Nelms Appointed Placement Director

President Leo W. Jenkins has announced that Allan Nelms, Director of Foundations and Alumni Affairs at East Carolina College since 1959, has been appointed Director of Placement on the administrative staff. Mr. Nelms began his new duties January 1.

He replaces Jack Edwards, Jr., of Greenville, who held the position from July, 1960, to January, 1962. Mr. Edwards resigned to enter private business.

Mr. Nelms is a native of Rocky Mount. He is a graduate of North Carolina State College, where as an outstanding athlete he was a letter man in football, basketball, and baseball during his four years there.

After his graduation at State College, he began his career as a teacher and coach, first in Whiteville and later in Raleigh. From 1936 to 1941 he was connected with the Raleigh YMCA and during the next year he engaged in USO and YMCA work for the National Council of YMCA's in Montgomery, Alabama, and in North Carolina, South Carolina, and the coastal area of Virginia.

In World War II, Mr. Nelms served for three years in the U. S. Navy. During this time he was on sea duty for 27 months. At the time of his discharge he held the rank of lieutenant-commander.

He again entered USO-YMCA work for a year and then was with the Wolfpack Club at State College from 1946 to 1951.

As personnel director of Serv-Air Corporation, he had headquarters in Kinston in 1951-1956. He came to Greenville from Wililmington, where for three years 1956-1959 he was engaged in USO-YMCA work.

Allan Nelms

Mr. Nelms who is a member of the Rotary Club, the Elks Club, and the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity commented, "It will be a great pleasure working directly with the students. I am looking forward to helping students avail themselves of our services."

Sigma sisters serve refreshments to guests at their formal open house and dedication Sunday. The house was dedicated to Dr. and Mrs. Ray Minges by Mrs. Luther Lee, National Sigma Sigma Sigma Secretary from Greenville, South Carolina. The Tri-Sigma sisters moved in the house on Fifth Street in March, 1960. (See story on page 3.)

Veteran Teacher Ends 37 Year Association With East Carolina

Miss Emma L. Hooper, retired member of the EC faculty, ended an association of thirty-seven years with the college when she left Greenville in December for her home in Memphis, Tennessee.

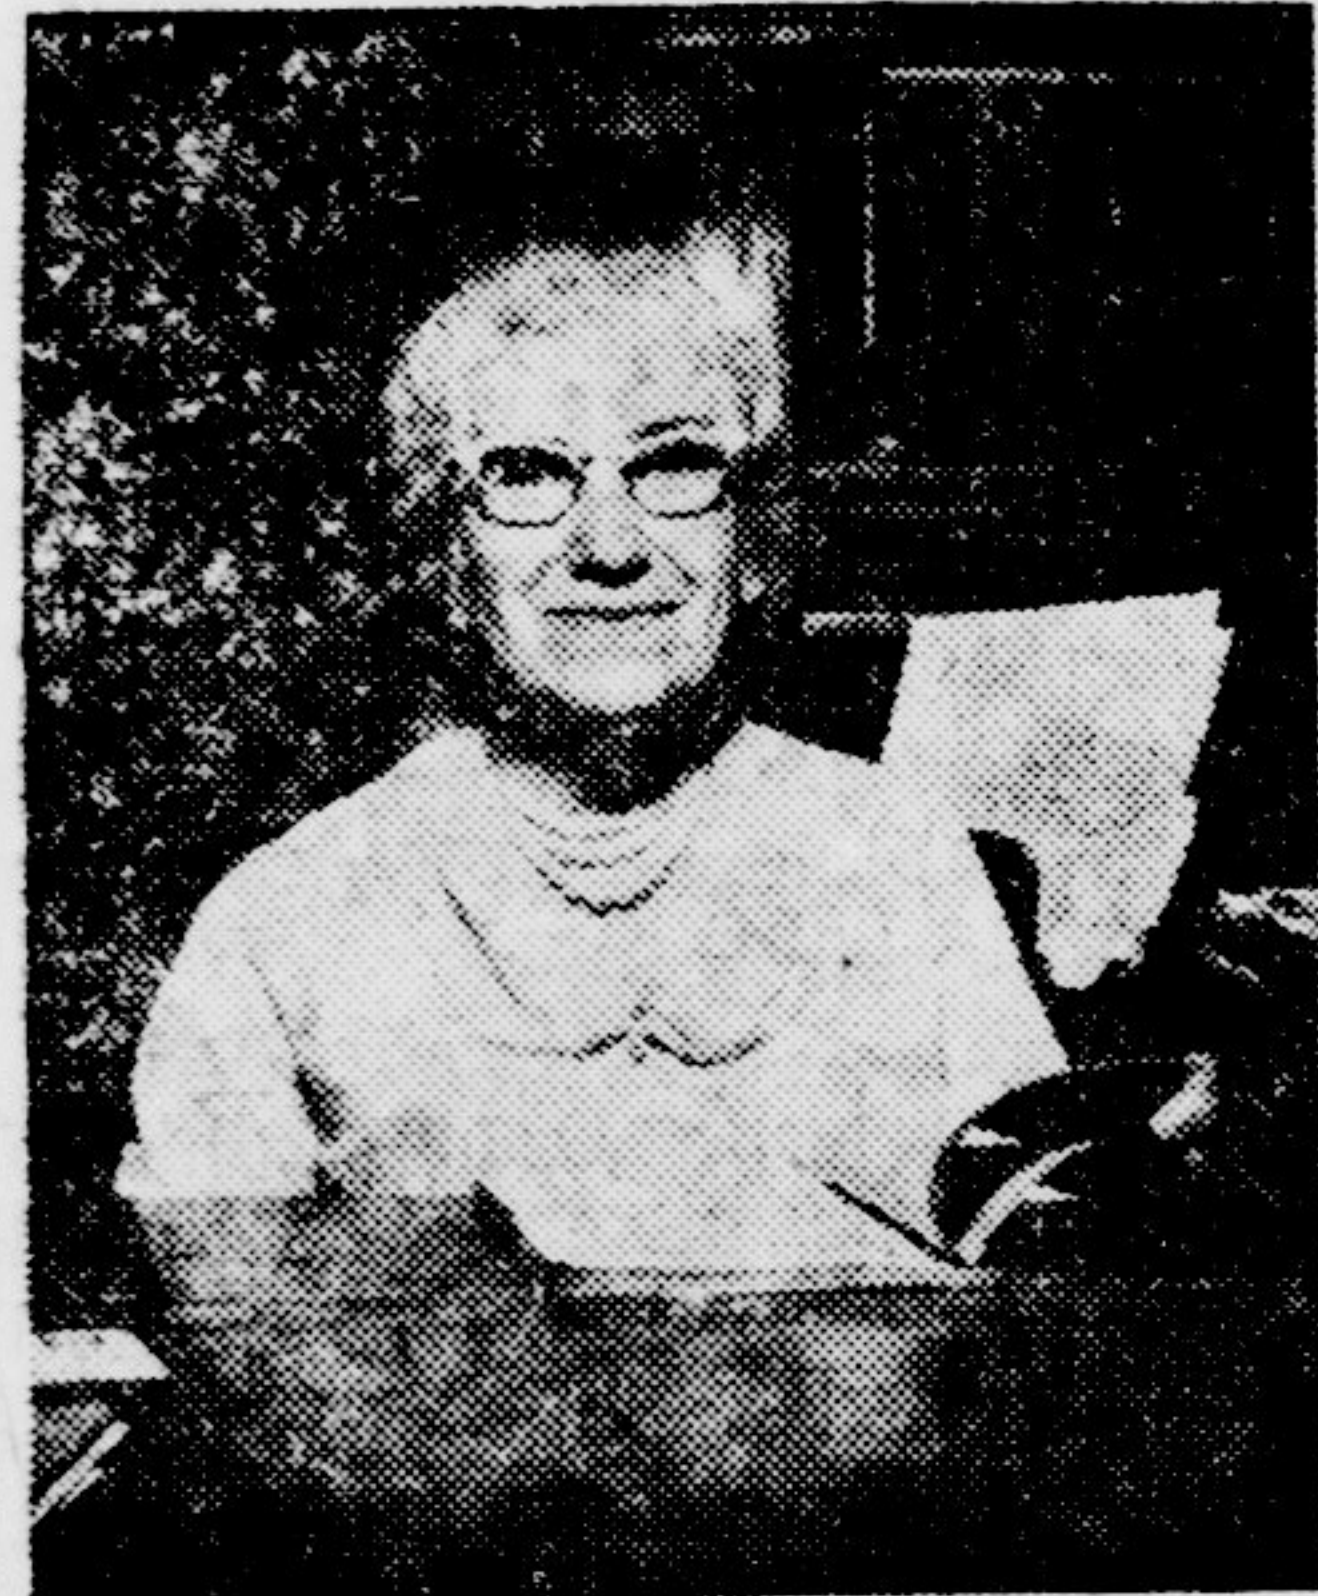

She joined the faculty of the Department of English in 1924 and continued her work as a teacher until her retirement in 1959. Since that time she has remained on the campus doing research work on a history of the college which she is now preparing for publication.

At East Carolina Miss Hooper served under each of the six presidents of the college and was associated with several members of the first faculty who began their work as teachers when the college opened its doors in 1909.

A number of her former students are now faculty members here.

Miss Hooper's services to the college were not limited to the classroom. Working with students taking teacher-training courses, she organized the Robert H. Wright Chapter of the Future Teachers of America in 1939 and acted as sponsor during her years here. The chapter, oldest in North Carolina and seventh oldest in the nation, won in 1953-1954 the Banner Chapter Award of the national FTA, an annual citation to the outstanding chapter in this country.

Emma Hooper

On the state level she was a member of the Advisory Committee of the North Carolina Division of the FTA and of the Professional Standards Committee of the North Carolina English Teachers Council.

From 1940 until her retirement, she acted as Chairman of the Advisory Committee of the East Carolina Alumni Association. In 1958 the organization presented her with a citation recognizing her outstanding service to the college and to alumni.

Writes Successful Play

When East Carolina observed in 1958 the Golden Anniversary of its founding, Miss Hooper wrote the historical pageant "East Carolina's Spade," which was presented as a major event of the celebration and attracted audiences of several thousand people to two performances on the campus.

Watches EC Grow

"Watching the great growth of East Carolina College over the years," Miss Hooper said, "has been a wonderful experience. I have been inspired by the dedication of the college to its ideal of service to education."

Speaking of her long residence here and of her "many happy associations with friends," Miss Hooper added, "I am glad to have seen Greenville's and Pitt County's unfailing loyalty to the college, climaxed this year by the staging of a Salute to East Carolina College throughout the county and by contributions of $265,000, made largely by the people of the city and county, for a new stadium on the campus."

Miss Hooper is an A. B. graduate of Mississippi State College for Women and received the M. A. degree in English from the University of Virginia. She has also done graduate work at Northwestern and Tulane and the University of Mississippi.

She now resides in Memphis, Tennessee, where she lives with her sister and her brother.

Record Applications Require Early Dormitory Registration

With a record number of applications arriving in the Registrars office each day, it has become necessary for women dormitory students to apply for room assignments early this year.

Room assignments for fall, 1962 will be made as follows:

Tuesday, January 9—Seniors
Wednesday, January 10—Juniors
Thursday, January 11—Sophomores and Freshmen

(Classification as of next fall will be considered official)

On Monday night, January 8, at 10:30 o'clock House Meetings were held in upperclassman dormitories to give those who wished to retain their same rooms, or rooms in the same building, the privilege of signifying such. At the House Meetings the application cards were given out. These cards should be filled out completely with ink before going to the Cashier's Office.

Please follow this procedure when signing up for rooms:

1. Take room application with $10 deposit to Cashier's Office and get application stamped paid.

2. Take room application to Jarvis Hall and sign up for room. If your name is printed on the chart you should erase it and put your name in your own handwriting. The assignment is not permanent until this is done.

The hours for assignments will be: 8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.; 1:30 p.m.-4:30 p.m.

Sperry-Hutchinson Winter Program

Committee Announces Buckley-Rodell Debate

EC students will have the opportunity of hearing a debate between William F. Buckley, conservative writer and speaker, and Fred Rodell, professor of law at Yale University, on January 25.

Buckley graduated with honors from Yale in 1950. He first came in the public eye with his book, God and Man. In this book Buckley commented on the question, "What are today's students being taught?" McCarthy and His Enemies was his next best seller. Buckley's third book, Up From Liberalism documents the contradictions of a bankrupt political tendency. (This book has been made available in the college book store.)

As editor of the "National Review" Buckley leads a team of America's greatest conservative writers. He has lectured in colleges and universities in every state but five. Lecture topics include such questions as "Is America Going soft?" and "Why has the quality of political debate so deteriorated?"

Fred Rodell who is to oppose Buckley is a renowned liberal writer and lecturer. He has contributed articles to magazines such as "Life," "Look," "Harper's," and the "New Republic." He has served as a contributing editor of "The Progressive," and as editor of "Fortune." Among his books are Woe unto You, Lawyers, Fifty-five Men: The Story of the Con- stitution and Nine Men. Rodell took his LL.B. at Yale Law School in 1931 with a magna cum laude. He served as legal advisor to Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania.

These two men are to debate at EC under the sponsorship of the Sperry-Hutchinson lecture series. Student Committee members, headed by Dave Haskins, and faculty advisors are making last minute plans for the forthcoming program.

Students who donated blood on the December 6th visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile may pick up their Blood Donor Certificates in the office of Dean James Mallory, Administration.

Education Departmental will be held Wednesday, January 10 in McGinnis Auditorium from 6:30-8:30 p.m.

Merle Summers, chairman of the Ring Sales Committee, has announced that class rings will be sold in the College Union Thursday, January 11, from 8:30 to 3:30. A five dollar deposit is required.

The Registrar's Office announces that today is the last day to drop a course without receiving an "F".

McCann Trio Unfolds Promises; Senate Vetoes Basie Concert

The Les McCann Trio's "concert in chitterlings" was a pure delight. For their first performance before the college set, the Trio had the appeal for what appeared to be an appreciative audience.

We must admit at this point that the SGA Entertainment Series is unfolding to be what it promised earlier in the fall. The Committee on Entertainment has done an outstanding job in bringing quality and a variety of entertainment to campus this year. Coming soon are the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and Ferante and Teischar.

We regret, however, the pre-holiday decision of the Senate to decline to underwrite Count Basie for a concert this month. Basie while on a trip south, offered to play here at reduced rates. Proceeds from the concert were to be donated to the new stadium.

Since the first decision against the concert, Basie offered to lower his rates even more, remembering his wonderful reception at EC this past summer. This time the executive committee, meeting before another Senate meeting was scheduled, voted down the concert.

Although Basie appeared at the annual Greek weekend last Spring, the student body as a whole has not been given the opportunity to hear him.

Cocky Subversives Threaten America's Foremost Heritage

An interesting trial has been set for February 1. The Justice Department has issued an indictment against the Communist Party for failure to register November 20, as an agent of a foreign power.

Party leaders were to register by November 30 and all party members by December 20. Not one registration was received. What happens now? In every instance the situation will be explosive. Each person must first be accused of party membership before the Subversive Activities Control Board. The Board then orders immediate registration with the order subject to review by the courts.

Conviction could mean a $10,000 fine and a five year prison sentence to each individual for every day of violation. The party itself could be fined $10,000 for each day past the deadline.

According to the FBI an estimated 10,000 faithful party members are in the US and failed to adhere to the ruling. The government has the authorization to move against these members and attempt to convict them. Court action taken against the party may determine to a great extent what the result in individual trials will be.

Is it that the party has become so cocky that they feel the US Government no longer is strong enough to curtail their activities? Have we Americans become lax in our attitude? Statements such as "Better Red than dead" have been floating around for months. At first it was a joke, but the comedy ceases to amuse. William I. Nichols, Editor of "This Week Magazine," recently objected to use of the phrase. His answer "Better brave than slave." He feels these words offer hope for free men who still find there are "things in life worth fighting for, even dying for."

Do free men have a choice? Must it be "Red" or "dead"? For certain the Communists will take advantage of every opportunity we offer them.

Bravery still exists today. Ten million have been brave enough to escape from behind barricades and walls set up by the Communists. These were no doubt well built, heavily fortified walls, but freedom and the brave cannot be easily overthrown. We cannot give up. Winston Churchill had faith in the future, "What is the use of living, if it be not to strive for noble causes and to make this muddled world a better place for those who will live in it after we are gone? Humanity will not be cast down." —J.P.

What Is A Fraternity?

Greek Brother Censures Fraternity Shortcomings

To The Editor:

What is a fraternity? We all have our ideas. Many of us go for the big parties with name bands and brands. Some like the "sharp" guys (many times alcos and flunkys in disguise). Some say, "Well, all the good looking women are dating me, because I belong to such and such a fraternity and if I didn't, I'd be from nowhere-ville." Are these some of the values to be derived from a fraternity?

Many fraternities are hastily judged by first impressions and showy exhibitions. However, many are not judged at all, just accepted or rejected because of their glorious heritage, or the lack of it. I dare say that the founders of some of the fraternities would be deeply hurt if they knew that some of the outgrowths of their tireless efforts were a disgrace to the word fraternity.

Every college of any size with fraternities is being confronted with these problems, and our growing East Carolina is no exception. Each fraternity here must do its part by facing these impending questions: What place has our fraternity on the campus of East Carolina College? Are we men who provide companionship to the extent that we never have the opportunity to be alone and think? Are we so blinded by our personal bigotry that we fail to realize that we may be trampling underfoot those who find us displeasing, those who can alleviate our distressing situation and rectify our shortcomings?

Holiday Accident Claims Student

Marian Mack Parrish, an East Carolina freshman lost his life in a fatal highway accident during the Christmas Holidays.

Parrish, a native of Sanford, was killed in a head-on collision on Carbondon Road near Sanford as he was driving toward Sanford on the treacherous, two-lane road.

The wreck was the most recent of many accidents on Carbondon Road.

Governor Praises EC Blood Donors

Editor's note: To comply with the wishes expressed in the following letter, we reprint it in its entirety.

Mr. Otis Strother, President Student Body
East Carolina College
Greenville, North Carolina

Dear Mr. Strother:
I recently read of what fine support students at East Carolina College had given to the blood-mobile program in Pitt County. I would appreciate it if you would express my appreciation to the students and especially to the student organizations responsible for such wide-spread participation. I assure you that the people of North Carolina can be proud of such spirit which I believe demonstrates the concern and maturity of college students.

With best wishes always,
Sincerely,
Terry Sanford

Carolina's Post-war Babies Apprehensive About College

During the post war years the baby crop in North Carolina reached great heights. Today that same crop is ready to enter our colleges.

Figures show, however, that all of the people who have reached college age in our state will not attend college. In fact, North Carolina ranks 49th in the nation in the number of college-age students actually in school. It is far below the national average of 30-40 percent of the college-age population in college. About 19 percent of the 18-21 year olds in our state are now enrolled in colleges or universities.

Attendance in college depends not only upon the college continuity of a community but the economic conditions as well. Also the problem of whether or not students are able to commute has a lot to do with the attendance. In areas where students can commute to college the percentage of at-

Legalized Parking Benefits Cooping Georgia Couples

Parking on campus is now legal until 11:30 p.m. on week days and an hour later on week ends. At least, this is the new rule at the University of Georgia. Previously, parking was prohibited in the dormitory parking areas for the "romantically inclined student couples." However, students complained that if they parked anywhere else—even under a street light—campus police ordered them to move.

"The university is neither doing nor promoting parking," said Joe Williams, Dean of Students, "but if they have to park on campus instead of on some remote country road!"

Tri-Sigma Sorority Sisters Prove House-Living Benefits Sisterhood

By JEAN PEACE

Ever wonder what it would be like to live in a sorority house . . . especially if you are a sorority sister yourself?

The first sorority house on the EC campus held its formal open house and dedication Sunday. Tri-Sig sisters were on hand to relate details of sorority living and the benefits of having a house.

The Gamma Beta Chapter of Sigma Sigma Sigma dedicated their house to Dr. and Mrs. Ray Minges of Greenville. Mrs. Minges is alumna advisor to the sorority and was recently honored when her portrait was hung in the chapter house, however, the dedication was a complete surprise. Mrs. Luther Lee, National Tri-Sigma Secretary, conducted the ceremony.

Tri-Sig sisters expressed their gratitude to Mrs. Minges for her time, effort, and guidance in making the house possible.

Every room in the house displayed a warmth and friendliness that is usually found only in a real home. It is a type of sorority living that is missed when sisters do not live together.

Thirty-two sisters live in the house which is designed for 33. A house president is elected whose duties are much the same as a dorm president. Each room elects a representative for the house committee. Girls living in the house are subject to the same rules as dormitory students.

Usually Tri-Sig sisters eat in the cafeteria, but groups of six may use the kitchen if they choose. They always have kitchen privileges for making sandwiches and snacks. Tentative plans are to make the kitchen larger and serve meals regularly to the sisters in the house.

Sisters from other colleges find the welcome mat out at the EC Trig-Sig house. "We are always happy to have visitors and are anxious to show our house to company," commented one sister.

Yeah, sorority life in a house seems to agree with the Tri-Sigs!

Delta Sigma Pi Holds Smoker Tomorrow

Ronnie Neal, pledge master of the Delta Zeta Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi, announced that the fraternity will hold its winter quarter "smoker" tomorrow, January 10, beginning at 7:30 p.m. in its Chapter Room on the corner of Fifth and Cotanche Streets.

Membership eligibility is limited to male students enrolled in the School of Business.

Film Relates Former Coed's Struggle To Use Hands

A film, "Hands of Hope," which shows something of the struggle of Ruth Bostian, former East Carolina College student paralyzed in 1949 as a result of diving in shallow water, has been produced by the Veterans' Association. This film shows Miss Bostian's present ability to use her hands with the aid of intricate braces.

As a pretty, blonde co-ed, Miss Bostian re-entered East Carolina College 1949, having left in 1943 to join the WAVES, organized as a branch of the U. S. Navy during the war. Ruth was an excellent student, working toward a degree in physical education and business; a beautiful dancer, and seemed to have a bright future. Shortly thereafter, she had her accident.

During the twelve years since Ruth has been in the Veterans' Hospital in Richmond, she has continued, though paralyzed, to read and to dream of being able to complete her college work. About a year ago, an orthopedic brace shop worker at the Veterans' Hospital made aluminum and leather braces for her arms, which enable her to write. Now, through correspondence, she is taking business administration courses on which she is making straight A's. She also tints slides for the Historical Division of the Medical College of Virginia.

Incidentally, when Ruth heard about the stadium drive, she was among the first of the alumni to make a contribution. She sent a $40 check.

"Hands of Hope" will be shown on "Carolina Today" at 7:30 Friday morning, January 12, and will last approximately five minutes.

Deadline Nears For Teacher Exam

Less than two weeks remain for prospective teachers who plan to take the National Teacher Examinations on February 10, to submit their completed applications.

Applications for the examinations must be forwarded so as to reach the Princeton office not later than January 12, Mr. E. M. Nicholson, Director of Testing, advised.

Applications for the examinations and Bulletins of Information describing registration procedures and containing representative test questions may be obtained from Mr. Nicholson, Box 111, East Carolina College, or directly from the National Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey.

VPI Exhibits Oil Paintings This Month

Now hung in the Hallway Gallery, Rawl Building, is an exhibition of oil paintings by students of fine arts at the Richmond, Va., Professional Institute. The art show will be open to the public through the month of January.

The exhibition is part of an exchange program between East Carolina and the Richmond Professional Institute, arranged with the chief purpose of acquainting students at each school with work done by contemporaries with similar interests. During February a print show by EC students will be on display at the Richmond Professional Institute.

All of the works in the current exhibition are oil paintings and are illustrative of a wide range in techniques. Thick layers of paint in several of the pictures demonstrate the richness of effect possible with the medium.

Music Teachers Meet At WC UNC

Music teachers from all parts of the state will congregate at Woman's College, Greensboro Friday and Saturday, January 12-13, for the third annual convention of the North Carolina Music Teachers Association.

The meetings are designed to represent two music historical periods. Friday, January 12 deals with 17th century music and Saturday, January 13, with contemporary music.

Dr. Glen Haydon, University of North Carolina, will speak at a banquet Friday about his recent tour of Russia. As one of two winners of state auditions, Anne Vickery, student of Paul Hickfang of the College faculty, will be presented in a program of music.

At a recital Friday in the School of Music Recital Hall, pianist Wolfgang Fetsch of the faculty will be featured.

The fraternities of EC will conduct informal rush Wednesday and Thursday nights of this week. Rushees will be required to visit only those fraternities in which they are interested. Hours of rush will be from 7:00 p.m. till 10:00 p.m. each of the two nights.

1961 Good Year For EC

The 1961 athletic year proved to be one of many advances for East Carolina . . . highlighted by winning teams in all major sports. The baseball team shared most of the spotlight, since Coach Jim Mallory's successful nine won the NAIA National Championship at Siouy City, Iowa. The basketball and football teams had winning seasons, but did not win any championships.

Two major changes occurred last year that should "really" place the Pirates on the map. On September 1, EC was officially a member of the NCAA. In the latter part of November the Bucs changed football coaches, with Clarence Stasavich from Lenoir Rhyne being named as Buc head football mentor. The former Bear mentor has won seven consecutive championships at the Hickory school. The coming in of Stasavich meant that EC will no longer be a "T" formation ball club, but will run primarily from the single-wing formation, which is rarely used by most colleges today. But Stasavich, successful with the system, hopes to carry his success to Greenville in fine fashion in 1962.

Last year produced many outstanding individual athletes who have departed from East Carolina. The basketball team lost Cotton Clayton, when he signed a professional baseball contract; baseball stars Floyd Wicker and Larry Crayton had some eligibility left at EC, but also signed professional contracts.

One of EC's truly outstanding athletes of the past several seasons graduated in May, but instead of signing a baseball contract, as did most of his teammates, Glenn Bass signed a professional football contract. The two sport star signed a professional contract with the San Deigo Chargers, he was traded to the Buffalo Bills, and almost did not make the team. But using the determination that made him a great star at EC, Glenn developed into one of the finest rookies in the American Football League and was an outstanding offensive end with approximately 55 pass catches to his credit.

In 1962, the gridiron season will have to open for EC without such linemen as Clayton Piland, Chuck Gordon, and Jones Lockerman. The backfield will miss halfback Tom Matthews and fullback Nick Hilgert. These are Seniors that are not easy to replace for any coach. These players were the polished ones who gave it that last effort which is so important in anything that an athlete tries. For the first times in 13 football seasons, Coach Jack Boone will no longer be in command of the EC Pirates. But Clarence Stasavich hopes to bring EC's football fortunes high as Boone's replacement in 1962.

Campus Station Televises Wrestling

Tonight at 7:20 p.m. the wrestling team will present an exhibition of collegiate wrestling. The match may be seen in the TV room of the College Union.

It is under the sponsorship of the TV guide and with the cooperation of the wrestling coach Odell Welborne. Bob Garret from Norfolk, Virginia and Bernie Colardo from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, two of EC's varsity wrestlers, will stage the exhibition.

The studios of WWWS-TV and will be fed over the closed circuit network on campus. This is the first of a series of wrestling matches planned for the Winter Quarter; the others will be announced.

The crew for the TV studio will include Wyatt Bissett, Chuck Lancaster, Bob Nelson, Rick Nitalli, and Ross Thomas. The show will give a demonstration of holds with an explanation as well as a short match.

Successful Year Brings Mallory Athletic Honors

James B. Mallory, Dean of Men and Baseball Coach was honored by two organizations during the Christmas holidays. Both honors were given in recognition of Mallory's success with last years Pirate baseball team.

The Raleigh Hot Stove League awarded Mallory the 1961 Will Wayne Award—an honor given by the organization to a North Carolinian who has made an outstanding contribution to baseball.

Coach Of The Year

As a second honor, the Greensboro Daily News named Mallory as Coach of the Year, recognizing him for his team's N.A.I.A. baseball championship last spring.

The Will Wynne Award, usually given to a professional baseball player, was given to catcher Smokey Burgess of the Pittsburg Pirates last year.

Mallory will be the guest of honor at the Hot Stove League's annual banquet in Raleigh sometime in February when the award will be presented.

The award from the Greensboro Daily News went to Mallory for his part in bringing to North Carolina the only major athletic title won by any Tar Heel senior college in 1961. Last year the award went to Duke coach Bill Murray. New EC football coach Clarence Stasavich won the honor in 1955, 1956, and again in 1959.

Championship Team

Mallory, during his eight years at EC has piloted the Pirates to six North State Conference baseball championships. His 1961 team finished a successful season by winning five of six games at the national playoffs to bring home the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics championship.
