Choir Performs Easter Oratorio; Soloists Sing

In observance of the Easter Season, "The Seven Last Words of Christ," oratorio by the French composer Dubois, was presented Monday night, by the East Carolina College Chapel Choir, at 8 p. m. in Austin Auditorium.

Since it was composed in 1867, the oratorio has been popular with audiences and has been performed frequently at Easter time because of the beauty and effectiveness of the music.

A short work, "The Seven Last Words of Christ" was performed by soprano, tenor, and baritone soloists and a chorus. The soloists sang and spoke the words of Christ; and the chorus represented the multitude, either those who were railing at Him or His grieving friends.

Dr. Carl Hjortsvang of the Music Department directed the oratorio. Soloists were Mrs. JoAnn Sparks Jernigan, soprano; John Berry, tenor; and Robert Tilley and Jerry Ely, baritones. Ted Gossett was the organist.

The group is scheduled to be heard over WRAL-TV, Channel 5, in "The Seven Last Words of Christ" April 22 at 2 p. m. on the weekly "Vignettes in Sound" series of the EC Music Department.

Burness Ann McIlwain is a 20-year-old sophomore from New Bern and is sponsored by Alpha Phi.

What Is A Well-Educated Man?

Seeking Knowledge Becomes Way Of Life

We are spending four years of our lives here at EC to become educated. When it's over how will we know we are educated? What is a well-educated man?

As educated people we will be confronted with the same problems that every man faces; however, the educated man is one who has learned where to find the answers to the problems. Formal education teaches us to think and to reason.

If educated, we are at home with new ideas. Our mind is questioning and seeking knowledge and truth. Our minds are open and spirits free. Through education we gain a sense of relationship between the real and the ideal and the possible to the actual.

As educated individuals we know that the right way is not always the easiest way nor is it the one that is easiest to defend. Mr. Label A. Katz expressed the idea, "It seems to me that the well-educated man fears he isn't." Education and becoming educated is not a goal that we can speak of as "I have attained my goal; I am educated." Education is a way of life and a life-long process of pursuing truths.

If well-educated, we will turn our knowledge into wisdom and a rewarding life. We will know how to make daily tasks meaningful. We will be alert for fresh ideas and new adventures in the field of learning.

We will use the past and present to find meaning in the future and wish to leave some accomplishment of ours to future generations . . . whether it be a building or a recipe.

We have seen what being well-educated will mean to us and the people around us, but how do we become educated?

Perhaps the best way to answer this question would be by asking more questions. Can we be well educated if we have not learned enough about history and techniques of art, music, architecture, and dance to give us that extra dimension of awareness which only trained senses can provide. Can we be educated without knowledge of a foreign language? We need to learn to think and feel as aliens.

We need the aid of friends and relatives in becoming educated. We need to sound-off our ideas . . . silly though they may be. Our education must have breadth and depth. It must be an education of high quality. "Once upon a time an ancient monarch inquired as to whether or not there was some comparatively easy and quick method by which he could acquire the basic principles of geometry. He was told, 'Sire, there is no royal road to geometry.'" Just as there is no "royal road" to geometry, neither is there one to any form of education. We must dig and seek for knowledge if it is to be ours.

We realize that we do not know everything, but keep seeking to find what we do not know. Education liberates us and with each bit of knowledge we become less inhibited.

We are now in the process of becoming well-educated men and women. The degree of this education is entirely up to us. We are totally responsible for the knowledge and how we use it. We, when educated, possess a humanness which we are not afraid to express.

Kissing Booth Makes Fortune AT CU Carnival

The sweet odor of cotton candy, the stickiness of candy apples, the green streamers flying from the booths, the sounds of music echoing gaily among the crowd—all these were a part of the festivities of the annual college Union carnival held Wednesday night.

Twenty-seven campus student organizations entered decorated booths in the competitive event. Masqueraders, contending for the best costume and attired in a motley of striking carnival-like outfits, meandered among the crowd. The well-constructed wooden clown on the main bulletin board attracted much attention.

Geography students delighted in throwing pies at their instructor, Mr. Gritzner and Dr. Lowery. Our hats are off to these brave souls who cooperated in this project.

We hear that the kissing booth made a fortune—especially since they had no overhead at all . . . just hot lips.

Freshman student Carolyn Park remarked, "They didn't have a boys' kissing booth!"

Linda Dupree said, "I didn't know what to think about the kissing booth. One thing I liked was that everybody was there. I thought it was nice to see so many of the professors attending."

Peace Corps Offers Positions In Africa, Asia, Latin America

Peace Corps Placement Tests will be given Saturday, April 21, in Civil Service Commission testing centers throughout the country. The tests will be administered at the following Peace Corps test centers in North Carolina: Asheville, Charlotte, Durham, Fayetteville, and Goldsboro. All tests will begin at 8:30 a.m.

This new round of tests has special significance: Applicants are now being invited to train for 30 new Peace Corps projects in Africa, Asia and Latin America. Training will begin this summer on college campuses throughout the United States.

Many who take the tests will be applicants who have sent in a Peace Corps questionnaire available at Post Offices since the last round of testing.

Interested persons who have not yet filled out a questionnaire will also be permitted to take the tests. They will be accommodated on a "space available" basis at the centers.

Peace Corps opportunities abroad cover many fields—teaching, nursing, engineering, plumbing, carpentry, agriculture, medicine, home economics, architecture, city planning, geology, physical education.

Applicants must be American citizens and at least 18 years of age. (There is no upper age limit; persons 60 and older are performing key Peace Corps jobs overseas). Married couples without dependents children may apply.

"Never forget the 'everyman,' for it is he, the man who does not have a formalized education who will teach you more than anyone else. One of the things he'll teach you is never to guess what people are thinking in the recesses of their minds. When you write, or report, remember this 'everyman.' He's the guy who will remember you. And his remembrance will spell the difference between your failure and your success."

To those people wishing to earn their livelihood by penning and penciling, Dorothy Kilgallen says in April Campus Illustrated, "Write! Don't talk about it. Don't plan it. Don't think about it. Do it! Close your door. Throw your friends out. Become a hermit if necessary. But write!"

providing both qualify. At the testing centers, each person will be given his choice between two types of Placement Tests. One is for men and women who would like to be considered for positions as teachers. For this, a bachelor's degree is required, but you do not need to be an accredited teacher.

The other test is for everyone else who wants to serve in the Peace Corps. While some projects call for technical skills, many others require men and women without such formal or specialized training. Among these are liberal arts graduates for community development projects and people with general farming backgrounds for agricultural projects.

Helpful Hints Offered For College Dorm Coeds

(ACP) — Gleaned from "our country's magazines for young women" are the six most frequently-appearing helpful hints for passing an exam successfully.

The FOURNIER NEWS, Chestnut Hill College, warns: "If followed carefully, they will lead to truly successful nervous breakdowns." Here are the hints with the paper's comments:

1. "Get a good night's sleep." Now, you couldn't even begin to explain the absurdities contained in this cheerful suggestion. Its creator is completely out of contact with reality.

2. "Eat a hearty breakfast." A reasonable demand, you say to yourself — until you have concocted it. To make matters worse, if matters can get much worse, there is usually an enormous picture, in living color, of the aforementioned breakfast. Invariably it will contain several straggly bundles of parsley, a soft-boiled egg, a blob of strawberry jam, a gallon of juice, and an ill-smelling, shapeless, multi-colored object titled "Early Morning Surprise." Definitely the work of a sadist.

3. "Dress in something cheerful." (a) you cannot see clearly enough to know what you are putting on, (b) you do not own anything decent, let alone cheerful. (c) the very thought of "something cheerful" sickens you, (d) you know what your friends would do to you if you showed up in that exam room at 9 a.m. with "something cheerful" on. 4. "Bring freshly sharpened pencils." Apparently the mere sight of a pointy pencil tip will brighten your spirits and send rays of light to your gray, gray matter. If you are not permitted to write in pencil, freshly sharpened pen points are highly recommended.

5. "Have confidence in yourself." Keep saying over and over, "I will do fine." Just in case this ritual does not pull you through, you'd better have, in addition to confidence, a one-way train ticket, a supply of note paper, several handkerchiefs, four peanut butter sandwiches, and a copy of "Catcher in the Rye."

6. "Relax." Ha, ha, ha! During an intermission of The Skin of Our Teeth, Thornton Wilder's symbolic and frequently puzzling play, a woman was heard to ask her husband what it was all about. "It's about the troubles of the human race since time began," he told her.

"Oh," she said, "there must be more to it than that."

(ACP) — A senior who was "just out chasing girls" was fined $20 in police court for displaying a red light on top of a vehicle, reports the UNIVERSITY DAILY KANSAN. He entered a plea of guilty, but asked the court to consider the fact that he was using a small flashlight and was just girl-chasing.

Speight's Exhibit In Hallway Gallery Attracts Many Visitors

Frances Speight's paintings, now on exhibition, are attracting visitors from many parts of the state to the Hallway Gallery, Rawl Building, on the campus here. The art show, open to the public through April, is presented by the college Department of Art as a major event in its cultural program for the year.

A North Carolinian and an internationally famous painter, now artist-in-residence at EC, Mr. Speight returned to his native state after a long absence, when he joined the faculty of the college last September.

As a distinguished professor of art for thirty years at the noted Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and as a painter whose works are displayed in more than four-hundred galleries and museums in the United States and Canada and in a number of private collections throughout the country, he has received a warm welcome here from "home folks" and from students and art lovers.

In 1960, the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts granted Mr. Speight its highest award, the Academy Gold Medal of Honor. Among prizes presented to him in national exhibitions of painting, in addition to the Sosnan medal, are the First Altman Prize, the First Hallgarten Prize, the Kohnstamm Prize, and the Oberg Prize.

He is listed in Who's Who in America and in the Encyclopedia Britannica, in which one of his works is reproduced.

Bucs Downed By William & Mary In Track Meet

EC lost to William and Mary last Wednesday by a score of 86½ to 42½. Although it was a defeat, the margin of defeat was not as great as it has been in past years. William and Mary has 4 track coaches, and offers scholarships as an incentive for their impressive interest and participation in this sport.

This in itself revealed to the ECC Track Team and should reveal to any interested college supporters, that ECC has a long way to go before she can expect to provide the consistent competition expected of a Southern Conference participant.

The events were as follows: EC won first, second, and third in the 100 yd. dash. First and second in the 220. Second and third in the 440. They didn't place in the 880, the mile, and the two mile.

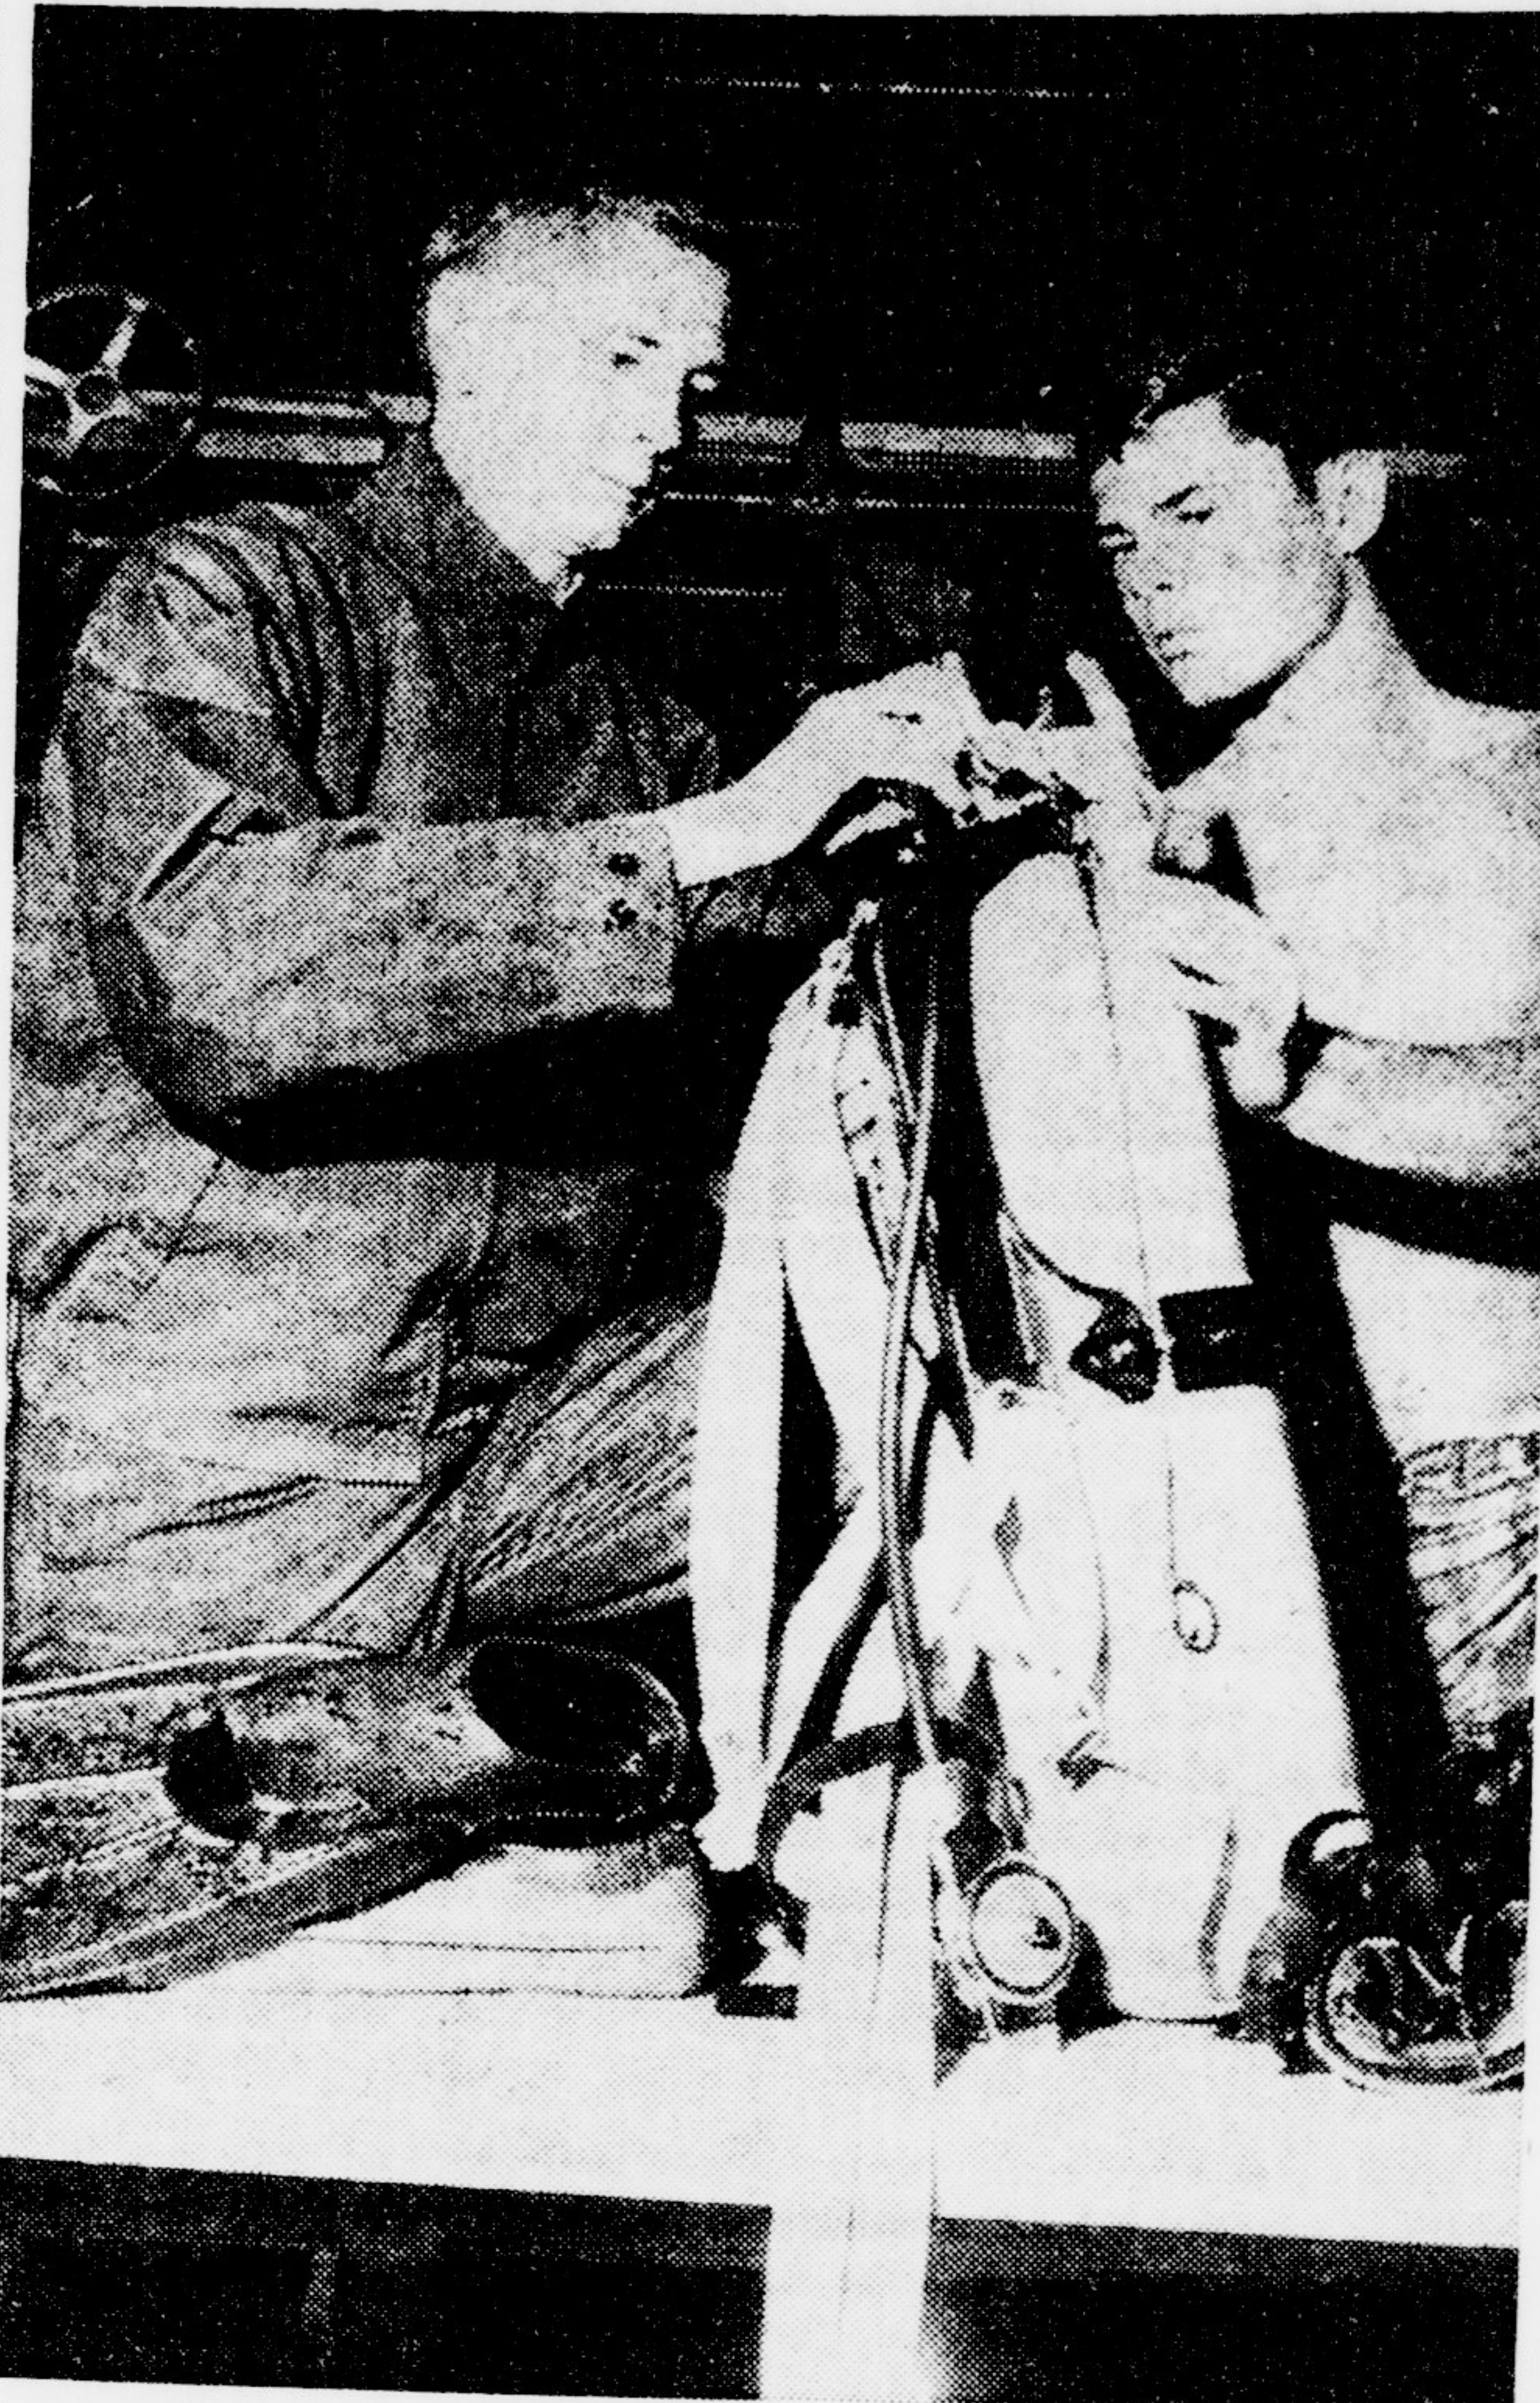

We placed second in the broad jump, and tied for third place in the pole vault. McCants, who pole vaults for EC, broke the school record here at EC by 6" when he vaulted 12'.

We won the shot put, placed second in the discus and javelin, and third in the high hurdles. EC didn't place in the low hurdles, but placed third in the high jump and won the mile relay.

Cuda's Of Carolina

EC Golf Team Tops Tri-Meet; Record--5 Wins 1 Tie, No Losses

EC's golf team won both matches last Friday to top the tri-meet with ACC and Pfeiffer. The two victories brought the team record to five wins, one tie, and no losses.

The Bucs dropped their opponents in fine style, defeating Pfeiffer 14-4, and Atlantic Christian 12½-5½. Billy Brogden, with a 76, and Charles Rose who carded a 83, were the low medalists for the Pirates.

The low man for AC was Sid Denny with a total of 81. Pfeiffer's low man was Bill Richards who shot an 82.

EC's next golf match will be Tuesday, April 24, against Guilford and Atlantic Christian in another tri-meet. The Pirates play Saint Andrews College in Laurinburg today.
