Homecoming Plans Underway

Next Week's Elections Decide Queen; Groups Select Others

Preparations are in their final stages for Homecoming which is to be held here next Saturday, October 10, reports Charlie Klutz, general chairman of the student Homecoming committee, at a called meeting of the Student Legislature Monday night.

Charlie and Bob Neilson, chairman of the float committee, issued an appeal for more floats from organizations. "We want to have a long parade and would like to have about 30 floats at least," Charlie said.

Organizations have to the end of the day to enter floats for the Homecoming Parade. "This doesn't mean that the float has to be built by today," Bob said. "What we are after is to get all the floats mapped out. The float could be built the night before."

Elect Queen
Charlie announced that there would be a general student election Wednesday and Thursday for selecting the Homecoming Queen. The queen's identity will not be revealed until her appearance in the parade next Saturday.

Candidates for the queen will come from each dorm and the men and women day student groups. Pictures of each candidate will be placed on a bulletin board in the dining hall lobby early next week.

Charlie Wentz, head of the Queen's float committee, announced that the special float would be the "largest and most elaborate" in the parade. A crown for the queen will be made by a local florist, he added.

Four High School Bands
Participating in the parade will be four high school bands and the college band. The high school bands are Greenville, Williamston Jacksonville and Tarboro.

Bob Neilson reports that there will be 14 queens, in addition to the Homecoming Queen, riding in convertible in the parade. These queens will come from various organizations and dorms.

Also in the parade will be floats carrying out original ideas of the sponsoring groups. Three prizes of $25, $15 and $5 are offered for the best floats.

At 2 o'clock the parade will begin at Wright Circle in front of Cotten Hall. The parade will form near the tennis courts. No one will be allowed to park around the circle or beside the Administration building after 11 a.m.

Events for the weekend will include a pep rally with a bonfire and an informal dance near the Maintenance building on Friday night. On Saturday there will be a meeting of the Alumni in the morning and an Alumni luncheon at noon, in the afternoon after the parade, the YMCA and the YWCA will entertain the Alumni with a tea in the Y-Hut. Following the tea there will be a dedication of the Veterans Club Victory Bell near the gymnasium.

Half-Time Plans
Charlie Klutz revealed more of the half-time plans for the game Saturday night. During the 25 minute intermission, the college band will form different figures and letters with the lights on their caps while the stadium lights are out. "Card tricks," consisting of luminous letters on large pieces of cardboard, will spell out "Welcome Alumni" in the dark.

To highlight the program, the band will form a heart while the Homecoming Queen will enter in the center. The stadium lights will be out and a spotlight will be on the queen enclosed by the band with red lights on their caps.

Applications Now Open For College Draft Deferment

Applications for the November 19, 1953 and the April 22, 1954 administrations of the College Qualification Test are now available at Selective Service System local boards throughout the country.

The examinations will be given at East Carolina on the above dates. Eligible students who intend to take this test on either date should apply at once to the nearest Selective Service local board for an application and a bulletin of information.

Following instructions in the bulletin, the student should fill out his application and mail it immediately in the envelope provided to Selective Service Examining Section, Educational Testing Service, P. O. Box 586, Princeton, N. J. Applications for the November 19 test must be post-marked no later than midnight, November 2.

According to Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the College Qualification Test for the Selective Service System, it will be greatly to the student's advantage to file his application at once, regardless of the testing date he selects. The results will be reported to the student's Selective Service local board of jurisdiction for use in considering his deferment as a student.

Music Department Costs Messiah For December 13
East Carolina College will present its annual performance of Handel's oratorio "The Messiah" this year as a college-community event, the college department of music has announced. Rehearsals began this week.

Soloists will be chosen from college students and faculty and from singers in Greenville or nearby. The chorus will be composed of all who wish to participate, and no auditions will be required for membership.

The Messiah will be presented December 13 in the Wright auditorium on the campus. Dr. Elwood Keister, who joined the college faculty at the beginning of the present fall quarter, will be director. A graduate of the Indiana School of Music and of Teachers College, Columbia University, he has had professional experience as a conductor and singer and has been a member of the Robert Shaw Chorale.

The first rehearsal of The Messiah was held last Tuesday in Room 101 of the Austin building on campus, and the group will meet Tuesday night through December 12.

The Messiah has been sung by students at East Carolina at the Christmas season for the past two years. Much public interest in the oratorio has been shown, and annual presentations of the oratorio have attracted large audiences. Keister anticipates that participation by singers from the community as well as from the campus will assure a fine performance this year.

Guests Tickets On Sale

There will be a limited number of student guest tickets available at the Student Budget office for the Homecoming game, Saturday, October 10, as well as other home games, announced Dr. John Reynolds, head of the college ticket committee for athletics.

These tickets will be available for $1 at the office Wednesday through Friday on the week of each game, he said.

Only one guest ticket per person will be sold.

Guests entering the stadium gates must be accompanied by a student showing his identification card, Dr. Reynolds said.

He also reminded students that the cards were not transferable and violators of this regulation will have their cards confiscated.

Groups Request More SGA Funds Wednesday Night

More requests from various organizations were discussed at the Student Legislature meeting Wednesday night.

SGA members rejected the band's request of $750. The band asked for the money to be used to pay traveling expenses to Florida for a football game.

The body voted to appropriate $110 to the Athletic Association for the purpose of purchasing sweaters for the cheerleaders. These sweaters are to be retained and used for following years. These funds were taken from the SGA's own budget.

Appropriation of $100 was granted to the Men's Varsity Glee Club for the purpose of giving letters to third quarter members. These funds were taken from the SGA's own budget.

Five hundred dollars was granted to the Homecoming committee for their expenses.

A proposal of the newly organized Production's committee, a group responsible for one musical drama a year, was rejected by the body. The proposal was to grant the committee the right to retain gates and advertising receipts for the purpose of providing fellowships to "musically talented students" and for purchasing equipment.

Charlie Huffman discussed means of "cracking down" on line breakers in the cafeteria. His motion that a fine of $1 be enforced on violating persons received no second. The body voted to sponsor a two-week campaign of posting signs in the dining hall lobby in the effort of curbing line breaking.

Jim Ellis, sports writer, and Jean Brake, Woman's Athletic Association president, were elected to serve on the Athletic committee. This is the first time that students have had a voice with the committee which, up to now, was composed of all faculty members.

The SGA endorsed the showing of films to the student body of East Carolina football games. George Lyons said some of the film were in color and some portions in slow motion. The films will be shown at the Athletic department's convenience.

The series of entertainments for the 1949-1950 term at East Carolina College consisted of the personal appearance of Eugene List, pianist; Lauri Melchior, tenor; Iva Kitchell, dance satirist and comedienne and the U. S. Marine Band.

Derrick Speaks To Faculty Club Tuesday Night

The challenge offered by the unequal and limited distribution of metals in the earth will be discussed by J. O. Derrick of the East Carolina science department at a meeting of the Faculty Lecture Club of the college Tuesday at 3 p.m. in the Flanagan auditorium on the campus.

According to custom, club members extend an invitation to attend the October 6 meeting to all who are interested in the discussion.

The talk by Mr. Derrick will be the first in a series of six programs to be given during the 1953-1954 term.

Mr. Derrick will emphasize world problems created by the unequal distribution of metals in common use, including copper, tungsten, zinc, chromium, and tin. He will also discuss elements likely to become commonplace in years to come, such as beryllium, germanium, titanium, and tantalum.

"Little Black Sambo," a student dramatic production, was presented in January, 1942, under the direction of Clifton Britton. Britton is now director of "The Lost Colony," historical drama.

Playhouse Names Cast For Fall Production

Teacher's Playhouse announces the cast for the fall production, "The Skin of Our Teeth," by Thornton Wilder, Tuesday night during tryouts in the College Theatre.

The drama will be presented November 11, 12, 13, as announced by Dr. J. A. Withey, director of dramatics at the college. The student director is Patricia Goodwin.

Heading the male cast will be Percy Wilkins, junior, of Goldsboro, as Mr. Antrobus and Doug Mitchell, a sophomore of Greenville, as Henry, the son of Mr. Antrobus.

Among the female parts, the leading role has not yet been selected, but others include Nancy Cooke, freshman of Dunn, as Mrs. Antrobus, and Marie Vines, freshman from Washington, D. C., as the fortune teller. Another freshman from Dunn,

Winstead Assumes Prexy Post After Inauguration Thursday

Jimmy Winstead, Tabor City, officially assumed office as president of the Freshman Class Thursday night at the inauguration ceremonies directed by Mitchell Saied, SGA president.

Mitchell opened by stressing the importance of class unity and school spirit, followed by inaugurating Jimmy Winstead, who in turn swore in the other officers.

They were Joyner Brooks, vice-president; Helen Bland, secretary; Jean Fisher, treasurer; and Bea Burnette, SGA representative.

President Winstead then presided over the first Freshman Class meeting, and stated the plans of the class for the coming year.

Each new officer was introduced to the student body, after which they each gave a short speech.

Main business of the meeting was the ways and means for the class to raise money for the Freshman-Sophomore-Senior dance. Two representatives were elected to serve on the Social committee, a branch of the Student Government.

Approximately 300 votes were cast in the run-offs Friday out of the 940 Freshman students.

"I will work for a sound Freshman Class and uphold my office to the best of my ability to make this the best Freshman Class ever seen at East Carolina College," expresses Jimmy Winstead.

Jimmy hopes someday to be a dentist, after completing his education here and at Emory University, Ga.

In high school he was a member of the Beta Club, high school chorus and participated in football, baseball and managed the basketball team. On the local paper, Jim was sports editor and also business manager of the annual and took part in dramatics.

Jim and his father have built a 16' run-about and are now building a 20' cabin-cruiser. Dancing is another hobby, followed closely by water skiing, singing, fishing and building model airplanes.

Baptist Here Plan For State Meet Next Month

State Baptist Student Union Convention for more than 1,000 students, from 30 different North Carolina campuses will be held November 6-8 at Winston-Salem.

East Carolina's goal this year will be 75 students over a goal of 60 students last year. The group will leave Friday noon, November 6, and return Sunday afternoon, November 8.

Classes missed on Fridays have been excused in the past. The cost of the trip will be kept at a minimum and will be announced later.

The theme of the convention will be "Worship and Work." Some of the speakers will be Dr. John Nelson, Yale University; Dr. Nels Fere, Vanderbilt University; and Emily Lansdell, president of Carver School of Mission, and Social Work, Louisville, Kentucky.

Don Cossack's male chorus appeared here in concert December 2, 1951. They are to appear here again in March 1954.

ROTC Names French Cadet Colonel Here

Larry Moore French Jr. of Kinston has been appointed cadet colonel and wing commander of the college Air Force ROTC.

Larry is a senior here and a major in political science in the department of social studies.

The new cadet colonel is a graduate of the Jasper High School in Craven County. Before coming to East Carolina, he attended the University of North Carolina. For the past three years he has been enrolled as a student at East Carolina. After his graduation in November, he plans to attend flight school and to enter the Air Force as a career.

Picture Taking For Yearbook Ends Next Week

More than 1,000 individual pictures have been taken for the 1954 "Successor," members of the yearbook staff announced today. It is headed by the photographer from Waller and Smith that this phase of work will be completed by the end of next week.

Co-Editors, Mildred Reynolds and Tommie Lupton advise everyone to have his picture taken at the earliest possible date. In order for everyone to have his picture taken by the end of next week, it may be necessary for the photographer to work from seven until nine at night.

Proofs for pictures, now being shown in the Y-Hut, are back one week after the picture is taken. Students must go by and state their preference of the shots, or the annual staff will pick the one they like.

At Monday night's staff meeting the members were asked to decide what phase of work they desired to do this year. Editors for all major positions should be filled within a couple of weeks.

Sunday Socials Entertain New Faculty, Parents

Social events held during the weekend at East Carolina College included a tea in the Faculty Apartments honoring three new members of the faculty and a tea in Cotten Hall given by women students for their parents and members of the college staff.

Residents of the Faculty Apartments were hostesses Saturday afternoon at a tea, where members of the faculty and other guests were given an opportunity to meet Catherine Shaw of the health and physical education department, Vera MacKay of the education department and Inez Schoute of the home economics department.

The three honorees joined the East Carolina staff this fall and are living at the Faculty Apartments building. Welcoming guests to the parlors of the dormitory were Dean of Women Ruth White, East Carolina President John D. Messick, Mrs. Messick and the following dormitory councilors at the college: Hazel Clark, Helen Snyder, Mrs. Ruth Gardner, Mrs. Estella Striplin, and Mrs. Wilmore.

Assisting in entertaining the guests in the afternoon were the members of the residence hall staff. There will be a social given by groups of students in the building. Englehard, Alma Funderburk, Grange, Dorothy Brinkley, and women, and Marcia Milne of the dormitory store, will be in the office of the dean.

Plans for the renovation of the dormitories have not been awarded. It is hoped that the project will be completed by the spring.

Reports that the plans for the dormitories, one for men and one for women, should be completed by December 1.

Joeyner Brooks, who is "coming along nicely" in his studies, said. The date of completion may be later than was hoped for, however. "We had hoped to be completed by Christmas, but it looks like it will be later now," says Mr. Brooks.

Meanwhile, plans to convert the present library into a classroom building have not been altered. The new classrooms will be used for social studies and mathematics.

It was hoped that the telephone system would be installed by the middle of this week. The latest report is that the switchboard will not be in operation until next week, or perhaps later.

ECC Hosts For On Oct

North Carolina State University, Raleigh, will host the annual meeting of the Eastern Carolina Educational Association on October 10-11 at the Raleigh Hotel.

The meeting will be held in the Raleigh Hotel, Raleigh, N.C. The program will include a luncheon, a business session, and a social evening.

The meeting is being held in conjunction with the annual meeting of the North Carolina Educational Association, which will be held in Raleigh, N.C. on October 10-11.

Pinch Those Nickels

Budgets for the school year were presented to the Student Legislature by the Budget committee at the weekly meeting of the campus governing group last week. Considering the amounts that the budgets of the bigger part of the organizations were cut, we would like to commend the members of the legislature on the way that the appropriations were handed out.

Each and every organization did not receive as much money for the year as had been requested, but we feel that each club left the meeting with the feeling that they had received their fair proportion of the funds available to allot to groups for the fall quarter. The committee had only a set amount to allocate and we feel that no one was slighted after every angle had been discussed thoroughly.

Some representatives questioned the recommendations of the Budget committee, but that element is only natural. A few clubs said that they could not operate on the money given them by the legislature, but the committee told such organizations that there was a possibility that more funds might be available at the beginning of the winter term.

We hope that the signs shown by the Student Legislature at this meeting are true indications of the attitudes that the body will maintain during the year, for there was no unnecessary "throat-cutting" exhibited. Such a cooperative attitude as was shown by the representatives indicate that this year's SGA will be one of the best in the history of the college.

How High Are Our Standards?

It isn't hard to remember an occasion when each of us at East Carolina has been angered by some degrading remark concerning the standard of teacher's colleges.

Higher institutions have developed a fallacy on the matter, the gist of which has been summed up by calling a teacher's college "Education's stepchild." It is not uncommon for students of teacher's colleges to find themselves in positions requiring agreement or contradiction on the question.

The criticism has been mainly dependent on the fact that pupils of teacher colleges are able to get by with less work than the candidate for some other degree. Not only that, but statistics have shown that many students have actually "just skimmed by" when they were capable of doing much better. We don't feel that we are having a joy ride on education's bandwagon while we are here at East Carolina, do we? But can we deny that we have been negligent of doing our best?

Certainly we want to deny any criticism that directed our way. Although perfection is something we may only dream of attaining, contributing to our fullest capacities is not impossible for us. This is a goal that each one of us should work toward.

We feel that we can truly defy any statement that disputes the fact that we can get a good education here at East Carolina. Let's realize that we are going to have the reins of education placed in our hands, whether we want it or not. By doing our best to get the education offered to us, we can truly deny the charges that are laid upon our standards and at the same time begin to accept the responsibilities of being a student.

Ye Editor's Say

by T. Parker Maddrey

Classes resumed here Monday morning with nose blowing and coughing as a result of Saturday night's game in the rain.

But the rain did not stop the stadium crowds, although it was decreased a few hundred compared with the "dry" games. The game was carried out almost in the usual manner despite the steady drizzle. The team did their part, the cheerleaders were on hand as usual, a few members of the band struck up with a few tunes on their wet instruments, and the spectators yelled louder than they did in the Wilson Teachers game.

It all goes to show that wet students, like wet hens, can put up a good fight.

Treasurer Billy Laughinghouse announced a good and a not-so-good story this week. Pleasantly speaking, he stated that around $90 worth of student guest tickets were sold for last Saturday's game and he anticipates a much larger amount for the Homecoming game. These funds will go for athletic scholarships.

Unpleasantly, he said he has received about $150 worth of "bounced" checks since school started. Approximately 70 per cent of these checks returned because of carelessness, Billy added. "Some students just don't know how to fill out a check properly." We asked him about the 30 per cent. They just gave "bad" checks, he said.

A student who catches on quickly returned three books to the Michigan State college library last month. They were "Stop Forgetting," "Use Your Head" and "How to Remember."

The books were a week overdue. Coeds at Utah State college have been asked to refrain from wearing jeans in the classroom. College officials say the girls should wear jeans only when milking cows.

You have to know how to write if you want to graduate from Michigan State College. A new ruling there states that seniors can't graduate until their "writing technique is improved to a point where they can write legibly."

Currently 418 students are enrolled in a non-credit writing course, designed to improve literacy among future degree holders. MSC officials have said nothing thus far about any reading requirements.

Never before have we heard of a person playing Dan Cupid in such large quantities. Saturday afternoon six fellows from out of state arrived on campus. One called a student here whom he knew in high school to arrange dates for all six for the night's game. Dan Cupid made a call and had plans underway for the night in a matter of a few minutes.

But the story doesn't end here. Out of the 12 people involved in these blind dates, Cupid only knew two of them. One was the fellow who called and the other is the girl whom Cupid called. It seems that this girl knew five others "available."

Two college students were discussing campus life during the summer as a high school boy was standing by listening.

"How did you make out with analytics last quarter?" one collegiate asked.

Before the other could answer the high school boy interrupted, "Anna Littles? Who is she?"

From Dr. Irons

Students of East Carolina: This has been a busy and interesting month at the infirmary and we are pleased with the progress made. We have examined over 800 freshmen and transfer students, and found these men and women in very good physical condition.

The new students this year have been one of the most healthy classes ever examined here at East Carolina.

We appreciate the fact that a great many new students have been back for conferences and have been very cooperative. There are a few late arrivals who have not had their physicals, but we hope to get them done this week.

It is our intention to keep the student body in good health and with your continued cooperation we shall be able to do this. We at the infirmary are here to serve you all. Do not hesitate to call on us at any time we are sincerely needed. Best of luck to all students during this year.

On behalf of my staff at the infirmary,

D. IRONS, M.D.

Who's Who Among Students At East Carolina Oxford Girl Works In Activities Plus Library

by Kay Johnston

Betsy Hobgood, a senior from Oxford, is a grammar grade major, but confesses that history and English are her favorite subjects.

"Psychology is quite a fascinating subject to me too," Betsy said. "One day I went to see one of the psychology teachers and told him that I wanted to take some tests that would psychoanalyze my personality. The teacher was very surprised. I think I was the only student he had ever had to volunteer." When asked what the outcome of the test was, Betsy replied, "Oh, nothing much, except I usually had things pretty well under control."

Betsy's record indicates that she does keep things under control. She has been a member of the SGA for two years and has done outstanding work in this organization. Betsy has served on the Social Committee for two years, also.

"Slaps" Faculty

Teacher's Playhouse is one of Betsy's favorite organizations. She was on the make-up committee last year and said that she had never enjoyed anything anymore than "slapping" make-up on the faculty when they gave their annual production.

Betsy is a member of the YWCA and the Inter-Religious Council. This past summer school Betsy was president of Cotten Hall. "I certainly did enjoy that experience," Betsy said, "for I got to know so many of the students." Betsy also got to know quite a few "delinquent" students last year for she served as the vice president of the Women's Judiciary. This year Betsy is chairman of this organization.

Since Betsy is majoring in grammar grade education, she feels that the FTA is one of the organizations that she receives the most benefits from. This organization endeavors to promote interest in the teaching profession and to acquaint young people with the ethics, history and programs of the North Carolina Education Association and the National Education Association.

The girls who were initiated into the WAA this year will probably recognize Betsy as one of the grinning "torturers" who made them go through the usual initiation ceremonies. Betsy is very fond of most every kind of sport and enjoys all the activities that the WAA offers its members.

Works in Library

Even with her numerous activities, Betsy works in the library as a self-help student, often being mistaken for a library science major. "This job is very interesting," Betsy said. "I am often fascinated at the different uses students have for the library. Some come to socialize, some to look for 'conversational partners' and some even come to study!"

Betsy begins her student teaching Winter quarter and admits that she is scared to death. "I do think I will enjoy it, though," Betsy said, "as soon as I really get into it."

She is very interested in people and their outlooks on life and from her many varied activities, it is very evident that she will have many chances to get to know and understand many students on this campus.

To Kiss Or Not To Kiss Campus 'Kinsey' Gets Answers

by Cecil Roberson

"Should a boy kiss a girl on their first date?" This is the question of the week asked in a survey of East Carolina students.

Bill Pennel says, "It depends on the situation."

Tucker Smith says, "Yes, if the girl will let you."

Pat Jackson: "There should be no rules made."

Betty Huffman: "Yes, if there is a mutual feeling of genuine affection."

Margaret Frye: "Yes, but only lightly."

Marvin Baugh: "If he can."

Eula Tugwell: "I don't know."

Marion Chesson: "If she'll let him."

Tommy Davis: "He's crazy if he doesn't try."

Name withheld: "No, it's rushing things."

Eddie Elks: "It depends on the circumstances."

Hilda Apple: "It all depends on the girl."

Sarey Rogers: "It depends on how long she has known the boy."

Audrey Powell: "If they can get away with it."

Alton Little: "It depends on the feelings toward each other and the opportunities at hand."

Clayton Sledge: "The girl should be asked."

Jeanne Durall: "It depends on the circumstances."

Wilma Blue: "I don't know."

Agnes Mangum: "Yes! Definitely."

Shelton Littey: "It depends on the girl."

Lindley McForland: "Ummm! I don't know."

Charlotte Baker: "No, I think a kiss should mean something."

"Bull" Matthews: "Yes, if she wants to date him again."

"Tubby" Thomas: "Yes, but that's all he should do."

J. R. Brown: "Censored."

Ferando Lazarus: "No comment."

Oscar Rota: "It depends on the girl."

Francis Harting: "Yes, it's natural."

Jani Hunt: "Yeah, if the girl is willing."

Barbara Coghill: "No, a kiss should mean something."

Patsy Patterson: "It depends on how well they know each other."

And So To Sleep Again But Don't Miss That Class

by Pat Humphrey

"Well, I just put down that English book. Huh. What time is it? Three a.m.! I should have taken the professor's advice about cramming. (Yawn.)"

It sure will feel good to hit the sack. Maybe I will get four hours of sleep at least. Maybe more if I skip breakfast.

What's that? Funny, I haven't noticed it before. It's that blessed spigot. I'll give it a final turn. Shucks, it still drips. Oh, well, maybe it won't bother me.

Don't tell me I've finally gotten to bed. Not that I need to sleep, of course. I'd be just as alert for that 3 o'clock class if I stayed up all night. Knew I shouldn't have gone out tonight, but it was sure worth it.

Drip! Drip! What's that? That leaking spigot again. Well, that can't keep me awake. Not as tired as I am. I think I'll try counting sheep. Nope. They're too slow. Oh, well, what's the difference? I'll soon drop off to sleep.

Drip! Drip! Drip! That same doggone spigot. (Yawn.) You just can't win. Huh. Name three good ways to develop a paragraph. (Yawn. Z-z-z.

The Final Curtain

by an Anonymous Freshman

When the final curtain falls, and the lights are extinguished forever; the stage is dark and empty. All the players have taken their curtain calls and gone home for good. But should one in the audience say, "He was a good player and his presence shall be missed," then his years of practice shall not have been in vain.

Ronnie Hodges, Jacksonville, and Pat McCotter played four years of ball for Pamlico Central High School team, as second baseman.

In the spring Pat and Ronnie will go to Florida to train with the team, then they will be sent to play in a minor league this summer, but next year they expect to return to East Carolina to resume studies.

Ronnie is taking a four-year business course. Pat is interesting in becoming a physical education teacher. They are both ineligible to play college baseball, but Ronnie hopes to make the basketball team.

Before coming to East Carolina, Ronnie attended Camp Lejeune High School and Oak Ridge Military School where he was nominated All-State for basketball and baseball.

Couple Of The Week

by Kay Johnston

Evelyn Davis, a senior from Warsaw, and Willie Holland, a junior from Wilson, are this week's campus couple.

Willie plays right tackle on the football team and Evelyn thinks he's about the greatest football player ECC's ever had.

Evelyn and Willie started going together exactly one year ago. "One of my friends asked me to date Willie," Evelyn said, "but I wasn't too enthused. I finally dated him just as a favor to my friend and since then I've spent considerable time thanking her for that date!"

Wilson and Warsaw are pretty far apart, but Evelyn and Willie managed to get together this summer in spite of the distance. "One day this summer Willie was supposed to meet me at the beach," Evelyn said. "When he got down, he was told that the Warsaw house party had already left. So poor Willie had to go all the way back to Warsaw to find out that someone didn't know what he was talking about! By the time he got back to the beach he wasn't in very good humor. And to top it all, I had a terrible sunburn and had been in bed for the past two days."

Oh well, "the course of true love never runs smooth!"

The following is a reprint from Appalachian, student newspaper of Appalachian State Teachers College at Boone. It appeared as an editorial written by Editor Alice Wilde under the heading "Which Will You Be?"

There are some things that are inevitable. Just as surely as you enter college, you will find that there are certain adaptations that you must make . . . unless you wish to wind up being one of those neurotic individuals who doesn't seem to fit into any scheme of living.

One of the hardest things to do is to determine just how much time is necessary for studying each day. In the past few weeks you freshmen have heard endless speeches and advice concerning "good study habits" and "concentration." In fact, you've heard these and other similar phrases so often that you've probably wished that you'd never heard the word "orientation." Don't complain, however, until you've heard this side of the story. You won't be able to realize just how lucky you are to have counselors until you become an upperclassman, wondering when your practice teaching is to be, wondering if there are any courses you've forgotten to take, wondering if you'll have time to study after your outside activities are finished and usually winding up too tired to do anything after you finish the long Forensic Club meeting or the feature for this week's paper.

Of course, this is a little exaggerated, but you'll find many juniors and seniors who actually feel rushed or worried almost all the time. When you are a freshman, it is fairly easy to make yourself study. There are no pressing extra-curricular activities and there are no advanced courses which require hours of reading and concentration. Then, too, there is the ever-present fear of failure—a fear that the underclassman gradually loses the longer he stays in college. The average upperclassman doesn't worry nearly as much over whether he is going to fail; he worries about whether he is going to have time to study at all!

It all adds up to this: efficient study is as necessary to your college experience as air is for us to breathe. That's that, it's final, and there's no way to get around the fact. There's a time for everything, including concentrated study, and this realization is one of the most important adaptations you'll have to make. How about it? Are you going to get in such a mental "stew", or are you going to settle down and become an efficient member of our campus society?

This week the majority of students on campus saw a Western movie of unusual quality, Shane, directed by George Stevens, was ample proof that something good can be turned out of a mediocre badman versus good guy theme.

Alan Ladd does an excellent job of portraying the mysterious Shane who turns up at a hard working homesteader's ranch one evening. Emphasis was placed on every detail in Shane and such painstaking care transformed a plain Western movie into a high styled, tension filled two hours of entertainment. Such details as the ring of hand axes against a stump and the harmonica solo combined to create an impression that even 3-D could not replace or improve upon.

Producer-director Stevens, 48, is a perfectionist who began his career as the youngest cameraman in Hollywood. In those days comedy was his specialty. From those years as a cameraman, he learned valuable details concerning the many details that go into making a movie outstanding. He progressed up the Hollywood ladder and finally produced the unforgettable A Place in The Sun, in which his talents were culminated and definitely established.

Stevens is known for the attention he pays to the facial expression of his actors and incidents of stark realism throughout his pictures. The expression of amused contempt plastered on Villain Jack Palance's face in Shane will long be remembered by moviegoers.

Even though this quarter has just begun, the infirmary deserves a vote of thanks already for the fine work they have done for us all. The following is a note from Head Nurse Grace Outland, here at East Carolina for the first time: Dear Students,

We have enjoyed working with you this fall. It has been a new experience for us here at the infirmary, but we feel that we have learned a great deal and can now better serve your needs. Most of you freshmen and transfers have had your physical examinations, and a number of you have had conferences with us. Without your cooperation we could not have done this.

Our intention this year is to practice a little preventive medicine, so if you have the beginnings of a cold, etc., please feel free to come to us at once for treatment. Under Dr. Irons' direction, Mrs. Stephens, Miss Stokes and I are prepared to care for your ills whenever they occur. The doctor is in the infirmary during clinic hours and will see you upon request.

Yours for better health,
Grace Outland, RN

The square dance sponsored last week by the YWCA and YMCA gathered quite a crowd. This informal social is a fine way for students to become acquainted and have a night of fun. Such dances supplement the school's regular activities and afford "something to do" for a lot of students.

Question of the Week:

Who was the person at the Lenoir Rhyne game with an enormous straw hat on and wrapped up completely in an old Indian blanket?

SPORTS ECHO

by Bob Hilldrup

The meteoric rise of East Carolina athletic teams over the last several seasons has brought up a point that should be clarified.

It's a swell sign of school spirit to hear various groups discussing the prospects of even more ambitious schedules for Pirate squads, but we hate to hear students complaining because these more ambitious schedules haven't been immediately realized.

But let's take a look at what has been accomplished here. It was just a few short years ago that many of the opponents met by Pirate athletic squads were service teams and little known colleges.

Now, however, local squads no longer engage these service clubs and current signs point to an ever widening program of inter-collegiate athletic relations.

In all fairness to the athletic department, we students must remember that these steps of progress were not accomplished overnight.

When one stops to examine the difficulties encountered in arranging a schedule then the lack of more nationally known squads on East Carolina schedules can be more readily understood.

It is not that the coaches of the teams East Carolina seeks to play believe that our teams are unable to give their squads a good game.

Publicity is the answer. When the day arrives that sports fans in the Eastern United States realize the true potential of East Carolina schedules can be more readily understood.

Carolina squads then the major obstacle in arranging a more impressive schedule will have been overcome.

For example: Prior to the East Carolina-Wilson Teachers football game early this year the Washington, D. C., papers were favoring the Teachers squad over the Pirates. Anyone who saw that contest must agree that the Buccaneers were by far the better squad.

Obviously therefore, the Washington papers were "shooting in the dark" when they rated the Teachers as favorites. They cannot be blamed for this however. Were the Washington sports writers more correctly versed on East Carolina's true strength, then this misrepresentation would not have occurred.

Publicity is again the answer. As long as East Carolina's athletic strength continues to be under rated then it will be difficult for top notch teams to be scheduled. The day is coming when local teams will be granted their deserved recognition.

Freshman Squad Downs Wildcat Grid Eleven 39-0 In First Contest

The East Carolina Freshman squad, coached by Earl Smith, romped to a 39-0 win over the outclassed Wilmington Wildcats Friday night at Wilmington.

Milton Collier and Wilson Hux paced the locals' attack which carded nine tallies, four in the first half and five in the second. Three of these, however, were called back by penalties.

James Henderson, Boyd Hooper and Collier scored first half touchdowns. Gene Taylor made good on three of six attempted conversions.

The game was the first of the year for the Frosh, with other contests pending.

Catawba Beaten In Opening Games Under Ex-Buc Mentor

East Carolina, Quakers, Remain Among Unbeaten

A full weekend of activity in the North State Conference saw the East Carolina Pirates unleash a tremendous air attack despite a heavy rain to swamp Lenoir Rhyne 34-0 at Greenville.

The Bears, defending conference champs, were never in the game as Dick Cherry, the Pirates' soph quarterback, hit on four touchdown tosses.

As a result of the East Carolina-Lenoir Rhyne game sports experts throughout the state have virtually conceded the conference crown to the Bucs.

In other clashes involving conference squads the Guilford Quakers posted their second consecutive win of the season by edging out Hampden-Sydney 7-6. Reuben Slade, a substitute end who the week before kicked the Quakers to a 14-12 win over Appalachian, once again provided the margin of victory.

The only other family fracas on tap was the Western Carolina-Appalachian game played at Cullowhee. The Apps, victims the week before to the extra points, rode through on the toe of halfback Ray Morris for a 7-6 win.

Elon, however, did not fare as well. The Christians took it on the chin from Wofford by a 33-0 count. Catawba, which was scheduled to meet Newberry, had its contest postponed until last Monday night due to rain and wet grounds.

The Standings:

*Does not include result of Catawba-Newberry game played Monday night.

The East Carolina College Pirates, and especially the linemen will be out to show their former tutor a trick or two tomorrow evening at Salisbury when the locals meet the Catawba College Indians.

Catawba, coached by Clyde Biggers, line coach at East Carolina last season, is rated as the No. 2 stumbling block in the way of the Pirates' march toward the league crown. The Buccaneers got by what was rated as their No. 1 threat, Lenoir Rhyne, to the tune of 34-0 last week.

The Indians, working from a newly-installed T formation this season, were soundly beaten 44-00 by VMI in their first game of the season. Their scheduled contest with Newberry last weekend was postponed until last Monday night due to rain and wet grounds.

The Catawba Indians dropped a 14-2 decision to Newberry Monday night.

Although the Bucs will be favored to defeat the Indians in the contest, an upset is entirely possible. Biggers' ability as a coach is still very much respected on the East Carolina campus.

Should the locals run true to form, however, they would virtually be over the top in their bid for title honors. Western Carolina, Appalachian and Guilford remain as conference foes on the Buc schedule.

One particularly bright spot in the local camp this week was the news that John "Topy" Hayes, fleet halfback from Durham, will be available for duty. Hayes, the Bucs' pre-season starting halfback, has not seen action in the first two contests due to an injured left knee. His return to form will ease the load of worry brought on by the injury last week of Teddy Barnes, another top-notch halfback.

The probable starting backfield for the locals will have Claude King at fullback, Dick Cherry at quarterback, Paul Gay at right half and either Hayes or Emo Boado at the left halfback post.

Bobby Hodges and Larry Rhodes will be at the ends; Willie Holland and Johnny Brown at the tackles. David Lee and Don Burton will start at the guard posts with Louis Hallow at center.

Cherry Leads Bucs To 34-0 Win Over Conference Champion Bears

Neither mud nor rain nor Lenoir Rhyne's Bears could stop the good right arm of quarterback Dick Cherry as the Washington, N. C., ace pitched the East Carolina Pirates to a 34-0 win over the defending conference champs here Saturday night.

Cherry, passing for 10 completions in 13 attempts and four touchdowns, was literally unstoppable as the Buccaneers walloped the invaders from the west before some 3,500 rain-soaked fans at College Stadium.

The contest, though played early in the grid season, had been tabbed as the most crucial of the season as last year's champs met this year's favorites.

A heavy rain which had soaked the field prior to game time was still falling as the Bucs received the opening kickoff. Neither squad could move the ball effectively on their first series of downs, but then, following a Lenoir Rhyne quick-kick and with the ball on the East Carolina 48, Cherry faded back and tossed a perfect strike to big left end Bobby Hodges down the left sideline. The Kinston end snagged the ball on his fingertips and outlegged halfback Billy Eanes for the score. That, for all practical purposes, was the ballgame.

The two squads slogged back and forth for the remainder of the opening period and the majority of the second session until seconds before the half-time gun. Then, with the ball on the East Carolina 15, Emo Boado, fleet little halfback from Wilmington, entered the game.

Boado immediately took a Cherry handoff and squirmed to the 44. On the next play Cherry, with standout protection from the Buccaneer fore-wall, tossed down the middle to Boado who made a fine catch and outran the safety man to score. Claude King booted the extra point to give the locals a 14-0 halftime advantage.

The Bucs added another score in the third period, again on a Cherry-to-Boado pass. This one came to cap a 54-yard scoring drive which ended as Boado took the toss on the Lenoir Rhyne seven and stepped into the end zone.

Early in the fourth period the locals notched their fourth score, again as a result of Cherry's passing. Bobby Hodges was the recipient once again. The play covered 34 yards.

The final Buc touchdown came when Paul Gay, an offensive threat all evening, sprinted 22 yards over left tackle.

In addition to Cherry, who gained 231 yards with his passes, Gay, Boado, Claude King and Teddy Barnes stood out in the Pirate backfield. The Pirate line, which smothered the Bear offense and kept Cherry well protected throughout the evening, was led by David Lee, Willie Holland, Hodges, Don Burton and Algie Faircloth.

Basketball Opens With Inaugural Sessions Monday

Basketball practice for the 1953-54 East Carolina Pirates will begin Monday, October 5, at 3 p.m., Coach Howard Porter said today.

A 19-game schedule has been arranged for the Bucs with 10 games to be played at home and nine on the road.

"We'll welcome all candidates to our first practice," Porter said. "I wouldn't be surprised if we have at least 50 out the first day, but all are welcome," he added.

If player strength is any estimate the Pirates should present one of their strongest squads during the coming season. The only loss, but that a heavy one, from last year's squad was All-Conference and All-State forward Sonny Russell.

Last year the Pirates finished first in the regular season North State Conference play, but bowed out to High Point in the semi-finals of the tournament. In the NAIA district playoffs, however, the Bucs soundly thrashed both High Point and Elon to win the right to represent the Carolinas at the national tourney in Kansas City, Kansas.

A late-game rally by Arkansas Tech handed the Pirates an 85-81 loss in the opening round of the Kansas tourney.

Figures Show Parking Place For Every Car On ECC Campus

In a survey made by George Tucker, president of the EPO, and other members of the fraternity it is reported that there are 406 parking places on the ECC campus in the general vicinity from the Wright to Austin buildings.

There are 317 cars registered with Dean Clinton Prewett's office. "This should be evidence enough that there is no real parking problem on the campus," Dr. Prewett said.

Additional parking places are to get under construction immediately. These new parking places will be in back of the Austin building and near Flanagan. The new parking areas should relieve parking congestion in these immediate vicinities.

There has been approximately $40 in fines collected by Dean Prewett's office since the beginning of school. These fines are imposed for parking in no parking zones, parking overtime in restricted zones and other parking and traffic violations. The money collected through fines goes to the Student Welfare Fund. This is a fund used to aid students who are attending the college.

Students are asked to observe the parking rules and regulations here on the campus inasmuch as they are for the benefit of the student himself. It is reported by the police staff that parking conditions on the campus have improved at least 500%.

"We are gratified by response that faculty and students have given in response to parking on the campus," is Dean Prewett's statement when asked about co-operation of the students.

Veterans Group Promotes 'Employ Handicap Week'

Plans are being laid on a wide scale for the eighth annual observance from October 4 through 10 of National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week.

In each state, governor's committees are at work on arrangements, with several agencies and organizations making plans for local observances. Veterans Administration said.

By Congressional enactment, the first full week of October of each year is set aside as "NEPH Week," to intensify efforts throughout the country to make possible the full utilization of the skills and abilities of men and women who are physically handicapped.

Veterans Administration reports that the Korean war has inflicted 100,000 American casualties, bringing the number of disabled veterans on VA rolls to 2,500,000, the highest total in history. During 1952, a total of 106,000 disabled veterans applied for work at public employment offices. The number of such applications has increased each year.

EC Prof Writes On Englishman For NY Bulletin

Dr. Edgar W. Hirschberg of the East Carolina College department of English is represented in the current issue of the "Bulletin of the New York Public Library" by an article entitled "Captain Bland" on the history of a little-known dramatic work by the better-known British author George Henry Lewes.

"Captain Bland" was never produced in England, Dr. Hirschberg states, and "was, to use the theatrical term, a flop" when presented May 30, 1864, "for the first time on any stage" at Wallack's Theatre in New York. Its interest now lies partly in its authorship by Lewes, English philosophical writer whose biography is linked with that of the great Victorian novelist George Eliot.

For his study of "Captain Bland" Dr. Hirschberg found available in the New York Public Library the prompter's copy used for the Wallack production and, he states, "as far as I know... the only version of the play in existence." From reviews of the play in contemporary newspapers and magazines, he traces the reaction of the theatre-going public to "Captain Bland" and gives a glance backward into conditions on the New York stage in the Civil War period.

Dr. Hirschberg joined the East Carolina faculty this summer. He is a graduate of Harvard, Cambridge and Yale and has taught at Indiana University, North Carolina State College and Ohio University.

Chime Concerts Begin Sunday At Four O'clock

The first of a series of carillon concerts will begin Sunday at 4 p.m., announced George E. Perry of the music faculty.

Lasting from 20 to 30 minutes, they will be heard anywhere on the campus except in the Austin auditorium where they will be played.

The carillon, which are the tower bells, will be played by the organ students of Mr. Perry. Sunday's organist will be Carolyn Clapp. Others who will play include Ellen Sprinkle, Janet Watson, Carolyn Brothers and Monteen Winstead. Others will be selected later.

Alumni News

PITT ALUMNI HEAR OF COLLEGE OPERATIONS

Pitt County alumni of East Carolina College were urged by ECC President J. D. Messick Tuesday night to give full support to the Pitt County Educational Foundation in the current campaign to raise $100,000.

President Messick spoke on the college growth, needs, and alumni support at the meeting of the Pitt County Educational Foundation in the current campaign to raise $100,000.

Faculty and alumni cooperation in furnishing the "soon-to-be-completed" faculty-alumni building being converted from the former home management house was also pointed out by President Messick as a project for early support. He described the building program, including completion of the library, renovation of Wright building ground floor for a student union and the construction of the women's and men's new dormitories.

Homecoming Day plans were reviewed by Alumni Secretary James Butler, who said Pitt County alumni should make reservations immediately for the Homecoming Luncheon at 12:30 o'clock and tickets for the East Carolina-Elon football game at 8 o'clock. Campus participation in selection of dormitory queens and the Homecoming Queen were also announced.

The registration of alumni attending the Northeastern District Meeting of the North Carolina Education Association at ECC on October 23 was also announced by Mr. Butler.

There was a large attendance of alumni for the September get-acquainted meeting which featured on the program Dr. Keith Holmes, guitarist, in a folksong fest, with a "surprise" trio number performed by President Messick, Dr. Holmes, and Alumni Secretary Butler.

Miss Smith announced that the chapter will hold a dinner meeting on November 10, its annual games tournament on February 12, 1954, and a buffet in April. The minutes of the first fall meeting were read by Mrs. Dorothy Johnston, chapter secretary-treasurer.

A social period followed the business meeting with Mrs. Ruel W. Tyson, Miss Christine Johnston and Mrs. Susie Webb.

PRINCETON HIGH SCHOOL HEAR DR. HOLMES, BUTLER

Dr. Keith D. Holmes of the East Carolina Department of Education and James W. Butler, alumni secretary at the college, participated Wednesday in exercises marking the opening of the new Reading Materials Center at the Princeton High School.

As principal speaker on the program, Dr. Holmes discussed "The Purposes of a Reading Center." Mr. Butler extended best wishes from the college and greeted East Carolina alumni on the school faculty and present as guests of the afternoon.

BURLINGTON ALUMNI CONTINUE SCHOLARSHIP

The first Fall meeting of the East Carolina College Alumni Association's Burlington-Alamance Chapter was held recently in the home of Mrs. E. C. Pate with Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Council as co-host and hostess.

Mr. Council, president, appointed the following committees to help him during the coming year: ways and means, Ida Walters, Mrs. E. C. Pate; membership, Estelle McClees, Margaret Walker; hospitality, Mrs. Helen Pope, Helen Johnson; yearbook, Mrs. W. C. Council, Mrs. Sophia Mayo.

RALEIGH ALUMNI PLANNING BANQUET

The annual banquet of the Raleigh-Wake County chapter of the East Carolina College Alumni Association will be held at the Woman's Club on Monday, Nov. 23, at 6:30 p.m.

Sam Dees, chapter president, who announced the annual event at the first fall meeting held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Rand Jr. Monday night, said officials of the college had been invited.

Members of the chapter endorsed the chapter's scholarship program started last year and decided to begin a solicitation of funds immediately that will enable a Raleigh or Wake County student to attend East Carolina College.

James Whitfield, given recognition at the meeting for having been chosen as state president of East Carolina Alumni and being named recipient of the Alumni Award for 1953, spoke briefly on what other chapters in the State have adopted as projects.

Episcopal Rector Addresses ROTC On AF Ethics

Dr. Wallace I. Wolverton, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church of Greenville and a member of the college faculty, discussed "A Code of Ethics for Air Force Officers" at a recent meeting of the college AFROTC in the College Theatre.

The talk was one of a series planned for cadets during the school year with the idea of expanding and improving the general education which they receive in college.

Dr. Wolverton served as Chaplain USA and USAF during 1936-1952. From 1947 to 1949 he gave instruction in professional ethics at the USAF War College, Montgomery, Ala. "Ethical Judgments of Air Force Officers" is included among his published works.

Dr. Wolverton's recent talk to cadets stressed the qualities of self-control, goodwill and cooperation, professional integrity, and loyalty.

VA Says Home Loans Reach All-Time Peak

GI home loan applications received by the Veterans Administration during the month ending August 25, 1952, topped the 31,000 mark, an increase of 5,800 over the previous month, VA announced.

T. B. King, Acting Assistant Deputy Administrator for Loan Guaranty, said: "The August rise indicates that veterans may be finding it somewhat easier to obtain GI financing, although we cannot be certain on the basis of one month's experience. Also, it is still harder for veterans to get GI loans in some areas than in others." Mr. King emphasized that some of the August increase may be attributed to the rush of lenders to get loan applications approved by VA before the 4 percent gratuity was suspended after August 31, 1953.

RULES

1. Write your Lucky Strike jingle on a plain piece of paper or post card and send it to Happy-Go-Lucky, P. O. Box 67, New York 46, N.Y. Be sure that your name, address, college and class are included—and that they are legible.
2. Base your jingle on any qualities of Luckies. "Luckies taste better," is only one. (See "Tips.")
3. Every student of any college, university or post-graduate school may submit jingles.
4. You may submit as many jingles as you like. Remember, you are eligible to receive more than one $25 award.

TIPS

To earn an award you are not limited to "Luckies taste better." Use any other sales points on Lucky Strike, such as the following:
Lucky Strike Means Fine Tobacco
Luckies taste cleaner, fresher, smoother
So round, so firm, so fully packed
So free and easy on the draw
Be Happy—Go Lucky
Buy Luckies by the carton
Luckies give you deep-down smoking enjoyment

CLIP OUT THIS INFORMATION

My meals, folks say, are flavorful — they're seasoned perfectly. For better taste, it's Luckies, though. That win the cheers — not me!
