Conant Reporters Visit EC Campus

East Carolina College has been selected as one of the institutions for teaching to be studied by the James B. Conant Report, entitled "The Preparation of Teachers in America."

On Monday, February 12, two members of the six man committee set aside for this study will be spending the day on campus talking with various teachers responsible for teacher education. These representatives are Professor J. S. Finch, former Dean of Princeton University, and Dr. Robert Carbone, authority on elementary education.

The information they gather will be incorporated into the Conant Report.

Arrangements for this study were made by Dr. William H. Cartwright, from the department of Education, Duke University. Dr. Cartwright is on a leave of absence from Duke this year to participate in this study.

Valentine Candidates Vie For Queen's Crown Tomorrow

Among one of the highlights here this week is the crowning of a 1961 Valentine Dance Queen during the Annual Valentine Dance staged for Saturday in Wright Auditorium. The dance, sponsored by the college chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America, will take place from 8 p.m. to 12 midnight.

With the East Carolina College Dance Band providing music, seventeen women candidates, competing for the title of queen, and their escorts will perform in a dance figure during intermission. Crowning of the Valentine Dance Queen will then follow. When announced, she will walk toward the stage, decorated to suggest the Valentine season, and will be crowned by Miss Anne Mabel Kopey, last year's Valentine Dance Queen.

From the seventeen candidates chosen to represent campus organizations, the queen will be selected to reign on the basis of a high count vote. Suspense will await candidates until a tally is made before intermission.

Serving as advisors of the campus chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America organization are Alton Finch, Norman Cameron, and Mrs. Carol Hart, all faculty members of the School of Business. Dr. James L. White of the college School of Business is state advisor.

Among the candidates competing for queen are Carolyn Beck, Delta Sigma Pi; Julia A. Payne, Theta Chi; Madge Stancill, Kappa Delta; Tomye Suggs, Lambda Chi; Faye Cooke, Alpha Omicron Pi; Anne Greenwell, Chi Omega; Billie Boyd, Delta Zeta; Joyce Dove, Home Ec. Club; Janice Guppen, Pi Omega Pi; Olive Herring, Sigma Alpha Iota; Betsy Winstead, Phi Sigma Pi; Linda Howerton, Campus Radio; Barbara Rose Lindsey, College Choir; Dawn Austin, Alpha Xi Delta; Pat Kivette, Circle K Club; Lib Rogers, Kappa Alpha; and Virginia Carol Butler, Alpha Phi.

Elliott Attends Annual College Editor's Meet

East Carolinian Editor Patsy Elliott is attending the Fourth Annual Student Editors' Conference on International Affairs in New York, N. Y., today through Monday, February 12.

The conference is co-sponsored by the United States National Student Association and the Overseas Press Club. It is designed to fill the need for greater knowledge among those who report the news but cannot, because they are students, travel and see for themselves the events occurring in the trouble spots of the world.

Over 200 college editors are expected to participate in the three-day conference which will center around seminars with experts and reporters who cover the news as it is made. Seminars and speeches by public figures will cover many of the major problems facing the United States and the world today.

Granted by the Readers' Digest, a travel and room scholarship for the conference was awarded to Patsy last week.

Editor of the East Carolinian since last March, Patsy is a senior mathematics major and a member of Chi Omega Sorority.

Today is the last day to submit letters of application for the editorship of the East Carolinian for Spring Quarter and Fall and Winter Quarters of the 1962-63 school term. Letters should be directed to Dr. James Tucker, Chairman, Publications Board, Administration Building.

Directors Hold Musical Tryouts

Tryouts for "Guys and Dolls" will be held at 7:00 p.m. on Monday, February 12 in Wright Auditorium, announced Mr. Donald Hayes, director of the musical.

Students interested in singing, dancing, or acting in the musical should plan to attend these tryouts.

Tryouts are tentatively scheduled for the same time and place Tuesday evening, and, if necessary, Wednesday evening.

Supervising the auditions will be Mr. Hayes, Peter Johl, stage director; and Mrs. Lois Garren, choreographer.

Despite Difficulties Groups Bring Success

Recent events give evidence to a commendable interest among students and faculty in some of the more cultural aspects of the college community. The latest, "The Bridge," is a German war film shown last night in Austin Auditorium. "The Bridge" follows the two other well-received foreign films, a Russian movie "Ballad of a Soldier" and a Swedish film "Seventh Seal."

Attendance at these films has been most gratifying to members of the Foreign Film Committee. Their efforts, thus far, have been rewarding.

The committee plans, for the future, films equal in quality to those already shown on campus. Among films tentatively scheduled for the remaining school year are a French film, either "He Who Must Die" or "A Hundred Blows;" a Charlie Chaplain movie; a Spanish film; and possibly an Italian and a Japanese movie.

After some difficulty with SGA funds, the committee sought financial aid for the films from other sources . . . with success. Funds for the films have been made available through the efforts of Dean Robert Holt. Students, particularly George Gardner, and faculty committee members deserve commendation for following through on their plans for a Foreign Film Series in spite of the difficulties arising.

If the series should continue with the success already attained, it should become an annual series sponsored by a definite fund. Perhaps Senate and Budget Committee members should make a point to become familiar with the series as they will most likely decide if the series will become an annual affair with a standing committee.

Among other events recently occurring is the poetry reading sponsored by the "Rebel." This reading accompanied by a jazz background has received high praise from the student body. A novel idea, this contemporary reading was highlighted by Jim Rockey, who left many attending the reading inspired and anxious for more.

With such projects underway as the ones just mentioned, we have an added opportunity to broaden our interests and appreciation along these lines. The opportunity is here; it's up to us.

'Nice Gesture Meaningless'

Who Decides Adjustments? Advisor's Role Questioned

To The Editor:

Please excuse our "buttin' in" on what seems to be a sensational debate going on between the President of the Panhellenic Council and the "sore sisters" concerning the Panhellenic advisor and the rights and privileges of sororities during rush. However, it seems rather strange to us that Miss Shaw should intercede for the Panhellenic advisor. We think it a nice gesture on her part — but completely meaningless.

Some of us, having been on the Panhellenic council during more peaceful times I might add, and others, who have just attended the meetings for curiosity's sake, know what was said at those meetings; and, yet, there is no proof of discussions in the vague minutes which seem to follow a set pattern for each meeting.

The advisor has stated the clause in the quota ruling, already discussed, which said that "necessary adjustments" could be made if thought advisable. Who is to decide what is meant by "necessary adjustments" and who is to have the authority to make those "necessary adjustments?"

IF the Panhellenic council is a democratic organization, is it not proper and right that the members be the ones to decide the foregoing questions?

We interpreted the advisor's statement that the quota would be reduced "quite a bit" as meaning that it would be reduced from last year's quota of Ten "quite a bit."

Actually the most misunderstood thing that we can see is that Miss Shaw says, "It (the quota) was determined at a meeting of the Rush Chairmen with all eight sororities represented at 4:00 o'clock on Friday afternoon, January 26, 1962." So far so good; but let us go further. This meeting was not called until after the letter of the "sore sisters" was set and printed in the Friday edition of the EAST CAROLINIAN and after the advisor had said at Panhellenic meeting that the quota would be set from later parties. No vote was taken at that meeting as to what adjustment would be made in the quota.

The advisor stated the adjustment with no vote. In all other organizations on this campus, advisors only suggest solutions at times when the students are completely unable to decide major problems for themselves — ask Dean Mallory of the Inter-Fraternity Council and Dean Tucker of the Student Government Association. ALL WE WANT IS A FREE VOTE IN A DEMOCRATIC PANTHELLENIC!

And all this equality bit — HUMBUG! To quote the student's best friend on the matter of equality, "Just because everyone in Greenville can't afford a swimming pool, should those who can be kept from having them."

In hopes that this will be evidence of

Liberal Zealots Scarce; Lack Political Action

By J. ALFRED WILLIS

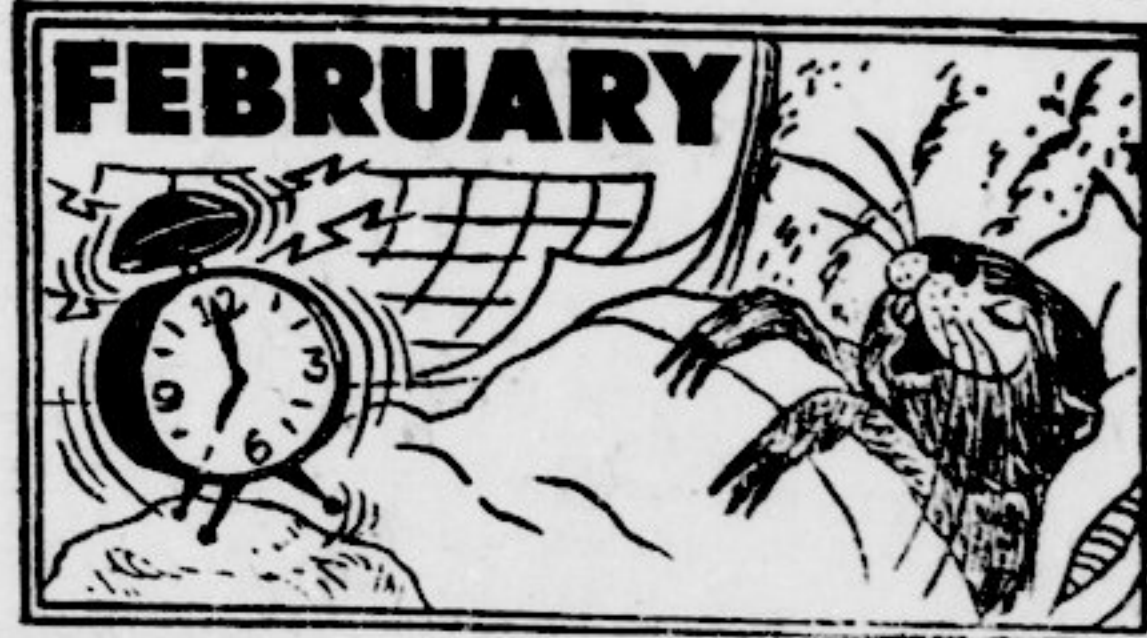

Buckley's comment that the American college student is turning from a liberal to a conservative orientation may be superficially true.

Here at East Carolina we have a conservative institution with a conservative tradition. The student body is relatively disinterested in political affairs either on or outside the campus (this may be termed tolerance or apathy however you choose), and zealots are rare. This "tolerance" seems to be a nationwide condition in all colleges, except, perhaps, in California.

"Zealots are rare" but they do occur. By their nature, they must blatantly express their opinion. And among a "tolerant" student body, the zealot is the only one heard and thus it is assumed that he is the spokesman for the students. Do we have any liberal zealots here at East Carolina? No. Do we have any conservative zealots, Yes.

If the administration encourages students to broaden their interest in political affairs, then they should actively do something about it. Why not inquire of Winston Churchill if he would like to teach here? (Harry Truman is another possibility but then he might accept). There is no limit to the "noted personality" to whom the administration could offer faculty positions.

Football Draws Frenzied Appeal From Students

By MONTY MILLS

Students all over the United States, regardless of weather or near perfect conditions, are caught by the frenzied appeal of American football.

During the two-month months after college and university terms begin in September Saturdays in college and university centers across the land assume a near holiday atmosphere. Libraries are left with a skeleton force, fraternities and sororities houses resemble small ghost towns, public eateries, which are at capacity business during weekdays, close down or stand almost deserted.

Students, free from week classes, file through the and university cities to pack nation's football stadiums for of the country's most spectator sports. Some students, course, view the games as a social occasion, leading to the ited hours spent in the bleachers and the inevitable more robust urday evening parties.

Football is one of the two or the most widely played sports in the United States, along with basketball. Some schools, playing championship games attract audience of 30,000 or more spectators.

With the completion of the James S. Picklen Memorial Stadium, with membership in the Southern Conference, East Carolina in the near future, open its gates to a throng of 30,000 enthusiastic football spectators. EC's western migratory students may even away their suitcases, and stand around for those Saturday afternoon encounters with some of the highest contested conference rivals. The team would be playing to capacity audiences, and it could, one day reach the ranks and prestige of university team.

Forty Years Bring Three-Day Weekend, Four-Week Vacation

If you're a typical commuter of the year 2002 — just 40 years from now — here's how you might expect to spend your day.

You'll arise early and switch on your breakfast appliances by speaking into an instrument at your bedside. When breakfast is ready, the instrument will signal back.

After breakfast you'll enter your car for the short drive to the outskirts of the city where you work. You'll leave your car and enter the heart of town on a monorail. Moving sidewalks will carry you from the monorail to your office.

Three-Day Weekend

You'll put in a six- or seven-hour day, then return home — not too differently from the way things are done nowadays. Your weekend, however, will be at least three days each and you'll enjoy four-week vacations with pay.

These are among the fascinating glimpses of life 40 years hence contained in an article in the February Reader's Digest — a magazine which began publishing just 40 years ago. Its 40th anniversary issue includes prognostications of what life will be like in 2002 in such fields as transportation, resources and energy, communications, medicine, and space.

Trips To Moon

The latter offers the greatest opportunity for adventure, predicts author Robert O'Brien. He quotes Dr. Werner von Braun's assertion that American astronauts will be exploring the remotest corners of the solar system within 40 years. By 2002, trips to the moon will be commonplace, he says.

Other benefits accruing to mankind by 2002 will include victory over the common cold and virtually all other communicable ailments, and control of most of the diseases which now afflict us.

But the article sounds one note of caution. It quotes Nobel Prize-winner Dr. Hermann J. Muller, who says that we can attain heights of thought and living that are almost inconceivable today, "unless man short-sightedly destroys himself . . ."

'On Stage'

Mr. Paul Hickfang, director of the opera "Faust" which opens Saturday at 8 p. m. in McGinnis, runs through a dubious scene with principals, Bonnie Currin, Bill Newberry, and Vickery.

'Make-up Masters'

Pre-show Preliminaries . . . Dr. C. J. Bradner, Jr. assists wife Martha, who portrays Sibel, with make-up. Anne Vickery, Marguerite, gets help from Charlotte Donat, as Mrs. Alison Moss experiments with her own paint job.

'But It's Shining'

A Touch of Make-up for Just the Right Effect . . . Bill Newberry, leading man in Saturday's performance, submits a 'genteel' nose for a bit of powder as Howard Mallard does the honors. Jerold Teachey and Bob Imamura, members of the cast, grin their approval.

Former EC President Writes Historical Testament Study

By MARCELLE VOGEL.

Dr. Howard J. McGinnis, former President of the college, has recently written a book entitled "Know Your Bible Better."

This is a factual, human interest study of the history and literature of the Hebrews who laid the foundation for the Christian religion, as portrayed in the thirty-nine Books of the Old Testament.

It deals with the chief characters and the chief activities of each Book, points out relationships and details not usually seen by the average Bible reader and presents the findings of many biblical historians.

President Emeritus, Dr. McGinnis began his teaching career in a one-room county school in his native state of West Virginia. Later he served as a professor at Fairmont State Teachers College, followed by the position of President of West Liberty State College.

Became President

Coming to East Carolina in 1927, Dr. McGinnis served as registrar and professor. He became President of the College in 1944, serving until 1946. Following this position he became director of field services here, and served in that capacity until he retired, in 1950.

Dr. McGinnis lives with his wife here in Greenville. He takes a lively interest in the affairs of the college, attending all celebrations and dinners.

Decision To Publish

The decision to publish his findings in book form came with the desire to share with others the results of his extension study of the Old Testament and many volumes by others, as indicated in text references and in the bibliography. This book is a condensation of the author's original manuscript.

Dr. M. O. Fletcher, a retired M. E. minister, says: "You have presented the Old Testament in the light of its historical and literary values which makes it more appealing and interesting to laymen."

This cloth bound book will be available to the public sometime during the first of this year.

'Red Letter Day' . . . Phi Kappa Tau president, Michael Wilkinson, receives his fraternity's national charter from Jack Anson, National secretary of Phi Kappa Tau, in ceremonies conducted this past weekend. Gamma Eta chapter of Phi Kappa Tau became the eighth social fraternity on campus to become nationally affiliated. Approximately 100 guests attended the formal ceremonies.

Phi Kappa Tau Gains National Frat Affiliation

In ceremonies conducted this past weekend Phi Kappa Tau became the eighth social fraternity to "go national" at E.C. Twenty-five brothers and six pledges participated in the charter reception.

A "red-letter event" in the lives of the "brothers," the Gamma Eta Chapter of Phi Kappa Tau is the seventy-ninth colony in the nation to become nationally affiliated.

John A. Wilkinson, Washington, N. C., attorney, served as master of ceremonies and introduced guests to the approximately 100 present, including members and their escorts attending the formal banquet Sunday night, Feb. 4, in the South Dining Hall.

Presenting the charter to Michael Wilkinson, president of Phi Kappa Tau, was Jack Anson of Oxford, Ohio, National Secretary of Phi Kappa Tau.

Mr. Anson urged the brothers to "perpetuate a two-way partnership with the chapter and the college," to continue their record of good scholarship, to let their pledge training be "truly training," and "to be of service to your college by growing and developing through the years."

Featured speaker for the occasion was Harold Angelo, National President of Phi Kappa Tau and Dean of Men at the University of Colorado. He stressed responsibility to both college and fraternity alumni organizations, to the

IFC Returns To Deferred Rush By Consensus

By DAN RAY

During the past two years, a large percentage of the men who participate in fall rush functions were not eligible for winter initiations. This has, in part, been due to college adjustment, however, one cannot overlook the time spent on pledge activities.

The IFC discussed this situation; it was taken to the individual fraternities for consideration, and when all opinions were expressed, it was voted on by the fraternity representatives at an IFC meeting. In view of the fact that many schools are returning to deferred rush, the consensus of opinion was overwhelming that something had to be done. The result is deferred rush.

The Rush Committee is now in the process of formulating plans for Winter Formal Rush. This solution, it is believed, will provide incoming freshmen with an opportunity to concentrate on their high school-college transition.

Dean Mallory, Advisor to the IFC, stated that he was "personally glad to see this improvement."

"With this change, the fraternities will be able to make more efficient and exacting plans for membership as well as scholarships," he added.

SPORTS REVIEW

By RICHARD BOYD

Last Friday night in Roanoke, Virginia, EC played their strongest opponent of the season and lost by a 111-86 score before some 8000 fans in the western Virginia city. The Bucs, despite the score, had every right to be proud of themselves against the Virginia quint. The home team had the advantage in many departments. VPI is a Southern Conference team, and the Tech five plays such teams as West Virginia, Virginia, VMI, Furman, etc.

The VPI five was definitely accustomed to stronger competition than that of what EC plays night after night. With the large partisan crowd in the new huge Tech gym, EC was at another disadvantage.

The personnel of VPI did not prove to be better shooters than the Pirates, but the height advantage gave the Tech team many more shots than that of EC. East Carolina actually hit on more of their field goal attempts than the home team, but could not shoot as much as the winning team. Still another disadvantage in this particular game, was trouble encountered by Lacy West and Richie Williams early in the game. Both players had three fouls before the half way point, and the two Pirate starters eventually fouled out of the high scoring contest.

VPI possesses one of the better teams in the Southern Conference, and probably one of the better teams in this part of the country. The Gobblers beat highly rated West Virginia 85-82 only a few nights before the East Carolina game. VPI was a severe test for the prospective Southern Conference Pirates, and the Bucs passed the test with fine play in Roanoke. The game was characterized by good shooting on both sides, fine floor play, and good rebounding.

Tech could field a team with all but two of the starting five over 6-4. EC had only one player over the 6-4 mark, Bill Otte at 6-6. The VPI center stood at 6-9, and the Gobblers possessed two forwards over 6-4, and both guards were over 6 feet. In Howard Pardue and Bucky Keller, the Tech quint have two of the finest players in this part of the country. Pardue hit for 37 and Keller, a fine all-around player scored 23 points for the winners.

Many of the Tech points came on follow up shots, which was a big factor in the 111 points scored by the Virginia school. This game was an important contest for the Bucs. They were put on display before what was probably the largest attendance to see an East Carolina basketball team. The game proved that EC can stand up to the best of them in SC competition as Coach Earl Smith's cagers refused to be run off the court like many Tech opponents have been during this season.

To give the fans an idea of the VPI strength, at one time in the West Virginia game, the Gobblers led by 20 points: in the University of Virginia contest, VPI won by about 35 points. West Virginia was one of the ranking quints in the country before they met VPI in Roanoke, and Virginia, although a weak sister in the strong Atlantic Coast Conference, usually, is "up" for their arch rival VPI five.

Games This Week

Saturday — Appalachian at High Point, Guilford at Western Carolina, East Carolina at Elon, Lenoir Rhyne at Catawba, Pfeiffer at Atlantic Christian, Wofford at Newberry.

GREENSBORO (AP) — East Carolina's sizzling Pirates moved ahead of both previous leaders, Lenoir Rhyne and Elon, last week to take first place in the Carolinas Conference and threw the race for top seed in the tournament wide open.

The Pirates downed Atlantic Christian 71-63 Saturday night for their fifth straight conference victory. The win boosted ECC's CC record to 9-3.

Lenoir Rhyne, which dropped to second, was upset by Appalachian 64-58 for a 10-4 mark, and Elon, the early-season pacesetter, to Western Carolina, 71-48, to drop to third with an 8-4 mark.

High Point defeated Catawba Saturday night, 84-71, for fourth place on a 9-6 mark and WCC moved into fifth on an 8-6 record.

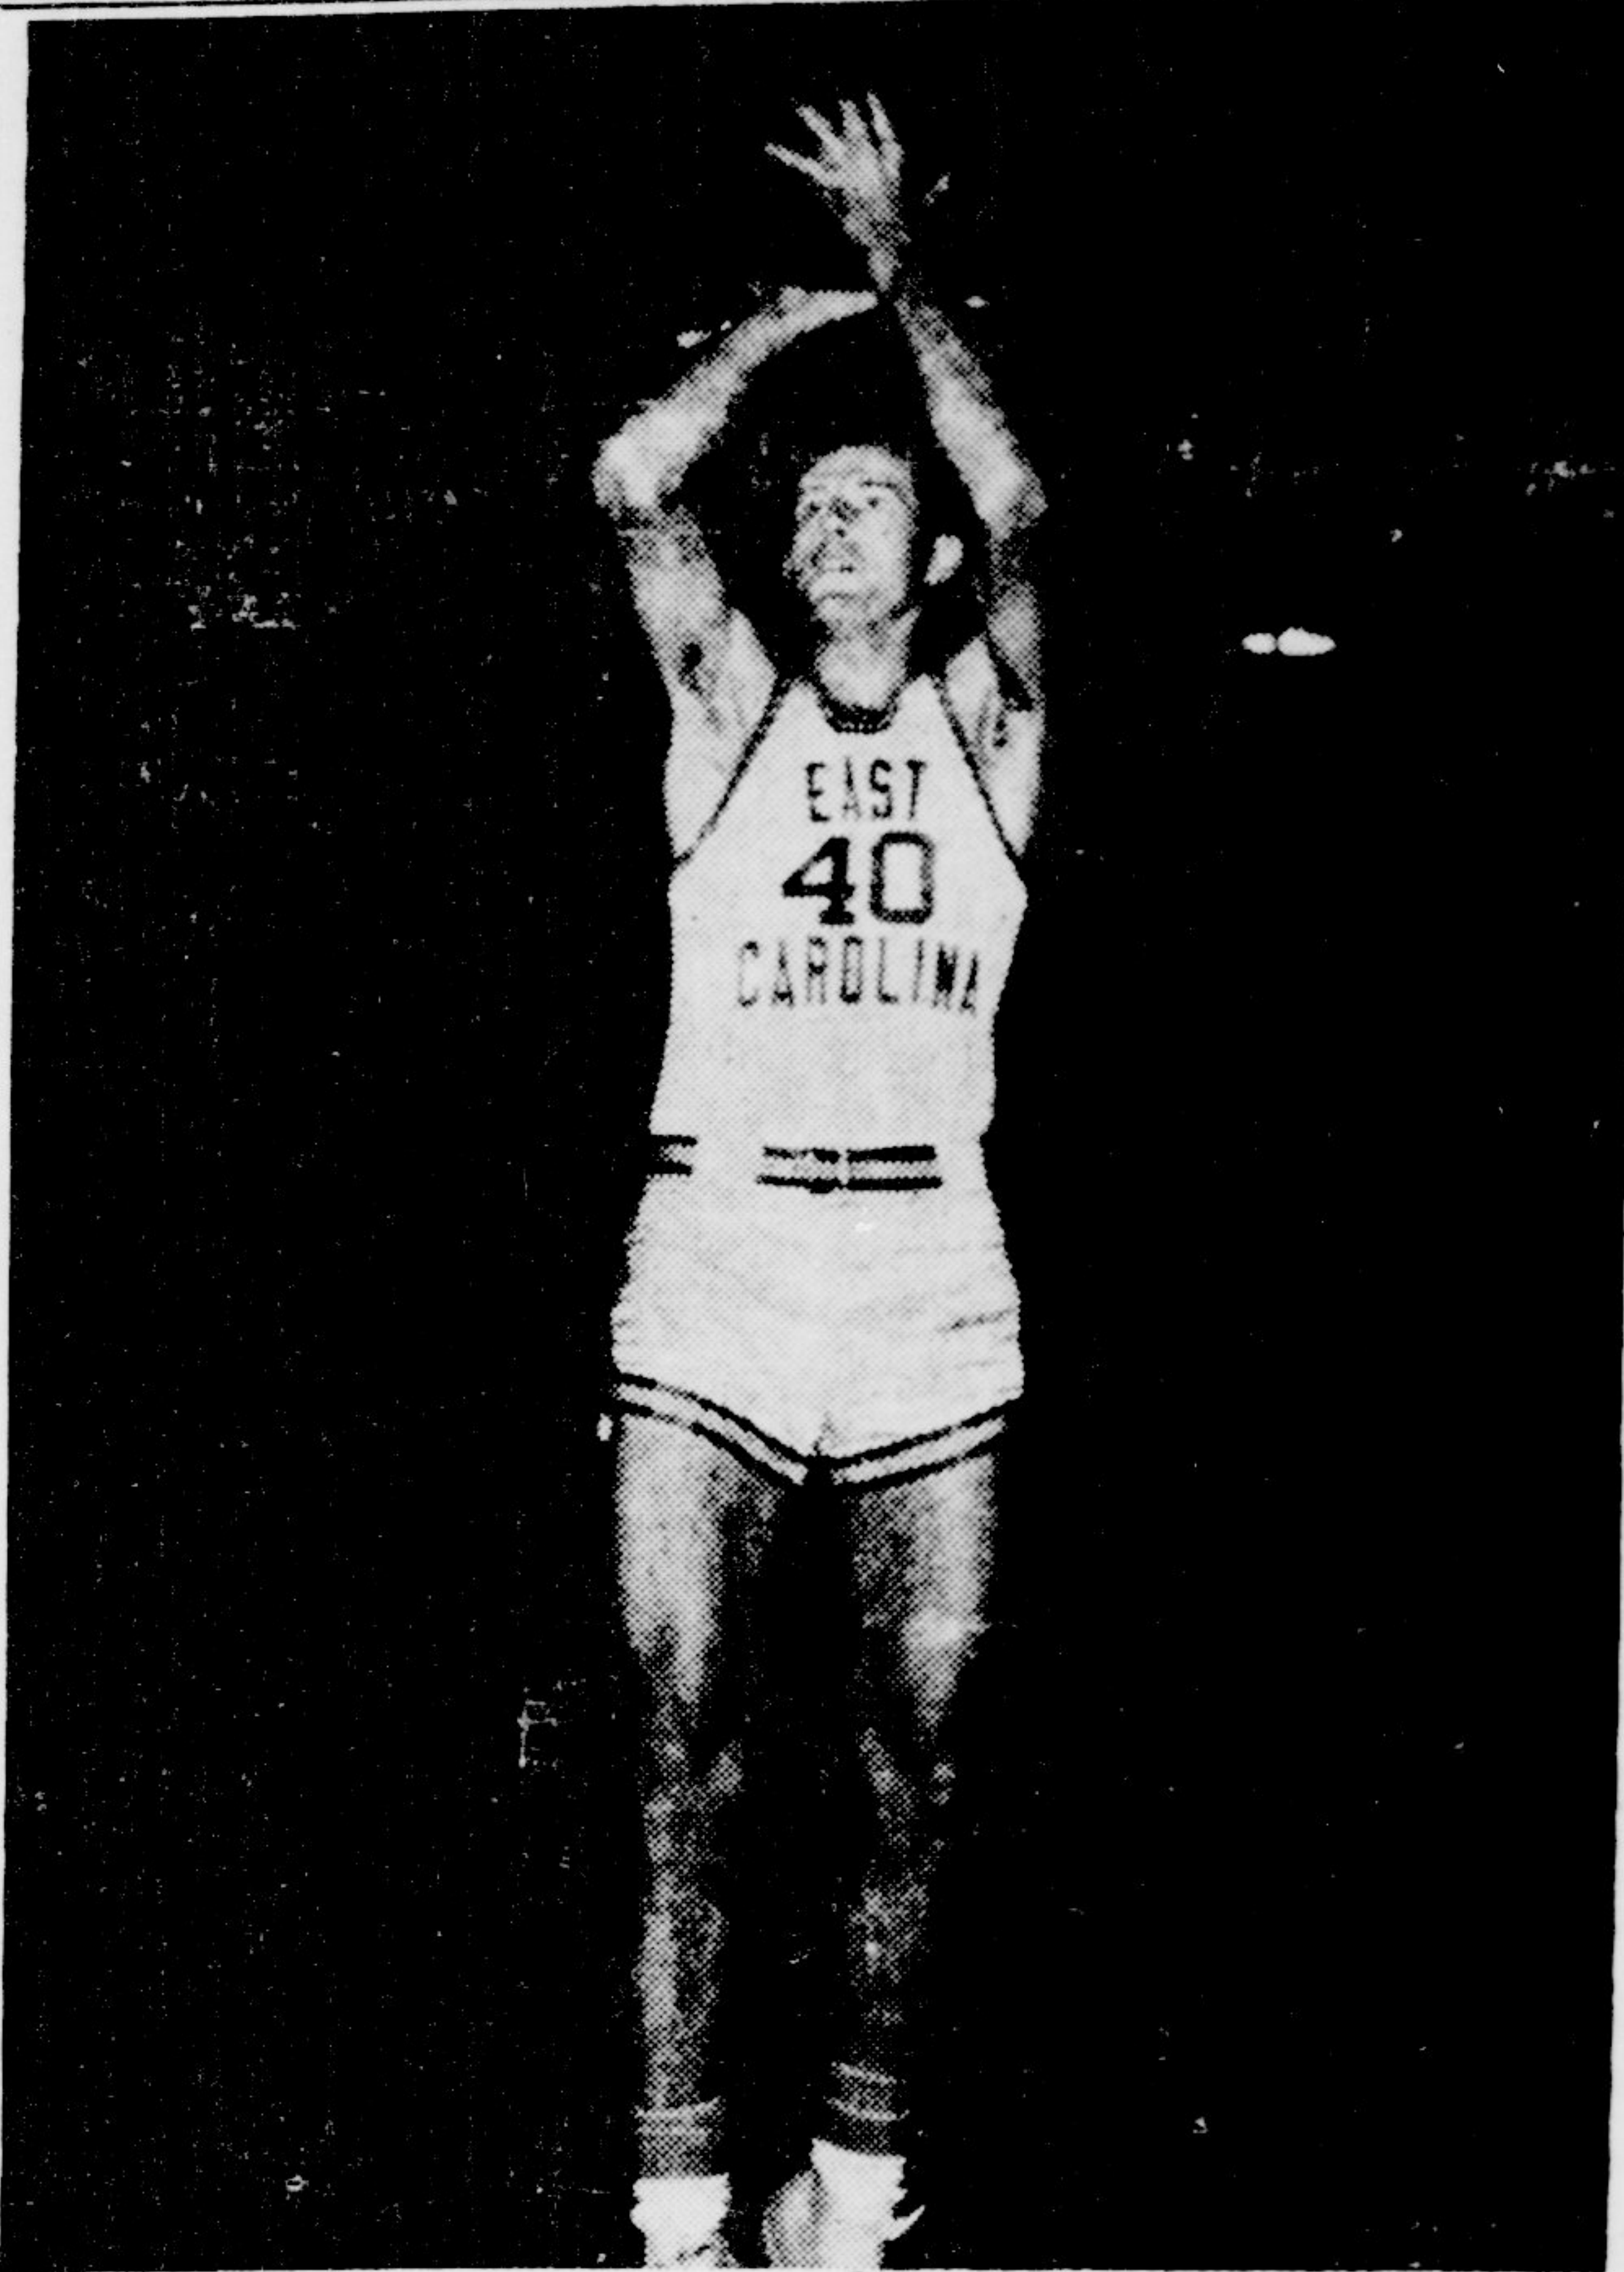

In other games Saturday night, Guilford was defeated by Erskine, 81-65; Newberry lost to Wofford, 80-63, and Pfeiffer whipped College of Charleston 111-63 as 6-7 Bobby Frank poured in 48 points.

Frank broke all Pfeiffer single-game scoring records and also tied the single-game field goal record of 19 in the conference.

Frank missed by seven of tying the all-time point record, held by Lenoir Rhyne's Raeford Wells, who tallied 55 points against Guilford in 1955.

Bill Otte, 6-6 center, led the Pirates' surge into first place. He scored 12 points as ECC downed Appalachian 74-71 Tuesday, then racked in 30 points in the win over Atlantic Christian.

East Carolina's busy swimmers will swim against William-Mary from Williamsburg, Virginia, tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 p.m. in the EC pool.

CO-CAPTAIN, BEN BOWES from Burlington is seen here taking a jump shot. Prior to this week the Senior forward has been out of action for about a month with an ankle injury. The veteran has returned to action lately and should be ready to go at full speed when the Bucs return home next week against Pfeiffer and High Point.

Bucs In First Place Prior To Catawba Game

Prior to Wednesday night's game with Catawba's Indians, EC found themselves in first place in the Carolinas Conference play. The Bucs possessed a 9-3 record, as compared with slumping Lenoir Rhyne's 10-4 mark. Percentage wise, this placed East Carolina in the top position for the first time this season.

It has been a hard uphill climb for Coach Earl Smith's Bucs. Consecutive losses to Catawba, and High Point before Christmas have been followed by eight wins in nine games, since the loss to the High Point five. In overall competition Coach Smith's cagers have a respectable 12-7 mark, while playing the "toughest" EC schedule in history.

Wednesday night's clash in Salisbury and tomorrow night's game at Elon could make or break the Pirates in their bid for the Carolinas Conference crown. The Buc quint has been strengthened this week by the return of Senior forward and Co-Captain Ben Bowes from Burlington. The 6'-5" veteran returns to action after being out with a severe ankle injury for over a month. Bowes is expected to see limited action until the ankle is strengthened.

During this winning pace that the Bucs have in league play, Coach Smith has been using Charlie Lewis, 15.9, Bill Otte, 14.8, Lacy West, 10.8, Richie Williams, 10.2, and Bill Brogden, 8.6 to sparkle the Buc bid for championship honors. Lewis, a four year veteran from Kinston has been deadly with his outside shooting. Otte, 6'-6" and at 220 pounds has been tremendous with his backboard play and his scoring average has increased considerably. West, a veteran Junior, has probably been the best all-around Pirate lately. His rebounding and floor work have aided the Bucs tremendously, and the 6'-3" 185 pounder has been hitting in double figures during the last few games.

Williams and Brogden, a pair of promising Freshmen with great potentiality, are a pair of 6 footers who have had some fine nights in the scoring column. Williams hit for 20 against Virginia Tech and Brogden also went over the 20 mark in several Pirate contests. Russ Knowles, Dan Bowen, Mal Boyette, Bill Penny, and Richard Lefevre have played fine ball in reserve for the starting five.

The Pirates return home next week to battle two Carolinas Conference teams. Monday night, Coach Smith's five plays Pfeiffer's quint and Wednesday night, EC will be looking for revenge against a good High Point Panther five.

Stasavich Holds Spring Practice

Coach Clarence Stasavich held his first football practice with the East Carolina team today. The former LB coach is expected to work primarily on conditioning during the first of practice.

EC will no longer use the formation, and will run from Stasavich's single-wing that brought championship honors at Lenoir Rhyne.

Spring drills will see the team trying to make the new adjustment to the single-wing with EC coach looking for a blocking and blocking back in the new formation.

Georgia U. Defeats Buc Swimmers, 53-41

Georgia University defeated East Carolina swimmers by a 41 margin in the EC pool Friday afternoon.

The loss was EC's fifth against three wins for the 1961-62 season. The Pirate wins have come at the expense of Wake Forest, Appalachian, and William-Mary in the folk.
