Notables Cite Citizen Rawl In Building Dedication Rites

By BETTY MAYNOR

"His friends esteemed him for his virtues, his community, for his civic pride," thus concluded the dedicatory address given by Dr. Robert Lee Humber in recognition of the life and service of Edwin E. Rawl. A large gathering of the Rawl family, faculty, staff, and friends of the college witnessed the dedication of Edwin E. Rawl Classroom Building, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Rawl, prominent business, civic, and church leader in Greenville, served on the East Carolina Board of Trustees from 1953 to the time of his death in July of 1958. During his five years as a member of the board, he served as vice-chairman, member of the executive and scholarship foundation committees, and chairman of the budget-building committee.

In 1953 Mr. Rawl headed the fund-raising campaign which enabled the college to build a stadium. He was founder and first president of the Pirates Club of the college. A native of Batesburg, South Carolina, he was a graduate of the Citadel in Charleston.

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, president of the college, presided over dedication activities, and introduced Dr. Humber by saying, "It is quite fitting that one great citizen should deliver the dedicatory address in honor of another great citizen."

Dr. Humber commented during his address, "It is only the institutions, home, church and school, working together, that can create a nation such as we desire the United States to be." "Benjamin Disraeli has said, 'Institutions (colleges and universities) are trying to create a climate for thinking. They are the media that form national unity, the workshop out of which emerge national leaders.'"

"Do we need in this hour and in this world, a college or colleges in our modern civilization? We need these trusting places, where the heritage of the ages can be re-appraised and re-evaluated, where man's destiny can be re-defined. . . ."

"The colleges and universities of today are a rendezvous for those who wish to enrich their minds and refresh their spirits. . . ."

"Let us make this college a veritable shrine for those who believe in the triumph of the human spirit, in the fraternity of learning and the brotherhood of man. . . ."

"Edwin E. Rawl was a man denoted by his very character, as thinking beyond his own domain of immediate interests, and it is in his honor that we dedicate this building at the college which he served with unflinching initiative and enthusiasm. . . ."

"To our friend, Edwin E. Rawl. . . ."

After the dedicatory address, Dr. Jenkins praised Mr. Rawl by paraphrasing a passage of scripture, "He at all times did more than others."

E. E. Rawl, Jr., introduced members of the Rawl family in attendance. Before the unveiling of the portrait of Mr. Rawl, Dr. Jenkins read two messages received in conjunction with the dedication—one from Dr. Messick and the other from Mr. Rawl's brother.

Edwin E. Rawl III unveiled the portrait of his grandfather, painted by Mrs. Georgia Pearsall Hearn.

J. Herbert Waldrop, chairman of the Board of Trustees, accepted the portrait on behalf of the college. Mr. Waldrop remarked, "I think it is all together fitting that this beautiful building be named in honor of Edwin E. Rawl. . . ."

Following the dedicatory address, Alison Hearn Moss, soprano, sang "That Cause Can Neither Be Lost Nor Stayed." The Reverend Percy B. Upchurch led the prayer of dedication.

At the reception following the service members of Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority served as hostesses.

UNC Symposium Set March 27

The 1960 Carolina Symposium, a "concerted effort by the students, faculty, and administration of the University of North Carolina to bring into perspective the dimensions of the contemporary world and to turn students' visions to the future," will be held the week of March 27 through April 3 on the U.N.C. campus.

The theme of the Symposium is "The Image of Man; The Individual in an Accelerating Culture."

An important feature of this year's Symposium is the Intercollegiate Seminar which will be held during the first three days of the Symposium for selected students from colleges throughout the state and nation under the direction of Dr. Warren Ashby, professor of philosophy at Women's College in Greensboro, N.C.

This special closed seminar is to provide an intellectual exchange focused upon the Symposium theme. Those participating in the Seminar will have the opportunity of meeting Symposium lecturers and discussing with them the issues under consideration. This year's lecture series includes speakers on varied subjects dealing with the present intellectual status of man.

The regular Carolina Symposium is free and open to the public. The Intercollegiate Seminar is open to students who write as soon as possible to Intercollegiate Seminar, Box 638, Chapel Hill, N.C.

DROP DATE

Registrar Dr. John H. Horne announces that the last day to drop a course without receiving a failing grade is March 30. All drop-add slips, properly filled out must be in the registrar's office not later than 4:30 p.m. on this date.

West, Speight, And Hamilton Discuss Platform Points

BARNEY WEST

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTES: First to announce his candidacy for the presidency of the SGA, Barney West is majoring in social studies. He hails from Durham and like his two opponents, he is a junior. His SGA experience has been gained serving as the senatorial representative for the junior class and as a member-at-large for the Men's Judiciary.

West served as parliamentarian for the recent North State Conference SGA meeting. He is also a delegate for the State Student Legislature and has been selected to work on the executive committee of that group.

Other campus affiliations have centered around the YMCA, when he served as president last year, and the Campus Christian Council. West was chairman of the recent Religious Emphasis Week.

PLATFORM COMMENTS: "I believe a candidate needs to be specific in his views and therefore, if elected president, I will devote my energies to the following accomplishments:

(1) Full examination week — "It will not be too difficult for future college catalogues to be constructed to include a full-exam week. The present system offers too much pressure—we need to end the nightmarish practice of three exams in one day."

(2) Unlimited cuts for upperclassmen—"Anyone above a sophomore standing can merit unlimited cuts. By this time, he is supposed to have on over-all scholastic average of '3' and have started to become a responsible person."

(3) SGA scholarships—"There is a great need for more scholastic and athletic scholarships. The lack of a strong endowment program is the reason for our failure to mature rapidly in comparison to schools of similar size."

(4) Registration solution — "We need to pressure the administration to make some drastic changes. Pre-registration can be made into a permanent registration, if they have a mind to accomplish this goal."

(5) Entertainment series—"More attention should be given to campus-wide selection. The SGA should spend more money and get the big names!"

(6) Lecture series—"I'm very interested in a free-thought lecture series for East Carolina. Such men as Carl Sandburg can be induced to visit our campus. I feel that the SGA can attract private interests, such as educational foundations, to bear the expense of such a program."

(7) Public Relations Committee—"The SGA could provide a valuable service to the school and the student body by serving as a liaison between East Carolina and state legislators."

(8) Honor System—"There's a need for student approval, but I'm not for an immediate vote on this issue. A serious attempt to thoroughly educate and publicize such a system should be the logical approach."

(9) Community affairs — "I want to see the SGA and Greenville city leaders form a permanent committee to develop better relations with the merchants for the students."

JIM SPEIGHT

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTES: Jim Speight is a native of Kinston. He has often been confused with Jim Speight, the football player. This Speight, however, is a junior and his field of major study deals with science. His SGA experience began this year with election to the position of Jones Hall president. This position led the way to Men's Judiciary duty, Budget committee work, and delegate representation at the North State Conference SGA and the State Student Legislature.

A fraternity man, he has just been elected to serve as Historian for Kappa Alpha Fraternity. His remaining campus interest is centered around the activity of the Circle-K Club.

PLATFORM COMMENTS: "I've given it a lot of thought and if elected, I'll work for the following goals:

(1) Unlimited cuts—"I want to visit other schools and observe their systems for comparison. Then, I'd like to see a suitable plan presented to the administration."

(2) Entertainment poll—"After a student-wide poll is taken, a presentation could then be made to the Budget committee before they make final appropriations. I also would like to see the SGA originate a quarterly schedule of planned weekend entertainments."

(3) Later Dorm Hours—"The hours women students have to be in the dorm needs revising. We need to be more liberal for special occasions in granting later permission. At Meredith College, the girls don't have to be in on weekday nights until eleven o'clock."

(4) Registration orientation—"The SGA needs to sponsor an orientation period for the freshmen before they go through the maze of registering for the first time."

(5) Recognition plan—"Brochures publicizing the school should be prepared. The Student Development Council needs to be activated. More congressional connections should be stressed."

(6) SGA support—"We need the backing of a more informed student body. We should encourage student enlistment through every available medium."

BILL HAMILTON

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTES: Hamilton is a junior from Raleigh and is majoring in social studies. To date, there has been no SGA experience in his campus background. Most of his organizational experience has been derived from fraternity affiliations. As a member of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity, he has been an instrumental figure in various committee projects for the group. The coming Pan-Hellenic IFC Ball has received quite a bit of his personal attention, his position as chairman of the IFC Social Committee has placed this event in his hands. Rounding-out his list of campus activities, he is presently serving as treasurer of the Young Democrats Club.

PLATFORM COMMENTS: "I'm making no promises and no vows, but if elected, I will work for the following:

(1) "I'm striving for mass participation on behalf of all campus activity."

(2) "I'm seeking self-government, separate from administration policies we can govern ourselves; instead of accepting everything, let's complain."

(3) "These are my central points, I feel I can offer the student body a strong SGA. I'm willing to stick my neck out for the students!"

(4) "As far as unlimited cuts are concerned, I'm a strong advocate for a system designed for upperclassmen."

(5) "As soon as possible, we need an honor system referendum to determine if the students really want it."

(6) "Finally I'm also in favor of weekend entertainment and the admission of East Carolina to the Southern Conference."

SENIORS

Dr. John H. Horne, Registrar, reminds all seniors, planning to graduate by August of 1960, must have an over-all grade average of "3". A grade average of "3" in their major field of study is also required. All students planning to graduate by August are asked to come by the Registrar's office as soon as possible to make application for graduation.

NOTICE

The Student Book Exchange will re-open Monday, March 21st from 1:00 p.m. until 4:00 p.m. Students desiring to pick up unsold books AND MONEY from those books that were sold are urged to come to do so on this date.

Three Enter Prexy Race

By MIKE KATSIAS

Three campus personalities are now in the running for the student government presidency. The names of Barney West, Jim Speight, and Bill Hamilton lead an array of candidates seeking the student offices that will be decided next Thursday, March 24.

Until just before deadline, there appeared to be only one candidate for the vice president position, but a darkhorse has decided to launch a write-in campaign. Billy Nichols had filed earlier in the week and appeared to be the sole selection. Then, Edgar Williams of Wilmington announced his attempt at trying to conquer the write-in jinx—there has never been a candidate elected in this manner.

A last-minute confusion over the listing of announced candidates has prevented the EAST CAROLINIAN from presenting the complete slate of office-seekers.

By virtue of constitutional provision, Charlie Munn of Rockingham has virtually been elected as the new SGA treasurer. The constitution states that, "the candidate for treasurer must serve first in the capacity of assistant treasurer." Bobby Ward of Greensboro was the early man in the race for the assistant treasurer's post, which Munn will vacate.

Another constitutional provision has cleared the way for Otis Strother to seek the post of Men's Judiciary Chairman unopposed. The rivalry over the remaining judiciary posts has not been definitely decided.

Campaign propaganda is expected to cover the campus during the coming days as election eve draws near. Reliable SGA informants feel that more write-in candidates can be expected to come out and follow Williams' pattern of running for office.

Campus radio station WWWS is planning a complete up-to-the-minute election returns coverage in the forthcoming SGA election. The station will broadcast the returns direct from election headquarters in Wright Building hourly, beginning at 3:30 p. m. election day.

The station also plans to tape record the campaign speeches presented by the various candidates in Austin Auditorium and re-broadcast them on Wednesday night, the 23, beginning at 9:30.

Four Freshmen To Perform At EC

Big-name entertainment will appear on campus this weekend under the joint sponsorship of the SGA, fraternities, and sororities. The Four Freshmen, one of the country's leading popular vocal groups, will be featured in a special concert and later in the evening, the Larry Elgart Orchestra will complete Saturday's festivities providing the music for the panhellenic IFC Ball.

Concert Plans

The Four Freshmen concert will be in Wright Auditorium at two o'clock. Expense for this event is being covered by the backing of SGA and the social fraternal and sorority groups. A capacity crowd is expected by student planners questioned concerning the entertainment schedule. This event will be open to the entire student body.

Bill Hamilton, Social committee chairman for the IFC and over-all chairman for the weekend's activities, commented that dress for the occasion will be semi-formal. Coats and ties are suggested for men and cocktail dresses for women.

Immediately following the concert, the Four Freshmen group and the Elgart Orchestra will be entertained at the Lambda Chi Alpha House by that fraternity's members.

Elaborate Pan-Hellenic Ball The annual Panhellenic IFC Ball, which will be strictly handled by bid, will begin around eight o'clock the same night in Keel's Warehouse on Dickinson Avenue. Due to expectations of a record crowd off-campus arrangements had to be provided.

Dress for this occasion will be formal. The Panhellenic organizations have agreed to an optional choice between formal tux or dinner jackets.

DECORATING . . . Alpha Delta Pi pledge Ray Lane is shown up on a ladder as she adds a few last minute touches to decorations for the IFC-ISC Panhellenic Ball to take place this weekend. The Four Freshmen, plus Larry Elgart and his orchestra will be on hand to entertain for the affair.

President Jenkins Issues Ruling In Austin Organ Controversy

President Leo W. Jenkins ruled this week that music students who must practice on the organ in Austin building during periods one through eight may use only one string or one flute stop on each manual.

The ruling came after recent protests by faculty and students that the organ music was disturbing classroom lectures in Austin building.

President Jenkins said, "The future solution to this problem is a recommendation that is being made to the Advisory Budget Commission and the State Board of Higher Education that Austin Building be replaced with a classroom building similar to Rawl Building without a large auditorium.

"The present auditorium in Austin will be replaced with an auditorium housing an organ located away from an existing or proposed classroom.

The immediate remedy is the establishment of an agreement with the music department whereby all students practicing during periods one through eight have been instructed that they may use one string or one flute stop on each manual. We recognize that this is a great handicap to these students, and they are to be commended on their splendid co-operative spirit in trying to remedy a difficult situation.

To make a comparison, this is like learning to use but one hand on a typewriter. Students should learn organ registration as well as control of swell pedals and it is obvious they cannot do it under these new restrictions. But in like manner, we must realize that instruction in English, social studies, and mathematics is extremely handicapped if this regulation is not made.

"We hope the proposed new construction will be approved so that instruction in no department will be handicapped."

The organ in question was built in Erie, Pennsylvania and then dismantled and brought to East Carolina to be rebuilt in 1950. Installation in Austin building took over six months and was completed at a cost of over thirty thousand dollars. It was first played in July of 1950.

The instrument is a three-manual console of 3000 pipes. The largest pipe is 16 inches square and 17 feet long and the smallest is 1/4 of an inch in diameter and 3/8 of an inch long. The pipes between these two extremes are made up of wood, metal, and reed.

Traffic Regulation

The East Carolina College Traffic Committee has announced that students who reside on campus and who own or hold possession of an automobile must register that vehicle only in his or her name.

This ruling is interpreted to mean that a student residing on campus with an automobile owned by himself, parents, or relatives, will not be permitted to turn this vehicle over to another on-campus student for registration. Any student who is not the legal owner of a vehicle as outlined above, and who has registered a vehicle on campus should have the proper owner report to the Housing Office and correct the vehicle registration.

'Defender Of Rights' Brews Trouble; Does He Dare Start A War?

Last week the American Embassy in Havana began quietly warning all Americans whose presence was not essential in Cuba to leave the country.

At the same time Cuba's Institute of Agrarian Reform and the Ministry for the Recovery of Stolen Property confiscated three more United States-owned sugar mills valued at 10 million dollars.

These actions followed a recent lecture given to the Cuban charge d'affaires by U. S. Secretary of State Herter. Herter reprimanded the Cuban government after Castro charged that American saboteurs had blown up a French munitions ship in Havana harbor.

All this could be an indication that the Cuban situation is coming to a head. Castro has set himself up as a demigod . . . savior of the oppressed Cubans . . . champion of democracy. Through false propaganda and emotionally charged symbols he has become the "bearded Christ" of Cuba.

Yet it seems strange that one so "holy," such a "defender of rights," such a "savior," as Castro would allow such arbitrary seizures of property. Does it not seem odd that a leader, who supposedly should have the best interests of his country in mind, would continually agitate and alienate the relations of so powerful a neighbor as the U.S.

Could this indicate that Castro has some other powerful force behind him? Surely even such a renowned soldier as Castro doesn't intend to capture the United States alone.

Yet he persistently baits the U.S. in an effort to cause a further breach in diplomatic relations between the two countries. He is stockpiling arms and ammunition. He has openly negotiated with Soviet Russia and established trade relations with them. News reports say he has stirred Cuban soldiers to such a frenzy that they have threatened to hang American citizens from Havana lampposts. The American Embassy is afraid that street crowds in Havana will get out of hand and is making emergency preparations to evacuate American citizens. The U.S. Navy has prepared emergency plans to defend the Guantanamo Naval Base which it occupies there. President Eisenhower has informed U.S. diplomats to begin a tougher policy toward Cuba.

What is the next step? Verbal attacks and insults toward the U.S. have reached their limit. Will Castro dare to initiate a cold war with the U.S. which could and probably would lead to World War III?

Castro's attempts at fighting and beard growing have been successful, but his ability as a responsible leader has been demonstrated as something akin to a spoiled child. One temper tantrum from this brat could touch off a war that would turn the western world into a hell on earth.

Not only are we faced with a "Cuban hornet's nest" in our own back yard, but further south among other Spanish speaking peoples the word "gringo" is directed toward U.S. citizens in a manner which practically indicates spitting.

In Panama we are hated, and even though President Eisenhower returned smiling from his South American jaunt, we doubt the results of diplomatic conferences carried on in an atmosphere of tear gas and police clubs.

Letters To Editor:

President Reviews Accomplishments For 1959-1960 SGA

Dear Editor,

My year as President of the Student Government Association is rapidly coming to a close. The purpose of this letter is to review the accomplishments of the 1959-60 administration.

During the past year, our SGA has accomplished many things — from promoting a Student Book Exchange to writing a completely new Constitution. These activities or goals, as we prefer to call them, were achieved by the Student Senate with the cooperation of the faculty.

The Student Book Exchange began operation the first of this year. At this Exchange, students may bring books that they wish to be sold, leave them, and collect the money from the sale at a later date. A completely non-profit organization, members of the Veterans Club handle all books.

A Loan Fund has been set up for any student who desires a loan of not more than $25. Thirty days are permitted for payment of the loan; permission to receive a loan is granted by the Dean of Women and the Dean of Men.

The Student Government sponsored dances after each home football game this fall for the first time. These dances were attended by a large percentage of the students, who were admitted free of charge. The band for these social events was paid from SGA funds.

A new minutes book was presented by this year's Senate to the secretary to be used as a permanent record for the roll and minutes of each meeting. The book is well bound and has enough pages to last for at least five years. Past business can be easily checked upon by anyone who so desires.

For the first time, the Senate asked that a football player's jersey be retired in recognition of his outstanding service to the college. Upon this recommendation and the vote of the Athletic Council, the jersey of James Speight was retired.

Homecoming was entirely a project of the Student Government. The parade, pre-game festivities, street dance, and Homecoming dance was planned by members of the Senate.

A new Constitution was written by members of the Senate bringing several items up to date and completely changing others which were a part of the old Constitution. The Constitution was passed by a large majority and is an achievement of which we were extremely proud.

Throughout the year, the SGA has been honored by sponsoring several television shows over the local station. Members of the Senate have had the opportunity to appear on these and other programs.

In the fall, the Senate voted to admit all faculty members free of charge to the SGA entertainment series. The Entertainment Series sponsored by the SGA provides leading entertainment for all students upon submission of their Student Identification Card. Among the outstanding entertainers for this year are: The Navy Band, Fred Waring and the Pennsylvanians, New York City Ballet Company, and the Four Freshmen. Money for a Spring Musical is granted to the Playhouse to produce some Broadway play which usually runs for three nights. Last Spring, "Kiss Me, Kate" was presented; this Spring "Annie, Get Your Gun" has been planned.

Campus Clean-Up Week and High School Days were two events the SGA helped stage in order to aid the appearance of the campus and to help make the students from various high schools feel more at home.

The SGA stressed Fire Prevention in an effort to make students more conscious of the hazards involved from fire.

Seven delegates attended the North State Student Government Association at Elon College in December. Plans are being made for the Spring meeting of this Association to be held on our campus.

The endorsement of Dr. Leo W. Jenkins for President of East Carolina College was passed at a Senate meeting immediately after the resignation of Dr. John D. Messick. (Recently a committee named Dr. Jenkins as East Carolina's new president; we are proud to have endorsed him and feel that he was an excellent choice.)

The Student Senate passed a resolution asking that a committee of students and faculty members be appointed to study the problem of cheating on our campus. This committee has been at work trying to work out the answer.

In order to stimulate more interest in the intellectual climate on our campus, a program called "Battle of the Brains" was proposed. Competition among the dorms, fraternities, and clubs will produce recognition for campus intellectuals.

Through the efforts of the Student Government and the faculty a traffic light will be erected at the entrance beside the College Administration Building by the fall.

This administration is now working hard to be elected the most outstanding Student Senate in the North State Conference. This award will be presented at the Spring meeting of the North State Student Government Association.

This year's SGA would like to challenge the incoming administration to match their accomplishments and to go on to greater heights.

It is my hope that students will take an active part in the coming election and elect officers who will represent East Carolina well.

Many thanks to the people who have worked with me and to the students for making this year the most memorable one of my life.

Sincerely,
Dallas Wells, President

Dear Editor:

I am writing in reference to the editorial "Problem? Prejudice!" Where in the world did you get the idea that the Constitution states that "all men are created equal"? Maybe you should read the second paragraph in The Declaration of Independence.

It seems to me from the various articles that I have read that "The East Carolinian" is really supporting the Negro side of the issue.

Respectfully submitted,
Janice Guyton

Dear Editor,

I have read several times and with great interest and approval the article on the Austin Organitrium which appeared in your March 10th issue. I would like to commend Jasper Jones for writing and you for publishing it. It is my understanding that an attempt has been made to abuse and intimidate Mr. Jones for his vivid reporting of a rather dull situation. I wish you would find out if there is any basis for my understanding and report such in any one of the several dead corners of your publication. Be sure to assign someone with Mr. Jones' writing ability to investigate this.

Despite my approval of the article I perceived several weaknesses in it, among which is the proposed solution that we move the classes out of the building. Now, Mr. Jones should have known that this would involve more expense and trouble than moving the organ to another building—say the basement of Napoleon's tomb. More sensible than either of these would be to discontinue organ lessons from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. for the next one hundred and three years, and allow the building to revert to its former status as classroom building.

Least some curiosity should arise as to how I arrived at the figure 103, let me explain. A mathematician friend of mine worked out this figure by means of a secret formula for figuring time probabilities in this particular area of human relations, and he states that "it will take exactly 103 years for us with our heads together, our shoulders to the wheel, our roses to the grindstone, our toes to the line, to stand together in this crisis and work our fingers in the bone morning, noon, and night, keeping to the narrow path by leaps and bounds to arrive at a fine and dandy solution which will satisfy all right thinking parties concerned, though we may have our ups and downs." He added this as a thought-provoking epilogue, "even if 108 years should prove too short a time for considering a problem of such magnitude, and even should we ultimately fail to realize our mutual goal, we shall all fall together into a bed of roses, and this might cause a great awakening."

I must apologize for the rather banal rhythm of this prose. I wish I knew as much about music as Mr. Jones so I could give you the name of the tune to which it was written. Very truly yours,
H. D. Rowe

'Leap Year Message'

En Garde

The snow has come and gone leaving in its wake a few splashes of the "white plague." Isn't it amazing how the snow reduced "mature" collegians to juvenile antics within the space of several hours? Not that participating in snow activities is juvenile—just that some of the so-called campus gentlemen carried their activities to extreme. . . .

Believe it or not, but the other day I learned that Dr. Edgar Hirschberg of the English Department is carrying around an electric battery in his mouth. The battery accounts for his magnetic smile, no doubt. . . . And while in the English Department, may I add that Dr. James Poindexter has a most dynamic personality that charms those who meet him. . . .

Campus elections are slated for the very near future. . . . This year's elections should prove interesting just to which fraternity will move its headquarters in to Wright Building. So far three persons have filed to run. . . . I wonder if they are aware of the candidate who will be written in on election day?

WWWS, campus radio, makes the challenging statement that when one of their disc jockeys plays a musical session that he has more than four records to spin. . . . Jim Ballance offers his listening audience a wide selection on his weekly program, "Dedicated To You."

Next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday Owen Lattimore will be the Danforth speaker of the week. To give up one hour of other extra-curricular activities in order to hear Dr. Lattimore will be an hour well spent. . . . So many times we students let wonderful opportunities such as this slip through our fingers.

Leap Year message to the girls. . . . If you really want to catch a beau, start presenting a member of the opposite sex with a candy bar. . . . Understand that results are guaranteed, especially if presented to the "proper" person.

Campus Politics

Are Most Voters Uninterested? What Goals Should Be Set?

By MIKE KATSIAS
ed over the apparent lack of interest as the final campaign week begins. It appears that the realization of competent officers only dawns when a bitter issue erupts. Why can't an attempt be made to offer adequate representation before incidents arise? Your interest in voting can begin a trend in this direction.

Whether critics of student government agree or not, the mere avowal by one of the three men running for president may satisfy his own ego, but this doesn't fill the proper qualification by any means. Students must quiz these candidates and receive specific answers as to platform stands. There seems to be too much of a "generalization" personality. Though it appears a popularity race, most voters aren't as uninterested as these campus politicians think.

One of the prime requirements for the office is proven leadership ability. The final selection will be a person who must help plan a creditable extra-curricular program that will benefit the student body. Which one of the "trio" fills this requirement? In past years, the old fraternity or veteran's label has been pasted on a candidate's back—such is not the case this year. All of the candidates share similar views.

More attention should be given to the student fight for unlimited class cuts and the proper settlement of an honor system. Both goals can easily be achieved with a strong backing by the student body.

Quite a bit of alarm has been voiced.

Maybe Prestige, Possible Disaster In The Future

By PAT HARVEY

But it's not supposed to snow in March! Well, not in Greenville! During this unusual weather spurt classes continued courageously—students were not so brave—girls especially—after all, walking in the mess is pretty tough, but facing bombardment was too much to expect—invasions of all kinds!!!

Moving into the southern conference would gain prestige and larger headlines for East Carolina. But after observing the standings at the end of a season in this bracket, this prestige could be changed to another name. . . . Note to Sandwich Department: It's a known fact that celery is a must on anyone's daily diet, especially when losing poundage; but chicken, ham and eggs are also on daily food charts—but celery costs less.

Desire Under The Elms is scheduled for an Austin performance. Although the motion picture is very subtle compared to Mr. O'Neill's masterpiece, a fine cast headed by Tony Perkins, Sophie Loren, and the great Jo Van Fleet brings out the best in a fair script. The earthy rock 'n' roll dance done by Tony and Sophie is alone worth your company. . . . Everyone running for SGA office was asked to send a photograph. Could it possibly mean that elections are now a beauty contest rather than a popularity poll?

Recently read that Nixon is favored in the big election. Seems that Republicans still have more money than elephants? And money still talks as big as ever! What can we do? Raise the dues in the Young Democrats club, of course. . . . Don't know who decided that Les Elgar's band instead of brother Larry's should be publicized as the troupe set for the weekend's entertainment, but it should be cleared up. First, Larry is younger, less prominent, but just as great as Les—sort of like Bing and Bob—first come first served.

Departmental meetings are a pain in the neck to all students. To some the deduction of quality points are an even bigger pain and for the most part, some of the programs provide the largest pains (literally), but of a different sort. . . . Question: What do doctors prescribe for the relief of colds? Answer: Kleenex.

Chain stores still have their problems. Negroes still want to take up space at the lunch counter. Result: loss of money, loss of hair, and loss of mind. Suggestion: give up and raise the price on the five cents hot dogs which are sold for fifteen cents to thirty cents. Result: No customers, bankruptcy, but more hair.

Don't forget to see Jack and the Beanstalk in McGinnis tomorrow afternoon at 3:30. . . . check with your advisor to see if you flunked out last quarter. . . . lend a hand in the building of booths for the college union carnival. . . . put in your bid for the shower—you must live in Jarvis to have this privilege—on Monday if you want a bath next week. . . .

Elections Ahead

Look For The Leader!

By ROY MARTIN

Very soon, East Carolina College will begin once again that annual process which will eventually yield the new officers for next year's Student Government Association.

In last year's elections there was a great deal of spirit on the part of the candidates, students and other participating individuals which led to what could perhaps be called a most successful year for SGA elections. It is hoped that this type interest will develop for the coming campaign.

When one begins to think upon his choice for SGA officers he should consider many things about the people running, as not only to satisfy himself, but in the long run, make sure that those elected have been chosen for what they can give of themselves as far as the progress of East Carolina is concerned.

Not only is this a vital point of consideration but also one should look at the individual himself and form an opinion as to what his abilities are, and if they are suitable for the office he is striving to attain. Most of all the student should look for qualities that denote a leader. . . . and a leader that will do his utmost for those he represents.

Sincerity is a most important attribute of any candidate. So many times, people running for office don't really care what happens to their electors once they are in office, because they are primarily interested in the personal glory and prestige which goes with the job.

Political platforms are an essential part of any candidate's campaign. A good platform can make or break the plans of the most ambitious politician. Think well upon the various platforms as they are presented, decide within yourself what will benefit you as a student, and in turn, what will benefit East Carolina.

Consider well . . . it is you who will be affected.

We're Ready For A Ball

IFC Faces Battle

By DERRY WALKER

It's about time for SGA elections again. I remember last year's battle. The contest between Wells and Mallard almost matched Homecoming with the noise and color and student participation. The candidates paraded around Wright Circle in everything from a donkey cart to a Cadillac convertible. Mac Davis and Stan Harper, Wells' campaign managers, organized the veterans on campus and ordered them to charge the girls' dormitories, bearing ice cream cones, and yellow flowers. (The latter courtesy of President Messick's lawn, we firmly believe.)

This year's contest will not be as high. The three candidates who have announced themselves are interested in the office, but the support for any one of the candidates still remains a question mark.

The bearded candidate, Jim Speight, is a likeable sort who will probably do well when the tickets are counted. His unassuming manner and businesslike air, devoid of machine-ground political personality, will score with the females and males alike.

Barney West will get more votes from people who don't know him; however, he is a dedicated fellow. He will get a job done. He will find heavy competition in the other two candidates.

Bill Hamilton, the most garrulous of the three, will hustle harder for the job than will the other two. People will hear him say more, as he will not back away from voicing an opinion, regardless of who his audience is. If Hamilton has faults, it is because he does not attempt to conceal them. He will let them show as readily as he will his good points, and this will provide a better look at him than the majority will get at the other two candidates.

We are now ready for the IFC Ball. If it is a success, it will mean that the IFC has won the confidence of the fraternities on campus. If it flops, the IFC will have one long battle before them before they ever assess another fraternity for anything.

There seems to have been some tamale about the dance band for the occasion, but we understand that the matter has been cleared up. I'm glad they didn't have dance band trouble. That would have sent the IFC for a nose dive.

East Carolina College is a co-educational college maintained by the State of North Carolina for the purpose of giving young men and women training that will enable them to earn a Bachelor of Science, a Bachelor of Arts, a Bachelor of Music, or a Master of Arts degree. The physical plant of the college consists of approximately 130 acres and 25 buildings appropriate to the work of the college. Enrollment for the 1957-58 school year is in excess of 3700 and includes students from nearly all of North Carolina's 400 counties and adjoining states.

A sound general education program is offered as the foundation on which specialized training may be based. Pre-professional training and Secretarial Science are also available. Students may take work in the following fields: Art, Education, Geography, Education, English, Foreign Language, Economics, Health and Physical Education, Home Economics, Industrial Arts, Library Science, Mathematics, Music, Psychology, Science, and Social Studies. An Air Force ROTC unit located at the college provides an opportunity for men, upon graduation, to be commissioned as Second Lieutenants in the Air Force after which they may enter flight training and earn their wings.

Additional information may be obtained by writing to the Registrar, East Carolina College, Greenville, N. C.

Reknowned Navy Band Performs For Students, Visiting Guests

The United States Navy Band, designated as "The World's Finest," gave two concerts at East Carolina College Wednesday, March 16, under the sponsorship of the college Entertainment Series. Matinee performances at 2:30 and a night concert at 8:15 were presented in the Wright Auditorium.

The United States Navy Band is composed of approximately one hundred individual artists, approximately fifty of whom are chosen to go on tour. Each of them could take his place with the world's greatest symphony orchestras.

The Navy Band contains within itself a complete symphony orchestra, which presents the works of the great masters as skillfully as any other group in the country. Its ultra modern "swingphonette" section, in addition, gives sparkling personality to light operas and the latest "hit" tunes.

Commander Charles Brendler, who has conducted the Band since 1941, was the first Navy musician to attain the rank of Lieutenant Commander in the Regular Navy, and now holds the permanent rank of full commander, by special act of Congress, 1963. He has conducted the Band before tremendous audiences throughout the United States, Canada, and elsewhere around the globe.

The United States Navy Band has made thousands of radio broadcasts during the past quarter of a century—the best known of these broadcasts is the United States Navy Band Hour. The Band is no stranger to television audiences, having appeared on several national telecasts.

Society Announces Third College Poetry Anthology

The American College Poetry Society has announced that it is now compiling its third anthology of outstanding college poetry. The anthology will be published this summer.

Students who wish to contribute original works for this publication should do so soon. Poems, which may deal with any subject, may not exceed 48 lines, nor may any individual submit more than five poems.

Entries which are not accepted for publication will be returned if accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope, but they cannot be otherwise acknowledged. The Society cannot compensate students for poetry which is published.

All entries should be sent to Alan C. Fox, Executive Secretary of the American College Poetry Society, Box 24463, Los Angeles 24, California. The deadline for entries is March 30, 1960.

WHO WENT TO THE PROM—AND WHY

"Hello," said the voice on the telephone. "This is Werther Sigafos. I sit next to you in psych. I'm kind of dumpy and I always wear a sweat shirt."

"I'm afraid I don't remember you," said Anna Livia Plumbelle.

"I'm the one whose lecture notes you've been borrowing for two years," said Werther.

"Oh, yes!" said Anna Livia. "What do you wish, Walter?"

"Werther," said Werther. "What I wish is to take you to the Junior Prom next April."

"But this is November 27, Westnor," said Anna Livia.

"Werther," said Werther. "Yes, I know, but you are so round and beautiful that I was afraid you might have a date already."

"As a matter of fact I do, Wingate," said Anna Livia.

"Werther," said Werther. "Oh, drat!"

Anna Livia did not really have a date, but she was expecting to be asked by Stewart Stalwart, athletic and BMOOC, handsome as Apollo, smooth as ivory, wearer of faultless tweeds, smoker of Marlboro cigarettes which even without his other achievements would stamp him as a man with know-how, with a pleasure-oriented palate. If you think flavor went out when filters came in, try a Marlboro. This one brings with zest and zip and the good, mild taste so dear to those who smoke for the pure joy of it. Get yourself a pack of Marlboro and listen to your friends say, "There, by George, goes a smoker who knows a hawk from a handsaw."

But I digress. Anna Livia waited and waited for Stewart Stalwart to ask her, but two days before the Prom, to everybody's amazement, he asked Rose-of-Sharon Kinsolving, a nondescript girl with pavement-colored hair and a briefcase.

"I have decided to accept your invitation," said Anna Livia.

Anna Livia immediately phoned Werther Sigafos. "My Prom date has come down with a dread virus," she said, "and I have decided to accept your invitation, Waldrop."

"Werther," said Werther. "Oh, goody ganders!"

The next day Anna Livia received a phone call from Stewart Stalwart. "My Prom date has come down with a dread virus," he said. "Will you go with me?"

"Certainly," she said and promptly phoned Werther and said, "I have come down with a dread virus and cannot go to the Prom with you, Whippetech."

"Werther," said Werther. "Oh, mice and rats!"

So Anna Livia went to the Prom with Stewart and who do you think they ran into? Rose-of-Sharon with Werther, that's who! Stewart had felt obliged to ask Rose-of-Sharon because she always did his homework, but she had weaselled out because she really wanted to go with Werther with whom she felt a great oneness because they were both so dumpy. He fell wildly in love with her at the Prom, and today they are married and run a very successful five-minute auto wash in New Bern, N. C.

Anna Livia and Stewart are happy, too. They are still juniors and have not missed a prom in sixteen years. © 1959 Max Shuman

We hope you'll be smoking Marlboros at your prom—or if you like mildness but you don't like filters—Philip Morris from the same makers.

Carnival Plans Reach Final Stage

The Special Projects Committee of the College Union, which sponsors annually the College Union Carnival, has announced committees and their chairmen who will be working together to present the carnival, March 21, at 6:30 p.m.

Nancy Brown, chairman of the Special Projects Committee, will have six subcommittees under her. They include: Prizes, Steven Folks; Publicity, Faye Hardee; Cashiers, Glenn Boyd; Judges, Frances Smith; Decorations, Nancy Brown; Door-prize tickets, David Thrift. Mrs. Yvonne Smith, assistant recreational advisor, will serve as carnival advisor.

There will be a drawing for the door prizes which include, a piece of luggage for the adult prize, and a Treasure Hunt game for the children's prize. Two adult costume prizes and two children's costume prizes will be awarded for the most carnival-like costume.

Booth prizes will be awarded on the basis of: 1) booth being installed on time; 2) booth showing best management; 3) booth showing most originality; 4) booth being best decorated; 5) booth with best costumed barkers.

Regular prizes will be given to those attending who accumulate the most tickets. There will be approximately fifty of these prizes, including records, cards, tennis balls, tennis racket, pens, stuffed animals, cigarette lighters, and clocks.

Organizations and the booths they will sponsor include, Sigma Sigma Sigma, hot dogs and Pepsis; English Club, darts; Angel Flight, popcorn; Chi Omega, pitch pennies in floating cups; Delta Zeta, baseballs and milk bottles; Alpha Xi Delta, pie throwing; Alpha Omicron Pi, shave a balloon; ACE, putting green.

Other organizations and their entries include, Home Economics Club home made candy, ham biscuits and popcorn balls; Alpha Phi Omega, car races; Pi Omega Pi, ring toss; FBIA, outguess the rat; Science Club, marriage booth; Phi Omicron, cake sale; Alpha Phi Fraternity, bingo; Drill Team, casino night; Psychology Club, beat the champ; Delta Sigma Pi, ugly man contest; Alpha Delta Pi, girle show.

Department Offers Language Courses

Accelerated courses in elementary French and in elementary Spanish will be offered here during the 1960 Summer Session, Director James L. Fleming of the Foreign Languages Department has announced.

The accelerated courses will be taught during the first term of the summer session and will cover the period of June 6-July 12. Classes will meet for four hours Monday through Friday of each week. Those completing requirements of either the French or the Spanish accelerated course will receive 10 quarter hours of credit.

AFROTC Stages Military Ball

Miss Jane Carter, honorary Lt. Col. and Group Sponsor, was crowned queen of the eleventh annual AFROTC military ball held at the Greenville Moose Lodge on Saturday night.

Crowning of the queen was done by Lt. Col. Merritt, Professor of Air Science. The queen's court consisted of the sponsors of the other Cadet organizations: Katherine Crumpler, 61st Squadron; Julianne Cannon, 62nd Squadron; Janet Arnold, Drill Team; and Dianne Neal, Drum and Bugle Corp.

"The First Ball in Space" was the theme for the ball sponsored by the East Carolina College AFROTC Cadet Corp. Decorations for the dance centered around a revolving satellite with a large reflecting planet to one side of the room.

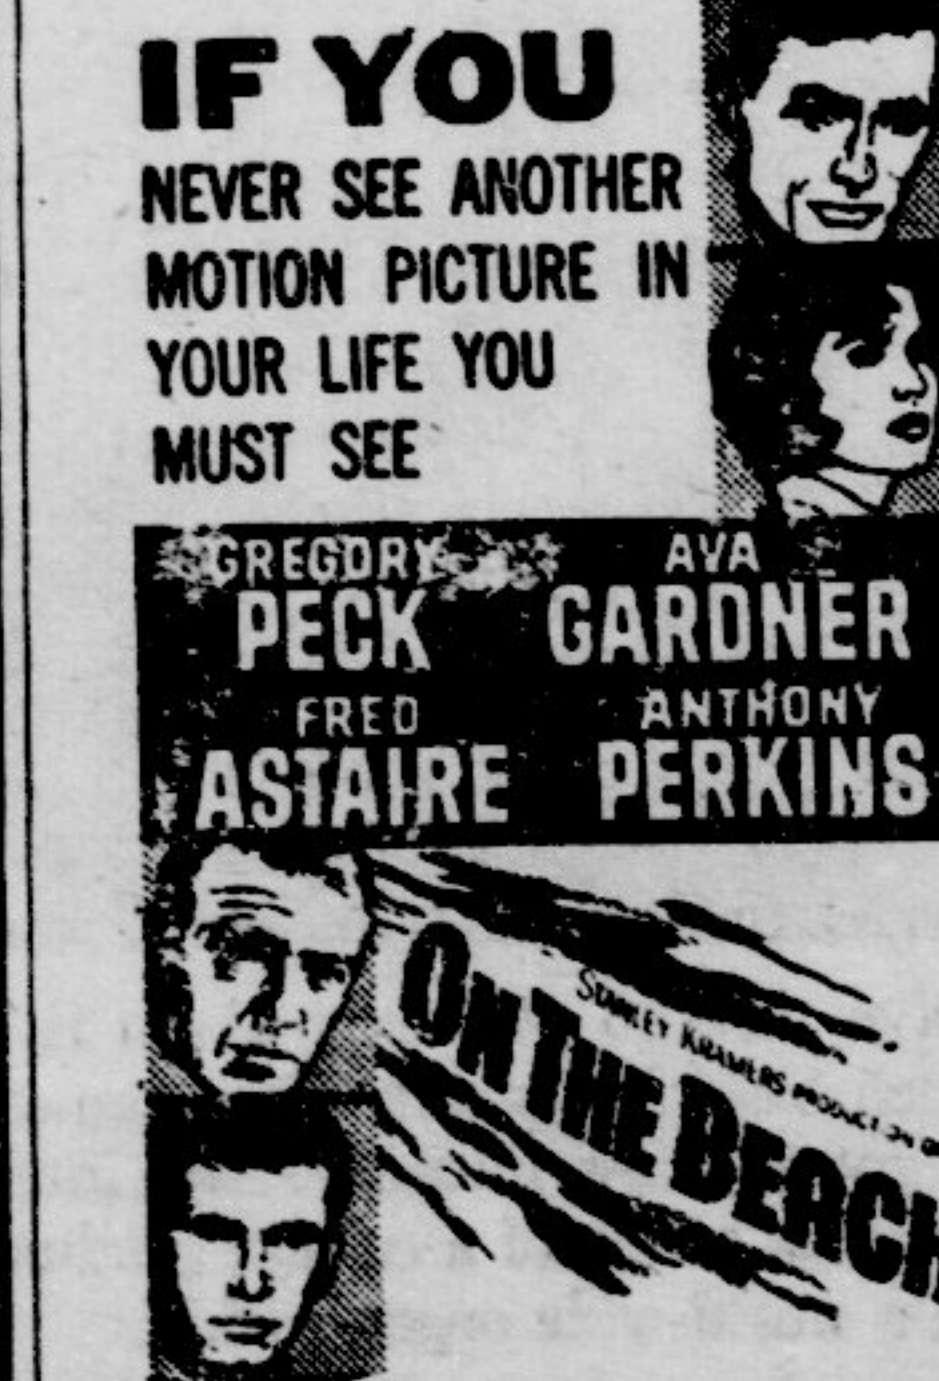

Included in the receiving line were: Lt. Col. and Mrs. Norman F. Merritt, Major Samuel Hodges; Capt. and Mrs. Vance Lockamy; Capt. Robert Vining and Miss Margaret Simmons; Cadet Major Kirby P. Branch and Miss Joan Phelps.

Prior to the crowning of the queen, Cadet Kirby Branch gave a brief summary of the events which had occurred within the corps this year in the form of an imaginary visit to a space station. Joe Davis and his orchestra from Wilson played for the ball.

Cadet Kirby Branch was chairman of the Military Ball activities and had as his committee heads Cadet Robert Needs, decorations; Cadet Edmund Parker, refreshments; and Cadet James Stone, invitations.

Approximately one hundred and twenty-five cadets and their wives or dates were present for this annual affair. Guests included Dr. Leo Jenkins, and Dean James Mallory.

News In Brief

STUDENTS INITIATED INTO HONOR SOCIETY

Eight students have been initiated into the Eta Chi Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, national honor society in education. Membership in the organization is limited to juniors and seniors who have excellent scholastic records and who are interested in teaching as a profession.

New members of the organization, chosen because of commendable personal qualities, worthy educational ideals, and sound scholarship, are Peggy Hope Wood, Della Ann Stokes, Victor Cornacchione, Peggy Frances Wynne, Mollie Marie Biggs, Helen Frances Fisher, Fred D. Ragan, and George R. Hughes.

BUSINESS FRATERNITY INSTALL NEW OFFICERS

Mary Elizabeth Massad, replacing former head, Mizelle Dempsey, has been installed as president for the 1960-1961 term of the East Carolina College Chapter of Pi Omega Pi, national honorary business fraternity.

Completing the list of new officers of the organization are Doris Kay Overton, vice president; Sylvia L. Uzzel, secretary; and Gerald D. Harris, treasurer.

MUSIC FRATERNITY ELECTS NEW MEMBERS

The Zeta Psi Chapter of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, national honorary music fraternity, has installed four new students at East Carolina College as new members of the organization. Qualifications for membership include a high scholastic average in the department of music.

President Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina has accepted an invitation to become an honorary member of the campus chapter.

New student members of the Zeta Psi chapter here are Hubert R. Sheanon, Samuel S. Branson, Andrew C. Preston, and Frank G. Dew.

ALPHA PHI ENTERTAINS PARENTS AT TEA

On Sunday, March 6, Alpha Phi Sorority gave a tea in honor of the girls' parents. The parents were greeted by the receiving line which was made up of the President, Bobbie Bethune; Vice-Presidents, Jo-Ann Pope and Janice Langston; Gay Hogan; Mrs. Allen, President of Alumnae of Alpha Phi; Nancy Duffield, National Field Secretary; and Pat Stauffer.

After refreshments had been served, the parents went into the living room for informal conversation. Nancy Duffield gave a talk about what a sorority is and what it should mean to the girls and the parents. Following the talk there was singing by the Alpha Phi.

Bobbie Bethune, on behalf of the sorority, expressed her appreciation to the parents for coming.

FRAT TO RUSH

Attention all men and women students interested in pledging TAU SIGMA HONORARY EDUCATIONAL FRATERNITY.

Persons interested in pledging for the Spring quarter pledge class should write their letters of application to be postmarked not later than 5:00 P.M. March 23, 1960. Please note that applicants must have at least a 2.5 average. Applications should be mailed to: TAU SIGMA, BOX 1278, CAMPUS.

SORORITY CONDUCTS CEREMONY

Delta Zeta Sorority pledged sixteen new members in an "all-white" ceremony in the Alumni Building on Sunday night, March 13. The ceremony climaxed the informal rush which was held during the preceding week.

Those pledged include: Jo Ann Berry, Judy Berry, Nancy Berry, Martha Carson, Kyle Fox, Jeanette Gilley, Lynn Glasford, Glenda Harris, Ann Hoyle, Gay Hudson, Dornin Jenkins, Ann King, Sally Morris, Sheila Stowe, Zeta Teer, Lois Ann Webb.

The initiated sisters presented their new pledges with Delta Zeta mugs at an informal party after the pledging.

Later that night, the newly elected officers for the year 1960-61 were installed. Retiring president Janice Saunders presented the sorority gavel to Sylvia Sampedro, the newly elected president. Other officers are: Vice-president in charge of membership, Doris Matthews; Vice-president in charge of pledges, Delores Holt; Recording Secretary, Barbara Jones; Corresponding Secretary, Joyce Curran; Treasurer, Brenda Barefoot; Historian, Rose Chason.

DEPARTMENTS ATTEND MEET

The High Point College Home Economics Department will be host to representatives from fourteen colleges in the state, including East Carolina, at the meeting of the North Carolina Home Economics Association on April 1 and 2.

The entire program of the association meeting will be based around housing interiors, furniture selections and design. The theme was selected especially since High Point is well known for its furniture industry.

The main purpose of the College Division of the North Carolina Home Economics Association is to create a better understanding among college students of Home Economics as a profession, to present an opportunity for the exchange of ideas and to unify college Home Economics in the state.

INFORMAL RUSH ENDS

Informal rush for the eight national sororities on campus ended March 11 with seventy girls pledging these sororities. This was a decided increase over formal rush which pledged only forty-two girls.

Many sororities reached their membership quota of forty-five members, with the pledging of this newest group.

Some of the party themes carried out at rush parties included Coney Island, beatnik, wishing well, and Aunt Jemima.

In commenting on the results of informal rush, Dean Ruth White remarked, "I feel that this was highly successful."

KAPPA DELTA INDUCTS

Kappa Delta Sorority, at the conclusion of informal rush March 12, inducted eight girls into its second pledge group. The pledging service took place at the First Presbyterian Church and was followed by a slumber party for all members and pledges at home of Mrs. Richard Gammon, president of the Greenville Kappa Delta Alumnae Association.

Pledges who were inducted include: Kitty Bynum, Patty Godsey, Lynette Hobbs, Evelyn Johnson, Jelynn Langdon, Bobbie Jo Sutton, Lin Thompson and Mary Twining. Trish Stuart, vice president of the sorority, will serve as pledge trainer for this group.

SNEA MEETS NEXT WEEK

The Student National Education Association will meet Wednesday in Rawl 130 at 7 p.m. for its regular monthly meeting.

Officers for the 1960-61 year will be elected at the meeting. The program will consist of reports from those who will attend the State Convention at Asheville, N.C. this week-end. All members are urged to be present at this meeting.

Out-going officers include: Clinton Davis, president; Joe Peele, vice president; Lou Alligood, corresponding secretary; Betty Modlin, recording secretary; Wayne Forbes, treasurer; Norma Lee Johnson, assistant treasurer; Ann Davis, historian; and Judith Pleasant reporter.

FRAT INITIATES FOUR

Phi Omicron, honorary home economics fraternity, initiated four new members Tuesday evening at its regular monthly meeting. Jean Joyner acting president, presided over the meeting.

The four new members of Phi Omicron include: Jackie Harrison, Janice Saunders, Patricia Hart, and Sylvia Lamm.

Tugwell Wins In Spring Quarter Tourney Games

Nelson Tugwell hit and chopped his way through a large entry, and many evenly contested matches, to win the Spring Quarter Novice Table Tennis Tournament, held March 8 in the College Union.

In the finals Tugwell stopped the all-around play of Earl Marshburn 21-19 and 21-17, with his spin serves and forehand drives. In the first game Marshburn's forehand drives tied the score at 17-17, when Tugwell used a series of sidespin serves to win three straight points, after Marshburn had missed one of his drives, to take the game.

In the semi-finals Tugwell had come back to defeat Sam Watson 21-12, 21-9 with his forehand smashes, after Watson had won the first game 21-16 by forcing Tugwell to rush his backhand shots. The second semi-final match was won by Marshburn 21-13 and 21-19 over Dee Bryson's blocking defense.

Tugwell, runner-up in last quarter's novice tourney, had a hard passage to the finals, as he narrowly won out over Jesse Powell's chop defense 21-19, 21-18 in the first round, and then had trouble controlling his drives against the sidespin defense of Skip Wamsley, whom he finally defeated 21-17, 21-21, 21-10.

Sam Watson defeated one of the most improved players of the tourney when he stopped Bowie Martin in the quarter finals. Martin's hard hitting forehand attack had defeated Raymond Mills and Ron Crawley in two good early round matches, before Watson's defense proved too much for him. Crawley's unorthodox style had surprised defensive player Merrill Bynum in the first round 21-13 and 21-18.

Other top play included the tourney's closest match, in which Bryson outlasted James Branton 17-21, 26-24, 21-18, and Marshburn's defeat of backhand hitter Ray Watson, 17-21, 21-15, and 21-18.

Because of the increased interest in this event, another novice tournament will be scheduled for sometime toward the end of the quarter. College Union Games Committee Chairman Norman Kilpatrick reports. Tugwell will be ineligible for this tourney along with other quarterly novice winners Charles Holliday and Bob Hutchins.

Sigma Nu Triumphs

By JERRY NANCE

Sigma Nu Fraternity won the intramural basketball championship Wednesday night, February 6, defeating the Rocking Robins by a score of 66-63. Sigma Nu ended the season with a perfect record, winning twelve and losing none.

Led by Larry Crayton and Tink Palmer, Sigma Nu took an opening lead and never trailed; at one point in the game they led by as much as twenty points. This is the second championship Sigma Nu has won this year. They also won the intramural football championship.

The Rocking Robins earned the right to play Sigma Nu by defeating Rico's All Stars 55-51. The Rocking Robins trailed 10 points at halftime, but a second half rally led by Jerry Shackleford, Bob Greene, and Charley Zucher enabled them to win.

Japanese Read Of EC Table Tennis Through EC Champ

Table tennis fans and players in Japan are reading this month about the sport as carried on at East Carolina College. A three-page article by Norman Kilpatrick, a senior here, appears, printed in Japanese, in the March issue of "The Table Tennis Report," a monthly edited by H. Tamasu and having a circulation of a million subscribers.

The Japanese magazine also carries a feature article on Kilpatrick's work as a student of psychology and as director of table tennis for the College Union at East Carolina. Four photographs picture Kilpatrick and his wife, formerly Ramona Hicks, as table tennis players.

Kilpatrick's article, entitled "The Effect of Table Tennis Surfaces," deals with his observation of the use at East Carolina of Japanese-manufactured rackets backed with rubber, which he imported and introduced at the college. A comparison of the effectiveness of these models, popular in Japan, with the sandpaper rackets commonly used in this country, led him to the conclusion that the Japanese racket requires of the player a faster-paced, better-looking game than that required in the use of the sandpaper racket.

Kilpatrick became East Carolina's champion table tennis player in tournaments held at the College Union. As a student at Boston University in 1957, he won the title of National Intercollegiate Champion and ranked thirtieth among table tennis players in the United States. He has acted as a coach for the U. S. Table Tennis Association and has written articles on the sport for magazines in this country and in England.

Group Sponsors Night For Fun

The Boys' Intramurals and the Women's Recreation Association are sponsoring a CO-Rec Night March 23, 1960, at 7:00 p.m. in the Gymnasium. No admission will be charged.

The evening will consist of relays, social and square dancing and refreshments.

There will be novel relays with four boys and four girls on each team and a drawing to see which group of boys and girls will participate together.

There will also be a run-off relay between the top four teams. Medals will be awarded to the winning team.

Participants for the evening have been notified. The student body is invited to attend and enjoy an evening of amusement and dancing.

The instructor in a basic-training course asked a sleepy private, "If you were on night sentry duty and saw a figure crawling toward camp, what procedure would you follow?" "Well, Sir," the private answered, "I'd help the officer to his quarters."

PIRATE'S DEN

By LEONARD LAO

If any of you happened to have been wandering in the direction of Memorial Gymnasium about this time last week, you might have overheard our baseball and football coaches discussing which one was going to use the practice field for their respective drills. Actually the field was in no condition for any kind of drills, unless hurling snowballs is good for a pitcher's or a quarterback's arm.

Jim Mallory, who has shed his role as Dean of Men to assume his duties as baseball coach, had one consolation for the fact that there was about six inches of snow on the ground. No one else in the vicinity could get in any practice sessions either. The Pirate baseballers had managed to get in only about thirty minutes of outdoor practice. Consequently, the Bucs are running behind schedule in their drills in reference to last year's spring practice.

Only Three Starters Gone

Coach Mallory has lost the services of only three men from last season's team that was undefeated in NS Conference play. Al Vaughan, an All-Conference and All-State performer with the Bucs, left via the graduation route. Catcher, Doug Watts, a four year man for the Pirates, and pitcher Glenn Baker, who posted a 6-0 record last year, also received their diplomas.

The Pirates will have in sophomores Larry Crayton and Johnny Ellen, two of the winningest pitchers in the conference. Crayton, who gained All-Conference, All-State and All-NAIA honors last, will be the man to watch this season. The Greensboro native led the conference in strike-outs as a freshman a year ago. The little moundsman fanned 29 in defeating conference foe, Appalachian last spring. Crayton boasted a 7-1 won-lost record, with his only loss coming at the hands of the University of Indiana. It was Crayton's first starting role as a college pitcher, and he went down in defeat by a 2-1 score. Ellen, another promising hurler, posted a 4-2 record last year. The University of North Carolina and Camp Lejeune were the clubs that put the clamps on Ellen.

In the catching department, Coach Mallory has two veterans in junior Burl Morris, and Charles Johnson, a hefty sophomore. Johnson is probably the better hitter, but Morris has the edge on defense.

Dependable Jim Martin will resume his duties as Mallory's first sacker for the third consecutive season. He is a steady, reliable man, nothing flashy, but he gets the job done.

Elsewhere in the infield, there is a battle going on at second and third bases. Spencer Gaylord, a good gloveman with a fine throwing arm, and Mickey Duffer, a freshman, are both in contention for a starting job. Another freshman, A. W. Faris, may work his way into the keyhole position. At third base, the Pirates have two veterans in Bob Hart and Wilbur Cathlow. Freshman Cotton Clayton (the basketball star) may be able to work his way into Mallory's plans. Versatile Glenn Bass will be at the shortstop position. The All-Conference performer's biggest asset is his terrific speed.

In the outfield the Bucs have all three of their starters back from last year. Patrolling left field will be another All-Conference man, Gary Pierce. Pierce batted over the .400 mark last spring. Wally Cockrell and Jerry Carpenter, team co-captains, will hold down the center and right field spots for the Pirates.

Coach Mallory looks for Elon, who is always strong in the spring sport, along with Lenoir Rhyne, High Point, and Atlantic Christian to be tough this year.

The cold weather that has been dominating the eastern part of the state for the last couple of weeks, may prove to be detrimental to the Bucs in the early part of the season. It hasn't slowed down the pitchers, because they have been able to work their arms out in the gym, but as a result, the hitters will be behind schedule.

Another Championship In Store?

The Pirates lost only three starters from last year's squad. This season, the Bucs have in co-captain Jerry Carpenter, their only senior. The EC contingent will probably be favored to win the conference again this year. Then what about next season? The Bucs will virtually have their same squad returning, and will have to be considered a contender. Who knows? Only time will tell. The curtain rises for the first act of the 1960 season tomorrow when the Pirates travel to Camp Lejeune to do battle with the United States Marines!

Buc Netmen Open Against Bulldogs

By MERLE SUMMERS

First year Coach Wendell Carr, late of Wake Forest fame and freshman Basketball Coach, is preparing his forces for the coming tennis season. The Pirate netmen have a commendable record in that they have not lost a North State Conference match in two seasons.

The two returning lettermen are John West of Durham and John Savage of Rocky Mount. John West has been elected Captain and is also the number one man.

Other members of the team are as follows: Joe Holloway of Durham; Blarrie Tanner of Rocky Mount, who was the state high school tennis champion; Elton Roberson; Bert Stafford; Bob Hutchins; and Al Webb.

The weather has been the main hindrance. Bad weather forced the team to practice inside. The first match is only one week away.

The schedule is as follows:

Date	Opponent	Place
March 24	Atlantic Christian	There
March 28	Cornell University	Here
March 29	Cornell University	Here
April 8	N. C. State	There
April 9	Wake Forest	There
April 11	Elon	There
April 22, 23	Second Annual Invitational Tennis Championship	Here
April 30	Elon	Here
May 4	William & Mary Division	Here
May 5	Atlantic Christian	Here
May 6	Ft. Eustis	Here
May 9	Ft. Eustis	There
May 10	William & Mary Division	There
May 14	High Point	Here
May 16, 17	North State Conference Tournament

Courtmen Travel To Play In P. I. T.

East Carolina basketball followers will have one last chance to see a few of their players perform, when three of the Pirate contingent journey to Portsmouth, Virginia, tonight and possibly Friday and Saturday nights to compete in the Portsmouth Invitational Tournament.

Each year the Tidewater city sponsors the tourney and brings in a host of college stars from universities and colleges up and down the east coast. This year such outstanding performers as Ike Riddick, Don Smith, and Cotton Clayton of EOC, Carroll Youngkin, Doug Kistler, and Howard Hurt of Duke University, Jerry West, All-American at West Virginia, Jeff Cohen and Beverly Vaughan of William and Mary, and a host of other outstanding collegiate personnel will display their hardwood talents in the P.I.T.

In previous years the annual tourney has been held in a small junior high school gymnasium, but with such celebrated line-up, the P.I.T. games have been moved into the city's high school gym which seats 2,500 spectators.

There should be plenty of basketball thrills in store for those who wish to travel to Portsmouth to see some of the nation's top-flight hoopers in action.

Admission is by donation, with the proceeds going to the Community Chest Fund.
