College Adds Six Programs For Year, Dr. Messick Says

Prominent Lecturers, Institute On World Affairs On Schedule

Six programs, including lectures and entertainments and an institute on world affairs, have been scheduled for presentation at East Carolina College during the present school year, President John D. Messick of the college has announced.

Based on varied topics of present interest, the programs will bring to the campus a number of distinguished speakers on contemporary affairs and several representatives of the arts. All events will be open to the public and times and places of meetings will be announced in advance of each program.

Dr. Arne Sorenson, noted Danish writer and educator, will open the series with two lectures in the Austin building Thursday. He will speak at 8 a. m. at an assembly for freshmen and at 10 a. m. to upperclassmen and others. Sorenson is a former cabinet member of the Danish Government and during World War II served on the Danish National Resistance Council.

Harold J. Brennan, Director of the School for American Craftsmen, Rochester Institute of Technology, will give an exhibition of ceramics, bronzes, silver and small wood objects February 15 and 16. On the evening of February 15 he will be presented in an illustrated lecture on "The Craftsman and Contemporary Design."

Eleanor King, dancer, who has staged dances for a number of plays, including "Giant from the South," will give a lecture-demonstration in March. Marion Beldon Cook will spend March 13 on the campus and will give a talk on "Introducing the USA to Children Through Books."

Dr. Gerard Priestley, British historian, author and lecturer, who has lived and worked in many of the underdeveloped and undeveloped areas of the world, will speak at the college April 9.

The World Affairs Institute, scheduled for March 25, will have as participants four distinguished speakers and will include discussions of the Near and the Middle East, Europe, the Far East and the United States. Those taking part will be Samuel Kupper, former deputy director of the office of Near Eastern Affairs, Department of State; the Hon. Camille Chautauque, four times premier and former vice president of France; Melchior P. Aquino, Philippine journalist and diplomat; and Peter J. Collier, associate editor of Pathfinder Magazine.

In a few weeks, many of you will see a select group of boys dressed in odd fashions moving about the campus. These boys, who will be going through a short period of initiation for the purpose of becoming members of the Tau Chapter of the Phi Sigma Pi fraternity.

The fraternity is not considered a social fraternity, but a professional and educational one. It is identical in a teachers college as that of the Phi Beta Kappa of the liberal arts college.

This fraternity recognizes high scholarships and interest in the whole field of education and does not emphasize any particular fields of subject matter.

It strives to embody those people who possess, like ideals, as a kindly and courageous personality, high ethical character, tactfulness, a well organized field of knowledge and an appreciation of the values of education for individual and social security and some progress.

The requirements for enrollment in the fraternity are threefold. The members must be in a reasonable range of a "2" average in all courses. They must possess a kindly personality and qualities of leadership.

Circle K Sets $50 Scholarship Fund For College

Another scholarship will be available to East Carolina in the near future.

The Circle K Club, a campus service organization which is affiliated with the Kiwanis International, has a fund of $50 for one scholarship which is hoped to be awarded in the near future.

Members of the scholarship committee are now investigating a criteria for the project. The club hopes to sponsor a scholarship each year.

Approximately 20 members and guests were present at the Tuesday night meeting held at Respass-James. Charlie Bedford, who was in charge of the program, gave an account of the National Kiwanis Convention held in June at New York City.

Delegates to both conventions expressed that East Carolina College was known to the outsiders through the campus Circle K. The delegates were also honored guests at some of the meetings at the conventions.

President Don McGlothin outlined the objectives and plans for the year. Boosting the sale of "Jolly Roger flags" at football games was discussed by the members.

Dr. John Reynolds, faculty advisor of the club, made suggestions to the group who will aid the organization of a Circle K Club at Atlantic Christian College.

Billy Laughinghouse, chairman of the place committee, announced that the next meeting would be Tuesday night, November 3, probably at the Silo Grill.

Five foreign students now attending East Carolina College and a young Swedish woman residing in Greenville were presented Monday afternoon in a radio panel discussion on International Understanding and the United Nations.

Participating in the broadcast were: Berrit Hillesland of Norway, Leonor Padilla of Honduras, Hildegarde La Pom of Sweden, Oscar Rota of Peru, Crisanto Solis of Nicaragua and Fernando Lazarus Cerrato of Honduras.

Mrs. Walter Krausnick, representing the Greenville branch of the American Association of University Women, conducted the discussion.

The student panel was the first in a series of three broadcasts presented this week in the interest of United Nations Day to be observed tomorrow. On the second broadcast Dr. John D. Messick spoke about the United Nations meetings which he visited recently in New York.

On the third broadcast Dr. Malene Irons and Mrs. John Gordon were heard discussing World Health Problems and children's literature on the United Nations.

The series was arranged by Mrs. Donald Murray, radio chairman of the Greenville branch of the American Association of University Women. It was tape recorded in the campus studios of the college and aired over Radio Station WGTC.

The annual Hallow'en Carnival, sponsored by the Pi Omega Pi and the Future Business Leaders of America, will be presented Thursday night in Wright building at 7:30.

Rabbi Chapel Speaker

Rabbi Solomon Herbst of Oheb Shalom Congregation, Goldsboro, will represent the Jewish Chautauqua Society as speaker at East Carolina College Tuesday. He will speak at noon Chapel service in the Austin auditorium.

The National Federation of Temple Brotherhoods sponsors the Jewish Chautauqua Society, which sends rabbis to college campuses as part of an educational program to disseminate authentic information concerning Judaism.

Literary Section Progresses; Four Serve As Editors

Four were named to the editorial board of the proposed quarterly magazine section of the "East Carolinian" this week. Serving on this board are Bob Hilldrup, junior of Fredericksburg, Va., and sports editor of the "East Carolinian," Dr. Donald Murray, Dr. James Poindexter and Mary H. Greene, all of the college English department.

This board will examine and edit all material submitted. Material may be submitted to any member of the board or to the "East Carolinian" office directly or to Box 990, c-o Magazine Section, before November 9.

Students may submit any work in the creative field for the two-page literary section such as essays, short stories, poems, cartoons, short humor incidents and movie and book reviews. Students may also submit compositions used in courses here.

As many literary works will be published as space will permit. Short stories and essays must not exceed 3,000 words so as to conserve space. Interested students are requested to submit their writings early so as to insure publication.

Manuscripts should be typed or written legibly in ink. Only one side of the paper should be used. Wide margins for editing should be left. Manuscripts will be returned after publication date by those requesting and including their college address.

Pseudonyms or pen names will be used if so desired, but only if accompanied by the writer's real name.

Ed Society Establishes Honor Frat On Campus

The Kappa Delta Pi, an honor society in education, has recently established a chapter on the East Carolina campus.

Requirements for membership are a 1.5 (grade between a 1 and a 2), at least nine hours in education and some display of leadership ability.

Plans are underway to acquire members. Anyone interested may contact Vernie Wilder, Box 217, at the college. Dean Leo W. Jenkins is faculty sponsor for the new organization.

Cadet Colonel Larry Moore French Jr. of the East Carolina College Air Force ROTC has announced the selection of officers and non-commissioned officers who comprise the cadet staff for the fall quarter. French is a senior from Kinston.

The Wing Staff is made up of the following, in addition to Cadet Col. French: Cadet Lt. Col. Robert E. Pennington, Rocky Mount; Cadet Lt. Col. Mitchell Sauced, Greenville; Cadet Lt. Col. John P. Sloan, Wilmington; Cadet Lt. Col. Ray A. Hylton, Greensboro; Cadet Major Nolan C. Alcock, Pollocksville; Cadet Capt. W. Ray Sears, Greenville; Cadet Capt. Robert F. Hodges, Kinston; Cadet Capt. Charles E. Fishel, Winston-Salem; Cadet S-Sgt. Jimmie D. Smith Jr., Rocky Mount; Cadet T-Sgt. Robert S. Taylor, Semora; and Cadet M-Sgt. Furney Powell, Vanceboro.

Squadron A—Cadet Major Shelby E. Russ, Wilmington; Cadet Capt. E. W. McLane, Newton Grove; Cadet M-Sgt. Byrum J. Whitehurst, Greenville; Cadet S-Sgt. James E. Parkin, Beaufort; and Cadet A-1C Arthur S. Newman, Henderson;

SGA Plans Bus Trip To Florida Limits Club Budget To $1,000

Deposits will be taken soon for a bus trip to Deland, Fla. for the Stetson-East Carolina game slated November 14.

Members of the Student Legislature decided Wednesday night to charter a bus for the game. The "Wheels to Florida" committee, with Wade Cooper, chairman and Ann Bryum, Ann Bowles and Paul Cameron serving, will decide the amount of deposit. Transportation per person is computed at $22.20. Alumni Secretary James Butler will investigate hotel accommodations for the trip.

Standing rules submitted by the Budget Committee were adopted by the body. One was that the total appropriation for club and organization requests for one year shall not exceed $1,000. A club and organization shall be defined as any club, fraternity, departmental organization and any such organization recognized by the SGA. Those organizations affected by this rule are Teacher's Playhouse, IRC, Veteran's Club, FTA, ACE, WAA, YMCA, YWCA, Science Club and Jarvis Forensic Club.

The second rule was that clubs not recognized by the Legislature shall receive no funds from the SGA appropriation and also any expenditure of the Student Legislature exceeding $100 shall be paid after receiving the required requisition and a letter of the secretary of the Student Legislature informing the treasurer of the approval of the Legislature to spend the fund.

Two marshals and two alternates were elected to fill vacancies. Maxine Bryant and Peggy Cox were selected as Marshals and Mamie Wooten and Virginia Harris were named alternates.

Edgar Tadioc, chairman of the Social Committee, reported that the Pirates Den in the basement of Wright building is open every night of the week with the exception of Sundays and nights when other activities are scheduled.

Chi Beta Chi Frat Hears Chemistry Report At Meet

Wade Jordan gave a program on physical chemistry from the course he took this past summer at the University of Virginia at Monday night's meeting of the Alpha Gamma chapter of the Chi Beta Phi, science fraternity.

Several members of the fraternity plan to attend two scientific meetings, one to be held at Duke University and the other at the University of North Carolina.

J. O. Derrick, C. A. Scruggs, Pete Williams, Charles Sutton, John Sloan and Roy McGinnis plan to attend the dedication services of a new laboratory at the University of North Carolina Saturday, October 24.

The group to Duke will report on their trip at a meeting of the Science Club.

Students Hear Danish Speaker Thursday, Austin

Dr. Arne Sorenson, from the Scandinavian Traveling Seminar, will speak to the students and faculty at two assemblies Thursday in Austin.

The first assembly will be for freshmen, at 8 o'clock in the morning, at which time Dr. Sorenson will have as his subject: "Striking Observations of America, Made By a Dane." The second assembly will be held at 10 o'clock, for all upperclassmen; at this time Dr. Sorenson will discuss: "From Resistance to NATO." All students who have both the first and third periods free may hear both lectures, if they wish.

Dr. Sorenson is a former cabinet member of the Danish government, was a member of the Danish National Resistance Council in World War II, a cabinet member of the Liberation Government in 1945 and a member of Parliament. He is the author of eight books, mainly concerned with the history and politics of Europe and the United States.

His recent book, "From Hollywood to Akropolis," a discussion of European and American culture and politics, was chosen by the Danish critics as the best book of the year 1952.

He has been visiting other European countries constantly for the last 20 years and has just returned from Europe. In 1949 he attended the Southeast Asian Church Conference at Bangkok, Siam, and visited Mr. Nehru at New Delhi. He has worked in study commission of the World Council of Churches and spent the summer of 1948 in Germany as a consultant to the US Military Government. He is one of his country's leading specialists on psychological warfare.

Arthur Whittemore was born in the college town of Vermillion, South Dakota. Jack Lowe was born in Denver, Colo. They met at the Eastman School of Music, Rochester and gave their first public concert together in San Juan, Puerto Rico. Shortly after Pearl Harbor, they joined the Navy, returning after two years in uniform to the college.

Indefatigable workers and excellent musicians, they play virtually all the standard music and have written for two pianos and have expanded the repertoire with almost 200 of their own compositions of works ranging from the classical to the best of today's popular music. They have also composed music from contemporary sources, including Manuel Mendive, Ernest Krenek, and others.

Recently the University of Rochester bestowed citizenship on Whittemore and Lowe as one of the institution's 15 most distinguished alumni. Overcoming his own physical handicap, Whittemore, a frequent Court Justice and a composer in addition to the two pianists.

During the 1952-53 season, the pianists gave one of the most memorable TV concerts ever known to college artists. . . . only 100 appearances. They are the only classical instrumentalists to have been on the television program. They have appeared on the radio a week.

The pianists open their 1953-54 season with appearances at Carolina College with the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra on Tuesday, October 24, and three days later will appear at East Carolina College for the opening of the 1953-54 Entertainment Series in Greenville.

Whittemore and Lowe, appearing in the opening feature of the East Carolina College Entertainment Series for 1953-1954 on Tuesday, October 24, are nationally famous artists. The duo-pianists are bringing their own pianos to Wright Auditorium on the campus and will begin their performance Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, Chairman James Butler of the ECC Entertainment Committee announced Wednesday.

Pace-setting programs, best-selling recordings, news-making personalities . . . all contribute to the precedent-breaking tours which the two pianists play every season. They are in constant demand, not only in retail, but for radio and television appearances and as soloists with major orchestras.

During the 1953-54 season, they are the only duo-pianists engaged by the New York Philharmonic-Symphony, their third Carnegie Hall appearance with the orchestra.

They are introducing the works for two pianos and orchestra written by Ernest Krenek and Morton Gould, both commissioned by Whittemore and Lowe, in world premieres on Saturday, October 24, and will also appear on the New York Philharmonic Symphony nationwide broadcast on the CBS radio network on Sunday, October 24, at 2:30 p.m.

Full Calendar Busy all-year round, their summer calendars take them from New York's Stadium, Philadelphia's Robin Hood Dell and the Boston "Pops" to Denver's Red Rocks, Cleveland's Summer Orchestra Series and Chicago's Grant Park.

Both pianists hail from the West. Arthur Whittemore was born in the college town of Vermillion, South Dakota. Jack Lowe was born in Denver, Colo. They met at the Eastman School of Music, Rochester and gave their first public concert together in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Dr. Flanary Talks Teacher Careers At FTA Meeting

Dr. Woodrow Flanary, faculty member of the department of education, in a talk before members of the campus chapter of the Future Teachers of America, urged them to become "professionally minded" and told them that their membership in the organization for prospective teachers provides an excellent start toward discharging their obligations toward their profession.

Dr. Flanary spoke at the October meeting of the Robert H. Wright chapter of the FTA. A new member of the college faculty this fall, he was recently chosen to serve with Emma L. Hooper of the English department as co-sponsor of the chapter.

You And Communism

No doubt you've heard the arguments offered by the people of authority in the United States against Communism; but, how much do you realize the efforts of the democratic government to prevent the spread of Communism in this country in which you want to live, think as you want to think and go to the church of your choosing?

People of the modern world just don't spend the time necessary for constructive thinking—that thing that is needed to realize the threat of Communism upon your future happiness. Too many times the people of this free country have said, "Oh, let the politicians worry about it, that's their job—that's what we're paying our taxes for, to pay them."

But that isn't the point at all. No, not by a long shot. This ever constant presence of the preachers of communism is not to be passed over with the attitude of one who feels that the world owes him a living. This country is filled with those people who spout forth the propaganda of communism like an unending stream. The largest population of the present day world is under communist rule—and look at them—China, Eastern Germany and the whole populace of Russia. What have they got to show as a result of their work and of the work of their ancestors?

This problem is not to be met only by those in authority, but more so by you and your neighbor. The guy down the street. Every one of us is standing no one—black and white alike. In this democracy, the people rule the country—let's do it that way. It's not up to our government—let's do it for the people. More than that, to a greater extent, it's up to the college students of today, to do it tomorrow.

The world doesn't owe you a living. You have to live, the way you want to, in a free world. But the world is largely at a standstill because of a democracy which could be destroyed by one, not just the people of high rank, but one who doesn't mean to go out and preach about something you know nothing about. It means to do everything within your power to retain the freedom we now possess. It means to do everything within your power to retain the advancement of that freedom. COMMUNISM. How about it? Stretch Our Spirit

Improvement is inspired by common occasions, the opposite applies. Usually an editorial is written on these themes. A different theme is desirable, so this particular issue is uplift and to upbraid all.

We are eternally proud of the student body. We feel the pride and support of our water have been accepted. No evidences or Carolina in general of this newspaper. It is a spirit exists. Nothing is a constitution as undivided.

Sometimes the stretched over a condition. For instance, a pirate victory and gone so far that drunk. Marauding school spirit, this further enthusiasm is, remember school spirit. A staunch supporter. There is a host of Boy Scouts will be a few of the

by T. Parker Maddrey

Times are really changing. Walking down the street the other day several booted blacks were shouting at passersby, "Fix up yer shoes real nice? Only a nickel!"

Man! It has been a long time since the five-cent shoe-shine. So we place a hoof on a hand-made box stained with black, brown and oxidized. With swift motions the freckled, sandy haired youth finishes applying liquid polish and asks, "Care for paste for another nickel?" "Yeah, yeah, go ahead," we tell him. So that's his racket!

After completing the process, he questions, "Care for sole dressing for another nickel?" "Sure, sure, go ahead." He finishes the job with the extras and we hand him a quarter.

"Care for change?" the kid asks. "Well, if it doesn't cost extra," we said. "Aw, what the heck, go ahead and keep it."

Two professors at a French university have started holding their classes up in the sky and the teaching method has been so successful that beginning this semester the "flying seminar" will be a required course in the natural science department.

This idea has proved particularly good in the study of geography and geology, but the professors promise to improve instruction in botany, zoology and physics by use of airplane also.

Their system is this: first a lecture on ground, then a flight over the area being studied. Students learn much more on one of these flights, the professors say, than they previously did by spending many hours before the map.

College students drink alcoholic beverages, all right, but nowhere near as much as has been supposed. That's the conclusion of a 214-page report just published by two Yale professors who've spent the last five years studying the drinking habits of nearly 16,000 students of 27 representative United States colleges.

Seventy-four per cent of the nation's students admitted "taking a nip" every now and then, but more than 90 per cent proved to be very moderate imbibers. Students at "dry" colleges which outlaw alcohol ran up an average drinking score only six per cent below the national average and they demonstrated that when they do drink, they get drunker than students at "wet" colleges.

The report also said students at women's colleges drink more than women at coeducational institutions. Most common reason given by the women for their drinking habit was that it helped them "get along better" on dates.

Who's Who Among Students At East Carolina

Spanish Major Relates Her Fun In Activities

by Kay Johnston

"You can just never tell what you'll run into next, when you're student teaching," said Edna Massad, a senior majoring in Spanish and minor in English.

Edna, one of the friendliest personalities on campus, is from Benson and is doing her student teaching this quarter. "I just love teaching," Edna said, "but those students really keep you jumping. Just the other day, I found a pair of false wax teeth after class. I wonder what I said to make somebody drop those?" Edna was the assistant business manager of the "East Carolinian" her sophomore year and was the business manager her junior year. Edna will take over the business manager's job after this quarter when she finishes her student teaching.

Fun In New York
"One of the best times I ever had in my life was at the Columbia Scholastic Press Convention in New York last year with the 'East Carolinian' staff. I got lost in Harlem the very first day on my way out to Columbia University. But a very kind Irish (of course) policeman got me back on the right subway. Not only did we have fun, but we also won top honors for the 'East Carolinian'."

Playhouse Incident
"I've really enjoyed belonging to the Teacher's Playhouse during my college career," Edna continued. "I've been a member since my sophomore year." Edna was make-up director her junior year and has taken part in two major productions. As Rheba (the colored maid) in "You Can't Take It With You," Edna rendered an excellent comedy performance. "When the cast of 'You Can't Take It With You' went to Camp Lejeune troop, we really had some experiences," Edna said. "Between our performances we went to our supper and no one took their make-up off except the two colored characters. On our way to the mess hall we passed a Negro sergeant who said, 'You two should have left your make-up on, we would have fixed you up then.'" Edna also portrayed the Widow Douglas in "Tom Sawyer" her sophomore year and was also stage manager for the production.

Edna has been a member of the English Club for three years. This club is the oldest departmental club on the campus and strives to stimulate interest in English by presenting guest speakers who are well known in this field and also gives the English majors and minors an opportunity to become better acquainted with one another as well as with faculty members.

Fraternity Honor

"I was very honored when I was invited to join the Sigma Pi Alpha, a national honorary language fraternity," Edna said. Edna joined this fraternity her freshman year. It's main objective is to stimulate an interest in acquiring a more intimate knowledge of peoples, customs and culture of foreign countries. "I always look forward to going on the Sigma Pi Alpha annual houseparty at Atlantic Beach every spring too," Edna said. "We've really had some great times."

"I attended the Sigma Pi Alpha Congress in Raleigh last year," Edna said. "We met many other foreign language students and attended a banquet and dance. I hope I'll get to go this year too."

At present Edna says she is undecided what she will do after graduation in May. "I will either teach Spanish or get a job as a translator or interpreter. I may even stay here to get a Master's degree."

Campus Pest Exposed

The Guest You Want To Kill

by Valeria Shearon

A poor relation, according to Charles Lamb, is a fly in your ointment—a mote in your eye—and the one thing not needful.

This description fits a certain campus inmate to a "L." Let us call this character Mr. X. In case you have been fortunate enough to evade his acquaintance, here are a few facts:

Mr. X lives in dormitory rooms. Sometimes he visits other places such as the newspaper office, but generally he can be found in the former places. He travels widely, especially if there is any food involved. (He is particularly fond of pecan pie and chocolate cake).

His presence usually causes an uproar characterized by such exclamations as "Kill him!" or "Blow him off!" Doesn't this prove that he has a dynamic personality? Where he lived before he came to East Carolina, we wish we knew, for we would gladly tell him to go back home.

Mr. X is majoring in "erawology." You will find him diligently crawling in places accepted and otherwise, creating a general annoyance. Nothing short of murder can stop him. It seems a shame to kill a poor, depending, trusting relation, but this one's got to go! When the cruel deed has been done and Mr. X lies peacefully beneath some hill, may this epitaph rise over him:

"Mr. X lies 'neath the sand. He was killed by the blow of a merciless hand. Meddling with a chocolate bar was going just a little too far. Now all you OTHER ANTS take heed. This epitaph carefully read. Call together your crawling band, And move on to some other land."

Did You Get A Flunk Slip?

Buckle Down! Invitations Out

by Anne George

Did you receive your invitation this week? If not perhaps you best peek into your boxes again, just to be extra sure! A lot of students found to their horror a mere scrap of paper, referred to as "Flunk Slips" glaring out through the tiny cubicle of window in their Post Office box.

What evil force caused these unfortunate to be on the receiving line of such? This question was taken up by our inquisitive reporter, with these results:

Polly Popular: "Well, it was either men or books . . . and, well what choice did I have?"
Freddie Football: "Someone intercepted my pass, and caused me to fumble."

Carl Casanova: "Night life was the ruin of me!"
Harry Hurry: "Tempus Fugit!"
Annie Activity: "Extra curricular stuff was my Waterloo!"
Ula Uninterested: "Books can be so musty!"
Ed Extrovert: "Bull-sessions can kill time!"
Molly Movie: "Movie a day, that's my motto!"
Helen Hangaround: "Isn't it great all the kids you see in the Soda Shop?"
Lettie Letter: "After commuting with everyone via mail, it's so late to begin studying."

We Got Them

Typewriter Blues

by Joyce Smith and Pat Humphrey

"Joyce, have you finished your typing budget?"
With a look of agony, Joyce replies, "Yes, Pat, but just look at the errors. I seem to be getting dumber by degrees. I wonder if we will ever survive this class."

"That is the $64 question, Joyce. It seems as if I spend every spare moment attempting to master that monstrous keyboard. The really sad part of typing is that you usually go into the class in good spirits. Ten minutes and 50 errors later you begin to exclaim, 'What a future!'"

"Yes, Pat, I agree. I can begin a problem and get to the last sentence without an error, when suddenly, for no apparent reason, one finger is led astray. There goes that perfect paper!"

"Seriously, Joyce, although at times we feel as though we'll never succeed, I'm sure that when the big day comes, we'll be rewarded with success."

Couple Of The Week

by Evelyn Blount

"Ye old 'Y' Shop" was the meeting place for this week's couple, Lib Bateman from Rocky Mount and Owen Bessellieu from Wilmington. "He only asked me for a date so he could ask to use my English book," says Lib of their first date.

Lib, a primary education major and Owen, a government major are both sophomores.

They both like dancing, football games, movies and of all things—to attend weddings! Getting in practice maybe? "His first impression of me wasn't too good," says Lib laughing. "He thought I was a little stupid, but I thought he was kind of punchy, so I guess it worked both ways."

This summer Owen managed to get up to Rocky Mount quite a few times even though he says he was in summer school and Lib was working. "We had a wonderful reunion with quite a few of our EOC friends at the June Gorman," says Lib. "In fact, the whole nine months we have been going together have been filled with fun and surprises."

(Editor's note: By being chosen "Couple of the Week," Lib and Owen will each be given a meal at the Olde Towne Inn, a ticket to the Pitt Theatre, a gift from Saslow's Jewellers and a carton of Chesterfield (cigarettes).)

TIMELY TOPICS

By Bob Hilldrup

A crucial issue of national and local significance is coming up for final decision before the Supreme Court of the United States within the next two months.

The "problem" of segregation of white and Negro persons—if a problem it is—will supposedly be "settled" once and for all by the Supreme Court's ruling. Whether or not this necessary part of the Southern way of life will be ruled unconstitutional remains to be seen, but we hope that those responsible for making the decision will look before they leap.

In an attempt to discover the attitude of East Carolina students toward this issue the East Carolinian is conducting a survey which we hope will be completed in time for this issue of the paper. If any student other than those interviewed has ideas concerning this topic his views will be aired if received in the form of a letter to the editor.

When one realizes the dire effect that the abolition of segregation can have upon the people of the South then perhaps the words of administrative officials at Louisiana State University can better be understood. Said LSU with regard to application for enrollment from a Negro: "Because of the history, traditions, customs and usages of the people of the state of Louisiana, segregation of whites and blacks is necessary to preserve and promote friendly relations and mutual understanding between white and colored persons."

This attitude should be voiced by the entire nation.

With all due respect to minority groups, not alone Negroes, and with a steadfast stand against discrimination, we feel it only fair to state that we sometimes wonder whether or not these minority groups aren't victims of inferiority complexes operating on a tremendous scale.

If these groups would only realize that segregation and discrimination are two entirely different words with equally different meanings then perhaps they might adopt a different air from that of self-righteous indignation.

Let us all hope, therefore, that the wisdom of the members of the Supreme Court will be guided to the extent that they realize that preservation of segregation is a necessary part of a healthy America.

Last week in the East Carolinian there appeared a letter to the editor from a student who demanded more "couthure" on the local campus. Whereas this student's ideas had their due merit it appeared obvious that, although his beliefs might not need improving, his spelling most certainly did.

At any rate Student Government President Mitchell Saieed was spouting forth to a select group the other day on "the stupidity" of this "cultured" letter when he was quietly informed by one of his awe-struck audience that the author of the letter was among those present.

Needless to say our SGA president was duly chastised.

The newly formed Library Science Club has been meeting regularly at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the library science class room. During the last meeting the club elected officers for the coming year, they are: Gene Lanier, president; Maxine Bryan, vice president; Gayle Flanagan, secretary; and Emily Boyce, "East Carolinian" representative. Alma Faulkner is chairman of the constitution committee which has drawn up a constitution to be submitted to the club for approval. The organization proposed that the vice president serve as program chairman and there are plans for numerous interesting programs in the future. The dues for the year was set at 25 cents. Dr. E. D. Johnson, faculty advisor, urged members to publicize and promote interest in the club, which is open to all interested.

The Seniors at Ayden High School have been studying Macbeth for the past few weeks. As a climax of the study they launched a project which certainly deserves recognition. Working under the direction of their student teachers, Mrs. Elsie Livingston and Vernie Wilder, a group of the senior boys wrote and printed a one page newspaper entitled "The Edinburgh Gazette." The paper has the latest "dope" on the murder of Banquo, the appointment of Macbeth to be king, battles and the prophecy of the "weird sisters" (the three witches).

The Gazette is filled with such eye catching headlines as: "Banquo Found Murdered In Ditch Near Palace," "Macbeth On Way To Scene To Be Crowned King," and "Man Sees weird sisters." The articles denote a thorough study of the great Shakespearean play by the students. The paper is printed on a regular news press, with the print set up by the students themselves.

The style of writing far surpasses the work of a majority of high school pupils and even though the paper was not proof read, the material makes for delightful reading. The editorial by Erwin III (Billy Davidson) warns the public of the dangers confronting "their beloved land of Scotland" and discusses the brutal murder of the former King Duncan.

"The Edinburgh Gazette," Vol. 44, No. 42, price four pence, will be posted in the "East Carolinian" office during the coming week. Anyone who is interested in reading the work of the Ayden High Seniors are welcome to do so.

The best books of the year have been printed here a few weeks ago. Here are the best plays of 1953-1954 as summarized by Burns Mantle Yearbook: "Dial M For Murder," "Picnic," "The Love of Four Colonels," "Time of The Cuckoo," "Wonderful Town," "Climate of Eden," "My Three Angels," "The Emperor's Clothes," "The Crucible" and "Bernardia"

SPORTS ECHO

by Bob Hilldrup

As the East Carolina gridiron win streak grows longer and longer some interesting facts are brought to light. The locals have not lost a regular season contest since the third game of the 1952 season and since that time have piled up an undefeated streak of 12 games. In that period the Pirates have averaged better than four touchdowns per game or a 26.5 average per contest.

In the last 47 contests the Bucs have failed to score only twice and have failed in every one of their last 25 grid outings.

Tomorrow night the Pirates will have an opportunity to stretch their streak still further against the Guilford Quakers. Despite the fact that Guilford has one of its better tail clubs, the locals are solid favorites to capture their fifth North State Conference win of the season.

Barring a terrific upset, East Carolina should clinch at least a tie for the conference crown tomorrow against the Quakers. A week from tomorrow Appalachian, a contender all season, will be here for the Bucs' last home game and final conference contest of the season.

Big gun in the potent App attack is Shley Gabriel, who moved into a tie with Bobby Hodges for the conference scoring lead by tallying

Intramural Tournaments Now Being Sponsored; More Players Wanted

Play is now underway in the Men's and Women's Intramural Tennis Tournaments, according to information released by the athletic department. Approximately 50 students are participating in the playoffs.

Present plans also call for an intramural volleyball league to be formed in the near future. A meeting of team managers is scheduled for Wednesday in the gymnasium at 7 p.m. All persons interested in forming or joining teams should contact either Bob Williams or Bob Vickery as soon as possible.

The bulletin board in the gymnasium will carry announcements with regard to tryouts and game times.

his seventh and eighth touchdowns last weekend.

With basketball season rapidly closing in on us some Pirate fans are already avidly awaiting the opening of the cage schedule.

Despite the loss of All-Stater Sonny Russell, the 1953-54 Pirate five shapes up, on paper at least, as being one of the strongest in the North State Conference. Starting players who will undoubtedly be heavily relied upon are Bobby Hodges, center; Cecil Heath and J. C. Thomas, guards, and Charlie Huffman at forward.

Paul Jones, a sub last year who played outstanding ball toward the end of the season, may well take over the other starting position. One cannot, of course, disregard the wealth of freshman talent brought in by Pirate scouts or the other regular members of last year's squad.

Hodges Leading Pirate Scorers

Bobby Hodges, the Pirates' Little All-America end candidate, gobble up his eighth touchdown pass last week against Western Carolina to run his total to 48 points in five games so far this season.

The senior end, who is also expected to spark the local basketball squad again this year, has tallied at least once in each contest.

Second high man on the Buccaneer squad is Dick Cherry, All-Conference quarterback, who has scored five TD's plus a safety for a 32-point total.

Emo Boado and Paul Gay have three and two touchdowns each while Larry Rhodes, Tom Allsbrook, Claude King, Boyd Webb, Jim Stanley, Jack Britt and John Daughtry have scored once. Bubba Matthews has booted five extra points, and King nine.

In the passing department Cherry has completed ten scoring tosses, two going to Boado, one to Gay and Hodges. Boyd Webb has one TD pass to his credit as does Boyd Hooper.

Bucs Lead Loop As Indians Take Over Second Spot

Catawba's Indians edged themselves into North State Conference championship picture last week-end as the seven to Hodges. Boyd Webb has one last three weeks of play.

The Indians, behind the sparkling play of Leslie Swanner and Harvey Stratton, upset Appalachian's Mountaineers, 14-13, to virtually eliminate the Apps from further consideration. On the other hand, however, the East Carolina Pirates whipped their fourth North State opponent, Western Carolina, 26-7, to keep the loop lead with an undefeated mark.

The Pirates can guarantee themselves of at least a tie for the crown by beating Guilford tomorrow night. In the only other league game last year's champions, Lenoir Rhyne, handed Guilford its first conference loss by a 25-14 margin. The win was the first for the Bears in five starts this season.

Tomorrow's schedule, in addition to the East Carolina-Guilford clash, calls for Lenoir Rhyne to meet Western Carolina at Cullowhee and Elon, which was idle last week, to play Catawba at Salisbury.

Buccaneers Seek Sixth Win Of Grid Season Against Guilford Quakers Here Tomorrow

East Carolina Whips Cats 26-7 To Spoil Homecoming

A rampaging band of East Carolina Pirates, their eyes set on the North State Conference title, walloped Western Carolina 26-7 Saturday night to spoil the losers' Homecoming festivities.

The win, which was the Pirates' fifth this season, also gave them a stranglehold on the conference lead with a 4-0 mark.

A Dick Cherry-to-Bobby Hodges pass opened the scoring for the Buccaneers, to climax a 70-yard drive early in the second period. Claude King kicked the point but Western Carolina bounced back to culminate a scoring drive of their own when Tommy Proctor scooted into the end zone from the Buc eight yard line. Jim Pappas kicked the point that gave the Catamounts a 7-7 tie at halftime.

Britt Scores

In the third period the Pirates got a 60-yard drive underway which ended as halfback Jack Britt smashed over for the TD. King missed the point, but the quarter ended with the score 13-6 in favor of Coach Jack Boone's unbeaten squad.

The fourth quarter saw the East Carolina offensive power manifest itself as Cherry hit halfback Paul Gay with a 25-yard scoring toss after the Bucs had driven 45 yards from their own 30. John Daughtry carried over from the two-yard line late in the game for the Pirates' final score.

Statistically speaking, the game belonged completely to the Pirates. The big and brutal Pirate eleven rolled up a hefty 270 yards rushing while holding Western Carolina to 97. The locals hit on five of 14 attempted passes while the Cats could complete only one of six for a net passing yardage of zero.

According to reliable sources, the scar-tissue was really flying last Saturday evening in uptown Cullowhee when the Buccaneers did brawl with the Catamounts of Western Carolina College.

The tape and bandage were right in the thick of things and the iodine and methiolate were pouring like Morton's salt. The Westerners were spitting in the Pirates' eye during the opening minutes and were playing football with the cold calculation of a gangster on a rampage.

Despite a 7-7 half-time score it was a different Buccaneer crew that took the turf to open the third period. Finally accustomed to the mountain air the Bucs' offensive rolled as easily as line-breakers in the cafeteria. When it was all over the Buccaneers left Catamounts hanging from the foremast, mainmast, mizzenmast and bowsprit. The 400-mile-plus voyage back carried 40 happily singing Pirates home with a well-earned 26-7 victory ribbon in their hair.

Next on the Pirates' hit parade is the Guilford game tomorrow night here in College Stadium.

In our opinion you're all wet if you don't heed to these tid-bits concerning the East Carolina Aquatic Club.

This year we are fortunate to have a few individuals with the kind of drive necessary to get things done. We are referring to a select group of young men who are sponsoring the Aquatic Club. This is in answer to the requests for an active swimming team and its success depends upon the entries from the student body. Experience is not necessary for faculty and student tutorage will be on hand. The club welcomes all boys to workouts in the college pool each afternoon.

Pirate Victory Will Assure Tie For NS Conference Crown

The Shape

Of Things To Come

We don't believe that anyone can look far enough into the future to foresee such things as Army's 14-13 win over the Duke Blue Devils, nor can they see such things as defensive minded Navy's offensive surge in the form of a 65-7 win over an unbeaten but overrated Princeton "Tiger." But, even considering these things our foresights held fairly true. If a baseball player bats .300 he's doing pretty good; we're batting .700.

If you're willing to read on, then—here's this week's prophetic outlook: ECC over Guilford by 7 points.

The Pirates move closer to the North State title.

Duke over N.C. State by 21 points.

The Blue Devils are sure to get this one, huh?

Georgia over North Carolina by 7 points.

Tar Heels will give it a good try—but, as it was once said—it's bigger than the both of us.

Notre Dame over Ga. Tech by 7 points.

Notre Dame's Guglielmi proves that something has to go.

Navy over Pennsylvania by 14 points.

After last week—what do you think?

Tennessee over Louisville by 21 points.

This should be fun—for the Vols anyway.

Wake Forest over Richmond by 14 points.

Demon Deacons catch Spiders in own web.

Maryland over Miami by 21 points.

Faloney and his Terps say "Yes, yes."

Army over Columbia by 13 points.

"Red" Blaik is a happy man AGAIN.

West Virginia over VMI by 14 points.

Keydets' Johnny Mapp struck down by Mountaineers' "White Lightning!" —DAE

Guilford's Quakers come to town tomorrow night to face a fired-up band of East Carolina Pirates who seem destined for their first North State Conference crown.

A small school with a still smaller squad Guilford nevertheless has a ball club capable of pulling some upsets. So far this season they have captured two sections and lost two. Their conference record is 1-1, good enough for fourth place in the seven-team loop.

The Quakes opened their season with a 14-12 win over Appalachian and then followed it up with a 7-6 win over Hampden-Sydney. The following week they lost to Emory and Henry, 21-14, and last Saturday bowled to Lenoir Rhyne by 25-14. Despite their blighted record, Guilford boasts one of the finest placement kickers in the nation. Substitute end Reuben Slade has booted perfect kicks following each Quaker score this season.

Despite the scrappy qualities of the visiting ball club, the Pirates will enter the contest as solid favorites. The locals, who own a 4-0 conference mark plus a 41-0 decision over Wilson Teachers College in the season's opener, can guarantee themselves at least a tie for the conference crown by posting a win. Biggest threat to the charges of Coach Jack Boone is Catawba College, the league's second place team which has a 2-1 loop mark.

The Buccaneer defense, which has given up only 38 points this season, will be headed by All-Conference tackle Willie Holland and such other standouts as Johnny Brown, George Tucker, David Lee, Don Barton, Bobby Hodges, Larry Rhodes and Lewis Hallow.

In the backfield the locals will start with Dick Cherry, outstanding Little All-America prospect from Washington, at quarterback, Claude King at fullback and Jack Britt and Paul Gay at the halves.

For the overall season (both in conference and out) the Pirates have scored a total of 159 points for an average of almost 32 per game against Guilford's 14 points per game.

A look at the record book shows that East Carolina and Guilford began football relations in 1933 with the Quakers taking a 32-0 win in the first game. Since that time, however, the Bucs have improved steadily to the point where they now hold a 4-3-1 average against the Quakers. Last year the locals, behind the pile driving of Claude King, blasted out a 41-0 victory.

to Hall. Henderson circled end for the tying point.

The final local score came on the first play of the last period with Henderson on the receiving end of Collier's pass. The extra point try failed.

With less than five minutes to play in the game George McKeever shook loose on a 75-yard scoring jaunt to tie the game. State elected to run for the point but the Pirate forward smothered the play before it could get started.

Baby Bucs, State, Tie 20-20

by Anwer Joseph

A fired-up East Carolina freshman squad overcame a 14-0 deficit to play the highly rated NC State frosh to a 20-20 tie at College Stadium October 15. Quarterback Milton Collier provided all three Pirate scores by passing twice to R. C. Hall and once to James Henderson.

State's Wolflets jumped away to a quick lead in the opening minutes of the first period when East Carolina's Bobby Gay was tackled in the end zone for a safety. The 2-0 lead was lengthened in the second quarter when State scored again after Boyd Hooper fumbled on the nine. Jerry Holt blocked the attempted placement.

Mid-way in the second quarter

State scored its second touchdown when fullback George McKeever climaxed a 74-yard drive by crossing the goal from the three.

The locals moved back in the game seconds before the halftime gun as Collier connected with Henderson on the State 7. On the following play Collier hit Hall in the end zone for the tally. Another Collier pass, this time to Thomas Brisson, was good to make the halftime score State 14, East Carolina 7.

Early in the third period the hard-charging Pirate line blocked a State kick on the visitors' 30-yard line. Collier passed to Henderson on the 7 for a first down and on the next play again tossed a scoring strike

College Students May Enter Freedom Foundation Contest

Freedom Foundation has announced subjects and awards for the 1953 American Way of Life contest. All college and university students are eligible to participate by submitting entries in the following categories: cartoons, essays, 2,000 words or less; photographs, with captions; radio programs, scripts or recordings; pageants; poems; and songs.

Cash, honor medals and certificates will be awarded for each category except the radio programs in which case the sponsor will receive an honor medal. Cash and honor medal awards are offered to colleges or to college groups striving for a school program based on the American Way of Life.

Entries must be mailed by November 11.

Included in the contest is a Senior Thesis-Academic Awards Program which is open to seniors only. The thesis, containing less than 5,000 words, must deal with one or more of the principles of the American Way of Life. The deadline for these entries is April 30.

The Freedom Foundation, established in 1949, is a non-political, non-profit organization.

Applications and other information may be obtained at Dean Leo Jenkins' office.

Why No Talent Show

There were many who turned out Monday night to see a talent show sponsored by the Circle K Club, but were disappointed.

Several have told us that we owe an explanation since we had the talent show listed in the campus calendar, so here 'tis:

Members of the Circle K had filed the program date in Dean Jenkins' office a few weeks ago. We obtained the campus calendar from the dean's office last week including the talent show. Monday afternoon of this week the club members canceled the date after discovering the music department had placed Tuesday and Wednesday for dates of their variety shows. Not wanting similar programs to run consecutively, the Circle K Club withdrew their date.

The "East Carolinian" sincerely hopes that the change did not cause serious inconveniences to anyone and will put forth efforts to guard against any other such occurrences in the future.

Industrial Arts Club Pledges Eight Members From College Campus

Eight students were initiated this week as members of the Industrial Arts Club of the college.

The club, sponsored by the Industrial Arts department, carries out during the school year a program of meetings and exhibitions of the work of student members. James LeRoy Henderson of Hubert, junior, is president; and Dr. Kenneth Bing, director of the department, is faculty advisor.

Local Methodist Host To Visiting District Members

Methodist students here on campus were hosts for the District No. 1 student conference held in the Fellowship Hall of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church October 17-18.

The conference began at 6:30 Saturday evening with a banquet prepared and served by the ladies of the Women's Society of the church.

Following the banquet a short business session presided over by the district chairman, Edwin Yancey, student at UNC. Rev. Joel Savell of UNC led a discussion group. Rev. Russell of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church was in charge of a Consecration Service.

On Sunday at 8 a. m. the groups had breakfast together and the Rev. Edwin Spann, Methodist chaplain at Duke, led the last discussion group. Conference adjourned after an address on "Christ Transforming Culture" by Dr. John D. Messick, president of East Carolina College.
