Christmas Greetings

CHRISTMAS: Let us take some time to think of the real meaning of Christmas, and of all the people who have celebrated the birth of the Christ Child for more than nineteen centuries. I trust that each of you will spend some time in thinking quietly of what Christmas does and should mean and not let the spirit of love, kindness and sacrifice get lost or buried under the rush of "celebrating." Look beyond the tinsel, the bright lights, and the accelerated activity for the true meaning of Christmas and give something of yourself. Do this particularly where your parents are concerned. The chances are that your happiness and your plans have been uppermost in their thoughts for weeks now and that they are looking forward eagerly to your coming. Don't disappoint them by any thoughtless or inconsiderate acts. They probably still think of you as a wide-eyed child lost in the joy and excitement of your first Christmas. Spend some time at home; show them you appreciate all they have done.

Remember to drive carefully during the holidays. We shall be glad to have you back on the campus January 2 and trust that 1958 will be a happy year for each one. God Bless You Everyone.

DAVE BRUBECK

Colorful Dave Brubeck Quartet Here February 5

By BILLY ARNOLD

The Dave Brubeck quartet, composed of Brubeck on piano, Paul Desmond on alto sax, Bob Bates on bass, and Joe Dodge on drums, is the coolest of the cool jazz set. It will appear here, Feb. 5.

Within a space of some three or four years, Brubeck and progressive jazz have become synonymous. The quartet's special brand of music is a weird weaving together of classical concepts and the rhythm and mood of jazz.

Brubeck, say some of the experts on the matter, came along a few years ago and put jazz on the level of the intellectual. His music, though basically jazz, is shot through with "long-hair" or serious concepts. But it is good jazz.

An artist, Brubeck improvises while playing, seeking to create at each new session. His work is never set down on paper or already worked out ahead of performance time, except for the beginnings. Sometimes, the four will decide upon a beginning, sometimes an ending, and leave the rest to their artistic natures.

Many colorful stories have been circulated about the quartet, about Brubeck, about how the four came together to produce the foremost progressive jazz outfit in the country today. The most popular tells of how four raw college boys with the same ideas on jazz came together and arranged to perform in several colleges in the Midwest. From there, their success carried them to more and more collegiate performances.

A big record company heard of the new sensation being created by Brubeck, Desmond, Bates and Dodge and signed them to a contract. The company released some disks made from tape-recordings of the college con-

Dr. Bradner stated that he wished to urge the classes and groups to contact him early in order for him to arrange guest speakers for them. He pointed out that he had made the speaking schedule light in order to allow small groups to use these speakers. An evaluation will be held 2 P. M., Thursday in the Y hut.

Under the title, "Jazz Goes To College," and found immediate response from all over the country.

Since that time, Brubeck has been pictured on the cover of Time magazine, has made appearances on the Ed Sullivan and other TV shows, has performed in all the top jazz spots from Storyville to Birdland to Basin Street, and is generally regarded as the leading exponent of progressive jazz in the world today.

Fall Quarter Produces 110 Student Degrees

Students who completed their work at the end of the fall quarter include 110 candidates for degrees and two candidates for a two-year certificate in business, Registrar Orval L. Phillips has announced.

With other members of the Class of 1958, graduates of the fall quarter who are eligible for degrees will receive their diplomas at the annual commencement exercises, scheduled for Sunday, May 18.

All of the fall-quarter graduates at East Carolina are North Carolinians except four, who come from Virginia and Maryland. The 108 North Carolinians represent 46 counties of this state. Making up the total number included on Dr. Phillips' list are 55 women and 57 men.

Eighty-two of those completing their work at the end of the fall quarter are candidates for the bachelor of science degree, which is awarded in the field of teacher education.

Fourteen will receive the master of arts degree; and fourteen, the bachelor of arts degree.

Edens, Pasti Elected

BRADNER... supervising Religious Emphasis Week.

Geography Department Has Scheduled Several Speakers

Outstanding speakers in various areas of careers for Geography majors have been secured to speak to the Geography Department during the next four months. Emphasis will be on industry and government employment.

At a recent national geography meeting it was reported that about one third of these graduates enter the teaching field, one third enter government employment, and the remainder enter industry and private business.

The January speaker will be Professor Peter H. Nash of the Department of City and Regional Planning, UNC. He will discuss job opportunities in the field of planning, basic courses needed at the undergraduate level, and the planning program encountered at the University of North Carolina. Professor Nash was formerly Professor in City Planning at the Harvard Graduate School of Design and held the position of Planning Director for the City of Medford, Mass.

Gerald F. Albright, Head of the Small Industries Section of the Department of Conservation and Development, Raleigh, will speak at the February meeting. He will explain how the section functions to encourage, advise, and assist community groups in organizing and developing their graduates in the Department of Conservation and Development, and especially opportunities in the Small Industries Section.

The March meeting will feature a representative of the Hydrographic office, U. S. Navy, Washington, D. C. The Hydrographic office has a large cartographic section and it is actively seeking qualified personnel. On the day following the talk to the Geography Department, the representative will interview geography majors interested in employment.

A representative from the Army Map Service in Washington will speak at the April meeting and discuss its employment opportunities and also interview geography majors.

Deadline Set

The editors of the literary magazine announce that the deadline for contributions to the first issue will be January 21. All material submitted should be mailed to "The Rebel," Box 1420, ECC. A return mailing address and return postage should be included.

Recent Cold Spell Produced Unusual Sights

WRIGHT CIRCLE FOUNTAIN was covered in icicles last week during the recent cold spell in Greenville. Photographer Bob Harper captured the beauty of something that isn't often seen here in this shot of the fountain. The campus also got a brief and unusual glimpse of an owl.

Three Cheers For Brubeck; Reflections On Mayer Visit

BRUBECK IS COMING! East Carolina has been fortunate in the past with its concert artists and dance bands, but one element of music has been sadly neglected—contemporary American jazz. It's time something was done about it, and we hope this is just the beginning of a trend to present the students with good examples of the music of our times.

"It's terrible! It really should be banned. I sat up until four this morning and read every word of it. Simply disgusting!" No, it isn't the great American novel, as some muddle-headed critics have acclaimed it; neither is it a treasure-house of pornography, although this idea seems to be prompting some heavy reading and burning of midnight oil around campus.

Dr. Herbert Mayer visited our campus last Thursday and proved to be one of the better speakers we have had this year. What was impressive and rather flattering was the fact that he didn't "talk down" to the extent that many of our other visiting speakers have managed to do.

While we're on the subject, though, we thought it interesting to note that twice Dr. Mayer managed to have some effect on the students. He mentioned the problem of illegitimate children fathered by occupation forces in Germany and this caused a lot of hearty male laughter.

A new column, "Sidewalk Plato" has found its way into the paper this week, and if you have not yet perused it, you should be in for a rather interesting and thought-provoking experience.

Russian Makes Statements To ECC Students At UN Meet

By MARGARET GEDDIE

"Russia favors disarmament and is willing to stop nuclear tests at any time." So said a member of the Russian delegation at the Russian Embassy in New York.

Joyce Pierce, a junior from Rocky Mount, and Adolphus Spain, a junior from Washington, visited the Russian Embassy while attending a United Nations Seminar on Disarmament.

The seminar was sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee and was composed of college students from the U. S. and eight foreign countries.

The local students were also allowed to sit in on a United Nations Political Committee meeting on the Algerian question. These meetings are not usually open to visitors.

Gilley On Way Up --Hit Song Writer

By ANN SPEARS

Another young North Carolinian has joined the ranks of successful song writers to come from this state. He is Oscar Gilley of Leaksville, North Carolina, a senior here at East Carolina who wrote both the lyrics and music of the song "My Wonderful Lover" which is sung by the Storm Trio on the Jubilee label, and by Dolores Hawkins, on the Epic label.

This new record, his first, promises to rise among the top hit tunes in the nation! This is also a "first" for the Storm Trio, a new group from the Boston area, who have signed a contract with Jubilee records on the basis of this one record.

About five weeks ago the record was released by Jubilee and Epic records. At that time both renditions of the song were picked "Sleeper of the Week" on "Cash Box." On June 18, Jubilee records listed "My Wonderful Lover" high on their advertising list in "Billboard." Also, "Variety" gave them a very good write-up.

Oscar, who surprisingly enough is not a Music Major, but a Social Studies Major and English minor has had some piano and voice lessons and has always been interested in music. However, he had never written a song until "My Wonderful Lover" which he wrote four years ago. Since then he has been trying to get the song published. His big break came about 18 months ago when the machinery for getting a song published was set in motion.

Hickfang Sings Special Concert

Paul Hickfang, bass-baritone, a faculty member of the department of music, appeared in McGinnis auditorium last night in a program of songs ranging from Mozart to Gershwin and from operatic arias to spirituals.

Opening with Mozart's "Mentre ti Lascio," the program included songs by Brahms; "Ave, Signor," from Boito's opera "Mefistofele," "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen" in an arrangement by Burleigh; and songs by Gabriel Faure, Robert MacGimsey, and other composers.

A faculty member here since 1954, Mr. Hickfang is a Texan who received his music education at the Universities of Texas and Michigan and at the State Academy of Music in Munich, Germany, which he attended as a Fulbright Scholar from 1955 to 1957.

As a member of the department of music, Mr. Hickfang teaches voice and directs the college Opera Workshop. In February, 1968, the workshop group will present its student members in scenes from Smetana's "The Parted Bride" and in the Pergolesi opera "La Serva Padrona."

Carols From Other Places Make Program

Christmas carols from England, France, Germany, Latin America, and the United States made up a program presented Tuesday night, December 17. Directed by Dan E. Vornholt of the faculty, the College Singers, group of ten selected student vocalists, appeared in concert at 8 p. m. in Music Hall on the campus.

A special attraction on the program was performance of "Holiday Meditations" by a stringed ensemble, directed by Donald H. Hayes, faculty member of the department of music. August Laube of Greenville, bass, was soloist in the English carol "Twelve Days of Christmas."

Barbara Faircloth of Salemburg, pianist, accompanied the College Singers. Members of the group are Mr. Laube; Peggy Bullock, Lumberton; Mary Lee Lawrence, Tarboro; Dorothy McCleary, Portsmouth, Va.; Francis Swanson, Morehead City; Bobby Wilson, Winterville; Martha Ann Davis, Clayton; Faye Rivenbark, Wallace; Kenneth Ginn, Goldsboro; and Jane Fuller, Greenville.

Art Department Fixes Decorations

The Department of Art at the college is really celebrating Christmas this year in grand style. Students in the various classes have made decorations under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Persick and Mr. Neel.

Probably everyone who eats in the cafeteria will have noticed by now the splendid decorations hanging from the ceiling and some of the table decorations. These gay ornaments are the products of the class in Art in the Elementary School with Neel as instructor. The familiar theme of the mobile has literally taken a new twist in these decorations.

On the second floor of Austin doors was given to Mattie Lou Harshbourn or a religious scene; Betty Lou Marshburn and Carolyn Braswell, original; and Lillian Hofer and Peggy Bartour, home-like scene. Honorable mention for another religious scene was to Sally Codden and Ann Drennon.

Women's Dormitory Scenes Show Holiday Spirit In Action

The Christmas decorations in the girls' dormitories reflect the high spirits for the awaiting holiday. In Ragsdale, Lindy Lech, Pat Batten, Nancy Rawls, Sadie Barber, Betty Jean Dunn, Kitty Thurmond, Patsy Maynard, and Frances Winn decorated the parlor with a colorful Christmas tree. The front door was decorated by Margaret Rankin to represent a large package with a hand painted Christmas card wishing a Merry Christmas to all.

A prize for decorations for dorm doors was given to Mattie Lou Harshbourn or a religious scene; Betty Lou Marshburn and Carolyn Braswell, original; and Lillian Hofer and Peggy Bartour, home-like scene. Honorable mention for another religious scene was to Sally Codden and Ann Drennon.

Two large wreaths and a ceiling-high Christmas tree were made and decorated by Charlotte Strick, Ann Ship, Sue Randolph, Shirley Gall-more, Gwen McClamrock, Peggy Savage, Sandra Bunn, Barbara Crotts, Susan Dickman, and Ann Speller. Silver center pieces on the end-tables were also made by the committee.

Elizabeth Roberts, general chairman; Ethel Maxwell, Dotty Widley, Miriam Barns, and Betty Lee were responsible for the Christmas tree decorations in Wilson.

Fleming was also decorated with a Christmas tree and other Yule tide decorations. The committee names were not available.

Library Club Celebrates With Christmas Party

The ECC Library Club held its annual Christmas party December 5, at Dr. Southwick's home. Gwen McClamrock was in charge of the program, which consisted of a reading of Archibald Rutledge's "A Christmas Plantation."

Gifts were exchanged and afterwards the members gathered around the piano and sang Christmas hymns and refreshments were later served by Dr. Southwick and Mrs. Clanshaw.

PIRATES DEN

By JOHNNY HUDSON

Reports from the last North State Conference meeting held in High Point state that the conference will stress minor sports more in the coming years. This should be a big step in strengthening the conference.

East Carolina has progressed well in the minor sports and has dominated this phase of the conference program. Last year, ECC placed first in track and although not recognized as champions, were regarded as the best among the conference tennis circles. Golf, the other minor sport participant, was dominated by ECC golfers up to the past two years.

At the present time, swimming is not recognized in the conference as only East Carolina has a team. Other conference clubs hope to have one in the near future.

It seems that East Carolina will dominate this sport for many years to come. The Pirate Mermen have a big step on the other schools, already claiming the NAIA Swim Championship. This is the top achievement among small college ranks, and is the first ECC sport to win, although the basketball team made the trip to Kansas City in 1955.

Statistical Bureau

Another step taken in the meeting was the forming of a statistical bureau for football. In the past, only leading scorers were publicized by the conference. Some members, including East Carolina, have rated in the NAIA statistics.

Moses Crutehfield, head of the North State coverage, will be in charge of the bureau. All schools will send in their game figures following each game. The conference will also publish a North State Brochure.

Flaws Remain

Flaws still remain in the North State loop, and will continue to do so unless drastic changes are made. The conference is unbalanced in the effect that several members do not have football teams and another has refused to play others in the past.

It seems that the only solution of the problem would be to dispose of Atlantic Christian and High Point unless they took up the gridiron sport and add Wofford, Presbyterian, and Newberry, all organized South Carolina schools.

This would leave the conference with ten members, all competing in every sport. A round-robin schedule in football could eliminate scheduling problems but could also prove unsatisfactory to some schools.

ACC and High Point could emerge with Pfeiffer, Belmont Abbey, Erskine and Piedmont to form a new conference.

This change would make the conference better known since it would cover much more area. It would be good publicity for all schools involved.

East Carolina and Atlantic Christian could still remain a natural rival in basketball. A split in the conference would do little to interrupt this relationship.

Intramural Unstable

The intramural basketball season got underway last week and proved to be unorganized and unsatisfactory. Probably the most controversial matter was letting the clock continue to run during a timeout. This gives the team winning the opportunity to call timeout and not allow the other club a scoring chance in the final minutes of the game. This rule should definitely be altered.

The intramural Council should also establish a stable Publicity system. Football was handled well in this respect, but basketball has started off lagging. Someone should be in complete charge of posting the schedules in advance time and also reporting the standing and results.

It also seems that the system last year of having two leagues was more effective. Fraternities and other established teams should be in one division with the independent clubs in another. This would make competition keener and also aid in equalizing the teams.

Headlines Changed

Our headlines for this week's sport page were supposed to read as follows: UNC-ECC REMAIN AS ONLY UNDEFEATED TEAMS IN STATE. Due to circumstances beyond our control, we were forced to change this. The Bears made our crystal ball appear off beam with their dramatic 68-66 win. The Hickory crew seems to have the upper hand over ECC now. They ended the 50 homegame winning streak last year and have won the last four meetings between the two clubs.

Bob Sawyer, NAIA Backstroke Champion, is seeking All-American honors this year. The Greensboro junior, one of the best backstrokers in the nation, heads this year's defending champs.

Mermen Get First Win; Sawyer, Midgette Cop Leading Honors

East Carolina mermen swam to their first victory of the season last Saturday by downing William and Mary of the Southern Conference 56-28 at the latter's Pool.

Paced by All-American candidate, Bob Sawyer, the Bucs won their first victory of the season. The defending NAIA champions lost their opening meet last week to nationally-ranked Carolina.

Sawyer, the defending NAIA backstroke champion and one of the best in the nation, beat his own records in easing past the Indian backstrokers. The quiet-spoken junior also was a standout in the 400 yard Medley Relay won by the Pirates.

Tommy Carroll, a freshman, captured first place in the 220 yd. freestyle. Sidney Oliver had a first in the 200 yard breaststroke. Mike Williamson was first in the 440 freestyle, and Ken Midgette took top honors in the diving events.

The Bucs won both relays with Jack Koerberling, Teddy Gartman, and Williamson aiding Sawyer in the Medley Relay. Forbes, Gilco, Dyer, and Connelly, a freshman-studded combination, won the free style relay.

Tommy Tucker, another freshman, placed second for ECC in the 50 and 100 yard freestyles. Sidney Oliver drew a second in the butterfly, and Jack Koerberling did the same in the breaststroke.

Jack McCann had two thirds for ECC along with Carroll, Dyer, and Teddy Gartman.

The club still looked weak in spots, but showed improvement and is expected to rate along with last seasons championship club before the season's over.

East Carolina's next meet will be with Virginia Military there. The Bucs are still having trouble finding a schedule and the slate is small right now.

Defending North State champion, Lenoir Rhyne, knocked off the only unbeaten team in the state, besides Carolina, Saturday night by uprooting East Carolina 68-66.

In winning the game in the final seconds, the Bears also took over first place in the North State race with a 3-0 record. Their record for the season is 5-1.

Lenoir Rhyne, in a rebuilding stage after losing All-State center Raeford Wells, caught the Bucs sleeping early and then held on for a victory for their new and young coach, Billy Wells. It was the second victory in two nights since the Bears had beaten Atlantic Christian Friday.

The Bears took the lead early with center Dick Whittis pumping away. After 10 minutes, LR led 19-11. A couple of reserves, Charlie Adams and Guy Mendenhall, pumped in 9 straight points with Mendenhall's tip-in giving the Bucs their only lead of the half, 20-19.

Whittis, Bill Reece and Tommy Sellari then went to work to give the Bears a cushion at halftime 41-35.

ECC rallied early in the second half and Mendenhall's goal cut the score to 44-46. Harold Ingram then dropped in two free throws tying it up and seconds later added another to make it 47-46 ECC. Both clubs exchanged leads the rest of the way.

Charlie Adams gave EC its biggest lead of the night after 10 minutes had elapsed of the second half when his jump shot made it 56-53. The score was tied at 60-60 with seven minutes remaining. LR went ahead at 64-61 but Ingram's free toss tied it as 66-61 with less than two minutes remaining.

The Bears trying for one shot, lost the ball and ECC took over with less than a minute remaining. A shot with 22 seconds on the scoreboard was no good and LR called for time out.

The Bears brought it down court and then forward Ken Norman hit a jump shot with two seconds remaining to give the Hickory visitors a hard-earned 68-66 win.

Although fouling out, Dick Whittis led the visitors with 22 points, 19 of these coming in the first half. Tommy Sellari, one of the best ballhandlers seen in Memorial Gym for many years, was second high with 14. The Pennsylvania native spearheaded the Bears victory drive in the final half. Norman ended up with 11 for the winners. Guy Mendenhall, who did a tremendous job on the backboards, was high for ECC with 17 along with guard Jessel Curry, Charlie Adams pumped in 10 points and Don Smith got eight.

ECC hit only 31% from the floor, their lowest of the season. It left the Bucs with a 3-1 conference mark and a 4-1 over-all record.

Ike Riddick, sophomore Greenville native, has been one of ECC's mainstays thus far as the Pirates have cruised to a 5-1 record.
