Porter Out Of Head Coaching Picture; Smith Assumes Duties

Dr. John D. Messick, EC President, announced recently that Norman Earl Smith a member of the school's coaching staff for six years, will replace Howard G. Porter as head basketball coach.

Porter has filled the head coach position since he came to East Carolina in 1946. His coaching career has been lengthy, as he has coached at seven high schools in Kansas and Missouri, including twelve years service at Central High School in Kansas City, Mo., and two years as assistant coach to Forrest C. Allen at the University of Kansas.

In addition to his serving as EC basketball coach, Porter has been in charge of golf training and has taught physical education courses.

Porter is a graduate of Kansas City University, and holds a Master's degree obtained from the University of Missouri. Dr. Messick stated, in regard to Porter's future ECC capacity, that he will assume the position of full time golf coach, and will teach an increased number of courses in health and physical education.

Coach Smith graduated from East Carolina College in 1939, and returned later, in 1946, after which he obtained his Master of Arts degree from the college.

Smith came to ECC in 1953 to accept the position of assistant coach in basketball, football and baseball, after serving as athletic director and head coach of the same three sports at Campbell Junior College, where his teams had an outstanding seven-season record.

Porter's record at ECC is the best contained in the North State Conference files. The college's twelve conference seasons under Porter's coaching have netted a record of 123 wins and 38 losses against conference teams.

In regard to Porter's record, President Messick stated, "Coach Porter has had a marvelous record throughout the years, and the attention he has brought to East Carolina through his winning seasons has been, at times, rather phenomenal."

In spite of Porter's winning record, his career has been marked at times by student discontent and controversy. He has been hung in effigy twice in past three years. Two dummies were hung in the quadrangle in the center of the campus following the dismissal of Charles Adams and suspension of Jessel Curry on charges of insubordination during the ECC-Atlantic Christian game February 21.

Porter announced that the players' scholarships were being withdrawn; later, however, the scholarships were restored.

Dr. John D. Messick explained, "Inasmuch as the two have played hard all season and have played hard for prior seasons, the scholarships were reinstated."

"An arbitrary action could have justified their scholarships being eliminated but, the humane approach would reward prior activities instead of making a final incident the point of judgement. Therefore, what they had done previously, to my way of thinking, overbalanced a conclusive act which could have, in the light of arbitrary action, eliminated the scholarships."

Phi Mu Alpha To Sponsor American Music Festival

Phi Mu Alpha, national honorary professional music fraternity for men, is sponsoring an American Music Festival March 18, at 8:00 p.m. in Wright Auditorium. The Festival will consist entirely of music by American composers.

Appearing in the event will be the Phi Mu Alpha Men's chorus, under the capable direction of August Laube. Mr. Laube, who is a Sionian, is currently directing the Rose High School chorus in Greenville.

Several of the selections sung by the men's chorus will be Ferde Grofe's "On the Trail" from the Grand Canyon Suite; "It's A Grand Night for Singing" by Rogers and Hammerstein; and Irving Berlin's "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor".

The Brass Quartet, directed by Parnell, a faculty member of the Department of Music, will also appear on the program. Members of the Brass Quartet are Charles Myers, Tommy Spry, Jack Pindell, and Frank Bullard, who will play "Prelude" by Burrill Phillips.

An original work, "Chorale, Variations and Finale" by Mr. Parnell, will receive its premiere Wednesday night. This composition, written for trombone and piano, will be played by Jack Parnell and LaMarr Hadely, respectively.

Sigma Alpha Iota, honorary professional music Fraternity for women, will form a women's chorus under the direction of Geraldine Matthews. Selections will include "How Excellent Thy Name" by Howard Hanson, and Vincent Persichetti's "Hist Whist" Ann Darden will be the featured soloist in "Out of the Depths."

Also featured on the program will be the East Carolina College Concert Band under the direction of Herbert L. Carter of the music faculty. The "Ballet for Young Americans," a new work by Ralph Hermann. He is a contemporary composer, who is presently engaged with the American Broadcasting company as an arranger, composer, and conductor. NOTICE TO ALL STUDENTS

Campus Police Chief Johnnie Harrell has announced that the street behind Ragdale Hall has been made one way going east. Day student parking will be allowed from the east wing of Ragdale Hall to the intersection near the Training School. Chief Harrell asks the students to please observe these new traffic rules.

Ballots Carry Few Candidates

With voting slated for next week students are filing for possible candidacy in the forthcoming student government elections. The deadline for filing for these student government offices is March 13.

Thus far the offices of vice-president, secretary, and treasurer have drawn only one person for each position. They are Jimmy Owens, a junior from Beaufort, vice-president; Gloria Hofer, a sophomore of Hobbsville, secretary; and Charlie Dyson, junior from Rockingham, treasurer.

David Benton, a junior from Wilmington and William Faulkner, a sophomore from Rocky Mount are running for assistant treasurer.

Vying for the office of vice-chairman of the Men's Judiciary are Willard Baker and Don Conley. No one has filed for chairman. Robert Johnson, Jr., has filed for secretary-treasurer.

Five students—James Trice, Jeff Strickland, Teddy Davis, Derry Walker, and Tom Jackson—are rivals for the member-at-large seat.

Bids for chairman of the Women's Judiciary have been submitted by Sadie Barber and Sybil Swindell. Standing unchallenged for vice-chairman is Nancy Brown. Barbara Burch has applied for the office of secretary. The only girl who has filed for member-at-large is Nancy Louise Rawls.

Those filing for marshal must turn in their names to James Trice, Elections chairman, by March 13. The girls who have filed are Susan Wylie, Aileen Smith, Pat Batten, Patsy Maynard, Dorothy Smith, Nancy Brown, Nancy Gwynn, Madelyn Coleman, Faye Rivenbark, Patsy Cameron, Barbara Moore, and Betty Milton.

Others are Betty Faye Moore, Rebecca Crouch, Donna Langley, Betsy Russell, Jimi McDaniel, Nancy Cox, Judy Bledsoe, Marcella Cooke, Mary Brown, Barbara Jones, Bernice Baker, Jackie Crutchfield, and Molly Cooke. The marshal candidates do not have to have twenty-five people to sign for them this year.

Board Re-Elects Johnson Editor

The Publications Board recently re-elected Kathryn Johnson of Greenville to serve another term as editor of the EAST CAROLINIAN, student newspaper.

Bob Harper, photographer for the EAST CAROLINIAN during the previous school term, was the only other candidate to appear before the student-faculty Publications Board when it met February 19 to elect the new editor. Another candidate, Bryan Harrison, withdrew his name from the list of applicants prior to the meeting.

In their interviews before the board, the candidates were asked to give their views of the functions, services, and purposes of a college newspaper, and to explain how they would attempt to carry out these views in the production of the paper.

"I think the purposes of a newspaper are to educate, to entertain, and above all to inform," Miss Johnson told the Board. "Through our news stories we strive to give straight, factual accounts of happenings on campus; through our editorials we express the viewpoints of the editor; through the columns the viewpoints of the staff members; and through the letters to the editor the viewpoints of the students, faculty, or administration," she further commented.

Dance Invitations

All Juniors and Seniors must register for their invitations for the Junior-Senior dance on March 16 and on March 17, from 9:00 until 4:00 in the Student Union.

Three Vie For Prexy

Arthur DeStout, Tony Mallard, and Dallas Wells announced Tuesday that they had officially filed for the ECC Student Government Presidency.

These men were the only candidates to enter the race for that office by the time this issue of the EAST CAROLINIAN went to press. According to James Trice, Chairman of the SGA Elections Committee, the last date candidates can register for SGA offices is Friday, March 13th.

First of the candidates to file for the office of president was Arthur DeStout, junior from Fort Belvoir, Virginia. DeStout, who is now President of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity at ECC, has been active in the SGA for the last 3 years, during which time he has been an EC representative to the State Student Legislature, has served as the EC Co-ordinator of the National Student Association, and was elected vice president of the State Student Legislature last year.

DeStout commented on his aims if elected. "In my past experiences with student government work, I have traveled to many schools, in and out of this state as a representative of EC Student Government can be powerful if the students unite and get behind the SGA. It is this way in other schools and there is no reason whatsoever that it cannot be the same here."

DeStout listed several of his aims. (1) Periodical mass meetings of the students to discuss issues at hand.

(2) To conduct frequent student surveys.

(3) To have a strong student government run and delegated by the students.

(4) To unite the students of this college; to get what they want and only what they want.

(5) To try to get self-help salaries raised in cooperation with Dr. Messick and the State Legislature. This can only be achieved with full student support, he states.

(6) To emphasize the desires of the students and develop and put into practice what the students want. (7) To develop and organize political parties if the students so desire.

(8) Definitely to have by Fall Quarter, on registration day, an acceptable constitution which will be complete in every detail.

(9) Develop and organize unlimited cuts and privileges for upper classmen.

DeStout said he did not intend "to make promises and take stands about subjects that are unknown at present, but with 4000 Students behind the SGA, almost anything is within reach. I'm not afraid, are you? Stop griping, and do something about your SGA."

Mallard Tony Mallard, junior from Trenton, North Carolina, was the second candidate to file for the presidential seat.

Mallard has been active in various student organizations for the past 3 years. He now serves as vice president of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity at ECC. He has been a member of the Inter-Fraternity Council representing his fraternity for nearly two years, and served as Social Chairman of the latter organization last year.

Mallard stated, in his views of the SGA Presidency, "If elected, I will put forth every effort to give the students a larger voice in the student government, for I believe the SGA fails to perform its primary function when the power or control fall into the hands of a few."

He also said, "The SGA is the student government meaning that it is the government of the students by the students." Mallard listed several criteria he would seek to achieve if elected:

(1) To bring about more organization and unity to the SGA. This, when accomplished, will not only make the work of the SGA more efficient but also much more effective.

(2) To see the students at EC who have taken the initiative to get self-help jobs get better salaries.

(3) Complete the rewriting of a student government constitution with all the flaws of the present one ironed out. This I believe should be accomplished as soon as possible.

(4) To see the SGA work with the administration in putting forth a great effort to help the serious parking problem on campus.

(5) To look into the matter of privileges for upper classmen.

(6) To help make SGA life, and college life in general more convenient and more advantageous to the day students on campus.

(7) To work with students and professors to bring about a better intellectual climate on campus.

(8) To look into the matter of registration.

(9) To put into effect programs which will bring about a greater interest in SGA as well as a stronger school spirit.

(10) To see fraternities and sororities devote more interest to the betterment of the campus and the student body in general.

Wells Another candidate for the position is Dallas Saunders Wells a rising senior. (Continued on Page 8)

Carnival Committee Requests Organizational Participation

All organizations on the campus are invited to participate in the "Spring Carnival" that is being sponsored by the College Union. The purpose of the carnival is to provide entertainment for the students and to help the organizations on the campus earn some extra money and good publicity.

The organizations that want to participate in the carnival should submit an entry with the College Union for floor space or booth space. Organization entries must be in by March 20th and the entry fee must be paid by March 25th. The entry fee for prize giving events is $3.00.

The carnival is being sponsored by the Special Projects Committee of the College Union Student Board. The chairman of this committee is George Ray. The College Union will charge an entry fee to the prize giving organizations; they will add money from their own funds to the amount collected from the entry fee and use this money to buy prizes. The individual organizations will prepare their own booths and there will be a prize given to the best decorated booth. If any organization does not want booth space, it can apply for selling space. A fee is not charged for selling space.

Play Tryouts

The East Carolina Playhouse and the Greenville Little Theater will present William Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" in the Flanagan Sylvan Theatre on May 7 and 8 as a program of the Greenville Fine Arts Festival.

There will be informal preliminary readings for faculty, staff, townspeople, and students selected from Wednesday's readings on Friday at 7:00 p. m. in the Faculty-Alumni House. Those interested in committee work on make-up, costumes, sets, lights and properties are also invited.

This is the third Shakespearean play to be presented in the Sylvan Theatre. Others have been "Macbeth" (1956) and "As You Like It" (1957). Dr. J. A. Wilkey will direct and Dr. Robert T. Rickett will serve as technical director.

The representatives of the organizations who met last Thursday in the TV Room of the College Union discussed such things as instructions, fees, expenses, and regulations concerning the carnival. Several of the organizations made applications for space following the meeting.

Yvonne Smith, advisor for the Special Projects Committee, said after the meeting, "We feel sure after seeing the favorable response at the organizational meeting that the carnival will be a big success." "I hope that all organizations on the campus will be instrumental in this event and work to make it this year's outstanding activity," added Mrs. Smith.

Committees will be needed for prizes, decorations, cashiers, and publicity. No specific committees have been appointed yet. The College Union welcomes all students who would like to help with the committees. Any organization that has not entered in this function is urged by the College Union to hurry and submit an entry.

Messick Speaks In Weekly Series

A series of weekly talks by President John D. Messick and Vice President Leo W. Jenkins begun February 19 will continue through the school term.

In informal talks on questions of interest to students, Dr. Messick speaks on Monday night and Dr. Jenkins on Tuesday night. Broadcasts are scheduled for 10:30.

Dr. Messick stated, "I think it is important that the students and administration have a medium of communication in order to clarify questions which may arise in their minds and to things which may not be understood in connection with administration actions."

"The President Speaks serves as one way of answering students' questions and bringing to the attention of students direct messages which are thought to be of general interest."

Broadcasts originate in the studio of WWSB-AM, campus radio, and are now taken by carrier current to three of the campus dormitories.

Council Begins Work

The East Carolina Developmental Council, headed by President Wade Bodenheimer, has begun a campaign which can result in bringing about material gains and more prestige to our college.

Of the 89 N.C. counties represented on campus, 44 are represented on the Council so far. By the end of this week, President Bodenheimer says he hopes to have every county represented.

The representatives are to speak to members of the N.C. General Assembly from their respective counties in an effort to gain support for E.C.C. Their specific goal at the present is to try to obtain money for some items which were turned down by the state Budget Committee. These items are annex to the library, an extension to the student union, and the remodeling of Slay and Umstead for conversion into women's dormitories.

Aiding the Council in the fight for re-orientation and funds is Representative Walter Jones of Pitt County. Jones told the Council that some people in the Western part of the state still think of this college as a small school named E.C.T.C. He suggests that the way to remedy this situation is to let the people at home know how large E.C.C. has grown and to let them know about some of the things that we are doing.

This could result in more recognition, material gains, more new students, greater interest from alumni, and perhaps more scholarships provided by interested people.

If this Council is backed strongly by the students here and if it does the job correctly and thoroughly, E.C.C. would certainly gain much. And in the long run so would every student here. The more respected a school, the more respected is a man holding a degree from it.

In proportion to its size, E.C.C. educates a very large number of North Carolinians. There are only about 216 students here who are from out of state and only 10 students who are from another country. Someone remarked recently that the people out of state think more of the University of North Carolina than they do of North Carolinians. Well, this is not true of East Carolina. If the school is educating such a large number of the youth of this state, it certainly deserves enough money to do the job properly, since the people of this state are footing the bill.

Jonathan Daniels of the "News and Observer" recently told a group of U. N. C. professors that they had better get out and campaign for the University to get more state-wide support. He told them that at the present time, "E.C.C. is running with the ball." And he was right. We are running with the ball and we are going to keep it. Get behind the Council and give it full support. Help obtain the best for our school.

Think -- Then Vote!

S.G.A. elections are coming up next week. The time has come to end all griping about what the student government did not do this year and pick a man to head the government who will do what you want done next year.

There will be so few students running for the all-important office of president that everyone should have time to examine closely each candidate, his past record, and his qualifications. Choose your man carefully, and know what type of person you are voting for. What will be his interest and primary concern if he gets into office?

The primary prerequisite for an S.G.A. president should be a strong past record in student government affairs. Know what your man has stood up for, voted for, and done in his previous years in student government.

He must have dealt in student government affairs enough to know its strength or power, its limitations, and its needs for improvement.

He must be a strong willed person. One who is able to withstand pressure from all sides and still do what he thinks is best.

He must sincerely want the job.

He should have a strong, clearly defined platform. He must know what he wants to do if he gets into office.

Go to the polls. Choose carefully and vote. The responsibility of picking a campus leader is up to you.

Student Loses Hair On Head, Grows Beard

By BOB WHITING

There's a man on campus who is making a career out of college. At least, he has become a landmark around the place just like the old plaque that hangs in front of the college. I thought for a long time that he was Blackbeard or Bluebeard or some creep like that. You know, he has one of those funny, long, black beards hanging from his face. He really looks funny with his beard though. You see, he doesn't have any hair on his head, but he has a great mass of it growing from his face. Well, the reason I thought he might be Blackbeard or some Mongolian horseman was because he always gave me the impression that he would someday ride through the campus swinging a great sword and chopping heads off as he rode. He seems like that kind of fellow. You know, the kind who push little biddies into the creek and pull up young corn. He really gets a big kick out of it. You know the type.

Old Blackbeard told me after summer school was over that he was thinking about getting married and settling down. This I couldn't believe, really I couldn't. Well, when the fall quarter began I saw old Blackbeard again and he told me that he was married and had three children. Some of them were already grown. He's really a fast worker. He tried to tell me that he had some miracle pills or some crap like that that would speed up near about everything. I mean he has really sped up things around his house, but I still can't swallow all that bull. The other day he told me his wife was about to have another baby. He said he was only going to let her have one this time because it was much easier on her, and he would be able to put her back to work in the fields earlier than usual.

Well by golly, I saw old Blackbeard this morning and he had shaved his beard off. I hardly recognized him I mean he still had some hair growing over his top lip, but I had to look for a long time before I could identify him. His wife mourned for about a week or so when she saw he had shaved his beard. She thought it made him look like Clark Gable on some goon. She was really crazy about that beard, and more than disappointed when she saw it gone. Maybe she thought his face was his head since it had more hair. Anyway, I still don't see how she got through all that brush to kiss him; and how he ever ate is still a mystery to me. Anyway, old Blackbeard said that he was about to graduate or something like that, and that come warm weather he was going to pack the wife and kids and plow and cut out of here. He didn't say where he was going, but he mumbled something about looking for more land to farm. Something about his wife being strong enough to pull the plow for ten hours a day now, and that he just didn't have that much land on his place.

Blackbeard is really talented though. He's an actor, playwright, poet, and ambassador for that segment of the human race that has been trod upon by the powerful forces of capitalism. His greatest talent is shown in his poetry. When he gets in one of those poetic moods, it is nothing for him to write for days and days. He'll just rock back in his chair and pull on his long, black beard and roll his eyes in a circular fashion and write more poetry than you've ever seen. He says that if you drink a certain kind of wine, it will help you to think more poetically. He likes to press a beer can against the top of his head and hold it there for hours with both hands. This helps him to think more clearly. But when he really wants to think about something that requires a lot of meditation, poetry for example, he just lowers his head and runs it into the wall. He really is a good poet, but I am inclined to believe that he is a better acrobat. His wife gets on him from time to time about making loud noises in the house, but he says that a man's house is his own castle and that he is allowed to make all the noise he wants to in it.

Playhouse 90 is about to put the make on old Blackbeard, I found out. He said something about recently becoming an actor and I remembered hearing about him being in a play a while back. This surprised me because he had told me before that he planned to open a synagogue and bring lost souls back to life. I kinda knew this was only a big front though. He really needs more people to pull the plow on his farm. You see, he's really a very sensitive man and wants to retire his wife from the fields.

Little Nobody Provides New Regulations; Screaming Patrons Dissatisfied, Revolt.

By PAT HARVEY

"Slovie" Czeck is in! Yes, the boy made the grade. People are running through the streets screaming "No, no, this is insane, I don't believe any of it" or "It's a lousy Lawrence Welk joke." No, "Slovie" is our new president and his plans are guaranteed to change the entire student outlook on life.

Considered as a nobody, no one paid any attention to this young man. But now he is the big man on campus. After surviving here only a few months, Mr. Czeck has really set the students on fire with his campaign. Although Mr. Czeck's ideas may appear unusual in this neck of the college world, he plans to set up his staunch platform in the following manner:

(1) All students are expected to rise at 6 a. m. so that the guard on duty can inspect the rooms.

(a) If a half dollar will not bounce four feet when dropped on the bed, riding privileges after 12 noon will be withdrawn.

(b) Unless the trash cans have been washed in Tide, the students will have closed-study hours on week-ends.

(2) No reasons except acute cases of malaria, small pox and death will be accepted as legitimate "cut" excuses.

(a) All unexcused "cuts" will be dealt with by the armed guard presiding in each classroom.

(b) All excuses must be signed by your hometown doctor, three witnesses and the surgeon in charge of your operation.

(3) All dormitory doors will be locked at 9 p. m. except on special occasions when they will be left open until 9:15 p. m.

(4) Students having less than a 2.9 average cannot go home on weekends except during holidays when they can leave school with only a 2 average.

These are only a few of the mild resolutions and, after hearing about his attitude toward fun-loving students, one should expect many new regulations that will probably strike everyone concerned as slightly drastic. But, nevertheless, before Mr. Czeck was elected he informed the students, who listened to campaign speeches, of his intentions.

This has been the most enthusiastic student body since the last student prank occurred. Every conversation includes plans for murder; the newspapers are carrying columns about Czeck's election and how he won, and letters to the editor are coming in like mad from discontented (?) patrons.

Ah, excitement...

Driver Announces Plea For SGA Participations; Sympathy Acknowledged; Conduct Discussed

Dear students,

The time for elections is here again and the destiny of the Student Government Association for the term of 1959-60 will be decided. Last year, four major offices were unopposed in the elections which drew a great deal of criticism from students and alumni alike. The fault lies with us the students for being blind to the fact that it is our Student Government and with the help of the students it will stay that way. We say that the students have no rights in what happens on the campus but how can an administration have respect for a student government when only about 5 or 6 people have an interest in what goes on concerning the students. If more students would participate in student government work and put their efforts in the most practical channels, then the Student Government would truly be an effective piece of equipment.

By filing for an office and placing your name in nomination for the coming elections you can be a valuable core of the functions of the college. In the realistic vein, the SGA cannot change the world and satisfy the pet peeves (?) of everyone, so it would be needless to try. There are certain rules that are made by the administration that the student government has no control over but there are many things that must be done to further advance the standards of the college and to make it a more enjoyable place to be. This can be done by students. This can be initiated, studied and put into effect by the officers that will be elected next week. Please students don't take the SGA for granted and bypass a chance to be a part of a potentially effective organization. It is your student government so let's keep it that way. It is not a remote possibility that if participation keeps decreasing the authority of the students to govern themselves on certain issues will be taken away by the administration for lack of confidence in the body. This is merely my own opinion but I don't feel that it is so far from a reality to be said unless the students take more pride in their right to govern themselves on many issues.

Let's make this a good campaign by having every candidate opposed so that the students may analyze the capabilities of the individuals and select the choice accordingly. Let's make this a successful election year.

Bubba Driver, Acting President of the SGA

President Commends

Dear Students,
I would like to express my appreciation to everyone who sent cards, letters, and flowers to my mother during her serious illness. The doctor says that your thoughtfulness has greatly aided her recuperation.

Although the cancer was malignant, the doctor believes the surgery was successful. Thank you again for everything you have done for my family and me.

Sincerely,
Mike Kastias
SGA President

Actions Criticized

Dear Editor:
Recently I have heard much criticism directed at our administration because of attempts of some of its members to regulate signs of affection between men and women of the college. It would seem that the criticism for this situation might rather be directed at certain groups of parents who have placed the administration in the uncomfortable position as acting as moral censors. These parents insist that it is the duty of ECC to see that their daughters do not conduct themselves in an "unladylike" manner, while at school. It certainly seems that if the parents of these girls had done a good job of installing whatever principles of conduct they feel appropriate in the girls before they entered ECC, they would not have to fear that their "little dears" would misbehave as soon as they get away from home. If the daughters of these parents don't follow the code of conduct their parents feel are proper, this would most certainly seem to be a failure of the parents in the rearing of their children, and it certainly seems unfair for them to expect the college to do for their daughters what they, themselves, have failed to do.

If these parents are so afraid of the moral and ethical actions of their daughters in social situations, they most definitely should have sent them to a nunnery, not a state institution of learning. Our administration certainly should not have to assume the additional responsibilities involved in having to persuade students to conform to a code of conduct which the students' parents have failed to install in them after 17 years or so of trying.

His Name? Howell

Horse Was A Winner

By DERRY WALKER

Some people are big and some aren't and that's the way it goes. I mean, large; physically large. That is, well, maybe some of you remember Larry Howell, nicknamed "Horse," who attended ECC a year or so ago. And maybe you also recall that tiny little fellow Chris Johnston, who also was a student here. In those two you have the contrast between a Greyhound Bus and a Volkswagen.

I never knew Chris too well, but I shared a room with "Horse" one quarter. That is, I had the part of the room that was left over after "Horse" filled up most of it with his six feet-four, two-hundred and fifty pound frame.

Oh, you couldn't ask for a better roommate. Larry was really handy to have around. Like, I remember once when I had a flat tire and my bumper jack wouldn't work. I was in a hurry to get the tire changed, and "Horse" came out and held up the rear end of my car while I changed it. We made a great team in situations like that. For instance, "Horse" would pick up beds and hold them while I swept under them, which made the job much easier; no stooping down, or reaching under, or anything like that.

I didn't meet Larry until we had roomed together for about two weeks. You see, our schedules were different and Larry was playing football that quarter. Well, he'd be getting up while I'd be crawling behind the sheets, and he was in class while I wasn't and vice-versa. You know how it is with roommates sometimes.

I remember distinctly the first day we met as roommates. I was taking a shower and singing "Red River Valley" when "Horse" came in, put his big hairy paw on top of the shower stall, pulled it over and peered into it curiously, like a grizzly bear examining the contents of a lardstand. He said, "Hey, there, boy," and let go of the shower stall. The stall rocked a couple of times, and I rattled around in it while I chirped a feeble, "Hey, How you?"

"Horse" moved into the dormitory the next quarter, and I didn't see much of him after that. Once in a while we'd meet on campus and he'd grab me by the ankle and toss me playfully over his shoulder, or flip me into some tree branches or something. It was great fun, and I almost learned to fly.

Larry left school later on, and I hated to see him go. I heard once that he was in the army, then later someone told me he was 4-F. Well, that's how it goes. Me? I'm 1-A.

Putsy-Mixer At Work

They're Makin' Progress

By TOM JACKSON

The good ole maintenance department finally built a cement walk from the back of Slay hall over to Umstead. Good thing too. We hear that it was so muddy out there in rainy weather that "Big Daddy" Peoples was afraid to go out for fear he would sink out of sight forever.

While we are on the subject of cement walks, wonder if they will ever get around to building one from Umstead hall over to the parking lot. Don't know though. The way that place was last week makes us wonder if a cement walkway will work. Some think a swinging bridge would be more appropriate.

By the way, the boys in Umstead have named their parking lot. They call it "La Trop Petite."

Has everyone seen the new REBEL? It has some good stuff in it and it also has some not-so-good stuff, but taking all things into consideration it is pretty good.

At least we know there are some on campus who put forth an effort to create, and an effort, no matter how horrible it comes out, is better than no effort at all. Hope to see more manuscripts submitted for the spring issue.

Well, SGA election are almost on us. We certainly hope the students will get out and vote this time. For your own sake find out the issues and take a stand either pro or con.

This guy sat on the edge of his bunk and slowly went through the material remains of four years at East Carolina.

One by one he packed in a cardboard box the few things that he would carry home. The rest he cast into a large pile in the middle of the floor.

Used razor blades, grade sheets, old tests, a menu from Gino's, chewing gum wrappers, all went into the motley pile of litter.

Then he ran across a dirty envelope with a picture of a Christmas seal on the outside. Pausing to look at it a minute he wiped his red face with a shirt sleeve then cast it into the pile with the rest and began going through some more junk.

Then he stopped and scooped the envelope from the trash and said, "You know I never did send them that dollar. And I used those stamps too. Darn if that's right."

Then he pulled out his wallet, withdrew a crumpled dollar bill and shoved it into the return envelope. Taking another pull from the almost empty bottle of cheap bourbon he handed the envelope to a friend who was watching him pack and said, "Drop that in the post office, will ya. You know its a funny feeling to be graduating."

Grafs Discuss Education

By BETTY MAYNOR

As one of the husband and wife teams on the faculty at ECC, Mr. Eric F. Graf and Dr. Gertrude Graf bring to our campus quite a wide range of educational experience and experiences. Mrs. Graf is originally from Prague, Czechoslovakia, while Mr. Graf is from Bavaria in Southern Germany.

GERTRUDE AND ERIC GRAF . . . husband and wife teaching team.

These two new faculty members met while they were studying and teaching at the University in Munich, Germany. Dr. Graf has a Ph.D. in foreign languages and speaks English, German, Russian, Spanish, French, and the Slavic languages. She has also finished requirements for a Ph.D. in psychology. Mrs. Graf was assistant professor at Leipzig and Erlangen.

Mr. Graf was a professional actor, director, and stage manager for several years and explained that this profession is quite different from our system. In Germany, an actor must have two years of studies before he can become a professional. Then he is required to take an exam on such subjects as ballet, fencing, and horseback riding. He must be quite proficient at all of these sports. After he passes the exam, he must take any part that he is offered, however he is paid monthly, instead of being paid just when he finishes a play.

While an actor, Mr. Graf became interested in the voice, and began studying the psychology of the voice. In connection with his interest in music science, Mr. Graf operated a private school for opera singers.

Although he has published no books, Mr. Graf has published several articles, and at present is working on several books about psychology.

At one time Mr. Graf was a court psychological advisor for an asylum for young men between the ages of eighteen and twenty-five, who were without homes. He gave Rorschach tests to these young men.

at East Carolina College.

The Grafs also became acquainted with East Carolina through Barbara Harris, a 1958 graduate who studied at the Academy of Music last summer. Miss Harris lived with the Grafs for two months last summer before they came to the United States.

The Grafs hope to return to Germany in May to get their son, who at present is living with Mrs. Graf's family. Mrs. Graf plans to enjoy her visit home with the family and friends, but Mr. Graf will be working in Switzerland on his Ph.D. in social psychology. In August they will return to the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. Graf agreed that they like the campus at East Carolina, but they both also agreed when they said, "We do not like the climate, it is too warm." It seems that the Grafs have been accustomed to much colder weather than has been evident in Greenville this winter.

When asked what they considered to be the main difference between American and European students, Mrs. Graf said, "It is hard to compare the students under these two entirely different systems, because each student is a product of his own system."

There was however a difference which they both felt was to the advantage of the European student.

"The American student learns primarily to pass his exams with good grades, while the European student learns for sake of the knowledge itself. There is but one exam at the end of the school year, and the European student receives no grades in the University during his studies," stated Mr. Graf.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Graf were amazed at the number of textbooks the American colleges use, for in Europe students in universities use no textbooks at all. Mr. Graf explained, "European students must depend on lectures and reading outside of their courses to develop their opinion on the subject matter being taught them."

Another thing at which they were quite amazed was the fact that American students do not speak or spell their own language correctly. In Europe, languages are an integral part of the school curriculum from the grammar schools on up.

"In Europe, the education is much broader, than it is here," stated Mr. Graf. "Students are required to take all of the courses within the school curriculum before entering universities and they have to pass hard exams in all subjects taught before they are admitted to the university," he stated.

'Rebel' Issues Winter Edition

The second issue of THE REBEL, campus literary magazine, is off the press and has been delivered to most of the students on campus reports editor, Bryan Harrison.

This issue for Winter Quarter 1959, which was delivered to the campus February 26, contains short stories, poems, art work, book reviews and other features of interest to students.

"All material printed in THE REBEL is taken from manuscript of East Carolina students, for the purpose of stimulating interest in the literary field and improving the intellectual climate on campus, as well as providing an outlet for students who enjoy writing," Harrison said.

"We feel," he said, "that this issue is by far the best one we have printed. We were especially pleased with the reproduction of the ink sketches in this issue."

Since THE REBEL was created last year we have been experimenting with different types and styles of publication. We have tried many things in our search for a way to use a lot of material attractively and still stay within our budget."

Harrison also commented, "I don't feel that enough people contribute to THE REBEL and I would like for more students to submit their work. I am always happy to see any work that anybody brings."

Students who would like to submit material for the Spring issue should carry it to THE REBEL office at 309 1/2 Austin building or mail it to THE REBEL, Box 1420. The deadline for the Spring issue is April 8, 1959 and all work must be in by that time. Manuscripts and artwork submitted by mail should be accompanied by a self-addressed envelope and return postage.

"In addition to distributing the magazines to the students," said Harrison, "we send copies out to important people in the literary field, critics, writers, and newspapers. All together we mail out about 80 copies each time."

We are proud of THE REBEL.

ELECTIONS

senior from Williamston.

In launching his campaign, Wells has set up a list containing some of his objectives in his office campaign. "The following items," he stated, "are, to me, some of the important things I will try to put into effect if elected. Included are:

- (1) Continue with the revision of the Constitution.
- (2) Work for competent Men's Judiciary.
- (3) Try to obtain student I.D. cards for the Pitt Theatre.
- (4) Set up a new system in which the vice president shall be the speaker of the senate instead of the president.
- (5) Strive for a cleaner campus.
- (6) Help the college union in giving the students something to keep them on campus during the week-ends.
- (7) Better entertainment.
- (8) Changes in rules pertaining to women's dress in the winter, spring and summer quarters. It is my belief that the girls should be allowed to dress more comfortably during the warm seasons.

These are a few of the things that I shall work for if I am elected to the SGA presidency. Wells ended his resolutions by saying, "I am now working with my committee on a complete platform that will be circulated about the campus in the near future."

Mayberry Reigns At Formal Pi Kappa Alpha Dance

Vickie Mayberry, Pi Kappa Alpha Dream Girl for 1959, was presented at the first Dream Girl Ball at the Greenville Country Club Friday night.

She was selected from a number of candidates by the vote of the brothers of Pi Kappa Alpha and was notified of the title at The Dream Girl Ball.

Runners-up to the Dream Girl were Judy Jolly and Camilla Henderson, both of Greenville.

In selecting the Dream Girl, the fraternity announces the three top girls in advance, but the Dream Girl is not announced until her presentation at the ball.

This was the first annual Dream Girl Ball to be given by Epsilon Mu chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha here at East Carolina.

The formal dance and party was attended by the brothers and pledges of Pi Kappa Alpha and their dates. Music was furnished by Doug Clark's band from Chapel Hill.

Miss Mayberry, a five-foot-three-inch blonde from Elkin, North Carolina, was presented a dozen long stemmed American Beauty roses and other gifts from the fraternity.

The runners-up were each given a silver letter opener with the letters of the fraternity on it. Miss Mayberry, the new Dream Girl, said, "I am very honored to have been chosen as Pi Kappa Alpha's Dream Girl and I am very happy to be a 'Pika' girl."

"The Dream Girl Ball," said president Linwood Johnson, "is one of the most important social functions held by Pi Kappa Alpha each year. We all think this, our first Dream Girl Ball, was one of the finest socials we have had yet."

Jack Boone's EC Varsity Stops Stubborn Alumni Team 32-12

East Carolina's Varsity came alive in the second half Saturday afternoon to swamp a game but outmanned Alumni outfit, 32-12, at College Stadium.

Early in the third quarter, the Varsity was on the move and the running of Walkie Hanford, Mac Thacker and Tommy Matthews set the stage for the first score. Matthews, the Hertford star, carried it over from the four yard line.

Pat Draughon, a reserve last season, pushed the Varsity into a 14-0 lead minutes later as he scooted over from the three yard marker. Thacker ran over the two points to increase it to 16-0.

James Speight and Ralph Zehring, a couple of regular season starters who missed most of winter practice, took over in the fourth period and the shifty Speight broke loose for 27 yards and then on the next play carried over from the one.

Zehring hit Bill Cain with a pass to account for two more points and pull the game out of danger.

The Alumni, a threat all evening with the passing of Dick Cherry, scored their first TD midway the fourth period. Cherry, former All-Conference star, hit end Jessel Curry with a pass to account for 35 yards and a touchdown. The extra point was no good.

The Varsity reared back for their final score with Glenn Bass scampering 31 yards on a reverse. Speight passed to Bass to account for two more points.

Dick Cherry once again gave the grads something to talk about as he connected with Curry for a TD, this one going for 55 yards.

The attempt for the extra points was no good and the final score stood at 32-12.

Coach Jack Boone substituted freely in the action-packed tilt. The club looked a little rugged in the first half but smoothed things out in intermission and had little trouble rolling to their big victory margin.

The Varsity took a 12-0 win last season in the initial game but Saturday's win came over a much stronger Alumni outfit and gave promise of another strong club for the 1959 pirates.

All-Conference Ed Emory, Earl

Sweet, Wayne Davis, and Chuck Gordon led the line play of the Winners. Fullback Mac Thacker was the big ground-gainer for the Bucs but had plenty of help from Matthews, Bass, Speight, Hanford and David Rogers.

Lou Hallow and Jerry Brooks Sparked a rugged defense by the Alumni while Cherry and Curry provided offensive highlights with his passing.

Swim Team Leaves

East Carolina's Swimming Team will leave Greenville Monday and journey to Muncie, Indiana for the annual invitational National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics swimming and diving championships.

The East Carolina team of Coach Ray Martinez will be in competition on March 19th and 20th.

A team of about 15 mermen will represent EC in the annual event. Some of the outstanding swimmers to make the long trip are Bob Sawyer, Jake Smith, Tom Tucker, Tom Carroll, Jack McCann and Jim Meades. The two divers will be Ken Midyette and Glenn Dyer.

It was in 1957 that East Carolina won first place in the NAIA championship meets. In competition there against the dominant small colleges having swim teams in 1958, the Bucs emerged in 4th place.

At the present time the Pirate club is 5-5 in overall competition for this year. Their competition has been anything but the small college caliber though. Some of their opponents have been the University of North Carolina, Virginia Military Institute and Florida University.

Reaps Two More Honors

Greenville's Bob Perry closed out his gridiron career at East Carolina by taking two trophy awards for outstanding football performance. One award was made to him by Alpha Phi Omega and another in memoriam of Dr. Elmer Lanche by Dr. Grover Everett. The presentations took place as part of the annual football banquet held last Friday night in the new college cafeteria wing.

East Carolina And Elon Golf Linksmen Clash On March 21st

East Carolina College's golf team, the North State conference champions, open the 1959 season against Elon on March 21st.

Gone from last years team are Ira Land and Wayne Workman, who helped pace the pirates to their fifth conference championship in the past seven years. Even though they have suffered heavy losses, Coach Howard Porter's Linksmen are expected to be much in the running for this year's title.

Back from last years team is Paul Goodwin, a sophomore who played number two man at the beginning of last season but graduated to number one by the middle of the season. Don Conley a junior transfer from N. C. State is expected to help Goodwin carry the load. Together they should alternate between number one and number two. At the three and four spot there will be much competition between sophomore Jim Bell, and freshmen Skip Collier, Hugh Blair, and Mike Romanina.

The defending champions have started their drills and if the weather doesn't turn bad, they are expected to be ready for Elon College, the team they defeated last year by four strokes at Starmount Country Club in Greensboro for the North State Conference Crown. Elon will be without the services of Bobby Loy, a golf standout for several years, but they are expected to be in their usual top form when they face the Pirates. The Pirates hope to play a warmup match with some of the top men golfers in the area before the 21st. This should aid Coach Porter in deciding who his top four golfers are. East Carolina will play between ten and twelve matches this year including two with Babson Institute of Mass.

Intramural Basketball Crown Won By Rockin' Robins Team

By BOB GREENE

The Rockin' Robins, a hustling and spirited squad of basketballers, poured it on in the last half of the February 23 Championship game to defeat the Fraternity Champs, Lambda Chi Alpha, by a decisive 59-29 score. Previously, the Robins had edged the Bombers 47-45 to gain the finals.

Independent Play-off

In a play-off match to decide the winner of the Independent Division the Robins had to overcome a first-half deficit to gain a hard fought victory over the Bombers. Charlie McDonald's rebounding and scoring led the Robins attack. Benton's 13 and Watkins' 11 points supplemented the Robins drive. The Robins stifled the Bomber offensive with a 2-1-2 zone defense. Don Prince, with 15 points led the Bomber's scoring effort.

Championship Game

The Championship game saw the Robins jump to a quick 13-1 lead on the strength of four consecutive baskets, two on jumps by Bob Benton, a tap-in by McDonald, and a push-shot by Bob Watkins. However, the Robins' big lead was short-lived as Charlie Ward's 8 points led Lambda Chi's late first-half rally. The Robins' scoring punch reached a stalemate and the first half ended with them holding a 19-17 lead.

Second-half Rump

Three quick baskets at the beginning of the second half enabled the Robins to regain a broader margin of lead. Both clubs had elected to "play it cool" at the beginning of the half, but as the Robins widened their lead, Lambda Chi continuously fouled in attempting to gain possession of the ball. Led by McDonald, the Robins repeatedly tossed in their free throws. A temporary press, too,

Emory . . . Best Blocker

Junior Edward Emory of Lancaster, S. C. received the Pitt Theatre annual best blocking trophy, awarded to an East Carolina football lineman each year. Emory, a 210 pound guard, will be back in action again next fall when the Bucs open their 1959 football slate.

Nichols In AC-NSC Basketball Contest

Nick Nichols, ECC forward, was named to the All-Conference club just prior to the spring holidays. The All-Conference selection was made by the Greensboro Daily News.

Nichols, a Leaksville native, finished the season with a 10.4 average and also captured over 10 rebounds per game. The senior Captain lead his team to a third place finish in the North State loop and a seven game winning streak toward the end of the campaign.

Nick was an outstanding prep star for Tri-City in Leaksville in 1953 when they captured the State AA title. He played in the shadow of Roy Searey, who later played at Carolina, but came into his own as a college star.

The "Blond Bomber" has been a regular for four seasons although having to sit out the 1957 schedule with a shoulder injury. Nick was a starter during his freshman year and topped All-Tournament honors during his junior year.

He had trouble finding the scoring touch this winter after the year lay-off but came on strong at the end of the season. His rebound work and his ball handling were probably his biggest assets to the team.

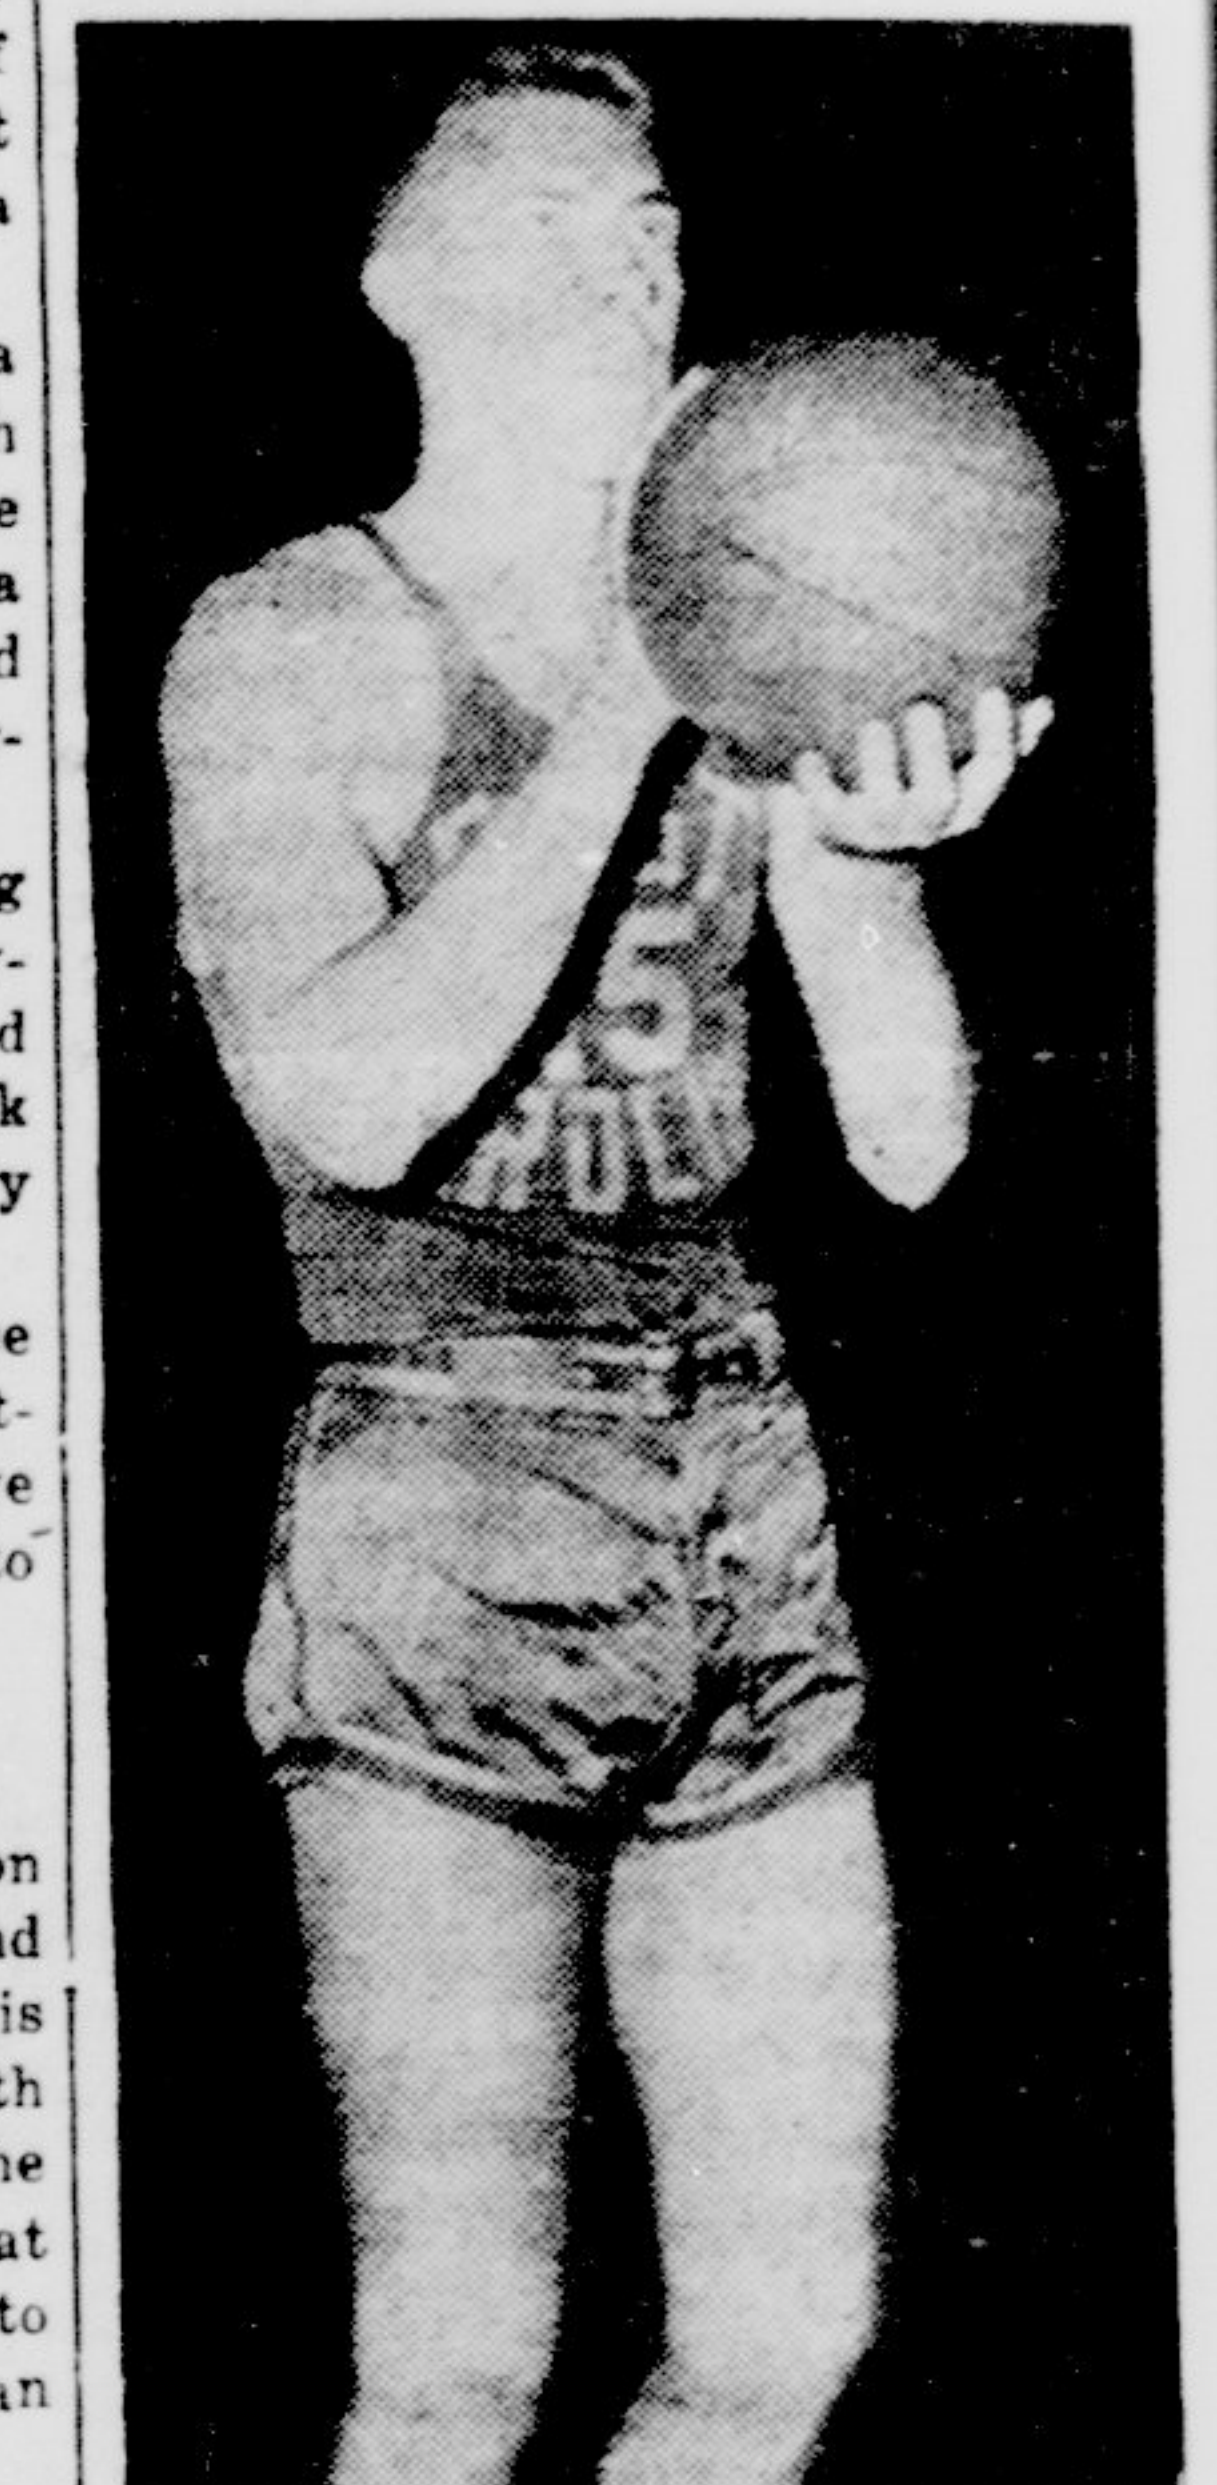

Nick will graduate along with three other starters. He has had an outstanding career at ECC and will leave a big spot for Coach Earl Smith to fill next winter.

CU Members Attend Conference

The East Carolina College Union was represented by Dot Smith and Ronnie Stephens at a conference this weekend sponsored by North Carolina State College Union. The purpose of the conference held at Camp Durant, near Raleigh, was to discuss the ways of organizing an outing club.

The Delegates from the University of Virginia, whose outing club is a member of Intercollegiate Outing Clubs Association, led the discussion concerning outing activities, regional and national membership in IOCA.

All-Conference Nichols

In a coveted "first time affair," Nick Nichols has been selected to participate in a basketball contest which will pit Atlantic Coast Conference Stars against North State Conference Stars.

Swim Fun Program Highlights Women's Recreation Activities

On Wednesday, March 18, at 7:00 P.M., the Women's Recreation Association is sponsoring a "Swim Fun" for all girls who wish to participate.

Girls are urged to form a team of eight members, select a fancy name for their team and then turn the entry into Gay Hogan, Room 203 of the College Gymnasium.

All entries must be turned in by March 13. The names of the girls for each team must be entered on the form which Miss Hogan has for this event. Each girl will be allowed to swim in only two individual events but may participate in three events.

The races will consist of such things as blowing the ping pong ball across the pool in shallow water which will allow beginning swimmers to enter this particular event. Each swimmer must blow the ball the width of the pool one time.

In the dress and undress relay, each team must bring one short sleeved shirt with buttons down the front and one pair of shorts or bermudas. Each swimmer will swim one width of the pool.

In other races there will be the back crawl one length of the pool, front crawl, breast stroke, and free style relay.

In all the form phase of the "Swim Fun" there will be the demonstration of the side stroke, back crawl, and performance, which will take place from the low board.

Forms for entering may be obtained from Miss Hogan in the gym and all girls interested in the program are asked to contact her for any further questions.

East Carolina's Women's Recreation Association Basketball team defeated The Rex Hospital Nurses in Raleigh on March 7 to remain undefeated in hardcourt play.

Janice Edwards led the scoring by tossing in 38 big points. Claudine Hodgin and Ellen Eason were also predominant in the win.

Rex Hospital's girls came to ECC on Tuesday night to seek revenge for this and another loss handed to them by the WRA squad.

The ECC girls have remaining games with UNC, Pineland, Averett and Duke.

Garrett Dormitory captured the playoffs between the two WRA leagues by winning out over Third Floor Cotten Hall on Monday, February 23. In the score of 63 to 43, Claudine Hodgin scored 25 big points, Sylvia Bensley had 23 and Helen Liles 15. For the losing Cotten Hall team, Anne Craft notched 25 points.
