Annual Editor Says 1955 Book Gone To Press

by Anne George

The 1955 "Buccaneer" was sent off January 19 to the printers and is expected to be back by the first of May, according to Jane Kanoy, this year's editor of the book.

This year the annual will be printed by the Pargon Press, Montgomery, Ala ama. The Lassiter Corporation, Charlotte, North Carolina, printed the annual last year. Besides a change in printers, it seems there will also be many other . 'surprises' in the annual this year, although it is hard to predict anything now, for the annual staff seems to have been doing all its work behind "closed doors." Proparations for this year's annual were begun last spring, when several of the pictures were taken. This past summer Jane met with a representative from the Paragon Press to discuss the plans and at this time she began drawing it up. Since September the annual staff has been hard at work in the continuous process of taking pictures, drawing up the various pages, planning the advertisements, and doing all the other vital things that go into the preparation of an annual.

Jane Kanoy said, "The staff has been outstanding in the work and effort they have put forth."

The major staff of the annual is composed of Lannie Crocker, associate editor, Mildred Reynolds, business manager, Billy Glover, assistant busiress manager, and C. L. Perkins, photographer. C. L. Inside this partition a special service elevator is to be installed and carry the food from the cafeteria down to the Soda Shop in like manner.

If the enrollment of East Carolina continues to grow as all expectations point to its doing so. this limited menu type cafeteria that will be installed in the soda shop will aid greatly in eliminating the congestion in the two cafeterias during lunch hour.

This will be run strictly on a cafeteria basis and will be under the management of the cafeteria staff. It is planned that this cafeteria will only be open five days a week just during the lunch hours as an aid in feeding the students quickly.

Any organizations or clubs that wish can also use this space for banquets and dinner meetings. This has long been a needed factor here at it a point to do so. The sports scribes of the state say he's done it again-scooped many of the hungry Atlantic and Southern Conference coaches in the ever-moving search for basketball talent. In Carvel (Nick) Nichols of Tri-City and Guy Mendenhall of Cary, sports authorities say Porter has one of the best first-year duos in the state. The rest of his freshman repository stands alo high in quality and promise.

Acutely aware of the temendous rebuilding task due to graduation of Bobby Hodges and Charlie Huffman, Porter snuck Nichols from Tri-City. Although greatly instrumental in his team's championship drive, Nichols took a backseat in scoring to Roy, Searcy, 6-4 forward. At the Class AA tourney last year, the talent hounds did flips over the hardwood property of Searcy. Tri-City's high scorer was the darling of the sports writers and drew praise from coaches all around. red vest! He is now at Carolina but isn't setting the world on fire.

Nichols, on the other hand, broke into the Pirates' starting lineup before the season opened and it appears after 13 standout performances that his forward job will remain intact. He is currently the team's second highest marksman and number 1 rebounder.

At Cary, the big noise was one Charlie Adams. He received more horn-toots than any player on the is now at Carolina but seems slated and Elon's 72-1 inauguration of the 1955 edition o nly for bench duty with the varsity. Porter went behind Adams and got Mendenhall.

Mendenhall's job at East Carolina was more voluminous than most people understood. He was stepping into the shoes of Hodges who won just about every honor conceivable by a North State Conference player. Although a slow starter, Mendenhall has apparently taken the big jump from high school to college in stride. His rebounding of late has improved and he's averaging close to 10 points per contest.

Porter picked up Waddell Solomon from Greensboro. The big shot on the Whirlies was Tommy McDonald High Point played at Elon last night, who initially enrolled at UNC and now has moved over to Elon and sitting out a year's eligibility. Carolina was busily seeking out the The most talked about couple on the Haw River outfit, though, was Sonny Clayton and Pete Stout, both now at Catawba. The Indians are knocking along in the league cellar. Freddie James of Churchland, Va. and Maurice Everette of Robersonville are exceptions. James was probably the most heralded prep star in his state. His record of 83 points in one game will most likely remain unmolested or a long time. Marion Hales of Wilmington came to the Pirates from duty in the Army.

This wasn't the first time that Porter outgrabbed the big sachems. Remember back when Sonny Russell was interested in throwing in with State's Wolfpack? Porter got him interested in a school near home and that was the turning point in ECC's basketball fortunes. Hodges was also interested in another school, Caro'ina namely, but was induced to don the Purple and Gold.
