Jenkins Heads Visiting Program

President Leo W. Jenkins will soon visit East Tennessee State College, in Johnston City, Tennessee, as chairman of a visiting committee of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

This institution is in the process of making a self study and the visit will be in conjunction with a group of representatives from the National Commission on Accreditation of Teacher Education.

Dr. Jenkins announced that East Carolina is also in the midst of a two year self study, and will be visited by Dr. Gordon Sweet, Executive Secretary of the Southern Association. Dr. Sweet, along with a team of educators, will be on the campus soon.

IBM Machines Speed Registration, Grades

Administration Adopts New Office Procedure

New IBM machines will be installed in the Administration Building sometime in May if present plans materialize. They will be used to speed up and improve registration and decrease the amount of time required to process students' grades at the end of each quarter.

At present 2-3 weeks are needed to prepare grade sheets to be sent out. In the future, if all professors turn in their grades at a designated time, the grade sheets will be ready for mailing in 12 hours, a saving of approximately 125 hours.

These IBM machines will also be used in publishing class rolls for instructors and in keeping students' permanent records. They will furnish statistics which are requested by boards of higher education, the Department of Health and Education, and accrediting associations which must complete annual reports.

This new system will not decrease the amount of help needed, only the amount of time required in getting work done. Tedious handwork will be replaced by job shifting. A typist, for example, will be a cardpunch operator.

Original machines for which contracts have been signed are the card punch, colator with counting device, sorter with auxiliary card counter, alphabetical counting machine with two-digit selectors, reproducing punch, and interpreter.

Requests for this project were first made in 1958 and have been refused until this fall when plans were finally granted.

Dr. John Horne, registrar, reports that he is "looking forward to getting the machines. It is going to be a lot of headaches to get it working efficiently, but it will speed up registration procedures."

Deans Remind Students Of New Absence Policy

Students are reminded, as of January 15, that they are personally responsible for reporting their excused absences to the appropriate dean's office (Dean of Men, Dean of Women). Only forms which have been properly endorsed by the Dean's Office will be accepted.

Requests for excused absences from class must be made not later than one week after the student returns to class. When the number of absences in any course for invalid reasons exceeds the number of credit points earned in that course, one quality point will be deducted for each excess absence.

Each student, in order to avoid possible point deduction, must report his absence or absences not later than one week after the absence has occurred.

Johl, Newberry Share Leads In 'Faust' Opera

By BILL DUVAL

The opera "Faust" by Gounod, to be presented in McGinnis Auditorium on February 10 and 11, will feature the talents of Peter Johl and Bill Newberry, both students of the music department.

Newberry will appear in the title role of Faust on Saturday night, February 10. Johl will portray this character the following night.

This is Bill's first major operatic appearance at E.C. He has sung in high school operas before coming here.

"Faust is the biggest challenge that I've ever had in this field," exclaimed Bill. He added that this opera is going to be a treat for the culturally minded student.

Peter Johl, senior voice major, has toured with the Grass Roots Opera Company, doing character roles. He also appeared in the world premiere of "The Hired Hand," the libretto of which was based on a poem of the same name, by Robert Frost.

Last year Peter played the lead male role in the Spring Musical, "South Pacific," and also sang a leading role in the opera, "The Old Maid and the Thief."

The role of Faust, an aged philosopher who sells his soul to the devil, presents many challenges to both performers. Says Johl, "While I have sung some tenor before, this is my first opportunity to sing a full tenor role. It presents many challenges — not only of a vocal nature but also of an acting one."

Buc tri-captain, Clayton Piland, (left) receives the All-State Football Certificate from Coach Clarence Stasavich. Piland was one of 22 players to receive the "Greensboro Daily News" award.

The deadline for letters of application for the editorship of the East Carolinian for Spring Quarter and Fall and Winter Quarters of the 1962-63 school year is February 9, 1962. Letters should be directed to Dr. James Tucker, Chairman, Publications Board, Administration Building.

Withdrawal From Human Race Answers Problem

We fear to dwell on the subject any longer, but nevertheless, criticism of an article appearing in the January 19 issue of the East Carolinian concerning the University of Illinois professor, Dr. Leo Koch, and his stand in heterosexual relations for college students is still creeping in.

Due to this criticism, we would like to bring to light another view expressed on the topic by a coed at the State College of Iowa in the campus newspaper, The College Eye. We neither endorse the opinion of the coed, nor sanction it for approval by college students . . . the same stand we assumed when we printed the article released by Campus Illustrated and concerning Dr. Koch.

Remember Koch said, "Sexual intercourse, with modern contraceptives and medical advice, readily available, should be condoned among college students sufficiently mature to engage in it."

In a qualifying statement Dr. Koch added, "College students can no longer avoid sex. They should participate selectively. To be specific, they should not sex without contraceptives; they should not sex for the wrong reasons."

On these statements, the Iowa coed begins to elaborate, "So college students are now so infantile that they should not be prevented from gratifying any of their desires. So it's unhealthy not to have anybody's normal desires gratified, at once and without fail.

"But, like a mother tucking a clean hanky into her little girl's pocket on the way to a dancing lesson, Dr. Koch warns us all not to go out and 'sex' for the 'wrong reasons', or with strangers, or if the act might fulfill its natural function and produce a child.

"Of course, we suppose if we were really in dire circumstances and didn't have anybody around that we know, Dr. Koch probably wouldn't mind if we had relations with a stranger or two. But illegitimate children could be inconvenient. He doesn't seem to define what the 'wrong reasons' would be.

"It seems to us that this whole idea leads to a 'brave new world' philosophy of let's-all-be-well-adjusted-and-normal-and-healthy-and-fully-satisfied-and-not-think, which we find very frightening. Dr. Koch's ideas are, to us, a denial of all that separates human beings from the lower animals. Isn't it normal to be frustrated once in awhile? Doesn't a certain amount of frustration lead to maturity and self-control? Isn't it good for adolescent development to exercise a little self-restraint? Is it wrong to decide that some things are worth waiting for? Isn't our society at least more or less monogamous? Isn't the whole process of having children sacred and private?

"Because if it isn't we will quietly withdraw from the human race in disgust."

And with this conclusion we wonder if the Iowa coed is frightened, as she infers, and if she didn't somehow miss the point. Well, we take no issue . . . simply found it interesting.

Tiny Germ-Like Friends Avoid Infirmary 'Comforts'

With the flu epidemic reaching its peak this week, we've noticed many whispering, rasping, and drippy-nosed students, as well as instructors, still battling it out . . . too stubborn to give up. We wonder why?

Obviously the campus germ-infested populace would do well to take its tiny germ-like friends to the infirmary. But, no. Students prefer not to give up . . . or is it give in?

Imagine an infirmary at a school somewhere up north (and there is one) where it is almost impossible to get visiting students (who allows visitors . . . that's enough to imagine) out of the rooms. The comfort is so comfortable there.

Students at the afore mentioned school are asking for cold germs so they will be allowed admittance to the infirmary.

Ah . . . such is life! Well, we can dream, can't we?

Jenkins Recognizes Athletics Essential Part Of Education

By MOSE CRUTCHFIELD

(Reprinted from the Greensboro Daily News)

EAST CAROLINA's action in serving notice that it will withdraw from the Carolinas Conference, effective as of June 30, was about the only course of action the college could take when presidents of other conference members Monday reaffirmed their intention of retaining the limitations on athletic scholarships which they earlier had adopted.

It was obvious from the beginning that the Greenville College could not operate its athletic program as it desired under these limitations.

And as it became more apparent that East Carolina eventually would be accepted for membership in the Southern Conference, it also became more apparent that the college would not operate under these limitations and thus jeopardize its opportunity to move up in athletic circles.

Therein lies a bit of thinking, which is somewhat strange in these days when de-emphasis of collegiate athletic programs is being demanded in many circles and when any increase in emphasis is viewed with something akin to suspicion in some quarters.

The phrase "big-time athletics" has become something of a dirty phrase in some instances.

Yet, here is a college, which not so many years ago was at the bottom rung of the athletic ladder, bidding to increase its program by several notches, when colleges about it and colleges with which it has had the closest of relationships are cutting back.

What is the thinking?

Athletics Vital Part Of Education, Says President

To Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, the president of East Carolina and under whom the college appears ready to achieve its athletic dreams of several years, the answer is simple, and logical, and in no way is a matter of emphasis or over-emphasis.

"To me," said Dr. Jenkins, "athletics are a very vital part of our educational picture especially in view of the record which we, as a state and nation, have been maintaining insofar as the serious record of draft rejectees is concerned. I believe we must give serious attention to encouraging as many types of programs as possible for the physical benefits of our students.

He continued with a point of view in which his thinking is at great variance with many other educators.

"I also feel that any young man who has the ability to pursue a college education and who can profit by same and who has an opportunity to finance this education through participation in athletics has as much right to do so as do other people with other fields who use their pay for their education."

Furthermore, continued Jenkins:

"The day of the tramp is far in the past and we recognize that fact. It is a rarity anymore to find the main of an athletic team Phi Beta Kappa. We encourage a vigorous program in athletics."

Such thinking, indeed, is different, even invigorating, at times when athletics have been something of a whipping boy.

Long-Range Plans Reveal Point Of Fruition

has received criticism for its objectives in the field of athletics and in other fields for that matter.

Yet, the college is growing a tremendously fast pace and of vision connected with the college long ago knew that these changes must come, and made plans for these changes.

In the way of athletics, D. Messick, who presided over the college as president, actually laid the groundwork for the move now in process of fruition. He envisioned a program for the college, a comprehensive athletic program, including intercollegiate sports and intramural sports.

He initiated a move to saw alumni and other friends contribute $27,000 to a fund to prove athletic facilities and saw the General Assembly appropriate the sum of $25,000 to go with it. Then, when the health and physical education building was constructed, he succeeded in having the seating capacity raised from the present 1,800 to approximately 2,500. He recognized as being too small the time.

Three years ago, just before leaving the college, he submitted plans for a complete athletic stadium to be constructed over a period of 10 years, and succeeded in getting tennis courts. During this time, the college made its initial bid for membership in the Southern Conference. Since Dr. Messick's departure, Dr. Jenkins has pursued the program energetically, adding wherever needed, and now has a stadium under construction. It seemingly has other athletic facilities within range.

"It is not a matter of emphasis," reiterated Dr. Jenkins. "It is a matter of merely trying to determine where we should be for a college of our size. We are proud of our national champions in basketball and swimming.

"We want teams that will present us in the finest fashion possible playing teams of institutions of comparable size and resources."

African Students Desire Success; Rank High In Academic Averages

By KAYE BURGESS

Nearly half of the African students come from two countries—Nigeria and Kenya. Three out of four were single and 88% were male. Although the largest number were of the advanced sophomore level, 27% were doing graduate work.

Mostly Social Science Majors

Over a third were studying social sciences, 16% were in the physical or natural sciences, and only 9% were in engineering.

The intensity to learn makes the African a good student. With only 6% reporting academic difficulties, the average grade was a strong B-. In the personal interviews, the African students revealed their keen desire to succeed. Asked to rate their progress, 34% interviewed felt they were doing average work. Actually, 60% reported grades above average.

Though only 12% of the African students listed discrimination as a major problem, 77% of the 1,000 polled reported incidents of discrimination. The most frequent source of discrimination proved to be restaurants. Particularly disturbing to many Africans was the attitude of Americans who discriminate against American Negroes, but not against Africans. A student at a large Eastern university reported he was not served by a restaurant the day he wore an American suit but was served the next day when he wore his native costume.

Housing Difficulties

Housing, with 32% reporting difficulties, was another troublesome discriminating area. The survey reveals that Americans who are otherwise friendly to Africans often decline to rent rooms to them. One African commented, "they are more friendly when they know I am from Africa, but when you ask to rent a room, they refuse. Then I know they did not have any genuine friendship."

More students in the North reported discrimination in housing than students in the South—largely due to the fact that more Africans in Southern schools live in dormitories. However, white landlords are not responsible for all the doors which are closed to Africans. One African in the South stated, "The college arranges for off-campus rooms in Negro areas. When we get there and the landlord realizes we are Africans, he usually won't rent the room to us."

African Student—American Negro

The most startling result of the IIE African survey was the evidence of friction between many African students and American Negroes. Contrary to popular belief, these two groups do not make friends easily, leaving the average African with a sense of disappointment. These feelings were also reported at Negro institutions where possible friendships for Africans would seem to be greater.

In personal interviews, an African man at a midwest school stated, "Africans have been brought up in one culture and American Negroes are victims of circumstances in another culture and don't know where they belong."

Though the emotional turmoil of homesickness, adjustment and discrimination may have a more dramatic flavor, the biggest problem of the Africans was an economic one. More than a fourth listed finances as their most serious problem while two-thirds admitted having money difficulties at some time during their stay.

The extent of financial difficulties, however, appeared to make no real difference in the student's grades or in their satisfaction with the education they received in America.

Peace Corps To Administer Placement Tests In Goldsboro

The placement test for those who wish to enroll in the Peace Corps will be administered Saturday, February 17, in Goldsboro. The tests will be held at the Goldsboro Main Post Office and will begin promptly at 8:30 a.m. The placement test is divided into two batteries, each requiring 4 1/2 hours. An optional hour of additional testing will be offered in the afternoon. A general examination is given to all applicants who wish to be considered for any Peace Corps position except teaching positions on the secondary-school and the college levels. The examination for secondary school teachers is for all applicants who wish to teach in secondary schools or at the university level. These two examinations will be administered concurrently during the morning. The general examination includes tests in verbal aptitude; in one of four fields of general knowledge—agriculture, health sciences, mechanical skills, and English; in U. S. history and institutions; and in modern language aptitude. The applicant may choose from the four general knowledge tests the option which is best related to his background and experience.

Those taking the examination for secondary school teachers must take one of six tests in the fields of mathematics, biology, chemistry, physics, literature, or world history; and also the United States History and Institution Test and the Modern Language Aptitude Test. The additional hour of testing in the afternoon provides for all applicants opportunity to take a second general knowledge test or a test of Spanish or French proficiency.

ABC Sponsors 'Meet The Prof' TV, Radio Series

"Meet the Professor," a nationally broadcasted program sponsored by the Public Affairs Office of ABC News in cooperation with the Association for Higher Education, NEA, began its television and radio schedule January 28. The 25-program series is broadcasted every Sunday, 2:30-3:00 p.m., EST, on ABC-TV and every Monday, 9:00-9:30 p.m., EST, on ABC-Radio.

Each week, "Meet the Professor" features a professor representing a different discipline from a different type of college and from a different geographical location. The professor is seen and heard in the classroom, laboratory, and office; emphasis is on his professional life in teaching, research, and public service.

Temporarily scheduled for the February telecast is Professor Edwin Yates of the University of South Florida in Tampa. A professor of mathematics, Dr. Yates makes math lively through his dramatic presentations of mathematical concepts.

On February 5, ABC-Radio will feature a show featuring Professor Charles Colbert of Columbia University. Colbert is Dean of the Faculty of Architecture at Columbia and combines teaching, administration, and private professional work.

Delegates Attend Asian Conference

Three faculty members and three graduate students represented East Carolina at the First Annual Southeast Regional Conference on Asia during the weekend at Duke University.

The meeting was sponsored by the Association for Asian Studies, an organization composed of representatives of American, Canadian, and other foreign colleges and universities. The program included papers on South Asia, East Asia, and modern Asian literature.

Faculty members who attended were Dr. Lawrence Brewster and Dr. George Pasti, Jr., of the Social Studies Department and Dr. J. A. Withey of the English Department. Graduate students representing the college were Nelson Blount, Artemis Kares, and Joe W. Cook.

Dr. Withey returned to East Carolina this year after a year of research in Burma as a Fulbright scholar. Dr. Pasti held a fellowship in the Center for East Asian Studies at Harvard during 1959-1960.

Educator To Deliver Modern Math Lectures

Dr. R. Creighton Buck, professor of mathematics at the University of Wisconsin, will give a series of three lectures here February 8 and 9.

The visit of the distinguished educator and mathematician to the college has been arranged by the Mathematical Association of America, which each year sponsors in various colleges and universities of the nation series of lectures in modern mathematics.

Dr. Davis, of the Mathematics Department, stated that Dr. Buck's lectures at East Carolina will be delivered in the Joyner Memorial Library and will be open to all who are interested.

Topics and times of meeting are as follows: "Atoms, Trees, and Algebraic numbers," 4 p.m. and "The Changing Undergraduate Curriculum," 8 p.m., both on February 8; and "Linear Spaces and the Calculus" 10 a.m. February 9.

Individual conferences held by Dr. Buck with students and others have been scheduled for 5 p.m. through 5:30 p.m. February 8 in the Joyner Memorial Library.

Dr. Buck will be guest of honor February 8 at a dinner held in the Buccaneer Dining Room at 6 p.m.

He has taught at Brown University and since 1950 at the University of Wisconsin. As a Guggenheim Fellow, he was professor at Sanford University in 1958-1959. The following year he served as a staff member of the Communications Research Division of the Institute for Defense Analyses at Princeton.

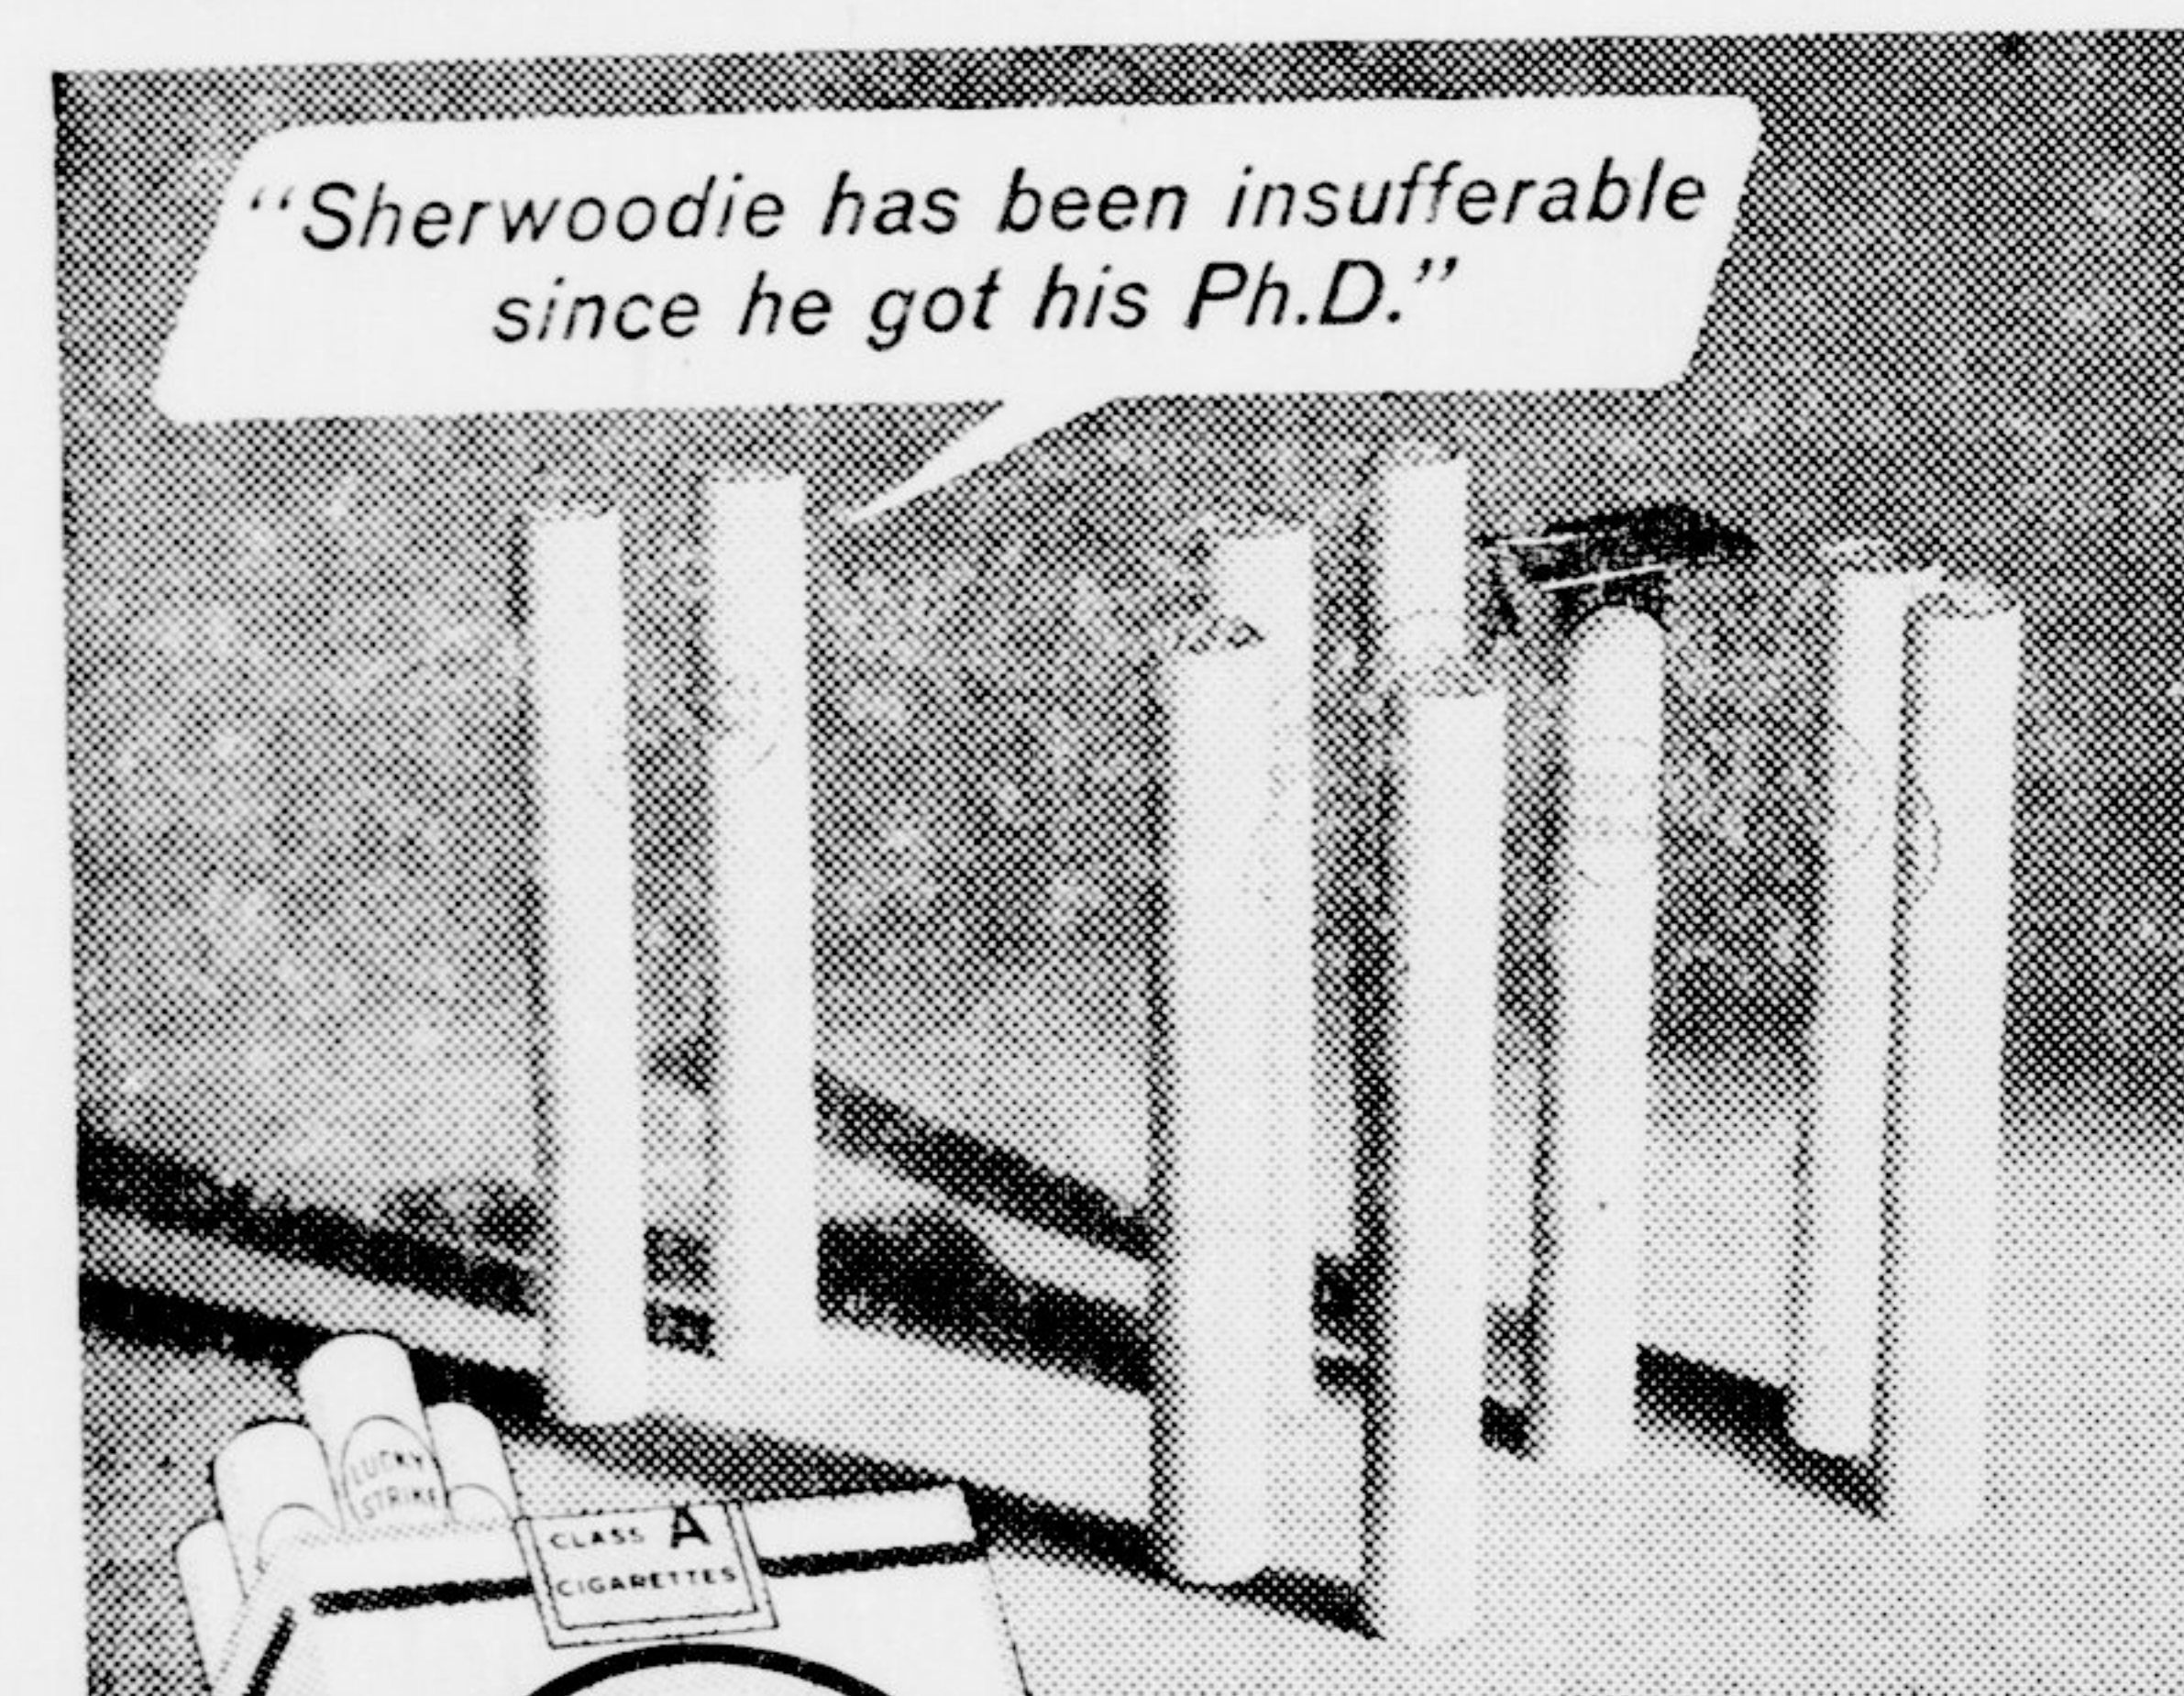

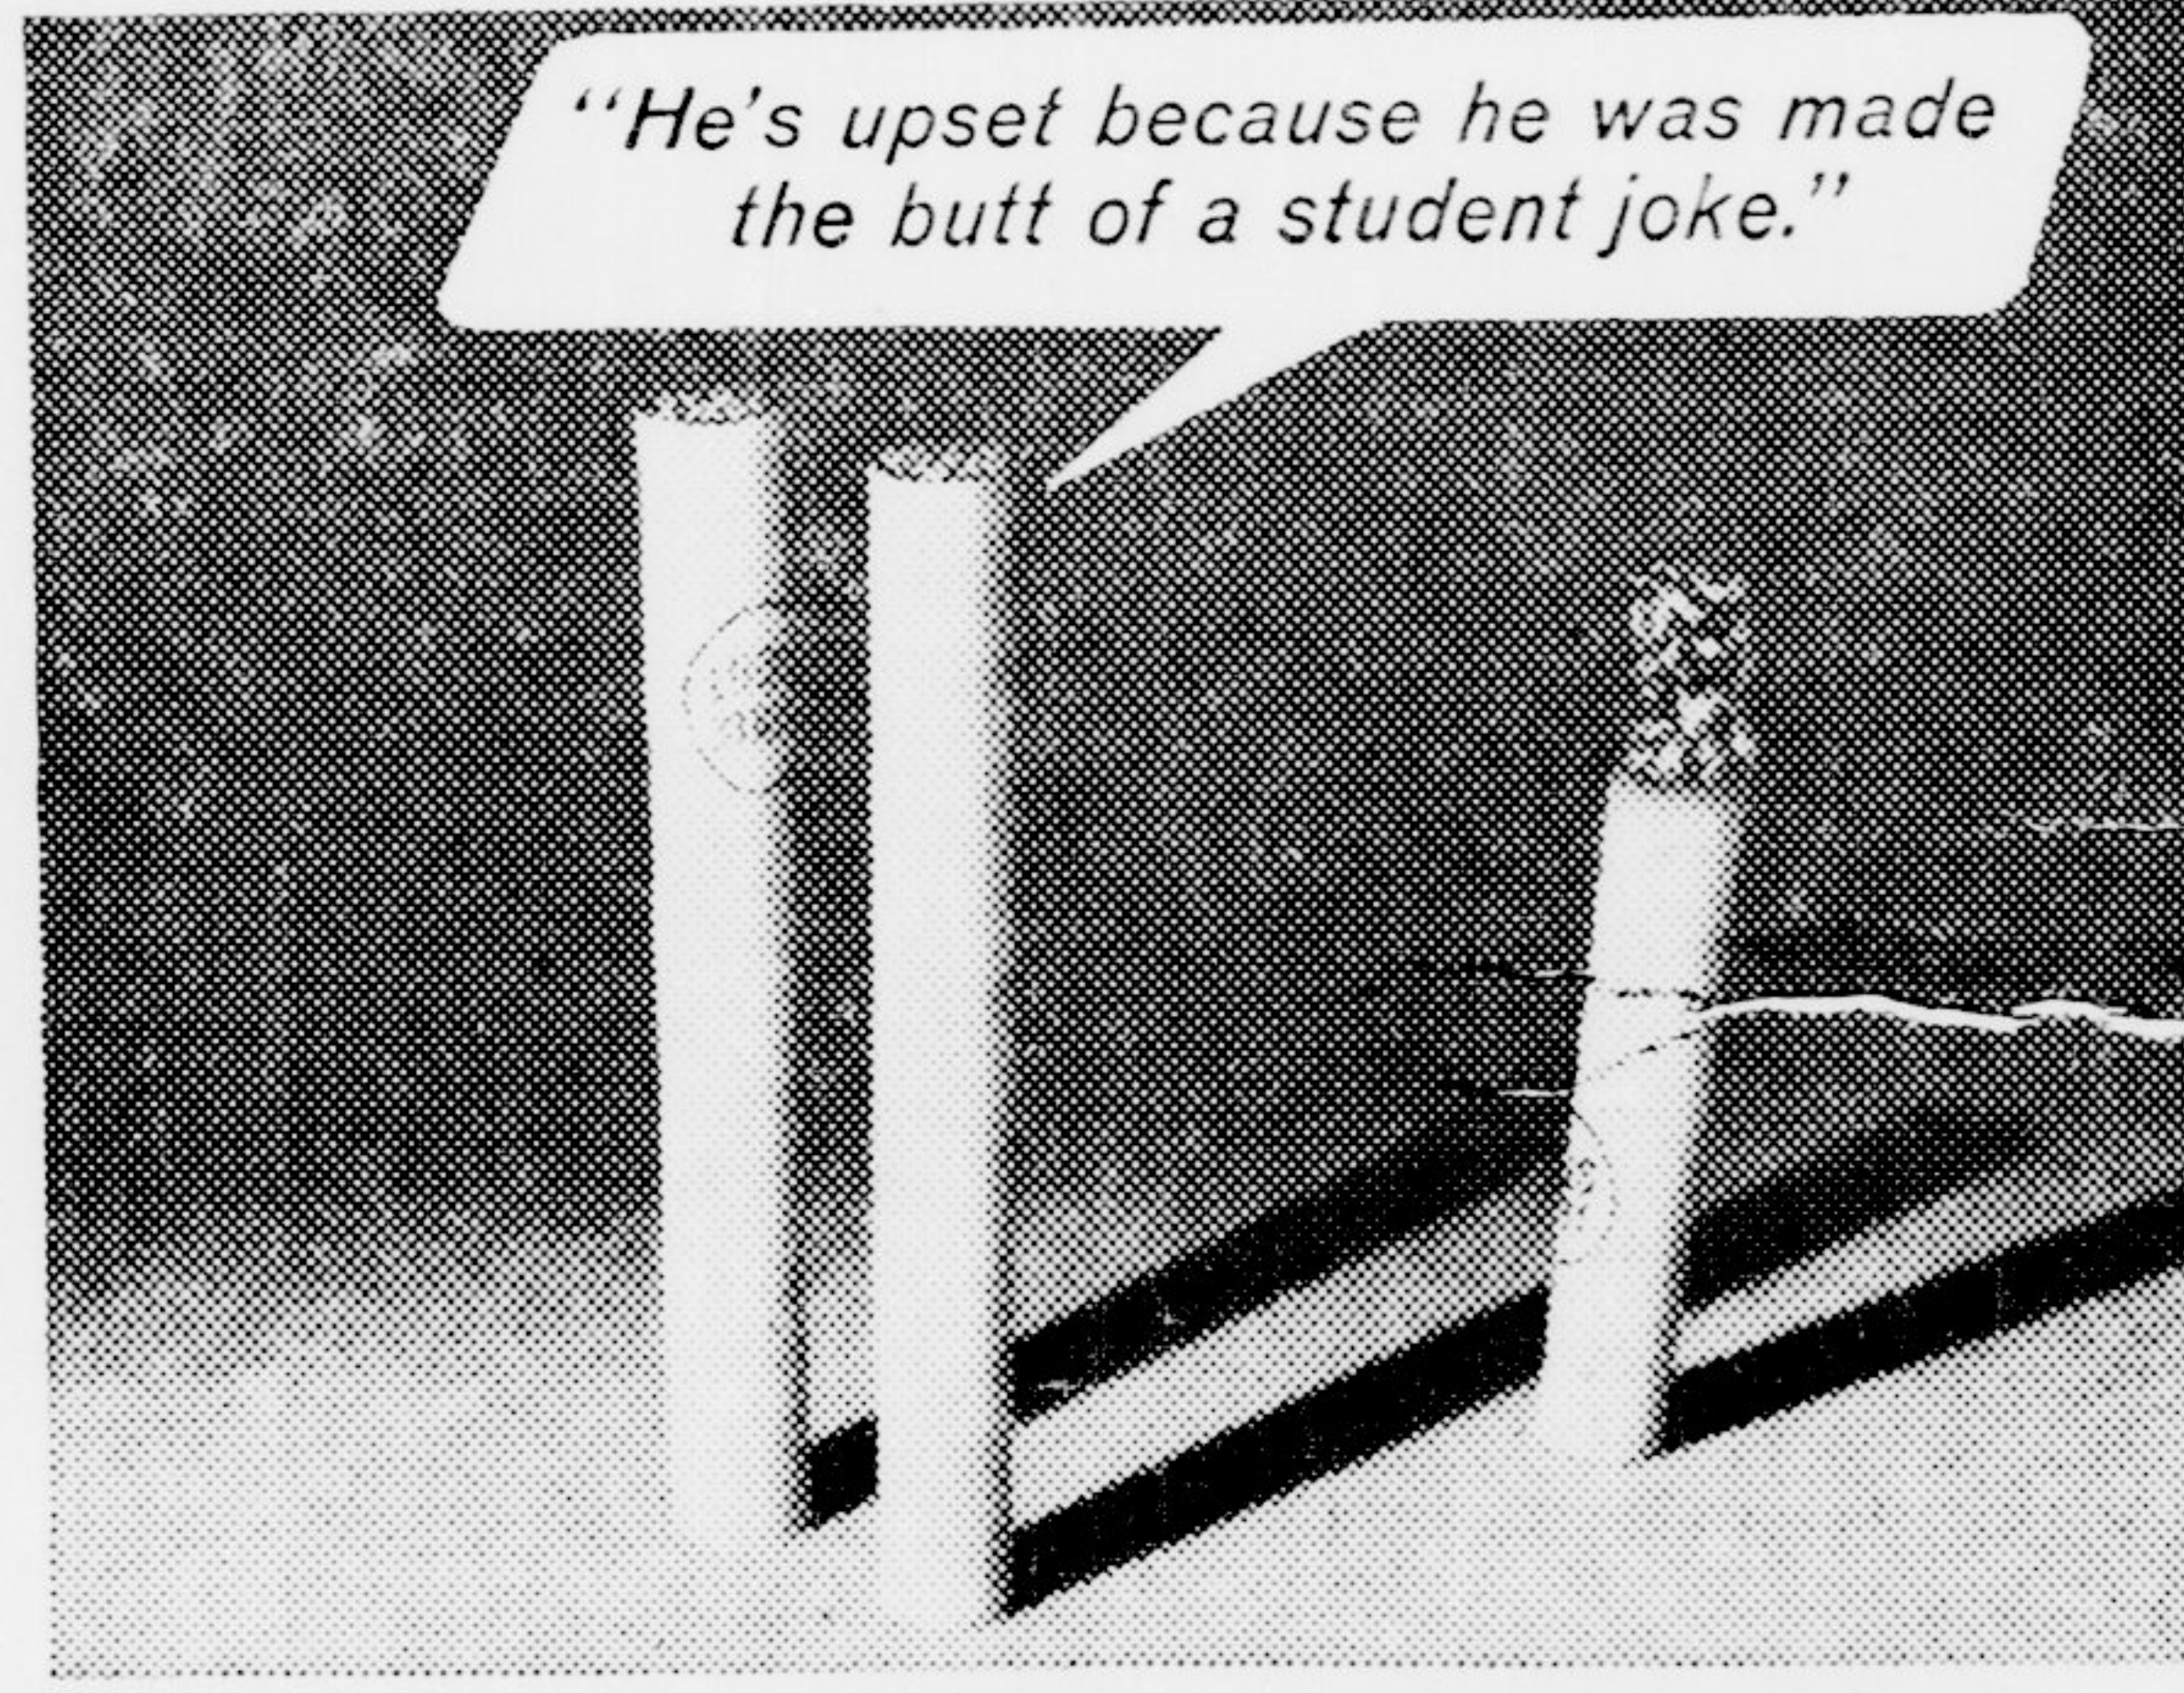

He now holds the position of Chairman of the Committee on the Undergraduate Program of the Mathematical Association of America.

LUCKY STRIKE presents: LUCKY JUFFERS "THE FACULTY TEA"

THE PROFESSORIAL IMAGE. It used to be that professors, as soon as they were 28, took on a father image—rumpled tweeds, tousled hair, pipe. But these days, the truly "in" professor has the "buddy" look—ivy suit, crew cut, Lucky Strikes. It seems that students learn more eagerly from someone with whom they can identify. Alert teachers quickly pounce on the fact that college students smoke more Luckies than any other regular. Have you pounced on the fact yet?

Pirates Claim Seventh Straight Conference Win

The Pirates gained their seventh conference win Saturday night by defeating Pfeiffer 91-84.

The win moved the Bucs into a tie with Elon for second place in the Carolinas Conference standings with both teams 7-3. Lenoir Rhyne remains at the top of the list with a 10-2 conference record.

Nip And Tuck

The first half of the Pirate-Falcon contest was a nip and tuck affair with the lead changing hands three times and the score being tied six times during the first stanza.

When the horn sounded ending the first half, the scoreboard showed EC ahead by one point, 38-37.

When the teams returned to the court for the second half the Bucs wasted no time in pulling ahead 41-37 on a three-point play by Billy Brogden. The 6-foot freshman started the contest in place of Benny Bowes who is out with a sprained ankle.

Tied At 41-41

Pfeiffer tied the score again at 41-41 on field goals with 19 minutes remaining on the clock. The Pirates were quick to recover when Lacy West hit two straight field goals putting the Bucs ahead 45-41 and out in front to stay.

However, the Falcons almost tied the game again at 45-45 when Blake dropped in a free throw and Harold McManus hit on a field goal. Pirate Co-Captain Charles Lewis had three field goals in a row to strengthen the EC lead at 53-44.

The closest the Falcons could get during the remainder of the contest was within three points of the Pirates with about 10 minutes left to play. However, field goals by Otte, Brogden, and Richie Williams put the Bucs back on safe ground.

Bucs' Biggest Lead

EC had its biggest lead with four minutes left at 79-68. During the contest the Pirates hit 50 per cent from the floor, dropping in 37 of 74 attempts.

Coach Earl Smith played only six men and all but one hit in the double figures. Russell Knowles played two minutes in the first half and picked up two points. The high scoring senior co-captain sunk 11 from the floor and one from the line boosting his season average to 16.4.

The other Pirates hitting the double figures were West with 15, Williams with 18, Otte with 12, and Brogden with 21. Otte now has an average of 13.5. West is 10.4 and Bowes, who has not played the last two contests has a 10.1 average.

Frank Scores

High scorer of the night for Pfeiffer was Bobby Frank with 26 points. The 6-foot 8-inch senior hit 10 from the floor and six of 10 from the line for his total.

Versatile Zschau Aids EC Swimmers

Ed Zschau, a top-notch swimmer and Co-Captain of the Pirates, is doing a tremendous job in the backstroke department. Ed holds the EC Varsity record for the 200 yard backstroke.

His time is 2:17.5. Zschau has proven to be the most versatile swimmer of recent EC history. His stroke is not limited to the backstroke, for his butterfly, breaststroke, and freestyle are also excellent. With his many assets, Ed is averaging 8.6 points per meet for the Pirates.

Clarence Stasavich

Stasavich Announces Winter Football Drills

By DAN RAY

"Winter football drills will begin February 12, with between 50 to 60 candidates expected to participate," according to Clarence Stasavich, head Pirate football coach.

Stasavich went on to say that "delay has been due to preliminary plans, particularly in organizing the program for effective teaching."

Staff meetings are being held at every available opportunity to acquaint the coaches with each other's thinking in regards to what they plan to teach.

Emphasis

When asked where the majority of emphasis would be placed, Coach Stasavich explained, "As far as emphasis, defense will be the major factor. If the other team can't score you, they can't beat you."

"The tendency through the past four years," according to "Stas," has been to emphasize defense, as can be seen by observing the teams in the national standings." However, he also made it clear that a sound kicking game will be worked on.

Single Wing

The single wing offense will be introduced and no difficulty is anticipated. Since the blocking efficiency of a team is the essence of offense, the blocking team will gain on offense, regardless of formation.

Coaching Staff

The coaching staff will consist of Odel Welborn as defensive coach, working on the line; Sal Gero, offensive line coach; and Ray Pennington, working with the ends. Coach Stasavich said that he would be coaching the backfield. Attempts are being made to schedule as many Southern Conference teams as possible for the seasons of '63 and '64. Many of the Southern Conference teams schedule their games as far as four years in advance, and this makes it difficult for E.C. to schedule them.

The N.C.A.A. limits winter drills to 20 days of practice within a 36-day period, exclusive of holidays. Nevertheless, much will be accomplished during this period, and we can expect further comments from our head football mentor concerning the team's progress.

Bridge Players To Enter Intercollegiate Tournament

EC will be one of the more than 200 colleges, universities, and junior colleges throughout the country to participate in the 1962 National Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament February 18-26.

Scarlett Nillery, local tournament director, will serve as director for campus competition, sponsored by the Association of College Unions.

Traveling trophies and plaques will be given the college participants winning the national titles — one cup for the college of the team scoring highest on the East-West hands and one cup for the college of the North-South hand winners. Each of the four individual national winners will receive a smaller cup for his permanent possession. In addition, campus winners will receive a certificate suitable for framing.

All play will be by mail and will be conducted on the individual campuses in a single session, on a date fixed by the Tournament Director between February 18-26. The hands will be judged by William Root, contract bridge authority, who, along with Charles Goren, noted bridge expert, will determine campus, regional and national winners. Last year Emily Holliday, Bobby Bumgardner, and Bill Wright, Wilbur Newman, were the local campus winners in the competition, in which teams representing Harvard University and Stanford University won the national championship titles and trophy cups.

Honors Bring Smile To Mallory, Jenkins

East Carolina Baseball Coach Jim Mallory beamed with joy recently at the Raleigh Chapter of the Hot Stove League's 12th annual banquet.

The Pirate Coach who piloted his 1961 team to the championship last June and who is Dean of Men here was the center of attraction at the annual luncheon.

Mallory was presented the Will Wynne Award as the North Carolina coach who contributed the most to baseball in 1961.

President Pleased

However, Mallory was not the only E.C. representative at the banquet who was smiling the whole time. President Leo W. Jenkins was on hand with a smile that showed how proud East Carolina was of the recognition received from the Hot Stovers.

Mallory's award was not the only credit that went to East Carolina. In an indirect way EC received another award. Sports Editor Bruce Phillips of the Raleigh Times, who is an alumnus of the college, received the sports-writer's award from the Hot Stove League which was presented by Dr. J.W.R. Norton, State Health Director. This award was presented for Phillips' contributions to baseball during his years with the capital city newspaper.

President Jenkins described Coach Mallory as "a man who elects to do more than others."

Mallory's Merits Praised

Walter Rabb, University of North Carolina baseball coach and assistant athletic director, praised Mallory's work as a coach and an educator.

Rabb, in commenting on Mallory, said, "He is a civic leader and a hard worker." The Tar Heel coach also noted that Mallory has been a member of many committees and has excelled as a leader of the Boy Scouts in his community.

However, Coach Rabb did say that he is glad Mallory's team is not in the same league as the University, adding that many of the N.A.I.A. schools are just as tough as the NCAA institutions when it comes to fielding baseball teams. "We have to play East Carolina this season and I hope you don't read the score too closely," said.

In accepting the Will Wynne award which was in the form of a plaque, Mallory told that his acceptance was "on behalf of the boys he has coached, especially to the 13 members of the East Carolina team that made the trip to Sioux City, Iowa, in June." Mallory added that the players that really made the difference were the ones that Coach Mallory also commended that the national honors brought home "reaffirmed the value of today's youth."

Table Tennis Tournament Set

Greenville Table Tennis Club president, William Stancil, has announced that many EOC schools have already entered the "Carolina Open" table tennis tournament to be held at the Club on Dickinson Ave., this weekend.

SPORTS REVIEW

By RICHARD BOYD

The spirit was there Tuesday night when EC defeated Appalachian with a brilliant rally. It was a hard earned "comeback" victory for Coach Earl Smith's five. The win was a crucial one, in that it placed the Bucs second only to Lenoir Rhyne in the conference standings.

A definite Mountaineer victory was in prospect during the latter stages of the game. The Pirates were not the same EC team that had romped to three consecutive wins with their regular shooting. The Apps, on the other hand, were hot as a fire-cracker, and it seemed that everything the Boone, N.C. quint did was right.

But in those crucial, final moments of the cage tilt, Coach Earl Smith called on his team to press the Mountaineers, losing by 13 points with only four and one-half minutes of action in prospect would discourage almost any team. The spirit that Coach Smith has assembled during the 1961-62 campaign responded to the Tuesday night audience's wish for a comeback.

The large 68-55 visitors' lead began to dwindle to 68-61 with less than a minute of action. Lewis and Brogden could not miss, practically the "entire" audience of close to 2,000 watched almost stunned as the Pirates tied the score on a Brogden field goal. Otte's basket gave the Bucs the lead that they never lost during the final minute of action, but they fought hard to receive since the early portion of the game.

Without a doubt, the "spirit" of East Carolina was at its highest Tuesday night in these last few minutes. The visitors were won because the Pirates never quit, and the Pirates never quit on their team. That same inspiration carried the Pirates through other "comeback" victories.

Continuing Team Playing Strong Competition

Annual, EC's swimmers are running into some of the best competition in this part of the country. VPI, the same team that the basketball team takes on tonight, defeated the Bucs 57-37 last Saturday afternoon, in the EC pool. The schedule that EC has already gone through, is one that would classify as a "big time" schedule. EC's swimmers have met Carolina twice, Wake Forest, VMI, Appalachian, William-Mary, and of course, VPI so far this season.

At VPI Tonight

Pirates Play ACC Here Tomorrow Night

The Pirates return home tomorrow night to face the ACC's Bulldogs after a trip to Blacksburg, Virginia, tonight to meet Virginia Tech's Gobblers of the Southern Conference.

The contests Coach Earl Smith will probably stick with the same line that he has been using during the last four contests. Bill Brogden and Senior Charlie Otte will guard the post. Freshman Bill Williams and Junior Lacy Brogden are expected to start at the forward positions, and Sophomore Bill Otte will man the pivot position.

VPI Powerful

VPI is expected to give East Carolina their strongest competition of the season. The Military Institute is one of the nation's powerhouses, as proven by their victory over nationally ranked West Virginia last week.

The Tech quint is led by Bucky Brown from Newport News, Virginia. He will probably be the best player EC will face all season. But the Gobblers are not expected to be a problem for the Pirates, since the Pirates are near their peak, as shown by their last four wins.

Atlantic Christian Always Troublesome

ACC is always "up" for the East Carolina quint. The Bulldogs possess a quint that has been hurt by the loss of four regulars recently. But, the Wilson school proved they are still "trouble" when the Bulldogs knocked off Appalachian before the Apps played East Carolina.

ACC is only 3-11, but the records are sometimes forgotten when the two neighbors battle each other.

EC Reserves Expected

To See Action

EC reserves Russ Knowles, Dan Bowen, and Mal Boyette will probably see plenty of action. Knowles is fast coming 6'-3" Junior; Boyette, is 6'-4", and weighs over the 200 pound mark. Both could help considerably in the Pirate rebounding department. Bowen, an excellent shot, is expected to be used considerably by Coach Earl Smith. Danny is only a Sophomore.

Lenoir Rhyne Leads Conference; EC, Elon Tied For Second Place

Although Lenoir Rhyne continues to hold a big lead in the Conference, East Carolina and High Point have been in the spotlight during the last week, as tournament time nears.

LR, while losing 71-69 to High Point, is still on top with a 10-2 record, with East Carolina and Elon, both 7-3, close behind.

High Point's win broke a nine-game winning streak for LR and ran their wins to four straight, three won last week. They are 7-5 for the conference. High Point also beat Atlantic Christian 72-65 and Campbell 74-65 during the week.

East Carolina won two straight during the week. In addition to the win over Pfeiffer Saturday night, the Pirates blasted Western Carolina, 95-71. These two wins have put the Pirates in a second-place tie with Elon.

CENTER BILL OTTE seems to have the edge on this rebound; Number 12 is Richie Williams and also fighting for the ball in the background is Bill Brogden. The Pirates made one of the great comebacks of the season in defeating Appalachian Tuesday night 73-71.

Lewis, Brogden Lead Pirate Comeback Victory Over APP

EC's "never say die" cage Pirates erased a 13 point Appalachian lead in less than five minutes to defeat the stunned Mountaineers 73-71, Tuesday night in the Buc gymnasium.

The Pirates, hitting on practically every field goal attempt during the final few moments of the exciting contest, won their fourth consecutive game to take undisputed possession of second place with an 8-3 mark. Lenoir Rhyne is in front of the Carolinas League Conference with a 10-2 record.

Brogden, Lewis Star

EC's fine Freshman, Bill Brogden, and Senior Co-Captain, Charlie Lewis, spurred the Pirates on to victory with their sharp shooting during the dying moments of the contest. Lewis scored 20 points and Brogden scored 18 during the entire encounter, with the majority of the latter's coming in the last few minutes. With four minutes and thirty seconds left to play on the scoreboard clock, Lewis and Brogden started hitting the nets until the 13 point lead was erased. The score, with one minute remaining, was tied at 68-68 with Brogden tying the score on a jump shot.

Bill Otte, the Buc's big center, hit on a jump shot that gave the Pirates the lead at 70-68. Brogden's foul shot made it 71-68, but the visitors retaliated on a field goal with less than 25 seconds remaining. The Bucs added two more points to end the scoring for the night with only two seconds remaining on the scoreboard. The victory, besides being Coach Smith's fourth in a row and eighth in league competition, was the Pirates' eleventh win against six losses. East Carolina has now won eleven out of its last fourteen overall games, and eight of its last nine in league play.

C.; eight band directors in Eastern North Carolina high schools; and faculty members of the East Carolina Department of Music.

Art Center Exhibits Painting By Neel

The Greenville Art Center is presenting an exhibition of paintings by Francis Lee Neel which began February 1 and will continue through February 22.

A special Open House at 7 o'clock tonight will honor the EC Associate Professor of Art.

Mr. Neel's work has been shown in New York, Delaware, Georgia, Tennessee, South Carolina, Missouri and in numerous Art Exhibitions throughout North Carolina. His paintings are frequently found in the homes of local art patrons.

Work of the artist varies from the realistic to the abstract and nonobjective art. His paintings of the "Fighting Cock" and "Mexican Boy" show the influence of his affection for Mexico.

Many of Mr. Neel's paintings have a clear-cut quality and play of color that is understandable for one with his talent for textile design. He teaches weaving and textile printing here.

Genius Philosophies Abound On EC Dormitory Doors

By KAYE BURGESS

Ever notice some of the signs decorating the doors of many of the dorm rooms? These humorous little displays of student philosophy cause frequent chuckles, and some are even noteworthy enough to deserve some comment.

Many times we see the sign advising us to "think." However, one evidently confused individual displays the sign — "Think — I Can't!"

Another sign must certainly belong to a young lady who already has formed her philosophy concerning men. This sign reads "All men are alike!" Maybe that's the reason mothers of the brides always cry at weddings. Well girls, maybe you should give that one some thought.

Students never underestimate their ability. Such is the case of the student who displays the sign stating "Enter at your own risk — Genius at work."

One real thought provoking sign simply says, "This door is locked. Do not open." This one sign alone can cause the observer to lapse into a state of severe anguish.

"If you drink, you die; If you don't drink, you die anyway; So enjoy yourself." Another morsal of student philosophy — you must admit, it could sound convincing!

"Do it tomorrow — you've made enough mistakes today." A defeatist attitude you say. Maybe so, but at least the owner of this sign has his own opinion.

District Choral Groups Perform

Schools from northeastern North Carolina will participate in the annual North East District Choral Contest to be held in Austin Auditorium February 10 starting in the early afternoon.

Each school will sing two selections and will be judged on its performance. Those schools receiving superior ratings will be eligible to participate in the state choral contest.

Participating schools will be Kingston, New Bern, Washington, Elizabeth City, Havelock, LaGrange, and Murfreesboro.

Program chairman is Mr. Earl Beach of our music department. Judges will be Mr. Joel Carter, University of North Carolina Music Department; Mrs. Peggy Barksdale, Raleigh; and Mr. Donald Piott, Davidson College Music Department.

Stout Presents Organ Concert At Duke Chapel

Carl Stout, faculty member of the Department of Music, will present a program of contemporary music in the Duke University Chapel, Durham, Sunday, February 13, at 4 p.m. The concert will be presented as an event of the Music Series.

Selections chosen for performance by Mr. Stout will include works by such modern composers as Hindemith, Schroeder, Ligeti, Honneger, and Dugue.

After study at Syracuse University with Ivan Light and at Poister, Mr. Stout earned his Carolina last year. He holds a B. M. degree from Syracuse and the M. A. from East Carolina.

Mr. Stout serves as organist and choir master of the Church of Good Shepherd in Rocky Mount and is Dean of the Rocky Mount Kingston Chapter of the American Guild of Organists. He is a member of the Music Committee for the North Carolina Division of the Episcopal Church and of the Fine Arts Committee here.

Gordley Receives Recognition In Art Exhibition

M. Tran Gordley, faculty member of the Department of Art, recently received recognition for his work as an artist when two oil paintings were chosen for inclusion in the Sixteenth Annual Irene Leache Memorial Exhibition of Contemporary Virginia and North Carolina Painting at the Norfolk, Va., Art Museum.

In charge of selecting pictures for the show was Lloyd Gooden, Director of the Whitney Museum of American Art.

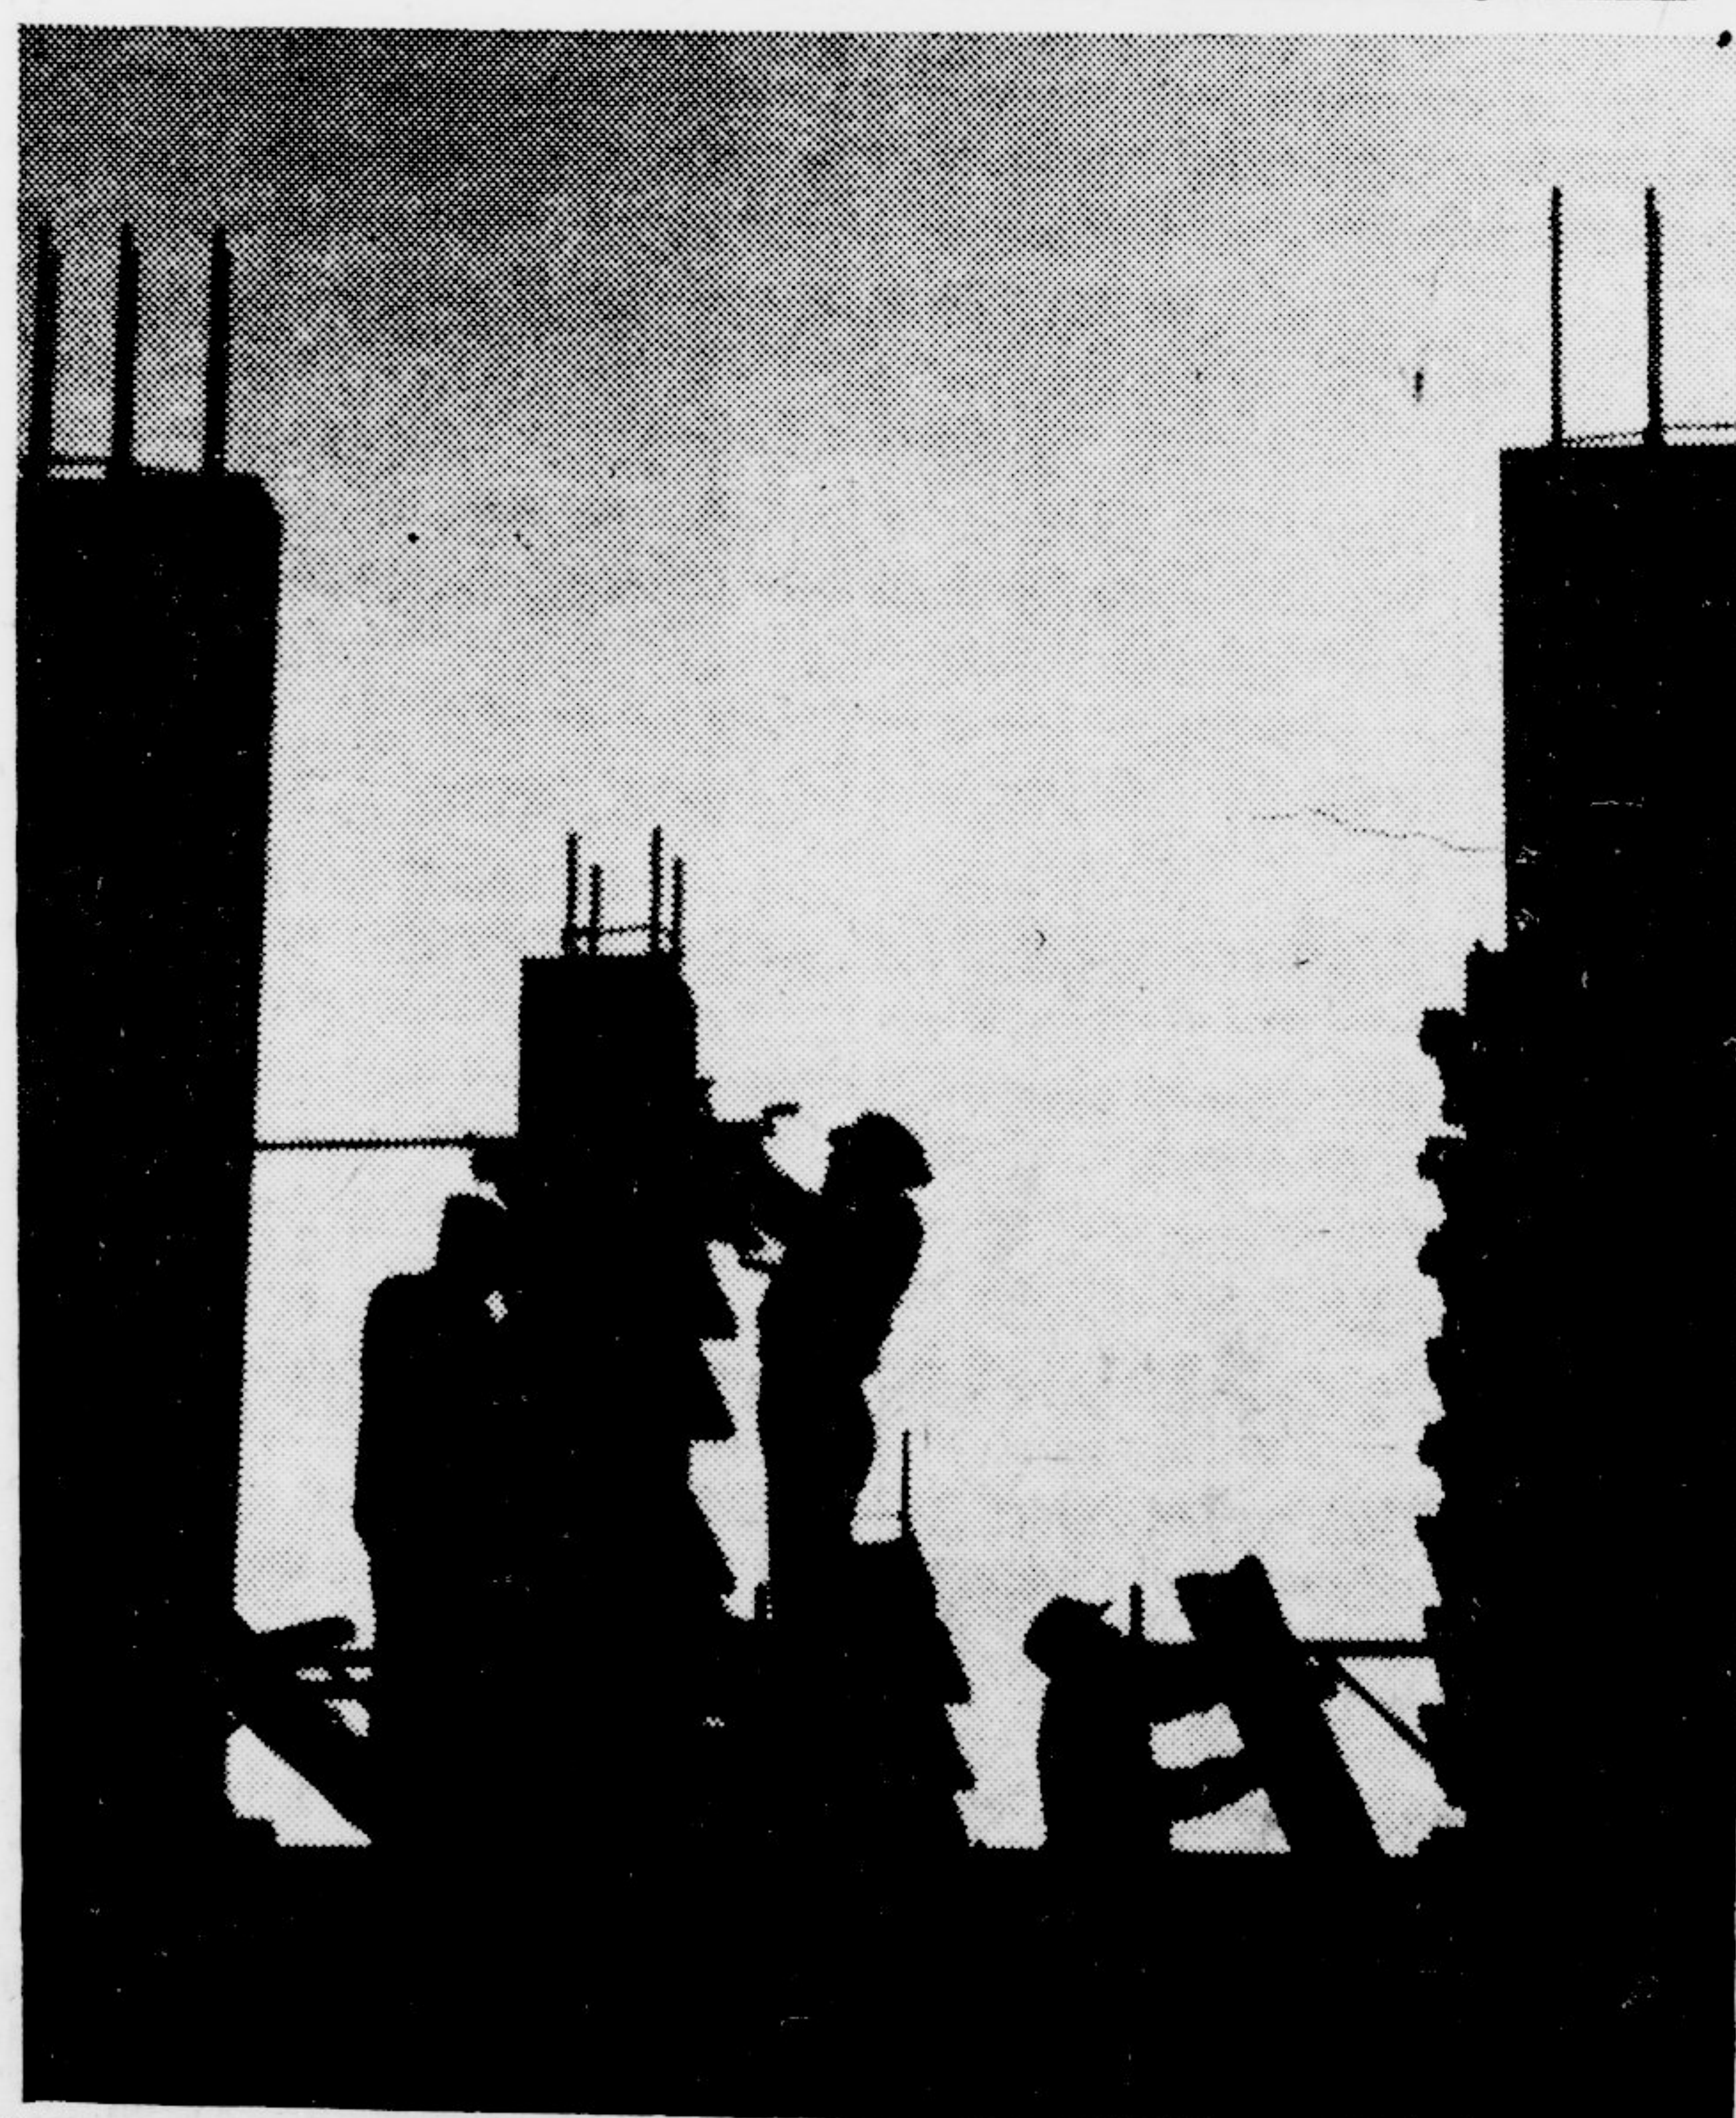

Mr. Gordley's "Lakewood Pines" and "Hurricane Forest" will be hung in the Norfolk gallery during the exhibition.

"Lakewood Pines" is a figurative painting characterized by a brilliant use of color. "Hurricane Forest" is more detailed work based on intertwining of twigs and branches of trees. Interest is added to the picture by the artist's use of metallic gold paint as well as colors.

Students who are registered with the Placement Bureau and are interested in an interview must sign up now for the following interviews. The following schools and firms will be on campus the first of next week:

Non-teaching positions: Broyhill Furniture Factories, Lenoir, N. C., need salesmen; and the North Carolina National Bank, Greensboro, N. C.

Teaching positions: Arlington County Public Schools, Arlington, Va.
