Winners of Greek Week Skits—KA's present an afternoon of Negro baseball.

—Rufus Freeman

Skits End Greek Week

By MONTY MILLS

Auditorium rang with laughter Thursday night, May 4 as the Greek comedians presented skit night. The skits, or rather some of them, sounded like a Saturday night at the frat house after the boys had taken the girls home," commented one observer. This year's comedy routines and jokes were a shade more colorful than last year's.

Kappa Alpha's afternoon at a Negro baseball game took first place in the skits, Lambda Chi's news commentaries, Huntley and Brinkley, won second place honors, and third place honors went to Sigma Phi Epsilon for their Andy Griffith type take-off of Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet."

Thursday's skits climaxed the Greek Week events which began Wednesday afternoon with field events among the campus fraternities. Lambda Chi Alpha copped first place honors in the field events, second place went to Theta Chi, and third place to Pi Kappa Alpha.

ROTC Presents Cadet Honors

Cadets of the Air Force ROTC selected because of their outstanding service and performance received recognition May 9 at the annual awards program of the Department of Air Science.

Those honored, awards and medals which they received, and some major qualifications for the recognition are:

- Cadet Capt. Bruce Worrell, Jr. Academic Star Award, for maintaining an AF ROTC academic average of A for three consecutive quarters.
- Cadet Lt. Col. George T. Ippock, Jr., American Legion Medal, for outstanding qualifications for a potential officer in the U.S. Air Force.

- Cadet Major Sanders W. Grady, Reserve Officers Association Award, for scholastic ability, leadership, and fundamentals of good citizenship.
- Cadet 2D Lt. Douglas C. Robinson, Sons of the American Revolution Medal, for leadership, military bearing, and excellence in college and AF ROTC academics.

- Cadet 2D Lt. Gerald V. West, Convar Cadet Award, for exhibition of a high aptitude for flying.
- Cadet Major Sanders W. Grady, and Cadet Capt. Robert C. Gilden, Chicago Tribune Award (gold medal) for academic ability and leadership.

- Cadet 2D Lt. Clarence G. Childress, and Cadet 2D Lt. William W. Trower, Chicago Tribune Award (silver medal) for leadership and ability in college and AF ROTC academics.

- Cadet Capt. Lendy C. Edwards, Cadet Capt. Edward J. Farrell, Cadet Capt. Robert C. Gilden, and Cadet M. Sgt. Roy L. Morris, Outstanding Service Medal, for outstanding performance of duty as a member of the Cadet Corps during the 1960-61 term.

- Cadet Capt. Bruce Worrell, Jr., and Cadet 2D Lt. Gerald V. West, Outstanding Achievement Medal, for outstanding achievement during the 1960-61 school year.

- Cadet 2D Lt. Douglas C. Robinson, Cadet 2D Lt. Gerald V. West, Cadet 1C Donald L. McArthur and Cadet Tommy D. Newton, Competitive Drill Award, each selected as the best drilled cadet in each flight.

Skit night were Theta Chi with their beauty contest "queens", and Pi Kappa Alpha with their "Sorry Spectacular", a take-off on the recent "Sorority Spectacular".

Lambda Chi Alpha, for two consecutive years, with a 3.7 average, has won the scholarship trophy which was awarded today during the Awards Program at the college stadium. Should Lambda Chi win the trophy again next year, it is entitled to permanent ownership of the Scholarship trophy.

Over-all winners of the Greek Week events were Lambda Chi, first place; Theta Chi, second place; and Pi Kappa Tau and Kappa Alpha in a tie for third place.

Judges for Wednesday's events were Mr. James H. Bearden of the Business department and Dr. George A. Cook of the English department. Thursday's judges were Miss Vernie Wilder, assistant librarian, and Mr. Gene Lanier, assistant librarian.

Three-Day Run Of 'Antigone' Ends Tomorrow Night; Garren, Rowe Star

Tonight and Friday will be the last days to witness East Carolina's first production of a Greek tragedy. Anouilh's Antigone started its three day run last night in McGinnis. All performances begin at 8:00 p.m.

Playhouse veterans, Lois Garren and H. D. Rowe are portraying Antigone, the heroic daughter who violates the ancient customs of her city, and Creon, who upholds these customs with all the force possible.

The feeling of contrast between the two ideas is heightened by the choros, portrayed by Ralph Rives and Tommy Hull, who represents the loyal people of the city.

Sue S. Taylor as Ismene, Antigone's sister, adds another type of contrast in that she cannot support her sister's plans. In the role of Haemon, Creon's son and Antigone's husband-to-be, Wes Howard has an unusual task in trying to be faithful to both characters.

The three guards are being enacted by Ray Tolley, Claude Taylor, and Jim Roberts. In the role of the Nurse is Charlotte Donat, and Marshall Braddy has taken over the task of messenger. Shirley Morse is portraying Eurydice.

Mr. Claude Garren, directing his first Playhouse production, is using a new idea in Anouilh's adaptation.

The cast is using the contemporary language of Anouilh; but the scenery and customs are in the Greek fashion.

The stage is one of the most unusual sets ever designed in that the major portion shows huge white columns.

Everyone will be admitted free of charge and there will be no reserved seats.

Awards Day Climaxes '61 Achievements; Departments, Organizations Participate

By MARCELLE VOGEL

At 10:00 am today all classes were excused for the annual Awards Day. This year the attendance for this special recognition was larger than in previous years. This was due to the change in time, the closing of classes, and advance publicity.

The EC Band rendered special music at the beginning of the program, which was held in the college stadium. This was followed by the "Star Spangled Banner," performed by the Band and the APROTC color guard.

Remarks made by President Leo Jenkins were followed by the presentation of Departmental Awards by the heads of the various departments.

Edward Lancaster received the Art Department Award; Sylvia Uzzell was recipient of the Business Department Award; and Peggy Frances Wynne received the Primary Education Department Award.

Others receiving departmental awards were: Betty Jean Mobley, Grammar Education; Mrs. Molly Biggs Manning, English Department; Elizabeth Mae Williams, Foreign Language Department; Dennis Lynch, Geography Department; Jerry Wrenn, Health & Physical Education Department; and Mrs. Jackie Harri-

the Greek Week Award, and Phi Kappa Tau, the Scholarship Award. These awards were presented by Dean James Mallory.

Recipient of the Publications Award was Roy Martin, Rebel Editor. Dr. James Tucker presented the award.

Three SGA Awards were presented by Dean Robert Holt. Receiving these awards were Jim Speight, SGA President; Charlie Munn, SGA Treasurer; and Jayne Chandler, Homecoming Chairman.

Dr. James Tucker recognized the Who's Who recipients who were seated in a special section.

The singing of the Alma Mater lead by Dr. Tucker ended the Awards Day affair.

'What Is An Un-American Activity?'

By DAVE NANNEY

Hundreds of students crowded into Austin auditorium Friday May 5th to witness the controversial movie "Operation Abolition." As the lights dimmed and the white screen descended tension mounted to burst out later into vehemence. Many had arrived with convictions.

Sponsored by the entertainment committee and accompanied by Fulton Lewis III, a former member of House Un-American Activities Committee, the movie had excited interest throughout the nation. Among others "Time" magazine has chewed at length the different angles of the movie, and educational institutions have unanimously opposed its circulation. However, no concrete conclusions have been proven concerning the basic points of controversy.

Tommy Mallison who arranged the event at a regional meeting of the National Student Association began proceedings by introducing the debaters and explaining the rules of the debate. Mr. Lewis's opponent, Russel Joyner, was sponsored by the Danforth Foundation.

Each debater was given five minutes to expose his case. The twenty-eight minute movie followed. Following the movie was a thirty-minute period of questions and answers with audience participation. In conclusion the debaters were given thirty minutes each for rebuttal.

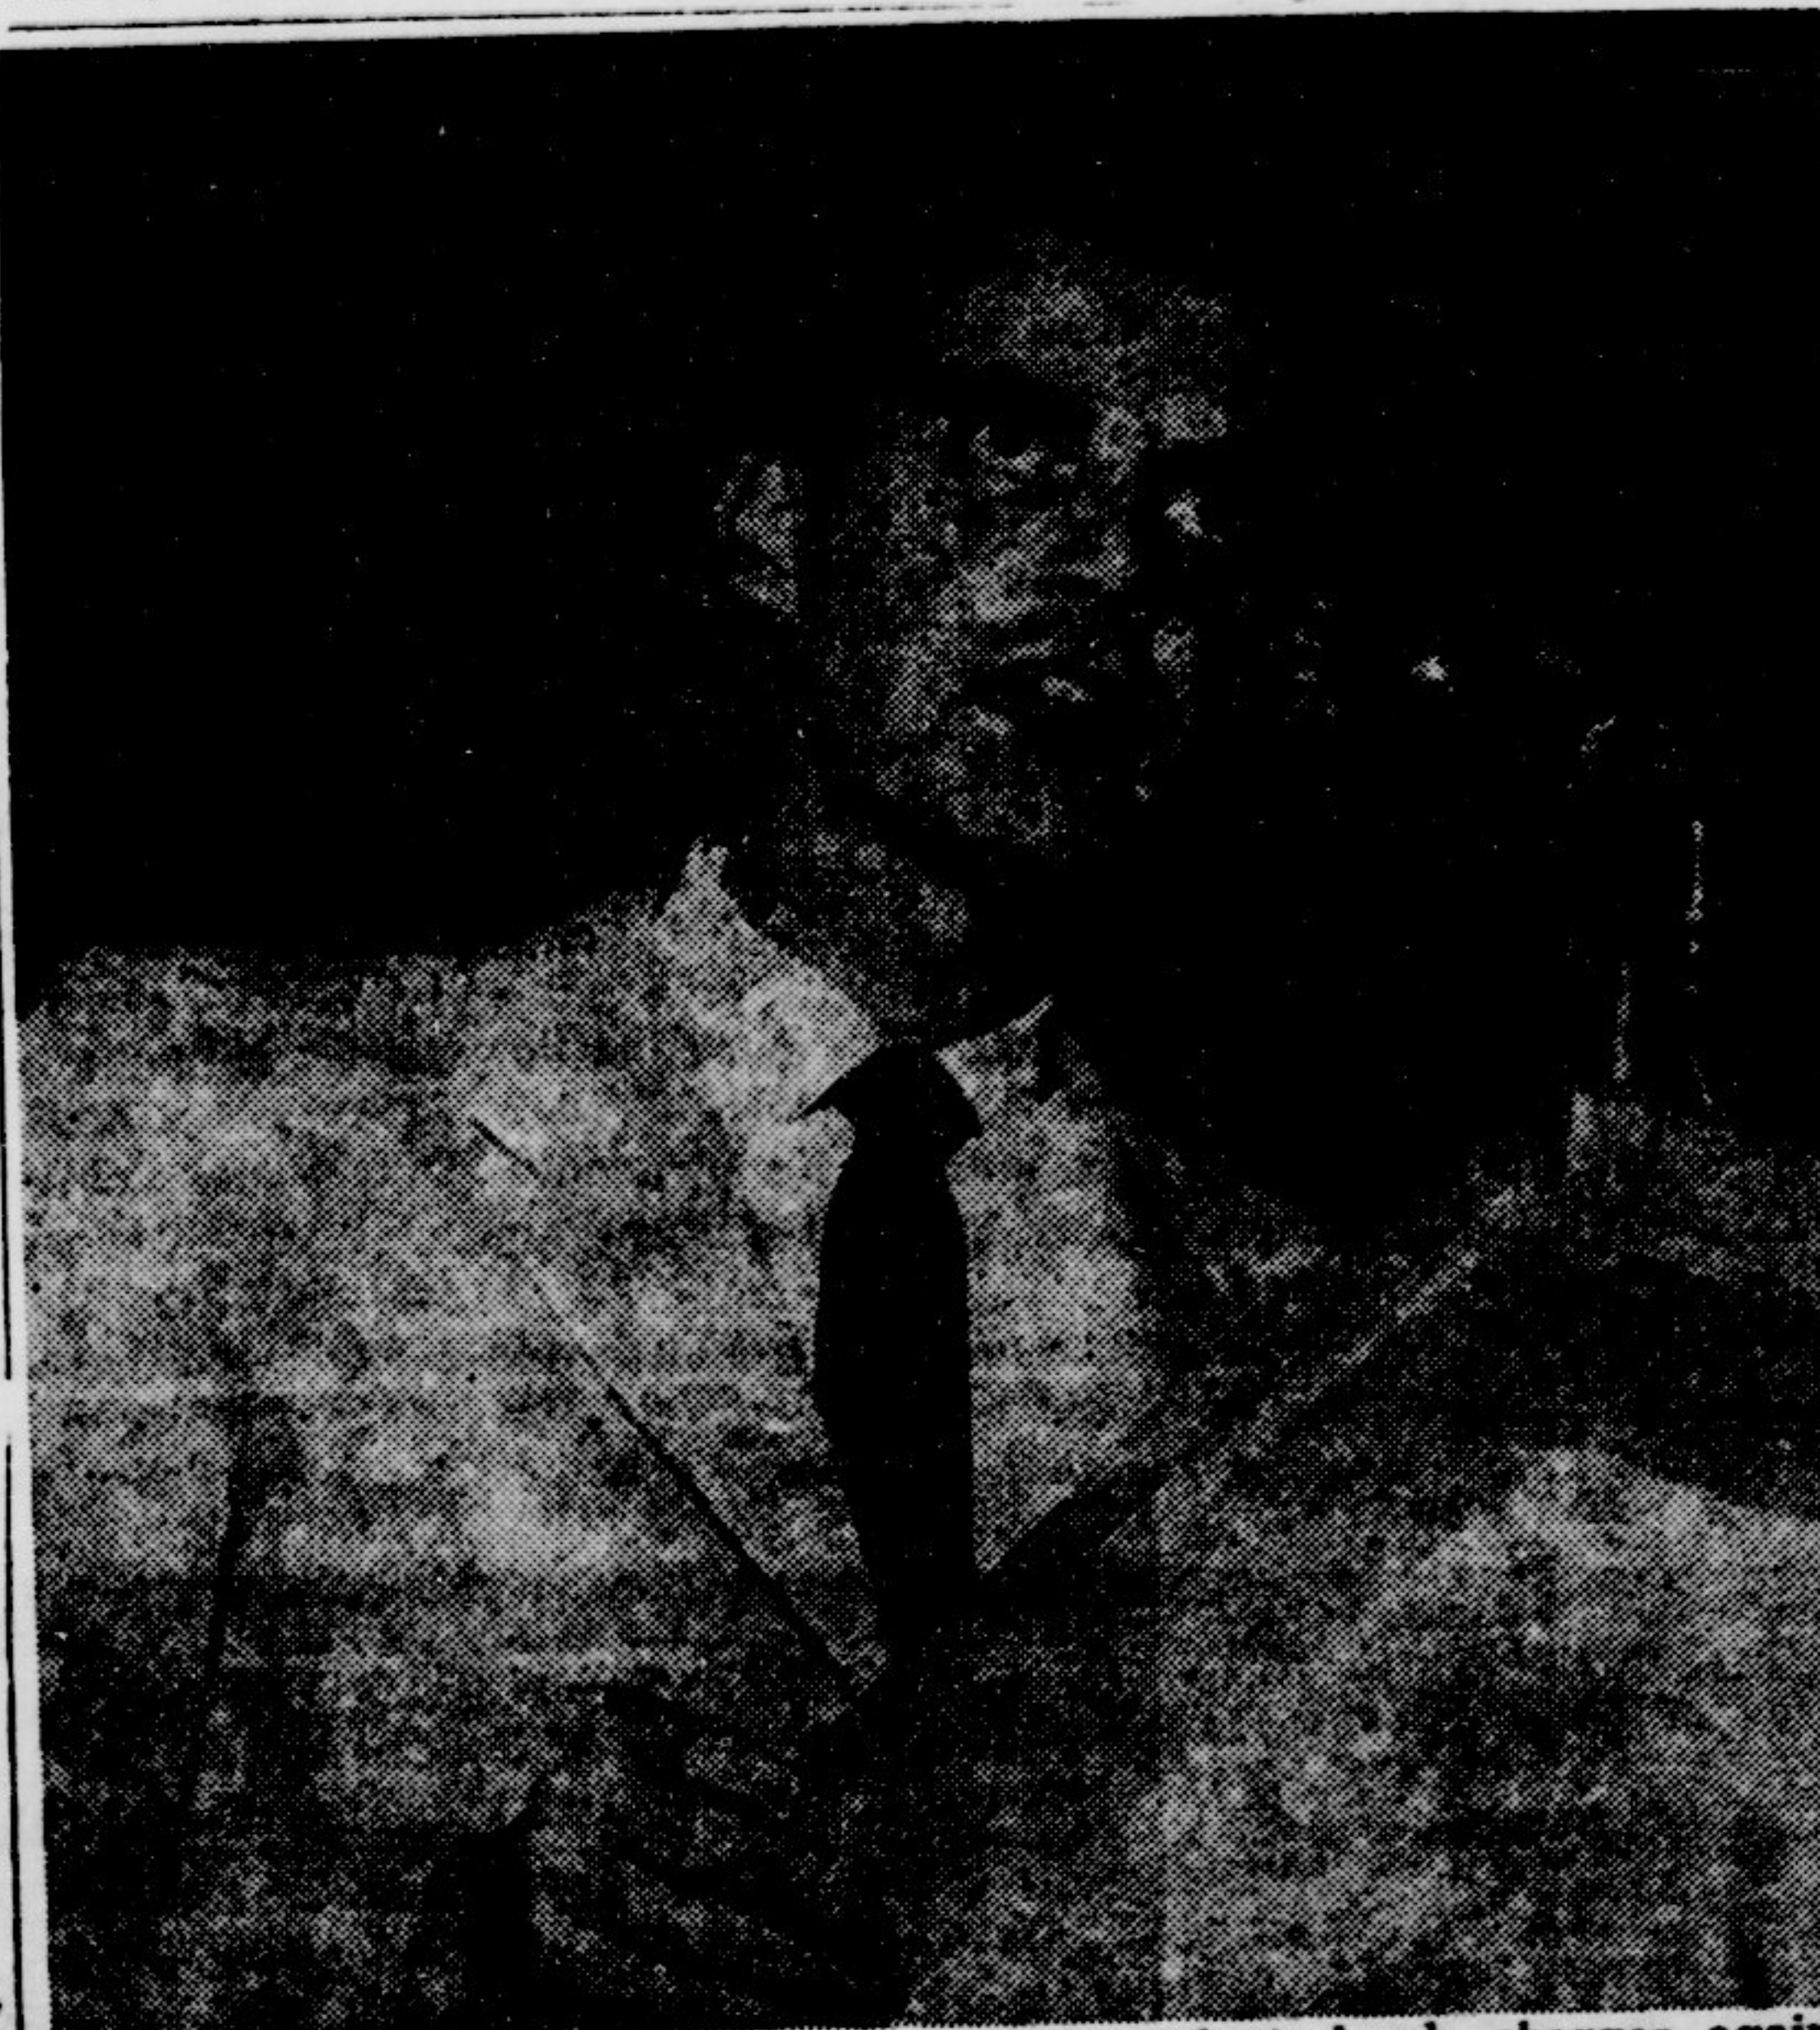

The film contained a pictorial report on a student riot in the San Francisco Bay area. The riot involved students from the surrounding educational institutions. They were protesting the tactics of the HUAC. Approximately four people of known communist affiliation became under questionable circumstances the leaders of the riot. There was nothing apparent that would indicate mass communism at work. Police used fire hoses and clubs to disperse the rioters.

Basic Issue
The basic issue behind the movie seemed to be student intervention in HUAC affairs. But with the announced purposes and observed methods of International Communism in mind most students present thought the students out of order. Said one, "the idea of fighting giants with slingshots is no longer profound."

But the issue inflamed East Carolinians were concerned with was the selection and editing by the Committee to fit a supposed subjective interpretation. Many thought the ori-

English Students Receive Honors

Four students in English have been awarded appointments at institutions of higher learning to allow them to begin or to continue graduate study.

Vernon A. Ward, Jr., has received an appointment as graduate instructor at the University of North Carolina. He will work there toward the Ph. D. degree.

Stella P. Reynolds has been appointed to a fellowship at the University of Tennessee, where she will complete work for the M. A. degree. James Alton Cowan has received a fellowship at Louisiana State University. He will begin work toward the M. A. degree.

Thomas T. Jackson, former East Carolinian Editor, has been awarded a fellowship at the University of North Carolina which will allow him to participate in a fifth-year program in teacher-education leading to the M. A. degree.

M. A. degree.

Lewis Outclasses Student Debator At Film Showing

The Danforth Foundation made an erroneous move last week when it invited Russ Joyner to debate with Fulton (Buddy) Lewis, III in conjunction with the House Un-American Activities Committee's film, "Operation Abolition." Even if Mr. Joyner had sufficient evidence and facts to prove his allegations against the film, (or the committee, whatever the case may be . . . and of which we are quite uncertain) his presentation was so ineffective that he was far out-classed as a debater by Mr. Lewis. After Joyner put most of the audience to sleep, it was surprising that Lewis was then able to gain attention and perk up the crowd.

What could have been one of the most interesting, most exciting and most lively debates to be staged on campus practically terminated in a dud.

Joyner's entire argument seemed to center around inaccuracies in the film, namely a misrepresentation of the sequence of events. This seems to be a minor point to argue when actually the real question lies in the methods employed by the Committee and the possibility of its infringement on civil liberties.

Joyner's promises "I can show you . . . I will be able to prove . . ." held little water. Throughout the duration of the evening, he dealt on minute details to heckle Lewis instead of establishing any substantial argument.

His main points, as we have stated, concerned the sequence of events and the authenticity of the film. "Separate sequences" were run together, of course, in compressing the film. This was necessary, as it is necessary to do in cases such as re-runs of football games, for example.

The film has two inaccuracies of sequence (technical in nature, but this does not make the film a lie or even distorted).

If we are to call "Operation Abolition" distorted, then we must call the News and Observer distorted. For example, in Sunday's edition two articles appearing on the front page of the news section were contradictory. In the first article we refer to, Alan B. Shepard, Jr., our now famous astronaut, was described as being 37 years old. In a different article directly above the aforementioned one, Shepard had aged two years . . . now 39.

Furthermore, we must call The East Carolinian distorted because we stated several weeks ago that Sigma Phi Epsilon is the seventh social fraternity on campus when it is the sixth.

If this seems trite, then so are the accusations of the critics who themselves are actually distorting "Operation Abolition."

The message of the film is obvious, regardless of the time when the riotous action began. There was a mob and there was mob action. This cannot be denied. The American public has become more aware of Communist tactics and infiltration in the United States. This, we believe, to be the purpose of the film. This, we believe, is the goal of Fulton Lewis, III, with secondary importance on defense of the Committee. His purpose is to make us realize the presence and work of Communists in the United States—to make us think—and his purpose has been realized here among a number of students.

Pamphlet Discusses Film

The Intercollegiate Society of Individualists has published a pamphlet containing documented questions and answers about the House Committee on Un-American Activities and the controversial film, "Operation Abolition."

Titled "Violence in San Francisco—The Truth about 'Operation Abolition,'" the six-page supplement to the ISI newspaper, "The Individualist," includes articles by FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover and San Francisco Mayor George Christopher.

"Operation Abolition" shows the role of West Coast Communist leaders in May, 1960, student riots in San Francisco. It has been the subject of attacks by The Reporter magazine, the Washington Post, and other publications.

"The Individualist" supplement brings together a number of statements and facts relating to the film's accuracy and concludes that they refute the charges being circulated by a number of "liberal" student groups.

The Intercollegiate Society of Individualists is a non-partisan, educational organization "dedicated to the advancement of conservative thought on the campus." Founded in 1953, it has student and faculty members at more than a thousand colleges in the U. S.

Thanks Offered To Pledges

To aid in the circulation and distribution of The East Carolinian are two additional news stands. We offer our thanks to the Kappa Pledge Class of Theta Chi Fraternity. Due to the efforts of the pledge class, stands now appear in the college post office and the lobby of Joyner Library.

Formerly, two similar news stands were available for our use, one in Austin Building, the other in the College Union. These stands were presented several years ago by Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity.

We would also like to extend our thanks to Alpha Phi Omega Fraternity for the grand job they have done this year. They have been dependable—and due to their efforts in circulation, you, dear reader, have received and enjoyed, at times, we hope, your East Carolinian.

Student Knowledge Of World Affairs Shock Professors

Reprinted from Greensboro Daily News

So much has been said about the poor quality of today's education—higher and lower—that few will be surprised at the findings of Dr. Joseph E. Garai of the Staten Island Community College.

No one would have been shocked to learn that Dr. Garai discovered college students a little weak on the names of the latest African states, the capital of Bhutan or the foreign minister of Laos.

But their breadth and depth of ignorance is rather breathtaking. We agree with Dr. Garai that "it is extremely surprising that one per cent failed to identify our President and Vice President; two per cent our capital and 15 per cent our Secretary of State.

Eighty-three per cent did not know the name of our Secretary of Defense, 94.9 per cent had not even heard of the name of the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

"It is interesting to point out," comments Dr. Garai, "that the wrong answers often revealed astonishing confusion and ignorance. Twenty-seven students believed that Nehru is the prime minister of Israel, 34 students regarded Faubus as a rock 'n' roll singer, confusing him with Fabian, five students stated that John F. Dulles is our Secretary of State, Wilson was named as Secretary of Defense by seven, Castro was given as the name of the capital of Cuba by four students and Hyman Rickover was identified as an admiral of the Air Force by one student."

Indeed Dr. Garai found that New York students know a great deal more about sports, entertainment and advertised brands than they do about current affairs. Seventy-one per cent of all students are familiar with Pogo, for example.

However, many realized their shortcomings, expressing shame and inadequacy and adding that they "ought to read newspapers more frequently." This, as it happens, is the solution Dr. Garai proposes. But obviously he thinks that student reading ought to go beyond the comics.

The professor, who told about all this to the American Association for the Advancement of Science, had 27 students in electrical technology read the New York Times every day. Many never read newspapers and their knowledge of world affairs was slight.

Then followed discussions of newspaper articles. The New York Times Current Affairs Test was given, and the students were told that the tests would count toward their final grades. With this spur, average scores increased from 18 to 80 per cent.

Educators, we are sure, will say that they are already overburdened with subjects and subject matter; that current events are taught—even in high school. And all this may be true.

But Dr. Garai uncovered this shocking ignorance among 437 students in five colleges of New York City—New York University School of Commerce, Hunter College, Pratt Institute, the Julliard School of Music, and the Staten Island Community College.

The fact that a few college students confuse Nehru with Ben-Gurion or Faubus with Fabian might not be so terrible, except that when you get right down to it, their ignorance concerns life and death matters.

Greenville Holds City Election

Citizens In Favor Of Urban Renewal

By JEAN PEACE

Signs nailed on Greenville homes in the urban renewal area read "Vote against urban renewal. Save our home." Other such signs read, "This house will be torn down with urban development. Will yours be next?" These signs failed to arouse the proposed feeling against urban renewal and the voters of Greenville decided in favor of the issue at the polls May 2.

Urban renewal does not involve turning people out of their homes into the streets. New apartments will be constructed, a park has been planned on the river bank. Contrary to beliefs the Sycamore Hill Baptist Church will not be demolished. The project will be planned around the church and Cherry Hill cemetery.

The reasons for urban renewal are many. This slum area of 74 acres is located in the heart of Greenville, offering a poor appearance. The redevelopment area is known as the Shore Drive section, bordering on the Tar River. 217 Negro families reside in the area with incomes of $2,500 per year and less. In all there are 268 Negro residents, 23 white families. Only 38 home owners live in the section.

Conditions under which these people are living are substandard. Mr.

Jim Whitfield, of the News and Observer states, "A typical house in the slum area rents for $10 per week to provide housing for 11 Negroes. Children drink from a common fruit jar, the wife cooks with water that sits open in buckets and which has been brought in from the community faucet." The area is rat infested and has produced 19 cases of tuberculosis in the last 10 years. This area in the center of Greenville's business district is without indoor toilet facilities.

With this issue up before voters, registration increased more than ever before. 1000 new people registered. This broke the previous record set in 1953.

In Tuesday's election Charles M. King defeated S. Eugene West for mayor of Greenville. West had served four years as mayor and four years on the council. King is a Greenville native and a retired naval officer. Dr. M. W. Aldridge was returned to the council for another four year term. Also elected to the council was Ford McGowan, Dr. Ralph Brimley, and James W. Lee.

Student Expresses Disgust Over Professor's Manners

Dear Editor: Regardless of what one has to say and how strongly he believes it, there is a proper way to say it.

At the discussion period after the showing of the film "Operation Abolition" on May 5, Dr. James Poindexter, faculty member here, showed the audience AND the distinguished guests that it is very difficult for him to execute self-control in public.

Dr. Poindexter asked a number of questions directed to Fulton Lewis, III, representative with the film. Before Mr. Lewis had parted his lips to answer, Dr. Poindexter had rudely interrupted to answer his own questions, the way he wanted them answered.

If this reflected on Dr. Poindexter alone, it would not be so tragic. But the fact is that, whether we like it or not, he represents East Carolina College. Since there is a chance that our college will become widely known it seems a shame that such outbursts have to accompany the name of the school.

As for Dr. Poindexter's doubts as to whether the House Un-American Activities Committee has the right to question its suspects, maybe he had solid grounds for his doubts. Nevertheless, as President Kennedy recently stated to the press, so many Americans accept the right of freedom while they remain ignorant to the responsibility to our nation which goes with freedom.

As I said before, regardless of WHAT one has to say, there is a proper and graceful way to say it. Sincerely, Betsy Orr

Error Noticed On Play Posters

Dear Editor: I would like to point out a serious error I have noticed on the posters for "Antigone." These posters claimed "Sophocles' great tragedy: ANTIGONE, translated by Jean Anouilh."

This play is certainly not a translation, in fact it is barely an adaptation. The French playwright Jean Anouilh only kept the idea and the theme from Sophocles' original tragedy. The play now given by the Playhouse is an original, modern French play, written in modern French; the English translation sticks strictly to the French text. To those who would doubt this point, I will ask if they have ever heard Greek heroes mention . . . "cigarettes, cars, movies without sound track, nightclubs, gangsters, bloodtests," etc. The above are actual quotations from the play. For any further study, I would like to invite the reader to consult the original translation of Sophocles' tragedy, which is available in the library, and to compare it with Anouilh's.

Anouilh's ANTIGONE is one of the most outstanding modern French plays, and to present it as a mere translation from Sophocles does not seem to do it proper justice. Sincerely, Catherine Labrosse

Final Word Of Thanks

By ROY MARTIN

At the end of this quarter, I hope to end my undergraduate years at East Carolina. For what it is worth, this will be my final column for the East Carolinian.

There are many individuals to whom I owe much for the help they have given me during the past four years. These people have become a part of the total college experience which I will carry with me through the coming years.

One such person is Dr. Joe LeConte. Although small in stature, the character of this man makes him a giant among his constituents. He gave me a kick, where I needed it when I needed it—my thanks to him.

The first quarter I enrolled at East Carolina, Dr. Paul Murray was assigned as my advisor. Except for a brief interlude, Dr. Murray has been my advisor for these four years. He has not only been an advisor, but also a friend—my thanks to him.

During the past two and one half years, I have had the privilege of being associated with two of the publications here on campus. This experience has proved to be invaluable. I have Tom Jackson and Kathryn Johnson to thank for getting me started in this field. For this I shall always be grateful.

In working with publications this year I have had the most unique pleasure of working with the staff of THE REBEL. No editor ever had a more dedicated and competent staff. They accepted me untried, and remained steadfast throughout a most difficult year. To all of these people, I can only say, "thanks" . . . and this seems inadequate.

Friendships are important elements to life. During the past two years, I have experienced an association with a man whose character and manner exemplify just that—a man . . . my thanks to Mr. Ovid Pierce, my friend.

Also I would like to thank the brothers of the old Phi Kappa Alpha, and now, the brothers of Phi Kappa Alpha Fraternity for their friendships. My college experience would have been nothing without the association with those who will always be "No. 1."

This school has grown tremendously during the past years. I feel that I have been a part of this growth, and that all who are connected with this institution are caught up in the spirit of this expansion. East Carolina has served its area well, and will continue to do so. But this cannot be done without the continued effort of its students. The school will only be as good as they decide to make it.

These buildings, these people, these grounds have formed an integral part of my existence which can never be wiped from memory. And so to East Carolina, its people, grounds and buildings . . . may you flourish.

... And The End Is Here

By PAT HARVEY

The end is here. Fortunately, for many of us, the journey was short; but, for the bored few, the trip seemed endless. Some are sad, more are happy. Many are worried about their future, but a few optimists are excited. Whatever the case may be, the end is here.

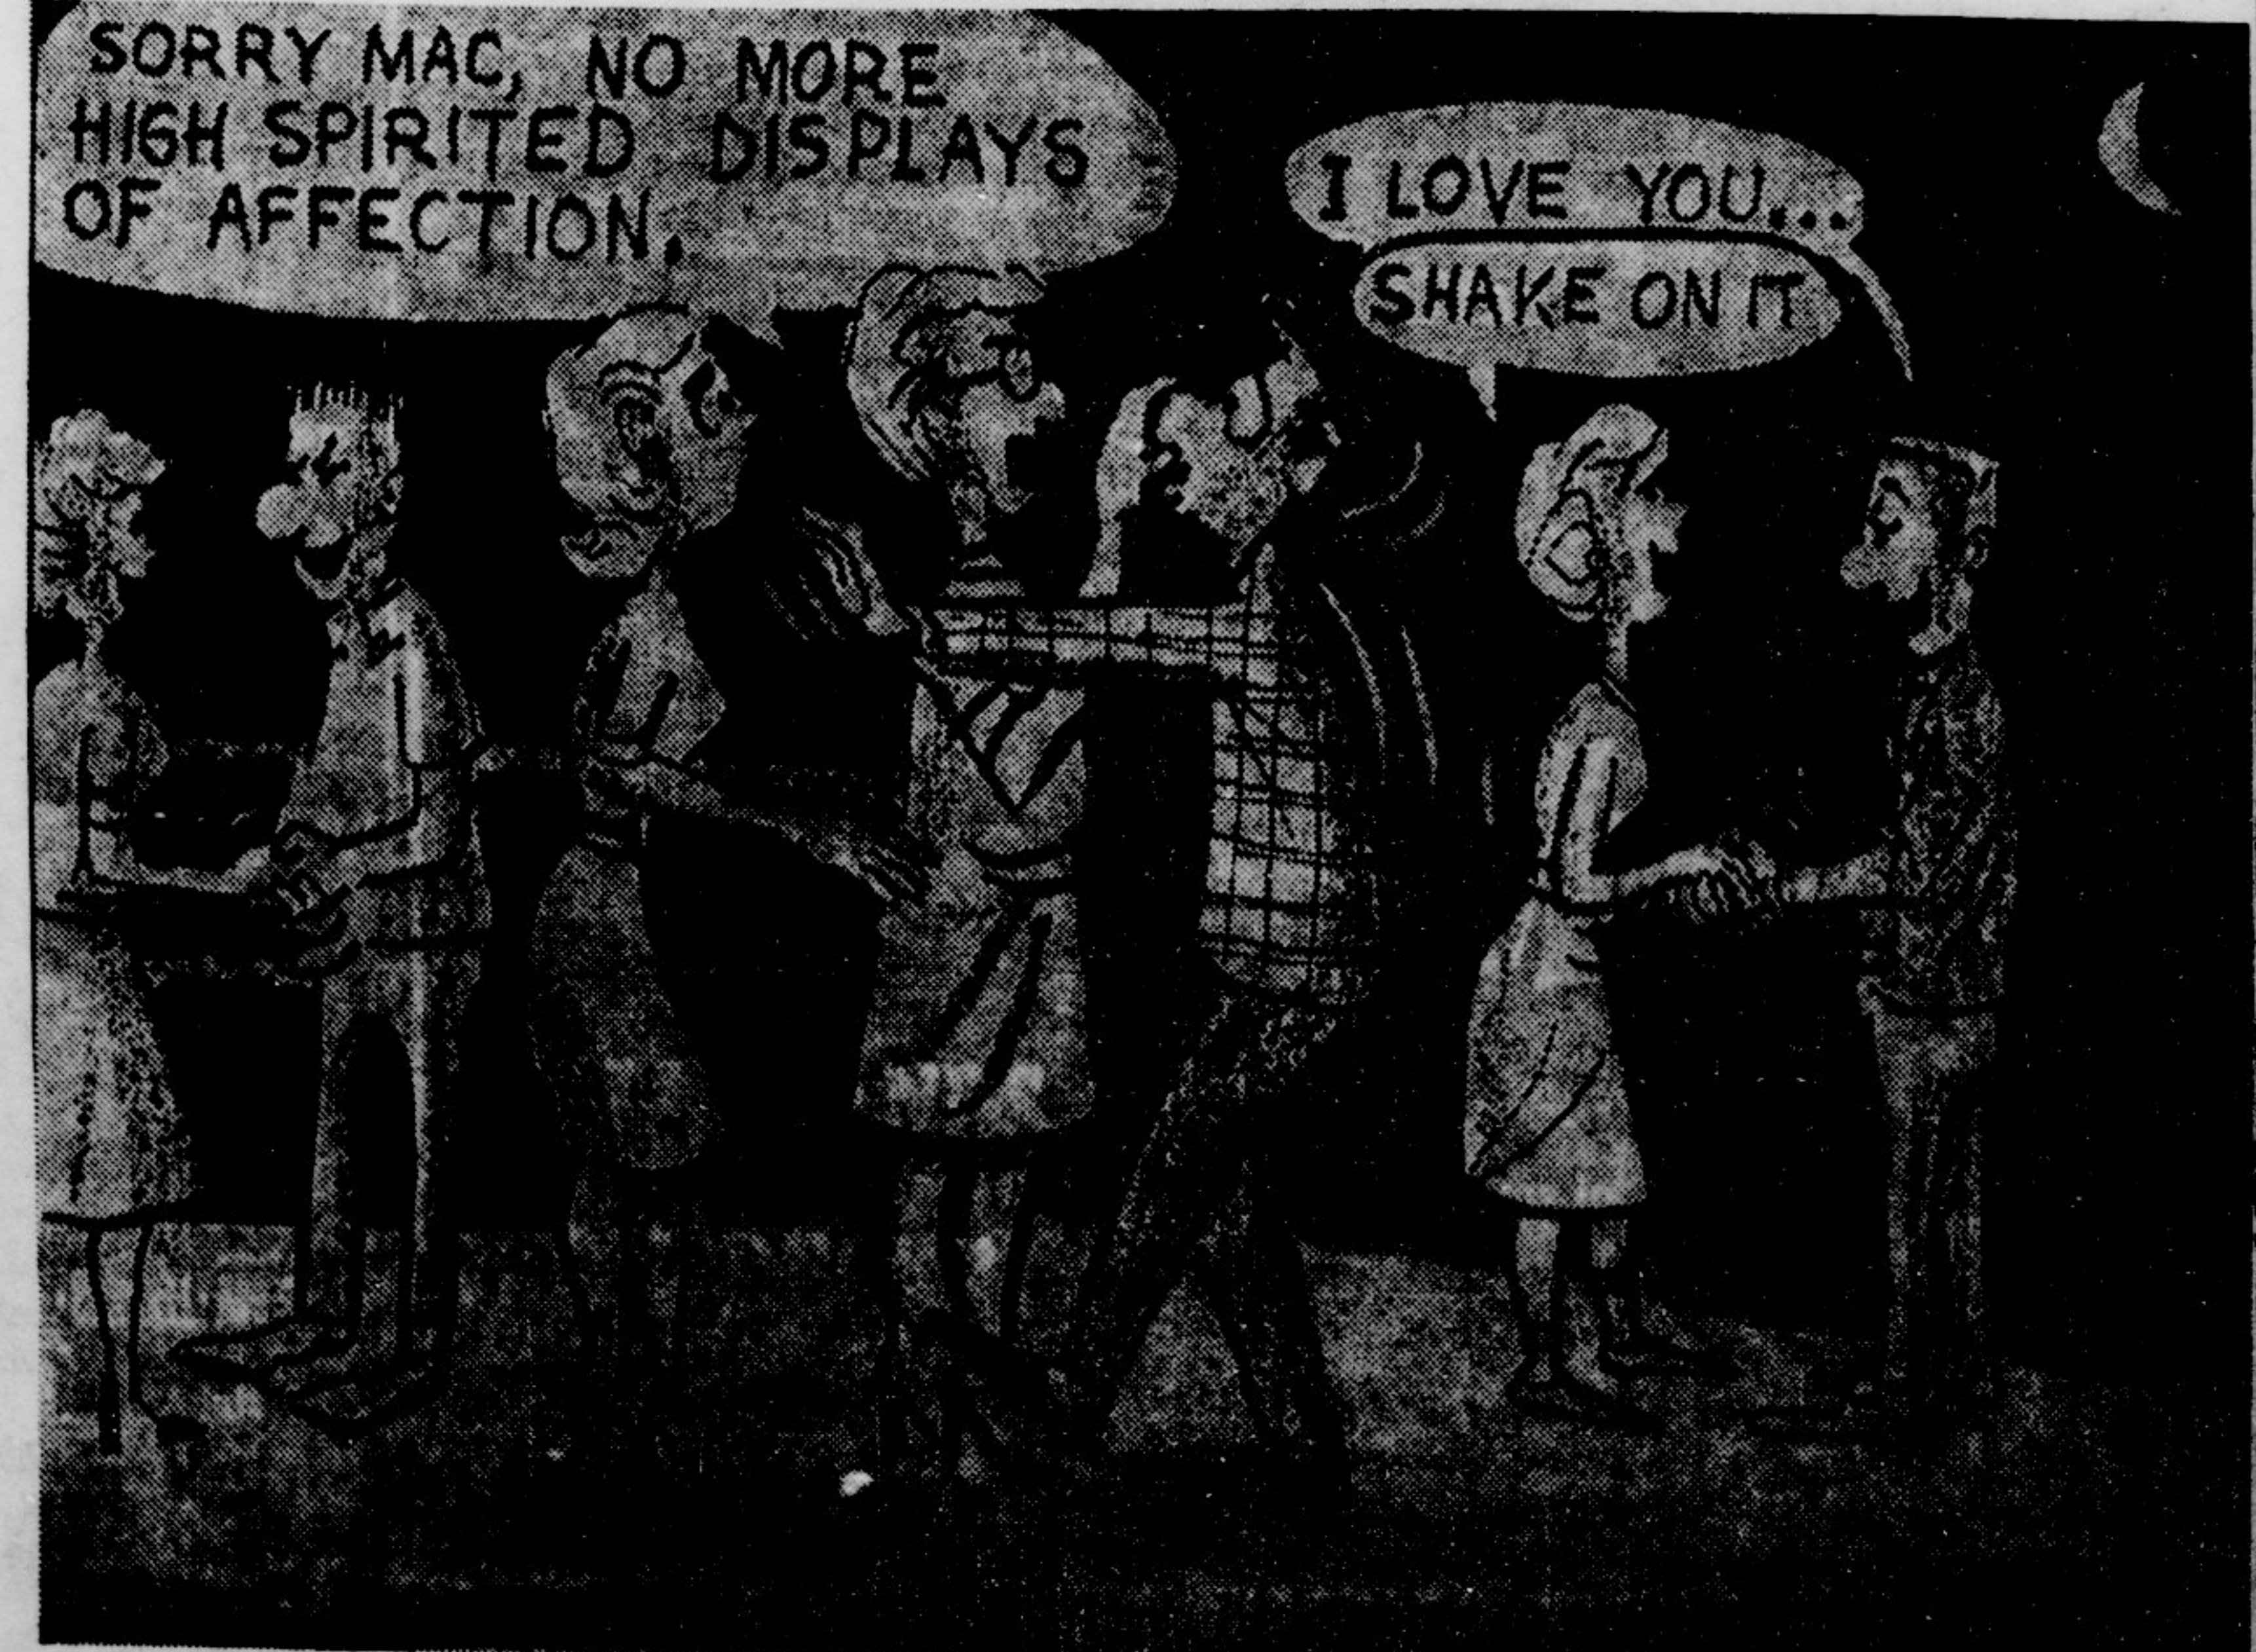

The Student Government association had some ideas, some got through the senate, and some didn't get past the soda shop. The East Carolinian printed their usual weekly jibbering, a few more pictures than last year, and no Nancy Lillys or Billy Arnolds. The Buccaneer published a red annual, good mug shots, and a terrific picture of the editor. The Rebel increased the size of the magazine and advertised Salem.

Everything went according to schedule, and students played their roles of typical collegiate persons as best they could. And the end is here.

In the past, predictions are made and in order to continue at least one tradition, I shall continue.

Predictions for 1961-1962:

- Otis Strother will make several changes in the SGA. One of which will be the strengthening of student interest in EAST CAROLINIAN.
  - Patsy Elliott will not produce a twice weekly newspaper; but her columnists will create a mass of nasty letters from disrupted students and faculty.
  - Walter Faulkner will make big plans for his masterpiece, the annual, and fool the students by delivering as promised.
  - Junius Grimes will publish a larger Rebel which will contain better stories and more humor.
  - Too many freshman girls will again be jammed into the dorms.
  - The football team will end the season with a terrible record; but the basketball squad will be the victors in the conference tournament.
  - Many improvements will be made and new buildings will adorn the campus; but Austin will receive another coat of paint.
  - Sororities and fraternities will continue to thrive, and all sororities will acquire homes and will drop the black balls at a faster pace.
  - The loss of dependents and the gain of teachers will raise EC's scholastic ratings.
  - EC will no longer be sentimental and keep those who do not meet scholastic requirements.
  - East Carolina's population will break the 5000 mark.
  - Girls regulations will not be as mean.
  - The rains will come as usual.
- This year and all foregoing years at EC have been happy ones. I am retiring this verbal garbage from the newspaper and know that many will be happy . . . and one may be overjoyed. WHEE!

The 12 Members Of EC's Governing Body

By MARCELLE VOGEL

Have you wondered about the policymaking body of a state institution such as East Carolina College, which is commonly "big business" with its 210-acre plant on a 210-acre plot with 100 employees and a student body of approximately 5,000?

Education and precedents and the plan itself "just grow" or is there some long-range planning, careful thought and continued interest back to the college president and his assistants in their day-by-day administration?

The board's governing body consists of twelve members, appointed by the governor for eight-year terms and approved by the state legislature, who shall be responsible for the management of all the affairs of the institution subject to the applicable laws of the state of North Carolina.

The present Board of East Carolina College is made up of two attorneys, three newspaper men, one banker, a secretary to a congressman, an owner and manager of a building and loan association, and owner and manager of a building store, a teacher, one school principal, and one who describes herself as a housewife, but whose record shows much wider interests and greater civic participation than that word suggests.

Henry Belk
Of the present Board, five are graduates of East Carolina. Oldest in years of service is Henry Belk, who has served on the Board of Trustees since September 1945.

Mr. Belk has served on the Executive Committee of this Board since October 1951, and was a member of the committee to select a President in 1949 and again in 1959. He has been on a number of temporary committees.

After graduating from Duke University in 1925, with an A. B. Degree, he became an instructor of English and public relations director at Wake Forest College. In 1924 he lectured in journalism at New Rochelle College, New York. In 1928 he was a columnist for the Greensboro Daily News. In 1929 he began work with the Goldsboro News, of which he is now the editor.

Mr. Belk married Lucile Marie Ligon in 1926. Their only child, Mrs. Rose Belk Ligon, was killed in an automobile accident in 1950.

His contributions to civic and cultural activities in the state have been many. He was director of the eastern Carolina Symphony Society, was a member of the commission which unveiled a monument to three N. C. Presidents of the U. S.; worked with others in restoring the birthplace of V. I. Governor Charles B. Aycock.

Mr. Belk has served as president of the State Press Association and is a member of the eastern N. C. Press Association. He has been president of the Associated Press News Council and the N. C. Associated Press Club.

He is an active member of the N. C. Citizens Committee for Better Schools and has been active in work for his church, the Goldsboro Chamber of Commerce, and the church.

Dr. Greer Visits Browning Society As Guest Speaker

Dr. Louise Greer, professor of English and author of "Browning and America," was in Boston, Mass., last week as a guest of the Browning Society there. As one of eight speakers on the society's 1960-1961 program celebrating the seventy-fifth anniversary of its founding, Dr. Greer addressed the group Tuesday, April 18, on the story behind her study of the Victorian poet.

The Boston Browning Society, organized December 8, 1885, has brought together for regular meetings since that time a group of admirers of Robert Browning. Programs have dealt with study and discussion of the poet's work, and speakers have included a number of noted Browning scholars.

Dr. Greer's "Browning and America" was published by the University of North Carolina Press in 1952. Recognized as a major contribution to Browning scholarship, the work has received favorable recognition both in this country and in England.

It deals with the poet's relationships with many noted Americans, the publication of his works in America, his literary reputation in this country, and the influence of Browning upon American culture.

Miss Greer, whose home is Abingdon, Va., is a graduate of Emory and Henry College at Emory, Va. She received the doctorate from the University of Virginia. She has been a faculty member of the English department since 1945.

Circle K Club Meets; Dr. Jenkins Speaks On 'The Maximum Citizen'

The Circle K Club held its annual Ladies Night meeting Tuesday, May 2, at Respass-James Restaurant. Circle K is an outstanding men's organization sponsored by the Greenville Kiwanis Club. Members are chosen who show above average ability in leadership, citizenship, and scholarship.

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, guest speaker for the occasion, chose as his topic, "The Maximum Citizen." Dr. Jenkins enlightened the club on three types of citizens: the minimum citizen, who gets by with the least he can do; the average citizen, who is just one of the masses; and the maximum citizen, who does what he can to help himself and others by thinking, working and playing.

The "Maximum Citizen" is discontent with anything that is not right, Dr. Jenkins said. He commended club members for making their life and college life better in their roles of Maximum Citizens.

Business teachers from the Southern and Eastern states of the nation will meet here June 26-30 for a Gregg Methods Conference sponsored by the college School of Business and the Gregg Publishing Division of McGraw-Hill Book Company.

The conference here is the first of the Gregg conferences to be held in the South and one of three to be staged in the United States during the summer of 1961. Others will take place at the University of Southern California, Los Angeles, and on the Chicago campus of Northwestern University.

Dr. James L. White of the East Carolina School of Business, chairman of the conference here, has announced that leading experts in the field of business education will appear as lecturers and teachers on the five-day program.

Members of the conference staff, Dr. White stated, will be Howard L. Newhouse, staff specialist, editor and business teacher, and Dr. Alan C. Lloyd, director of Instructional Service, both with Gregg Publishing Division of McGraw-Hill; and Dr. Gilbert Kahn, Jr., author and lecturer, East Side High School, Newark, N.J.

C., to see the historical drama "The Lost Colony"; a visit to Tryon's Palace, recently restored home of the North Carolina Colonial governor; and various social events at the college.

Accused Student Found 'Not Guilty' Of Inciting Last Spring's Demonstration

(UPS)—The University of California student accused of inciting last spring's demonstrations against the House Committee on Un-American Activities was found "not guilty" by a San Francisco Superior Court jury late Wednesday.

The acquittal represents a major victory for student and adult groups throughout the country who have long insisted that both the Un-American Activities Committee and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover have presented distorted accounts of the student protest.

The trial of student Robert Meisenbach lasted slightly less than two weeks. The prosecution called three witnesses, including the officer whom Meisenbach was alleged to have beaten. All three of the witnesses, however, presented contradictory accounts of the incident. During final arguments, Defense Council Charles Garry charged they had committed "deliberate perjury."

Defense witnesses insisted not only that Meisenbach did not attack the police officer, but that he had been brutally assaulted by law officers on the scene.

Sixty-four California students were arrested in San Francisco last May 13, following a student demonstration against the Un-American Activities Committee, which was then holding hearings in that city. All but Meisenbach were released within a few days.

The jury, out for less than three hours, returned its acquittal verdict that it had not been impressed with the divergent testimony of the prosecution witnesses. Some jurors intended to condone the student actions, nor was it intended to offer any comment on the issue of the Committee's work.

The Superior Court decision is particularly relevant to the current controversy over the Committee-produced film "Operation Abolition" which insists, in its sound track, "... the student provides the spark that touches off all the violence which leaps over a barricade, grabs a police officer's night stick, and begins beating the officer over the head..." Meisenbach was supposed to be that student.

Now a senior, and a candidate for the bachelor of music degree, Mrs. Bradner is well-known to audiences in this area. She has also appeared in other music programs on campus and in Greenville.

The program Tuesday night opened with a selection from Bach's "Magnificat" and included a varied group of numbers by composers, ranging from Purcell to contemporary writers of music.

Featured on the recital were a group of five songs from the "Kindergarten-Songbook" (Songs on the Death of Children) by Mahler.

Other numbers included aria from Verdi's "Masked Ball," Purcell's "Adagio Sleep," "City Called Heaven" in an arrangement by Hall Johnson, and selections by Milhaud, Burtleigh, and other composers.

Mrs. Laura Lee Hickfang, pianist, acted as accompanist at Tuesday's recital.

Holding Addresses SAM May Meeting

"Russia is not outstepping the United States, but rather outstriking us," a North Carolina banker told members of the Society for Advancement of Management here last week.

Lewis R. Holding, president of the First Citizens Bank and Trust Company of Smithfield, addressed the group of students and faculty members of the School of Business May 5 at the regular monthly meeting of the organization. His topic was "Opportunities in Banking."

"The United States is running short on investment funds for industry," he stated, "whereas Russians are saving a good portion of their income and reinvesting. This allows their financial system to turn these savings into capital for production," he said.

Students Exhibit Paintings In Local Business Concerns

Oil paintings by two students of art are now hung in the Planters Bank and Trust Co. of Greenville and will be on view through May 12. Joanne Lackey and Lynn Burgess are the exhibiting painters.

Each of the young artists is represented in the current show by three canvases. Semi-abstract paintings by Lynn are entitled "Pink Figure," "Bed," and "Green Lady." Presenting actual objects in abstract, Joanne's works are "Donnie," "Composition II," and "Catz."

Joanne, a junior, is majoring in art, with painting as her major interest. She has entered her work in campus shows, including student exhibits and a showing of artifacts staged in the College Union by members of the professional art fraternity Delta Phi Delta. Her paintings have also been exhibited in Roanoke Rapids, Greenville, Raleigh, and Wilmington.

Lynn is a senior scheduled for graduation next July. At present he is instructor of several classes at the Greenville Art Center. He plans to teach and do graduate work after receiving his degree.

His works have been exhibited during the past few years in Lenoir, Greensboro, Raleigh, Greenville, and Taylorsville in North Carolina; and in Ocean City, Md.; Seaford, Del.; Montgomery, Alabama; and Columbia, S. C. He is a member of the Associated Artists of North Carolina.

DR. FROOD'S THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: Don't let exams upset you. After all, there are worse things—distemper, hunger, insatiable thirst.

Dear Dr. Frood: Shouldn't we spend our millions on education instead of a race to the moon? Taxpayer

DEAR TAXPAYER: And let the Communists get all that cheese?

Dear Dr. Frood: What would you say about a rich father who makes his boy exist on a measly $150 a week allowance? Angered

DEAR ANGERED: I would say, "There goes a man I'd like to call Dad."

Dear Dr. Frood: How can I keep from bawling like a baby when they hand me my diploma? Emotional

DEAR EMOTIONAL: Simply concentrate on twirling your mortarboard tassel in circles above your head, and pretend you are a helicopter.

Dear Dr. Frood: What's the best way to open a pack of Luckies? Rip off the whole top, or tear along one side of the blue sticker? Freshman

DEAR FRESHMAN: Rip? Tear? Why, open a pack of Luckies as you would like to be opened yourself.

Dear Dr. Frood: A fellow on our campus keeps saying, "Bully," "Pip-pip," "Ear, ear," "Sticky wicket," and "Ripping!" What do these things mean? Puzzled

DEAR PUZZLED: It's best just to ignore these beatniks.

FROOD REVEALS SECRET: After exhaustive study and research, Dr. Frood claims to have discovered the reason why college students smoke more Luckies than any other regular. His solution is that the word "Collegiates" contains precisely the same number of letters as Lucky Strike—a claim no other leading cigarette can make!

Judo Instructor Praises Student Physical Ability

College Judokens Learn Basic Skills Of Ancient Sport

By JEAN PEACE

Mr. Malcolm Maxwell, instructor of judo here at EC, stated that college students have the ability to learn judo faster than servicemen. Mr. Maxwell bases this on his experience as an air force judo instructor for three years. His present judo class at EC has 14 students. This is the first time such a course has been offered at this college.

Mr. Maxwell explained, "Judo is good for everyone. It is not for self defense, but sport. Judokens are instructed from the beginning not to instigate trouble. These people must have mental and physical control."

The students enrolled in the class are forming a club for next year. Mr. Maxwell is pleased with the student interest and support. "In time and with interest, perhaps a class will be taught in judo for women."

The method of grading judokens is involved in a belt system. Beginners get a white belt, then comes the green belt which has three degrees, next the brown belt and its five degrees, and last is the black belt with ten degrees. Few people attain the honor of receiving the ten degree black belt. Mr. Maxwell holds a first degree black belt. The instructor is authorized to promote students to the green belt only. After this height, the judoken must compete in a tournament with other judokens. One such tournament is the Florida State Judo Tournament.

State YDC President Sam Johnson, a Raleigh attorney, was the speaker, and he spoke on various aspects of politics and Democratic activities. A group discussion period followed, with emphasis on ways to better co-ordinate party activities.

ginal purpose of this interpretation was to help justify not only the Committee's existence but its tactics as well. Apparently a great deal of the feeling in East Carolinians like that in the rioters was just natural group behavior, and did not come after a careful analysis and understanding of events.

Mr. Lewis stated early in the evening that music, chants, and noise in general had been added because they gave a more vivid impression of what actually happened than to have left them out. The equipment used to record happenings did not include sound. The reasoning seems perfectly valid, but students throughout the nation have not assumed its truth.

Accusations Mr. Joyner leveled many impressive accusations at Mr. Lewis. He stated firmly that the intrusion of the music swayed opinion, that words were placed in the mouths of participants, that the sequence of events was tampered with, that persons involved were labeled indiscriminately, and that many students shown and identified in the newsreel shorts could prove their presence to be in other places at the probable time the shots were taken. But no concrete truth was ascertained. Moreover, few of the arguments could be reduced to contradicting statements. Truth seemed relative and irreconcilable.

Whether the Committee is entitled to a 'coat of many colors' will continue to be a subject of intensive controversy, but the intellect, the personality, the character of Fulton Lewis, III, left an indelible strong imprint on the memory of East Carolina students. Faced with a barrage of stony pupils, with no regard for order the piquant, suave, warmly-collegiate, qualities of Mr. Lewis handled each malformed, vehement question with alacrity and ease.

Said one observer, "He will make an extraordinary leader." Discussions continued past midnight, and with one humorist searching through an American history book and asking, "What is an un-American activity?"

Proceedings ceased when a policeman came to close the doors and turn off the lights.

Three Seniors Selected To Flaming Five

For the third consecutive year the East Carolinian has picked a flaming five in sports. After careful consideration of a host of outstanding athletes five top players from three sports were named. Three Seniors, one Junior, and a Sophomore compose the flaming five. The selections were based mainly on Seniority and whether or not the player was a contributing factor to more than one sport.

This year's selection of the FLAMING FIVE by the East Carolinian has only one hold over from the 1959-60 addition. Baseball star pitcher Larry Crayton, a junior, with a 7-1 record currently, is a choice along with teammates Cotton Clayton, a sophomore, and Glenn Bass, a senior, known mainly for basketball and football respectively. Two other seniors, football star Sonny Basinger and cage Captain Don Smith complete the big five.

It was a tough job naming five top athletes out of the host of players that EC has turned out to be stars this season. It would have been impossible to leave Bass and Clayton off the five because of their outstanding achievements in two sports.

The former is a pro football and baseball prospect, while the latter is only a sophomore but is being eyed by major league scouts. He has been an all-conference guard for two years in basketball. Crayton is a natural repeater, being the top player on the championship baseball nine for two years in a row. Basinger was an all-conference halfback on the gridiron shining on offense and defense through the 1960 season. Don Smith captained the basketball team to a winning year while averaging 15 points per contest.

Here is a brief summary on each individual.

Glenn Bass

A tremendous halfback on the gridiron and an outstanding shortstop on the diamond is this Senior. The 6-3 195 pound all-round athlete was injured a portion of the football season, but when at full force gave the fans plenty of action. Glenn led EC to six consecutive wins with his brilliant running. After three tough losses by the gridirers, Glenn came back to lead the Bucs to their upset over Richmond in the final game of the season.

On the baseball diamond the Wilson native has aided the team a great deal in winning three North State League championships. Glenn has hit well over .300 for three consecutive seasons and has been a sure fielding shortstop.

Sonny Basinger

Sonny is a transfer student from Wingate Junior College and hails from Concord, North Carolina. While at Wingate he was an All-American in Junior College. One of the fastest men on the EC team for the past two seasons, the 5-10, 165 pounder was known for his broken field running and his ability to hit through the quick opening holes in Coach Boone's offense.

His play was good enough to earn him all-conference honors this season. Not only was the speedy Concord native spectacular on offense but he proved to be one of the best defensive backs in North State loop play.

Cotton Clayton

This sophomore from Henderson is one of the most natural athletes in EC history. Leading Coach Earl Smith's charges to a winning season in basketball and currently one of the top hitters on the baseball diamond earned Clayton a spot on the flaming five.

On the hardwood, Cotton was the leading rebounder and scorer. The team's playmaker. His ability to get off the floor and his deadly shooting were contributing factors to his success. Besides being named an All-North State for the second year in a row, he was also named to the District 26, NAAIA selection.

On the baseball diamond Cotton has been the answer to many EC situations when they needed the situ- ations the most. The lefthanded hitting Clayton hits his best when men are on the base paths. One of the top RBI men for Coach Jim Mallory's nine, the hard hitting rightfielder also is batting over the .400 mark.

Larry Crayton

The pitcher, with the most wins under his belt in EC's history, is this crafty lefthander who has re- corded 24 wins against only 3 set- backs in his three years of toeing the rubber at East Carolina. In lead- ing the Pirates to another champion- ship, Crayton pitched his first no- hitter this season against Appala- chian in the conference opener.

Larry is a junior with excellent baseball experience behind him. Last summer the hard throwing southpaw was a star in the Rookie League out in South Dakota where the top col- legiate stars form a league in the summer. He compiled a neat 7-3 re- cord and picked up valuable experi- ence for this season. More than likely EC fans will get their chance to see Crayton hurl in the season finale against Wake Forest this Saturday night.

Don Smith

Captain Don Smith is a logical choice for the 'Flaming five' for his brilliant work on the basketball court.

Cotton Clayton

Don Smith

Don is a senior from Portsmouth, Virginia who aided the team with his scoring and rebounding. This is Don's second season as a full time regular and the 6-5 Virginian not only hit for 15 points per contest, but also was the second leading rebounder on the squad.

Probably the top individual performance of the season came from Don. The rangy forward scored 33 points against Lenoir-Rhyne in lead- ing them to an impressive victory over the regular season champions. His best shots this season were his jump shots, and shots from the side, and the pivot circle.

The sports department regretted that only three sports were repre- sented, and special consideration should go to the track, tennis, swim- ming and golf stars. There were nu- merous players on the basketball, football, and baseball teams that also were in the running for the 'flaming five.' Swimming's Bob Kingrey, golfer Don Conley, and track's Ned Pick- ford were all outstanding. Chuck Gor- don, Clayton Pilsand, and Bruno Dav- is were instrumental in their line play on the gridiron. Charlie Lewis was a great hustler in basketball, as was Bill Ottie and Lacy West. The latter is also a star baseball pitcher.

On the diamond it was hard to leave out such outstanding figures as centerfielder Wally Cackrell, first- baseman Jim Martin, and leftfielder Gary Pierce. The trio has hit nine homers between them.

Last season's five besides Crayton was Greenville's James Speight, an All-American who is now completing his Master's Degree at EC. Ed Emery, an all-conference lineman in football, former North State scoring champion Ike Riddlek from Green- ville, and John West who posted a 12-3 record on the tennis court in 1960.

LR, Elon Defeated By Powerful Pirates

Righthander Lacy West came through impressively in pitching the Bucs to a 6-1 verdict over Lenoir Rhyne last Thursday in Hickory. West scattered five enemy hits in notching his third win against no set- backs. It marked the 10th league victory for the Pirates and all but mathematically clinched their third consecutive North State League crown.

Two seven inning contests were originally scheduled but LR officials declared that they would not have time to play the two contests be- cause "the evening meal could not be served in time to the players." As a result the two teams played a single game of the nine innings.

Rightfielder Cotton Clayton sup- plied the big blow for the powerful visitors. The lefthanded-hitting Clay- ton smashed a three run triple to deep right center in the second stanza giving West more runs than he needed to pick up the victory. Catcher Charlie Johnson was also a hitting star for East Carolina as the Junior backstop collected three base hits. Hard-hitting Jim Martin, enjoying a spectacular game at the plate, came through with two singles to keep his batting average around the .400 mark.

LR's only run was unearned in the fifth frame. Ben Kennerly singled to left, and came home when the ball got by Pirate leftfielder Gary Pierce. Kennerly was the Bear hurler who went the distance for the losers.

EC played Pfeiffer last Friday and was scheduled to play Catawba last Saturday night. This Saturday night Wake Forest invades Guy Smith Stadium for an are light encounter with the Bucs.

EC all but clinched their third consecutive North State crown with their ninth win in league play, against no defeats with a victory over Elon. Larry Crayton, the hard throwing southpaw, notched his sixth win of the late campaign in registering a 7-3 verdict over Elon's pesky Christians in a game played at the loser's home diamond last Wednesday. Shortstop Glenn Bass led the nine hit assault by EC with 3 hits. The speedy infielder also scored three runs for the winners.

East Carolina won the game with solo runs in the first and third frames, a trio gathering in the big fourth, and two tallies in the fifth inning. The Christians scored single tallies in the first, third, and the sixth in- nings in giving EC their best contest of the season.

Although out hit by the Elon aggre- gation 10-9, Coach Jim Mallory's defending champions made the most out of the wildness of Tilman, the Christian pitcher, and bunched their base hits for the seven runs. In the initial frame EC took a one run lead, only to see the home team tie it up in the bottom half of the first in- ning. A solo tally in the second and three big runs in the fourth aided the Buc cause. The big blow in this frame being a 2 run single by Cot- ton Clayton, the Buc rightfielder.

Elon surged, backed with a run in their half of the fourth, but the vis- itors picked up 2 more in the fifth, while the Christians could score but one more in the sixth. Besides Bass's three hits, Clayton, Jim Martin, and Charlie Johnson smashed out two hits a piece for the Pirates. EC was scheduled to play LR, Pfeiffer, and Catawba on consecutive days follow- ing this contest.

Football Coaches Replace Madigan And McDonald

The replacements for Bill McDon- ald and Frank Madigan the two va- cated EC grid coaches have been named. Raymond Pennington, an EC alumnus and Sal Gero, a former Lit- tle All-American lineman at Elon College are the two successors.

McDonald and Madigan will as- sume coaching positions at Frederick College in Portsmouth, Virginia, with the former as head coach. The latter will also serve as the Director of Health and Physical Education at the new four year institution. Pennington is from Greensboro, and received his Master's Degree at North Carolina in 1960. The former Pirate star is now coaching at Besse- mer High School. Gero, a native of Madison, New Jersey has been coach- ing at Asheboro High School. He earned his Master's Degree in 1959.

Conley Wins

Veteran golfer Don Conley moved into an early lead in the North State Golf Conference meet in Greensboro Monday. The star East Carolina golfer is defending North State Conference champion. He fired a two-over- par 73 at Starmount Country Club. Conley beat Adam Maples of Lenoir Rhyne last year for the title.

EC still trailed Atlantic Chris- tian by three strokes in team scoring despite the Pirate's in- dividual scoring leader. The Bull- dogs had a four-man total of 313, and Elon as well EC were dead- locked for the second place spot with 316.

Other team scoring included Guilford 321, High Point 329, Appalachian 334, Pfeiffer 338, Lenoir Rhyne 350 and Catawba 379.

Duncan is in charge of this setup. The announcement has been made to construct fences, lighting facilities, locker house, and existing stands.

The new football field, expected to be ready in 1961, will be located South of 14th street just East of Elmwood Junior School. The playing area will be parallel to 14th street. The ball field could be ready as early as next spring. The ball field will be near and parallel to NC route 43, which shows 14th street are expected to be the primary entrance to the new proposal.

N. S. Champs

Saturday night ECC won their third consecutive North State League crown by downing tough Catawba 14-0. Alan was the great pitching effort of southpaw Larry Crayton, who was the Bucs come through. The hard throwing southpaw fanned 11 enemy hitters in winning his seventh victory against the Bucs.

The only loss in loop play previous to Saturday night was a 9-8 loss to Pfeiffer College in an away contest. The Bucs' outside losses came at the expense of Camp Lehigh and Wake Forest. The Pirates got their chance to get back at the Bucs this Saturday night at Guy Smith Stadium. More than 1000 visitors will face Crayton in the final game of the season to the Pirates.

As the regular college sports program concludes it has been a merry one at ECC. Winning seasons in the three sports of football, basketball, and baseball. A tennis team that had to own against top flight competition and has had a winning year. The swimming and track teams are young but showing signs of tremendous promise. The golf team was also impressive this season.

Probably the most impressive victory of the 1960-61 season came at the expense of Richmond's Spiders in the final game of the football season.
