Burmese Official To Attend Premiere

President Leo W. Jenkins and Mrs. Jenkins will entertain approximately fifty guests tomorrow, February 24, at a dinner honoring His Excellency U On Sein, Ambassador to the United States from the Union of Burma, and members of his staff at the Burmese Embassy, Washington, D. C.

The Burmese Ambassador will be here Saturday to attend a performance by the Playhouse of "The Wages of Sin" by U Nu, Prime Minister of Burma. The drama will be presented here in its first performances in the United States tonight and tomorrow night at 8:30 p.m. in the McGinnis auditorium.

Among other honored guests will be U Ba Myint, cultural attache at the Burmese Embassy, and Daw Mya Sein, educator, historian, former representative to the United Nations, and one of the most distinguished women in the political life of her country.

Daw Mya Sein arrived here early this week, and has acted as advisor and consultant to the Playhouse during final rehearsals of the U Nu drama.

Instructor Assists In Astronaut Training

Dr. James Batton, instructor of education, was guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Future Business Leaders of America Tuesday night. Dr. Batton spoke on his part in the training of the astronauts and various phases of John Glenn's orbital flight.

Dr. Batton, who received his A.B., M.A., and Ph.D. from UNC, trained the seven astronauts for six months in celestial recognition. He explained that in the capsule the astronaut is looking west and traveling east and must be able to identify his position while in orbit.

Marshal Status Rises

B-Average Requirement Ends Popularity Contest

Beginning spring elections, all college marshals must have and maintain a 2.0 scholastic average, according to a new ruling passed by the SGA Monday night.

"The purpose of raising grade qualifications from a 'C' to a 'B' was to make the position more an honor than a 'popularity contest,'" said Jayne Chandler, senior class representative.

Ballot Shortened

Another advantage of the higher average is that the number of nominees will be reduced and the ballot shortened. Woody Shepherd, Elections Chairman, reported that in the past the voter had been asked to choose from as many as 50 names. He said that in many cases the confused student had checked the first 10 names without reading the entire list.

All rising sophomore, junior, and senior men and women with the 2.0 average may file for the position.

Admission Of Faculty

Another question decided by the Senate was whether to allow free admission of faculty and their families to the entertainment series. Tommy Mallison, Chairman of Entertainment, stated that the SGA would suffer no financial loss from admitting faculty free since no substantial profit has been made on ticket sales this year.

The body ruled that each faculty member be issued 2 season passes to all SGA sponsored events. In the case of both husband and wife teaching, each will receive only one pass.

The next full SGA meeting will be March 12 and will be televised by the campus TV circuit.

Kanipe Praises EC's SGA Policy

"The younger student governments of the N. C. Student Government Association look to EC as their guidepost in progressing," said Lee Kanipe, President of NCSGA.

Lee's recent visit to campus resulted in a speech praising our SGA at the Monday night meeting. He said the many colleges such as Elon, AOC, Catawba, and Lenoir Rhyne have profited most by following Senate policies here.

"EC must not stand still but must strive to progress and give students a better and more efficient SGA," stated Kanipe. He further stressed the importance of co-operation by the student body in and after elections.

Lee, a senior member of Lenoir Rhyne's SGA, has served as President of NCSGA for three years.

He has further demonstrated his versatility as a blocking back for four years under Coach Stasavich.

Hazing Violation Draws Probation For Fraternity

Delta Sigma Pi, honorary professional Business Fraternity, was given six weeks social probation for violation of the hazing rules of the college.

This fraternity was found guilty of blindfolding their pledges, and taking them some 15 miles out of Greenville. Here the pledges were put out, and were told to walk back to the campus.

Dean James Mallory stated that this offense was brought to his attention when "a nice old lady" came to his office and related the story to him.

The lady said the boys awakened her in the middle of the night, and her son, not knowing what was going on, got his gun. She told him not to shoot.

The sentence, administered by the Men's Judiciary, is consistent with the IFC rules, when a similar violation occurs among the fraternities.

The Men's Judiciary also stipulated that at the end of this period, this case will be reviewed again by the Judiciary. At this time, if the fraternity has adhered to all rules, the probation will be dropped. However, if the rules set by the Men's Judiciary have not been followed, further action will be taken.

The Handbook states "no professional, honorary, service fraternity or club of any type associated with the school shall be permitted to haze, use physical violence, or in any way jeopardize the health, moral, scholastic standing, or well-being of anyone associated with them."

Such an activity, as the one mentioned, is a direct violation of every national chapter, the IFC, the Panhellenic Council, and the college rules and regulations.

YD Rally Honors National Prexy

Allan T. Howe, President of Young Democrats, spoke at a rally given in his honor February 18, at the Greenville Moose Lodge.

At this winter rally, attended by more than 400 persons, Howe, who is administrative assistant to Senator Frank Moss of Utah, said that there is no trend to conservatism among American college students. Although the Republican Party and ultra-right wing groups have attempted to promote negative thinking on college campuses, the Democratic Party with its liberal programs continues to find a source of strength among America's young people.

College Caucus

The all-day rally opened with a college caucus in Rawl Building. Cynthia Poole, Vice-President of North Carolina State College, presided at this meeting of students from North Carolina State College, Duke University, University of North Carolina, Atlantic Christian College, Wake Forest College, Pembroke College, Asheville-Biltmore College, East Carolina College, and High Point College.

Statewide Rally

A statewide college rally will take place March 9 and 10 at the University of North Carolina with Terry Sanford, keynote speaker.

On March 31 the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner, a statewide gathering, will be held in Raleigh. Plates will be sold at $50 each.

Marshal Obtains Honor

Wise Decision Recognizes Scholastic Achievement

A wise decision was reached by the Student Senate Monday night. Action was taken to raise the scholastic requirements for college marshal to a 2.0 or a "B" average and to continue election by student body vote.

Finally, it seems that the honor of being a marshal is coming closer to being a true honor. Many opinions have been aired in the past to the effect that scholastic achievement at EC too often goes unrecognized.

As a result of the Senate's action, marshal elections will remain a part of the regular SGA elections. The suggestion to appoint a committee to select marshals gracefully died on the Senate floor.

Fraternities Learn By Mistake To Avoid Hazardous Hazing

In the past couple of years, we've read and heard of many cases involving fraternal organizations and incidents arising from their pledge periods and initiations.

College rules prohibit any organization "to haze, use physical violence, or in any way jeopardize the health, moral, scholastic standing, or well-being" of a student.

In spite of the rule, the Men's Judiciary dealt with a case this week involving a form of hazing by a fraternity. Several men could have been seriously hurt when the fraternity in question "dumped" them about 15 miles from Greenville.

However, it is a shame that by chance this fraternity has to set an example for the rest. It is common knowledge that fraternities participate frequently in this sort of activity.

We have advocated before that pledge training could and should involve some constructive purpose rather than time-consuming, degrading, and destructive acts.

We learn by our mistakes, we suppose.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

OUR JOINT REPORT ON 'STRANGE COURTSHIP CUSTOMS' IN A MOMENT - BUT FIRST, MISS SMITH HAS AN ANNOUNCEMENT...

Responsibility Assumption Causes Criticism To Die Quick Death

By JEAN PEACE

The time to act is now? Why wait until the SGA officers for next year are elected before the criticism erupts in enormous quantities? Time and again we hear, "He's not the man for the job." If he is not and you or someone you know is the man, why elect him to office.

The SGA elections chairman has asked that applications be submitted for spring elections. The response has been so poor that we fear to think of electing a competent slate of officers from so few candidates, but perhaps these faithful few are the only competent ones on campus... It seems that the criticism dies when it's time for someone to assume responsibilities. If we only know how to criticize when another person is working, then our criticism isn't of much use.

It is time to throw away petty quarrels and find a place in Student Government. We are the so-called "leaders of tomorrow." If this be true, then judging from the political participation on campus few leaders will come from the EC college population.

Government is government and we live by its rules whether we like it or not. More than just a voice in government is necessary; leaders are needed to make these rules. Maybe we are reluctant to assume an office that is so highly under criticism, but if we readily criticize why not be criticized?

If we want to know what the SGA does with our money, let's find out instead of just asking questions. If we don't like the way things are being done, let's do them ourselves.

Here's a vote to the person willing to accept the responsibility.

Wall Changes University Life

(ACP) - A wall can change education and thought. But it cannot harness freedom of the mind that is given a chance to break the chains.

Kelly Smith contrasts education on the two sides of the wall in a DAILY KANSAN editorial.

Two girls, university students, walk along the still streets. It's dark. They're talking and laughing now and then as they play a children's game of hop-scotch with the shadows.

In another city, two more girls are walking along a street - a quiet street because there is a curfew. There is no laughing. The few words spoken are almost whispers. There are shadows, but no hop-scotch.

The difference? Two girls are students at the University of Kansas, USA, and two are students at Humboldt University, East Berlin.

Without further explanation, we recognize immediately that between these girls there is more than distance, more than a language barrier, and more than a mere variety of professors and textbooks - there is a world. A world now separated by a wall...

And what can we do? We can educate more aptly and fully.

We can learn that freedom of the mind cannot be harnessed within a wall if given a chance to break the chain, and we can learn that one person, one student body one country is enough to break the vacuum seal over the student, any student, anywhere.

UNC Sponsors Collegian Group Idea Exchange

An inter-collegiate exchange of ideas must be deliberately implemented if students in the world today are to have, as a part of their education, a broad concept of the role of humanity and its practical applications.

The Carolina Symposium will be held at the University of North Carolina April 1 through April 11. It is a student effort to bring the dimensions of the contemporary world into perspective.

This unique educational venture to promote the development of an exchange of ideas between representatives of different colleges will bring to Chapel Hill approximately twenty-five students from a variety of institutions. Students selected to participate in the Symposium program will discuss among themselves and with the Symposium guests the current revolutions in the modern world.

Leaders of this year's Symposium will be Dr. Crane Brinton, author and historian of Harvard; Dr. John Grierson, documentary film producer and Chairman of Social Government Television; Dr. Gertrude Blankensten, authority on Latin America, Northwestern University; E. Udo Oton, Information Officer, Nigerian Mission to the United Nations; and Mr. Richard Harkness, head of the ABC Washington news bureau. Other Symposium participants are also widely known authorities in their respective fields.

Student delegates to the Carolina Symposium will be lodged in fraternity and sorority houses at the university. A March 4 deadline for applications to the Symposium is necessary for selection processes and the arrangement of local room and board. Applications to the Symposium may be obtained from the East Carolinian office and they must be returned to the address stipulated on the application forms. All applications must be received by the Symposium in Chapel Hill no later than March 4.

History Maker Halts Studies No-Doz Aids EC Scholars

By MONTY MILLS

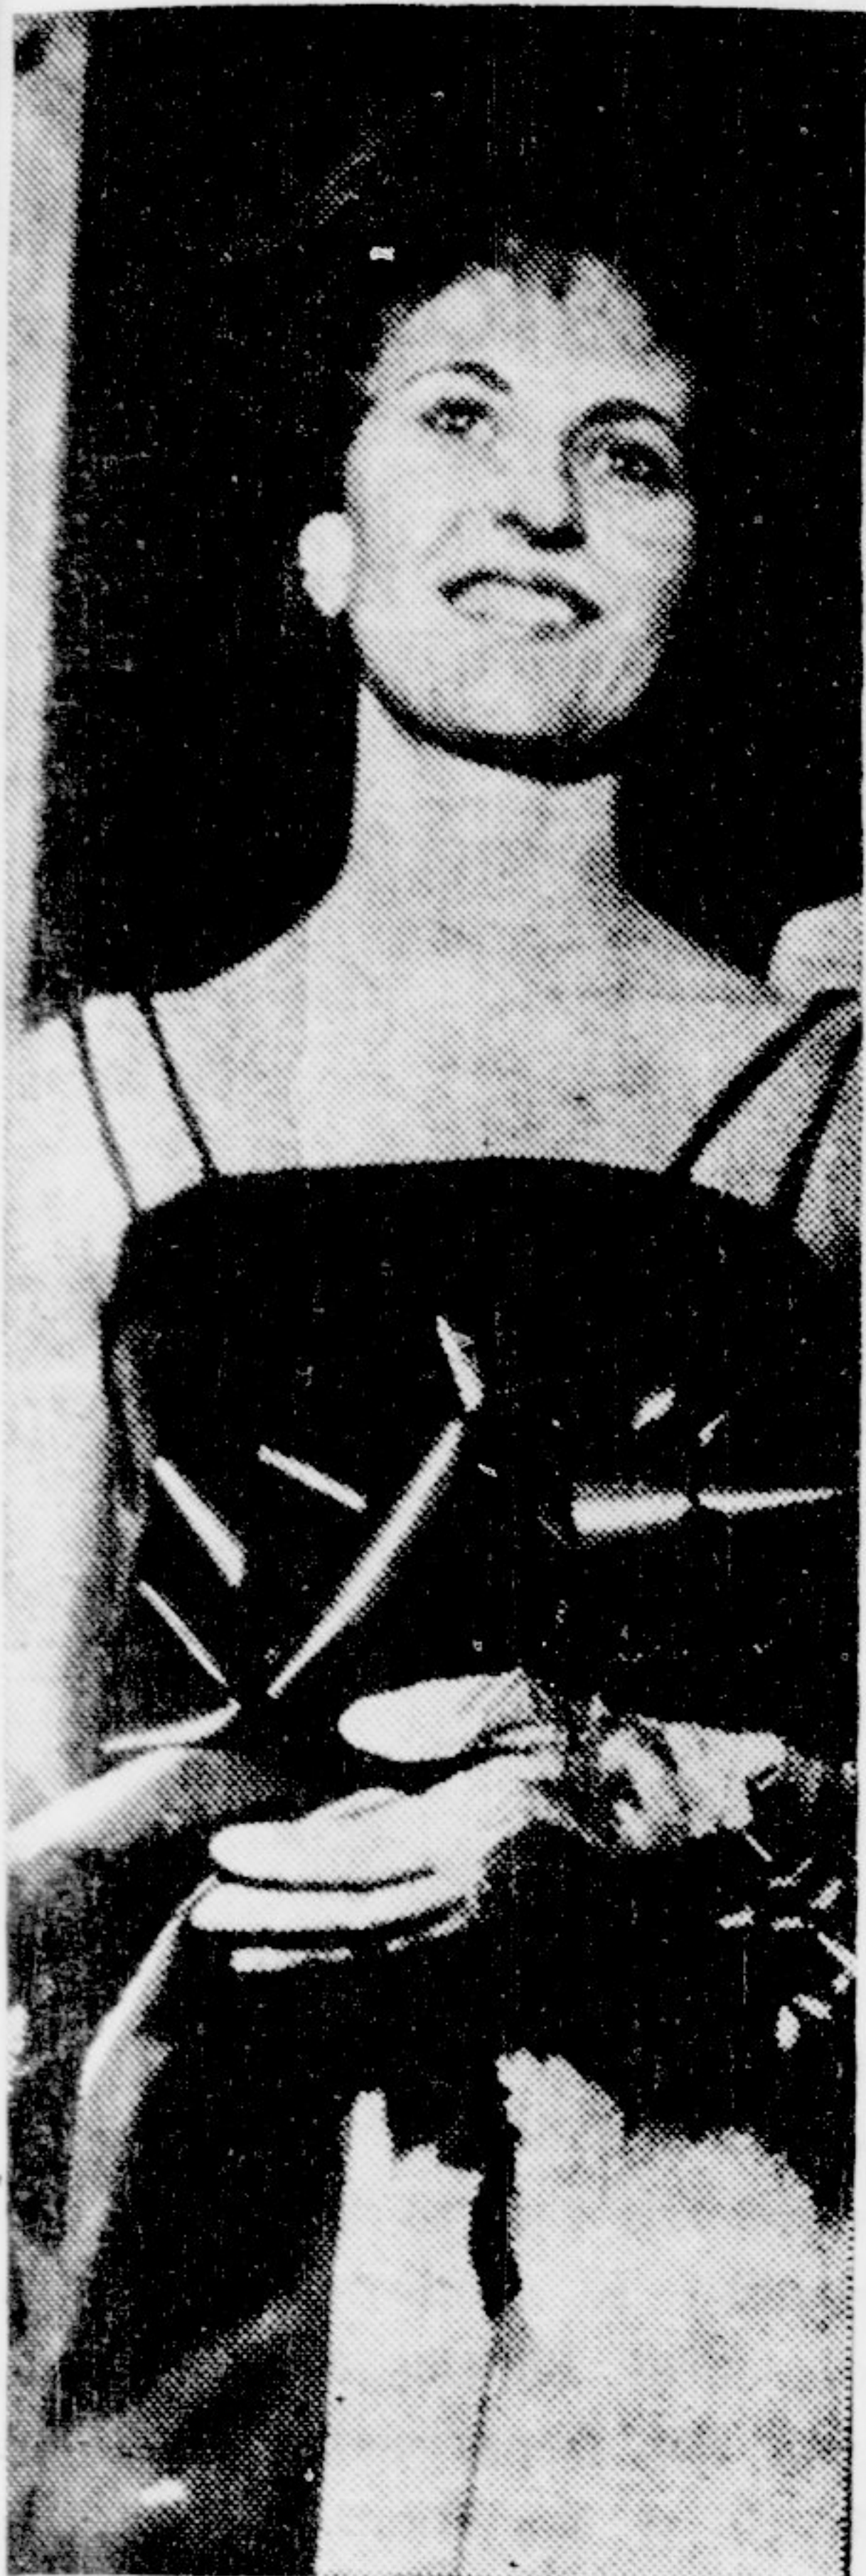

February 20, 1962 was one of the most thrilling, decisive days we've seen... a history making citizen, Astronaut John H. Glenn, Jr., marked it as the happiest and most successful day in his life.

Millions of proud Americans joined the Marine lieutenant colonel in his spectacular feat as his Friendship 7 rocket raced around the world. The accomplishment was tremendous and the calm, Project Mercury pilot was nothing less than tremendous!

EC's faculty and students were tuned to television sets throughout the campus as they breathlessly encouraged the astronaut in his thrice orbiting journey among the heavens. Some were silent in their encouragement and others were loud and jubilant as they witnessed the historical launching from Pad 14 on Cape Canaveral at precisely 9:47 a.m. Tuesday morning. Academic endeavors were small and obscure and almost forgotten as they joined freedom lovers throughout the world in extending their heartiest congratulations for a job well done.

Pre-Dawn Sessions Begin Students, vexed by the dreary Winter Quarter finals, have thronged to the campus soda shops for last minute socializing before buckling down to the talk at hand. Others have stocked up on No-Doz in anticipation of pre-dawn or all-night study sessions. Some have scurried about to finish last minute term papers and other assignments in hopes of adding bulk to the few points they have acquired in doubtful courses, praying that once more Lady Luck will have the grace to see them safely through another quarter.

Come Wednesday, cars loaded with students and baggage, will carry the exhausted "scholars" homeward bound for a few short days of peace and quiet to a haven free from academic worries.

Carolyn Beck

Delta Sigs Name Beck Rose Queen

Delta Sigma Pi, professional business fraternity, has announced Carolyn V. Beck, sophomore, as the 1962-1963 Rose Ball Queen.

As Rose Ball Queen, Miss Beck's photograph will be sent to the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi, Oxford, Ohio, where she will compete for the international title of "Rose of Delta Sigma Pi." If selected, her photograph will appear in the May issue of the international magazine DELTASIG.

Miss Beck, chosen as queen from a group of five runners-up, was presented a dozen red roses during the Delta Sigma Pi's formal ball.

An education major at the college, Miss Beck is a member of the Alpha Omicron Pi social sorority.

Preceding the ball, members of the fraternity entertained at a banquet at the Greenville Silo Restaurant honoring Carolyn V. Beck, Elizabeth Anne Devane, Kay E. Carroll, Sara Lou White, Brenda Jacobs, and Nancy Compton, all contestants for the title of Rose Ball Queen.

Extension Sponsors School On Wheels

Miss Virginia Dober, full-time instructor of Library Science in the Extension Division here, travels in a mobile unit to schools in Raleigh, Fayetteville, Clinton, Bladenboro, and New Bern.

To meet a shortage of librarian instructors in the North Carolina schools, Miss Dober teaches the course to students, teachers and any interested persons desiring a B.S. degree with a major or a minor in Library Science.

Where are our active students who are interested in East Carolina College? To date very few students have turned in their names in order to run for SGA positions. I hope that this is not an indication of the support the students are giving to this college. Deadline for all nominations will be 4:00 p.m. March 5, registration day.

EC Students Participate In Engineering Club

Thirty-eight pre-engineering students acquainting themselves with different phases of electrical, civil, and mechanical engineering, are now participating in the College chapter of Professional Engineers.

Thomas W. Rivers, Greenville civil engineer and former student here, was instrumental in organizing the East Carolina chapter during the year 1961.

The purpose of the organization is to provide a program of professional development and orientation to the pre-engineering student. Affiliated with the National Society of Professional Engineers, the college club is sponsored by the E. C. Chapter of Professional Engineers in North Carolina. Meetings are held on Wednesday of the third week of every month during the school year.

In April of this year, the group anticipates a trip to the Engineers Fair at North Carolina State College. Plans are also being outlined for a visit to the Voice of America transmittal station and to the Greenville Sewage Disposal Plant. Freshman James Ralph Taiton, Jr., specializing in pre-engineering and mathematics at the college, is president of the club.

Directory Lists Summer Jobs For Collegians

A directory which lists summer jobs for college students throughout the United States is now available.

The SUMMER EMPLOYMENT DIRECTORY gives the names and addresses of 1,367 organizations which want to employ college students. It also gives the positions open, and suggestions on how to make application — a sample letter of application and a personal data sheet.

There are all types of summer jobs listed in every state; there are jobs at resorts in the New England States, the Northeastern States, the Great Lakes area, and the Western States. College students are needed in: 20 national parks and national monuments; 34 ranches in the West and New York State, summer theatres in 15 states, business and industry at scattered locations, and various departments of the government.

Career Cues:

"Whatever your major, make sure to include a course in 'people'!"

W. Emlen Roosevelt, President
National State Bank, Elizabeth, N. J.

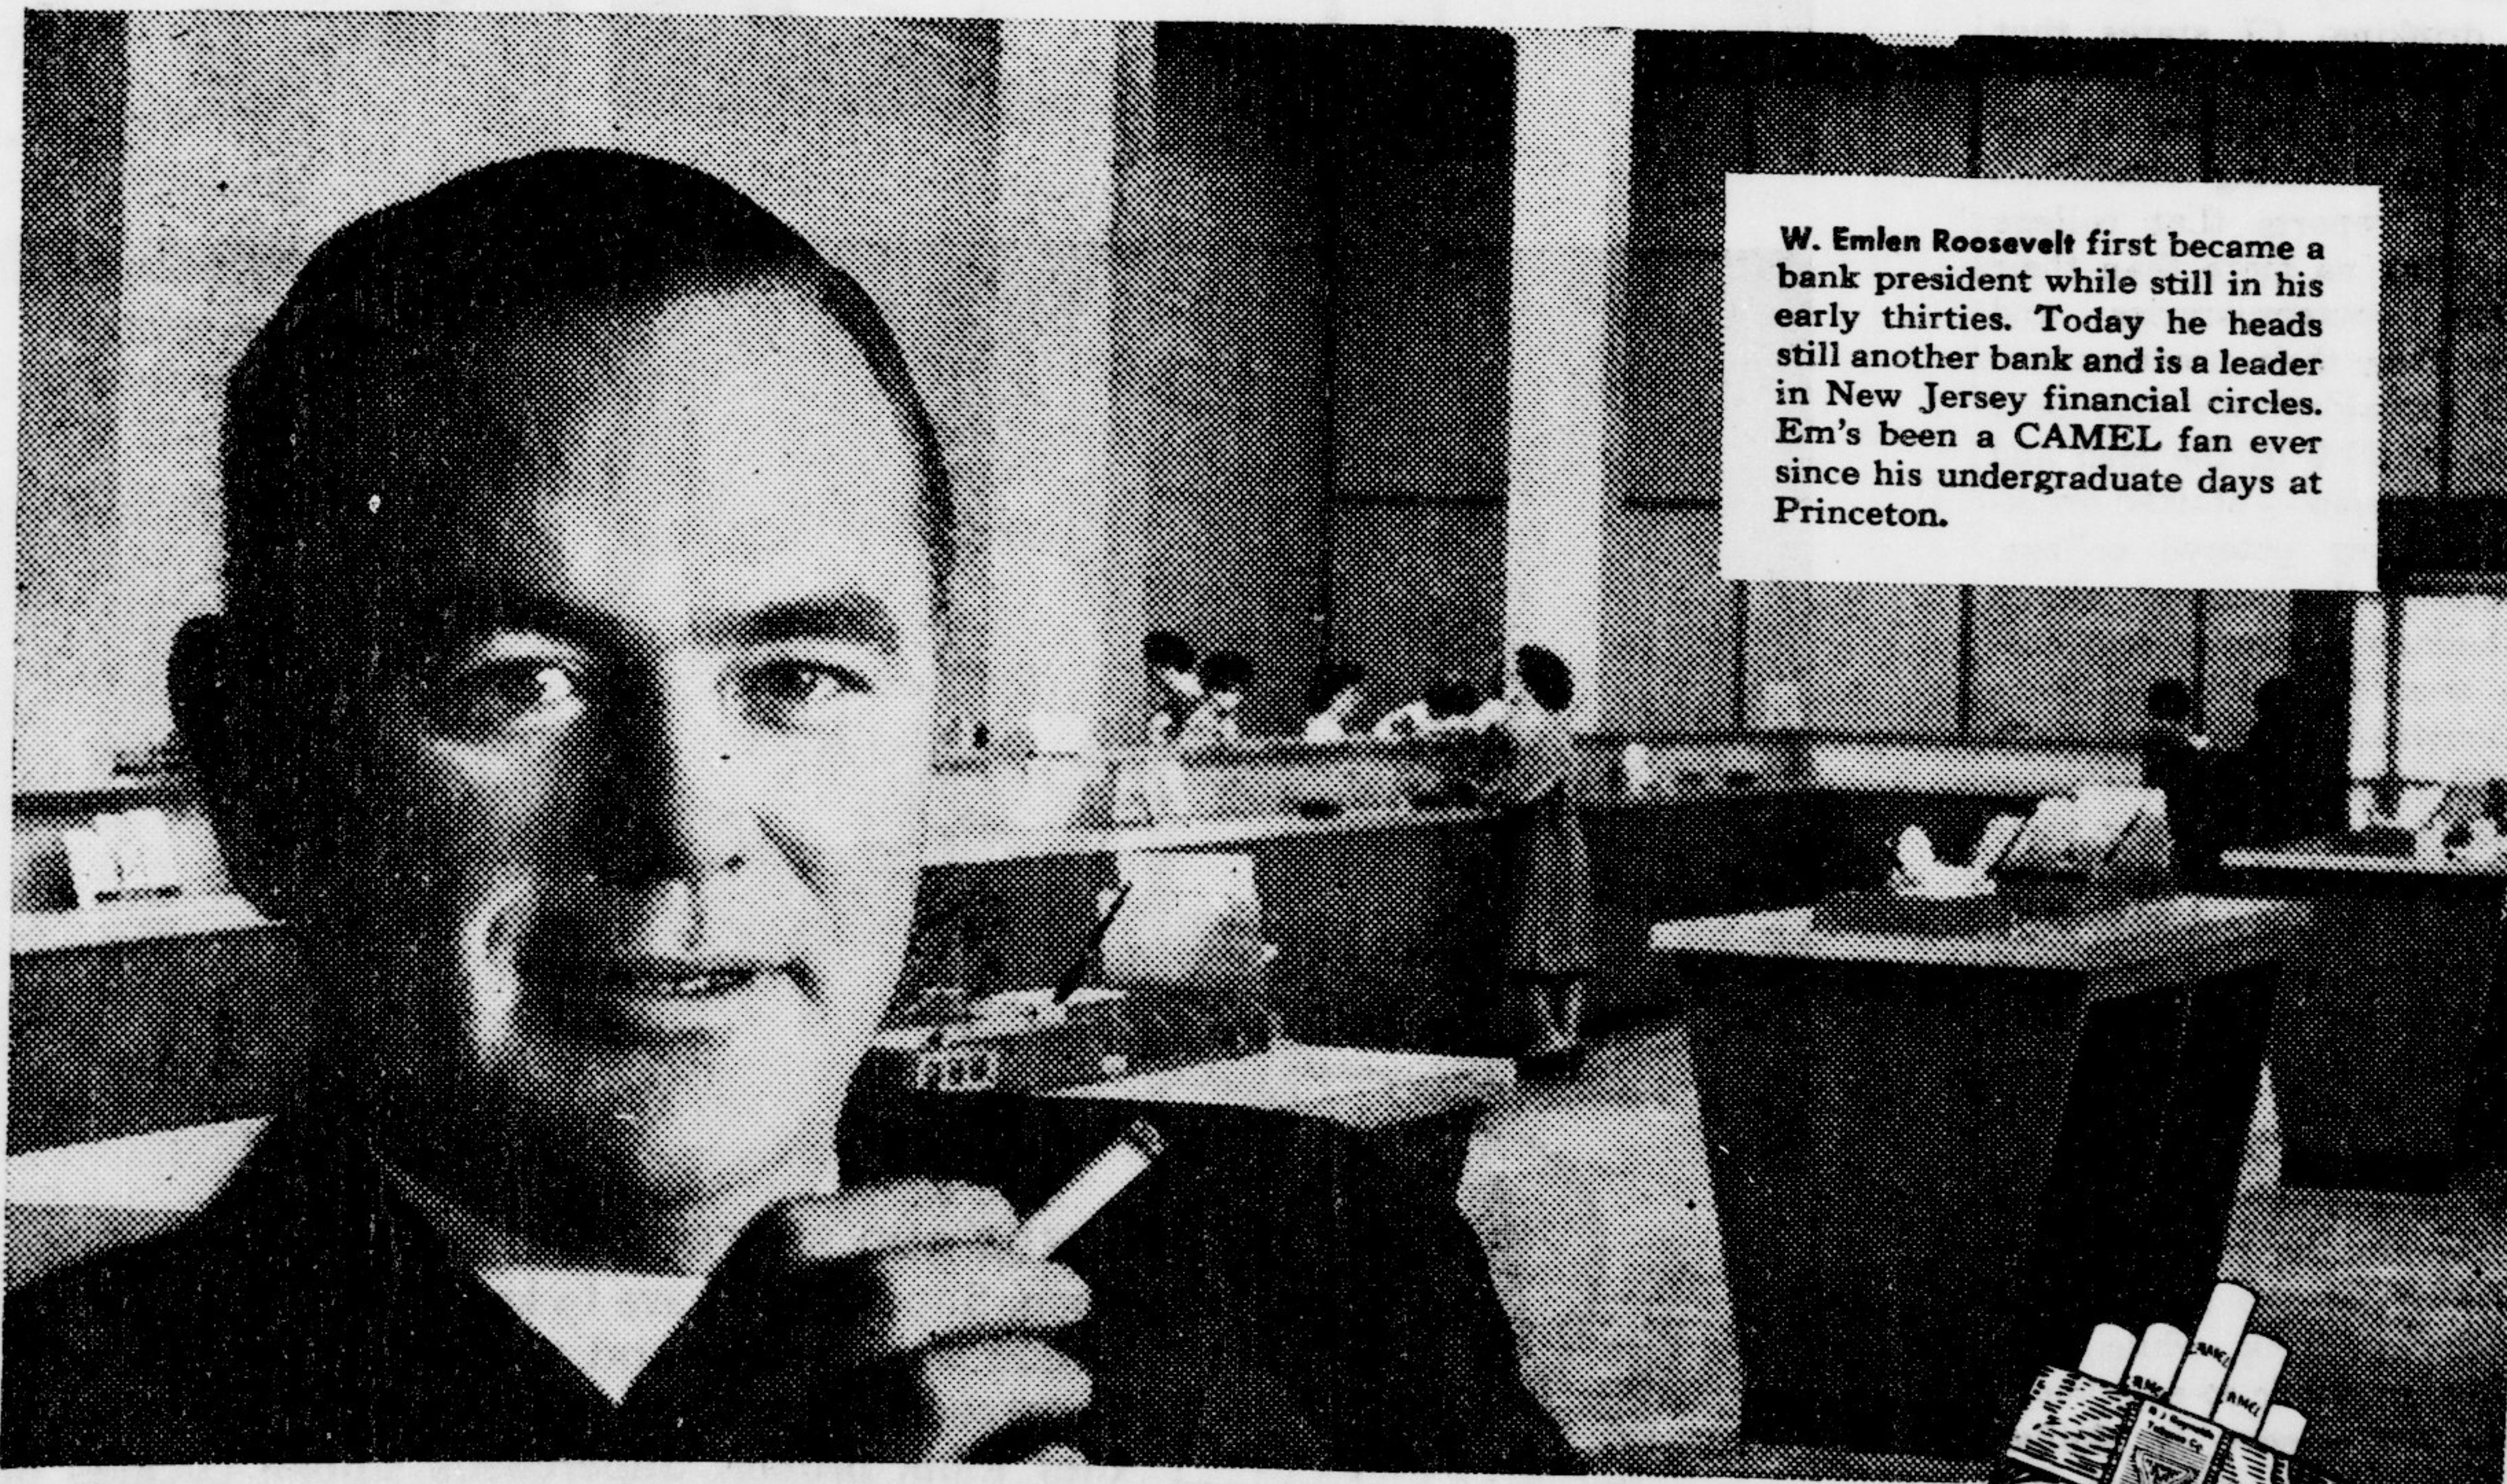

"If my college adviser had prophesied that studying psychology would some day help promote my career in banking, I'd have scoffed. Yet that is exactly what has happened. And when I think about it now the reason seems obvious. The facts and figures of banking, or of any other field, are mechanical devices. They take on real meaning only when related to people.

"Good psychology is also the basis of all teamwork. And, since most of today's business and scientific problems are too complicated for 'one man' solutions, teamwork is essential. If you want to be a valuable team player, and a likely candidate for captain, be the person who understands people. Learn what it takes for people to work together in harmony. Learn how to win trust and confidence. Learn basic human psychology.

"Bear this in mind, too. World tension, community tension, business tension, even family tension are the facts of everyday life. The more you know of human behavior, the better prepared you will be to deal with these problems.

"So, if you have the chance, take a course devoted to 'people.' Your class adviser can probably help you fit a psychology elective into your schedule. I don't think you'll regret it... I know I didn't."

W. Emlen Roosevelt first became a bank president while still in his early thirties. Today he heads still another bank and is a leader in New Jersey financial circles. Em's been a CAMEL fan ever since his undergraduate days at Princeton.

Peace-Corps Plans State-Wide Meet

Peace Corps Liaison officers from North Carolina colleges will meet in Chapel Hill for a statewide college Peace Corps conference, March 16-17, Dr. Robert E. Cramer, EC Peace Corps liaison officer, has announced. The conference will cover the areas of project development, volunteer recruitment, selection and training of volunteers, and project information.

The invitation to the Conference has been extended to include not only the official representative from each college campus but also students interested in the Peace Corps. Any EC student who is interested in going to this conference should get in touch with Dr. Cramer.

Further announcement has been made of the extended scope of projects offered by the Peace Corps, and of new areas requesting Peace Corps volunteers, Dr. Cramer said. In addition to areas already served by the Peace Corps there have been requests from Ivory Coast, Ethiopia, Somali, Togo, Liberia, Tunisia, Honduras, Jamaica, and North Borneo.

The Corps is now recruiting for particular skills, and candidates may apply for service with a project of their choice, according to Dr. Cramer. It is emphasized that there is great need for teachers on all levels, elementary through college, and in all subjects. There also is need for mechanics, agricultural workers, medical personnel, including doctors, nurses, and laboratory technicians, and people in many other trades and skills.

New descriptive pamphlets and new Peace Corps application blanks may be secured from Dr. Cramer, 3rd floor.

College Students Drink Less Than Contemporaries

College students are not prime contenders for Alcoholics Anonymous. This is the finding of Campus Illustrated, the only national magazine for the college community, in its survey and report on student drinking. CI states that campus drinking is no more widespread, no more frequent or excessive, than drinking elsewhere. In fact, CI reports that college students drink no more than their non-college contemporaries and drink less than their predecessors.

The CI survey reveals that most collegians — 80% of the men and 65% of the women — started drinking before they entered college. Furthermore, the survey shows that collegians' attitudes and customs in regard to drinking were well determined before they came to college by the practice, attitudes and customs of their families, their social groups and their communities.

A surprising fact uncovered by CI's comprehensive survey is that less drinking takes place in co-educational schools than at colleges restricted to one sex only. Statistics show that the big drinking schools are the private men's colleges, 92% of the students at these colleges drink while only 83% indulge at public co-ed schools. The ratio for women is similar — 89% at private women's colleges to 74% at co-ed schools.

Based on the information it gathered, Campus Illustrated concludes that "there is no drinking problem on campuses today. Collegians rarely or never get drunk or have complications resulting from drink."

Graham Building.

No applicant is ever accepted or rejected primarily on basis of placement test scores, Dr. Cramer said, and the examinations are used primarily for placement rather than for screening purposes. The scores are considered along with education, work experience, special skills, motivation, interpersonal relationships, and character.

Student Bank

Effective Monday, February 26, the Student Bank will be open from 10:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m. and from 1:30-3:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. Saturday hours will be from 10:00 a.m.-12:00 noon.

Firm To Publish Arrangement By Music Graduate

John Robert Watson's arrangement for band of Rossini's Tancredi Overture has been accepted by Pro Art Publications in New York City. Watson, an EC alumni, is now band director at the Robersonville High School.

The College Symphonic Band is planning to perform the work in concert here soon after it is published.

Watson, a 1955 graduate of EC, holds the master's degree from the University of Illinois. Before taking up his present work in Robersonville, he taught and acted as band director in schools at Alexandria, Va., and in Windsor and Lumberton.

As a composer, he made his debut here in May, 1953, when his lively original work "King-Christiani March," was played by the concert band at a "pops" concert. Later several of his transcriptions were performed by the college band. Last summer the Tancredi Overture was included among works played by the college Summer Music Camp Band of high school students.

Martin Talks To Baptists On Church Missions

The Reverend Charles L. Martin, Jr., an assistant secretary in the youth department of the Japan Baptist Convention, will be special speaker at the Forum at Campus Baptist Center on Monday, March 5, at 5:15 o'clock.

Mr. Martin will speak on the challenge confronting today's student in the mission of the church.

Mr. Martin is qualified both by experience and training for this subject. In addition to his responsibilities in student work in Japan, he serves as associate pastor of Mejiro ga Oka Baptist Church, Tokyo, teaches a Bible class for students, and writes curriculum material for the Japan Baptist Convention's training organization.

His wartime service with the U. S. Army Air Force furnished another part of his experience. As a bombardier on a B-29, he flew 31 missions over Japan and received the Distinguished Flying Cross and "a few other medals."

Mr. Martin is under appointment by the Southern Baptist Mission Board, and while on furlough, he is serving as missionary personnel associate for the Board, assisting in work among college students. Presently, he is on a tour of the United States which includes 22 colleges in state. His visit to the college community is sponsored jointly by the local Baptist Student Union and the Department of Student Work of the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina.

Carter Paints Norwegian Mural In Capitol City

Dr. Bruce Carter, professor in the EC Art Department last year, is now in Norway working on a mural depicting Norwegian history.

The mural when completed will measure eight feet high and thirteen feet across. Dr. Carter's work on the mural has been slowed due to the lack of sunlight in Oslo at this time. The work will contain drawings for five large mosaics. There will be two side panels eight feet by four feet each.

Before leaving this area, Dr. Carter painted a mural on North Carolina history for Elmhurst school. Four panels were included which ranged from the "High Tide" area to the "Piedmont Progress."

Dr. Carter is also well known for his woodcuts. His work was accepted for the 1959 Artists' Annual and again in 1960. He has presented art shows throughout North Carolina and also in the Norfolk, Virginia, Museum. In addition to his works of woodcuts shows, he has executed a number of murals. These include murals at Pennsylvania State University, the National Museum at Gettysburg, and the East Side Elementary School in Gouverneur, N. Y.

Dr. Carter received his master's and doctorate degrees at Penn State.

Pirates End Season In Third Place

Bucs Down Guilford In 64-52 Victory

Tuesday night's 62-54 victory over Guilford gave Coach Earl Smith's Pirates their eleventh conference game of the season. The last regular game of the season, it left the Bucs with an 11-6 record in the conference and in third place.

Retiring seniors, Co-captains Charlie Lewis and Benny Bowes, turned in fine performances in their last home game. Bowes, grabbing a large portion of rebounds and steals, and Lewis, setting up scoring opportunities, aided EC in the win over Guilford.

Quakers Control Opportunities
Scoring was difficult for the Pirates in the first half, as Guilford was playing a strictly control ball game. The Bucs managed to pull ahead of the Quakers at the end of the first half with a 26-17 point lead to break up the possession tactics.

The Quakers, taking about ten shots the first half, froze the ball for the majority of the game. EC's Charlie Lewis hit for six points in the last two minutes to send the Pirates out front.

Action Speeds Up
Both teams returned in the second half to speed up the contest. Lacy West's basket in the early stages of the second portion increased the Pirate lead to 12 points. However, the Quakers managed to cut the Buc lead to 9 points to cut the Buc lead to 9 points with 12 minutes remaining in the contest. West scored four straight points for the Bucs to make the EC lead 48-32.

Subs See Action
With eight minutes left on the clock, Coach Smith's starting five relinquished the court to Pirate substitutes. EC's largest lead of the night came on two points by sophomore forward, Russell Knowles that increased the lead to 50-32. With five minutes remaining, the starting five returned to quieten the Quaker threat, and then went on to win the game with a 62-54 score.

Lacy West, scoring a game high total of 18 points, lead the Pirate win. Also hitting in double figures was co-captain Charlie Lewis with six field goals and one free throw for a total of 13 points.

Jon Burwell and Mike Alldred with 18 and 11 points respectively led the Guilford scoring. Burwell and Alldred were the only cagers hitting in double figures for the visitors.

Shooting percentage from the free throw line was remarkable for both teams. Guilford hit eight for eleven from the foul line, while EC hit eight for nine.

UNITED WE STAND

The entire academic world is agog over the success of the Associated Colleges Plan—ACP, for short. I mean, you go to any campus in the country these days and you will see students and faculty dancing on the green, blowing penny whistles, grabbing each other by the elbows and yelling, "About that ACP, Charley—like wow!"

And who can blame them? The ACP is a plan not only simply brilliant, but also brilliantly simple. All it is, is a loose regional federation of small colleges. Let's say, for example, that in a given region we have a group of small colleges, each with its own academic specialty. Small College No. 1, let's say, has a fine language department; Small College No. 2, let's say, has a fine science department; No. 3 has a fine music department; etc., etc.

Well sir, under the ACP these various colleges federate. A student in any one of the colleges can take courses in the specialty of any of the other colleges and—here's the beauty part—he will receive credit for the course at his home college. Thus he enjoys all the advantages of a big university without losing the comfy coziness of a small college!

Well sir, you can see what a good idea the ACP is. I respectfully submit, however, that just because a thing is good is no reason not to try to make it better. Like, for instance, Marlboro Cigarettes. Marlboros were good from the very beginning, and people found out quickly and sales zoomed. But did the makers of Marlboro say, "Okay, we've got it made. Let's relax?" Well sir, if that's what you think, you don't know the makers! They did not relax. They took their good Marlboros and kept improving them. They improved the filter, improved the blend, improved the pack. They researched and developed tirelessly, until today Marlboro is just about the most admirable cigarette you can put a match to. There are, in fact, some people who find Marlboros so admirable they can't bear to put a match to them. They just sit with a single Marlboro in hand and admire it for ten, twelve years on end. The makers of Marlboro are of course deeply touched by this—except for E. Rennie Sigafos, the sales manager.

But I digress. The ACP, I say, is good but it can be better. Why should the plan be confined to small colleges? Why should it be confined to a limited region? Why not include all colleges and universities, big and small, wherever they are?

Let's start such a federation. Let's call it the "Bigger Associated Colleges To Encourage Richer Intellectual Activity"—BACTERIA, for short!

What a bright new world BACTERIA opens up. Take, for example, a typical college student—Hunrath Sigafos (son, incidentally, of the Marlboro sales manager). Hunrath, a bright lad, is currently majoring in burley at the University of Kentucky. Under the BACTERIA plan, Hunrath could stay at Kentucky, where he has made many friends, but at the same time broaden his vistas by taking a course in constitutional law at Harvard, a course in physics at Caltech, a course in frostbite at Minnesota and a course in poi at Hawaii!

I admit there are still a few bugs in BACTERIA. How, for instance, could Hunrath attend a 9 o'clock class at Harvard, a 10 o'clock class at Hawaii, an 11 o'clock class at Minnesota, and still keep his lunch date at Kentucky? It would be idle to deny that this is a tricky problem, but I have no doubt American ingenuity will carry the day. Always remember how they laughed at Edison and Fulton—and particularly at Walter Clavicle who invented the collarbone.

Three cheers for American ingenuity, which gave us the ACP, the collarbone and MGM . . . that's the Mighty Good Makin's you get in Marlboro, the filter cigarette with the unfiltered taste. Settle back and enjoy one. You get a lot to like.
