Concert Features Ferguson SGA Sponsors Pre-Game Festivities To Honor EC Alumni Lecture Series

Maynard Ferguson

Pre-Game Festivities To Honor EC Alumni

By MARCELLE VOGEL

Our 1961-1962 Annual Homecoming Weekend will feature as its guest artist the youngest bandleader in the country, Maynard Ferguson and his twelve-piece band, on Saturday night, October 9, in Wright Auditorium. Considered by many jazz authorities to be the outstanding trumpeter in modern music in terms of presence, tone in the upper register and absolute command of pitch and volume, Ferguson's virtuosity on trumpet has brought him more and more attention.

A consistent poll winner, he was voted favorite trumpeter of Down Beat readers in 1950, 1951, and 1952, when he was with Stan Kenton as featured soloist. His band was selected as New Star Band in the 1959 Down Beat International Jazz Critics Poll, and placed second only to Basie in the jazz band category of Down Beat Readers Poll of 1959.

Other noted personalities who will be on campus for the Homecoming festivities include "Rock and Roll" singer, Chuck Jackson and his group, which will appear on a concert on Friday, October 6, from 4:00-6:00 p.m. in Wright Auditorium; and the popular singing group "The Highwaymen." The latter group will appear at 8:15-10:30 p. m. in Wright Auditorium.

Tommy Mallison, Entertainment Committee chairman, announced that the dress for the Chuck Jackson concert will be: girls, casual; men, shirt and ties. Dress for the evening concert will be: girls, dress attire; men, coats and ties.

Ticket Sale

Tommy also announced that tickets for dates and faculty members will be on sale beginning tomorrow until the 100 tickets are sold. Tickets will be $3.00, and will be on sale in the SGA office from 9:00-10:00, and from 2:00-3:00.

Attire to the dance on Saturday night will be party dresses for girls, and coats and ties for men.

Attire to the dance on Saturday night will be party dresses for girls, and coats and ties for the men.

Open House

Coffee hour and open house at 9:00 a.m. on Saturday in the Alumni-Faculty Building will begin the Homecoming Day Events. Following the annual Homecoming Parade at 10:15 a.m., a luncheon for the alumni will take place in the South Dining Hall.

At 1:15 the pre-game festivities will begin at the college stadium, followed by the traditional Homecoming football game between the EC Pirates and the Fighting Christians of Elon.

Chief Buccaneer James L. Whitfield of Raleigh, has announced that as an innovation this fall, wives and dates of Buccaneers will attend the annual dinner, which will take place at 7:00 p.m. in the South Dining Hall. Chief attractions of the dinner will be an informal talk by President Jenkins, announcement of a new Chief Buccaneer, and a program by college musicians.

Jayne Chandler, co-chairman of Homecoming, has emphasized the importance of voting for the Homecoming Queen. This voting will take place on Tuesday, October 3, in the downstairs of the College Union.

Sponsors

Jayne also reminds the sponsors that they are responsible for their own automobile, and that their costumes are the colonial type dress, complete with parasol, and large hat. The parade will form no later than 9:30 on Saturday morning.

"The deadline for submitting the theme of the floats and sponsors' names was yesterday, but for those who neglected to hand them in to the SGA Office, the deadline is extended until Friday, but no later," said Jayne. "We need the list in order to arrange the parade formation."

SGA Sponsors Lecture Series

By JEAN PEACE

The SGA has matched a $2,000 grant to the college for the staging of lectures on contemporary problems in public affairs and the social sciences. The Sperry and Hutchinson Company selected nine colleges and universities throughout the nation to receive these grants under their 1960 Lectureship Program.

These lectures are scheduled for this year. The first is to be presented October 9. Two speakers are to participate in each lecture. A Student-Faculty Lectureship Committee has been formed to complete arrangements.

"It is hoped that these lectures will bring the students in informal contact with scholarly experts. The general topics have been selected, "Education for Freedom in a Divided World," "Liberalism and Conservatism in Domestic and Foreign Policy," and "The Creative Artist as a Fencer of the Public."

At the October 9, lecture Dr. George A. Buttrick will present a morning lecture. In the evening Dr. Charles Baylis, Head of the Department of Philosophy at Duke, will give conflicting opinions.

Dr. Buttrick was Plummer Professor at Harvard for five years. He is a member of the American Academy of Art and Sciences. For 27 years he pastored the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York City. Dr. Buttrick has excelled as an author, editor, and lecturer throughout the nation. So We Believe, So We Pray, Faith and Education and Lonely Voyage were written by Dr. Buttrick in the past ten years.

Stated Dr. Batten of the EC Department, "We are indeed fortunate to have Dr. Buttrick as a lecturer in our current series. The students will find Dr. Buttrick entertaining and informative in his discussion of education."

Players To Stage Williams' Play

The imaginative, enchanting story of a dilapidated Southern mother's efforts to marry off a daughter as fragile as the glass animals she collects, has been chosen as the first campus presentation of the East Carolina Playhouse to open the season at the McGinnis Theatre in three performances November 1-3. Director J. A. Withey has announced. Casting is now in progress.

The play is "The Glass Menagerie," by Tennessee Williams. It ran for over a year and a half on Broadway and was described by the N. Y. World Telegram critic as "an evening of the first importance."

Performances will take place in the McGinnis Auditorium. Curtain time is 8 p. m.

The four-character play concerns a mother's efforts to do the best she can for her two children: the son who works in a warehouse and writes poetry on shoebox lids, and the crippled daughter who is too shy to continue her studies at business school. Into their dingy flat, overlooking a back alley in St. Louis, comes the first Gentleman Caller the sensitive girl has ever received—a big, good-natured Irishman brought to dinner by the restless son.

Told with the wise, good-humor, the curiously elusive poignancy and the real affection for a play's characters that distinguish Williams' works, "The Glass Menagerie" is the first of a succession of hits by this brilliant young writer to have been hailed with joy and admiration.

Playhouse Names Cast For 'The Glass Menagerie'

Lucille Dew will play the blowsy, impoverished mother living on the memories of a flower-scented Southern past in the East Carolina Playhouse's presentation of "The Glass Menagerie" which will open a three-performance engagement at the McGinnis Theatre starting next November 1.

Continuing through Nov. 3 this is the poignant drama which first won acclaim for its author Tennessee Williams, who has been described by the N.Y. Herald Tribune's critics as "the Eugene O'Neill of the present period on the stage."

As Amanda Wingfield, a woman both amusing and pathetic, with love for no one but herself, Miss Dew will be portraying the role which is generally conceded to have been the greatest ever acted by the late Laurette Taylor who created it in N.Y.

Laura

Sue Taylor will be seen as Amanda's daughter, Laura, the lame and retiring girl who cannot bear to mix with people, but whose heart cries out for affection and understanding, like the kind she lavishes on her collection of glass animals.

As Tom, the restless son who Amanda fears will, like his father, throw up his bread-winning warehouse job and "fall in love with long distance," Ben Avery will be seen. This is the role created on Broadway by Eddie Dowling, who, as coproducer of the play deserved considerable credit for encouraging the great new talent in the American theatre that is Williams!

Gentleman Caller

Completing the quartet of the drama's character, Tom Hull will portray the part of the Gentleman Caller, the man who comes to dinner and tries to get Laura over her inferiority complex, but disappoints Amanda by already being engaged to be married.

"The Glass Menagerie" ran in New York for 63 performances and won the New York Critics' Circle Award. Its author received the award again in 1948, as well as the Pulitzer Prize, for his "A Streetcar Named Desire."

Election Results

Over 2000 freshmen are enrolled at EC, yet only 504 voted in Tuesday's election for class officers. Tom Hartley was elected vice president; Judy Whitfield, secretary; and Stephanie Pascal, treasurer.

A run-off election will be held between Gill Ruderman and Robert Livingston for president, Ralph Schofield and Burke Stancill for male senator, and between Carol Daugherty and Jean Faw for women's senator.

Run-offs will take place Monday, October 2, 12:00 noon to 4:30 p.m. in Wright Lobby.

Notice

A college class ring was stolen from the display at the ring sale last Thursday in the College Union. Officials have the serial number of the ring and intend to go to all lengths to find the person who has this ring in his possession. The person who has the ring may, however, drop it in the college post office by October 4, addressed to the SGA, and the matter will be forgotten.

The Baptist Student Union Center is sponsoring a "Clean Jean" Friday, September 29 beginning 12 noon until 5:30 p.m. After which, supper will be served. Everyone is invited.

SGA To Sell Entertainment Tickets

Senate Passes Recommended Budget

By MARCELLE VOGEL

The recommended budget for the 1961-1962 school year, submitted by the Budget Committee, was passed by the Student Government Association on Monday night.

Bobby Ward, SGA Treasurer, explained that the approved appropriations amounted to $109,577.78, and the total expected income for the SGA, from student activity fees, amounted to only $104,000. From this latter amount only 90% of the total income is to be appropriated at this time of the year, but due to excessive requests the total, plus funds on reserve have also been appropriated. (See approved Budget, page 5).

The SGA also voted to appropriate $2,000.00 to a Lecture Series, which will take the place of the Danforth Lecture Series, since sufficient funds are depleted. Educational, Fine Arts, and Social Studies programs are being planned.

Entertainment Tickets

Tommy Mallison, representing the Entertainment Committee, recommended that purchase price for tickets to the Fine Arts Entertainment Series be: $1.50 per entertainment for high school students, and $2.50, per entertainment, for adults, including faculty members. Seasonal tickets are to be sold for $12.00, but the faculty, staff, and married students may purchase a seasonal ticket for the reduced rate of $5.00. One hundred tickets will be on sale before each popular entertainment. For the Popular Series seasonal tickets will not be sold.

Complimentary tickets will be given to the House Mothers, and theaternity House Mothers; Dr. Tuck, Dr. Holt, and President Jenkins; a minimum amount of tickets will be given to the local press in return for free publicity. This recommendation was passed by the SGA.

An additional $500.00 was approved by the SGA to be added to the emergency loan fund for students. An agency loan of $25.00 may be borrowed by any student, for a thirty period, interest free. This additional $500.00 is from interest derived from SGA funds, which have been placed in savings. Otis Strother, SGA President, announced that Georgia Hooks has been appointed as Publicity Chairman of the SGA. This appointment was approved by the student senate.

Buttons, Hats, and Confederate Flags Jayne Chandler, co-chairman of Homecoming, announced that the "Circle K" Club will be selling buttons, hats, and confederate flags for Homecoming. All proceeds will go toward the new stadium.

Harris To Star In Playhouse Production Of 'Robin Hood'

The East Carolina College Playhouse has announced the cast and the production of a series of performances during October of the children's play "Robin Hood" by James Norris.

The production will be one of the annual plays for Pitt County school children which have been produced by the Playhouse and sponsored by the Greenville Branch of the American Association of University Women since 1941.

A performance for college students and adults is scheduled for October 20 in the McGinnis auditorium at 8 p.m. A tour of schools in Pitt County is now being arranged by Dr. Kathleen Dunlop of the college faculty, representing the AAUW. A schedule of performances will be announced at an early date.

Thomas Hull, a senior with several years of experience in the Playhouse and also during military service in Germany in 1958-1960, is director of "Robin Hood." Dr. Ralph Hardee Rives, assistant director of the dramatic club, acts as production supervisor.

Denard Harris, heads the cast as the adventurous Robin Hood. Maid Marian, his sweetheart, is played by Sue Little. John F. Parkerd, as the villain of the play, has the part of the Sheriff of Nottingham.

Scheduled to appear as members of Robin Hood's outlaw band are Michael Lewis as the genial Friar Tuck; Robert Christensen, as Little John; and Jerry Higgins as Will Scarlett.

Others in the cast include Eloise Hewitt, D. Ross Thomas, Howard

Mallard, John McPherson, Maria Haenel, Loretta Foster, William Rackley, M. Ronald Helms, Joe P. Brannon, and Jerry Winberry.

Assisting Director Hull are Mr. Rackley, technical director, and Bob Inamura, lighting director. In charge of other aspects of production are Shirley J. Morse, make-up, Edward Smith, stage manager; Mary Jane McHugh, properties manager; and Charles G. Lancaster, Jr., publicity director.

Costumes for "Robin Hood" are being designed by Mrs. Lois Garren whose original costumes for "Midsummer Night's Dream," "Antigone," and other plays were outstanding attractions of the Playhouse productions.

PLACEMENT NOTICES

On Monday, October 2, Representatives from the U. S. General Accounting Office will hold a group meeting of junior and senior accounting majors in 130 Rawl at 7:00 p.m.

On October 15, the Federal Civil Service Exam will be given on campus. Last quarter juniors and all seniors interested in taking this exam should pick up their application in the Placement Service Office (203 Administration Bldg.) by Monday.

The Placement Service will publish a list of fall quarter teaching candidates for distribution to school superintendents. Seniors who wish to be included should complete registration with the Placement Service by October 7.

Sanford Appoints Jenkins To Study Higher Education

Governor Terry Sanford recently named Dr. Leo W. Jenkins to serve with a 23-member commission to prepare a 15-year blueprint for State supported higher education institutions.

"The use of such a commission is a part of our determination to see that the taxpayers get the maximum returns in both quality and quantity of education for their dollar," said Sanford.

The need for a coordinated long-range plan for higher education was suggested by the State Board of Higher Education and the State Board of Education.

Questions set down for the commission include a study on prospective enrollments, with an optimum growth plan for existing institutions, a study of needs for faculty members, and what their salaries should be. Other questions are how higher education can best be financed, and how much it is likely to cost over the next 15 years in capital improvements and operating expenses.

Dr. Jenkins stated in a private interview that he would welcome any topics or suggestions from faculty and or students that may be presented to the commission for discussion.

Student Chairman Needed; Faculty Play Role Of Advisor

Entertainment Improves; Shows Variety

Looking back over entertainment brought to the campus in recent years by the SGA's Entertainment Committee, we see that this year's series promise to be one of the best ever proposed . . . and we venture to say it is the best.

For the first time, the Entertainment Committee has divided the series into two categories, a Fine Arts Series and a Pop Series. Bookings for the first series have been made for nights during the school week; whereas, the Pop Series are tentatively on schedule for Friday night entertainment, in some cases, is scheduled for 'big' weekends.

The East Carolinian commends the members of the committee for its outstanding line-up of entertainment for this year. One of the members particularly, Tommy Mallison, who is co-chairman of the committee deserves commendation. Bookings and contracts for the Pop Series were made entirely by Tommy.

The overall appearance of the Pop Series (and this is unquestionably the series in which most students are interested) indicates efforts on the part of the committee to satisfy the majority of the student body . . . to use the students' money for the type of entertainment they will most enjoy and appreciate.

Our current Entertainment Series, when it is compared with other college series, ranks at the top as one of the best. Many schools seem to fall into either an entire program of Fine Arts or an entire program of Pop Entertainment. Others, play one known artist or group during the year and have unknowns making up the rest of their entertainment.

We have apparently found a combination that excites both Fine Arts and Pop enthusiasts . . . the latter, an achievement accomplished for the first time this year. Why has this happened? One very obvious reason

Can EC Afford To Take 'Live Bear By The Tail'?

Editor's note: Although we cannot agree with the following article in its entirety, we offer it, anticipating a response to some of the statements it contains. The East Carolinian will welcome letters to the editor or columns pertaining to the subject discussed below.

Reprinted from an editorial in the Raleigh Times

East Carolina College, which has just been blessed with membership in the National Collegiate Athletic Association, plans an expansion in the field of athletics that will parallel the school's growth academically and physically.

That would seem to be a long way of saying that ECC hopes to go in for big-time intercollegiate athletics. And that would seem to make it entirely appropriate to wonder out loud if ECC would be smart to do that.

East Carolina has grown by leaps and bounds since World War II. It now has 5,500 students, which puts it right along with Duke in enrollments, and not too far behind Carolina and State. Its growth has been respectable as well as spectacular, and its graduates have commanded more and more respect in the business and educational world.

It has grown in the hearts of the people of Eastern North Carolina in a way hard to imagine. For a wide area, it is the educational institution, and has that status among graduates of other and larger institutions who live in that section.

Its growth has been rapid but those in charge have seen to it that the growth has been solids, too. That growth, it should be noted, has been accomplished without a really big-time intercollegiate program, though it should be noted also that East Carolina baseball team did win national honors.

But in the relatively modest nature of its present intercollegiate sports program, East Carolina has not run into the very real headaches which have plagued the heads of some other institutions, notably State and Carolina. Those men have found out the hard way just how hard it can be to keep such a big-time athletic program within even relatively big boundaries.

These men have found out that a really big-time athletic program is something like having a real live bear by the tail: There is no practical way to let go.

It is not hard to imagine that ECC officials would get this sort of advice from some leading educators now participating in really big-time athletics: Don't jump into that type program. The jumping in is easy, but the crawling out is hard if not impossible.

There is one other angle to be considered. The news story telling of ECC's athletic ambitions included this sentence: "There are plans for a new stadium, field house and track." The story didn't say where the money would come from, but presumably the taxpayer would be asked to furnish it.

The taxpayer is going to have his hands too full for the foreseeable future providing college classrooms, college dormitories, college laboratories, etc., to be asked to provide a new stadium and a new field house.

. . . for the first time the committee has been headed by co-chairmen, instead of a single chairman. This change in structure allowed a student to participate in the actual engaging and contracting procedures. This change gave a student equal powers to a faculty member. Heretofore, a faculty member 'held the reins' . . . and well.

With the improvements made this year, we feel that we could anticipate an even greater and better Entertainment Series if, in the future, this Committee is headed by a student chairman only. Other SGA Committees are headed by students with faculty advisors. This is the role (advisor) which faculty members should play on the Entertainment Committee. Faculty members have not in the past truly represented the students interests.

As a faculty member, particularly in the Music Department, an instructor too often is too busy with classes, choral and instrumental groups, and other problems arising from 'problem' students to devote sufficient time and energy to this position.

Drive-In College May Be In East Carolina Future

By LARRY BLIZZARD

Cars. That's all the guy saw. Honest. He was a visitor to our campus; "just passing through," he said. He wanted to see the place where I went to school, so I showed him everything—the dormitories, the classroom buildings, Wright Circle—everything.

But all that he looked at were the automobiles—the infinite variety of automobiles of every kind and description and color. I pointed out our newest classroom building, Rawl. "What kind of car is this—how much did it cost," he asked? "Do all of these autos belong to students?" I looked at him—sure, so he was from some place where there were not so many cars, but, heck, what did he expect to see. I tried to point out the glorious architectural aspects of our campus, and all that he was interested in was where did all the cars come from.

So, I thought, well, maybe the automobiles do constitute an important part of the college environment. They're colorful enough and with the sun shining on row upon row of the parked machines, obviously any person unused to the sight would be instantly overwhelmed by it.

What does this mean in terms of future trends? Well, maybe in time, the automobile will come to replace the classroom building as the basic academic facility on the campus. What I mean is a sort of drive-in-school where we could simply sit in our cars and take in the lectures through microphones like they have in drive-in movies. The library could be a big bookmobile, and the cafeteria could be like a drive-in hamburger stand. Even the student bank would be of the drive-in variety. All the buildings would be torn down and parking lots built in their place. We could sleep, eat, study, and generally spend our entire college careers sitting in our automobiles. Farfetched? Well, who knows. Wait and see.

EC Symbolic In Time Capsule?

Is Student Life Notable?

By J. ALFRED WILLIS

Suppose a project to place a time capsule in the foundations of the proposed football stadium came up before the SGA. (The SGA has had to contend with unusual proposals before, ask Bobby Ward what he has had to deal with on the Budget Committee.) What would they approve to represent East Carolina College as an institution of education and student life to archeologists of the Future (assuming that modern concrete will leave ruins and a future)?

East Carolina College student life is noted for not being notable. We might place in the time capsule a few of the written folkways of ECC—the minutes of the last SGA meeting (if they can be found), a copy of the REBEL (it may have to come from out of state), a copy of the EAST CAROLINIAN (if a dry one can be found, you know they are always "behind the student"), and perhaps a warped Buccaneer. Let's put in a few bent Falstaff cans, a multi-colored disk from Wright Circle, a rabbit in place of the dead mascot Buc, reels of unheard tape from WWWS, a bottle of acne medicine, a plastic table cloth of the Last Supper, a pansy from in front of the Music Hall, the organ of Austin, in fact let's put all of Austin in the capsule for Austin is filled with character (and characters) and memories. It is the only unique structure here.

Let's put in a wooden bench, a pony-tails, the arboretum; in fact let's all of us go into the capsule to be concretely sealed up instead of abstractly entombed.

Unexplainable Sensory Phenomena

Student Elucidates For ESP Skeptics

Dear Editor:

What is parapsychology? Many people ask this question and up to a few years ago I couldn't have answered it.

Parapsychology is defined by Webster as: "A branch of psychology concerned with the investigation of evidence for telepathy, clairvoyance, thought transfer, and the like, and with experimentation in the field of extrasensory perception."

In the past year I've become very interested in this subject. I have done much reading and am now trying to do a little research in the field of parapsychology.

Before we can understand parapsychology we should understand a few terms and their definitions. Telepathy is the reading of one's mind by another mind. Clairvoyance is the ability of the mind to read inanimate material. Precognition is the ability of the mind to foresee the future. Psychokinesis is the ability of the mind to affect inanimate material such as dice. These are just a few of the phenomena that parapsychology deals with. There are many more.

Many people are skeptical about parapsychology but I have proof that it exists and am prepared to show it to any that care to see. Below are just a few thousands of such cases:

"Woman, in Pennsylvania, dreamed that her four young sons had gone swimming, the nine-year-old in red trunks. This was the only color that made any impression on her, the woman later recalled. As the dream progressed, the children were caught in an undertow. The mother jumped into the water and managed to pull out all but the one wearing red trunks. Then she awoke. Several weeks later her nine-year-old son was caught in an undertow and drowned. Although he owned three pairs of blue trunks, he was wearing a red pair of his brother's."

Another example takes place in New York. "At exactly 3 A.M. one March 14, a young woman in New York awoke to hear her father in Italy calling her name: "Maria! Maria!" She had not seen him since she was a child, but remembered him well. Startled, she sat up in bed, and through the window saw her father's face. As she screamed "Daddy!" the vision faded away. Her family listened skeptically when she told them her story. Three days later they received a cablegram from Italy: The father had died on March 14 at 3 A.M. New York time."

These are only a few of many, many cases. Another account of this unexplainable phenomena happened to me this past summer.

A close cousin of mine left with his family for California for 6 weeks. After they had left, I dreamed that my cousin had returned that night. The next morning I was awakened by a telephone call. My cousin had returned from the trip early because his family was tired of vacationing. How could I have possibly known? Was it a lucky guess, precognition, or some other phenomena?

Any person having any such experience, I'd appreciate it if he or she would write it down and send it to me in care of Jones Hall 371.

I hope that those of you that are skeptical will read up on this most interesting subject of Parapsychology. If you want a list of books on this topic see me.

Sincerely, Alan T. Penn Jones Hall 371

What's Being Done To Improve Physical Fitness Of US Youth?

Dear Editor:

The physical fitness of American people today is at an alarmingly low rate. Recent tests given to young people in different nations show that fifty-seven per cent of the European children passed and only about three-per cent of the American youth managed to pass. What's being done about improving this condition in which American youth appears to be in?

The election of John Kennedy as President of the United States appears to be the big potential for putting our youth physical fitness program on the right track. Kennedy has shown a keen interest in developing the youth of today. The newspapers are building Kennedy up as a great touch football player. More than likely he was what the coaches call a "rinky-dink". But he is doing something about it.

The thought that perturbs me is the fact that no longer do we have to push a plow or chop wood to gain muscles and strength. The modern world of today supplies relentless ways of getting the body physically sound. In most cases a sound body will help develop a sound mind.

In the preceding paragraph, I stated that in most cases a sound body will lead to a sound mind. Have you ever had a day in school when it seemed that you were having test after test and your mind was so stale you couldn't think? Chances are if before that next test you had stopped outside and taken a walk around the building or had done a touch-toe exercise your test score would have been higher. The fact I want to establish is that everybody doesn't have to be any kind of athlete to be physically fit. Athletics are a tremendous way of developing a person into a leader and giving him a competitive spirit. Some people just aren't interested in sports. But, I can confidently say that most people are interested in themselves, and therefore should take pride in their physical condition.

Nothing instills confidence like having a healthy body. In every child who is born under no matter what circumstances, and of no matter what parents, the potentiality of the human race is born again . . . And with a strong, healthy body the potential of that child is unlimited.

Sincerely, Whitty Bass

Students Violate Mickey Mouse Code?

To The Editor:

Last week's edition of the East Carolinian carried an article dealing with the recent improvements of Wright Circle. The article was accompanied by a shocking photograph of a young couple sitting by the fountain. Do you realize that the young man actually had his arm around the lady? This is obviously a flagrant violation of the "Mickey Mouse Code of Ethics" to which our student women are supposed to ad-

Class Meetings Lack Enthusiasm SGA Support

By BILL EYERMAN

One of the most perplexing problems facing any aspirant of a class of is that of obtaining participation in class meetings. In the past the attendance at the class meetings was even lower.

With these facts in mind we now approach the question, "What is being done to remedy these problems?"

Our Student Government Association has done very little to promote interest at the class meetings. During the recent S. G. A. meeting, "representatives of the school" against a motion requesting a program that would promote participation at the class meetings. View of this action it can clearly be seen that our "wonderful" leaders are selfishly hindering the efforts of the classes in the performance of their respective duties.

Although many important issues are discussed at the S. G. A. meetings, it is an impossibility for all interested students to attend meetings.

Let it be known that the members of each class are sincerely interested in promoting class meeting participation. It is time we no longer let six or seven students make decisions in regard to the promotion of the graduation exercises. With the participation and thoughtfulness of every student we may be able to present a possible solution to the S. G. A. for approval or action.

Are EC Culture Enthusiasts Really Earnest?

By JEAN PEACE

Do we have a genuine interest in EC and its growth as the cultural center of Eastern North Carolina? Soon we will have the opportunity to display such enthusiasm.

Our Student Government is making the $2,000 grant to the college for the staging of lectures concerning contemporary problems in public affairs and the social sciences. Our college is one of nine in the nation to receive this grant from the Sports and Hutchinson Company.

Do we have enough interest to attend the lecture and benefit from our student activity fees? We are asking that our college receive a higher rating as a cultural institution. What better way could we find to achieve this recognition than to take interest in this student sponsored project?

EC can grow through the individual student only. Each of us as individuals must be aware of his rights as well as his responsibilities on the campus so that he adds to the greatness of this institution.

If we were asked, "What is education for freedom in a divided world, and how does it benefit us?" could we answer? Most of us would speak forth high-sounding phrases that mean little to us personally. The next would stutter for a moment then request that the question be rephrased.

Our Student Government is spending $2,000 to have this and other questions of similar nature answered by an expert in the field. Dr. George Buttrick, renowned lecturer and religious leader is coming to the EC campus October 9, to help us understand these values of education.

We are no longer high school students who file from homeroom to the auditorium for assembly lectures. Attendance is no longer mandatory. We are now college students who will someday be these assembly lectures. We should be grateful that the opportunity exists. If we do not attend for this reason, we should have enough curiosity to find out why the Student Government is spending our money in this manner!

Angel Flight Acquaints Campus With AFROTC: Plans Underway For Military Ball, Service Projects

By JEAN PEACE
White roses and a flag of blue field, white firing and the gold crest center once again symbolizes the EC Angel Flight of the Arnold Air Society.
Angel Flight is the coed auxiliary and sponsored by the AFROTC here on campus. The main purpose of Angel Flight is to serve as official hostesses for the AFROTC at dances, parties and socials.

In the past the Angels have furthered the recognition of the AFROTC and acquainted EC with the Air Force, the Air Age and Air Education. Angel Flight members wear uniforms which are designed and supplied by the National Headquarters in Pennsylvania. The organization is governed in a military manner by the National Constitution and its regulations. Officers are elected by members and are in command of the group.

Possible Drill Team
At present Angel Flight is composed of 17 girls. A drill team may be organized at a later date, but plans are not complete for this year. The drill team participation is on a voluntary basis. Miss Brenda Nunnery states, "Although time consuming, it is a definite asset to the company. Meetings are held once each week on Monday evenings; however, much outside time is devoted to service projects in this organization."

Lt. Colonel Norman F. Merritt, Jr. is in his third year of command of the AFROTC program, which includes the Angel Flight. Angel Flight is under AFROTC supervision; however, the girls are under no military obligation. There are over 100 Angel groups in the United States, working together through National headquarters. Each year the Angels hold a national convention. The EC group tries to send at least 2 delegates and a sponsor.

Our EC Angel Flight is of great benefit to the AFROTC. A spokesman for the group commented, "Angel Flight has proven to be very successful. They have contributed much to the favorable recognition of our Arnold Society."

Officers

Officers for the coming year were elected last spring. Brenda Nunnery will serve as Commander of Angel Flight with Sandra Nelson, Executive Officer; Nancy Baker, Administrative Services Officer; Linda Mills, Information Services Officer; Carolyn Vaneln, Historian Officer; Lana Bonner, Materials Officer; and Lynn Slaughter, Comptroller Officer. All girls enter Angel Flight as 2nd Lts.

Membership in the Angels is on a highly selective basis. Each girl must have a sponsor in the Arnold Society who is in good military standing. Prospective members are appointed on a point system which includes appearance 4, personality 4, interest 4, poise 4, and time 4. Girls may not receive a total less than 15 points. An Angel must receive the full 4 points concerning time and appearance. An orientation period for the new inductees is conducted before initiation.

With the coming of a new term, Angel Flight has "great plans." The Military Ball is in the planning stages, but with the "cooperation and the enthusiasm" of the Angels, the dance will be a "huge success." Throughout the year the girls of Angel Flight will serve punch and grace the parties of the Arnold Air Society with the charm of EC Coeds.

GENTLE FASHION

When she wants to feel fresh and cracker-crisp, then she wants an expertly designed shirt that says good taste. Trim checks enhance cotton lovingly cut to be worn with spirit. The rounded Bermuda collar softly flatters her face. Assured is the word for this shirt.

The Gant Story

We believe that Gant shirts have a certain well bred look that distinguishes them from all others. Careful tailoring and adherence to a strict tradition are qualities indigenous to Gant. The emphasis here is on meticulous detail in a heritage of conservatism.

Do you like a really neat, well fitting collar? Softly flared collar construction is gently RIGHT. Do you want to hang your shirt up? A trim hanger loop sees to that. Room to breathe? Oversize body construction is the answer. There's a full length box pleat back for trimness, too. Precise stitching lets the easy barrel cuffs roll up at mid-point.

The Gant shirt has been designed to serve you through a lifetime of correct dressing. There is painstaking workmanship in every fine Gant shirt... it comes from the expert craft of New England's finest shirtmakers. The craft explains why the careful details of these Gant shirts have been many times imitated but never duplicated.

Are You Anybody? At All!

When you're in a group of five, does someone usually say, "Let's all four of us go out for pizza"? When you start to make a move, do you often find that someone is standing on your feet? Does your roommate have difficulty remembering your name? Does your mother occasionally look at you in a puzzled way, as if she's wondering where she's seen you before?

Discouraging, isn't it? But things can be better. Right away. Pack your bag full of laundry and tippy-toe out to Colonial Heights Laundromat at Colonial Heights. On East Tenth Street. While your clothes are somewhat dreamily sloshing themselves dreamily clean in the Westinghouse self-service washers, chew through a copy of Emerson's "Self Reliance". Take the money you've saved by using the automatic washers and buy yourself a Nest Egg. Repeat this performance weekly. As the saved money mounts up, go from eggs to chickens. A lot of chickens. Trake the chickens for cows, the cows for a horse. Enter the horse in a Derby. Win first prize. Buy yourself an Alfa-Romeo convertible, an eight-and-a-half inch ivory cigarette holder, and special ground dark glasses. Laugh a lot. You'll be overwhelmed with friends offering you pizza, your roommate will mumble your name constantly, and mother will welcome you home.

But don't get too big for your bonnet. Don't forget where you got your start—at Colonial Heights Laundromat. Where you saved so much money, remember. Every night, just before you go bidie-bye, repeat to yourself, "Only Westinghouse tubs are self-cleaning. Colonial Heights Laundromat, good night."

Medusa was once heard to rave: "A new hair-do is just what I crave, With my Swingline I'll tack All these snakes front to back, And invent the first permanent wave!"

THE GIRL I LEFT BEHIND ME

It happens every day. A young man goes off to college, leaving his home town sweetheart with vows of eternal love, and then he finds that he has outgrown her. What, in such cases, is the honorable thing to do?

Well sir, you can do what Rock Sigafos did. When Rock left Cut and Shoot, Pa., he said to his sweetheart, a simple country lass named Tess d' Urbevilles, "My dear, though I am far away in college, I will love you always. I will never look at another girl. If I do, may my eyeballs parch and wither, may my viscera write like adders, may the moths get my new tweed jacket!"

Then he clutched Tess to his bosom and planted a final kiss upon her fragrant young skull and went away, meaning with all his heart to be faithful.

But on the very first day of college he met a coed named Fata Morgana, a girl of such sophistication, such poise, such savoir-faire as Rock had never beheld. She spoke knowingly of Franz Kafka, she hummed Mozart, she smoked Marlboros.

"You can hit me in the stomach, if you like."

Now, Rock didn't know Franz Kafka from Pancho Villa, or Mozart from James K. Polk, but Marlboros he knew full well. He knew that anyone who smoked Marlboros was modern and advanced and as studded with brains as a ham with cloves. Good sense tells you that you can't beat Marlboro's exclusive selectrate filter, and you never could beat Marlboro's fine flavor. This Rock knew.

So all day he followed Fata around campus and listened to her talk about Franz Kafka, and then in the evening he went back to the dormitory and found this letter from his home town sweetheart Tess:

Dear Rock, Us kids had a keen time yesterday. We went down to the pond and caught some frogs. I caught the most of anybody. Then we hitched rides on trucks and did lots of nutsy stuff like that. Well, I must close now because I got to whitewash the fence. Your friend, Tess

P.S.—I can do my Hula Hoop 3,000 times.

Well sir, Rock thought about Tess and then he thought about Fata and then a great sadness fell upon him. Suddenly he knew he had outgrown young, innocent Tess; his heart now belonged to smart, sophisticated Fata.

Rock, being above all things honorable, returned forthwith to his home town and walked up to Tess and looked her in the eye and said manly, "I do not love you any more. I love a girl named Fata Morgana. You can hit me in the stomach with all your might if you like."

"That's okay, hey," said Tess amiably. "I don't love you neither. I found a new boy."

"What is his name?" asked Rock. "Franz Kafka," said Tess. "A splendid fellow," said Rock and shook Tess's hand, and they have remained good friends to this day. In fact, Rock and Fata often double-date with Frans and Tess and have heaps of fun. Frans can do the Hula Hoop 6,000 times.

Marlboro, in the king-size soft pack and famous flip-top box, is sold and enjoyed in all 50 States. And king-size unaltered Philip Morris Commander, made of superb natural tobacco, is also available wherever you travel.

EC Visits Catawba After Guilford Win

MEN'S INTRAMURAL TOUCH FOOTBALL SCHEDULE INDEPENDENT LEAGUE

Coach Jack Boone's EC grid Pirates edged a stubborn Guilford eleven 17-15 last Saturday afternoon at Armfield Stadium in Guilford. Some estimated 2000 fans watched the Bucs come from behind three times before being victorious. The winning touchdown for the visitors was scored by Bill Strickland, a 190 pound Junior from Portsmouth, Va. The score came with less than four minutes remaining and the home team having a 15-10 advantage.

The other Buc touchdown came in the second quarter on a 37 yard pass from Dan Rouse to Tom Michel. The touchdown by the latter being his fourth of the young campaign. Bob Muldrow's 18-yard field goal and 2 extra points completed the scoring for East Carolina. Clayton Piland, Bob Bumgardner, and Chuck Gordon stood out on defense for the winners.

Pirate mentor Jack Boone was pleased that his ball club came through with the win. However, he was quoted as saying, "I'm not pleased with the showing our team made. The team was guilty of numerous errors and they must be corrected before we meet Catawba next Saturday night in Salisbury."

The Buc coach went on to say, "We know Catawba has a strong team and if we are going to stay in the ball game against them we are going to have to improve. EC appears in pretty good physical shape for the are light encounter as Boone's forces received no serious injuries from the Guilford contest."

The EC coach stated that, his team missed a couple of "home run" plays that could have been touchdowns and would have broken the game wide open for EC. "Overall, our boys never gave-up and I am proud of them."

EC will face a Catawba team from which Coach Boone anticipates nothing but "trouble". The Indians possess several fine backs with experience, as well as a strong forward wall. The Catawba field general is Jim Rose, a Junior Letterman, who had an outstanding Freshman year in '59, but was out with injuries last season.

Other outstanding backs the Pirates are expected to face Saturday night in Salisbury are Don Crouse, an excellent kicker and runner, from Littlestown, Pennsylvania; Jean Worthington, a Senior All-Conference letterman. Worthington led the conference in rushing last season with 703 yards. Also expected to give the Bucs trouble will be converted fullback Don Elkins. The 210 pounder was an all-conference end in 1960.

How The Student Body Can Help The Players

East Carolina's 1961 grid Pirates definitely have the makings of a fine football team. The potentiality of the team may not be reached until the latter stages of the season. A main factor in the progress of the team will be influenced heavily not only by the work of Coach Jack Boone and his capable staff, but everyone connected with the football squad.

When speaking of everyone connected with the team this means the entire East Carolina student body. This is something that the majority of the people fail to realize. When the players are on the field playing their hearts out to win, the non-enthusiasm in the stadium can be seen by the extremely poor yelling which the EC fans give their team.

It seems that this has been a traditional thing and it is high time for us, the students, to wake-up and realize that East Carolina's athletic fortunes in the future will rely a great deal on the support of the students.

Since EC is a prospective Southern Conference entry which is a "giant" step in the athletic program, why is it that the fans can not also take a gigantic step toward the spirit of this school? A good showing on the gridiron this season is extremely important toward the prestige of the college.

What can the student body do to help the team is not a hard question to answer. More and better pep rallies should be encouraged, the cheers at the games mean more to the players than the average fan realizes; congratulations should be granted to the players on their efforts after each contest.

These are just a few major items that can help the team's morale. Most high school games have more cheering than the so-called noise in EC's opener against Indiana State.

Saturday night the Bucs battle Catawba in Salisbury. All who can possibly make the trip, should go and cheer the Pirates on to victory. Last week a hand full of loyal EC fans witnessed the EC vs. Guilford game. But even a few fans, who can be heard from, help the cause.

On October 7, the "fighting Bucs" return home to play their Homecoming affair with Elon. There will be many EC grads returning to watch Coach Jack Boone's forces in action.

The student body should make an organized effort to get all out in supporting the team with a strong showing of inspiration that this ball club "wants" from the students. With the student body behind the team one hundred per cent (like we should have been all along) it can make a great deal of difference in their play.

The sooner EC students realize that we are a part of the team, the part that can play a tremendous inspirational role then the chances for a winning football campaign will increase. But until we get an organized effort for a better "East Carolina spirit" then we will continue to play the old traditional role of "let the players do all the work," because they are the only individuals involved in our winning chances.
