College Science Club Sponsors Annual Sadie Hawkins Day Event

Traditional Dogpatch
Chase, Dance On Tap
Saturday, November 21

by Anne George

The East Carolina Science Club will present their annual Sadie Hawkins day dance and race Saturday, November 21st.

Tickets for the dance will be on sale Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in the dining hall lobby, or can be obtained from any science club member. Tickets, bought in advance cost 30 cents, those bought at the door 50 cents.

Race At Fleming

The first event of the day will be the traditional Sadie Hawkins Day race, in which everyone is invited to participate. The racers will start at 10:00 a. m. behind Fleming Hall and proceed around the circle, ending up at the starting point. Every male will attempt to either outrun or outsmart the female pursuers. Marryin' Sam will be on hand to perform the ceremonies for the lucky gals and unlucky boys that are snared.

How It Started

This idea came about through legislative measure taken by one Sadie Hawkins, first mayor of Greensboro, a man who had more money than Boulder Dam. He was determined to get a husband for his daughter, Sadie—the homeliest girl in all their hills. All the eligible males had eluded Sadie's pursues until Pappy Hawkins not only resorted to law, but wrote it himself. He decreed that a foot race be run between all unwed men and widows, and that any man caught by a girl must marry her. Well, Sadie Hawkins showed a burst of speed like a jet fighter and got her man—and Dogpatch got a new holiday. This simple legend has become widespread throughout the country and re-created in real life to become a new national holiday.

A square dance will climax the day in Wright Auditorium that night at 8:00 o'clock. Music will be furnished by Jimmy Alexander and "his mountain boys."

Prizes will be given to the most original "Dogpatch" costumes, judged by three members of the science faculty. One will go to the best boy's costume and also one to the best girl. All favorite Dogpatch characters will be on hand with Kickapoo Jay Juice, corn-cob pipes, rabbit toques and anything else that is Dogpatch style, natchery.

Ray Kirby, president of the Science Club, has announced the following committee chairmen for the day: admissions, Giles Dail; decorations, Calvin Butt and Roy McGinnis; prizes, Ruby Underhill; publicity, Orville Civils; race, Fred Shelby and Evelyn Blount; and concession, Percy Bryson.

A letter has been received from Al Capp wishing the club "the best of luck and hoping everyone has a good time, Dogpatch style."

Campus Pianist Presents Recital Sunday Afternoon

Laura Frances Pope, pianist, will give a senior honor recital in Austin auditorium Sunday at 4 p. m.

She will be assisted by Carolyn Beethers at the organ.

The program, in three parts, will begin with three selections by Laura, "Song Without Words, Op. 38, No. 6" by Mendelssohn; "Impromptu, Op. 29" by Chopin; and "Beau Soir" by Debussy.

The second part will consist of three Bach selections by Miss Beethers: "Of Sacred Head," "In Dulce Jubilo," and two variations on "Be Thou Welcome."

The final portion will be devoted to a movement from the "Concerto in D Minor, Op. 23" by MacDowell, with Mr. Perry taking the orchestral part at the second piano.

Local Jeweler Talks

At the meeting of the Industrial Art Club Monday night in the Flanagan building, George Lautares, local jeweler, gave a talk on gems.

Students Elect All-American Today; SGA Discusses Contest

Students are voting today for a candidate for All College All American football team as a result of the action taken by the SGA Wednesday night. The winner from the Pirate football team will be backed in the contest sponsored by Philip Morris and Co.

A Philip Morris cigarette wrapper will count as one vote. A box has been set up in the "Y" shop for the deposit of these wrappers. Eleven players in the nation receiving the largest number of votes will be named as All College All American.

Members of the student body will have to "hustle," said Jim North, Philip Morris division manager, "but I feel that the students here and the team supporters in surrounding areas can organize together and elect a member of the Pirate team as All American." The contest ends November 30.

The student turning in the largest number of votes at the end of each week will receive a carton of cigarettes. Mr. North offered He suggested that the wrappers from each individual be tied together with the name of the depositor.

Named to a committee to handle the contest on campus were chairman Bill Pennel, Wade Jordan, Gene Russ, Anne Bowles, Betty Salmons and Bob Hilldrup.

College Signs

At the meeting Bob Pennington showed one of the three college signs to be erected soon. Inscribed on an aluminum alloy rectangular sign is "East Carolina College, Founded 1907," and in smaller letters, presented by the Students of 1952-53."

Two of the signs will be on Fifth Street, one near the Training School and the other near the entrance to Wilson Hall. The third sign will be on Tenth Street, near the Memorial Gymnasium.

Cost of the three signs was $624 which was paid by the SGA.

Florida Trip Off

Wade Cooper, chairman of the "Wheels to Florida" committee, reported that there were not enough students signed for the trip to justify arrangements with the railroad office. However, he added, "It doesn't mean that the students are not interested, for I believe there are about 100 going by car to support the team at Stetson Saturday."

SGA Treasurer Billy Laughinghouse announced that the Student Government had already spent about $2,500 of their appropriation of $5,000.

Home Economics Members Discuss Christmas Party

Plans were made for making candy and selling it in the dorms as a means of raising club funds, when the Home Economics Club met Tuesday night for their monthly meeting.

The annual Christmas party plans were discussed and the members decided to exchange small gifts among themselves. Plans were made to help a needy family by giving them food and suitable gifts to aid them to have a merry Christmas.

Dr. McNeil talked about her trip this summer and showed color slides which she made while in Europe attending the Eighth International Congress on Home Economics, held at McEwan Hall, University of Edinburgh.

Nancy Henderson was elected to take Mary Gillette's place as "East Carolinian" reporter, as Mary will be student teaching next quarter.

National President Sigma Alpha Iota Talks

Kathleen Davison, national president of Sigma Alpha Iota, national music sorority, will be on our campus November 9 and 10.

She will meet with music students interested in organizing a chapter on this campus. A dinner meeting and auditions are planned for Monday, November 9.

Dr. Jenkins Talks Peace In Armistice Address

"The sanctity of freedom, the true armistice, the end of all wars, lies in our heart," Dean Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina College told an audience of students and guests on the campus at an Armistice Day observance held Tuesday at noon in the Austin auditorium.

Cadets of the college Air Force ROTC and representatives of the local American Legion post took part in the program. The event has become an annual observance on the East Carolina campus.

Dean Jenkins pointed out as a paradox of modern life "man's triumph over nature in the sphere of theoretical and applied science and

Under the direction of Dr. Kenneth N. Cuthbert, head of the East Carolina College department of music, members of the Varsity Men's Glee Club will be on the program in the fall concert, Sunday, November 22, with the East Carolina College Orchestra. The Glee Club is composed of approximately 60 men students.

Hossfield Speaks To Business Ed Student Audience

George L. Hossfield, ten times winner of the world's Professional Championship in typing and a consultant on typewriting methods and techniques, gave a lecture and demonstration to business education students at East Carolina College yesterday in the College Theatre.

Alton Finch, faculty member of the department of business education, was in charge of arrangements for the demonstration. Mr. Hossfield spoke to his audience, composed largely of future teachers of business education, on "Modern Teaching Methods to Develop Typing Skill" and in both his talk and his demonstration of typing techniques placed emphasis on the importance of the electric typewriter in modern business offices.

An author and lecturer, Mr. Hossfield is director of Underwood Corporation's Teachers Advisory Service. He has written numerous articles on the subject of typewriting; is the author of a widely used one hand typing text for the handicapped; and has lectured in schools, colleges and universities, and at important business teachers conventions throughout the United States and Canada.

At present he is making an educational lecture-demonstration tour, during which he will visit teacher-training colleges and universities in various parts of the country.

Mr. Hossfield, who types about 154 words a minute, is featured in Underwood's latest 16mm film release "Ten Copies, Please," and in "Tips on Typing." He also acted as technical director of the popular educational film, "The Duties of a Secretary," which has been seen by more than five million students of typing.

Thanksgiving Program

The Inter-Religious Council is sponsoring a Thanksgiving service Sunday, November 22 at 7 in Austin auditorium. The visiting speaker will be Dr. W. R. Cullom, professor emeritus of religion at Wake Forest College.

Others participating in the program will be W. Parker Marks and Richard Ottaway, students at East Carolina. Monteen Weststead, also a student at East Carolina, will sing "Rejoice Greatly." George Perry will serve as organist.

Dr. Carl Harris, director of religious activities, invites all students, faculty members and the public in general to attend this service.

Johnson Reports On Thomas Wolfe At Lecture Club

Thomas Wolfe, eminent North Carolina writer, provided the subject of discussion at the November meeting of the Faculty Lecture Club Tuesday evening of this week.

Dr. Elmer D. Johnson, associate librarian at the college, was speaker of the evening. A collector of publications by Wolfe, he chose as his topic "Thomas Wolfe, or the Trials and Tribulations of a Book Collector."

Dr. Johnson said that he first became interested in Wolfe while attending the University of North Carolina. There, he stated, in the early 1930's Wolfe had already become a "legendary figure" and students were eagerly reading "Look Homeward, Angel."

Tracing briefly the biography of the famous Asheville writer, Dr. Johnson told some of his experiences as a collector of materials on Wolfe. He illustrated his remarks by displaying such items from his collection as first editions, first printings, foreign editions and association items.

Desertion On Week Ends

Beginning at 12 noon Friday and lasting until about Sunday, 8 p.m., this campus has the look of a "ghost town." All signs of life have deserted. A few students, who have a dull, bored air, remain.

Why the desertion on week ends? Some students complain that there is nothing to do. But have these students looked in the catalogue and student handbook to see what East Carolina has to offer in week end entertainment?

A movie is shown free every Saturday night except when there is a ball game posted for that night, then the cinema comes on Friday night. The tennis courts are available in the afternoons and the gym is at the students' disposal at any time. The Pirates' den is open for ping-pong, dancing, playing the piano, checkers, card-playing, shuffle-board and dart throwing.

There are student centers sponsored by various religious denominations that offer group singing, ping-pong, refreshments and other wholesome fun. If the student has exhausted these sources of social life, he can always resort to the soda shop and the library. Entertainment at the library: Believe it or not, but it is full of entertainment—best-selling novels, newspapers and magazines of various interests.

Why not take the three-day test? Stay at East Carolina one week end and take advantage of the entertainment offered to see for yourself that there's no better place for week end fun.

It's The Thoughtful Generation

(From the Nebraska, University of Nebraska)
Let's try our hand at psychoanalyzing the younger generation.

Let's give it a name, too. And when we're through, let's tell the oldsters so they can stop worrying about us—for they are worried.

The first and biggest symptom of this worry was a survey by Time magazine. The resulting label for us was "silent." The name proved so interesting and catching that college professors still use it.

Latest in the series of worriers is the New York Times. Recently four pages of its magazine section were devoted to "Portrait of the Korean Veteran."

The article calls the Korean vet "polite, even timid . . . a different breed" from the World War II veterans. He is confused and frustrated about the "end of the war in which both sides are claiming victory. Yet," the article continues, "even these reactions don't seem to reach very deeply . . . what stands out vividly . . . is an amazing amalgam of first class fighting competence and an almost eerie disinterest in a job or surroundings or relationships."

Obviously the main point of the portrait is the lack of interest Korean vets had toward the war. Even the "re-treads" didn't get steamed up. This coincides with the point everyone makes about us, the younger generation. We don't get excited. We view life with an outward calm which the older generation finds distressing.

Let's suggest to the worriers, the namers, the analysts that the explanation is so simple they've missed it. Let's suggest that we have replaced the blatant, outward individuality of their generations with individuality of mind.

Let's remind them of the intensely machine-like character of the world we grew up in and suggest that we accept this and try to go above it—not fight it.

Let's really shock those concerned about "What's Wrong With Youth" by simply saying, "There's nothing wrong. We've just grown up sooner than you realize."

Let's say, "The only trouble is that you don't recognize maturity when it occurs in youth."

Then let's add for good measure, "We may be 'silent.' It's just because we're thinking instead of talking. If you must have a name for us, why 'The Thoughtful Generation'?"

Ye Editor's Say

by T. Parker Maddrey

Honesty exists on the East Carolina campus! So says Billy Laughinghouse, treasurer of the Student Budget office.

A few weeks ago a student came into the office reporting that he had lost his identification card and so he was given a temporary pass to the next athletic program. An hour later he returned the pass saying that he had recovered his idea card.

But this isn't the end of the story. Last week when the office was checking its books, it found itself 40 cents short. Soon after the shortage was discovered, the same student re-entered the office and said, "Here's 40 cents too much you gave me on that check you cashed for me."

Twice the student had an opportunity to profit, but did not. For such a display of honesty, this student could be named as East Carolina's Honor Student of the Week.

There will be no paper next Friday, but there will be one the following Tuesday, November 24.

We regret the delay in that issue, but we plan to put out a lot of worthwhile reading matter. That issue will contain six pages with two pages being the first Magazine Section of the "East Carolinian."

A lot of students have turned in some creative writings for this section. We hope that their work will entertain our student readers as well as providing an outlet for student creative writing.

Old cars are not only low in value, but are hard to get rid of, so finds Bruce Wormald, a Columbia University student, who has been having car trouble for more than two years now.

It began back in 1951, when the engine of his 1936 model automobile conked out near New York City's Welfare Island. Unable to get the car started again, Wormald pushed it into a secluded corner and left it parked.

This month he received a warning letter from Welfare Island officials. They wanted him to retrieve his deserted car. So he saw a friend went back to the island and, failing to start the motor running, they pushed the vehicle off a 24-foot cliff and into the ocean.

An alert doctor saw the car being dumped, though, and notified the police. Now the two students are being charged with "dumping refuse into New York City waters in violation of the Sanitary Code," and the police are grappling for Wormald's white elephant.

American students are facing the draft and the demands of the cold war much more realistically now than they did in 1951.

This is the conclusion of a Cornell University study based on 4,600 responses from students at 11 colleges and universities.

"Because of the uncertainty of military service, and the generally unsettled atmosphere," the report says, more was very low in 1951. But now a majority of students (79 per cent of those questioned) agree that "military service probably will be good for me in some ways."

Most students will return to college if called into the service before they complete their academic work, and the prospect of going into the service seems to make getting good grades more important.

Dr. Hubert A. Coleman of the social studies department states: "A girl who is a nit-wit is nice to cuddle-wit."

This Week's Movie

by Faye O'Neal

Jean Simmons and Robert Mitchum play the leads in "Angel Face," which is, according to most critical movie reviewers, one of the most memorable film performances ever. Miss Simmons is anything but an angel as she portrays a spoiled rich girl role and demolishes everything that proves an obstacle to her self-centered existence.

The movie may be compared to a Shakespearean tragedy if the conclusion is any criteria for comparison. After plotting and successfully carrying out the murder of her stepmother, and accidentally including her father in on the deal, the bitter pangs of remorse begin to go to work on the brat and in a fit of anger inspired by Mitchum, who is the family chauffeur, she finishes the perfect crime by committing suicide.

Barbara O'Neil and Herbert Marshall play the roles of father and mother to the girl with the "angel" face. The movie, which will be shown at 7 p.m. Saturday in Austin auditorium, is recommended for those who like to believe that life is a terribly mixed up affair.

Who's Who Among Students At East Carolina

Primary Major Enjoys 'Being With People'

by Kay Johnston

"I love working with the 'Y' and being with people," says Ann Butler, a senior from Greenville.

Ann, a primary major, plans to graduate this May, and will do her student teaching this spring. "I love children," says Ann, "and one of the most interesting experiences I've ever had was operating a 'day nursery' during the summer months in 1951. My girl friend Judy and I ran the nursery and called it the 'Judy-Ann Play Club.' We all had a wonderful time. I also enjoyed taking the kindergarten course here, under Miss Murray."

Ann is one of the students of East Carolina who has been chosen as "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." The selection is made on the basis of the student's excellence and sincerity in scholarship, leadership and participation in extra-curricular and academic activities, citizenship and service to the school and promise of future usefulness to business and society.

Ann has been a very active member of the YWCA. During her freshman year she was the 'Y' songleader, her sophomore year she was treasurer during her junior year she was secretary, and this year she is night-watch committee co-chairman. Ann was also a delegate to the YWCA conference her sophomore and junior years. "I always have much fun at the conferences," Ann states, "but I especially had fun at the Blue Ridge Conference in Asheville this summer. We even did a little hitch-hiking! (In a group of course.)"

Besides her YWCA activities, Ann has also been a very outstanding church worker. In her freshman year she was on the westminister Fellowship council an organization for Presbyterian college students. In her sophomore and junior years she has served on the Religious Emphasis Week Committee, and will serve again this year.

Ann is very fond of traveling and her greatest ambition at this moment, is to take a trip to California to see her new little niece.

A well-rounded student, Ann has been a member of many organizations on campus. She was a member of the Teachers Playhouse her junior year and has been a member of the Association for Childhood Education for the past three years. She is also a member of the Future Teachers of America and this year she is working on the college annual, "Bucaneer." Besides being well rounded, Ann is also talented in the singing field and is a member of the college singers vocal group.

Ann served on the Dormitory House Committee her freshman year, and was president of the Sophomore Dormitory Counselors her sophomore year. Also during her sophomore year, Ann was student Government representative. As vice-president of the Junior Class Ann had a big responsibility and did a commendable job.

"I don't know what will take place in the future," Ann says, "but I do know that if life is filled with as much happiness as I've had at East Carolina, then I will really have something to look forward to."

Spends 12 Years In Moscow

Newsman Views Kremlin Life

(ACP)—Americans are overestimating Russia's war potential, according to Eddy Gilmore, just returned from 12 years as Associated Press correspondent in Moscow.

Speaking to more than 500 college newsmen at the Associated Collegiate Press conference in Chicago, Gilmore predicted "crumbling from within" and foresaw no immediate danger of war with the Soviets. Asked about the hydrogen bomb, he replied "I may be the greatest optimist in the world, but I think we've overestimated that, too."

Gilmore described the Moscow situation as "a conning the people war" and the feeling of being spied upon constantly. "Don't underestimate the melodrama about telephones being tapped and people being followed," he said. "Wherever he went, there was always a carload of little men in blue suits" close behind.

He marveled at Malenkov's "very penetrating black eyes" and said, "He looks to me to be the man in charge." Still he added, "the government of Malenkov is not a strong one."

He said he didn't know for sure, however, because he is not an expert.

"There is no such thing as an expert—just varying degrees of ignorance." As for Russia's inward crumbling Gilmore pointed to a decadent factory and farm system. "Joseph Stalin was an evil genius," he said. "I doubt that Malenkov has the talent that man had."

The Pulitzer prize winning reporter said he will never forget the day Stalin died — "I knew I had one of the great news stories of the world."

"One evening I noticed not a car going or coming out of the Kremlin," he recalled, "and I said to my wife 'I think Uncle Joe's had it.'"

Stalin was hated, not idolized, Gilmore told the college newsmen, and many of his mourners "just came down to make sure he was dead."

Gilmore said he doesn't think the Russians would keep their end of a non-aggression pact with the United States, but that "it wouldn't hurt to sit down with them." He termed the distribution of food parcels in East Germany "the smartest thing we've done in a long, long time."

One hundred and fifty-nine schools from 36 states were represented in the audience.

Roomless Asks:

Who Says Early Bird Gets Worm?

by Pat Humphrey

Ding! Ling! Ling! Ling! Susie sat upright and quickly cut off the alarm. Yawning, she slowly dragged herself out of bed and absently washed her face. Her roommate, Bonnie, evidently hadn't heard the alarm for she was still sleeping peacefully.

"Bonnie, wake-up. It's five a. m. and we haven't got any time to lose!"

Bonnie opened one eye and murmured, "Huh."

"I said for you to get up. We can't be late," replied Susie who already was half dressed.

Bonnie hopped out of bed and quickly threw on her clothes. After giving her hair a quick brushing, she made up her bed and grabbed her billfold.

"Gosh, Susie, the line is already long. We must hurry."

Susie snatched her wallet and hurried Bonnie out the door.

The two girls then left their dormitory and rushed down to Jarvis where a long line had already formed.

"Gee, do you think we'll get a room?" asked Susie, a look of doubt who was having difficulty in keeping her eyes open.

"We can only hope," replied Bonnie her eyes open.

After standing for what seemed hours, the girls finally reached the office of Jarvis. Imagine their dismay and disgust when Miss White dean of women handed them each a small slip of paper marked 99th and 100th respectively.

"I'm sorry, girls," said Miss White with a smile, "but you should have been a little sooner."

Which goes to show that the early bird doesn't necessarily always get the worm.

Couple Of The Week

by Evelyn Blount

Hey! You people who've been griping about eating in the dining hall. Maybe it's not as bad as you think. That's where this couple, Freddie Kendrick from Henderson and Bob Pennington from Rocky Mount first began to notice each other last March. It seems Bob wanted a date with Freddie, but was too shy to ask for it so he made arrangements with a mutual friend. Some friend, huh!

Freddie and Bob enjoy doing many things together such as swimming, boating, movies, dances, and (its a good thing they enjoy this last one, especially in Greenville) walking in the rain.

Says Bob, "There's one advantage in going steady. At the end of the quarter you have the privilege of penetrating the inner sanctity of the girls' dorm to carry your girls' bags to the car. Like the true gentleman you are you can hardly refuse."

Freddie says, "My first impression of Bob was that he was cute and nice." Bob said the same about Freddie so we guess that proves the old adage "Great minds run together."

Bob says, "You should have seen me the first time I met Freddie's parents. I was scared to death. Good thing they had a TV set to look at. I'd have looked like a fool staring at the floor all night. Somehow, whenever I go to see Freddie, I always manage to get lost in the huge city of Louisville."

This summer Freddie was in Jacksonville, Fla., and Bob was at camp in Valdosta, Ga. "It wasn't too bad," says Freddie. "He called twice a week and came down on weekends."

When asked about interesting experiences they looked at each other and burst out laughing. "Perhaps, the funniest thing that happened," says Bob, "is the time we supposedly went fishing (without any fishing gear) and the boat gave out of gas. Dad was waiting for the boat, too. Oh, well! He can go fishing anytime."

"If you think we're busy now, you should come in sometime when it ain't final week."

POT POURRI

by Emily S. Boyce

Three recent newspaper items on the subject of automobiles have a common element. The first is an ad of a well known make of car showing a girl and a boy on the way to a ball game with this notation: "For a rocketing good time take off for the kickoff in a 'rocket' Holiday! It's the best seat to the game, the best seat to go anywhere for that matter. You'll thrill to the surging might of the magnificent rocket engine. Best of all you'll ride in a car whose gay spirit fits every gala day." Yes, the take-off is always gay.

At the same time Mr. Scheidt sits in his office in Raleigh planning ways and means to cut down accidents in North Carolina. After experimenting three months he feels only slightly encouraged to believe that his program will be a success.

On the other hand Time says that William Harper of Pasadena, Calif., physicist-consultant on auto accidents, has investigated 3,000 smash-ups. He has come to a basic conclusion: "We have spent too damn much time worrying about the cause of accidents. It's time we started worrying about the cause of injuries."

According to Harper's studies, 50 to 60 per cent of injuries are due to people being thrown against the inside of the car. Twenty to 30 per cent are due to people being thrown out of the car and only 10 to 20 per cent injured by crushing of the passenger space.

Harper suggests the use of safety belts as a sure way to avoid injury usually. The manufacturers of autos could easily attach the seats so firmly that they cannot come loose and toss the passengers into the windshield. The dashboard could be padded properly and removal of the various little projections on the dash is a must.

With safety belts and a few improvements in the design of a car, Harper believes, "We can have a world where there may be accidents, which are normal when you put men in machines, but where there will be only rare injuries."

Taking these reports into consideration—just how can we enjoy our high powered cars safely?

This column just did make the press due to the near death of its author while attempting to cross from the soda shop to Austin. It was remarked that the ECC campus is on its way to becoming a state speedway. Don't think these remarks are groundless. Just try to cross the road on the way to class; you'll be fortunate if you are not practically run down in your tracks by a Fire-Dome, Model T or a reliable Ford. These autos seem to appear out of nowhere. The high rate of speed at which the car owners drive their machines around campus is developing into a public menace. Let's slow down, please!

Once an opinion is formed, it takes dynamite to change it.

Promptness is a penalty we gladly pay because it relieves one from uttering those apologetic clichés.

You can buy plugs for your ears to block out unpleasant sounds when a bed. Compared to men, women buy them three for one. The women dislike snoring husbands, loud radios, growling trucks and crying babies.

More Consideration May Be Answer To Promote Friendlier Relations

by David Evans

Lack of consideration is the main reason for friction among students, as a whole. Of course, there are numerous other reasons but this one stands out above the others by a large margin. More than that, it is the hardest to understand. Why students fail to show consideration for others is based upon one thing and one thing only; that is the malignant growth and prevalence of jealousy and selfishness. Literally, there is no excuse for this according to the rules of better relations, but it still remains. So, this lack of consideration is here; that's one thing. The main thing is to get rid of it.

At present, this is thought to be the friendliest campus in the state. From all outward appearances, this is true; but one can't see behind this scene without viewing the situation first.

Everybody walks around with a broad smile on their face, speaking to everyone and giving a favorable impression to anyone who sees it. This is very good and every student pertained to should be complimented on their outward appearance. But, in another sense, and in a vast number of cases, behind that smile is a sneer of contempt. What that sneer is for, no one knows except the one sneering. Possibly it is for a jealous feeling brought on by something someone said or did. Or it could be that the person receiving the sneer has accomplished something that he conceivably didn't deserve. Then, from the other side maybe the sneerer is thinking only of himself and no one else, therefore the dominating factor that appears prevalent the campus over. And, finally, maybe the dominant person feels himself to be superior over the other students he meets or associates with.

This situation can bear changing and can be changed only by the students. It is something that should be done and, bearing the intelligence of the students of this campus in mind, it will be done. It all depends upon the willingness of the students to put forward a little effort in the right direction.

Lack of consideration doesn't concern everyone, but it concerns a few. That few it does concern is too many for our campus. After all this is East Carolina College—the best in the state. How about it?

SPORTS ECHO

by Bob Hilldrup

By the time this issue of the "East Carolinian" appears the football squad and many members of the student body will be in Florida representing our school at Stetson University.

At halftime in the Tampa-East Carolina game last week the Spartans' announcer told local listeners that "it's been a long time since we've had as fine a bunch of boys here." Let's hope that not only the squad but the members of the student body will make the same impression at Deland.

Although the Bucs lost in scoring last week at Tampa, we understand that they won as far as prestige is concerned. It now appears that the Sunshine State has learned something many people in North Carolina aren't aware of—that East Carolina fields a football squad capable of holding its own with virtually all comers.

The Tampa fans had heard quite a bit concerning Dick Cherry and were mightily impressed with the brand of play the Pirates displayed while operating without the services of their most effective quarterback. But don't take credit away from Boyd Webb and Milton Collier, both boys turned in creditable games despite the fact that neither had been able to record a great deal of playing time previously.

We would venture to say that the majority of the fans who listened to the Tampa-East Carolina broadcast were not too pleased with the play-play broadcast of Larry Carr. It was rather difficult at times to tell just who had the ball and where it was located but just the same East Carolina students owe the sponsors a vote of thanks for putting the game on the air.

Nothing definite has been released concerning another game—Thanksgiving or New Year's—for the Buccaneers schedule. Should the locals manhandle Stetson tomorrow then quite possibly a bowl bid may be forthcoming. Whether or not East Carolina would accept such a bid, however, has not, as yet, been decided.

Tampa University Upsets Buccaneers 18-13 As Rhodes, Barnes Score TD's

by Anwer Joseph

Buc Cagers Continue Practice As Opening Contest Draws Nearer

According to head basketball coach Howard Porter the future for the East Carolina Pirates is looking very good as the opening game slowly approaches. He has had the team through several successful and convincing scrimmages.

With the loss of the Bucs' big man, Bobby Hodges, for the first game, the brunt of the attack will rest on six, and possibly seven, of the present team members. These probabilities include Charles Huffman, Cecil Heath, J. C. Thomas, Don Harris, Fred Anders and Paul Jones, with the possibility of Waverly Akins.

Squad members worthy of Porter's comment were Charlie Huffman and Waverly Akins who have shown up very well in recent scrimmages. The team will continue to have frequent scrimmages until the opening game with Belmont-Abbey at Belmont on December 1.

Extra Contest For Buc Slate Still Unknown

"When" and "with whom" were still the questions with regard to a Thanksgiving Day game or a possible Bowl bid for the East Carolina Pirates.

As of the first of the week no definite word had been released by the Athletic Department with regard to a Thanksgiving contest.

Whether or not officials of the Cigar Bowl, who were on hand as the Pirates dropped their first contest of the 1958 season to Tampa University Saturday night, are still interested in securing East Carolina for a post-season classic could not be learned. In all probability, however, representatives of at least one bowl will be on hand tomorrow night when the Bucs close out their regular schedule at Stetson.

Tampa University tumbled East Carolina College from the thin ranks of the nation's undefeated and untied Saturday night in a surprising upset by a score of 18-13. The contest was played at Phillips Field in Tampa.

East Carolina, hampered by the loss of Little All-America candidate Dick Cherry, scored twice in the third period, but never could come closer than the final five point margin. The first TD came when Boyd Webb tossed a scoring pass to right end Larry Rhodes. Teddy Barnes dashed 55 yards for the second Pirate tally.

Tampa, which had scored twice in the second period, tallied again in the third session to put the game on ice.

East Carolina's loss was costly in more ways than one. First it brought a halt to the season's record of seven consecutive wins, and also lessened chances for a bowl bid.

Gay Injured

In the injured department, however, the Bucs paid an even higher price. Paul Gay, star right halfback, was sent to the sidelines for the remainder of the season with a knee injury. End J. D. Bradford and tackle Sonny Callahan were both put out of action due to ankle injuries.

Spartans Tally

Tampa's first score came in the opening minutes of the second quarter when fullback Tom Speck crossed the goal from the nine. The touchdown climaxed a 12 yard drive which started when the Spartans recovered an East Carolina fumble.

Minutes later the Pirates, failing to gain, punted out to Tampa. Al Leathers, in double safety with Charles Harris for the Spartans, faked a handoff, raced to his left and dashed 70 yards to score.

East Carolina threatened only once in the first half and that drive stopped on the 20 when Tampa intercepted an errant pass.

Mid-way in the third period, with Cherry having entered the game, Rhodes snagged a 14 yard heave from the Washington sophomore for the Bucs' first tally. The extra point attempt was wide. Tampa retaliated however on a pass from quarterback Tom Minhand to Charlie Harris.

Barnes Scores

East Carolina's last touchdown came late in the third period when Teddy Barnes crashed over tackle and raced 55 yards to score. Bubber Matthews added the point and the score changed to 18-13 with five minutes to play in the period.

Neither team scored in the fourth quarter although the Pirates threatened twice. One drive was halted on the Spartan five yard line and another on the ten.

The yardstick:

	ECC	Tampa
First Downs	12	7
Net Yds. Rushing	94	117
Yds. Passing	85	49
Passes Attempted	19	10
Passes Completed	9	3
Passes Intercepted	1	4
Punts	5	5
Punting Average	31	33
Fumbles Lost	1	3
Yds. Penalized	20	80

It was an over-powering band of Spartans that kept the Buccaneers off balance the entire evening. East Carolina, with the eyes of the New Year's Day officials glued to their every move, went the distance without the services of Dick Cherry and Claude King. It was indeed a sad moment when the closing whistle sounded and found the Pirates on the short end of a 18-13 score. The boys gave it all they had and never once slowed up. Somehow the players feel indebted to the student body for losing to Tampa, but we all know the esteem and honor they have already bestowed upon East Carolina is a higher tribute than any ever before in the college's history.

This weekend the vengeance-bent Boonemen once again railway into Florida for a meet with highly-regarded Stetson University. Last year the Pirates tangled the score with the renown Hatters and this year with the Tampa defeat burning them the East Carolinians will be spitting fire.

Playing without Paul Gay, Sonny Callahan and J. D. Bradford will definitely be a tremendous handicap but the purple and gold will be gunning for extra-special win number eight. Gay, who last year pulled the game out of the fire with his momentous 88-yard streak for the knotting touchdown, will see the game as a spectator because of a serious knee injury. The latter twosome may see brief action but it's doubtful.

Dick Cherry, the heart in the Pirate function all year, is expected to be able to go against the Hatters but with limitations. He is still recuperating from a badly twisted knee received in the Appalachian game. If the little quarterbacking genius holds up, then watchout Sol-tanned citizens because the Pirates are coming to town.

It is practically concluded now that this will be East Carolina's last contest in as prosperous a season as we have witnessed in many a day. When you meet one of the Pirates off the battlefield, go up and shake his hand. You should feel honored for this year's team has been the most commendable edition in the school's athletic history.

Locals Close Out Schedule As Cherry Returns To Action

New NAIA Trophy Now Being Shown In Lobby Of Gym

by David A. Evans

Coach Howard Porter, head basketball mentor, announced this week that the trophy received by last year's team for their participation in the NAIA tournament in Kansas as the District 26 winners of the NAIA group, is now on display in the college trophy case in the foyer of the gym.

The trophy was received over a month ago but since it was broken in shipping it was returned to be fixed. It was received again last week and is now on display.

The new trophy is approximately two feet in height and has a flat stained wood base that stands about four inches high; on top of that is a circular base of a pearl-like appearance. Rising from that is a gold plated ribbed column about 12 inches tall, and on top of that is a gold plated basketball approximately four inches in diameter with a plaque on the side inscribed, "NAIA Basketball Championship 1953." Topping the trophy off is a unique gold plated basketball player some five inches in height.

Other trophies found in the display case, donated recently by the EPO "service" fraternity, are for golf and volleyball. The golf trophy is from 18"20" high topped by a golf player and inscribed, "North State IAC Champions 1953." The volleyball trophy was recently won by the Women's Athletic Association in the Annual Playday ceremony at Greensboro.

The rest of the space in the showcase is taken up by pictures of this year's football team.

Another trophy is expected to be given the East Carolina football team for being the North State Football Champions of 1953.

Still smarting from their first loss of the season, an 18-13 setback at the hands of Tampa University last Saturday, the East Carolina Pirates have once more entrained for Florida where they will meet Stetson University's Hatters tomorrow at Deland. Dick Cherry, the Bucs' sophomore quarterback, who has pitched 16 scoring strikes this year, will be back in the line-up for the contest. Cherry missed all but a very few moments of the Tampa game due to a knee injury.

Despite the fact that Cherry will be able to play, the locals will be without the services of three top-notch performers. Tackle Sonny Callahan, end J. D. Bradford and starting halfback Paul Gay all will probably miss the contest because of injuries suffered in the Tampa game. Gay especially will be sorely missed, to wit was the slippery speedster's 88 yard punt return in the closing moments of last year's game at Deland which gave the Bucs a 19-19 tie with the Stetson squad.

On the basis of seasonal records the Hatters will probably rule as slight favorites when kickoff time rolls around. Earlier in the season Stetson pinned a 13-7 setback on the Tampa eleven.

Starting for the Buccaneers in the backfield will be Cherry, Topsy Hayes and Jack Britt, halfbacks, and Claude King at full. Bobby Hodges, the giant end who has snared ten touchdown passes, will anchor one end of the locals' line with Larry Rhodes, an underrated performer, as the other flankman.

Willie Holland and Johnny Brown will be at the tackles, David Lee and Don Burton at the guards and Lewis Hollow at center. Players who stood out in the line against Tampa are expected to see action in the Bucs' final game include George Tucker, and Ray Overton.

Already champions of the North State Conference, the Buccaneers were being heralded for an unbeaten campaign before last week's upset. In eight contests this season the locals have tallied 253 points against 56 for the opposition.

League Teams Suffer Defeats

Reversal of form was the order of the day for North State Conference grid teams last week as the East Carolina Pirates sustained their first defeat and Western Carolina recorded its first win.

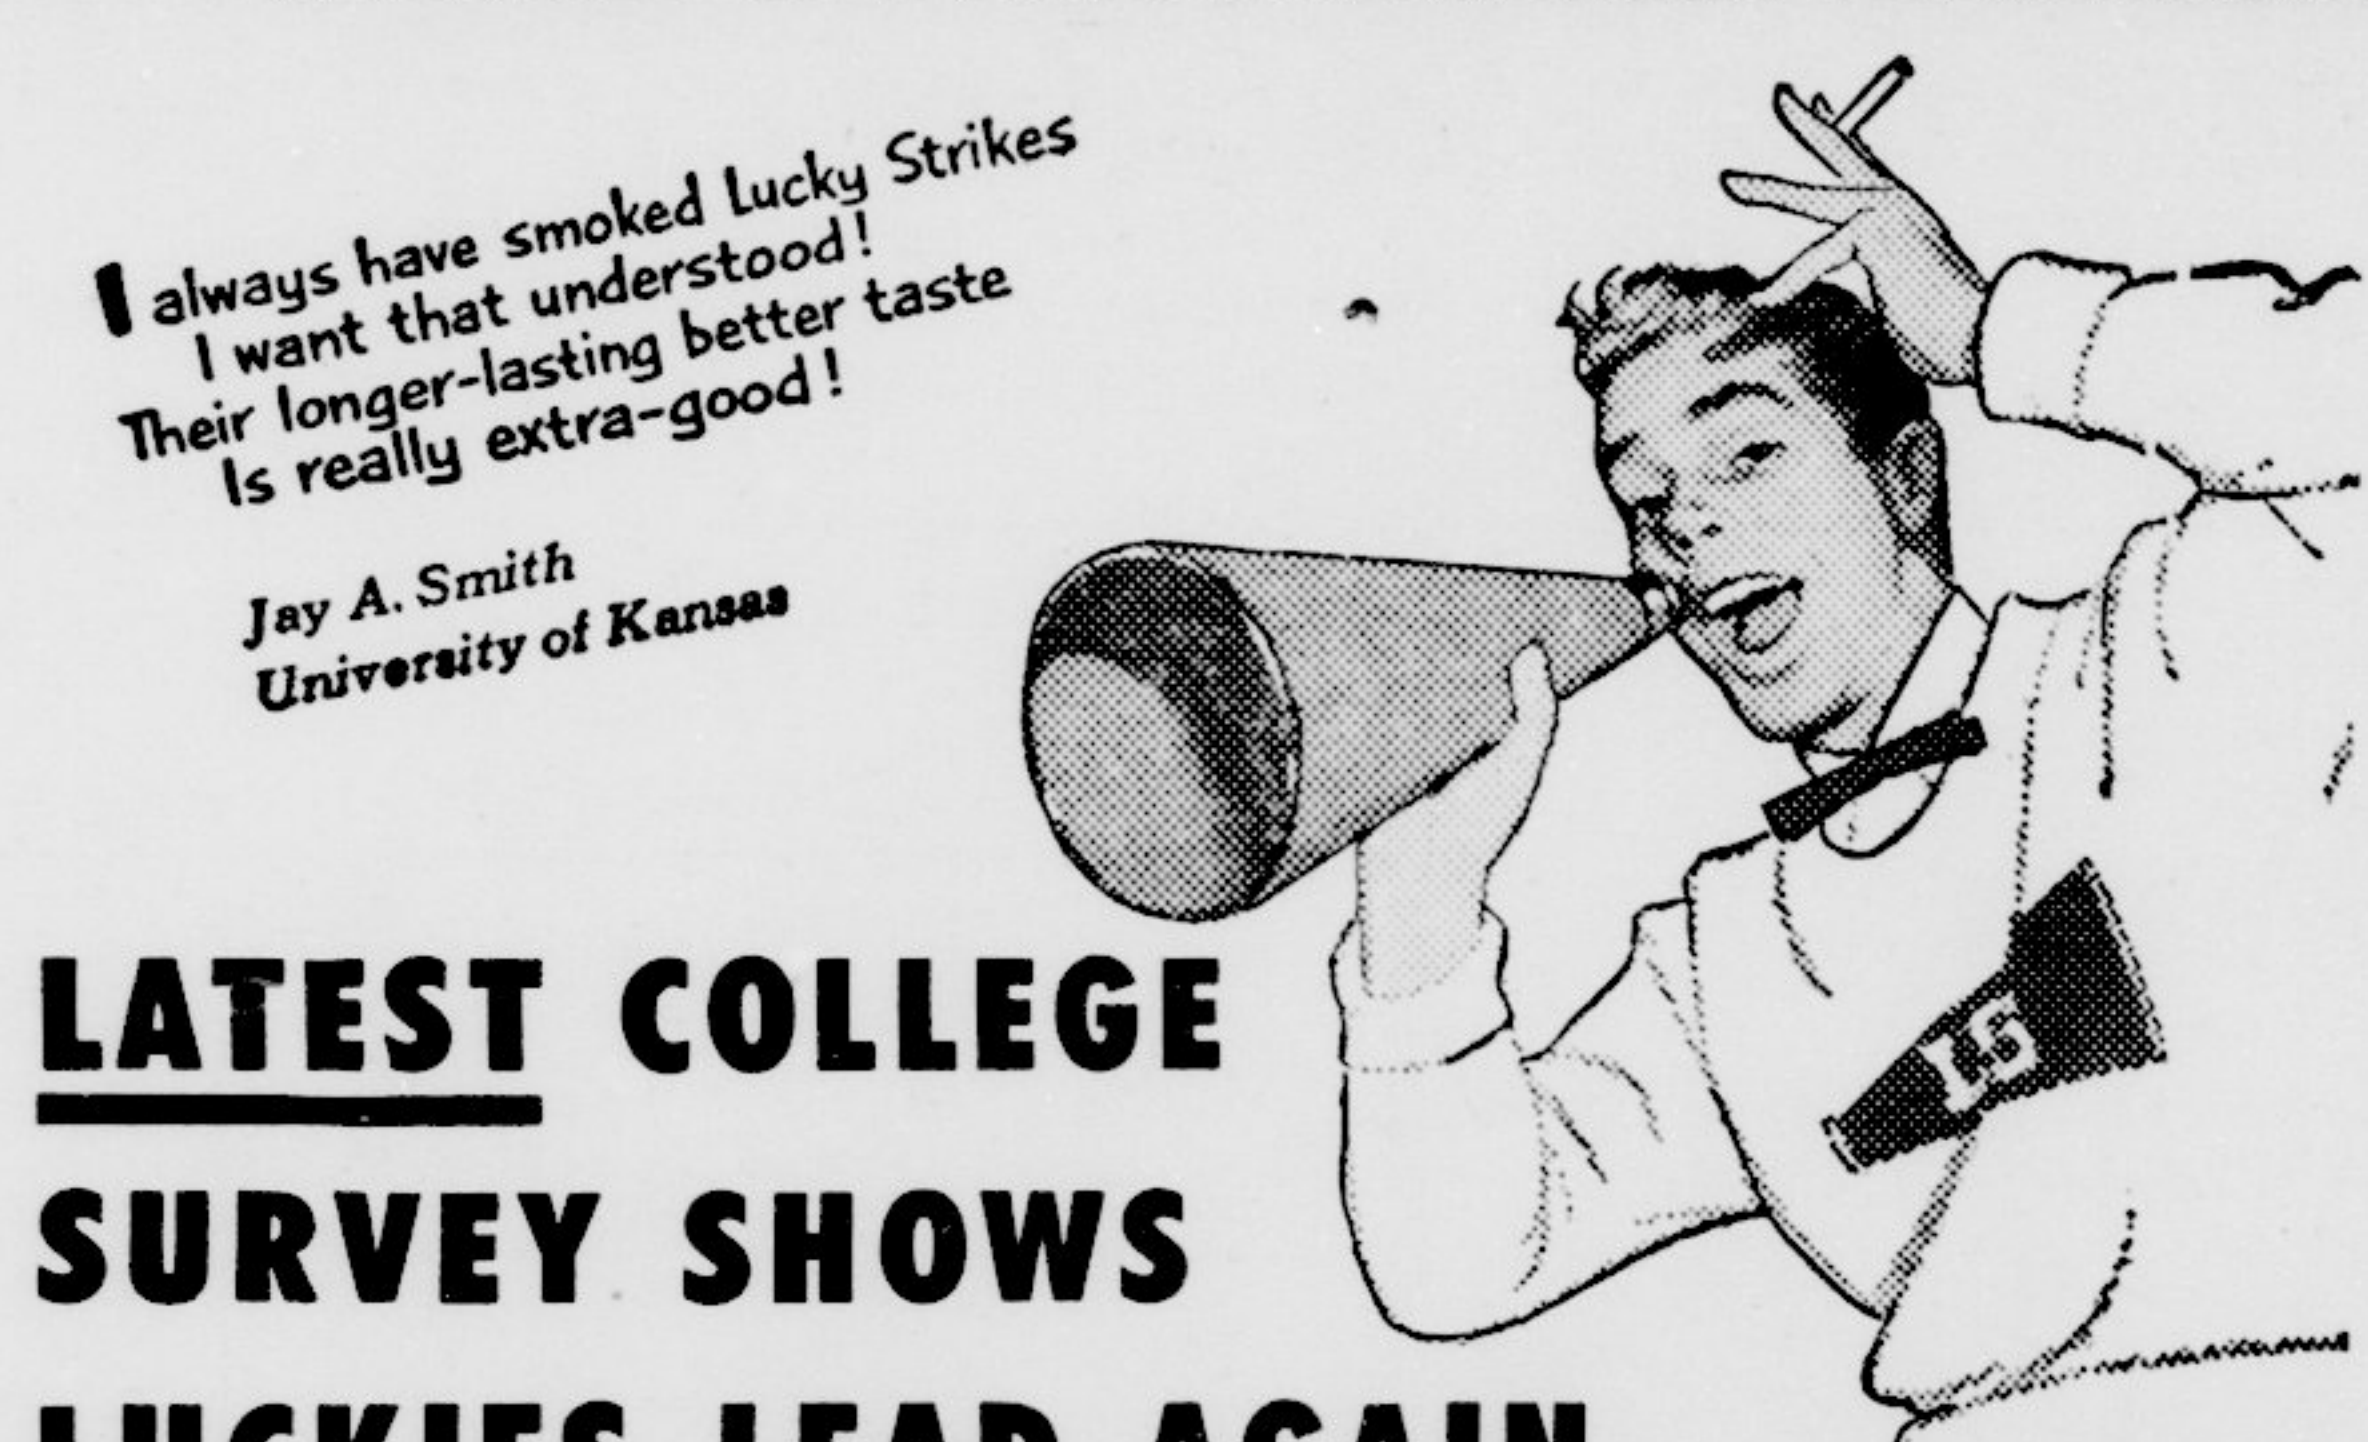

The Pirates, who had marched to seven wins this season, dropped an 18-13 thriller to Tampa University on the victors' field. Western Carolina however, surprised everyone, including themselves, by posting an 18-7 win over Emory and Henry. Appalachian bowed to East Tennessee 21-19, Catawba lost to Western Carolina 14-6 and Newberry slaughtered Lenoir Rhyne 33-6. Guilford and Lenoir Rhyne tied.

Tomorrow's schedule calls for Guilford to play Catawba, Western Carolina to meet Lenoir Rhyne at Hickory in the only home contests. Western Carolina's season at Presbyterian is at Morris Hill and Carolina returns to Stetson's Hatters.

International Educator Speaks On Foreign Students Studies

Laura Barney, a representative of the Institute of International Education, New York City, will visit East Carolina College today. She will discuss with foreign students their study programs and their general adjustment to American college life.

As a representative of the central private agency in the U. S. in the exchange of students, teachers, and specialists, Miss Barney hopes to discuss with college and university personnel the problems of foreign placement and to study the means of increasing the exchange of students between the U. S. and other countries. The institute was established in 1919 to promote such exchange in order to further world understanding.

Miss Barney, who is Head of the European Division of the Institute's Foreign Student Department, is on a field trip through several southern states. ### Alumni News

PITT ALUMNI TO AWARD ECC SCHOLARSHIP

Pitt county alumni will give a tuition scholarship to East Carolina College annually, beginning with the 1954-55 term.

The $105 annual scholarship was approved by members of the Greenville-Pitt County alumni at a dinner meeting in the Fellowship Hall of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, with Miss Mary Thomas Smith, president of the chapter, presiding.

During the meeting, the alumni enjoyed addresses by Ed E. Raul, Sr., ECC trustee and president of The Pirates Club, and Dr. Martha Pingel, English professor on ECC's faculty.

Business matters discussed included the proposals to redistrict the State of North Carolina for closer alumni relations, membership in the alumni association, and furnishing the new alumni-faculty house on the campus.

Mrs. Robert W. Fennell was named chairman of a Christmas corsage committee which will work on a benefit for the scholarship fund.

The chapter's annual games tournament was announced for Friday, February 12, 1954.

Presenting some of her own poems and describing the background and setting of her verse, Dr. Pingel delighted her audience with her "folksiness and human insight" in the readings before the group.

Putting East Carolina College before more people in a manner which will draw more interest to and support of the college was urged by Mr. Raul in his informal message. He urged Greenville and Pitt county alumni to become active members of the Pirates Club as a means of supporting the college's athletic program.

There are several noted speakers scheduled to lecture to the club whose names will be announced at a later date.

Progress in the work on the alumni-faculty building was reported by Alumni Secretary James Butler. An inventory of furnishings needed for the building with alumni being urged to help in providing these is to be completed soon, he added.
