'ECC Night' Draws Large Student Group Saturday

Over 150 students are expected to attend "East Carolina night" at a performance of "The Lost Colony," Paul Green's outdoor drama of North Carolina, at Manteo, July 23.

An outdoor supper on the grounds at Fort Raleigh will begin the program at 5:30, and East Carolina President Leo Jenkins will speak to the theatre audience at 8:00.

Allan Nelms, Director of Alumni Affairs, explains that one bus has been chartered which hasn't been filled. A few seats are left and an $5.00 ticket will include transportation, supper, and a ticket to the performance.

The college has enjoyed an intimate association with the outdoor drama, which is presently the most popular in the nation. Clifton Britton, an East Carolina alumnus, has directed the play for nine years.

Also on the program, Mrs. Alison Moss, an EC graduate student and outstanding vocalist, will perform before the first curtain. She will be accompanied by Dr. George Perry, a member of the college music faculty and member of the Lost Colony cast.

Persons attending from the college will be recognized during the performance. Also, they will have an opportunity to meet the cast.

Students leaving by the special bus will leave at 1:00 p.m. Saturday. Those providing their own transportation may purchase tickets at a reduced rate of $2.00 reserved seats for $3.00.

In speaking of the performance, Nelms stated that it "will definitely give the public an opportunity to become acquainted with East Carolina." A large audience from all parts of the world attend the pageant, which has maintained the longest stand on record for outdoor dramas. It is the story of the first English settlement in North America and is performed on the actual location of the colony on Roanoke Island.

Johnson Assumes Former Position For Summer Term

Kathryn Johnson of Greenville has assumed editorship of the campus newspaper for the second session of summer school. Returning to the position of managing editor is Roy Martin, also of Greenville.

Continuing in the position of staff photographer is Jim Kirkland of Raleigh. Bryan Harrison of Ashville, assumes duties as assistant editor while Leonard Lao from Portsmouth, Virginia takes over as sports editor.

Business manager for this session will be Gwen Johnson of Greenville. A graduate student, Kathryn Johnson was editor of the newspaper during the regular school terms in 1958-59 and 1959-60. She held a position on the paper each of her four years as an undergraduate student.

Martin was assistant editor of the paper this past year and will assume editorship of the campus literary magazine, The Rebel, this fall. Last year he received the trophy for the best news reporting on campus.

Harrison is a veteran of several years' work on both the East Carolinian and The Rebel. He was among the small group of students who worked to create the literary magazine three years ago and he edited it for the first two years.

Photographer for the yearbook, the Buccaneer, last year, Kirkland had also worked with the newspaper and the Key, campus handbook, previously.

Gwen Johnson, proofreading editor of the newspaper for the last two academic years, was business manager of the paper last year during both summer sessions.

Working as reporters and columnists are former SGA president, Mike Katsias, Bob Gooden, and Sue Sparkman. Regular school term editor Tom Jackson will write columns by correspondence.

Annual Music Camp Begins; Students Undertake Study, Work

A student enrollment of over 400 junior and senior high school musicians arrived on the ECC campus Sunday afternoon, as the Sixth Annual Summer Music Camp began operations once again.

Mr. Earl E. Beach, director of the EC department of music heads a staff of 35 instructors for the 1960 music camp.

The young musicians, who are visiting the ECC campus, are from areas in North Carolina and surrounding states. The Music Camp program, in which they are taking part, includes a program of instruction, theory, instrumental and vocal music. Also conducting, arts and crafts, creative dancing, and techniques for majorettes and drum majors, and other areas of musical knowledge are a part of this year's program.

A workshop on the graduate level has been added to the camp curriculum this year. A lawn concert which is scheduled for Sunday, July 24, is one of the main events of this year's camp. However, the concert which is set for Saturday, July 30, in Wright Auditorium will be the culmination of

New SGA Official

SGA Appoints Henry Vansant As Vice-President

Henry Vansant has been appointed vice president of the Summer School Student Government Association. He received a unanimous vote by the student legislature.

A senior physical education major from Hampton, Virginia, Vansant was a member-at-large representing the day students of the summer school legislature. He filled the vacancy created by Sadie Barber who left school at the beginning of second session.

The new vice president has been on the varsity football team for three years. He is a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity.

In their first meeting of the second session, the SGA appropriated $175 to Intramural sports and denied a request for a $700 movie projector to film football games.

Also, in their meeting Monday, the legislature appointed Ray Futrell to investigate the possibility of raising funds for a campus chapel and Bobby Jo Sutton to report on funds for the publishing of the college history.

The group also discussed entertainment and tabled a motion to have Frank Warner, well-known folk singer on the campus.

PICK-UP BUCCANEERS

All students who were in school during the regular term may pick up their yearbooks in the Buccaneer office from 1:00 p.m. - 3:00 p.m., or in the SGA office from 1:00 p.m. - 4:00 p.m.

Commission To Visit EC; Study Request

Dr. Leo Jenkins has announced that the State Advisory Budget Commission will visit the East Carolina Campus July 25, in order to study possible capital improvements for the college.

The request for funds, which is presented before the commission bi-annually, is, according to Dr. Jenkins, "in keeping with the needs of the growing college."

This year's appropriation request which totals $7,769,500, includes as major items, $1,255,000 for Education Building, $1,475,500 for a new Men's dormitory, and $905,000 for a classroom building to replace the Austin Building.

Concerning the request for funds, Jenkins stated, "This is an honest request based on the best information obtainable regarding the specific and definite needs of this college. There is not an item in the request that cannot be fully justified."

The request, which will be submitted to the 1960 session of the North Carolina Legislature, includes: Classroom Building to replace Austin Building	$ 905,000

Auditorium to seat 1,000 persons (to replace Austin Auditorium)	340,000
Dormitory for Women to replace Wilson Dormitory	537,500
Addition to Wright Building (Student Union)	548,000
Repairs to Wright Building	38,500
Elementary School Building	351,000
Addition to Library	428,000

LAST DATE TO DROP COURSE

According to Registrar, John H. Horne, the last day to drop a course without receiving a failing grade has been set as Wednesday, July 27, 1960.

All drop slips, properly signed should be in the registrar's office by 4:30 p. m. on the above date.

Union To Stage Talent Show

ECC students who have talent will have a chance to compete for three cash prizes in a talent show to be sponsored by the College Union. Cynthia Mendenhall, recreation director has announced.

Students who wish to compete in the talent show must sign up in the College Union by July 25. The show will be given in August. The date, time, and place are to be announced later by Betty Hope Lane, chairman of the talent show.

Cash prizes for the three top winners will be $10, $5, and $2.50 for first, second, and third places respectively.

The contest is open to any type of talent, but participants must register their names and type of performance they will give by the deadline date says Miss Lane.

Jack Edwards Assumes Position As ECC Director Of Placement

To assist each student of East Carolina College in securing a top position after graduation is the aim of I. Jack Edwards, Jr., newly appointed Director of Placement.

Dr. James L. Tucker, former Director of Placement, will in the future act as full-time Dean of Student Affairs. Mr. Edwards, a native of Charlotte, has spent most of his life in Greenville, and is the owner of Edward's Auto Supply. He is described by his secretary in the placement bureau, Mrs. Howard Porter, as being very enthusiastic about his new position.

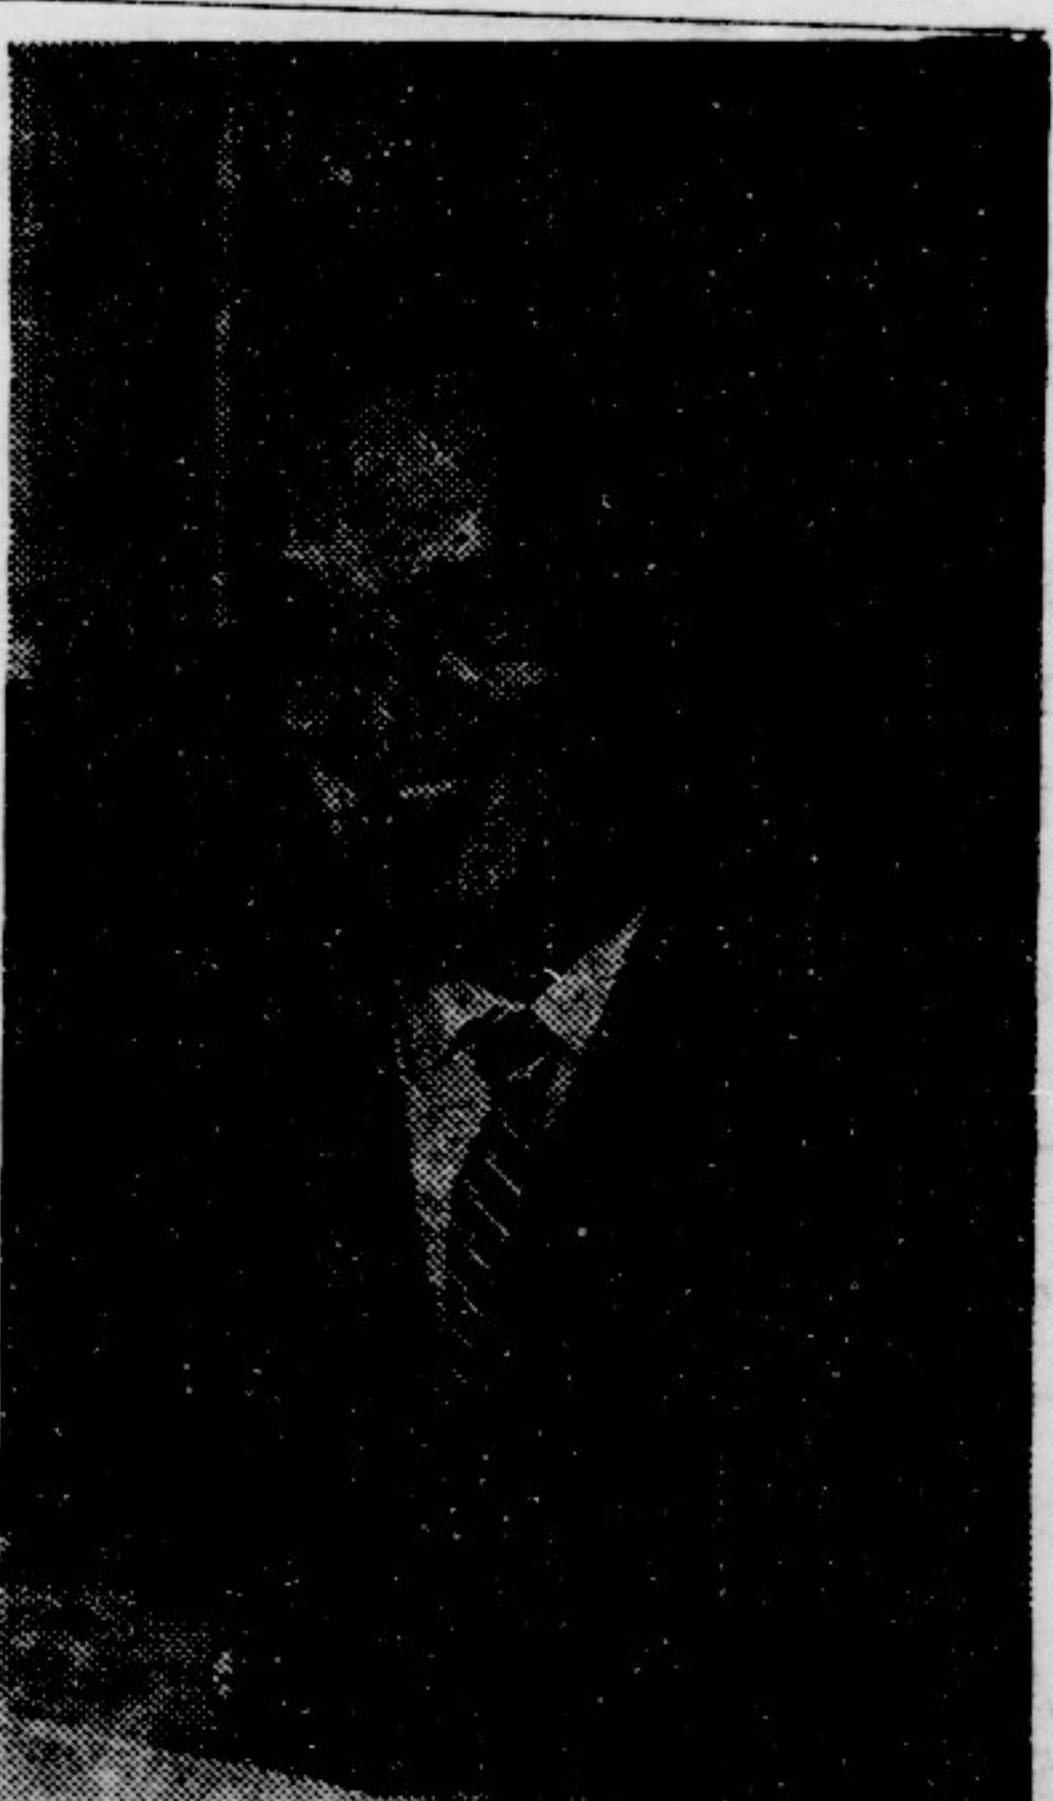

In a personal interview Mr. Edwards said, "I feel very fortunate to have been chosen Director of Placement. I have a great deal of interest in the office. My job is helping people and it's very gratifying."

He also stated that the objective of the Placement Bureau is to place graduates of East Carolina who have completed 15 quarter hours in the best possible positions. In commenting on his future plans, Mr. Edwards said, "I hope to expand the placement program to enable us to find the best positions for both teaching and non-teaching graduates." The objectives of the Placement Bureau outlined as being:

1. Recommending students to prospective employers
 2. Notifying the student of vacancies
 3. Forwarding the confidential brochures to prospective employers
 4. Arranging interviews
- In securing positions for students, Mr. Edwards said, "We in the Placement Office plan to work very closely with the department chairmen in order to get the best possible appraisal of students." He also emphasized the importance of registering with the bureau. The Placement Office is open from 8:30 until 4:30, and each graduate is encouraged to go by and register. The effort in registering is small compared to the rewards that are to be received, Edwards claimed.

Wife at breakfast table to grumpy husband: "Look on the bright side. In 16 hours you'll be back in bed."

I. J. EDWARDS . . . hopes to expand the Placement Bureau.

Jenkins Expresses Regret On Lack Of Summer Courses

Dr. Leo Jenkins, President of ECC, said this week that the college regrets that many students were unable to register for some courses that they desired to take during the second term of the current summer session.

"This is due to the fact that summer schools are essentially self-supporting and there is not sufficient income to offer all the courses desirable," stated Jenkins. "I am not defending the college on this, but stating the situation so that the students will understand the reason for this situation."

Calling for a better summer school program, Jenkins further stated that, "The state and the students could be better served with an appropriation for an adequate summer school program."

"This problem is going to become more acute," continued the recently inaugurated EC president, "because many students want to accelerate, and there is also an increase in demand among many teachers and administrators who want to upgrade their positions."

Concluding his remarks, Jenkins said, "I want to thank the faculty and student body for their patience and cooperative manner to which they adapted themselves to a difficult situation. We are requesting support for a summer school program so that the present situation will not occur again next year."

MSC TO CLOSE

The Methodist Student Center will be closed July 25 to September 1, as the Director, Miss Marie Chandler, will be on vacation.

The Center will open again on September 1, at which time the Wesley Foundation Council will hold a Planning Retreat, to make preparation to welcome the incoming Freshmen for orientation.

The Breeding Of Hate May Be Cause Of U. S. Troubles

One must be taught to hate; no man is born with this instinct. And how we have been taught to hate here in these free United States of America!

To our knowledge, every religious sect in this country, "one nation under God," teaches that hate is a bad thing which is usually a boomerang often more injurious to the hater than to the hated. Yet, we teach that anyone who does not conform to the particular picture we have of what an American should be is one to be hated. (We reiterate that hate can only be taught; it is not inherent.) Now the particular picture we hold depends upon the individual we are. The most pertinent information for the formation of this picture is race, religion, and national background and sometimes even economic position.

Some say that the world today is in a deplorable situation. Some say our foreign relations are at lowest ebb. Some say our internal situation is critical. The crux of these troubles may well be hate.

The particular answer to these troubles is the development of a love for our fellow man and the respect of the dignity of all men.

We challenge teachers to put aside the hate and prejudice that created these crises and teach this love and understanding in an attempt to keep peace.

Don't be afraid to teach that our Declaration of Independence long ago ruled "that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights." Remind them that government is instituted among men to assure them of these rights and no man has the authority to take away the right of another man.

Prejudice exists among the ignorant and ours is a state of average eighth grade intelligence. Therefore, the need for the development of this love and understanding of which we speak is especially great here in North Carolina.

Children usually emulate their teachers and if teachers foster this feeling of equality, love, and understanding perhaps it will permeate the classroom and later the community.

It is not easy to practice the theory of democracy we have preached for so long, but it is both necessary and right that we do so.

Statement Of Basic Policy

The East Carolinian is a weekly newspaper edited by students of East Carolina College. Dedicated to good standards of journalism and accurate presentation of the news, the purpose of the newspaper as a communicative organ is to inform, to educate, to stimulate, and to make our readers think.

The opinions expressed on this page are not necessarily representative of the majority of the students on this campus, the faculty, the staff, or the administration, but rather those of the student writers.

Summer School Dance Pleases Overall Chairman Vansant

By JIM KIRKLAND

Last Friday evening dancers and beauties turned out in good number to dance away their summer school troubles to the music of Richard Maltby. Nine beauties highlighted the dance when they were presented and one of them, Miss Alice Starr, was crowned "Miss Summer School" of 1960.

Congratulations are in order to the boys of Sig-Ep, the sponsors of Miss Starr, who did an excellent job of hustling for their candidate. At one point the campaigning reminded students of the recent regular term SGA election campaign stunts. The Sig-Ep's also aided somewhat with the decorations and helped with the figure that evening.

Over-all dance chairman Henry Vansant was pleased with the dance and concert: If you were to have been in Wright Auditorium the night of the dance you could have seen Henry putting the finishing touches on the auditorium as late as 7:30... understand Henry's wife, Ronnie, was busy at home for several nights making preparations of her own to attend the dance in a stunning black dress.

The boys that aided with the dance arrangements were M. H. Pridgen and Kenneth (Buddy) Kilpatrick. Kilpatrick will edit the 1961 yearbook, The Buccaneer, next year. M. H. Pridgen, who hails once upon a time from Rocky Mount, is a graduate student and one of Vansant's Kappa Alpha brothers.

If those persons who always seem to complain about entertainment would stay at school one weekend when the SGA plans something big for the students they might be a little more satisfied. But it's not the people that go home, but those that go to the Bel Aire club whenever something like last Friday night is planned... You can't please 'em all...

If you have been in the Soda Shop lately, you have probably seen the male student who persists in wearing dark glasses. Not that wearing dark glasses is taboo, but this man, we presume he is such, could at least put his shirt tail where it belongs.

Recently one of our graduate students had a high school senior to visit him mainly to see if he would be interested in ECC as a college. The high school student was quite impressed by the size of the campus, etc., and was most impressed with the sight in the College Union of the boy and his shirt tail. College students set examples... is this the kind of example we should be setting?

Warning... my roommate was eating at the local dining hall and came across a lady bug in his turnip greens. He didn't mind the bug in the greens, but when it bit back, it didn't set too well with him or the bug.

Remember to participate in East Carolina's day at the Lost Colony across the state in Manteo this weekend. Mr. Allan Nelms has done an outstanding job in arranging the festivities.

Students Should Heed Writings On School Wear

By BOB GOODEN

It seems that the men students have taken no heed of the last issue's writings concerning their college wearing attire. One can still look in almost every classroom and see a boy wearing baggy bermuda shorts, shirt tails hanging out and shower shoes.

The men students that dress like this should have more respect for their college and, moreover, for themselves. Perhaps there should be some rules concerning the dress of the men students as there is concerning the dress of the women.

A person should have more respect for himself and his fellow man than to dress in this fashion. These poor dressers may not realize it but they appear in public dressed as they do are degrading themselves when they do. A problem such as this may lead to undesirable actions to be taken by the college officials. It would perhaps even lead to the men students losing some of the many freedoms they are allowed.

In contrast with the men students' freedom, the women are overburdened with restrictions. In these hot summer months we think that the women should be allowed to wear bermuda shorts on campus. Bermuda shorts were originally designed to be women's wear and yet that privilege has been taken away from them at East Carolina. Is it the opinion of most of the women students that they are being cheated out of their rights on this matter. Many other colleges permit their women students to wear bermuda shorts to the classrooms as well as on the campuses.

It has also been brought to our attention that some of the women's house mothers are locking the dormitory doors before the time designated for the girls to be in. When the girls come to the door and find it locked they must stand outside and wait for the house mothers to unlock them and many times they are late because of this.

Most people understand that the housemother must put her foot down on some things but must she practically frighten the men students away. Sometimes they look the boy over as if wondering as to whether or not she should call the girl for whom he is asking. A large number of girls have moved from one dormitory to another one for this very reason. Some girls are seemingly supposedly embarrassed in front of her friends for no apparent reason.

We hope that these matters will soon be cleared up for the betterment of East Carolina College.

Every human being is in need of talking to somebody. In this country nobody has time. It seems that talking to a friend has gone out of style. Now you have to pay money to go to an analyst. —Quoted in Newsweek

Letters Give Views On Headlines, Movies

Dear Editor,

I would like to commend you on your excellent treatment of campus events and features in the July 7 edition of The East Carolinian.

There is, however, one point on which I'd like to take issue. A well-intentioned columnist chose the headline "Band Presents Admirable Concert For EC Listeners"; then, having disposed of the concert in two sentences, proceeded on to other topics. Although a member of the band, I was as much offended by the inappropriate headline as I was by the brief treatment accorded to our lengthy efforts to produce the concert.

Perhaps "Tea and Harmony" would have been more appropriate; or, preferring the headline chosen, it might have befitted the columnist to devote the article to the topic so indicated.

Sincerely,
Walt Dixon

Dear Editor:

Friday evening, July 8, another movie scheduled to be shown in Austin Auditorium was canceled. Many of us were disappointed. Such incidents as this interrupt an evening for many individuals who could have made other plans. If an evening of rest and relaxation is planned, it is rather late to attend the 7:00 p.m. movie at the local theater. If this incident had happened only once, we would understand. However, the failure to present two scheduled movies apparently shows that individuals in charge of the films are showing lack of diligence in performance of duties. Students and staff should have been notified that the film would not be shown. Instead the routine announcements were made that the film would be shown. It is hoped this unpleasant situation will be corrected and that we may look forward to efficient handling of scheduled movies throughout the remainder of the summer session.

Sincerely yours,
William Estes Cole

These Weeks May Prove To Be Beginning Or End

By ROY MARTIN

We were witnesses to history last week. Starting Monday, we will be witnesses to history again.

Yes, we actually say it. We saw what could be the beginning of our lives, in a manner of speaking, or we saw what could be the end of the existence of the American people.

Now, that was quite a statement to make. However melodramatic it may sound... it is the truth, and everybody knows it.

John Kennedy is a great politician. That can now be realized. He got the "jump" on the other candidates, he worked hard, and subsequently won his long-sought nomination. Now, the test is yet to come. Can John Kennedy stand up to the Communist threat? Can John Kennedy bring a sleeping America to its feet... ready to meet any challenge?

Now, on the other side, how about Richard Nixon? Can this man be a president? Can Nixon lead America, not only on the path of peace, but also on the path of economic security?

The next president, as everyone is aware, is faced with quite a job when he takes office next January. First of all, he must face the Communists squarely, and with courage and dedication. Next, he must bring an America, which has grown too far on the good life, to the realization of what America used to be, and what it faces in the future, and how it must live to face the challenge of the future in order to exist.

Yes, the next president has quite a job facing him. Let us hope that the people who have chosen the nominees have done so from conviction, and not from obligation.

Success Of Party Ticket May Fall To Young People

By BYRAN HARRISON

Most political observers at the precinct level are skeptical about the Democratic presidential ticket carrying North Carolina in the fall election.

We wonder just how many otherwise democratic votes John Kennedy will lose in North Carolina solely because of his religion and we wonder, too, just how the college community feels about it.

The students of East Carolina are predominantly democratic and would overwhelmingly vote democratic in a general election. And we are inclined to believe that most of our students would actively support Kennedy for President.

And it may be that the success of the ticket in North Carolina will fall heavily on the shoulders of the young people and especially the educated young people.

We contend that college students will be able to take a more active part in the campaign than they ordinarily would. And that there is certainly a need for them in the fall election.

The democratic party would be wise indeed to encourage college students and young people to hit the campaign trail and carry the banner for Kennedy.

The Young Democratic Club on campus is encouraging membership already, as many of the officers and past members are on campus this summer. The YDC, which has enjoyed topsy-turvy success in the last few years, hopes to have an active club next year. They are laying plans now for an intensive fall campaign.

It would be well for the students who are interested in taking part in a worthwhile activity to become a part of these plans by becoming acquainted with this organization. Club President Bill Hamilton assures us that there will be good times and some hot politics.

Presently the club is trying to find room on campus for a headquarters. Perhaps the college administration will bless them with office space.

Campus politics apparently has dried out under the heat of the summer sun as nothing much seems to be going on. We would like to see the place once again saturated with activity, created by those who hold office.

Someone has suggested an Alfred E. Newman for President (He lost the Governor's race) Club on campus, an idea we are inclined to go along just for the heck of it. Perhaps Harold Leary would start the movement?

Alice Starr

Students Elect Starr Summer Term Queen

By BRYAN HARRISON

Alice Starr is the Queen of Summer. At the spring day, she is pleased to be crowned.

She was elected by the students of East Carolina College for the Summer Term of 1960. "I was never crowned in my life," she said. "I never seen so many good girls coming by the same thing. I will have to give all the credit to the 'Sig Eps.' They really worked hard for me." She is a member of the Epsilon fraternity.

Actually, all the credit belongs to the staff who voted with personality. A generous with dimpled smile and sparkling eyes, she looks like a beauty queen. A beauty queen with intelligence.

"I'm a great music lover. I never have time to watch TV. I have a Hi-Fi set at home at school and I enjoy all kinds of music, classical and all especially."

When asked "she liked rock n' roll," she says, "I'm human, ain't I?"

Alice lives at Crasswell, North Carolina, which is, as she says, "A beautiful little town in the road; if you look your eyes you'll miss it." She has "her" pride and joy, a brother "Diagnose" live with her grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Starr, who adopted her after the loss of her parents.

She was born in Windsor but has lived in Rutherfordton, Havelock, Linston, and Atlantic Beach. "I love Atlantic Beach," she said, "and Havelock. That's God's country."

Her interests include almost everything. Her favorite activities are talking and dancing. She does talk and has very interesting convictions.

"I love life. I discovered that you will get out of it only as much as you put into it." True. And she is the embodiment of her theory.

Alice is a sophomore and a business major. She hopes to graduate in three years and do secretarial work.

Her proudest possession right now is the Alpha Xi Delta pin she received only a short time ago.

The proudest possession of the "Sig Eps" is Alice. They campaigned for her in convertibles with hand cards and posters.

Summer school is proud, too, that she is Queen.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"MY ALARM DIDN'T GO OFF EITHER, MISS PLUME, BUT I MANAGE TO MAKE IT TO CLASS ON TIME."

Bobby Lovic Assumes Role As Campus Radio Station Manager

Campus radio, now under new management, announced a new program schedule for the remainder of the summer session. Bobby Lovic, former program director of the station's FM facilities, is acting as temporary station manager.

Lovic announced the return of programs entitled "Club 570", "Adventures in Fidelity," "Dinner Music," and "Dedicated To You," the late night program. Also returned to the program format were the after midnight programs, "Classical Goodnight" and "Music into the Night."

The Campus station is presently operating from 6:30 a.m. until 2:00 a.m. each weekday, and is planning Sunday evening programming to begin in the near future.

Aiding Lovic with the station's executive positions are Jerry Moore, Assistant Station Manager; Jerry Winberry, Program Director; and Betty Faye Moore, Copyright Editor. All of the aforementioned persons have had experience with the college station's broadcasting during previous operations. New members of the staff include Linda Phelps, Sgt. Erving Koon, Bonnie Batts, Betty Carolyn Eves, and Jimmie Cannon.

Lovic stated in an interview, "We were unaware of the present situation, and we have revamped our programming to meet the collegiate listeners taste." He continued, "During the first session many of our programs were altered from their original format and we were unaware of this matter until a columnist for the East Carolinian pointed out the lack of collegiate programming being produced by our staff and facilities."

In an attempt to create new interest in the college station, the staff has devised a weekly listener participation contest. The station is going to give away a free long playing album each week to individuals who request music on the programs Club 570 and Dedicated to You. As the listener calls in or writes his request to the station, his name will be entered and drawn each Wednesday night.

The new manager stated "This contest was devised by the staff as an audience building and program promotion for the station."

Lovic stated at the close of the interview, "We are interested in hearing from the students we serve. In order that we might do a better job in serving them, we welcome criticism." Lovic closed his statement by "inviting all persons interested in radio to attend the weekly meetings held on Thursdays in the studios located in the library."

Dave Langley Retires After Long Service To EC Campus

The fifty-three year history of East Carolina College has been colorful and brilliant. There have been many different personalities and happenings which have lived and then been enveloped by time as the nature of things will have it.

David Langley has been a part of this history. He has not been a visiting notable, nor has he been one of the great leaders in the growth of this college. He has, in a different way, been a part of this college for thirty-three years, and now his tenure of service has drawn to a close.

For thirty-three years, David Langley, has been a part of the maintenance staff here at the college, and as he puts it, he has been everything from truck driver to yardman.

At the end of April, Dave, now 66, worked his last day, and now has retired to his front porch rocker, and the little store which is in the back of his house.

Memories seem to play an important part in the life of Dave Langley. He appears to enjoy talking about the days gone by, and especially about the early days of the college which he has served so long.

According to Dave, when he first started to work for East Carolina, there was only one paved street on the campus. That is the street which is behind the Administration Building at the present time. Dave expresses pride in the fact that he helped pour cement for that street, and all of the sidewalks which now interwind throughout the campus.

As far as people are concerned, Dave remarked at the great growth of the college's enrollment over the past years. He pointed out that during the Second World War, the campus population was somewhat sparse, and that the women students outnumbered the boys by a sizeable number.

When asked how he felt about leaving the college after so long a time as a member of the staff here, Dave said that it was hard for him to leave his work, due to the fact that he had become so accustomed to it.

His plans for the future seemed to be quite decided upon. According to Dave, the years to come will be spent doing a little yard work for various people, and just "taking it easy."

DAVE LANGLEY . . . retires after 33 years service.

Intramurals Underway; More Interest Needed

The Men's Intramural Sports program got under way last week with a doubleheader softball game.

The Bombers, who were champions for the first session of summer school, got off on the wrong foot, losing both games to a strong "9 Count" team. The wins for Ed Emory's team give the "9 Count" a head start in the league race.

The schedule for next week is as follows:

- Falstaffs vs Bohunks, 2 games, Mon., July 25.
- "9 Count" vs Old Grads, 2 games, Tues., July 26.
- Bombers vs Scuffers, 2 games, Tues., July 26.
- Falstaffs vs Sigma Nu, 2 games, Wed., July 27.

The softball program is divided into an "A" and "B" League. At the end of the regular scheduled games, the winners in each respective league will compete in a playoff to determine the school championship for the second summer session.

Faculty advisor for the Men's Intramural Program, Coach Wendell Carr, has high hopes for the success of the program for this session. "The participation was good in every event last session with the exception of swimming," stated Carr. "But we hope it will be even better this session."

It seems that the reason for the lack of interest in the swimming portion of the program was because the students thought it was too much like an intercollegiate swimming program. But as Carr explained, "It's not to be like a professional swimming meet; it will be more on the line of a carnival, or in other words, just for fun."

Of course, there will be awards for the winners, but what's a carnival without prizes.

To go a little further on the swimming program, there will be races of 50 and 25 yards in the sidestroke, backstroke, breaststroke, freestyle, and even the dog paddle. There will be an underwater distance event, along with diving competition. To conclude the program, there will be a freestyle relay and a medley relay made up of a combination of backstroke, breaststroke, sidestroke, and freestyle. Medals will be awarded to the winners in each event.

Below is the Men's Intramural Schedule for the second summer session.

Softball July 18-Aug. 10
Horseshoes Singles—July 27, 28
Doubles—Aug. 9, 10

Tennis July 26, 27, 28

Swimming Aug. 4

Student director Sam Reese, a graduate of Wake Forest and a former football star for the Demon Deacons, announced that the names of the winners in each event except swimming will be added to a plaque which will be displayed in the College Union.

The slogan for the men's intramural program is "Try to participate in at least one sport."

SERVICE ENTRANCE 'PASSANGER' CARS DO NOT ENTER

WHAT KIND OF CARS? . . . Former Sports Editor Bill Boyd and Photographer Jim Kirkland found this sign located at the rear of Rawl Building. Chief John Harrell reported the sign was painted by the State Highway Department. Harrell stated "this sign had been put up for three days before anyone noticed the error in the spelling of the word 'passenger'".

EC Golfers Enjoy Play In Tourney At Goldsboro, N. C.

A group of East Carolina College staff and faculty golf players journeyed to Goldsboro, North Carolina on July 10 to compete in the Al Ward Invitational Golf Tournament. The group consisted of golfers Harry Rainey, Mahlon Coles, Paul Julian, Captain Bob Vining, Dr. Doug Jones, and Dean Jim Mallory. When the group reached Goldsboro, they were met by Al Ward, Sr. and Al Ward, Jr. to make two flights.

Coles captured the Al Ward Trophy, his second in recent tournaments, on Saturday with his low net and handicap of 17. Coles, the director of the Student Supply Stores won his first trophy at Wilson, North Carolina, in the Pro-Am tournament with a handicap of 27.

The seemingly disgruntled group jokingly accused Coles of using his son, Mahlon Jr.'s handicap. But the elder Coles stuck to his guns and said, "I have my score card to prove it, too."

Rainey had low net on Sunday and won a Ben Hogan cup for his efforts.

Coles said although he took a bit of chiding from the other golfers, he did manage to get in the last word. "Tell the others they can come by my office any time to have a look at my trophy," he commented.

PIRATE'S DEN

By LEONARD LAO

After leaving East Carolina for the period of six weeks to try and earn some extra money for the upcoming 1960-61 school year I find myself back in the green city ready to tackle a quarter's work crammed into a short five and one-half weeks. I have all the necessary equipment; books, paper, pen, my wits about me (?), and last but certainly not least, my faithful typewriter. Considering everything, it's great to be back in the Pirates Den.

On the national sports scene the topic of conversation is of course Major League Baseball. It looks like Pittsburg in the National and New York in the American. There will be a cheer from this corner if the Pittsburgh team comes out on top, for I've been a faithful Pirate fan since the first day I discovered that three-strikes-and-you're-out. For my money the high time a pennant flag came into the clutches of the steel city. The citizens of Pittsburg have stuck faithfully by their team through thick and thin. (Up until last season it was mostly thin. The Pirates blew their chance for the pennant flag in the last week of regular season play.)

Gridder Injured

Vernon Davis, better known to you football fans as "Bruno," is now recuperating from an automobile accident. Although the burly lineman had his head banged up, he still had his sense of humor. Upon visiting him in Pitt Memorial Hospital, Davis had one request. And that was to bring him a fan. (The electric type.) You know, for a minute I thought he was going to ask for his guitar. Our consolation to you "Bruno," and get well, fast.

Grads Return

Two former Pirate athletes are attending their alma mater this summer to work on their master's degrees.

Charlie Russell, a former hurler on the Pirate baseball aggregate, was a 1958 graduate, and is here taking his first graduate courses. He has been coaching in North Carolina for the past two school years.

Former basketball and track star for the Purple and Gold, Jerry Curry of Portsmouth, Virginia has returned to East Carolina after a very successful season of coaching in Ohio. While in the Buckeye state, the former All-North State Conference basketballer compiled winning records in all three major spots coaching the junior varsity teams. James' favorite sport being basketball, proved his worth on the hardwood leading his frosh squad to a 15-3 won, lost record.

Farewell To Boyd

I would like to extend my thanks and congratulations to Bill Boyd, Sports Editor of the East Carolinian, on a job well done during his editorship during the first session of summer school. Boyd had been a member of this publication for his entire college career. The Portsmouth, Virginia native had returned to East Carolina from the Army where he and his family had been stationed at Fort Lee in Petersburg, Virginia. Boyd was issued leave by "Uncle Sam" to return to EC to complete his master's degree.

The entire staff of the East Carolinian wishes Bill Boyd good luck and success in the future. If he puts as much time and effort into his career as he has behind his typewriter, we feel confident that he will be well rewarded.

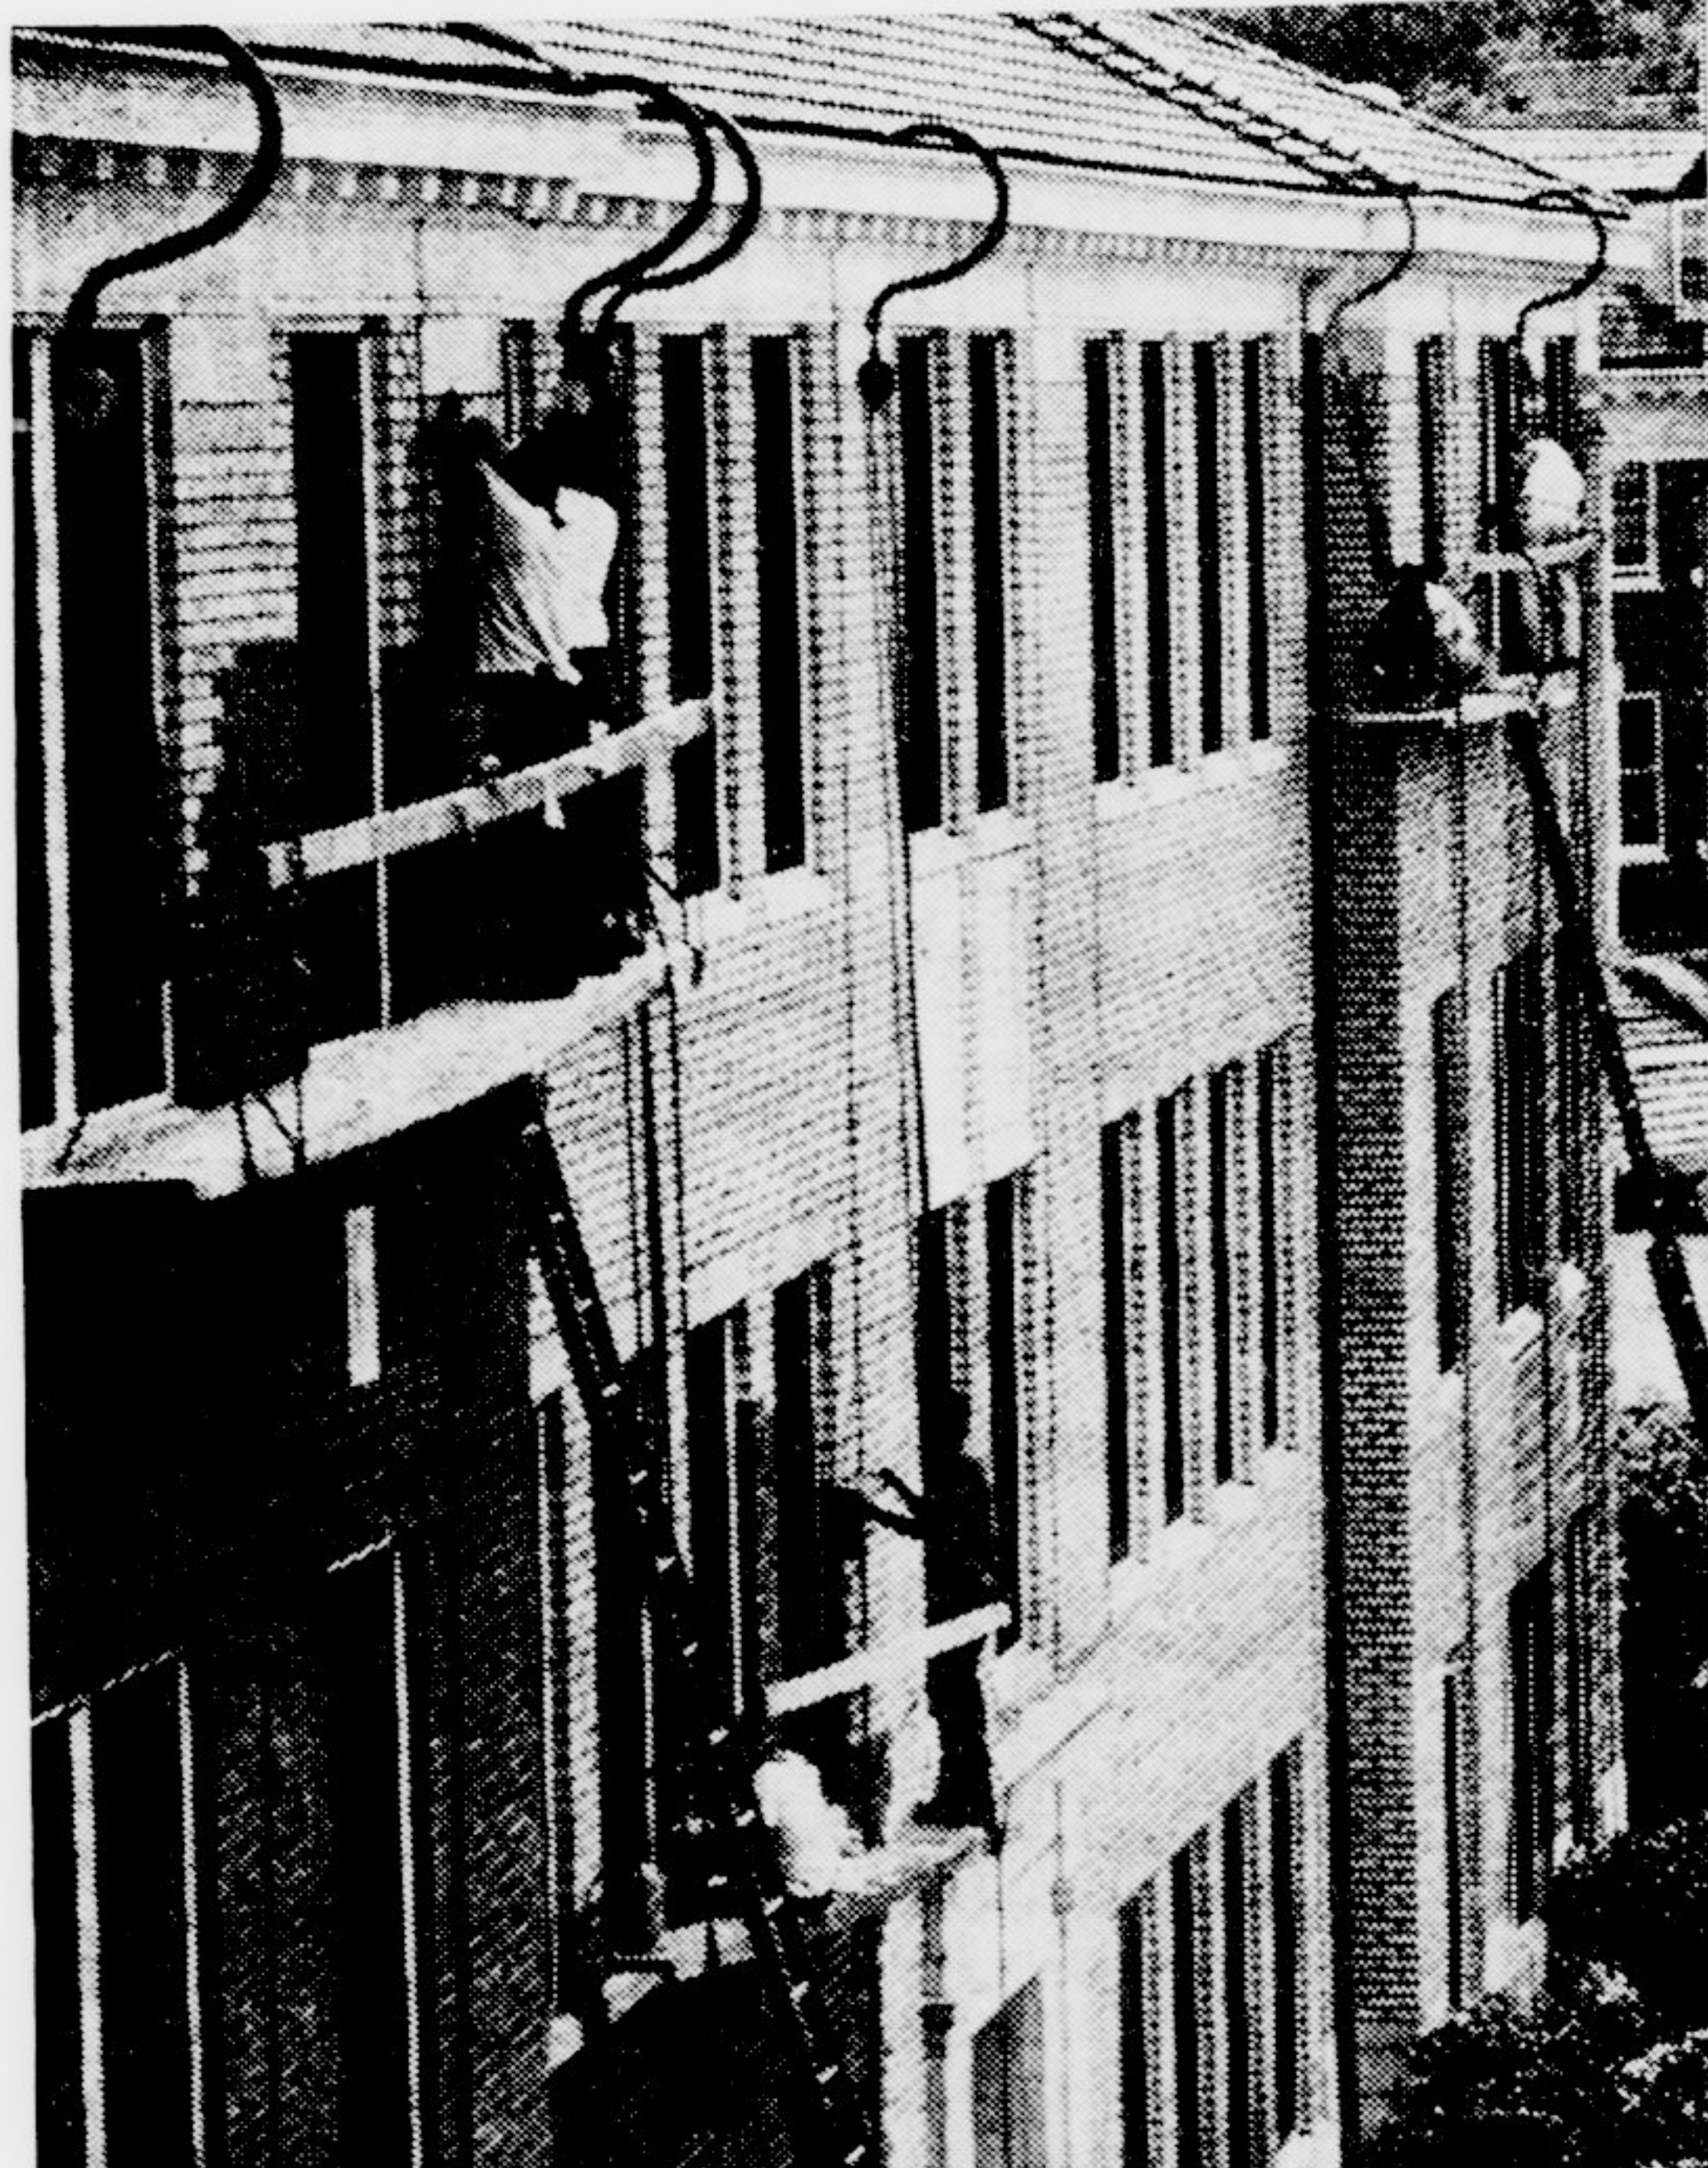

As a personal friend and acquaintance of Bill's, I would like to express my personal thanks to him. His guiding hand and friendliness will always be appreciated and never forgotten.
