At Last

The 1962 "Buccaneer" arrived this week amid announcements that it would be late. Walter Faulkner, Editor, has that look of "I've worked hard and can prove it." Walter was also honored twice this week; by his fraternity as "Deltasig Of The Year" and as recipient of the Publications Board Award for outstanding service to campus publications.

Final Film Of Foreign Series Portrays Hitler

The final movie of this year's international film series will be presented Wednesday, May 23, at 7:00 p.m. in Austin Auditorium. The film, "The Last Ten Days," is a coldly brutal study of Adolf Hitler during the last days of the infamous Third Reich in Germany.

Not a pleasant picture, but a graphic speculation into the way Hitler spent his last ten days, the Austrian film has been said to be the best picture produced in Central Europe since the war (Time Magazine).

Based on a book by Michael A. Musmanno, a U. S. judge at Nuremberg during the Nazi trials, the picture is overwhelmed by the presence of Albin Skoda who plays Hitler. Alternately flamed with wild eyed hope or dissolving into fits of screaming fury, Hitler orders imaginary armies about in the defense of Berlin.

More horrifying yet are the scenes portraying Hitler's ordering of the Berlin subway to be flooded, causing the needless death of thousands of people.

Last Senate Meet Monday

Freshmen Will Wear 'Beanies;' SGA Purchases Official Car

Next year's freshmen will wear beanies from sunup to sundown every day except Sunday, according to a motion passed at the last student senate meeting.

Giles Hopkins proposed the wearing of "dinks" "to promote school spirit and give the freshmen a reason to "feel united." No profit will be made on the "dinks," which will be purchased from the Student Supply Store next year.

"Dinks" will be worn from the first week of school until the first home football game (September 29) at which time the frosh will shed their "dinks."

Tom Mallison, SGA President announced that the James S. Ficklen Stadium float model will be placed in the lobby of Wright Building. The float was constructed by industrial arts students and was used in a bridge dedication parade last week.

The money being raised by the L & M cigarette pack collection will go toward purchasing a floating stage, complete with lighting, for the new stadium. The campaign will be run through summer school and continue until December under the direction of Bryan Bennett, Junior Class President, with the assistance of junior class officers.

The senate voted to purchase a car for the use of all SGA-supported organizations. It was pointed out that the car will be a "tremendous saving" to the SGA, because it now pays six cents per mile for transportation. The car will be available for conventions, campus elections (collecting ballots), picking up entertainment in Raleigh, and for the use of publications personnel. The car will be handled through Dr. Tucker's office.

The last SGA meeting for this year will be held next Monday night at 7:00 p.m. in the Library Auditorium.

Tom Mallison, SGA President; Dr. Durham, SGA Financial Advisor; and Giles Hopkins, Senior Class President model the "Dinks" to be worn by next year's freshmen.

Throw Away The Rubbish

Collegians Evaluate Both Sides Of Life

Soon packed suitcases and study lamps (along with other dormitory decorations) will be carried out of the dorms and into waiting cars. Then . . . whoopee! We are on our way home.

This seems to be the general thought these days. We will leave the quiet (at last) dormitories and never look back or think of dear ole EC until we hear from the IBM registrar next fall.

What is most interesting about leaving college at the end of the year is the packing. Bit by bit we pack nine months of term papers, books, and bulletin board regalia. Some memory materials we stuff into the trash can along with the EAST CAROLINIAN (some save them) and others we keep, because we especially like what we wrote in the paper or because someday we hope to use the material again. No matter how carefully we keep house, when the end comes we find ourselves wondering why we bothered to keep certain news clippings and test papers. We must have had some reason; but unable to recall why, we toss them quite reluctantly into the trash can.

In a sense we are sorting out the things we want to keep as a reminder of a year's work. The bulletin board filled with sentimental valentines and pictures of big campus events and the term papers and class notes (when we were in class to take them) represent to us our two sides of college life. Both sides are serious, and both are important for memories.

In packing to leave EC next week, we might keep in mind the fact that our minds have not been idle. They too have been remembering what has happened during the past year. Some of these thoughts are as useless to us as a theme on "Why the Bond Issue Failed." What we decide to take with us intellectually will be a part of our personalities and shape our lives. In measuring our store of knowledge, we are evaluating what one year of college has accomplished. Before we can do this, we must take time to throw the rubbish away and streamline our thoughts. Remembering facts is not the important thing. It's ideas and principles which will stay with us. The other precise information is like small talk at a cocktail party. If we can take with us the general principles of knowledge, then the cocktail talk will be at hand as well.

. . . empty coat hangers swing aimlessly on the rack and overstuffed trash cans reveal ink-smudged blotters.

Editor Bids Farewell; Urges Use Of Newspaper

Farewells are such difficult things to handle. At this time I find myself trying to say goodby and all the nice things one usually says, but it doesn't seem to mean anything.

My association with the EAST CAROLINIAN as editor has indeed been a short one, but not in the least unrewarding. Work has been involved . . . the kind of work that is so exasperating that it becomes enjoyable. I would like to say this to all EC students . . . you have a newspaper; use it.

I don't know why, but I have a feeling all of this may have been said before, and since I dislike farewells and detest long ones . . . good-bye and may our next year's green pages have a blue lining!

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"I THINK HE PLANS TO ASK ME TO GO STEADY—HE ASKED MY HOUSE-MOTHER WHAT KIND OF GRADES I MADE ON MY OLD TERM PAPERS!"

Writer Suggests Misinterpretation

Dear Editor:
Wow! I feel like the little boy who asked his teacher if it was right to ask questions in class. Irritated, the teacher gave the fellow a scolding lecture on his rights to ask questions at home and on what good parents he had. At first the little boy was dumb. He didn't know what to do. He agreed with everything the teacher had said. He did have good parents, and he could ask them questions. Then suddenly he realized that that had nothing to do with the question he had asked. He hadn't asked for a character reference or his parents or some rights with his parents.

Like the little boy I am a little bewildered. What did the President of the Junior Class, Bryan L. Bennett, mean by his little lecture on my rights to see the President, Dr. Jenkins, to see the Dean of Student Affairs, or to speak to the Student Senate? I know that I did not know, however, whether or not these same rights were granted by the EAST CAROLINIAN which happens to be the most effective means of communication on campus.

I thank Bill Griffin for the "guilty." At least someone understood the question. It seems that even 617 words wasn't enough to be understood by some people.

Just in case the President of the Junior Class gave the wrong impression and to make it clear where I do stand, I will state for the record that I do appreciate our President, Dr. Jenkins, and the Dean of Student Affairs, Dr. Tucker. In brief, both of these men have earned my respect.

Olympic Hopefuls Practice

Comfortable Sneakers Provide Status Symbol

By MONTY MILLS

Noticed some very young Olympic hopefuls trying out in the Wright fountain recently. The campus police must have been coaching them because there were no reprimands. Wonder when the fountain is going to be opened to the general college population? Who knows, we could produce another Florence Chadwick or even a Buster Crabb.

SNEAKER STATUS

People, college students in particular, are quite conscious of status symbols and especially where clothes are concerned. The ever popular sneaker, the dirty white one, seems to be the most precise index of status. Novice members in the group stand out because of their very white sneakers, and the more knowing group sport the dirtiest sneakers. Clothes make the man, and here at EC it makes a very comfortable one.

STATISTIC MENDED

Our Liggett and Myers sanctioned Stadium Fund seems to have a definite lag. Could be that our campus smokers, fearful of becoming a cancer statistic, aren't smoking as much as they used to. One brand of cigarette is no more dangerous than the other, so why not buy an L & M product. We need the stadium, and after all you could become a vital statistic just trying to find a place to park your car. Or why not buy them for your friends, and let them become a statistic.

Mallory Cautions Future Book Buyers

We would like to remind students to be very careful about buying books from persons unknown to them. If you purchase a book you should know the name of the person selling the book to you. If you sell a book to the book store and it is determined that the book belongs to another student, it is your responsibility to inform the book store where you secured the book. Sell your own books, but be very careful of bargains from other students. These bargains often turn out to be trouble.

THE BRAMBLEBUSH

By BILL GRIFFIN

The 1962 Spring Sports season is over here at EC, and many of those who participated are now realizing the results of their efforts. Five East Carolina Track records were set this year, and all of the Conference Tennis positions are held by our Tennis Team.

The end is at hand. This is the last Bramblebush I'll be writing. (Now wait a minute. Hold back those tears.) If I haven't gotten around to insulting you, I apologize. I just haven't had the time or the space to cover everything and everybody. Maybe my successor will do a better job.

Speaking of a successor, the job is open. If you feel that you could do The Bramblebush justice, feel free to come up to the office and talk to me about it.

Well, the BUCCANEER has finally arrived. A quick glance tells me that a good job has been done this year. It's hard to believe it was so simply and easily distributed.

In case you haven't heard, the SGA has passed a resolution stating that freshmen will have to wear "beanies" for the first few weeks of their first year.

Petitions supporting the proposed Greenville-area airport are being circulated on our campus by the local Jaycees. If the airport is built, EC stands to gain quite a lot from it. If you think about it, you'll probably sign it.

Think about these two quotations and then ask yourselves about the value of "green pages" in "The Key": "That virtue which requires to be ever guarded is scarce worth the virtue be?" — Goldsmith. "Void of freedom, what would be?" — Lamartine.

I think a lot of people were disappointed with the faculty evaluation procedure. It seems that, in this case, there was an excess of anonymity. I was under the impression that the administration would be able to get an idea of each faculty member's classroom impression. Oh well, what's one more farce.

Just for the record I've received three letters of protest since I began writing this whatever-it-is. That's not really enough. Surely I've irritated more people than that. That's how it goes, I guess. See you at summer school.

30 Years Of Service

Bing Receives 1962 NCI AA Citation

Dr. Kenneth L. Bing, Director of the Department of Industrial Arts is the recipient of a citation presented to him by the North Carolina Industrial Arts Association in recognition of 38 years of service as an educator.

Dr. Bing has been Director of the East Carolina Industrial Arts Department since 1949. Under his leadership the department has grown from an instructional organization of 2 faculty members and 22 majors to one of 8 faculty members and 155 majors. A large number of majors in other fields also take work in industrial arts at the college.

The physical plant and equipment of the department have had a similar expansion. Beginning with a 2-room set up, the department now occupies most of the first floor of the Flanagan Classroom Building.

Next fall, when a new wing to the building, now under construction, is completed, the department will have additional facilities.

In 1949, when Dr. Bing became Director of the East Carolina Industrial Arts Department, a major in the field was first offered by the college. Expansion of the instructional program was effected with the purpose of training teachers of industrial arts for positions in the public schools of the state.

The first students majoring in the subject were graduated at the college in the 1950-1951 term.

Before coming to East Carolina, Dr. Bing had been a teacher of industrial arts since 1924 in Nebraska, Minnesota, and Illinois, and in 1930-1931 at Winston-Salem, N. C. From 1940 until he began his work here, he was head of the Industrial Arts Department at Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau.

He is a graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University, the University of Minnesota, and the University of Missouri, where he received the Ed.D. degree in 1941.

Forrest Named 'Art Student Of The Month'

The Art Department pays tribute to Forrest Matheson, art student for the month of May. Forrest, a senior ceramics major, believes that "art is an international language understood by all; from the beginning of time to eternity. I feel that all art is good that is done honestly; whether one likes it or not is a personal matter for the individual."

Forrest feels that as of now he has not developed a "style" but that in time he will become a good craftsman, gain a command of his materials, and his personal style will emerge. He believes that a piece of work should have a style which has the same qualities and characteristics of the creator.

Forrest plans to teach upon graduation in Winston-Salem, N. C. He sums up his future by saying, "I plan to teach, work on my master's degree, stay happily married, and eventually have a small ceramics business."

June also reported that Dr. Shapiro's lecture paper will be printed and that Frances Gray Patton's interview, "Good Morning Miss Dove," will be in the spring edition.

Jaycees Urge Support For Proposed Airport

The Greenville Jaycees will be circulating petitions on the campus of EC in the near future in support of the proposed Pitt-Greenville airport.

According to attorney W. W. Speight, legal advisor for the Pitt-Greenville Airport Authority, the petitions will be used to improve Greenville's position before the Civil Aeronautics Board if an investigation to determine the feasibility of an airport in this area is called.

The petitions would be entered "as evidence before the hearing examiner that the people of this area will definitely support and patronize the type service that will be rendered at an area airport."

The petitions reads: "We, the undersigned citizens of Eastern North Carolina, wholeheartedly support and favor the establishment of a centrally located airport to serve Eastern North Carolina as contemplated in the Greenville in the proposed service investigation.

"We pledge our best support and resources for each service and to encourage all citizens of Eastern North Carolina to actively support the airport."

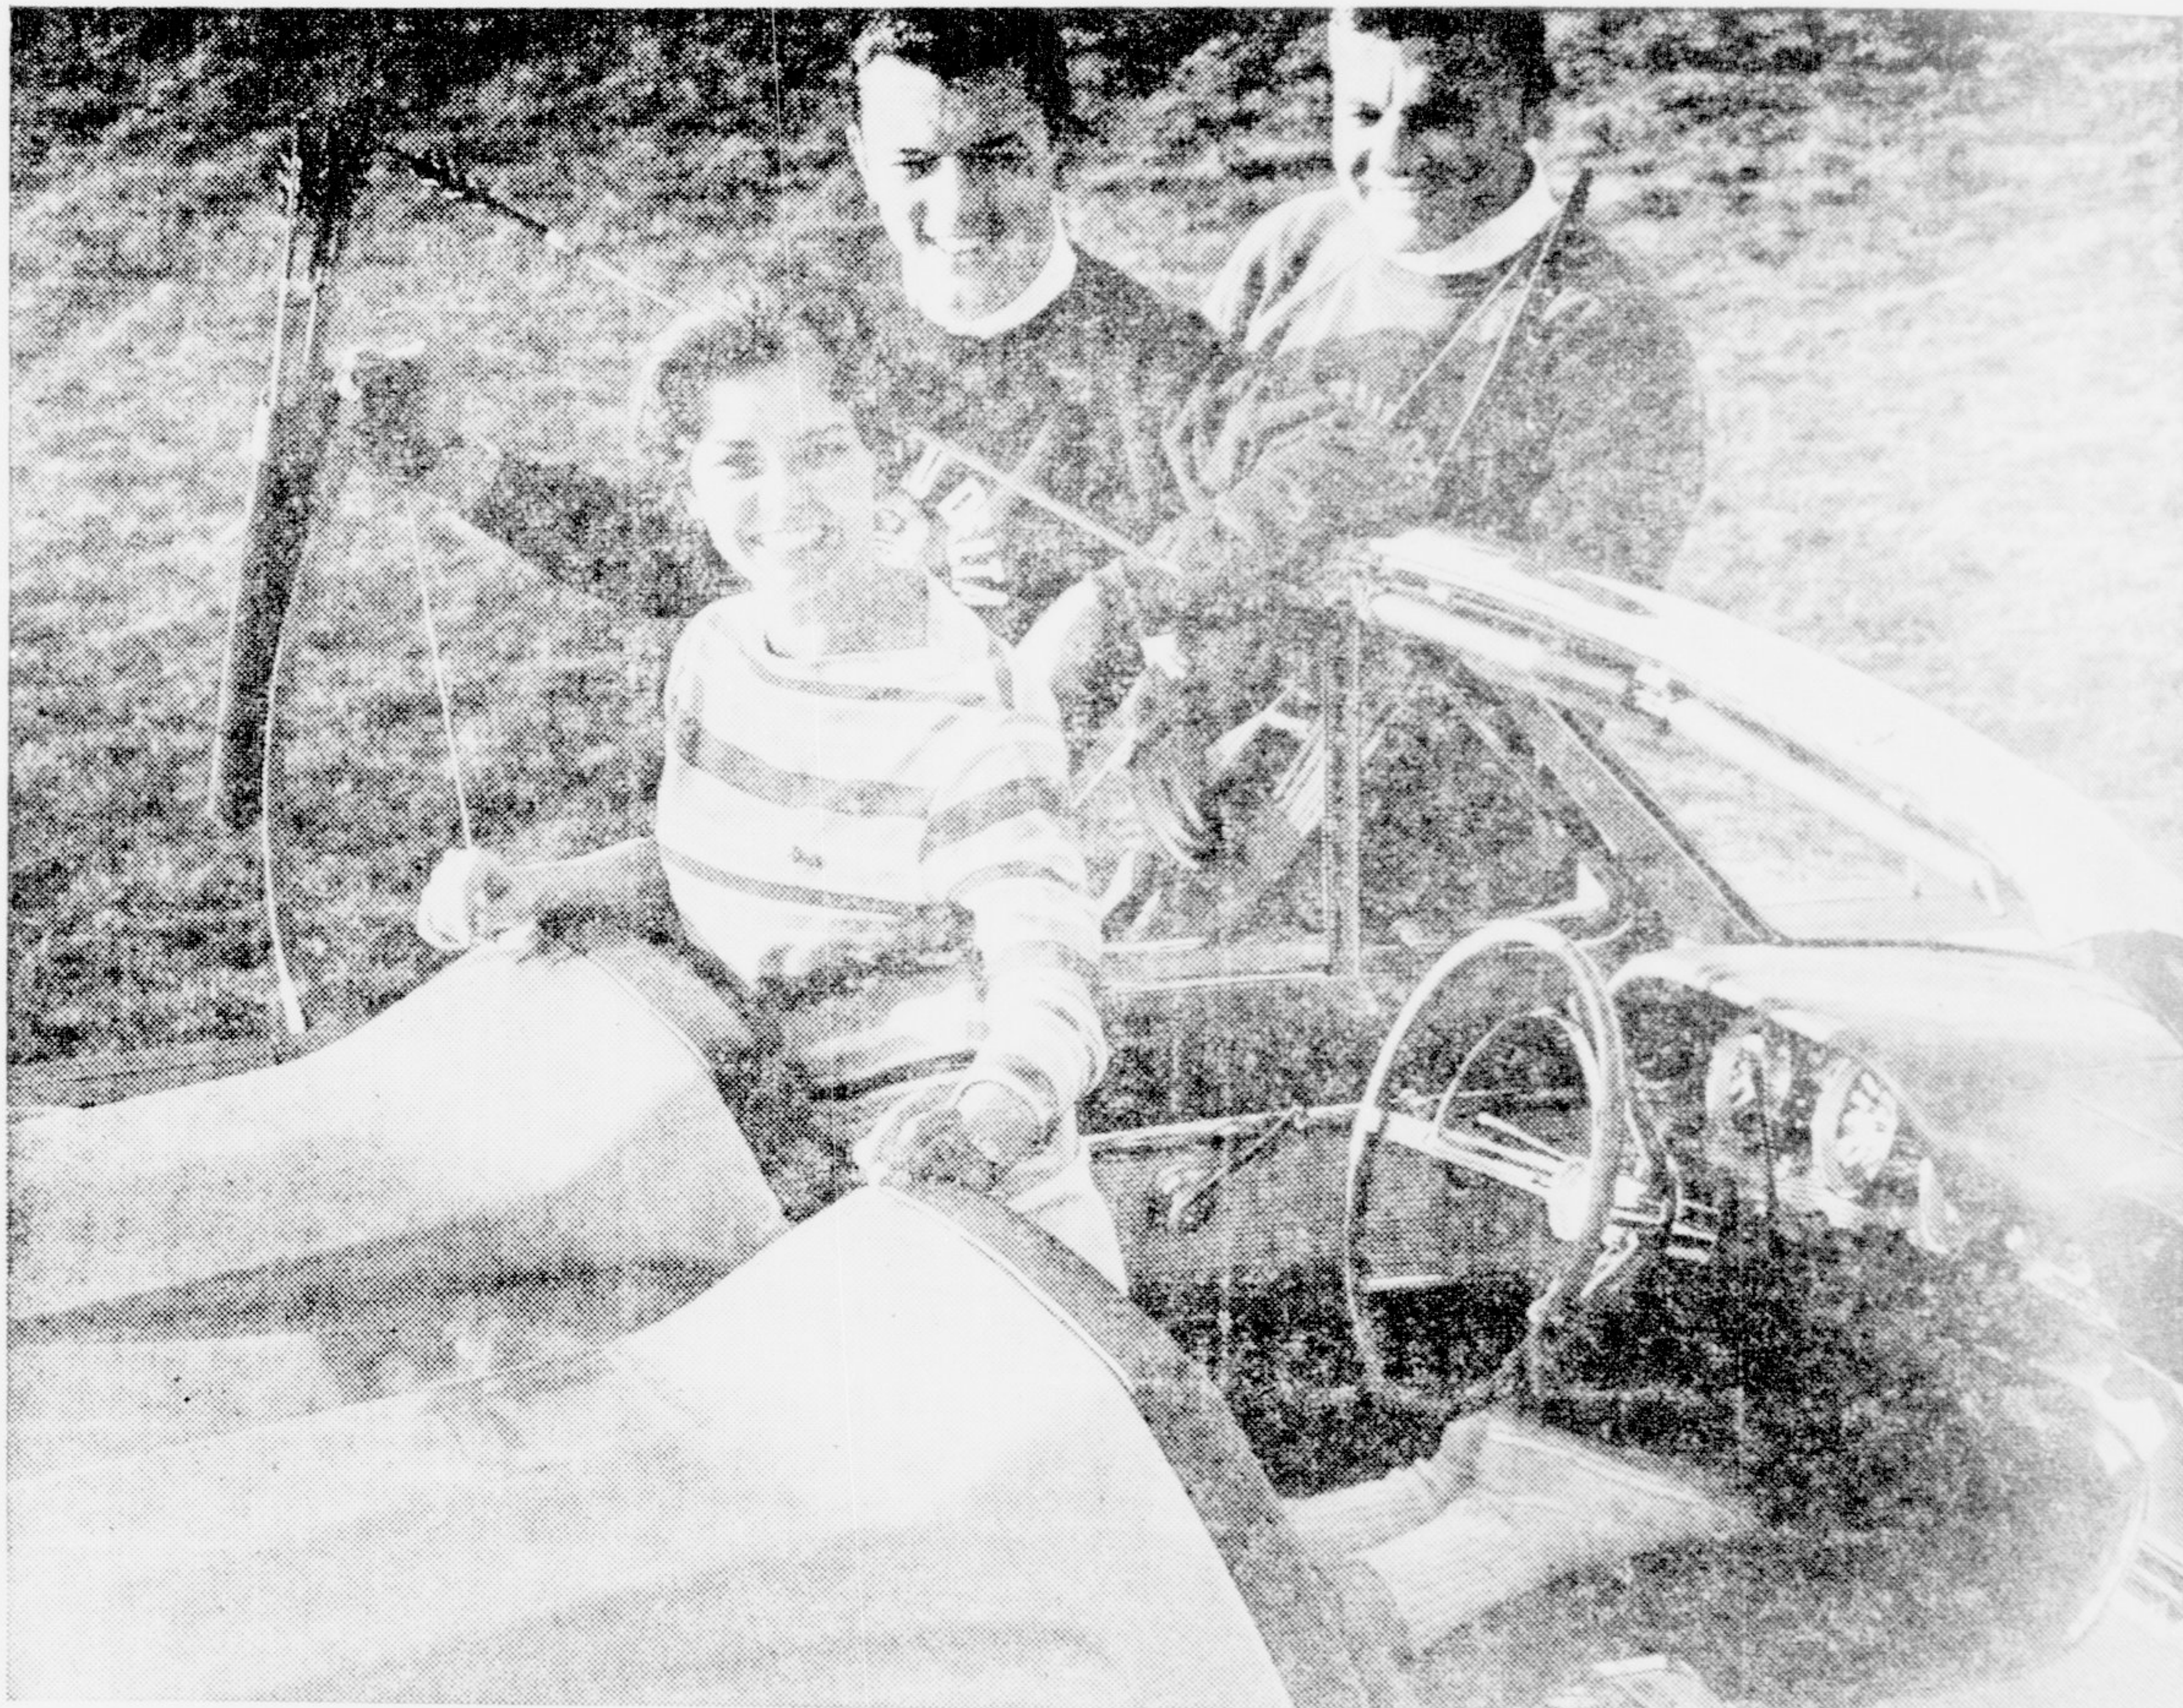

The petitions will be placed in the College Union, all class buildings, and the cafeteria.

On The Sun Courts ...

Students Suffer Oven Temperatures For Tans

By Barbara Susan Johnson
I'll never figure out what's so great about getting a sun tan. Just what is so wonderful about running around looking like a Cuban or somebody's Spanish uncle? Unless you happen to be a Cuban or somebody's Spanish uncle, that is.

Students Make Like Baked Potatoes
Day after day, students lie in the burning sun and bake themselves like potatoes in an oven. Sun decks all over campus look like synthetic beaches. Every time you pass one you're hit with the unmistakable aroma of Coppertone. They lie out all day, from the time the first faint rays of sun hits the sun deck, until they've run from shadows and are backed into the one corner where some of the sun still exists. When this is gone, they reluctantly gather up their sunglasses, towels, baby oil (with iodine added, of course), magazines, empty Pepsi bottles, and inflamed skin and head for the dorm.

Hot Competition
"Oooo," yells Mary. "Sally, you are just burnt, simply burnt! How some sort of race going on to see who can get burnt the "burntest," the fastest.

Skin Cancer Caper?
It's crazy! I mean, to literally bake oneself like that. You know what they say about the sun and skin cancer. Really, I . . . Oh my goodness! Look what time it is! Well, I'd just love to keep talking, but I'm supposed to meet Phyllis on the sun deck in five long did you lie out? For goodness sakes," she pants, "that long?" and she makes a mental note to stay out longer than that the next day. It seems there is minutes, and I don't want to be late.

Student NEA Installs Officers

Installation of the 1962-1963 officers of the Student National Education Association was held May 16. President of the organization is Betty Collier, and serving with her will be Nell Garner, vice president; Newassa Taylor, secretary; Judy Biggs, treasurer, and Carolyn Freeman, reporter. Officers of the Northeastern division of Future Teachers are: EC students, Betty Collier, president and Bebe Barrett, secretary. Mae Belle Chappell, of Chowan College, was elected vice president.

Jim Poole holds the Shot Put record at 42'4"; Bill McCants vaulted 12'6" for a new mark in the pole vault; Whitty Bass ran the 440 in 50 seconds flat; Richard Stevens had a high jump of 5'11 3/4"; and Rick Zdziarski set a new mark in the discus with a heave of 120'7".

These new ECC records are great in themselves, but it should also be noted that three of the records, the shot, discus, and the 440; were set by freshmen. The team is composed of two juniors, four sophomores, and the rest are freshmen.

As we are all aware of the conditions that this year's Track team operated under, I'm sure we all share in Coach Welborn's congratulations for such a fine effort on behalf of the team members.

The 1963 Track Team will compete against such teams as The Citadel, University of Richmond, State, Washington and Lee, and William and Mary.

Conference Champs

The Tennis team, coached by Wendell Carr, captured all honors in the Conference. Coach Carr expressed the hope that more of the students will turn out for next year's matches, and the team appreciates the support it received this year.

Next year's team will, if anything, be stronger since all of the team members will be returning. Chad Farris, a student here at EC, will participate next year. He was not eligible this year. Hopes are high that Jim Causey, state champion from Davidson will be lured to EC to aid in the Bucs' tennis cause. And in all, next year's Tennis team will probably be the most powerful yet.

Pirate Nine Better

The baseball team had a record of 11-10 overall, and 7-5 for the conference. Since there are a number of freshmen who played on this year's team, next year's team should be stronger and more experienced as a result of this year's stiff competition. The Pirates will be without the services of seniors Charlie Johnson, Spencer Gaylord, Nathan Greene, and Earl Boykin.

Golf Team at Conference Tournament

At the time this was written, East Carolina was in Boone, N. C., competing in the District 26 NAIA Tournament. Among the leaders this year for the Buc cause were Billy Brogden, Rick Sauve, and Chappy Bradner.

New Coach Announced

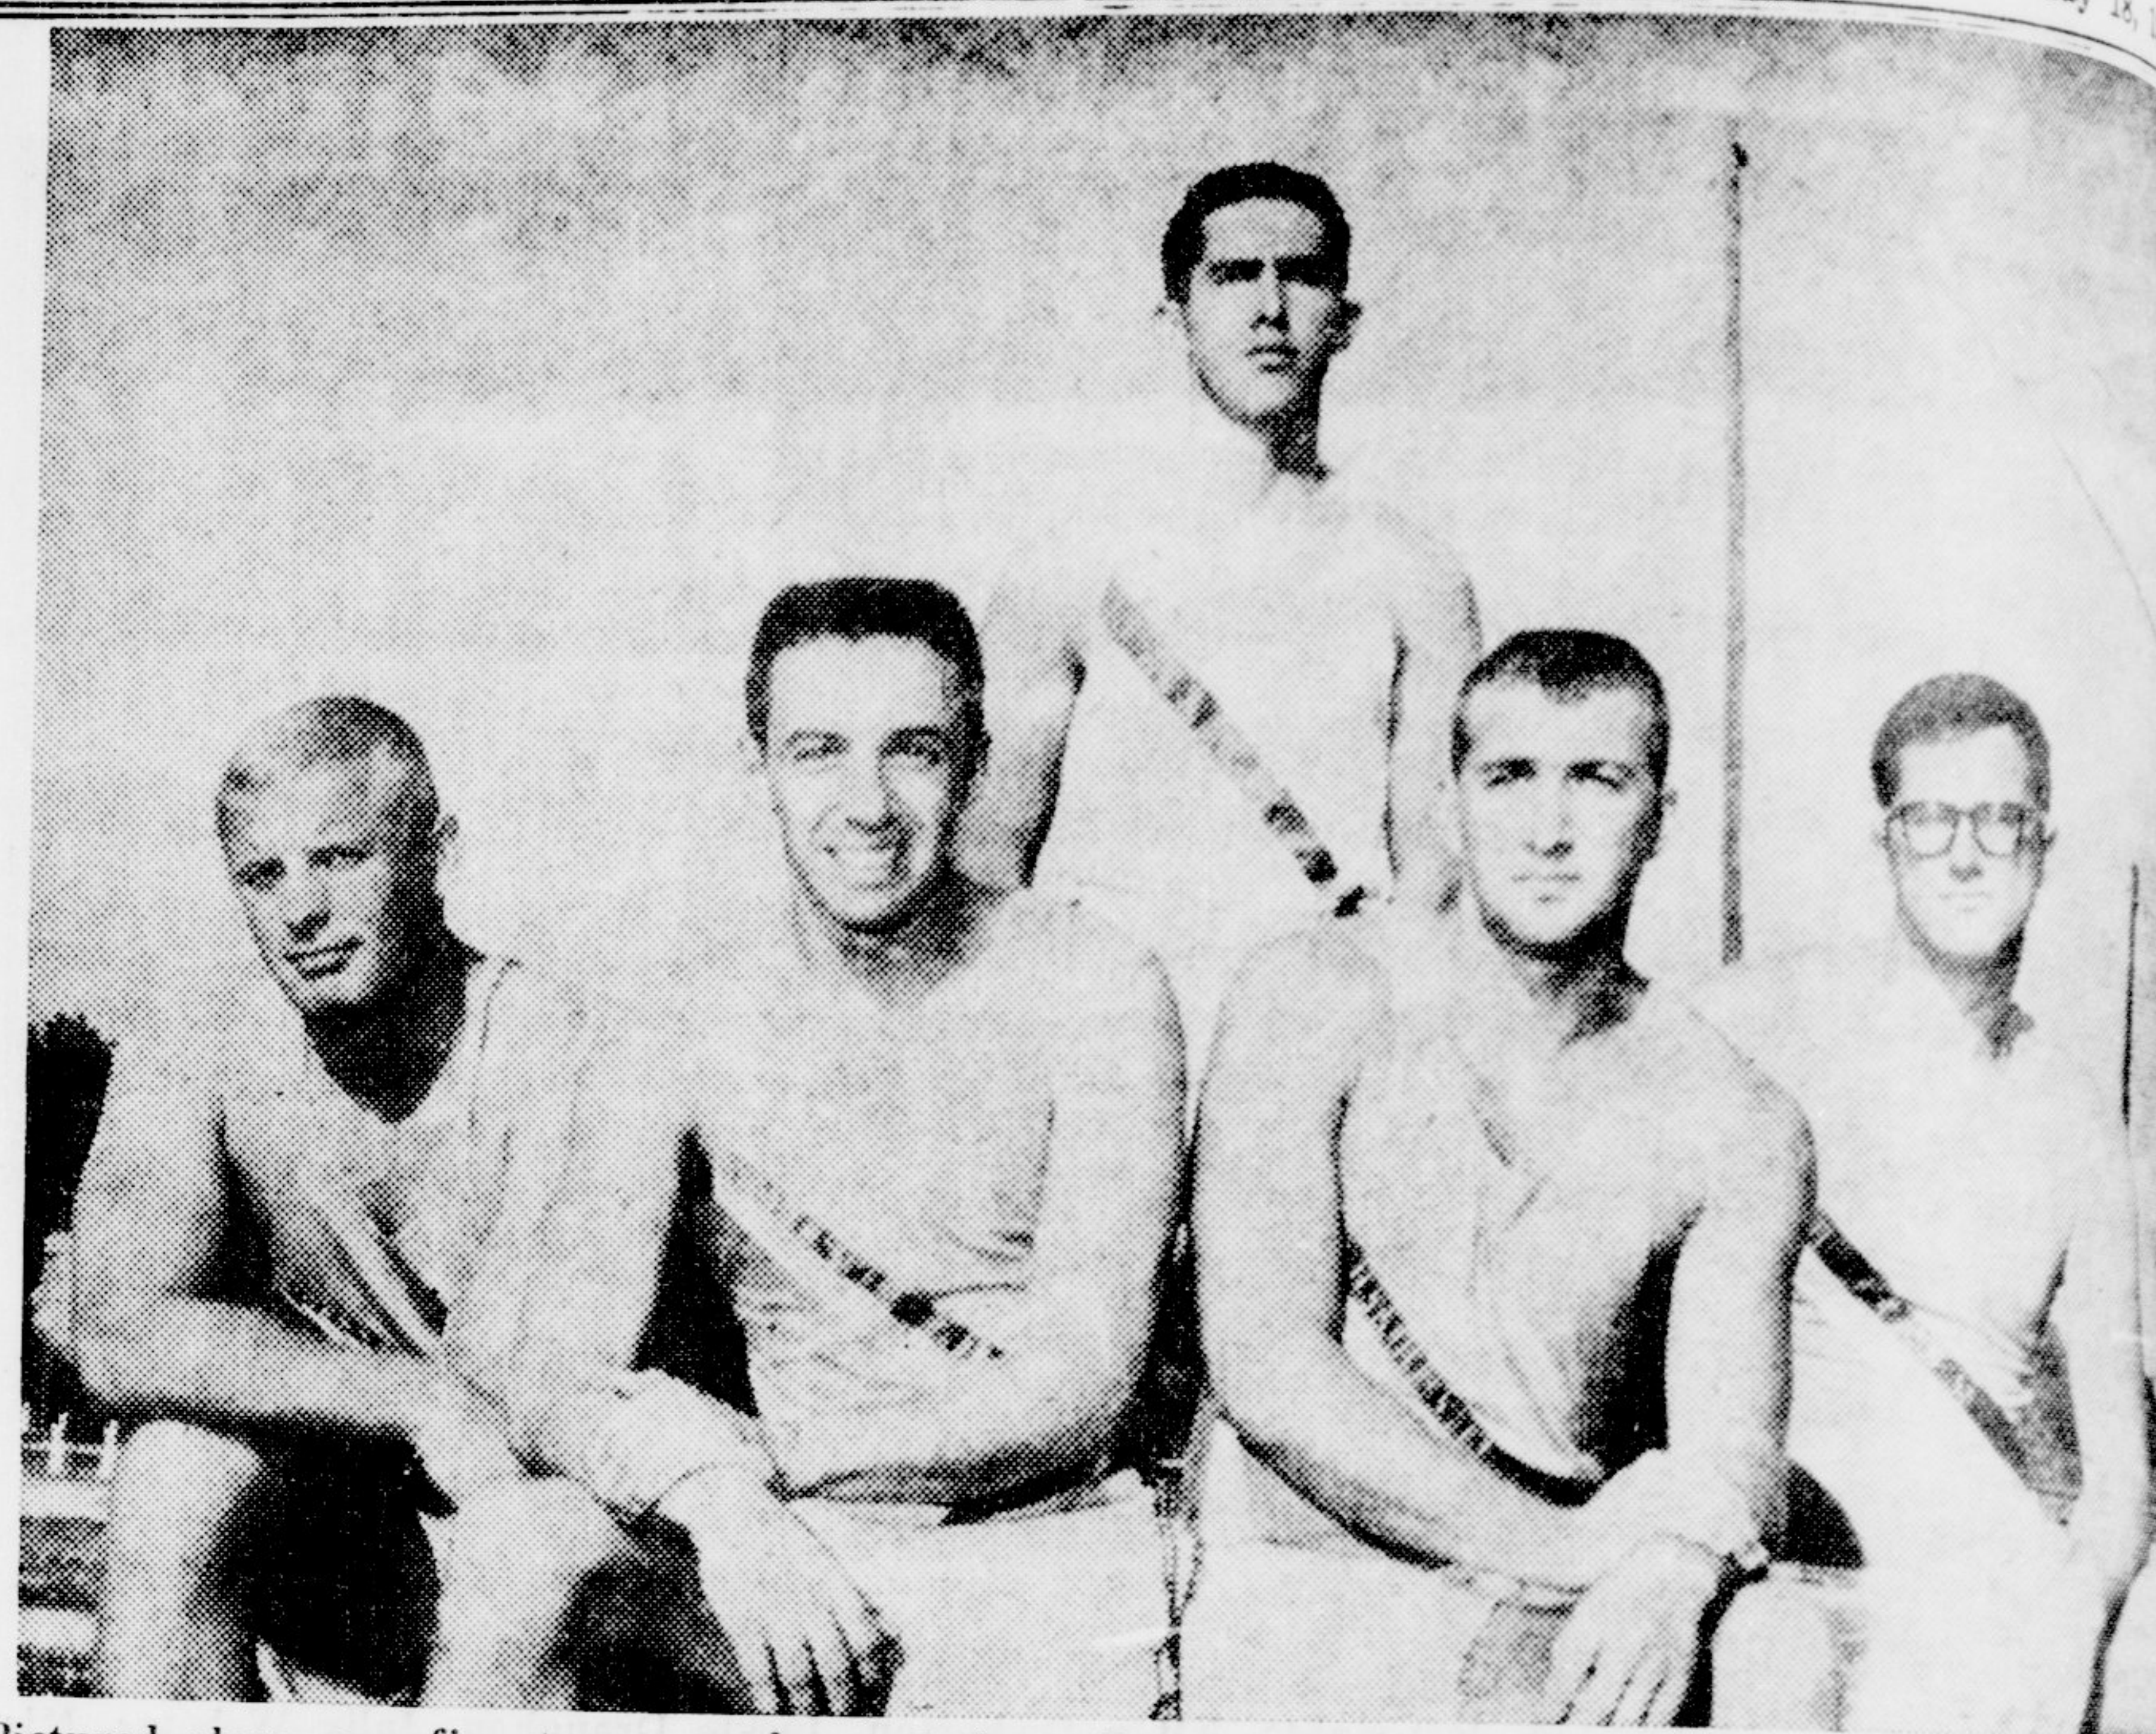

Robert Gantt, who hails from Albemarle where he has been coaching at the high school, has been added to the football coaching staff here at EC. Gantt, who also has coached track in addition to football, will coach the East Carolina Wrestling Team. He played football with Charlie Justice on the 1949 squad that won the conference championship that year.

Pictured above are five team members of the college track team who broke school records this year. From left to right, Rick Zdziarski, freshman, holds the discus record at 120'7"; Bill McCants, junior, holds the pole vault record at 12'6"; Whitty Bass, standing, freshman, ran the 440 in 50 seconds; Richard Stevens, freshman, set a high jump record of 5'11 3/4"; and Jim Poole set a new mark in the shot put with a throw of 42'4". All of these men placed in their events in the Carolinas Conference Track meet against a field of nine competing teams.

Lenoir Rhyne Wins Conference Meet; EC Takes Fourth

Lenoir Rhyne ran away with the Carolinas Conference track meet to keep their title as conference track champs.

East Carolina placed fourth out of a field of nine. Joe Rhyne from Lenoir Rhyne won the 100 yard dash, the 220 yard dash, the broad jump, and placed second in the high jump and third in the pole vault to easily capture individual honors.

East Carolina's only first place was won by Jim Poole. He dominated the shot put event with a throw of 41'6 1/2". Whitty Bass placed second in the 440, and Bill McCants placed second in the pole vault. Richard Zdziarski won third place in the discus, and Richard Jackson placed fourth in the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Richard Stevens and Tom Michel placed fourth in the high jump and 20 low hurdles, respectively. Stevens also took fifth place in the broad jump for East Carolina.
