the way. Best of luck to you all during the summer months; see you all next year.

It is beginning to dawn on nearly everyone that idleness is the one thing left that can't be taxed.

Do dogs like exercise or do they just like to get out and see what other dogs are doing?

If the conversation is good, the food doesn't matter—and vice versa.

By the simple act of shaving Sunday morning after breakfast, a man does more to improve his looks than a woman can accomplish with all the beauty aids in the world.

"Poor Freda—You should've been here yesterday when he lectured on Joan of Arc."

SPORTS ECHO

by Bob Hilldrup

The announcement that Jim Mallory has been named assistant football coach here came as a bit of a surprise to many of the students. Although Mallory's appointment was unexpected, we feel that East Carolina is very fortunate in obtaining such an excellent replacement for the very capable Clyde Biggers.

In regard to Mallory's time spent at Elon one can only look at the record. In his five years with the Christians Mallory led the gridders to a record of 28 wins against 18 losses and three ties. In baseball he piloted the Elon nine to three conference championships.

In addition to Jim Mallory the Pirates are also adding another member to their athletic department. As yet this new man is unnamed but Dr. Jorgensen, athletic department head, assures us that the newcomer will be well versed in the various East Carolina athletics and will be capable of coaching or assisting in any of them.

Since this is the last issue of the "East Carolinian" we would like to get in a few extra remarks in the way of commendation.

To departing Line Coach Clyde Biggers: The best of everything in his new job at Catawba. May he have utmost success except for the date in October, 1953, when the Indians meet East Carolina. On that date we fervently hope that his squad gets soundly thrashed by the Buccaneers.

To the departing senior players of East Carolina's athletic squads we also extend our best wishes on behalf of the entire student body. It would not be fair to mention just a few individuals and impossible to cite them all. We can only say that we hope they meet with as much success in their post-collegiate years as they have brought to the Pirates in the realm of sports.

We would also like to take this final opportunity to attempt to mend any grievances that still exist toward the author of this column. It has always been, and always will be, the policy of this writer to call the shots as he sees them. In so doing we realize, and we have had it proved often enough, that stepping on someone's toes is unavoidable. We heartily hope, therefore, that there aren't too many sore feet in these parts, and we wish to extend our apologies to anyone who believes himself the victim of unjust criticism.

For our last comments of the 1952-53 school year we would like to deviate slightly from standard "East Carolinian" policy and substitute "I" for the conventional "we."

I would, therefore, like to extend my personal thanks to those who have helped me so much in preparing the sports page this year. To Jack Scott, the senior member of the sports staff who will not be with us next fall; to Bruce Phillips whose column and features have been indispensable; to Jim Ellis for his timely help; and to Sam Hux who has sat through many a long hot afternoon to get that last minute ball game. Thanks a lot.

Elon, Guilford Host To Pirates

Coach Jack Boone and his Pirates traveled to Elon today for the first game of a week-end series which will see another contest played tomorrow.

The Bucs will be seeking their first wins over the league leaders this season. In two earlier meetings, the Christians came out victorious by 3-2 and 4-0 scores. Elon is currently undefeated in North State conference play.

Wednesday will see the Bucs close out the season by engaging the Atlantic Christian Bulldogs in Greenville. The Pirates have thumped the visitors three times in as many starts. This contest will determine which school will house the coveted Bohunk trophy until next winter. The locals are presently in possession of the battered bucket.

The Pirates regained the trophy in the first basketball game of the year and have since held it through another court contest and three meetings on the diamond.

Locals Whip AC For Third Time; Piner Posts Win

Striking for six runs in the opening inning, the East Carolina Pirates upended the Atlantic Christian Bulldogs, 7-2, on the ECC diamond Monday. The win, eighth for the Pirates in conference play, gave the locals the right to retain possession of the Bohunk trophy which is at stake in all athletic contests between the two schools.

Bulldog starter Howard Hamm gave up five hits to the Buccaneers in the first frame. Cecil Heath and Gaither Cline each collected two hits in the wild stanza.

Cline was the leading batter for the Pirates with two hits in three at-bats. Heath had two for four.

Jimmy Piner went the route on the mound for the locals and gave up seven evenly scattered hits.

Morris and Beecham set the batting pace for ACC with one for two and one for three, respectively.

Buccaneers Win!

The East Carolina Pirates comprised a low score of 641 to take the North State conference golf tournament Tuesday in Greensboro. Walter Travis of Guilford was the individual champion with a 154 for 36 holes.

Claude King had the second high individual score with a 157 total, three strokes behind Travis. The Buccaneers also captured the third spot as Bob Braun carded a 159.

Bucs Post Successful Marks During 1952-53

by Bruce Phillips

Gaze into the crystal ball and you will be carried back through the years 1952-53 to September 13 where the enchantment begins its spell.

Coaches Jack Boone and Clyde Biggers ushered the 1952 edition of the Pirate gridiron squad onto the field at College stadium against the Norfolk Naval Air station, a service club loaded with ex-college and e-pro players. . . . the inauguration luster was blemished somewhat as East Carolina took a whipping, 13-7, by the experienced Naval team. . . . some 7,500 spectators witnessed. . . . Dwight Shoe's meritorious performance rewarded as selection for "East Carolinian's" "Athlete of the Week."

The Pirates came out of their corner fighting mad and ran roughshod over Newport News 37-6 on September 20. . . . fiery Bucs practically wore out the double big lines pushing the pigskin across for touchdowns. . . . big Claude King elbowed his way to glory and was the second week's choice as "Athlete of the Week."

September 27 the Pirates ran head-on into defending conference champions Lenoir Rhyne. . . . Pirates vanquished, 7-6. . . . Buccaneers line proved itself an oak-barrier of strength, skinning the big Bear backs for losses. . . . Willie Holland pulled down laurels as "Athlete of the Week" for his sterling play. . . . Appalachian was out front in the North State race.

Honoring Marred

East Carolina's Homecoming sparkle dimmed as Harold Carter and company from Catawba gained a split decision from the Pirates, 7-7. . . . some 8,500 fans present. . . . repeatedly driving the momentum of his 210 pounds into the Catawba machine, stopping its attack again and again earned James "Algie" Faircloth honor as "Athlete of the Week."

Combining a spectacular football airlift with a pistol-hot running game East Carolina turned in a 25-9 rout of Elon on October 10. . . . Elon's Homecoming hopes embarrassed. . . . Coach Boone received a spirited two-minute ovation in dressing room from squad. . . . entire Pirate team acclaimed "Athlete of the Week." . . . Dick Cherry and Paul Gay collaborated for one of year's highlights, a pass play covering 85 yards and paydirt.

October 18 Western Carolina Cata-mounts walked the Pirates' plank, 21-7. . . . East Carolina showed no mercy for her sister college. . . . Doses of T-formation fakery and pass-chunking wizardry were concocted by quarterback Dick Cherry, "Athlete of the Week." . . . Pirates moved up into third place in the conference standings.

Murder in Greensboro, East Carolina 41, Guilford 0. . . . Guilford coaches and players had to get out the smelling salts. . . . proving to be an indispensable ingredient in Coach Boone's powerful brew of gridiron strength was Paul Gay, October 25's "Athlete of the Week."

Bucs Edge Apps

November 1 was a day of reckoning as the Pirates scaled the Apps, inhaled a good breath of their air, and commenced to pound Appalachian, 22-19. . . . Bucs scored twice in fourth period. . . . Tippy Hayes, twinkle-toed halfback, stepped in the limelight as "Athlete of the Week." . . . EC possessed 4-1-1 record in conference.

Vacation in Florida with all expenses paid, Stetson university's expenses, that is. . . . a 19-19 extreme deadlock. . . . seven Florida newspapers praised East Carolina and its followers. . . . it was necessary to select two "Athletes of the Week," two essential grid machinists who helped make the Bucs' football machine a smooth, harmonizing unit that reached a new high in North State football circles, Sandy Siler and Illard Yarborough.

West Virginia Tech was beaten 34-7 as Bucs closed season. . . . East Carolina football results: 6-2-2. . . . excellent year on the chalk lines.

December 5 Buccaneers accepted Lions bowl bid to meet Clarion December 12. . . . Pirates' Dwight Shoe, Dick Cherry and Willie Holland place on the All-North State eleven. . . . Buccaneers open NS conference basketball slate by trouncing Guilford, 78-68. . . . Cecil Heath first cage "Athlete of the Week." . . . Pirates whip Lenoir Rhyne 74-65, Catawba 80-67 to end prosperous week. . . . incomparable Sonny Russell honors the column "Athlete of the Week."

Pirates footballers lose in Salisbury bowl 13-6 to Clarion. . . . East Carolina played host to University of North Carolina in dedication of new gym. . . . parent club took 79-66 win after pressing battle. . . . Pirates counter with 76-75 thriller from Elon. . . . Bucs back that up by spanking Guilford again 81-63. . . . towering Bobby Hodges reigned the week of Jan. 16 as "Athlete of the Week."

Pirates Suffer Defeat

East Carolina was rocked on their heels by two consecutive set-backs from Lenoir Rhyne 69-64 and Western Carolina, 102-97. . . . Pirates began to roll again with 97-68 win over High Point. . . . Sonny Russell began to monopolize "Athlete of the Week." . . . Pirates topped conference standings with a 7-2 record. . . . Ronald Leda cited for his miraculous body building. . . . Pirates topped Appalachian 79-67, WCTC 86-67, and Atlantic Christians 92-59. . . . Charlie Huffman, "Athlete of the Week." . . . Pirates defeated McCrary Eagles, 79-65. . . . Cecil Heath February 13 "Athlete of the Week." . . . Sonny Russell heaped as "MR. BASKETBALL." . . . Bucs best High Point again 100-87, trounced Elon 91-69, and Atlantic Christian 98-67. . . . J. C. Thomas bestowed honorary title "Athlete of the Week."

Clyde Biggers resigns as line coach. . . . Biggers accepted Catawba post. . . . Pirates bow out in North State tourney in semi-finals. . . . High Point administered defeat. . . . Pirates

Christian Coach Takes Position; Reports In Fall

Jim Mallory, for five years head football and basketball coach at Elon college, has accepted an athletic post at East Carolina. Mallory's duties will include serving as assistant football mentor to Head Coach Jack Boone and teaching in the health and physical education department.

Mallory, who currently is guiding the Elon baseball team in the top spot of the Eastern division of the North State conference, will continue at Elon until the end of the school year and will report to East Carolina in September.

The popular Carolina graduate and former grid star with the Tar Heels came to Elon in the spring of 1948 from Burlington high school where he coached a state championship team. At Elon he has compiled a record of 28 wins, 18 losses and three ties with the football squad while leading the Christian baseballers to three conference crowns.

Mallory will succeed Clyde Biggers, Pirate line coach during 1952-53, who has accepted a position as head coach at his alma mater, Catawba college in Salisbury.

Dr. N. M. Jorgensen, athletic department head at East Carolina, stated, "We are fortunate in having Jim Mallory with us." Dr. Jorgensen added that an additional man will be added to the local athletic department, possibly within the next few weeks.

State Tops Buccaneers By 8-1 In Tennis Play

Cadet Frank Madigan Wins Highest Award In ROTC

Cadet Francis H. Madigan of Portsmouth, Va., received top honors Thursday of last week at the first annual Air Force ROTC Awards Presentation day at East Carolina college.

The event was held on the campus drill field. Presentation of individual awards to 16 outstanding cadets was made by Col. Roger G. Fuller, professor of air science and tactics at the college, during a ceremonial parade and review conducted by the Air Force ROTC Cadet wing.

Top Officer Material
Madigan received from Col. Fuller the American Legion medal. This is an annual award to the advanced-course cadet who, in the opinion of the professor of air science and tactics and his staff, possesses the most outstanding qualification for an officer in the United States Air force. Cadet Johnny C. Helms of Monroe received the Air Force association medal. This is presented to the cadet officer who is most outstanding in leadership, drill and exercise of command.

Six cadets were recipients of Academic stars. Those receiving these medals have maintained an academic average of "1" in Air Force ROTC classes for four consecutive college quarters, and an average of "2" in other college subjects. Those whose work merited stars are Cadet Harold G. Colson, Hertford; Cadet James L. King, Wilmington; Cadet Francis

H. Madigan, Portsmouth, Va.; Cadet Robert W. Moye, Snow Hill; Cadet Willie R. Sears, Greenville; and Cadet Everett H. Whitley, Kenly.

Hilburn Honored
As the most outstanding cadet in the Manual of Arms, Cadet Jere D. Hilburn of Goldsboro received the Manual of Arms medal. Cadet Robert K. Williams of Greenville was given the Drum and Bugle Corps medal, which is conferred upon the most outstanding cadet airman in the Drum and Bugle corps for his high standard of performance both as a musician and as a cadet.

Drill Performance medals were awarded to the best-drilled cadet airman in each squadron. Recipients were Cadet Richard E. Fuller, Greenville; Cadet Emil E. Boado, Wilmington; Cadet William F. Floyd, Norfolk, Va.; Cadet James F. Holcomb, Whiteville; Cadet John R. Postas, Franklin, N. J.; Cadet Eugene Fields, La Grange; and Cadet John F. Daughtry, Wilmington.

Delegation Of Baptists Attend Summer Retreat

The East Carolina delegation to the Ridgecrest Southwide Baptist student retreat, June 10-17, will be limited to 16 or 18. Kamp Kontent has been secured by the local BSU, according to a report from President Nora Mills.

Butler Announces Class Assemblies Of College Alumni

Alumni of East Carolina college will hold their annual class reunions and assemblies Saturday, May 16, Alumni Secretary James W. Butler has announced.

Former students returning to the college for Alumni day will register in the Austin building lobby at 9 o'clock Saturday morning. A service of recognition of the 1953 graduates, presentation of the 1953 Distinguished Alumni award, and a business session of the Alumni association will be held beginning at 10 o'clock. President Henry C. Oglesby of Washington, D. C. and Grifton, N. C. will preside.

The annual alumni luncheon will be held in the North Dining hall on the campus at 12:30 o'clock. At this time the honor classes of Alumni day will be recognized. President John D. Messick of East Carolina will appear as speaker before alumni and guests. Retiring President Oglesby will present the incoming president of the alumni association.

President and Mrs. Messick will hold a reception in honor of visiting alumni and members of the graduating class from 3 until 4 o'clock.

Three classes will hold special observances during Alumni day. The Class of 1913, observing its 40th anniversary, will take a prominent spot on the Alumni day program, and the 25th anniversary Normal and A.B. classes of 1928 will also be in the spotlight.

Of the class of 1913, 26 members are still living. Mrs. Ralph Coble of Greensboro is class president. The 1928 A.B. class had 56 members and 54 are now living. Mrs. M. C. Bowden of Faison is president. The 1928 two-year Normal class of 222 members now has 216 living. The president is Mrs. William S. Haynie of Crumerton.

McGlohon President Of Business Ed Frat

Donald C. McGlohon of Winterville, junior at East Carolina college, has been elected by members of the Beta Kappa chapter of Pi Omega Pi, national honorary business education fraternity, as president for the 1953-1954 term. The chapter, which carries on an active program during the school year, was chosen in 1952 as the outstanding chapter in the nation.

Peggy Nash of Durham will serve as vice president of the fraternity next term. Patsy Smith of Greenville will be secretary; and Keith Goodson of Greenville, treasurer. Metz E. Bizzell of Goldsboro and Florence Helms of Portsmouth, Va. have been chosen to edit the 1954 edition of "Beta Kappa News." This handbook, a bound and illustrated volume, is issued annually by the campus Pi Omega Pi chapter.

Summer School Session Here Includes Events For Teachers

Workshops, conferences and clinics to be offered by East Carolina college during the 1953 summer session include 22 events planned largely for the benefit of teachers and administrators in the public schools.

Two of these will be held between the spring and the summer sessions; 14 are scheduled for the first term of the summer session, June 8-July 14; and six for the second term, July 15-August 21.

"Our summer conferences, clinics and workshops," Dean Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina stated this week, "grew out of a planning meeting on the campus this spring which was attended by representatives of public schools in North Carolina and members of the college faculty and administrative staff."

Many fields of study and activity in public school education are included in the series of 22 events. Subjects for study and discussion include special education, guidance, health and physical education, resource-use education, arithmetic, art, business education, music, science, reading, social studies, home economics, industrial arts, the school library, school administration and English.

A camp counselors course at Camp

Hardy, Washington, N. C., May 25 to June 5, and a study conference for kindergarten teachers, June 1-6, are offered for the interval between the spring and the first summer term.

Other events of the first term include a workshop on alcoholism in health education, June 9-19; and conferences on guidance services, June 16; elementary arithmetic, June 17; art in the elementary grades, June 18; business education, June 24; the home in child education, June 25; music education, June 29; science, July 1; reading, July 7; special education, July 8; social studies, July 9; and industrial arts, July 10.

A workshop in elementary school library organization and administration will be given during the second term and will extend from July 15 through August 21. Other events of this term are a conference on legal aspects of public school administration, July 23; the annual institute of the Northeastern district of the North Carolina English Teachers association, July 27; a conference on public school administration, August 4; and an outdoor education workshop at Crabtree State park, August 10-21.

TRIPLE THREAT MAN!

The Brains of the Team

Teamwork can work miracles. In a football game the man who sparks these miracles is the quarterback. He's the man who calls the signals. There's a man who calls the signals for an Air Force flying team, too! They call him an Aircraft Observer.

Do YOU have what it takes to become an Aircraft Observer? It isn't easy. It's tough. You have to be a MAN to qualify as an Aircraft Observer. But when you are one, brother, you're SOMEBODY! The success or failure of a mission involving over a million dollars worth of flight equipment depends on you.

THE AIRCRAFT OBSERVER IS THE SOMEBODY WHO:
As Bombardment Officer, is number one man on a bombing run, the man who controls the plane in the target area!
As Navigation Officer, is the pilot's guiding hand on every flight!
As Radar Officer, is master of a new science and operator of the device that sees beyond human sight!
As Aircraft Performance Engineer Officer, is the one who "keeps the plane flying", the man who knows his plane inside and out, who keeps it fit for the skies and sees that it stays there!

If YOU can accept a challenge like this, you'll take your place beside the best—you'll find your future in the clouds!

TO BE QUALIFIED you must be single, a citizen, between 19 and 26½ years old, have had at least 2 years of college and be in tip top physical shape. If this describes you, then YOU, too, can qualify. Today!

HERE'S WHAT YOU'LL GET! The world's best training. Good food and plenty of it. Uniforms, flight clothes, equipment. Medical and dental care. Free insurance. Flight training in Uncle Sam's greatest aircraft.

AND THEN, AFTER GRADUATION, you'll win your silver wings, and earn more than $5000 a year as an Air Force Lieutenant. You'll enjoy an adventurous, exciting career with a hand-picked crew of real men. You'll be THE BRAINS OF THE TEAM, A TRIPLE THREAT MAN... as a Bombardment Officer, as a Navigation Officer, as a Radar Officer, as an Aircraft Performance Engineer.

THE SOONER YOU APPLY, THE SOONER YOU FLY!

GET THE DETAILS: Visit your nearest Air Force Base or Air Force Recruiting Officer. Or write to Director of Training, Headquarters, USAF, Washington 25, D.C., Attention: Aviation Cadet Branch. If you are in a school that has an Air Force ROTC program, see your Professor of Air Science and Tactics.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil
Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

SHEEDY shed crocodile tears till he had alligator bags under his eyes, because he got the gator from his girl. "I'm going to hide from you and your horrible hair," she said "until you go gator bottle of Wildroot Cream-Oil, America's favorite hair tonic. It's non-alcoholic. Contains soothing Lanolin. Keeps hair well-groomed from morning 'till night. Relieves annoying dryness. Removes loose, ugly dandruff. Helps you pass the Finger-Nail Test." Paul slithered down to a nearby toilet goods counter for Wildroot Cream-Oil. Now he's swamped with purse-lipped females who want him to crocodile their telephone numbers. So water you waiting for? Buy a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil, or ask for it on your hair at any barber shop. Then your social life will stop dragging, and you'll scale the heights.
