Pulitzer Winners Appear Tonight

Mark Van Doren and Karl Shapiro, two noted American authors and teachers, both Pulitzer Prize winners in literature will speak here tonight in Austin Auditorium at 8:00 p. m.

Mark Van Doren, Professor Emeritus of English at Columbia University will present this evening's lecture "The Poet as Teacher" which will be followed by Mr. Shapiro's informal comments. At the lecture this morning, Mr. Van Doren commented on the ideas presented in Mr. Shapiro's lecture.

These two distinguished men are being brought to campus by the Student Government and the Sperry-Hutchinson grant for the current lectureship program. This is the last in this year's series of three programs.

Mr. Van Doren, for many years teacher of English at Columbia received a Pulitzer Prize in 1940 for his "Collected Poems, 1922-1938." His critical studies of Thoreau, Hawthorne, Dryden, and Shakespeare are widely publicized. He has written novels and compiled several anthologies.

Mr. Shapiro's "V-Letter and Other Poems" won a Pulitzer Prize in 1944. He has served as editor of "Poetry" magazine and is presently editing "Prairie Schooner" at the University of Nebraska. Other volumes of his poetry include "Person, Place, and Thing," "Place of Love," and "Trial of a Poet."

Mr. Shapiro held an informal poetry-reading in the Y-Hut this afternoon under the sponsorship of the campus magazine, "The Rebel."

Fleishman Directs Orchestra At Spring Concert

Joel Fleishman, legal assistant to Governor Terry Sanford, acted as guest conductor of the EC College Orchestra at the Annual Spring Concerto Program presented by the organization Sunday afternoon, April 29, in Wright Auditorium.

The program featured seven talented students at the college who were chosen by the faculty of the Music Department to appear as soloists with orchestra. Donald Hayes, faculty member of the college Department of Music, shared honors with Mr. Fleishman as conductor.

Betsy Hancock Bullard and Peter Johl, EC students, sang the duet from the finale of Act I of "Madame Butterfly" by Puccini.

Other student soloists were Beverly Eakes, Craig Daughtridge, and Tasker Polk, pianists; William Allgood, bassoonist; and Harold Jones, percussionist.

The program was presented as a special event of the Greenville Fine Arts Festival April 18-May 11.

Prewitt Speaks To Fraternity

Dr. Clinton R. Prewitt, Director of the Psychology Department, will be the guest speaker at the annual Phi Mu Alpha Spring banquet at the Greenville Country Club on May 4.

Dr. Prewitt, active in numerous state and national educational organizations, is a member of the N. C. State Board of Mental Health and the immediate past president of the N. C. Educational Association.

The festivities will be concluded with a formal dance.

CCPA Directors Elect Griffin President Pro-tem

Bill Griffin, Associate Editor of the East Carolinian, has been elected president pro-tem of the Carolina Collegiate Press Association. His election took place this weekend at the annual CCPA convention at Lenoir Rhyne College in Hickory.

Other members of the East Carolinian staff attending the convention included: Jean Peace, editor; Monty Mills and Kay Burgess, co-managing editors; Helen Kallio, copy editor; Carol Euler, feature editor; and Dr. Robert Rickert, faculty advisor.

At the awards banquet held Saturday night, the East Carolinian was presented with several awards. Skip Wamsley, former photographer for the East Carolinian, won first and second place in the photography division and the East Carolinian was recognized as the paper with the best photography.

Patsy Elliott, former editor, was given honorable mention in the editorial division and Jean Peace, current editor, won second place in this division. Other individual awards were won by: Larry Blizzard, second place, original drawing division; Marcelle Vogel, honorable mention, news writing division; and Jean Peace, second place, feature writing division.

The East Carolinian was given honorable mention in the best overall newspaper division. Lenoir Rhyne and Catawba were co-winners in this division.

Tim Parker, chief of the Associated Press news bureau in Charlotte, was guest speaker at the banquet.

The EC Aquanymphs will present their annual free water ballet tonight and tomorrow night at 8 p. m. in the College pool. Floating patterns, precision swimming and a chorus line are included in the program. (Reflector Staff Photo)

'A Splash Of Spring' Tonight--Tomorrow Night

Aquanymphs Hold Annual Watershow

"A Splash of Spring," the Aquanymphs annual watershow, will be presented on May 1 and 2 at 8:00 p. m. in the gym. There will be no admission charge.

The girls participating in the show include Anne Cates, president; Jessie Dvinoff, vice president and student production director; Ann Green, secretary-treasurer; and Sandy Snyder, publicity chairman.

Also appearing will be Dottie

Mulvey, Nickie Rasmussen, Joyce Blizzard, Grace Maxwell, Maria Ehrman, Shelly Coviello, Harriet Paylor, Betsy Cherry, Ann Weber, Dawn Culton, Judy Pearsall, Bunny McIlwean, Linda Charlton, Becky Huffman, Ann Bradford, and Ann Peaden.

One number, "Red, Red Robin," will be performed by Dr. Glen Reeder and Coach Ralph Steele of the Physical Education Department. The girls' numbers range from "Baubles, Bangles, and Beads," a solo by Jessie Dvinoff to "A Rustle of Spring" by the entire group.

Miss Gay Hogan is the club's advisor and production director. Choreography for the show was staged by members of the Aquanymphs.

Music Hall Dedication Set For Sunday

The Music Hall at East Carolina College will be dedicated to David Julian Whichard of Greenville, publisher of the Greenville Daily Reflector, in ceremonies conducted in the Band and Orchestra Rehearsal Room of the building Sunday, May 6, at 3:30 p. m.

Whichard Music Hall was named in honor of Mr. Whichard in recognition of his many services to East Carolina College. In addition to the support which he has given the college through the columns of his newspaper, he has shown his generosity and interest in education for young people by providing, for a number of years, scholarships for day students enrolled at the college.

At the May 6 program, Dr. Robert Lee Humber, State Senator from Pitt County, will make the address of dedication. President Leo W. Jenkins will present Mr. Whichard to guests at the ceremony. D. D. Gross, Director of Religious Activities, will make the prayer of dedication.

The Brass Ensemble and the Woodwind Quintet of the Department of Music, student organizations, will present a program of music at the dedication ceremony.

Jenkins Addresses NSA Convention

"Student government should represent all the students," stressed President Leo W. Jenkins at the three-day conference of the National Student Association at Belmont Abbey College, Friday night.

As guest speaker, Dr. Jenkins spoke of the role of student government in solving campus problems. Leaders in student governments from both North Carolina and Virginia colleges and universities were present for the address, panel discussion, and workshops.

Dr. Jenkins told the NSA members, "I have a great deal of confidence in young people." He cautioned the student leaders that with population explosion will come intellectual explosion. He explained that now government is sluggish in catching up with science.

"We can't look back for help from past generations in running campus government," Dr. Jenkins stated. He went on to say that this world was born yesterday and that there is no place to hide. Young people will have to face this newly created world and that is why all work accomplished by today's youth is so important.

Dr. Jenkins challenged the student officers to use "good sound reasoning and to avoid being bigots, fools, and slaves. Let's make the world a better place."

Dr. Jenkins was asked to speak to the students again at the National Convention in Ohio this summer. One Virginia delegate commented that Dr. Jenkins had a message to give student government officials and he knew how to convey this message. His ideas on campus-government were labeled "so sound and sensible."

East Carolina is not a member of NSA, but was asked to visit the conference for evaluation purposes. Attending the meetings from East Carolina was Tom Mallison, Bill Hunt, Bill Godwin, Bill Eyerman, and Jean Peace.

Soph Student Receives Library Scholarship

James Jarman, a sophomore here, has been awarded a $200 scholarship by the N. C. High School Library Association.

The N. C. High School Library Association is made up of student workers in high school libraries of the state and is sponsored by the N. C. Library Association. Each year the high school association awards a scholarship to a student interested in library science and having an excellent academic record.

Steel Price Rise Termed Irresponsible

"U.S. Steel's price increase has shocked the Kennedy administration and key members of Congress. From all indications it will be the target of continued blasts by JFK."

The $6 per ton rise in the price of steel may have disastrous effects on our economy. Democratic Senator Frank Church of Idaho interprets this sudden rise as an indicator of runaway inflation. "First I heard it would be an increase of $1.50 per ton, then $5, and finally $6."

The sudden rise was unexpected because big labor and big business had just signed a two-year contract. That agreement was interpreted by many, and particularly big government, that all problems were resolved. For years management and labor have been blaming one another for all that ails our economy. The move by big business places them on the hot seat in this version of their struggle.

President Kennedy regards this to some degree as a violation of the recently signed contract. Big government under the influence of JFK stepped in and restored prices to normal. We might see some anti-trust legislation within the next year.

Members of the House of Representatives and the Senate are almost in harmony in regarding the boost as "regrettable and unfortunate." Senator Estes Kefauver called the increase "shocking and irresponsible." Steel management says industry could not continue without the inflationary increase.

Although there has been a contract signed, neither management nor big labor is willing to concede and it is our generation which is going to suffer unless something is done about it and done quickly. Each is struggling for a bigger share of the profits.

Perhaps it is extremely ideological to hope Americans will relinquish some of the plush benefits we currently enjoy in an effort to improve the economic situation.

Certainly the conservative approach of putting all the blame on labor is error-laden, and we do not see top executives in the nation's steel corporations rejecting their six and seven figure incomes. The rise brought higher prices with no proportional increase in production.

Big business is on the spot in the problem of corporate syndicalism. Assuredly, big labor, which wants a bigger say in these matters, is not sitting idly by! Big government appears to be the stronger of three forces and socialism continues on its merry way.

High Heels First Popularized By Men

Importance Of Feet In Phase And Fable Dates From Ancient Greeks

By CAROL EULER

How often do you "foot the bill"? "Put your foot down"? Act "footloose and fancy free"?

Ever been told to stay "on your toes"? Gotten "cold feet"? Put your "foot in your mouth"? Or your "best foot forward"?

You probably never realized how important feet are in phrase and fable, as well as carrying you around and acting as the balancing factor between you and the earth. A nation of riders, we tend to pay little attention to our feet... unless they hurt. Ancient peoples, however, revered their feet highly, and often felt feet had special powers. Some of this superstition still survives in parts of the world.

Ancients believe that the right side of the body was invulnerable (made so by the Gods), while the left, which houses the heart, was prone to disturbing fears and dangers. It was therefore considered advisable to start the day off with the right foot, by putting on the right shoe first and taking the first step of the day with the right leg. Thus, we have the phrases, "to start the day on the right foot" ... "to get off on the wrong foot" ... "to put one's best foot forward," all dating back to this one basic superstition.

The famous Greek philosopher Pythagoras warned, "When stretching forth your feet to have your sandals (Tennie-pumps) put on, first extend your right foot. But when about to step into a bath, let your left foot enter first." (The left side of the body symbolized all the baser functions.)

The practice of wearing "leg-bindings"—predecessors of stockings, was adopted by the Romans at about the same time. The bindings were originally popular among Roman soldiers who wore them for protection during winter campaigns in the north.

Before long, they discovered that these early stockings provided comfort in hot, as well as cold weather. When covered with a porous material, these amazing feet of ours keep cooler when covered in hot weather.

America has its own footprint superstitions. In parts of the South, it's believed that the earth of a person's footprint is a potent love charm... when picked up and carried about in a little red flannel bag!

Wherever Summer travels take you, you're bound to find strange "foot facts." You might see Indian Fakirs walking barefoot on hot nails in an act of self-mortification... or find an old Chinese peasant family still practicing foot binding of young girls to insure their beauty. Our age of bigger feet on women could profit by this ancient custom, but the modern trend is toward wearing the boxes, and discarding the shoes because they pinch here and there.

Denmark is the birthplace of Hans Christian Anderson's beloved tale of the Red Shoes which compelled the wearer to dance... and merry old England gave us the story of Ella of the Cinderella whose dainty foot helped her find her prince.

It was also in England that the measurement known as the "foot" was first established... as the length of the right foot of the "ancient" king. And in France, the practice of wearing high heels came into vogue during the reign of Louis XIV, who popularized the footwear—for men! The women of today would rather have over their four-inch heels to the men again, but the football players would look rather silly.

There's a lot more to the story of our amazing feet, but just a few points worth remembering. The man with cold feet never gets his foot in the door and once he puts his foot in his mouth, he always has difficulty putting his foot down. But as long as he's footloose, he'll never have one foot in the grave!

National Bases Love Life On Romantic Platforms

By HELEN KALLIO

"The love life of this nation is based on a romantic platform made up of five planks," declared Dr. Paul Popenoe, guest lecturer of the Family Life Committee, in his Wednesday evening lecture on "How Do You Know You Are In Love?"

The first plank is that love is a mysterious visitation which comes unexpectedly, is unpredictable, and is recognized instantly. Once it comes, the rest of life will be an effortless ecstasy.

According to the second plank, this phenomenon is so important that a person is justified in making any sacrifice for it.

The third plank states that another visitation may come along to take its place. A person may be a two-time, three-time loser, etc.

Each love episode, states the fourth plank, is as important as the previous affair. Everyone is concerned with what the other person does for him, and not with what he can do for the relationship. A person is in love merely because of glamour and superficial attributes, not the real personality. An ideal love affair for the man occurs when he doesn't know the girl's name and address.

The fifth plank is that you are in love with yourself and your own sensations. You want what you want when you want it.

Love means something different to different individuals in different stages of life. The church's conception is quite different from the Hollywood interpretation.

When a person thinks he is in love and that it is the "real thing" he should ask himself if the following five elements of the primary sex complex are present: biological meeting impulse, economic relationship, comradeship in sexual sphere (tenderness, affection, desirable personality), companionship in nonsexual sphere (attitudes, habits, intellect, points of view, interests), and mutual interest in home and children.

If these elements are present and will become stronger and more permanent as time passes, the person is then ready for marriage, the most serious adult responsibility we face today.

Student Questions Validity Of Bookstore Prices

Dear Editor:

Today Bill Weidenbacher was robbed of a dime by an organization supposedly working for the benefit of the students on this campus. We refer to the college bookstore. He was victimized by their sign that reads "all prices are set by the publishers." Believing this sign he purchased the 1962 edition of The Rules of Golf, published by the U.S. Golf Association, a book needed for his studies. He paid 36c (including tax) for the book, and was satisfied with the purchase until, much to his horror and amazement he noticed the publisher's list price. The publisher's price is 25c (plus tax) and it includes postage fees.

We realize that a dime is a petty sum to complain about, but when one realizes that the profit on this book is 40% it is no longer a petty complaint. How are we supposed to know that if we buy a book for $8.00 that the bookstore is not making $3.00 profit. It is for this reason that we think the S.G.A.'s responsibility to the students be exercised by a thorough investigation of the bookstore's prices.

Drama Debuts May 9

Garren, Truesdale In Shakespeare's 'Merchant'

Several students, four faculty members and a member of the secretarial staff of EC will vie for acting honors in the coming Playhouse production of William Shakespeare's The Merchant of Venice, which will run for three performances in the Flanagan Sylvan Theatre on the nights of May 9, 10, and 11.

Student Cast

Mrs. Lois Garren, highly praised on past performances in Romeo and Juliet, A Midsummer Night's Dream and Antigone, leads the student contingent in the role of Portia, the rich heiress of Belmont whose love may be won only by the suitor who is successful at a game concocted by her dead father. Aiding Portia in her search for the right man is Suzi Truesdale as Nerissa, a role to which, it is anticipated, she will bring the same quality of performance found in her portrayal of Anne in The Diary of Anne Frank two years ago.

Another regular, remembered for his acting of Ko Ba in The Wages of Sin, is Lawrence Behr, who will appear in the romantic role of Lorenzo, the young Venetian determined to elope with Jessica, Shylock's beautiful daughter.

Faculty Roles

Faculty members with leading roles include C. J. Bradner, Coordinator of Humanities, in the title role of the merchant who offers a pound of his own fair flesh as surety against the ducats loaned to him by the grasping Shylock.

George Cook of the English Department will again hold forth as one of Shakespeare's clowns, the slyly comical Launcelot. Many will remember Dr. Cook's amusing Touchstone in As You Like It a few years back. Other faculty actors include Carroll Webber of the Mathematics Department as Tubal, Shylock's friend and counselor, and J. A. Withey, director of the Playhouse, as the Duke of Venice. College audiences have seen Dr. Withey as Escalus in Romeo and Juliet and, more recently, as a monk in The Wages of Sin.

Staff member Barbara Lounsbury, a secretary in the Business Department, completes the triangle of student, faculty and staff actors. Miss Lounsbury has appeared as a dancer in several musicals, had a role in The Wages of Sin and will have her most important role to date as Jessica, the beautiful Jewess.

Tickets Available

Students may obtain tickets to The Merchant by presenting their ID cards in the College Union the Monday and Tuesday preceding performances, or on the performance nights. The general public may obtain tickets in the same way, or by writing Box 894, EC. General admission tickets are priced at one dollar, with a special price of fifty cents for high school students.

Youth Fellowship Holds Retreat

The annual spring retreat of the King Youth Fellowship was held Saturday, April 28, in Wilmington.

The young people visited the many romantic old mansions of the area, several historic churches including some Pentecostal Churches, some of the grand gardens, famous Fort Fisher and the U. S. S. North Carolina.

Judy Moore, Sheilah Guthrie, Lindsey Quick, and Glenn Bailey composed the steering committee for the retreat.

A current liquor ad shows Walt Whitman grinning over a fifth. The great poet was a teetotaler...

"Anyone who thinks the younger generation isn't creative should watch a teenager build a sandwich."

Pi Kappa Alpha's Host District Convention Delegates; Mallory, Flanagan Speak

Easton Mu Chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha was host this weekend to a convention of Pi Kappa Alpha chapters included in District six. District six is comprised of chapters from East Carolina, University of North Carolina, Wake Forest, N. C. State, Duke University, Davidson, and High Point College.

The convention opened Friday afternoon at five o'clock with registration at the Pi Kappa house. This was followed by a cocktail party that evening.

District President Al Porter presided over a business session Saturday morning after which the delegates attended discussion groups dealing with rushing, pledge training, scholarship, finances, alumni relations, and college and community service.

James Mallory, Dean of Men and IFC advisor, spoke to the group at a luncheon held from 12:00 to 1:30 in the Buccaneer Room of the cafeteria. Speaking to the delegates and their dates that evening at a later banquet held at the Silo Restaurant was Col. Hugh Flanagan, President of District 4.

The convention ended with a dance held later Saturday night at the Airport Inn.

Sandy Dallas, vice president of the local chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha, was convention chairman. He was aided by Alumnus Counselor Fred Robertson and Social Chairman Top Cat Herring.

Artist In Residence

Mr. Francis Speight, nationally known artist, whose paintings hang in more than forty museums in the United States and Canada has won many honors for his work. A native North Carolinian, he has taught for twenty-five years at the Academy of Fine Arts, Philadelphia. He is now in residence at EC.

Phi Sigma Pi Installs Officers; Dr. Butler Speaks

Installation of officers for the Tau Chapter of Phi Sigma Pi, national honorary fraternity was held April 26 as a feature of the Founders Day banquet of the organization on the campus.

The installation followed an address by Dr. James Butler, assistant director of public relations of the college, who discussed the unlimited opportunities for service in the new world of freedom.

Glenn Williams, new president, was installed by vice president Walker Allen who presided at the installation. Other officers installed were Mack Worthington, vice president; Cleveland Hawkins, secretary; Burl Waters, corresponding secretary; Billy Goodwin, treasurer; Carlos Murray, Jr., sergeant-at-arms; Thomas Jones, reporter; and Calvin Owens, historian.

Jimmy Lewis read a paper on his philosophy of life, the paper having been judged best of those submitted by members of the fraternity. James Ballance was presented the chapter's key award.

The fraternity has recently initiated five new members. The new members are James Willis, II, Jimmy Lewis, Michael Sykes, Bobby Imamura, and James Whistley.

Yearbook Editor Presents Awards

The 1962 BUCCANEER staff was entertained at the annual Spring Banquet on April 25, at the Greenville Golf and Country Club. Walter Faulkner, editor of the yearbook, served as master of ceremonies.

The guest of honor at the banquet was Miss Nancy Lockwood who was chosen last fall to reign as the 1962 BUCCANEER Queen. Nancy was presented a trophy by the editor of the yearbook.

Other special guests present included Dr. James Tucker, chairman of the Publications Board, and Mrs. Tucker; Dr. John Ellen, literary advisor to the yearbook, and Mrs. Ellen; Dean of Women Ruth White; and Mrs. Agnes Barrett, administrative secretary to Dr. Leo W. Jenkins and to the Board of Trustees.

A special service award was presented to John Garriss for outstanding services rendered in the capacity of associate editor to the 1962 BUCCANEER. The business staff, under the direction of Gale Koonce, business manager, announced Sandra Waddill recipient of the top advertisement sales award.

Runaway From Fifth

Pfeiffer Turns On Power To Beat EC

By FREQ WEBSTER

Nothing seemed to go right for the EC baseball nine here Saturday afternoon as they were defeated by Pfeiffer 18-7.

Pfeiffer exploded for ten runs in the top half of the fifth inning to put the game on ice.

The Pirates came back in the bottom of the fourth to score three runs on an error, a walk, and singles by Bobby Joyce, C. B. Barnes, and Junior Greene.

Then in the fifth, the Falcons broke loose. They scored on five walks, 3 errors, Joe Barnes' bases load triple, Randy Ewing's single, and Bill Wynn's three-run home run by the scoreboard in right field.

EC's Pirates failed to get the needed hits. In the first, second, and fifth inning they loaded the bases, but were able to score a single run in the first and the baserunners were left on the bases.

The defeat left the Pirates with an 8-7 record overall and 4-3 in the conference. The Pirates' next game is today as they travel to AC for a conference game.

EC Angel Flight Initiates Members Installs Officers

EC's Angel Flight, co-educational auxiliary group to the Arnold Air Society, Air Force ROTC, has initiated four new members and installed officers for the 1962-1963 school term.

Initiated as new members were Barbara Hooper, Katherine Powell, Margie Harrington, and Gloria Uzzell.

Sally Burdette has been elected Commander of the college Angel Flight.

Her staff includes Margie Harrington, Executive Officer; Barbara Hooper, Comptroller; Katherine Powell, Information Services Officer; and Gloria Uzzell, Historian.

Pirates Catch Fire In Seventh Inning To Halt High Point In 17-3 Victory

EC turned a 4-2 lead after the second inning into a runaway affair when they scored 13 runs in the seventh inning to down High Point by a 17-3 margin.

During EC's big inning, they collected 11 hits and placed 17 men on base. Carlton Barnes, Junior Green, and Spencer Gaylord each got two hits.

Barnes, through his four for four effort, brought his batting average to .564. He had three RBI's and lead the team in this area.

Gaylord and Charlie Johnson had three hits apiece, and Junior Green had 4 RBI's on two hits. Joyce had three RBI's.

Two runs from the opposition came in the first inning after Greene had retired the first two men. The tallies came on two walks, a single, and an error.

EC took over in the second when three walks, a fielder's choice and hits by Kidd, Johnson and Barnes brought in four runs.
