Student Government Elections End Today

Many Compete For Positions

Student Government election polls will close late this afternoon after a full day of campus wide voting to determine SGA officers for the coming year.

Polls have been set up in all the dormitories and in the lobby of Wright Auditorium for the purpose of voting for new Student Government and Men's and Women's Judiciary officers for the coming term of office. Regular voting procedures will be followed, and voting will continue until 4 o'clock p.m. today.

Voters are reminded that those offices for which there are no candidates running are open for any eligible member of the student body, and that a name can be written in for all these offices.

The SGA slate is as follows: for president, Bill Hamilton, Jim Speight, and Barney West; for vice president, Billy Nichols. Nichols' is the only name that will appear on the ballot sheet; however, there are two petition candidates, to be voted for on a write-in. They are Edgar Williams and Raymond Gillikin.

Those running for secretary are Barbara Jones, Mary John Best, and Camilla Henderson; for treasurer, Charles Munn; and for assistant treasurer, Bobby Ward. Gloria Hoffer is the candidate for historian.

The judiciary officers are voted for only by men, for the Men's Judiciary, and women, for the Women's Judiciary. The slate for men is as follows: chairman Otis Strother; vice chairman, Paul A. Gibbs; member-at-large, Ray E. Jones, Michael Wilkinson, and Mike Keziyah. There are no candidates for either secretary or treasurer.

The Women's Judiciary candidates are: chairman, Evelyn B. Crutchfield; vice chairman, Ruby Bradshaw, Markie Smith, and Betty Rose Frazier; secretary, Dee Davis, Jean LaSater, and Gail Walker; treasurer, Judy Jolly and Barbara Schwab. There are six candidates for member-at-large: Gracie Barber, Faye Abernathy, Beth Baker, Sue Wylie, Rachel Spivey, and Ann McCarver.

Fifty-three girls have filed for the position of college marshal. Of these fifty-three, fifteen will be elected, with two alternates. Those who filed are: Sonya Azam, Joyce Batchelor, Betty Lou Beales, Milly Bowden, Ruby Bradshaw, Bonnie Burch, Jane

PSYCHOLOGY CLUB MEETING

The next regular meeting of the Psychology Club will be on Monday, March 28, in Rawls No. 105. Meeting time will be 4 P.M., and all members are urged to attend.

Lattimore Expresses Views On McCarthy, World Affairs

"Joseph McCarthy led a completely amoral political life," Owen Lattimore, professor of political science at the Johns Hopkins University, told an audience of ECC students and faculty early this week.

Mr. Lattimore appeared on the campus this week under the sponsorship of the Danforth Project in lectures preliminary to the opening of East Carolina's Seventh Annual World Affairs Institute.

In a lecture on the McCarthy Hearings Monday morning, Lattimore explained the reason for the political atmosphere of the McCarthy period. "The outcome of the World War disappointed Americans who had poured their efforts into making a better world," said Lattimore. He also discussed the anti-Democratic (Party) feelings which added to the post-war disillusionment and helped to create a general attitude of intense anti-Communism.

Lattimore showed that this was an ideal period for McCarthy to rise to an influential position in Congress.

Though Lattimore strongly criticized the methods used by the Congressional Committee during the McCarthy Hearings, he stated that "the congressional committee is an absolute necessity."

In discussing Communist China, Lattimore emphasized the "positive development" of nationalism in China. He stated that ideas of nationalism were stirring in Asia even before World War I. Though these ideas grew stronger after this period he explained, nationalist movement in Asia did not succeed because none of them was strong enough to overthrow alien rule. "Though China was invaded martially and economically many times, nationalism was never stifled," he added.

Lattimore asserted that Japan was responsible for the "liberation of Asia." Japan caused Asian countries to forget the prestigious factors of being part of a European empire, he explained.

Lattimore expressed doubt of an impending schism between Communist China and Soviet Russia. He discounted the opinion expressed by American journalists who predict such a political break between the two socialist countries. "Though there may be small problems because of their different states of development there will be no open conflict," he added.

Colleges Send Aid To Alabama State

Fifty-five colleges collected almost $1500 last week to aid the students of Alabama State College in Montgomery, and an additional $200 was raised at a rally held at the Yale Challenge this weekend.

The five schools—Oberlin, Swarthmore and the Universities of Chicago, Colorado and Wisconsin—collected the funds to be used for food for the nearly 1,000 students who went on strike protesting the arrest of their fellow schoolmates participating in non-violent sit-ins. When they refused to register, the administration refused to open the dining room, thus leaving the students with worthless meal tickets and no place to eat.

Learning of the need of funds for food, the five schools raised money on their campuses to help feed the Alabama students. Almost $1,000 was sent to Montgomery before the strike was called off.

The remainder of the money will be put into a fund to be used for the legal expenses incurred by the students who have been arrested.

Jenkins Announces Dorm Dedications

President Leo W. Jenkins has announced that the men's dormitory, Jones Hall, named in honor of Dr. Paul Jones of Farmville, will be dedicated Sunday, May 15.

Jenkins also said that a portrait of Dr. Jones, longtime friend of East Carolina College, and Pitt County's representative in the North Carolina General Assembly for a number of years, is being painted by Mrs. Georgia Hearne of Greenville.

Jenkins stated further that Umstead Hall, which will become a women's dormitory next fall, and Slay Hall, would be dedicated in a joint ceremony as soon as construction for a parlor, which will join the two buildings, is completed.

Drill Team Wins Top Honors In Durham Contest

East Carolina's Air Force ROTC precision drill team won top honors in the Area C-2 Arnold Air Society Drill Contest held at the Durham Army March 19. The team competed against AF ROTC drill teams from colleges and universities in this state, South Carolina, and Virginia.

The drill team received a handsome 21-inch trophy in recognition of their superiority.

At the Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, D.C., April 8-9, the East Carolina Drill Team will participate in the big parade staged during the celebration. The group will also take part in two drill contests. As representative of Area C-2, they will compete for the National Arnold Air Society Drill Award; and as representatives of East Carolina College, for the National Drill Competition Trophy.

In the drill contest at Durham last weekend, the Duke University team won second place; A and T in Greensboro, third place; and University of North Carolina, fourth place.

CU SPECIAL EVENT

Friday night at 7:30, the College Union is sponsoring a Married Couples Bridge Party. This event will take place in the TV Room of the CU and all married couples are urged to attend. Prizes will be awarded and refreshments served.

Holt Issues Notice Stopping Classes On Austin Third Floor As Safety Measure

According to a notice issued Monday by Dean of Instruction, Robert L. Holt, classes will no longer be assigned to the third floor of Austin Building. This became effective Monday, March 21.

Dr. Holt's notice, stated "In the interest of safety and the welfare of East Carolina College students, classes will no longer be assigned to the third floor of Austin Building, which is considered dangerous as a potential fire hazard."

The notice further said that at the earliest possible time when space became available, faculty offices on third floor of Austin would be relocated.

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, speaking in relation to the suspension of classes on the third floor of Austin, stated,

"We want to close off the entire third floor completely as far as we can. No classes will be held there at all."

Dr. Jenkins further said that the administration was trying to find offices for the faculty members whose offices are located on the third floor, and as soon as that could be taken care of, the third floor would be closed off completely.

Room Assignments

The week of March 28-31 has been set aside for the assignment of rooms for fall, 1960. Please follow this procedure in applying for your room:

1. Fill out room application with ink. (You will secure your application blank either at a house meeting or from your Dormitory Counselor's office.)
2. Take application to Cashier's Office, make your $10.00 deposit, and get your application marked paid.
3. Take your application to Jarvis Hall and sign up for your room.

The Schedule will be as follows:

1. Monday, March 28, at 10:30 p.m. there will be house meetings in the upperclassman dormitories giving those who wish to do so the opportunity of retaining their same rooms, or one in the same building. The upperclassman dormitories will be Fleming, Jarvis, Wilson, Garrett and Slay.
2. Tuesday, March 29, Seniors will sign up for their rooms.
3. Wednesday, March 30, Juniors will sign up for their rooms.
4. Thursday, March 31, Sophomores and Freshmen will sign up for their rooms.
5. The classifications as of next fall will be considered.
6. No assignment will be considered permanent until the $10.00 fee is paid.
7. Those who are having rooms held must pay their fee on the days designated for their classifications.

SELECTIVE SERVICE TESTS

Applications for the April 28, 1960 administration of the College Qualification Test are now available at Selective Service system local boards throughout the country.

Eligible students who intend to take this test should apply at once to the nearest Selective Service local board for an application and a bulletin of information.

Following instructions in the bulletin, the student should fill out his application and mail it immediately in the envelope provided to SELECTIVE SERVICE EXAMINING SECTION Educational Testing Service, P. O. Box 586, Princeton, New Jersey. Applications for the April 28 test must be postmarked no later than April 7, 1960.

According to Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the test, it will be greatly to the student's advantage to take this test, as it may determine whether the student may qualify to be deferred.

The testing center located nearest East Carolina will be at Atlantic Christian College in Wilson.

AAUW Awards Murray Grant

Evelyn Jane Murray of Roxboro, senior student of music, will study in Germany during the coming summer months on a scholarship of $650 just awarded to her by the Greenville Branch of the American Association of University Women.

V. Karen McLawhorn of Vanceboro, sophomore specializing in art, was named as alternate.

The AAUW award is the third to be made to an East Carolina College student by the local organization. Miss Murray is the second student of music to receive it.

A student of voice, Miss Murray is planning tentatively to study at the State Academy, Munich, Germany. Here she is studying with Mrs. Gladys R. White of the department of music.

Miss Murray, a contralto, has taken an outstanding part in activities and organizations of the music department. Early this month, as one of the few seniors to receive special recognition as a solo performer, she was presented by the department in a graduating honors recital.

She has appeared as soloist with the East Carolina Orchestra, and with the East Carolina Concert Band. In productions by the college Opera Theater she has had leading roles in Sometona's "The Bartered Bride" and Menotti's "The Medium" and has twice been a soloist in the annual performance on the campus of Handel's "The Messiah."

In East Carolina music organizations she has acted as president of the campus chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota, international professional music organization for women, and as student director of the College Choir, and represented the local Sigma Alpha Iota group at its national convention in San Francisco last summer.

Her excellent record in academic work is evidenced by the frequent inclusion of her name on the college Dean's List and the Honor Roll.

Miss McLawhorn, alternate, has a superior record as a student of art at East Carolina. She is specializing in the graphic arts and plans to become a teacher. In the student art society at the college, she holds the position of treasurer. She has appeared in short talks and demonstrations before the East Carolina Art Society and at the Rocky Mount and the Greenville art festivals. Her work has been entered in several state and national print shows.

Various Activities Highlight Greek Weekend

PAYOFF . . . IFC Treasurer Bobby Ward is shown as he presents the Four Freshmen with a bundle of one hundred dollar bills in payment for their performance in Wright Building Saturday afternoon. Assisting Ward with his presentation are Dr. James Butler (right) and IFC President Don Conley.

A variety of social activities took place on the East Carolina campus last weekend, with many visitors on hand, as the Interfraternity Council, in conjunction with the Panhellenic Council staged the first annual IFC-Panhellenic Council Ball in Keel's Warehouse.

The dance, which featured the music of Larry Elgart of New York, was preceded by several individual social functions held by the member organizations of the Interfraternity and Panhellenic Council.

Highlighting the weekend's agenda was a concert in Wright Auditorium, featuring the Four Freshmen of Capitol recording fame. The concert was sponsored by the IFC and Panhellenic Council in cooperation with the Student Government's Entertainment Series.

Keel's warehouse, the site of the dance, was decorated by a joint committee of the IFC and Panhellenic Council, with Bill Hamilton of the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity heading the decorating operations.

The warehouse, located on the outskirts of Greenville, was arranged with a cafe motif. Enclosing the area dotted with tables were sheets of tobacco canvas, while the tables were lighted with candles. The background of the area was decorated with flowers, and ivy, as were the roof supports and the bandstand.

ECC Hosts NSSGA This Weekend

This weekend, East Carolina will be host to the spring meeting of the North State Student Government Association. Six other colleges are sending delegates and approximately forty people are expected.

The primary purpose of the meeting is the election of officers for 1960-61. Any problems common to the Association will also be discussed.

Delegates from Catawba, Western Carolina, High Point, and Pfeiffer will arrive Friday evening. There will be an officer's meeting in the Student Government office at nine.

Saturday morning the first general assembly will convene at ten a.m. President Jenkins will extend a greeting from East Carolina and Dr. Clinton Prewett, Head of the Psychology Department, will be the speaker.

After lunch and a tour of the campus, the second assembly will meet. At this assembly, the new officers will be elected. A banquet in the new cafeteria is scheduled for Saturday evening with Dr. Robert Holt as speaker. A dance in Wright Auditorium will begin at nine.

The final gathering is set for 9:45 Sunday. At this time, new officers will take over. According to present plans, the group will adjourn at eleven a.m.

One of the outstanding features of the weekend is the presentation of the award for the most outstanding student government in the North State Association.

New Regulations Needed For Class Attendance To Boost EC Standards

Among other changes much needed at East Carolina is a revised regulation on class attendance. Under the present system quality points are deducted when a student takes more cuts than are designated for a particular course regardless of the quantity or quality of work he does.

This program fails to recognize three of the more outstanding factors in education.

First of all it provides no reward for individual initiative. If a student is capable of doing the required work in a given course and becomes familiar enough with the material to satisfy the professor of the course, there is no point in stipulating that he must attend class. As long as a student learns, it does not matter where. It has been our experience that some classrooms retard learning more than they speed it, although these cases are rare. However, if a case like this should occur, the student should not be taxed for using his time more effectively.

Secondly, As we have already stated, most classes aid learning. The student who habitually cuts these classes is an undesirable from the beginning. By cutting the class and participating half-heartedly he holds back the rest of the class and slows up the progress of the other students. This type student attends class only because he knows he must. His intellectual attitude is one of apathy and all he wants is to just scrape by. Yet the atmosphere created by required class attendance not only allows this type student, it encourages it by giving a false sense of self satisfaction to those who think they are learning if they attend the required classes.

Last of all this system of required attendance is ridiculous from this standpoint: All told, and not counting time and effort, each student invests at least five hundred dollars each quarter to attend college (taking into consideration the money he would be earning if he were working full time). To spend this much money for a product and then not utilize it is stupid. Dr. George Pasti summed it up once when he said, "A student who is given a free class cut should go to the registrar and demand some of his tuition back."

If a person enters a restaurant and buys a meal, it is absurd to assume the cook will be expected to stand over him and force him to eat it.

By initiating an unlimited cut system the college will improve the quality of its student body.

Students who do not wish to learn and who go to class only because they have to will be allowed to sleep all day if they so desire. No quality points will be deducted for cuts. However, these students will know the difference at the end of the quarter. The final exams will tell the story.

Those students who have no desire to learn and no initiative to study will flunk. As a result they will either change their habits or flunk out entirely. This atmosphere of "produce or get out" will separate the sheep from the goats and finally result in a higher level student body.

In addition to this, those students who have an earnest desire to learn will be given more opportunity to do so and the space vacated by the flunk outs will be available for more earnest students.

The final results would be a much improved intellectual atmosphere and a higher grade student body on campus.

Freshmen should not be allowed to participate in this program however, because they have not yet had time to mature intellectually and otherwise. The present program is satisfactory for them. Sophomores could have unlimited cuts if they had already demonstrated their desires by getting and keeping a grade average of three.

But by the time a student becomes a junior he should be smart enough to be put on his own. If he fails to produce, send him home . . . he's only in the way here.

Letters To The Editor

Professor Congratulates Student Body

Dear Editor:
The performance by the Four Freshmen in Wright Auditorium on Saturday was rewarding to me in at least two ways. First, I was impressed with the music. In addition to being artistically performed it was enjoyable and listenable as well. Second, I was impressed with the audience. I was pleased to see Wright Auditorium literally packed on a Saturday afternoon with well-dressed college students. Even the beards didn't look so bad over neat shirts, ties, and coats!

This brings me to the point of this letter. As a faculty member, I should like to congratulate the members of the student body on their appearance and conduct at this performance. It made me proud to be a teacher here and to be a part of the audience enjoying the program. As Co-chairman of the Inauguration Committee, it is my sincere hope that the entire student body will be just as "handsome" (and pretty) on May 13 on the occasion of Doctor Jenkins' inauguration as President of East Carolina College. On that day, we are anxious to put our best foot forward in every way; and certainly one of the best ways to impress our large number of out-of-town guests and friends of the college will be for our students to be "dressed up" for the ceremony. After seeing you on Saturday, I know we can count on your co-operation.

Sincerely,
James L. White
Professor of Business

Dear Editor,
"Indictment by Slander." It seems that the East Carolinian has now reached the depth of the McCarthyism Press of another decade. Mr. Walker's indictment of the honor and integrity of the organized veterans on this campus is a direct collision with fact. That is: he is either ill-informed or a pusillanimous liar.

It is suggested that Mr. Walker make an investigation of three significant points mentioned in his article of March 17th: the use of the verb "ordered;" "ice cream cones;" and the source of the flowers that was mentioned in the article. To supplement what we are sure will be a thorough investigation by Mr. Walker, we sincerely implore the administration to investigate the charge of defacing public property by the veterans of this campus.

Since the East Carolinian is the "voice of the students," we recommend the findings of the subsequent investigations be published in this paper. Also we recommend that appropriate disciplinary action be taken against any individuals indicted by evidence, not slander.

Further, it would seem that Mr. Walker has finally composed himself enough to mention that campaign of a year ago. In mentioning this at this late date, Mr. Walker has done one of three things: Forgotten the real facts of the campaign; never known those facts; or a combination of one

'Heido' Plans To Study Three Years In The United States

By MARCELLE VOGEL

Among the foreign exchange students at East Carolina this year is Hideo Kusama, who recently arrived in the U.S. from Japan.

Hidesaburo (his friends call him "Heido") which is pronounced "Hiday-o") arrived in Greensboro January 21 for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Watts before enrolling for the Spring quarter at ECC.

When he left Japan, January 9, on his birthday some 150 friends and relatives gathered to see him off. He is the first person from his home town to go outside Japan.

He's in this country on a three-year visa to study journalism, political science and "international relations in general." He already holds a degree in English and American Literature from Aoyama Gakuin University in Tokyo, a Protestant school. While there he was editor of the college newspaper, which is published in English. Hideo plans to write a series of articles for the East Carolinian, comparing some of the traditions and customs of Japan with America.

"As soon as I am able to polish my English and get used to American customs," said Hideo, "I plan to enter graduate school at the University of North Carolina."

Kusama is from "a little country town" of almost 20,000, about 100 miles from Tokyo. It was there that Japanese suicide pilots trained during World War II.

He vividly remembers the war—even though he was only eight years old when it ended. "A most fearful time," he recalls, when American planes bombarded the town's naval base "many times."

His own home remained intact, but food was hard to come by and the town was flooded with Japanese fleeing from Tokyo, begging for food and shelter.

He looks back on the war now as a "foolish mistake."

"We were never given a true picture of the world situation. We knew only a world dominated by military leaders."

Hideo has a crew cut, wears horn-rimmed glasses and looks like a middleweight wrestler who is an intellectual. Appearances and the facts are not far apart in his case. In the field of judo he has attained the black belt, which is given only to expert judo wrestlers. He is an expert in flower arrangement, and the Japanese tea ceremony, as well.

Kusama's parents have a small kimono factory in Japan. He has two brothers and three sisters. His full name, Hidesaburo, means "excellent No. 3 son."

He is the only Christian in his home town. His people are Buddhists.

"It is a big adventure for me to be a Christian," he said. It was while he was a sophomore in high school that of the above and, by surreptitious implications and untruths, attempted to convince his readers that his statements are the truths.

Finally, we give Mr. Walker credit for the possession of a certain amount of creative ability in the field of fiction. However, we feel that he should refrain from creativity while attempting to present the facts.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"BETTER LEAVE HIM ALONE—HE'S LOOKING FOR THREE MORE WORDS TO FINISH A 10,000 WORD THEME."

Now If I Had Been Running

By PAT HARVEY

The snow season ends and the winds and rains come. Result: mud. Tired rubber boots fight an endless battle to stay together before the "slush" season closes . . . Election results are coming in. Hearts bleed, egos are crushed, rationalizations drawn out the inevitable, and disinterested observers now make their usual "If I had been running . . ." speeches. Question: how many of these crushed bystanders voted?

Teacher's Pet, a comedy about teaching vs experience has been scheduled for the movie for the week. Stars Doris Day and Clark Gable are fair, but Gig Young takes the bows as the "show-saver". All teachers are urged to attend . . . Much to the surprise of many front page newspaper readers, the Navy Band appeared as scheduled. Outstanding entertainment goes in and out of EC and people continue to say, "What's to do?" Sorry, but Brenda Lee has been booked solid by the disc jockeys.

The cast for A Midsummer Night's Dream has been selected with several townspeople coping roles. Those who saw last year's Romeo and Juliet should be happy to hear that Lois (Juliet) Garren will again perform. Mrs. Garren has made quite a name for herself in the Lost Colony performances . . . Informal rush came to a close with most sororities satisfied with the results. More pledges were taken in than in the formal proceedings. Why? Less work and much easier to dress for.

East Carolina is growing! Another men's dormitory is going up—Unstead is going to be a girls' dorm next year. Enrollment is at its peak and professors are clamping down on lazy students; but only the students can improve the quality. The question is "Do they really want to?"

Correction: Everyone laughs at mistakes, except the ones who make them. Last week another movie was discussed under the title of Desire Under the Elms. Now if anyone can remember the title of the movie I discussed, certainly wish you would tell me . . . it was a terrific movie and I hate worrying over such trivial details.

Don't forget to learn to spell correctly before you take the teachers exam . . . start looking for dates to the Junior-Senior prom (Billy May is on the agenda) . . . write for summer jobs . . . start studying now (usually eliminates kicking yourself later) . . . write your parents often (they appreciate something in return for their money) . . . live modern, be pessimistic.

En Garde

By PAT FARMER

Today is the day we learn who will be Big Man on campus for the coming year . . . Political promises made under the numbing pressure of campaign speeches will be forgotten like the after-effects of too much booze

It was disgusting to see the cover of a national magazine decorated with the face of Caryl Chessman . . . Perhaps the way to become an international hero is to make a face out of the laws of the U.S. . . . When I see the "glory" given to Chessman, I wonder why our right-Chessman "statesmen" get upset over payola or why educators get upset over dishonest methods and behavior of students . . .

Attended the movie "On The Beach" and wondered if the audience reaction was one of "good plot, but it could not really happen." Fred Astaire who portrayed a scientist, made a statement something to the effect "who ever thought that men would use it (nuclear warfare) to destroy each other." Man can and probably will destroy himself . . . The human race is a strange breed. And stranger still, is the world in which the breed exists.

Our SGA president of '59-'60 will soon relinquish his office to the newly elected head of the student body. Dallas has done a good job this past year in many ways and has proven to his backers that their faith in him was well-placed . . .

Understand that the new star of "The Glass Menagerie" will be Leigh Dobson . . . The play will be presented either the second or third week in April . . .

The big Panhellenic Fraternity weekend has come and gone . . . Monday morning was viewed through the blood-shot eyes of fraternity men and the sleep eyes of sorority women . . . Perhaps next year if a big weekend such as this is planned, maybe bids will be sold by frats and sororities to independents on campus who would like to attend.

Autos, Missile Compete As Machines Pose Threat

By DERRY WALKER

People walking around with collars buttoned at the top. They sniff, snort, wheeze, grunt, and cough. The first day of spring has arrived, but sunshine remains a scarce item. Maybe by the time this gets to press, there will be warm air and soothing sunlight. Maybe the "flu" will go away.

The efforts of a very hard working Bill Hamilton and the crew who worked with him resulted in fine decorations for the IFC dance. There is a big split in opinion regarding the success of the dance. Comments ranged from, "It was like listening to Bugs Bunny music while dancing on a big block of ice," to, "It was a fabulous affair."

Many people saw "On The Beach." There is much to consider. Technically, there is nothing untrue about the story. It could happen exactly as represented on the screen. We have so much power, and we still seek more. Machines handle more and more of our defense problems. Machines that don't make mistakes governing people who do. I wonder if the machines realize that a nuclear war would be fruitless? I wonder how many people realize that it is possible to build one bomb that could wipe out the entire globe? Of course, we still don't believe that three hundred horsepower encased in a ton of steel, rubber, and plastic can kill us. So why worry about two thousand pounds of missile . . . or anti-missile . . . or anti-missile-missile . . . and so on.

Read: "When I'm wrong, no one forgets; when I'm right, no one remembers."

The ECC track team received a note from a Virginia school with whom they will soon have a contest, saying, "Bring your own snowshoes." The track team and the swimming team have done much for ECC. On both teams there are good athletes who really work hard to get ahead. They are closely-knit organizations with plenty of spirit and drive, and they get very little, if any, remuneration for their efforts. They deserve more.

Despite Cold Weather

Dance Successful; Freshmen Please ECC

By ROY MARTIN

Thanks to Bill Hamilton and his meager crew of helpers, the IFC Ball was a success.

Other than the chilliness of the warehouse in which the dance was staged, everything appeared to go off in fine style. Thanks again to those responsible.

It was rather interesting to watch the expressions on various faces as the Four Freshmen sang in Wright Saturday afternoon.

When a real moody number was in process, you could look around and see some of the audience just sitting with their heads tilted and their mouths open. Other times, when the tempo picked up considerably you could see the reaction in the faces of the listeners as they smiled, kept time with their feet, or clapped their hand lightly. They never took their eyes from the stage and the performers.

It seems that a phantom has been running loose in the PIKA house lately, and some of the brothers are somewhat perturbed by his antics.

Someone or something has been rolicking about the upstairs half of the house with a magic marker, painting cute little mustaches and beards on all the pictures of the brother's girls. We understand that under the direction of ("Smilin' Jack") Bill Baker an extensive campaign to stamp out the culprit is under way . . . Lots of luck!

You'd never know it, but spring is here. That is easily visible due to the bleak skies, bare trees, rain, snow, and birds frozen to death littering the ground.

Soon however, that situation may soon come to an end. We know because we can see the signs all around us. For example, as the sap runs through the trees, annually Buddy Weis is once again preparing for his yearly concert of native dances. We understand the public is invited.

Congratulations to Coach Ray Martine and his fine crew of swimmers on their showing at last week's NAIA meet in Muncie, Indiana.

Although the Pirate mermen placed third in the meet they worked hard and deserve a pat on the back for their efforts.

Admission to the Southern Conference may actually become a reality, according to Dr. Leo Jenkins.

Jenkins is optimistic about the ECC chances, and thinks that conditions are becoming more and more favorable. The final decision of the conference members as to whether or not East Carolina will be admitted will be known after the meeting of members in May.

Council Cites Current Points

President Leo W. Jenkins's newly organized Faculty Advisory Council met for their second time in the President's office Tuesday, March 15.

The council made of one elected representative of each department, heard and discussed many points of interest concerning college affairs in the meeting. The agenda for the meetings of the council are presented by various members of the ECC faculty.

Opening the meeting, Dr. Jenkins announced to the group that he had invited the presidents of all state-supported institutions, some of the members of the boards of trustees of these institutions and the state Board of Higher Education to spend two days here on the campus, May 6-7. Jenkins recommended to the council that they talk with the members of their respective departments relative to items that may be placed on the agenda for the meeting.

The council also discussed the razing of Austin Building, and safety precautions which could be taken, due to the fact that Austin has been termed as a potential fire hazard. Dr. Jenkins stated that he was going to recommend to the Legislature that Austin building be razed. Jenkins further stated that he would recommend that this building be replaced by two buildings; one with the same

Fetsch Performs In Joint Concert At Southern Pines

Dr. Wolfgang Fetsch pianist of the college Department of Music will appear at Southern Pines today in a joint concert with Edmond Karlrud of New York, bass baritone.

Later this spring Dr. Fetsch will give solo recitals in Raleigh and at Campbell College and will play with the N. C. Symphony Orchestra in Rocky Mount.

The concert at Southern Pines will take place in Weaver auditorium at 8:30 p.m. The Sand Hill Music Association will sponsor the program as an attraction of their current entertainment series.

Dr. Fetsch, as piano soloist at Southern Pines, has chosen as selections to be played there the Waldstein Sonata by Beethoven, a Liszt rhapsody, a group of Scarlotti sonatas, and works by Mendelssohn, Brahms, and Mozart.

At the State Art Museum, Raleigh, he will be presented in a solo recital at 4 p.m. March 27. He will play at Campbell College April 4.

Dr. Fetsch has appeared this season as soloist with the N. C. Symphony Orchestra in concerts at Smithfield, Morehead City, and Clinton. He will appear with the symphony April 21, in Rocky Mount.

Steve Fowlkes and Nancy Brown put up decorations for the College Carnival as Mrs. Yvonne Smith helps. The carnival will take place March 31. Over 25 campus organizations have planned to participate in this annual event.

Senior Exhibits Art Work In Rawl

Willis Boyce Honeycutt, Jr., senior student of art, is now exhibiting in the Kate Lewis Gallery in the Rawl building on the campus watercolor showing his work in the field of architectural design and decorating. The exhibition is sponsored by the department of art and will be on display March 20-26.

Using an originally designed floor plan, Honeycutt pictures the decor of rooms in a modern home. Both house and decor are contemporary in style.

The student artist is specializing in art and industrial arts here. He is a member and officer of the Theta Chi fraternity. He is scheduled to receive the A.B. degree at commencement exercises in May.

Commission Opens Position Exams Indefinitely

The U. S. Civil Service Commission has announced that examinations for positions in scientific work in various Federal establishments in the Washington, D.C. area will be open until further notice. Persons qualifying for positions will have outstanding opportunities for advancement. Entrance salaries range from $4,490 to $12,770 a year.

The Commission is looking for scientists with backgrounds in chemistry, mathematics, metallurgy, and physics. Many appointments are made to the following agencies: National Bureau of Standards, Department of the Air Force, Agricultural Research Service, Walter Reed Army Medical Center, Diamond Ordnance Fuze Laboratories Geological Survey, Bureau of Mines, Food and Drug Administration, and the National Institutes of Health. The Commission news service states that "the research laboratories in these agencies are among the finest in the world."

Candidates must have completed appropriate college study leading to a bachelor's degree. In addition, for positions paying $5,430 and above, graduate study or professional experience is required.

Further information regarding these positions is contained in Civil Service Announcements 209B and 210B. The announcements and application forms may be obtained at many post offices throughout the country, or from the U.S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C. Applications will be accepted by the Board of U.S. Civil Service Examiners Bureau of Standards, Washington 25, D.C. until further notice.

SGA Fills Publications Vacancy; Tri-Sigma National President Visits

The Student Senate elected Roy Martin to serve as a member-at-large on the EC Publications Board at the regular weekly senate meeting Monday night.

Martin will fill the seat left vacant by Tom Jackson when he was elected editor of the East Carolinian. Jackson remains on the board, but now represents the college newspaper and is no longer a member-at-large. The other members-at-large are James Trice and Merle Summers.

Martin was opposed by Sue Lasater in the election.

WILSON SPEAKS TO GROUP

"The trucking industry does not receive or expect a free ride—we pay our share. We pay huge highway user taxes, plus the usual business taxes," a trucking industry spokesman said here last week.

Jeff B. Wilson, Raleigh, director of Information and Safety of the North Carolina Motor Carriers Association, was guest speaker at a 7:00 p.m. meeting of the East Carolina College Chapter Society for Advancement of Management in the Auditorium of Rawl Building.

Program Chairman Jim Ballard of Wilmington introduced Wilson who is also editor of the monthly magazine "Tarheels' Wheels," recently elected president of the Southern Safety Conference and former Lions District Governor. President Ronald Henry of Kingston presided.

"The North Carolina trucking industry has helped banish the 'economic isolation' of many smaller places as today's new industrial development program reaches every nook and cranny of our great state," Wilson stated. Mr. Wilson also mentioned that the N. C. Association was the largest in America having over 7,000 members. It is also one of the best in the nation because of its outstanding achievements in safety and service.

In conclusion, Wilson also outlined safety activities conducted by the Motor Carriers Association, including the annual State Truck Roadshow, "The Driver of the Year" program, "Share the Road" campaign, and the N. C. Truck Driver Training School founded by the Association at N. C. State College some eleven years ago (this training school is the only one of its type in the United States).

PLEDGES INITIATED

The Rho Zeta Chapter of Chi Omega Fraternity, one of the eight social sororities on campus, held initiation for six girls in Alpha Pledge Class on March 15. These new members are Frances Bailey, Linda Campbell, Beth Harris, Linda Mewborn, Frances Smith, and Linda Vick.

On March 14, Chi Omega installed Beta Pledge Class. Of these new pledges three are sophomores—Jewel Callahan, Jean Lasater, and Nancy Wingate; and five are freshmen

REPRESENTS ECC AT INAUGURATION

Mrs. Austin Perry, faculty member of the department of foreign languages, represented the college at the inauguration of Dr. Shepard Davis as president of Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S.C., Friday, March 18.

Mrs. Perry is a graduate of Winthrop, a member of the faculty there during several summer sessions, and a former resident of Rock Hill.

FELLOWSHIP TO INSTALL OFFICERS

Officers of the campus Westminster Fellowship of Presbyterian students who will serve during 1960-1961 were installed at a Spring Retreat held by the organization March 18-20 at Bogue Sound Camp.

Thirty members of the group attended the retreat. The program, led by the Rev. George Nickles of the Hollywood and Chieod Presbyterian churches, centered attention on Bible study of the theme "Revelation and the Second Coming."

After the retreat they attended evening service at the Neuse Forest Presbyterian Church in New Bern. A deputation team from the Westminster Fellowship conducted the service.

New officers of the group who were installed at the retreat are George McD. Johnson, moderator; Norma Lee Wilson, vice moderator; Judith A. Pleasant, second vice moderator; Sarah J. Cotten, secretary; and Beatrice V. Barrett, treasurer.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SPEAKER

Robert Dolling Wells of Seattle, Washington, will be the main speaker at a free public lecture on Christian Science to be given at the Christian Science Church in Greenville on Thursday evening, March 24 at 8:00 p.m.

The Christian Science Church is located on the corner of Meade and East Fourth Street.

Mr. Wells, a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship, will speak on how spiritual awakening makes life more meaningful. His subject will be "Christian Science Lifts the Burden of Mortality."

A native of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, Mr. Wells is an authorized teacher and practitioner of Christian Science. He attended Washington State College and the University of Washington. He was active in mechanical engineering before entering the public practice of Christian Science about twenty-four years ago. He has been a teacher of Christian Science since 1952.

The Christian Science College Organization of the College welcome all students and professors to the lecture.

ALPHA PHI ENTERTAINS ADMINISTRATION AT TEA

On Sunday, March 20, Alpha Phi Sorority gave a tea in honor of the new administration. The guests were greeted at the door by Dr. and Mrs. Brimley and introduced to the receiving line which was made up of Bobbie Bethune, President of Alpha Phi; Dr. Leo Jenkins; Dr. and Mrs. Robert Holt; Dr. and Mrs. John Horne; Dean Ruth White; and Dr. and Mrs. James Tucker.

The guests were directed into the dining room for refreshments. After receiving refreshments there was informal conversation among the guests.

NATIONAL PRESIDENT VISITS

Mrs. Curtis C. Dixon, National President of Sigma Sigma Sigma, visited on campus with the Gamma Beta Chapter Monday and Tuesday. While on campus Mrs. Dixon held conferences with Miss Ruth White, Dean of Women, Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, President of the College, and officers and advisors of the chapter.

Those pledged were Sandra Wrenn, Diane Walsler, Susie Street, Nancy Carr, Kay Beech, Jackie Hammon, Nancy King, Nancy Hubbard, Sue Holland, Judy Redfern, Nancy Kinzer, and Lynn Johnson.

Serving as officers for the pledge class are Sandra Wrenn, president; Susie Street, vice-president; Nancy Carr, secretary, and Sue Holland, treasurer.

ECC Graduate Plays Leading Role In Carolina Playmakers' Production

Shirley Dixon, daughter of Mrs. Rhoda Dixon of 506 E. Ninth Street, will play the lead role of a suppressed minister's daughter, Alma Wine-miller, in the Carolina Playmakers presentation of Tennessee Williams' dramatic hit, "Summer and Smoke," at the Playmakers Theater, opening Wednesday, March 23 and running through Sunday, March 27.

Miss Dixon is a graduate of East Carolina College and has been seen in both college and little theater productions in Greenville. She played the lead in "The Potting Shed" and has received the Best Actress in a Supporting Role award for her performance at ECC in "House of Connely." Other awards include: Best Character Actress and Most Promising Young Actress in ECC Playhouse.

She is a graduate student in the Department of Dramatic Art at the University of North Carolina. Last semester one of her original one-act plays, "Half Moon," was presented by the Carolina Playmakers. Except for workshop productions this is her first role for Miss Dixon with the Playmakers.

The scene for "Summer and Smoke" is set in a sleepy small town in Mississippi, and is the story of a highly sensitive young spinster (Alma Wine-miller portrayed by Miss Dixon) who has adored the roistering young doctor next door since they were classmates as children. But the prim Alma is repulsed by John's debauched ways, and he by her puritanism.

On almost all points they seem to be in conflict. He treats her for her affectations and intellectual dilettantism. She is appalled that such a brilliant young man would waste himself in profligate living.

By the time they come to accept each other's ideas, he learning to believe in the soul, and she in the flesh, it is too late. Alma has won her argument, but she has lost John.

Tickets are available for opening night (Wednesday), Thursday, and Sunday from the Playmakers Business Office, 214 Abernethy Hall and from Ledbetter-Pickard in downtown Chapel Hill. Standing room only is available for Friday and Saturday.

Diamondmen Drop 2; Host Yale Next Week

By LEONARD LAO

The East Carolina baseball team will have four games under their belts when they play host to Yale University of the Ivy League next Monday and Tuesday.

Coach Jim Mallory's ball club dropped a pair to Camp Lejeune last week-end, and were scheduled to open their home season against Springfield College with a double-header taking place yesterday and today. The Springfield club is currently at Camp Lejeune and have agreed to play the Bucs, according to Mallory.

The Pirate tutor was not down in the dumps over his team's loss to Camp Lejeune. In fact, Mallory was very well pleased with his club's showing. "We hit the ball much better than we had hoped for with only two days of outdoor practice," said the EC coach. The Pirates banged out 10 hits for a total of 12 runs in the opener, but still lost on the Marines' 14 hits and 14 runs.

Leading the Bucs at the plate was left fielder Gary Pierce, the batting leader in the conference last year. The husky hitter made a day of it at Lejeune banging out a home run and two doubles. His homer came on his first trip to the plate with two men on. It was a 420 foot drive that cleared the centerfield fence with room to spare. Later in the game Pierce slashed a double and added another in the second contest.

Other extra base hits for the Pirates were credited to Hubert Castelle and Jim Martin, with two hits apiece, and Glenn Bass, who banged Things looked as though they were going to be different in the second game when back-to-back doubles were slammed out by Wally Cockrell and Jim Martin to produce a run in the first inning, but the rally was short-lived. The Marines bounced back with three runs in the third and fifth frames to take a 6-1 lead. Another EC rally fell short in the sixth frame, with the Bucs adding three more tallies. Again the Lejeune hitters came back to add a pair of insurance runs in the last half of the sixth.

The Pirate camp is not bitter over the losses, for in last year's game with Camp Lejeune the Bucs were able to push only one run for their afternoon's effort. The Marine boys have no record to laugh at either. They were All-Marine champions last season, posting a 97-20 won-lost record.

Close Match Gives Winners A Score

Charles Holliday and Norman Kilpatrick won the closest final match of the year when they won the Spring Quarter Men's Doubles Table Tennis Tournament from Albert Davis and Bobby Hutchins, in play held in the College Union March 15.

Holliday-Kilpatrick squeezed out a tense win over Davis-Hutchins by the scores of 19-21, 21-13, and 23-21, after the sharply angled shots of Hutchins, and the forehand drives of Davis had given them the first game of the match.

The second game was won by the forehand drives of Holliday, and the backhand drives of Kilpatrick, and had given Holliday-Kilpatrick an 18-12 lead in the final game, when the defensive play of the Davis-Hutchins duo allowed them to come back to tie the score at 20-all. At this point the spin serves and forehand drives of the winners allowed them to win the three vital points needed for the championship.

Many good matches were produced during this tournament, and good competition resulted from the event being held on a double elimination basis.

Under this system Davis-Hutchins had lost an earlier match to Holliday-Kilpatrick in two straight games, and had then hit through the defense of Nelson Tugwell and Phil Plaster 21-14, 18-21, 21-18, to take their place in the finals. Tugwell-Plaster had won a close match from the unorthodox attack of Elwood Brown-Bruce Cooper 21-16, 22-20, while Davis-Hutchins were winning a tight match from Earl Marshburn-Louis Bimonte, 21-12, 16-21, 21-16.

Men's Singles Table Tennis

The Spring Quarter Men's Singles Table Tennis Tournament, open to all East Carolina men's students will be held in the College Union this coming Tuesday, March 29. Starting time will be 6:30 P.M., with the finals scheduled for 9 P.M.

Spectators are invited to watch the tourney, which will probably have all E.C.'s top players entered.

A consolation's division, open to all players losing their first matches in the regular singles, will be during this event, so that players of all abilities will have fair competition. Last quarter's consolation winner was Earl Marshburn.

Interested men may sign up for the Spring Quarter event, and obtain additional information, in the College Union Recreation Area.

PIRATE'S DEN

By LEONARD LAO

Ed Emory, co-captain of the 1959 Pirate football team, has added another honor to his list of football achievements. The rugged senior has been named on the All-Lambda Chi Alpha team. Ed was a member of Delta Sigma Rho local fraternity before it became affiliated with the national frat.

Emory was a four year letterman on Coach Jack Boone's grid team, and many are the holes he has opened up for Pirate runners. Last season as a junior, Emory was named to the All-Conference team. He repeated that honor again this year along with copping positions on the All-State and All-Lambda Chi squads.

Spring has sprung and that means that baseball is here. Enthusiastic baseball fans all over the country will be asking, "Will the Yankees come back this year?" or, "Will Chicago repeat as the American League pennant-winners?" Probably the question that will be heard on the EC campus is, "Will Sigma Nu Fraternity make a clean sweep of the boys' intramural league?"

Sigma Nu has gone through the football and basketball seasons without a defeat, and the only other teams being able to come close are Kappa Alpha and Lambda Chi Alpha. Kappa Alpha finished second in the football league, while Lambda Chi was runner-up in the basketball race.

In past years Lambda Chi has dominated intramural play, and the trend has been that if you win one, you win them all. If any of the other fraternity teams have hopes of knocking Sigma Nu from their pedestal, they had better start getting in a few practice sessions. From this corner it appears that Sigma Nu has been better organized than the others.

The Duke University basketball team went a lot further than anyone expected them to this year. The Blue Devils opened their bag of surprises during the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament at Raleigh where they defeated the two strongest teams in the A.C.C., Wake Forest and the University of North Carolina on successive nights to win the A.C.C. crown. Duke squeaked by the Tar Heels in the semi-finals, and came from a berth in the N.C.A.A. playoffs which were played in New York's Madison Square Garden and the Colosseum at Charlotte, N. C.

Not bothered by the fact that everyone was saying that they would not get past the first round, Coach Vic Bubas and his boys went to New York in a mood of determination. The Blue Devils had to prove to everyone that they were going further than the first round . . . and that's exactly what they did.

Their first match was with Ivy League champion, Princeton, who didn't prove to be much of a match after all. The Blue Devils romped over Princeton in perfect form, and their next stop was in Charlotte for the remainder of the regional playoffs. Here Bubas and his boys met with a little more competition in St. Josephs of Pennsylvania, but Duke passed the test to defeat the yankees in a hard fought two point victory.

But at this point the Durham five met their match in New York University. The Violets were riding high on their upset victory over the University of West Virginia, a 81-80 overtime thriller. The New York boys proved to have too much talent for the Blue Devils, and consequently the Dukes got behind and could never catch up.

Even though the Blue Devils didn't win any national championships, they did succeed in gaining a couple of moral victories. Three times during the regular season the Tar Heels had beaten Duke, and Wake Forest's Deacons had downed the Blue Devils twice. It was a surprise to everyone except Coach Bubas, who figured that the pressure was on the Tar Heels and the Deacons instead of his Blue Devils. Evidently he was right.

Riddick Chosen MVP In Tourney At Portsmouth

By LEONARD LAO

East Carolina's All-Conference guard, Ike Riddick was named the most valuable player in the recent Portsmouth Invitational Tournament held at Portsmouth, Virginia. Riddick teamed up with Cotton Clayton, another All-Conference player, Dan Smith, Alex Roberts of Texas A & M, and Gary Clark, who is a draft choice of the New York Knickerbockers of the National Basketball Association, to run away with the tournament championship.

Playing with Kittrell's Flooding Company, this dazzling quinter knocked off Branton's Used Cars, who boasted two All-Southern Conference players in Jeff Cohen and Ben Vaughan of William and Mary College, in the first round of play. Cohen, Vaughan and company were the defending P.I.T. Champions, and were expected to successfully defend that title. But the Kittrell's team, led by Riddick, simply outclassed last year's winners.

In the semi-finals, Kittrell's had little trouble in disposing of Belmont Place of Norfolk.

Kittrell's faced another star-studded team in the finals when they met Dynum Motor Sales. It looked like the end of the road for Kittrell's, because the Dynum club sported such celebrated players as Lee Shaffer of the University of North Carolina, Al Bunge of the University of Maryland, and Paul Atkins of the University of Virginia. All three were named to the All-Atlantic Coast Conference team, while Shaffer made the Look Magazine All-American, and the Associated Press third team All-American squads.

Riddick, along with gaining the M.V.P. award, was also the tournament leading scorer. The Greenville native scored a total of 82 points in three nights for a 27.3 average. He dropped 31 in the first round, 29 in the second round, and led his team with 29 points in their 86-79 victory over the A.C.C. stars.

Clayton dunked nine points and Smith hit the nets for eight in the championship game. Bunge was high for the losers with 25 points, while Heel Shaffer was next with 24.

HAIL TO THE DEAN!

Today let us examine that much maligned, widely misunderstood, grossly overworked, wholly dedicated campus figure—the dean.

The dean (from the Latin deanere—to expel) is not, as many think, primarily a disciplinary officer. He is a counselor and guide, a haven and refuge for the troubled student. The dean (from the Greek deanos—to skewer) is characterized chiefly by sympathy, wisdom, patience, forbearance, and a fondness for homely pleasures like barn-raising, gruel, spell-downs, and Marlboro Cigarettes. The dean (from the German deanemacht—to poop a party) is fond of Marlbors for the same reason that all men of good will are fond of Marlboros—because Marlboro is an honest cigarette. Those better makin's are honestly better, honestly aged to the peak of perfection, honestly blended for the best of all possible flavors. The filter honestly filters. Marlboro honestly comes in two different containers—a soft pack which is honestly soft, and a flip-top box which honestly flips. You too will flip when next you try an honest Marlboro, which, one honestly hopes, will be soon.

But I digress. We were learning how a dean helps undergraduates. To illustrate, let us take a typical case from the files of Dean S. . . . of the University of Y. . . . (Oh, why be so mysterious? The dean's name is Sigafos and the University is Yutah.)

Wise, kindly Dean Sigafos was visited one day by a freshman named Walter Agincourt who came to ask permission to marry one Emma Blenheim, his dormitory laundress. To the dean the marriage seemed ill-advised, for Walter was only 18 and Emma was 91. Walter agreed, but said he felt obligated to go through it because Emma had invested her life savings in a transparent rain hood to protect her from the mist at Niagara Falls where they planned to spend their honeymoon. What use, asked Walter, would the poor woman have for a rain hood in Yutah? The wise, kindly dean pondered briefly and came up with an answer: let Walter punch holes in the back of Emma's steam iron; with steam billowing back at the old lady, she would find a rain hood very useful—possibly even essential.

Whimpering with gratitude, Walter kissed the dean's Phi Beta Kappa key and hastened away to follow his advice which, it pleases me to report, solved matters brilliantly.

Today Emma is a happy woman—singing lustily, wearing her rain hood, eating soft-center chocolates, and ironing clothes—twice as happy, to be candid, than if she had married Walter. . . . And Walter? He is happy too. Freed from his liaison with Emma, he married a girl much nearer his own age—Agnes Yuca, 72. Walter is now the proud father—stepfather, to be perfectly accurate—of three fine healthy boys from Agnes's first marriage—Everett, 38; Willem, 43; and Irving, 55—and when Walter puts the boys in Eton collars and takes them for a stroll in the park on Sunday afternoons, you may be sure there is not a dry eye in Yutah. . . . And Dean Sigafos? He too is happy—happy to spend long, tiring days in his little office, giving counsel without stint and without complaint, doing his bit to set the young, uncertain feet of his charges on the path to a brighter tomorrow.

We don't say that Marlboro is the dean of alter cigarettes, but it's sure at the head of the class. Try some—or if you prefer mildness without Alters, try popular Philip Morris from the same makers.

Lucky Strike's Dr. Frood reveals

A Foolproof Method for Rating Your College

Dear Dr. Frood: Do you believe in the theories that Shakespeare was actually either Marlowe or Bacon?
English Major

Dear English: All rot. I have done considerable research on the subject and can prove that Marlowe was actually Bacon, and that Bacon (who was a bit of a ham) was, in reality, Marlowe, and that Shakespeare, an itinerant grape squeezer who could neither read nor write, was, in fact, Queen Elizabeth!
Queen Elizabeth!

Dear Dr. Frood: I have a very serious personal problem. I am secretly engaged to three students here. Just between you and me, however, they are all fools. I really love a certain Professor Bowdley, who is married. What should I do? Needless to say, this letter is not for publication.
Millicent Tweedley

Dear Dr. Frood: Whenever I am with girls, I stutter. Frankly, I think it is because my parents never told me about the birds and the bees. What can I do?
A. W. Shucks

Dear Put: Light both ends.
Put Upon

Dear Dr. Frood: I am just a little bit worried about exams. I have not attended any classes this semester. I have not done any reading, either. I must be in Aiken in the polo matches until the day before exams and, of course, will be unable to study. Any suggestions?
Buzzy

Dear A. W.: You had better read some books on the subject. I especially recommend Mildred Twiddle's "The Bees Are Your Friends," and Agnes Moffet's "Songs in the Treetops."
Mildred Twiddle

Dear Dr. Frood: Is there any accepted method for determining the academic ratings of American universities and colleges?
I. V. Leeger

Dear I. V.: Of course. Simply take the total number of graduates and divide by money.
