Grass Roots Opera Company To Present 'The Barber Of Seville' Monday Night

by Janet Hill

On Monday night, January 23, at 8:30 o'clock in McGinnis Auditorium, the Greenville Music Club, in cooperation with the Extension Division of the University of North Carolina Federation of Music Clubs, will sponsor a troupe from the Grass Roots Opera Company in the famous opera "The Barber of Seville." Last year the highly talented troupe successfully presented "Don Pasquale," a delightfully hilarious comedy.

During recent years in America, a revolution has been taking place in the musical preferences of Americans. This is the steady rising of American opera as a true art form. This musical change has been greatly impeded by the "grass-roots" touring company which at a low cost presents abridged versions of the standard operas in English.

First Performance

The first performance given by the Grass Roots Opera Company was a short comedy, "School for Lovers," which was given in Wilson during the 1949-50 season. Also, in 1953-54, "School for Lovers" was repeated with the addition of two other works. Later, in 1951, opera instruction was introduced to the children in the public schools of North Carolina, and special matinee performances were provided for them by the Grass Roots Opera. Last year, Donizetti's "Don Pasquale" was presented to appreciative audiences throughout the South. The Grass Roots Opera Company has given over 400 performances of opera in English in North Carolina alone. This year they will travel through 21 states which will include Washington, Arizona, Connecticut, and Florida.

Stop Light Proposal Waiting For Greenville City Budget

According to information released recently from the office of the Greenville City Manager, action has again been deferred on the proposed installation of a traffic light at the intersection of Fifth Street and Beckwith Gate by the Administration Building here.

The item, tabled at the City Council meeting in November, was not discussed at the last two monthly meetings and will not be brought before the group again until a budget for the new fiscal period has been prepared. This new fiscal period will begin July 1, 1956.

The traffic light proposal was introduced to the council in October by the Stop Light Securement Committee which was appointed by the Student Government Association. At that time, however, it was referred to the State Highway Commission, since Fifth Street is a state highway. The Highway Commission approved the request with one recommendation—namely, that the signal should operate only at busy hours.

Survey Made

Before sending the request to Raleigh, the City Council placed a counter on Fifth Street and the main entrance to tabulate the number of cars that passed along the street and through the entrance.

During an eight-hour period—10 a. m. to 6 p. m.—2400 cars passed down the street, and 1690 of them either left or entered the college entrance. The council also stated that before an actuated light, such as the one desired by the committee, should be installed, that there should be an average of four cars per minute—one below the average shown by the eight hour tabulation.

Waiting For City Approval

Now that the traffic signal has been approved by the State Highway Commission, the final action rests with the Greenville Council. However, when the item was last discussed by this council, the City Manager did not seem very enthusiastic about the matter.

1956 Religious Emphasis Week Activities Begin Next Monday

Seven Guest Speakers Lead Various Services

Religious Emphasis Week, January 22-26, sponsored by the Inter-Religious Council, will have for its theme "Revolution and Reconciliation." The program will officially begin Monday with a Student-Faculty Assembly in Wright Auditorium at 10:00 a. m. At this time the different speakers will be introduced and Rev. Beverly Asbury, pastor of the Zebulon Baptist Church, will address the group with the topic "Encounter with Revolution."

Morning Watch Service

On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday mornings there will be a morning watch service at 7:30 in Austin Auditorium. These services will be led by one of the guest speakers. The speakers will have classroom visitations, personal conferences that any student can take advantage of, and will also visit the dormitories each night at 9:30 for Firesides. Each afternoon at 3:30 there will be a coffee hour at the Y Hut and Alumni Building.

Open Assembly

Each evening at seven o'clock there will be an open assembly in Austin Auditorium. On Monday evening Rev. D. D. Holt, Executive Director of the Methodist College Foundation of North Carolina, will deliver an address, "Self in Revolt." Rev. Saki Blanton, president of Crozer Theological Seminary in Chester, Pennsylvania, will speak on "Reconciliation of the Individual" at the Tuesday evening assembly.

Roger E. Ortmayer, of Nashville, Tennessee will speak on "Masses in Revolt" on Wednesday evening.

On Thursday night and the close of Religious Emphasis Week, Dr. R. P. Roth, dean of the graduate school at Lutheran Southern Seminary, Columbia, South Carolina, will deliver the address "Reconciliation through Christ and the Church."

Rev. Edward A. Cahill, pastor of the Unitarian Church of Charlotte, will have charge of the Tuesday afternoon chapel service. The topic of his address will be "The Changing South."

Mr. William Price of Burlington will also be a speaker for Religious Emphasis Week.

Martha Johnson of Paw Creek, sophomore here and president of the Inter-Religious Council, leads a steering committee of eighteen members which made plans for Religious Emphasis Week.

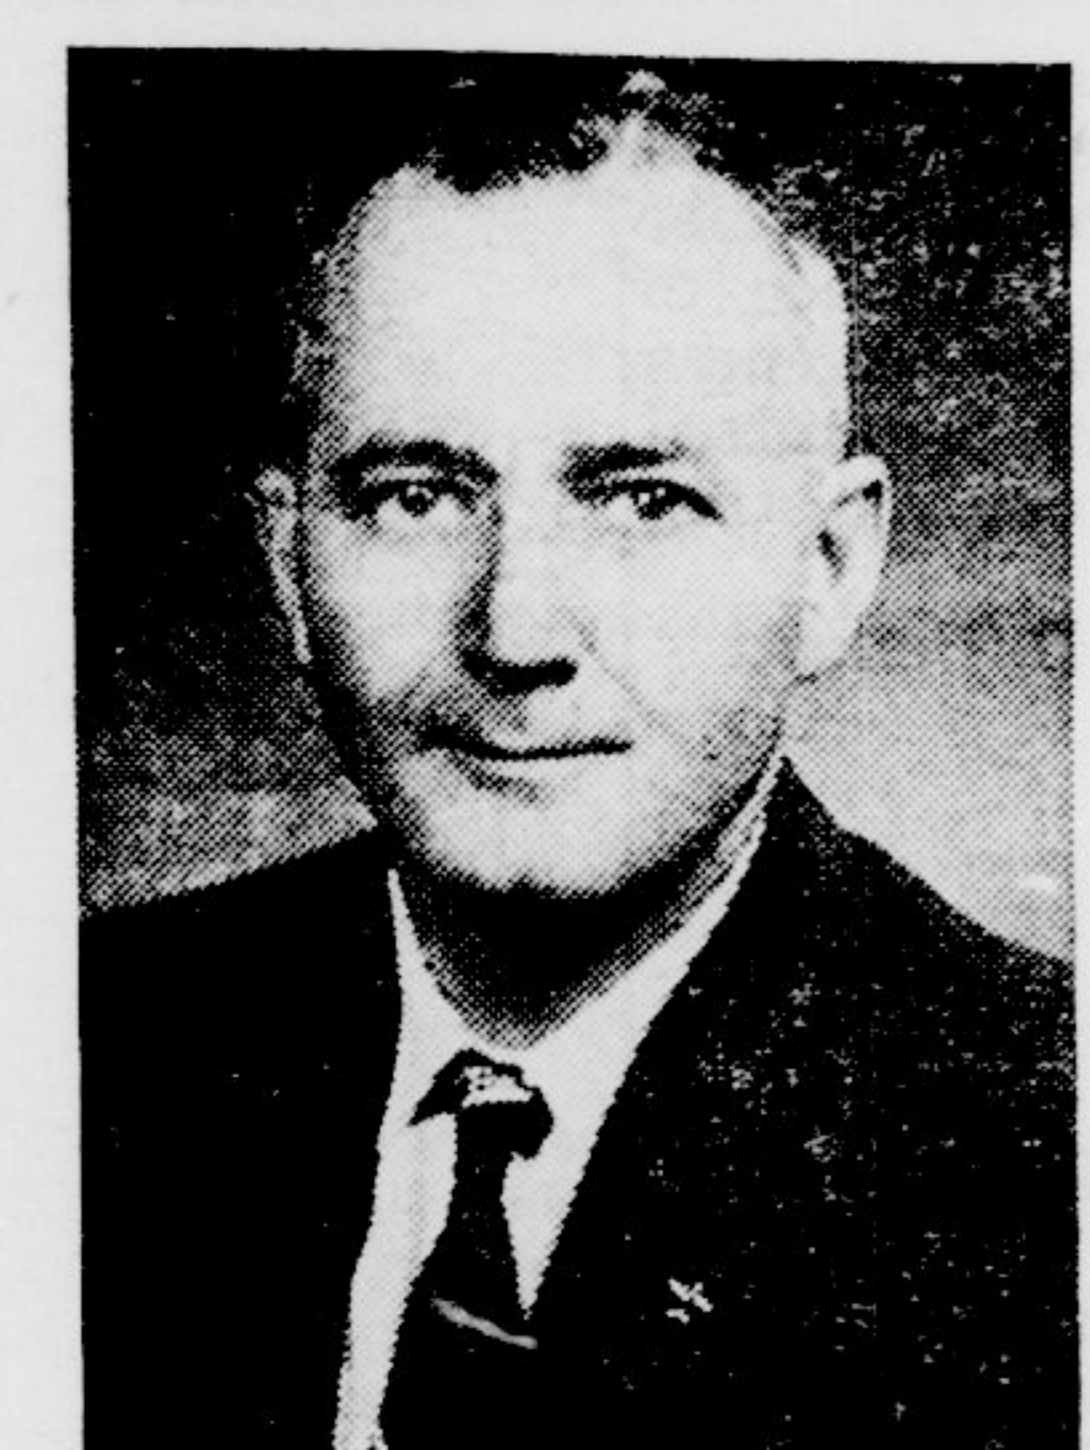

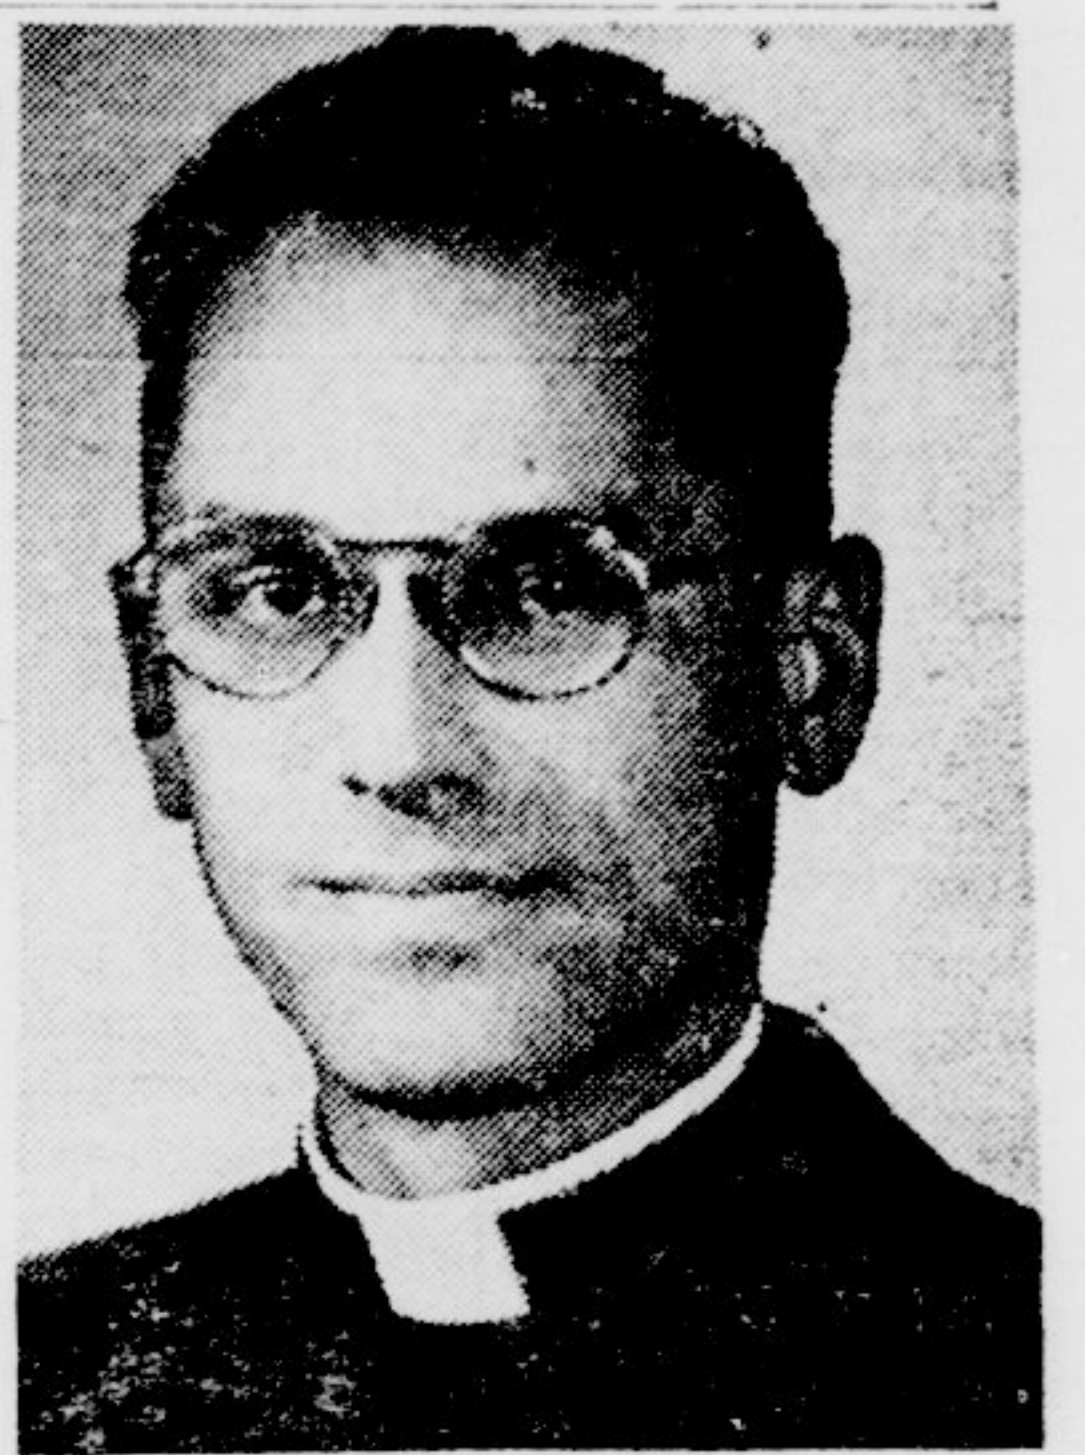

Also acting in advisory positions are Ann Gardner of Fabius, New York, graduate student attending East Carolina College on a Danforth fellowship; Ted Gartman, sophomore from Portsmouth, Virginia; and three Greenville leaders of religious work among the students—Gloria Blanton, director of the Baptist Student Union; Mamie Chandler, director of the Methodist Student Center; and Mrs. Leonard Topping of the First Presbyterian Church.

Student members of the committee and the organizations which they represent are Bruton Taylor, Free Will Baptist; Grace Jones, YWCA; Jan Midyette, Methodist; Frank Moore, YMCA; Eugene Hayman, Baptist; Jane Lingle, Lutheran; John Quinn, Unitarian; Viola Botter, Holiness; Page Lilley, Methodist; and Edith Rogers, Episcopal.

Secure Tickets

To gain admission to the ECC-ACC basketball game here in Memorial Gym February 2, 1956, it will be necessary for all East Carolina students who desire to attend the game to drop by the athletic office in the gym anytime between the hours of 9:00 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and 2:00 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. Monday, January 23, through Friday, January 27.

Upon presentation of your identification card a single admission ticket to the game will be given you (free of charge). This ticket is not transferable. Admission to the game will be refused unless you obtain the above mentioned ticket.

Committee Prepares Recommendation

An initial recommendation stating, "It is the consensus of the committee that cuts equal to the number of hours the class meets per week be permitted; and the number of cuts permitted in the lab periods shall be left to the discretion of each department" was prepared last week at the second meeting of the committee.

According to the committee members, however, this recommendation will be filed and will not be presented to the Policies Committee until a thorough study is made of the present system. Numerous proposals will be drawn for consideration during this study, the committee pointed out.

Committee members present at the second meeting continued discussing what they considered as weak points in the present system, studied systems used in other colleges, and heard Dr. Marshall read suggestions which were made by several upper-classmen when asked to comment on the cut system.

Student Government Association President Donald Umstead and Women's Judiciary Chairman Ann Bowles, who are representing the student body on the committee, were absent. Dr. Marshall pointed out that according to reports that he had received, a great number of the students questioned considered the matter of obtaining excused absences far too liberal. Others felt that the present system was functioning satisfactorily.

Something Weak - - - Marshall "There is something weak in the system that doesn't call to the attention of the students that they are definitely hurting themselves," Dr. Marshall emphasized to the group before the initial recommendation was drawn. The committee agreed with Dr. Marshall that "the whole cut system is a protective measure to provide protection to the student himself and for his benefit."

Student Committee

Dean Tucker introduced the idea of having President Umstead appoint a student committee to study cut systems of other schools, believing that they would find our system "very liberal." The proposal was discarded, however, before the initial recommendation was drawn.

No specific date has been set for the third meeting of the committee.

Phi Sigma Pi Sweetheart Ball Set For Wright Auditorium Tonight; Queen To Be Crowned

The annual Phi Sigma Pi Sweetheart Ball will be held in Wright Auditorium Friday, January 20. Music will be furnished by "The Dreamers." The dance, semi-formal, will start at 8:30 o'clock and last until 11:45 o'clock.

Decorations and accessories will be along winter's theme. A unique feature of this year's dance will be the crowning at intermission of the "Sweetheart of Phi Sigma Pi." The coronation of the queen will be by Joel Farrar, president of the fraternity. Girls competing for the title were selected by residents of each dorm. They are: Peggy Parks, Mary Lou Dickens, Phyllis Finger, Janet Hodges, Ruth Lassiter, Betty Jo Butts, Nancy Hollingsworth, Betty Thomas, and Joan Foster. A campus-wide election was held in order to select the queen.

The figure will consist of the presentations of the fraternity members and their dates. They will be: Joel Farrar of Gastonia with Mary Ann Marshburn of Spring Hope, Bob Roberts of Lebanon, Pennsylvania, with Pat Tucker of Richmond, Virginia, Bill Sharber of Elizabeth City with Carolyn Jones of Elizabeth City, Ronnie Rose of Goldsboro with Millie Stevens of Goldsboro, Elbert Pritchard of Aboskie with Shirley Harrell of Edenton, and Kenne Smith of Raleigh with Mrs. Dorothy Smith of Raleigh. Also being presented are: Phillip Averett of Greenville with Ferne Highsmith of Robersonville, Mac Edmondson of Kingston with Ann McGowan of Enfield, Eddie Dennis of Durham with Joanne Baker of Durham, Horace Rose of Richmond, Virginia with Rachael Lang of Greenville, George Knight of Rocky Mount with Grace Miller of Farmville, and Linwood Pittman of Rocky Mount with Mary Lou Ellwanger of Rockingham. Continuing, Justus McKeel of Bethel will escort Joyce Mizell of Jamesville, Clarence Brown of Hickory with Peggy Gay of Whitakers, J. C. Thomas of Raleigh with D'Este Poole of Petersburg, Virginia, and Robert Bright of Macesfield with Peggy Kepley of High Point. Dr. and Mrs. Richard C. Todd will be presented as sponsors.

Let's Ever Keep In Mind What The Galilean Said

Religious Emphasis Week is set aside once a year with the hope that Christ will be brought closer and made more meaningful in the lives of those on our campus. This year, with the theme "Revolution and Reconciliation" our distinguished visitors have a marvelous subject with which to challenge the thinking of those who seek a Christian way of life.

We need a citizenry possessed of faith in God and with such love for humanity that the gospel of peace and brotherhood will motivate them to exemplify the essential principles of the Golden Rule throughout their lives.

As we go about our daily tasks, let's ever keep in mind what the Galilean said: "And I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto me."

J. D. Messick, President.

Miss Kay Linthieum

Military Ball Sponsor Chosen

A radiant olive-skin beauty, Miss Kay Linthieum, has been chosen as this year's Sponsor of the Military Ball which will be held on March 3. Kay is a freshman coed of Cotten Hall who is a two-year Business major. Earlier this year she reigned as Cotten Hall's representative in the Homecoming Court.

This year's Sponsor hails from Durham, where she attended Bethesda High School. At Bethesda, Kay has in many extra-curricular activities, among them: secretary of the senior class, newspaper and annual work, and a part in the senior play. Dancing is one of her favorite pastimes.

Miss Linthieum was selected by the Cadet Corps of East Carolina's ROTC program. The candidates were nominated and the winner was picked by virtue of their votes. She will reign as the Sponsor of the Military Ball. The Ball is considered one of the outstanding highlights of the year on campus.

Upon hearing of her selection, Kay wished to thank all the members of the Cadet Corps. At the happier person could not have existed anywhere; she was thoroughly surprised. With such a beautiful brunette

Sponsor, this year's edition promises to be one of the most memorable of all. Time passes swiftly and soon the Military Ball will be here!

Clarify Your Thinking

It is, in Dickens' words, "the best of times . . . the worst of times . . . the age of wisdom . . . the age of foolishness . . . the epoch of belief . . . the epoch of incredulity . . . the season of Light . . . the season of Darkness . . . the Spring of hope . . . the Winter of despair." With "everything before us" and "nothing before us," with "going direct to Heaven" and "going direct to Hell," confusion bids fair to be further confounded as the even tenor of our campus life yields at least at points to the incursion of seven speakers—leaders in the field of religious thought and ethical action.

Those men who are introduced elsewhere in this paper, have been asked by the Inter-Religious Council to develop the heavy-sounding theme "Revolution and Reconciliation." "Revolution" marks the mood of modern man; oppressed peoples revolting against their colonial masters, free peoples revolting against the burden of their own democratic responsibility for self-rule, and the individual revolting against many things and, in one of the worst of ways, against himself. "Reconciliation" suggests that something may be done to bring hope out of despair and vital life out of crass indifference.

Our visitors will propose a religious factor or religious factors as necessary to man's reconciliation with his fellowman or to his reconciliation with himself. There will be no sawdust trail, it is safe to say. There will be no emotional appeals—at least none that need be left empty of meaning, since a forum for questions will be provided regularly.

The Inter-Religious Council has labored long and diligently to bring a shortened week of religious emphasis for January 23-26. But the Council's plea is not "Give God a chance," as defensible as this old time appeal might be. The Council's plea is not "Be courteous to our speakers and give them a big turnout." The Council's chief concern is that we give ourselves a chance to clarify our thinking, to organize with sureness our philosophy of life, and to become committed to ideas which we find after thorough testing to be valid.

—Dr. John B. Bennett

Our Mistake

A front-page headline in last week's East Carolinian undoubtedly caused considerable misconception among the student body. The headline dealt with the initial meeting of the committee which is at present studying and evaluating the cut system now in effect here, and stated that no changes were made in the present system during the group's first meeting.

As we have pointed out in other stories concerning the committee, the group faces no deadline for submission of proposed revisions of the present system. The study will continue until the committee feels that they have made a thorough investigation and have considered carefully any proposal which they might take before the Policies Committee.

The headline was not intended to imply that the committee was failing to show any sign of progress. We were under the impression that each recommendation drawn would be taken before the Policies Committee immediately—not withheld until all proposed revisions are prepared. Under this supposition, should the proposal be accepted by the Policies Committee, the present system would be subject to changes, although it would not be put into effect immediately.

The committee prepared their first recommendation last week which stated, in effect, that students would be awarded cuts equal to the hours the class meets each week. This plan does not include afternoon laboratory periods, however. They are to be left to the discretion of each department.

Under this plan those courses carrying five hours of credit would not be affected—only those meeting hours in excess of the credit hours awarded upon completion of the course.

If the matter of laboratory cuts is to be left to the discretion of each department, they will undoubtedly continue to rule laboratory absences the same as cuts in the regular class period. Therefore, those students enrolled in five hour courses which require four hours of lab work each week will be attending nine hours of class-work, but will receive only five excused absences.

This initial recommendation doesn't seem quite fair in view of the fact that other classes will be permitted excused absences equal to the number of hours the class meets.

Passing Remark The Big Raid, Don Versus Emo--- That Was '55

Jimmy Ferrell

IT HAPPENED AROUND CAMPUS DURING '55: That Thursday night last April when I went over to the College Theatre to see the second showing of "Brigadoon" is still prevalent in my memories, along with many other events that made news around campus in '55.

During intermission a friend who was sitting in the seat next to me and some hometown friends, so he hurried back to the dorm to get a package which they had conspired to deliver to his folks.

The next act had already begun when he returned later and took his seat. I was deeply engrossed in a Frances Smith solo when he began jabbing me sharply in the ribs, trying to get my attention. Believing that he was only considering making a sarcastic remark about the way our friend Roy Askew was wearing his hat, I ignored the painful communication.

AFTER A LENGTHY SESSION of the constant nudging, I finally leaned over to find out what all the excitement was about.

"The boys in Slay are preparing to launch a panty raid on Cotten," he whispered.

"No!" I exclaimed in as soft a tone as possible. But after several quick nods of the head on his part, I decided that he must really be serious this time.

I leaned over again, ignoring the "shh's" from the rows behind us. "When?" I asked.

"Tonight! Right now!"

THE FINAL ACT was drawing to a close when several audible screams from the Cotten Hall vicinity clashed with the music and pulchritude of the chorus and dancers on stage.

Many of the coeds in the audience were all smiles. They had known of the planned maneuver, since early in the afternoon. Others had known all week. The out-of-town guests in the audience sensed that something suspicious was taking place outside the theatre.

THE ACTION HAD CALMED CONSIDERABLY by the time "Brigadoon" was completed. I saw one officer run after several boys who dashed into the darkness behind Wright Building. One boy was waving a pair of panties. Many were caught—some innocent, some not—given the harshest treatment, and taken down to the station.

I joined a group on the higher steps in front of Wright Building. This perch afforded one a perfect view of the action in front of Cotten. Dr. Prewett broke the little gathering up eventually.

Along with the Police Force was the Greenville Fire Department, threatening to turn the big hose on full blast at those who dared to disrupt the little peace that had been attained.

The majority of the student body, along with the faculty and administration, regretted the incident. Others—the juvenile ones—talked about the possibility of another. Then there was the sordid publicity. The News and Observer carried a front page story. And when the N&O runs a front page story about East Carolina, it's bound to be something big. The Daily Tar Heel from UNC even carried a front page story. And believe it or not, those intellectuals, prived that the East Carolina boys launched a panty raid on one Slay Hall!

THEN THERE WAS THE BIG SGA ELECTION: When Donald Umstead announced that he would run against football hero Emo Boado, I was flabbergasted. In fact, just about everybody was flabbergasted except the Umstead supporters.

For some reason I was late getting to the campaign speeches. They were almost completed by the time I reached Austin Auditorium, so I just stood behind a group standing in the doorway.

When the speech session ended, a few boys began yelling, "We want Emo! We want Emo!" I saw a member of the paper staff and asked him how the candidates sounded.

"Emo's got some crazy idea about a radio station," he exclaimed. "Umstead sounded damn good. I'm gonna vote for Don."

It still looks like a hopeless case to me. Okay, so Umstead looked like good material; but I was still convinced that Boado practically had the gav l in his hand in spite of the fact that Umstead presented an interesting platform.

UMSTEAD just didn't have the following that Boado did. That's what I tried to tell everybody. Don Umstead president of our SGA? Impossible. A

Who's Who Among Students At East Carolina College

Chemistry Major Heads Phi Sigma Pi

by Joyce Smith

A versatile senior, who has made many outstanding records and friends during his four year enrollment at East Carolina College, explains ECC's growth by saying, "I believe that the friendly atmosphere which prevails between students goes toward giving this institution the outstanding name that it has."

By observing his radiant friendliness, along with others, one can readily understand this outstanding friendly atmosphere on our campus. Through his active participation in extra-curricular activities, Joel Farrar has made many friends.

Joel, who hails from Gasonia, now and the oldest fraternity on campus, Phi Sigma Pi. He has been a member of this group since Spring quarter of his sophomore year. Phi Sigma Pi is an honorary education fraternity exclusively for young men planning to enter the teaching profession. Good moral and social qualities plus a two average are the qualifications for admittance.

At present, Joel and his fraternity are busy making last minute preparations for their annual Sweetheart Ball, which is to be held tonight. We feel sure that this dance will be a big success.

Active participation in Baptist Student Union work has also taken much of Joel's time. During his junior year, he served as president of his organization and proved himself to be an asset to this group. His interest and work has continued over he was named to Who's Who Among American Colleges and Universities.

Ping Pong Champion

Aside from his studies and extra-curricular activities, Joel finds time for his hobbies and interest. He has an interest in all sports. One can readily see that he has a special interest in ping pong as Joel recently won a ping pong championship in a tournament sponsored by the College Union.

A self-help job has also taken up part of Joel's time. Up until this year he worked in the cafeteria, while this year he is serving as a lab assistant in the chemistry department.

Plans Chemistry Career

Joel is planning to graduate in May with an A. B. degree in Chemistry. Now that his four years are drawing to a close Joel must begin definite thinking about future plans. At the present time they are indefinite, but he hopes to work in the chemical field. Service with Uncle Sam may interrupt, according to Joel.

People come and go from East Carolina, but so frequently the records and impressions they make linger and remain in the thoughts of people that know them. Joel may graduate in May, but certainly many people will remember him as being one of ECC's most outstanding students.

Joel, may we say that you will be greatly missed, but we are sure that life's future path is sure to reveal much success for you.

Food vs. Students
Last week brought forth many events on the campus of East Carolina. However, the most talked about topic seems to have been (and still is) the food (if it can be classified as such) in the cafeteria. It seems, as the infirmity may verify, that there were a number of students who became ill as a result of eating this food last week. We realize that such an unfortunate incident as this could be overlooked if this occurred only once in awhile. However, if this incident is repeated too often, would it not be possible to assume that something is possibly amiss in the grade and quality of some types of food served in the cafeteria? Also, it seems that appearing in the food lately have been various species of foreign matter. As a result of these things, it seems that many students have been forced to find some other place to eat, either in town or in the Soda Shop, because their stomachs were not strong enough to withstand such torture. The above implications suggest only a few incidents that have occurred. Therefore, is it not justifiable to ponder the following questions: Has the cafeteria become lax in their sanitary conditions? Has the food become a poorer grade? These are questions being pondered upon all over the campus by the students—who are almost afraid to eat there because of the unknown results which eating there might bring. Perhaps the cafeteria management would do well to try to improve some of these seemingly hideous faults—and start serving food which each and every student can enjoy, not only on Sundays but throughout the week as well, unafraid of the results which eating there might bring.

Books vs. Education

An editorial which appeared in the East Carolinian last week caused a number of comments—especially among the students. The editorial " . . . Makes Jack A Dull Boy" was quite expressive of the opinions of a number of students (in other words, the editorial stated bluntly what many students would like to shout).

It stated that the professors wish for us to become a well-rounded individual in exactly ONE HOUR as the other twenty-three hours are spent in attending classes, studying, and (believe it or not) eating and sleeping. However, a few points which were not brought out were the poor, unfortunate souls who begin their days at eight o'clock, and on some days have only a lunch until five o'clock in the afternoon. Also, there are many students who have laboratory classes at least two days a week until late in the afternoon. Where is their ONE HOUR to become a well-rounded individual? It seems that some of the professors do not realize that East Carolina is NOT on the semester system; that we do not have one whole day between classes in which to prepare our assignments. (However, here it seems that the whole weekend is consumed in catching up assignments for the past week.)

It is true that our purpose in coming to college was to obtain an education and to make the most of our precious hours here. However, professor, does an education begin and end only in books?

Controversial Currents Coed Was Rudely Insulted

by Oliver Williams

Last week's column, "Wonder If It Happens Real Often In The Big City," must have been the most controversial one yet. The comments ranged from a very low (as one person who said the article wasn't holding much) to a very high (as the coed who said that she was rudely insulted).

I couldn't believe that anyone (besides possibly the NAACP) would be insulted by the article. She explained, "You made the comment that anyone with at least half of his senses probably knew all the details of the Till Murder Case. I have never heard of it," she said.

I started to explain to her that this incident was one of the most severe racial incidents since the Supreme Court segregation ruling. It all started when a Negro boy from Chicago whistled at a white woman in Mississippi. The boy, Emmett Till, has not been seen since. A battered body believed to be his was found in a Mississippi River bottom.

The men charged with the crime were not prosecuted because of insufficient evidence. Some people now believe that the boy was not harmed and is in a Northern city.

Immediately after the men were released, the NAACP charged that the South was in a reign of terror and issued such statements as the whole South will have to suffer. "That's what makes me so damn mad," I told the coed.

The coed thought that it was sorta foolish to get so mad about such an incident. Then I told her about a similar incident which happened in New York City. "But, when it happens up North, nothing is said about it in the newspapers," I said. "It seems that the biggest problem the South must face in the segregation fight is getting a true picture of the South across to the nation in the newspapers."

The coed's comment: "You're darn right," she said. "I think I'll read more about those things."

ON THE LIGHTER SIDE—The film actress

Miss Marilyn Monroe has signed a contract with Twentieth Century Fox Film Corporation to complete seven million dollars worth of movies in the next eight years. The signing of the contract ended a long battle between Miss Monroe and her studio. Said a spokesman for the studio, "Miss Monroe was completely victorious. Not only was she awarded the big contract, but she will be allowed to choose her own roles and make movies with other studios in the meantime." Being under a contract but also allowed to work with other studios is something most stars are never allowed to do. "But," said the spokesman, "Twentieth Century Fox will make Miss Monroe's salary so enticing that she will not want to work with other studios."

Marilyn walked out on her studio last fall and started taking dramatic lessons in New York because she was receiving only five hundred dollars a week and was one of the biggest box-office attractions.

SOMETHING TO LOOK FORWARD TO—

Marilyn's next movie, which she will begin working on in March, is Bus Stop.

Gimghoul Castle Legend

by Purvis Boyette

Legends have that unique characteristic of becoming marvelous conversational pieces based on a minimum of fact. Such are the legends of the picturesque and enchantingly weird Gimghoul Castle of Chapel Hill. Situated in one of the many wooded areas of this quaint village, the lights of Raleigh and Durham can be seen from a single vantage point on the grounds surrounding the castle. One arrives there by a route in perfect keeping with the atmosphere enshrouding the area.

The structure is of rough stone with ornate iron barred windows in true medieval fashion. The tower and a portion of the building are covered with greenish-brown ivy. One is immediately impressed with the originality of the character who prompted the castle's erection.

Legend has it that a student in the early history of the University desired membership in one of the campus social fraternities. Such was denied him and being fabulously wealthy he created his own frat—the Order of the Gimghouls. The castle was built expressly for the group and from the outset was a secret organization. Members were "tapped" in and whenever a service was rendered the school it was done through an intermediary.

Many frightful incidents are connected with its past. One member's sweetheart supposedly rejected his proposal. Dismayed with grief, he carried her to the castle's tower, erected a noose and left her swinging. Another young lady's relationship with a Gimghoul resulted in the loss of her head. So goes the gist of three legends concerning the life and members at Gimghoul Castle. It is my understanding that the Order of the Gimghouls still exists.

Creative talent can often be found among students here at East Carolina. One individual who has a literary bend is Franklin Thomas from Carthage. The recent weather inspired Mr. Thomas to compose the following poem.

into my soul, in the watches of the night, comes your joyful tranquility, which reaches the depths of my self, and then passes on to come again another day.

come rain, bring your sorrow,
forever rain, ever on the morrow,
your vivid fragrance, sweet as earth itself does instill in me, the life in earth again.

Bucs Take 44th Home Win From McCrary Eagles, 87-77

Pirates Came From Behind To Defeat Visitors Last Night

East Carolina racked up its 44th consecutive home win last night in Memorial gymnasium as they turned back a surprisingly powerful Seminole McCrary Eagles team 87-77.

Behind by 11 points with less than five minutes left in the contest, the Bucs got hot and began a scoring drive that netted them 14 tallies before the scrappy Eagles could score a single field goal. It seemed a sure sign for Coach Howard Porter's crew when the scoreboard registered 74-63 in favor of the visitors, but the sharp shooting of Don Harris, Nick Nichols and Guy Mendenhall closed the gap and two free throws by reserve guard Harry Blevins tied the game 75-75.

From this point, ECC trounced ahead to garner a 10-point victory.

Early Eagle Lead

The Eagles, sparked by the amazing accuracy of forward Smith Langdon, managed to an early lead in the opening minutes of the encounter. With the game 10 minutes old, McCrary's lead a 20-14 advantage and seemed to have a monopoly on both backboards. Langdon and Joyner kept the Pirates scoring to a minimum, as they scored rebounds at both ends of the court.

Buc Captain J. C. Thomas and Harris spurred the Purple and Gold into tying the score at 21-all and then pushed to a four-point lead. Langdon and company immediately followed through with a bevy of perfect shots that reversed the lead in favor of the fighting Eagles.

East Carolina struggling hard to maintain the record-smashing home court streak, managed to catch up with the semi-pros in the dying minutes of the second quarter to make the score 35-35. At half-time, however, McCrary's held a 45-42 spread.

Harris, Nichols, Thomas

In the second half, McCrary's really became a thorn in the side of the Buccaneers, jumping just barely ahead, but maintaining the slim lead. Don Harris, who lead the Pirate scorers with 23 points for the night, whittled away at the margin, but Langdon matched his every bucket.

Monday's Rating Found Bucs In Top League Spot

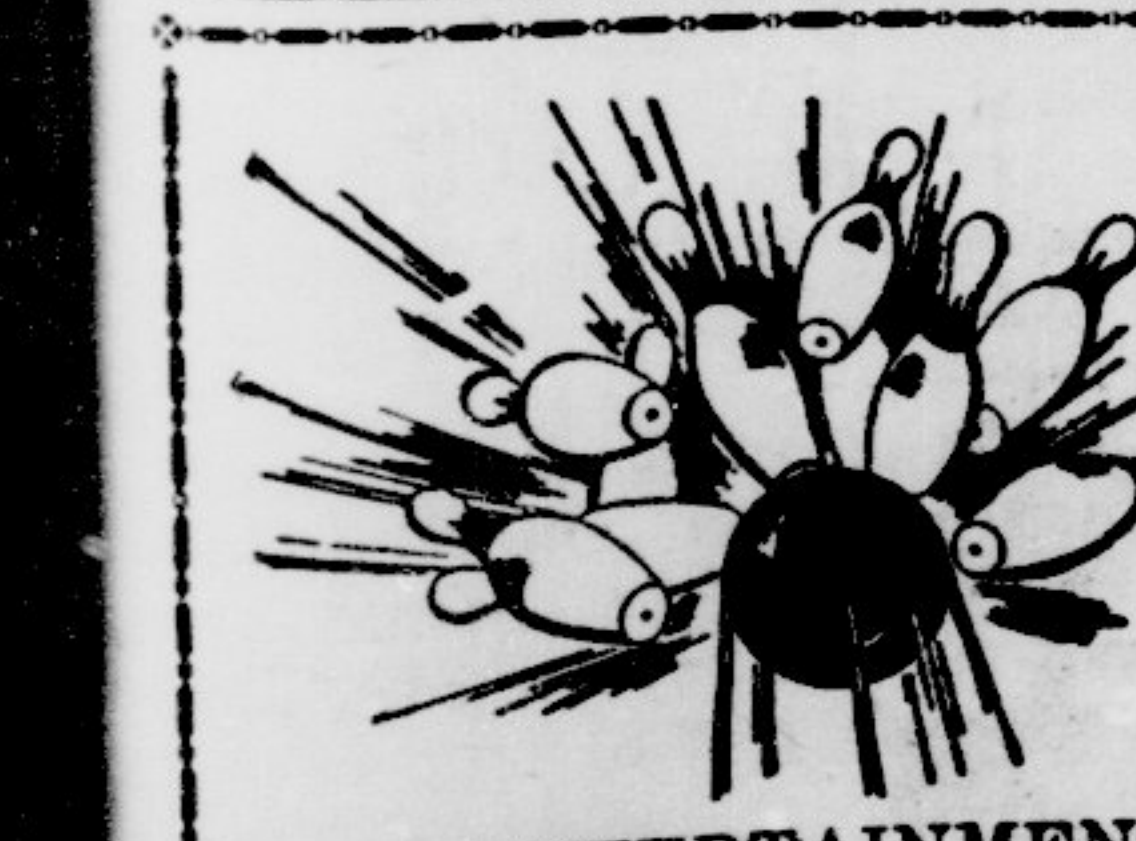

Monday's North State ratings from Greensboro found East Carolina way out in front of the pack with an 8-0 slate. Elon, the number two team, holds a 4-1 record.

East Carolina's tremendous lead came by three quick conference triumphs last week. They stopped High Point 80-71, trounced Guilford 102-66, then blasted a close one over Lenoir Rhyne, 70-68. The Lenoir Rhyne victory ended a 22-game win streak on the Bears' home court and racked up ECC's eighth loop win.

Games this week found High Point at twice-defeated Atlantic Christian and the Pirates at Western Carolina on Monday night, Appalachian at Elon on Tuesday, Western Carolina at Catawba on Thursday, and Catawba at Appalachian, Elon at Western Carolina on Saturday.

Jim Jordan of McCrary's was high man for the contest with a total of 26.

Nick Nichols, who along with Guy Mendenhall, was the big man who finally began to grab the much-needed rebounds, that made the difference, was also strong in the scoring parade. He accounted for 19 tallies. Thomas bucketed 17. Mendenhall, Tim Smothers, and Harold Ingram collected 8 each. Harry Blevins, playing his first contest for Coach Porter, turned in a fine performance in the injured Freddy James' position. He racked up five points. Maurice Everette rounded out the totals with two points.

Last night's victory in the gym placed the present home win streak at an astounding 44 mark, which is probably unequalled anywhere in the annals of basketball.

East Carolina's next ballgame will be a North State conference affair and will take place in the local "Jinx" gym, as they battle Western Carolina. The Catamounts, the only loop team to defeat EC this season, will make their appearance here next Friday night, January 27.

Meet Here Saturday

Coach Ray Martinez has announced that the college is sponsoring the first annual high school Invitational Swimming Meet this Saturday. Many of the top high school pool talent in the State will be present to compete in the affair.

The purpose of the event, according to Martinez, is to promote the sport among the high schools of the State.

ECC Frosh Beat Green Phantoms By 54-46 Score

Coach Earl Smith's East Carolina freshman cagers trounced a highly-rated AA Greenville high school team last Saturday night 54-46, in the annual meeting of the two for the March of Dimes in Memorial gymnasium.

The Bucs opened the contest with these starters: Harry Archer, Dick Little, guards; Joe Musgrave, Tim Smothers, forwards; Joe Plaster, center. Chester Knotts was the only reserve, alternating throughout the battle with Musgrave.

ECC took command of play during the last half and completely dominated the court. Tim Smothers finished up the game with 32 points to take the night's honors in that department, and was also fine on defense. Little collected 10. Like Reddick of the Phantoms took second place, however, with a total of 22 markers.

Pirate Cagers Crush Guilford Here 102-66 For 43rd Home Win

East Carolina rolled to their 43rd straight victory on their home court last Thursday evening as they out-manned the Quakers of Guilford, 102-66, in a North State Conference tilt. The win strengthened the Pirates' hold on first place with seven wins and no defeats.

The Pirates jumped into a quick 9-0 lead and at the end of ten minutes had pushed the gap to 23 points. The subs played the remainder of the half and continued to pour in points as the Pirates held a 50-31 halftime lead.

The regulars took over in the second half and continued to rout the hapless Quakers, at one time holding a 44-point lead. Coach Porter substituted early the final 12 minutes, but the Pirates went above the century mark for the second time this year. (Last week, they scored 105 points against Elon.)

Six players broke into the double figures with Don Harris leading the pack with 15 points. Captain J. C. Thomas followed with 14 points. Marion Hales, Freddy James, and Nick Nichols each contributed 12 points. Guard Maurice Everette dropped in 10 points. Bob Atlas was high for the visitors with 12 points.

In recording their 43rd victory at home, the Pirates ran their win streak to five games without a defeat.

Bucs Drop First

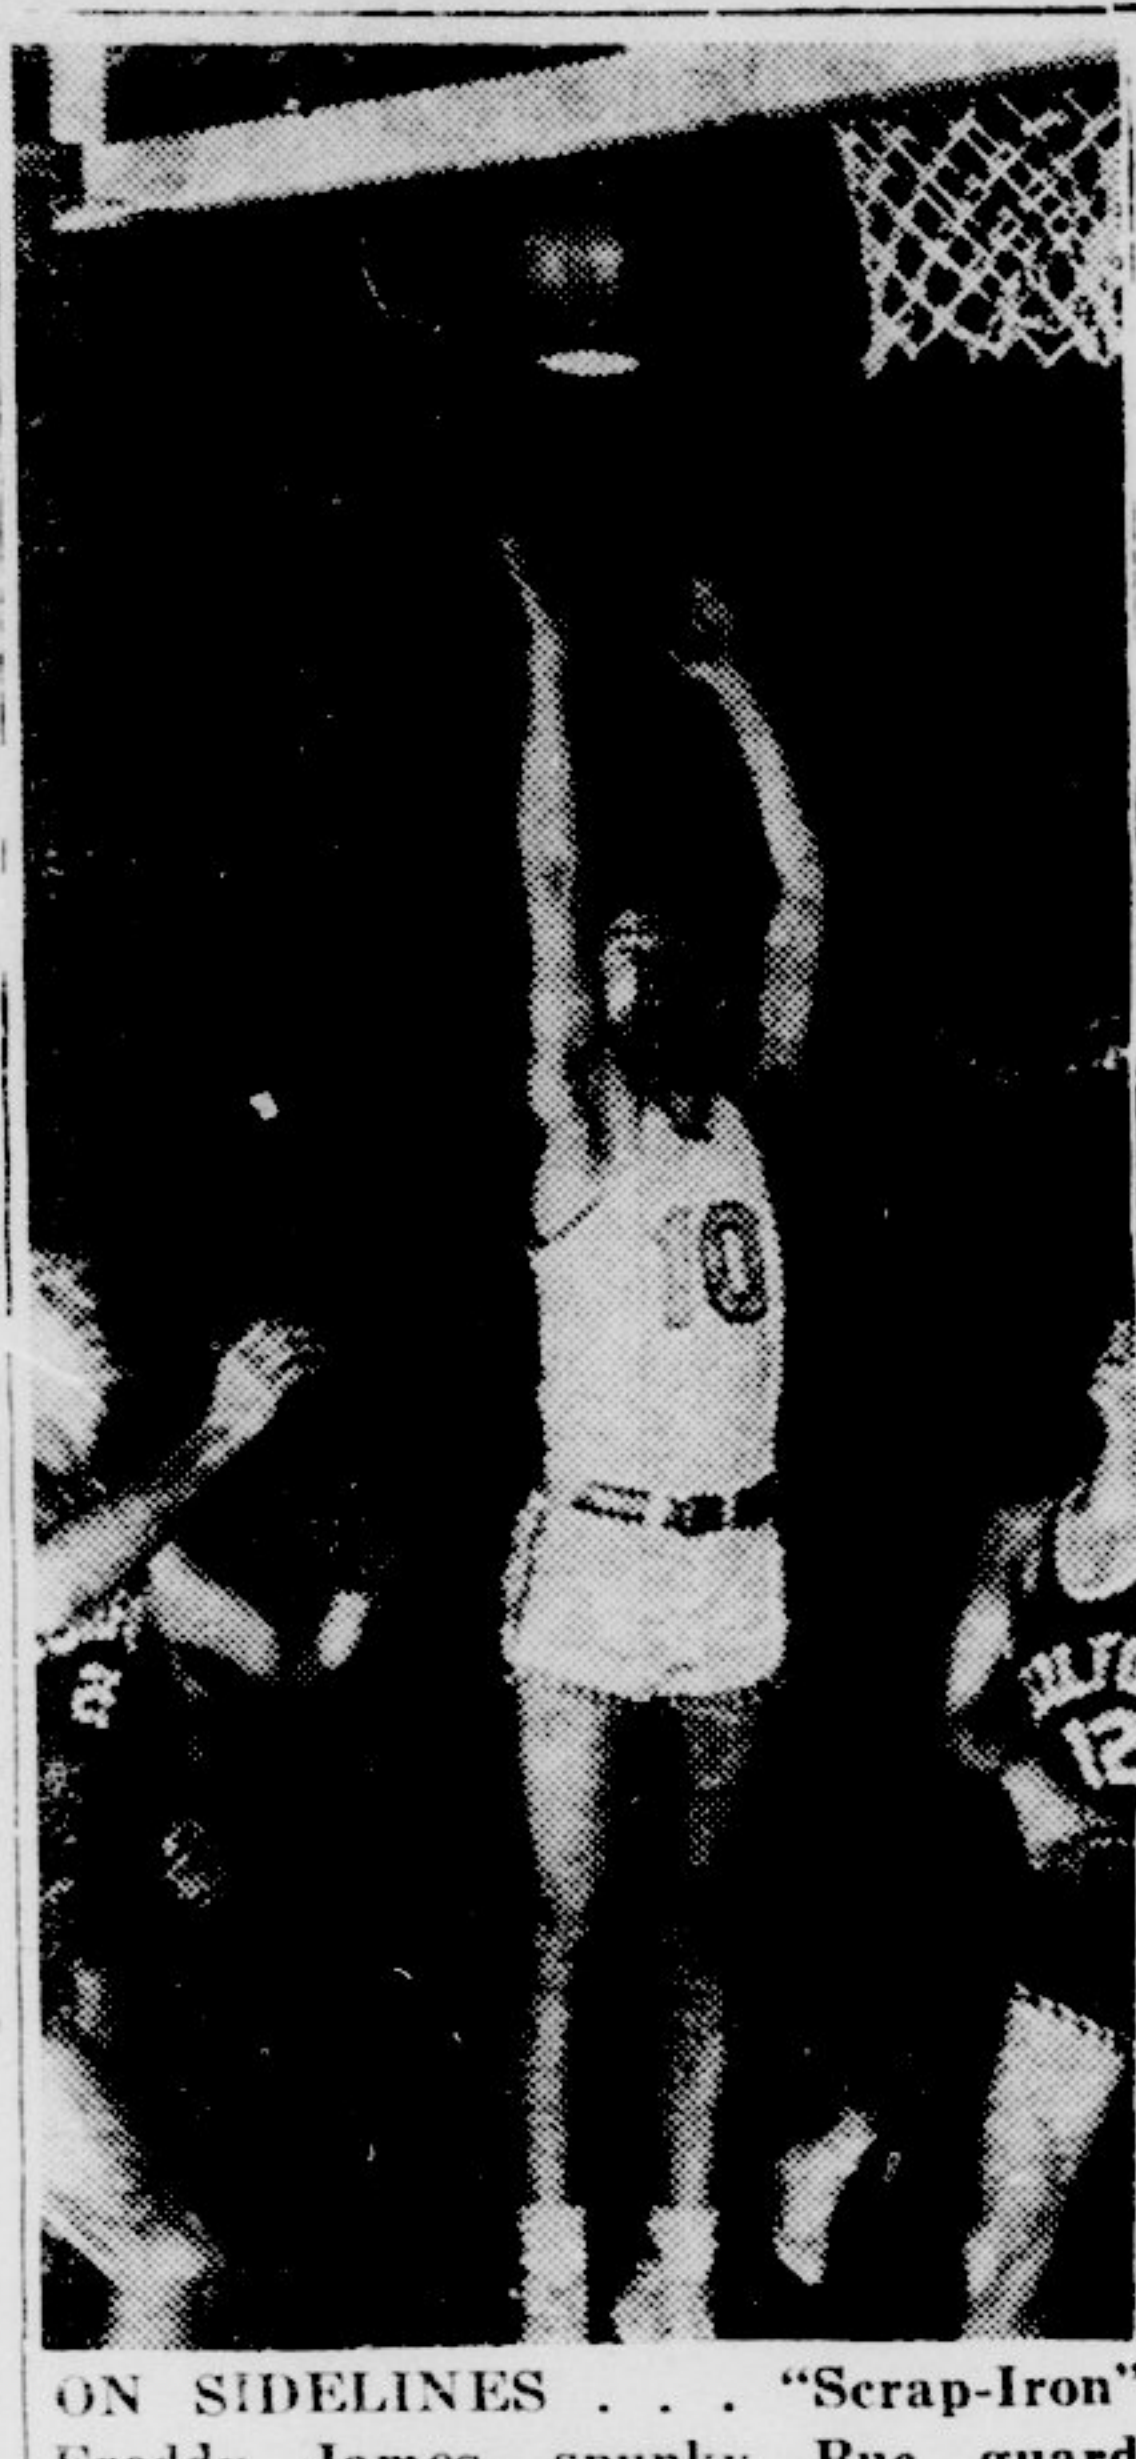

East Carolina suffered its first conference setback of the season Monday night, as the Western Carolina Catamounts waxed out a 73-68 win at Cullowhee, it placed the Pirates' North State slate at 8-1.

Playing the contest without the services of regular guard Freddy James, who was injured in an earlier Lenoir Rhyne game, the Bucs managed to keep the battle on even terms throughout most of the evening. ECC's high scorer, Captain J. C. Thomas, led the crippled locals in floor play and was assisted by Don Harris and Nick Nichols. Guy Mendenhall, playing an outstanding game at center, added 15 points to Thomas' 17 and Harris' 16.

Western Carolina's center, Bowen, took high honors for both teams with a 21-point performance.

Swimmers Smash Clemson

Coach Ray Martinez's swimming charges literally "sank" the Tigers of Clemson by a score of 61-23, to record their third consecutive victory and fifth win of the season last Saturday at Memorial Pool.

Earlier this season, the Tigers had beaten this same young Pirate team, but they were thoroughly surprised this time. From the opening event, the Pirate swimmers dominated the meet. It was the first victory over an Atlantic Coast Conference member for East Carolina.

Speed merchants Jim Meads was high scorer for the ever-improving Pirates, capturing both the 50 yd. and 100 yd. freestyle events. Jack Koerberling won the 200 yd. breast-stroke event with teammate Frank Moore taking second place. East Carolina has yet to lose this event due to the outstanding performances of these two men. Ken Midyette and Gene Lusk finished one-two in the diving ven with impressive performances.

Other Pirate swimmers who were instrumental in this well-planned team victory were: Harold McKee, Bob Sawyer, Graham Anderson, Ronnie Rose, Dickie Denton, Teddy Gartman, and Bill West.

The victory clearly stamped the label of future greatness for Pirate swimming teams. Coach Martinez has a team of outstanding potentialities, one which bears close watching. Larger schools are beginning to take notice of the Bucs.

by Billy Arnold

It seems that Lenoir Rhyne, when it comes to the sport of basketball, is still in the dark ages. Their recent contest with the Pirates found them wielding the axe with a primitive and roughhouse attack that crippled several Buccaneers, but failed to bring them victory for all their hostility.

In the Buc-Bear encounter of Saturday night, the visiting East Carolinians were met with a determined quintet, intent on preserving a 22-game home winning streak. Before the third quarter had passed, ECC's Freddy James, was out of the game with a dislocated shoulder and Nick Nichols was having repairs done on a bruised shoulder. Also, slender Guy Mendenhall, East Carolina's leading center, had somehow managed to collect five fouls (conveniently enough for LR's All-American Raeford Wells) and was sent to the bench early in the third period.

In other words, and to be perfectly blunt, it appears that East Carolina was getting the rough end of the bargain in every possible way. The Buc, however, despite all this mess, managed to outplay the Bears and rack up their eighth straight conference win, 70-68.

Pirates Trounce Lenoir Rhyne For Eighth Triumph

Big Raeford Wells, Lenoir Rhyne's high-scoring All-America center, jumped in 34 points against the EC Pirates last Saturday night in a meeting of the two North State powerhouses in Bear territory, but the Bucs came through with a slender 70-68 win.

A last-second field goal by Captain J. C. Thomas netted the Pirates their eighth consecutive triumph in loop play without a defeat and pushed them closer to the N. S. Crown. Don Harris was high man for the Purple and Gold with a total of 19 markers.

The Bears, upon entering into battle with the visiting Buccaneers, were guarding a 22-game home court victory streak and were favored over Coach Howard Porter's quintet. They

With James out of the lineup, freshman Tim Smothers, a 6-6 giant, who has been strong in reserve action or Coach Howard Porter's crew, will probably take over guard duties. Maurice Everette, a sophomore who has displayed fine scoring and ball-handling abilities, may also get to work some at the post.

"Scrap-Iron" will probably be out of action for several games and his absence in the purple and gold lineup will be a big loss to the Buccaneers.

led throughout the contest, after breaking up an early 23-20 edge by the Pirates. Wells was the big man for the Bears, popping in points from every position.

In the last few seconds of action, the visitors dropped in six out of 10 free throws to add to their efforts. Harris stole two consecutive passes from Lenoir Rhyne for baskets and Thomas' final field goal wrapped it up for East Carolina, 70-68.

Playhouse Presents 'Blithe Spirit' As Major Production

Alice Ann Horne of Tabor City and Eugenia Trulove of Wilmington will play the ghosts of the first and second wives of novelist Charles Condomine in a presentation by the East Carolina Playhouse of Noel Coward's comedy hit "Blithe Spirit." Three performances are scheduled for February 8, 9, and 10 at 8 p.m. in the McGinnis auditorium on the campus. The play, described as "a piece spun so airily that there is no time for it to hit anything except the funnybone," will be the major production of the Playhouse for the winter quarter.

Others chosen for the cast of "Blithe Spirit" are Charles Starnes of Wilmington, Nancy Cooke of Dunn, and Jacqueline Rouse Heson of Havelock. Jack Cherry, sophomore from Washington, is director of the Coward play. Dr. Joseph A. Withey of the college department of English is faculty consultant to director, cast and technical staff.

James Corum of Reidsville will appear in the production as Condomine, a skeptical novelist whose troubles begin when he arranges a seance to get copy for a new novel. Margaret Starnes of Raleigh will have the role of the medium Mme. Arcati, who summons the ghosts of Condomine's two wives and creates the eternal triangle situation, with
