Business Economics Experts To Speak At Conference

Discussion of the nationally recognized need of more and better training for young people in basic business and economics will be featured in a conference staged by the School of Business July 23-27.

Dr. James L. White, conference director, has announced the program for the event. Six experts in basic business and economic education will participate in the program as discussion leaders.

They are Dr. Z. S. Dickerman, Jr., Head of the Department of Business Education, Madison College, Harrisonburg, Va.; B. Lewis Keeling, Associate Editor in Basic Business with South-Western Publishing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio; Dr. Harlan B. Miller, Director of the Education Division, Institute of Life Insurance, New York City; James Parthemos and Dr. Thomas C. Sanders, Economists, Federal Reserve Bank, Richmond, Va.; and Arthur L. Walker, Supervisor of Business Education Service, State Board of Education, Richmond, Va.

Topics to be discussed during the conference include, Dr. White announced, Characteristics of the American Economy and What All American Youth Should Know About The Federal Reserve System, Free Enterprise and Capitalism, Insurance, Money and Banking, Personal Finance, Investments and Savings, and Government and Business.

Conferees who wish college credit will take special work from July 18 through July 28 and upon completion of requirements will receive three quarter hours of graduate credit.

Meetings during the conference will be held in Rawl building.

Entertainment planned for those enrolled include concerts, watermelon cuttings, and picnics at the college and off-campus trips to Manteo for a performance of "The Lost Colony" and a tour of Tryon's Palace in New Bern. All recreational facilities of the college will be open to conferees.

"The major purpose of holding the conference here this summer," Dr. White stated, "is to acquaint business teachers with some of the latest developments in basic business and economic education and to help them develop ways and means of including training in their classes—either as they are now structured or through new courses."

The conference, he added, should interest and benefit not only teachers of business but other teachers who are concerned with training young people in basic economic understanding of such areas as personal and home finance, insurance, and investments.

Payne Receives Summer School Beauty Title

Pretty Julia Ann Payne, representing Theta Chi social fraternity, was crowned Summer School Queen Friday evening, July 6, during an impressive coronation ceremony at the annual Summer School Ball.

Judy, one of thirteen contestants vying for the coveted crown, was elected by popular vote among students. She is a sophomore student majoring in primary education.

Sallie Wallace, 1961 Summer School Queen, presented to Judy the crown of victory. For her regal achievement, she was recipient of a trophy and a bouquet of mixed summer flowers.

The dance carried the motif of green and white. Streamers which decorated the center ceiling hung gracefully around the spacious auditorium.

Among the honored guests were Dean of Women Ruth White; Dr. James H. Tucker, Dean of Student Affairs and Professor of Education, and Mrs. Tucker; and Dr. Fred Martin of the Foreign Languages Department.

Journal Publishes Rickert's Study Of English Exorcist

Dr. Corinne Holt Rickert, director of closed-circuit television at East Carolina College, is the author of "The Case of John Darrell, Minister and Exorcist," which has just been published in the University of Florida Monographs in the Humanities.

The work deals with several cases of "possession" and witchcraft in late Sixteenth Century England in which John Darrell, minister of the Church of England, acted as exorcist. With a fellow minister, George More, he was tried before an ecclesiastical court and was imprisoned, but never sentenced.

The study gives a picture of Darrell as a sincere man convinced of his powers and of his innocence of wrong doing.

It deals in detail with the cases in which he was involved, the accusations against him, and his spirited defense of himself.

It also gives sidelights on the commonly held Elizabethan belief in witchcraft and demonology; the unjust procedures of ecclesiastical courts; antagonism toward the Puritans, with whom Darrell may have been associated; and patterns of controversial literature of the time.

The research on which the monography is based was done by Dr. Rickert when she was studying in England for a doctorate at the Shakespeare Institute (Birmingham University) in Stratford-upon-Avon.

A B. A. and M. A. graduate of the University of Minnesota, Dr. Rickert did graduate work at the University of Florida before receiving the Ph.D. from the English university.

Before joining the college faculty in 1958, she had taught at the University of Florida, the University of Miami, and the overseas division of the University of Maryland.

In addition to her duties with the closed-circuit program of instruction, she is advisor of the student TV Guild and chairman of the college Entertainment Committee. She has also served as director of several college dramatic productions.

She is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and of a number of national professional societies.

Division Offers Extension Course

East Carolina College, through its Extension Division, will offer July 10-August 10, Psychology 370G at the Meadow Lane School located outside Seymour Johnson Air Force Base, Goldsboro, as a special attraction of its program for the 1962 Summer Session. Dr. Ralph Brimley, Director of Extension, has announced.

The course, Mental Hygiene in School, carrying three quarter hours of credit, will be taught on Tuesday and Friday nights from 6:30-9:30. The cost of the course is $24.

All interested persons are requested to attend the first class meeting on July 10.

College Sponsors Science Institute

Sponsored by EC and the National Science Foundation, a summer institute for junior high school teachers of earth science, biology, and physics will begin Monday, July 16, and continue through August 24. Attending will be 49 teachers from sixteen states who have been selected to participate in a program of class work, seminars, and field trips.

Dr. Frank W. Eller of the East Carolina College Department of Science will direct the institute and conduct classes in physics. Other faculty members at the college who will serve on the instructional staff and the subjects they will teach are Dr. George C. Martin, Jr., earth science, and Donald E. Bailey, biology.

Objectives of the institute are to give forward-looking teachers additional mastery of subject matter in the science courses they are teaching, to provide basic instruction in earth science for those who are now teaching or soon will be teaching the subject, and to strengthen the capacity of teachers for motivating able students to consider careers in science.

Those attending the institute will receive stipends from the National Science Foundation to meet travel, living, and instructional expenses.

Those completing requirements will receive four quarter hours of undergraduate credit for each course in which they are enrolled. Credits may be applied for certification.

Lewis Trio Performs 'Way Out' Jazz Tonight

Entertaining jazz, performed by Ramsey Lewis Trio, will be offered to EC jazz enthusiasts tonight at 8:15 p.m. in Wright Auditorium. Sponsored by the SGA Entertainment Series, the jazz concert is free to the public.

Somewhat in the Ahmad Jamal-Modern Jazz Quarter tradition, the Ramsey Lewis' Trio, which has built up a solid following in Chicago and other Midwestern cities over the past two years via records and personal appearances, has both a sound and a flavor.

The Lewis threesome strike a middle ground of easy, listenable music, sparked by the piano lead by Lewis himself, and hefty assists from bassist El Dee Young and drummer Red Holt.

Funky or wingy, romantic or bright, the combo can handle any type of tune, and the music they play is as easy to take for a jazz-oriented audience as for the musical but-not-so-hip club goer.

Each member of the Ramsey Lewis Trio presides over his instrument in a different manner. Tall, slender Ramsey sits at his piano like an elegant, pleased spectator watching a good show.

El Dee Young bobs, weaves, and peeks from behind his enormous-appearing bass with an air of happy astonishment at the full, round tone it produces. The Gheshire-cat expression on Red Holt's face betrays his inner satisfaction with the wide array of percussion instruments surrounding him.

No matter what the tempo or type of tune (and their range in both is very wide), there is an essentially cheerful, optimistic quality about the trio. Although Ramsey's superb playing is naturally at the apex of the group, the talents of El Dee and Red are easily discernible, and they are given every opportunity to demonstrate them.

Mode Of Dress; Is It Standard?

The letter to the Editor which appears on today's editorial page was also sent, in carbon copy, to President Jenkins, Dean Tucker, Dean Mallory, and Dean White. Since the questions contained within the letter concern the SGA we have taken the liberty of forwarding a copy of it to Bill Eyerman, president of the Summer School SGA. His answer to the letter appears elsewhere on this page.

There are, however, certain statements within the letter upon which we cannot help but comment. We were especially interested in the statement, "... items ... of vital interest to all are ... dress on campus, length of skirts, shirt tails 'flopping in the breeze', men students appearing in classes in gym shoes with no socks ..."

It is doubtful that these matters are "of vital interest to all" because most people realize that dress, as long as it serves its basic purpose, is a matter of personal taste. Mrs. Raper may not find certain modes of dress attractive but we doubt that her taste would be accepted as a campus-wide standard. Some people find heavy make-up, peroxidized blondes, or long, greasy hair repulsive, but there are no campaigns underway to outlaw these things.

Perhaps Mrs. Raper would have scolded Albert Einstein as he strolled across campus in his usual outfit of sweat-shirt, duck pants, and tennis shoes. Perhaps he would have explained to her that college is not a fashion show.

The error which Mrs. Raper has made is a common one: that of one person or group trying to impose its standards on another person or group. We see it and are subjected to it every day. Because someone thinks drinking is sinful, we are sinners if we drink. Because someone thinks Tennessee Williams is degrading, we are degraded if we read his works. Because someone thinks that tennis shoes are sloppy, we are slobs if we wear tennis shoes.

We realize that the college community must, of necessity, adopt a standard code in certain areas. We doubt, however, that social life, of which we consider mode of dress a part, is one of these areas.

Entertaining The Majority

The Entertainment Committee is hard at work these days and the results are evident. Tonight we have the Ramsey Lewis Trio, one of the most brilliant of the new "modern jazz" groups. Already signed for future appearances here are: The Lester Lanin orchestra, who will be here for homecoming, The Limelighters, The Dave Brubeck Quartet, the Four Preps, and Sarah Vaughn. Rumor has it that Les McCann may return next year and record an album here on campus.

It seems that the Entertainment Committee is trying to please the majority with their selections. They definitely aren't catering to either the "jives" or the ultra-highbrows. If you're looking for a place to hang laurels, we would suggest Bill Moore. He's chairman of the committee.

EC And The Bible Belt

Can you imagine what East Carolina College would be like if it didn't happen to be located in the "Bible Belt". Maybe we could worry a little less about what the public thought and worry a little more about what the student thought. Perhaps we ought to do this anyway.

Inquiry To The SGA

Dear Editor:

As an Alumna of and a graduate student at East Carolina and a taxpayer in North Carolina, I am happy to see our college grow. But there are a number of us who have been and are concerned about the organization of our Student Government Association. After reading the account of the budget in the June 26, 1962 edition of the EAST CAROLINIAN, there are several questions that the students and all who are interested in our college should have answers to.

1. Who is responsible for spending $6,599 of our money for the entertainment series?
2. Will you please show how the Student Government Association itself will spend $2,660 of our summer student activity fees?
3. Why did the SGA appropriate $864 to the men's intramurals and none for the women's intramurals?
4. Why should the summer school budget be responsible for making an appropriation to buy additional year books which students had already paid for during the regular academic year? (I do not object to buying year books for public relations purposes.)
5. Who was responsible for the distribution of the year books?
6. Who wrote the receipts for the students who had been here for only one or two quarters and had to pay an additional fee in order to obtain a year book?
7. Does the editor of the year book receive a salary? If so, how much? (Congratulations on a job well done.)
8. Does the editor receive a certain per cent of the advertisements and pictures sold for each year book?
9. Do the students who serve on the year book staff receive additional copies of the year book as gratis or do they have to pay an additional fee, if they receive more than one book?
10. When is it possible for the students to see an audit of the year book accounts?
11. Who was responsible for selecting on approval the electric typewriter in the Student Government office during the spring quarter?
12. Will the summer school budget be responsible for buying such an expensive piece of equipment as this typewriter when it is used mainly during the regular academic year?
13. Why should the students' money be used to purchase fancy gavels and name plaques for each Student Government officer? Why can't they be handed down from one officer to the next? Are these student government officers paid?

14. Will the new desks and carpets for the Student Government Association office be paid for out of the summer school budget?

15. Since when was the Student Association Treasurer given the authority to have expensive posters printed without the approval of the Student Government Association?

16. Who keeps the records of the Student Government Association's long distance phone calls?

17. Why is it that students who represent our college are not required to submit an itemized expenditures of student activity fees?

18. It is apparent that one or two students are exerting authority in carrying on the SGA activities at East Carolina College. Why is this?

19. How much money is it going to cost the SGA to send a group of students to the NSA convention? What will we gain from attending this convention? What have we gained by joining the NSA? Was it voted on by the student body to join the NSA or was it the wishes of a few?

Other items which have been and are being discussed by graduate students of vital interest to all are as follows: dress on campus, length of skirts, shirt tails "flopping in the breeze", men students appearing in classes in gym shoes with no socks; conduct on campus, especially in and around the college union and even in the SGA office; closing time for women's dormitories; regulations regarding the use of alcoholic beverages, (we understand that some of these regulations are now in the process of being changed and we hope that great consideration will be given before any drastic changes are made that will certainly affect the general attitude of the public and the alumni of our school).

We are most concerned about the above because we do not feel that the alumni will give us their support unless we continue to maintain the standards of our cultural heritage for our college, our SGA organization and for quality education.

Sincerely,
(Mrs.) Carolyn F. Raper
1959 Graduate of East Carolina College

SGA President Answers Inquiry

Dear Mrs. Raper:

I want to take this opportunity to answer your letter which appears in today's EAST CAROLINIAN. You itemized questions pertaining to the Student Government Association, yet you failed to forward a letter to the office which can answer your questions accurately. I will answer your questions in the same sequence as they were asked.

(1) The Entertainment Committee, composed of three students and four faculty members, is responsible for the spending of the $6,599 entertainment budget. Some groups as Si Zentner, Dan Lewis, and Johnny Nash are paid for from this budget.

(2) The SGA budget is broken into categories such as office expenditures (stamps, stationery, etc.); office equipment, carbon paper, scotch tape, paper clips, etc.; salaries; flowers for the deceased relatives of East Carolina students; conventions; and other expenses which are necessary to operate the SGA efficiently.

(3) There was no budget request from the women's intramural association.

(4) The summer school senate deemed it necessary to appropriate funds for additional year books for public relation purposes. The company offered a discount on the books if ordered in a larger quantity; therefore, the extra sum was requested and approved in order to compensate for the shortage incurred during the regular terms.

(5) Distribution of the year books was done by members of the BUCCANEER staff, Circle K club, and members of the Delta Sigma Pi business fraternity.

(6) Certain delegated members of the year book staff wrote the receipts for the students who were in attendance at East Carolina for one or two quarters.

(7) The editor of the year book receives a salary of fifty dollars per quarter.

(8) The editor receives a per cent of the advertisements; and the per centage he receives from the pictures is directly influenced by the fact that he is employed by the photographer during and after the time the pictures are being taken.

(9) It is not a practice for members of the year book staff to receive additional copies for personal use or pleasure.

(10) The year book accounts are open for student audit at all times. These books are in the editor's office on file.

(11) The electric typewriter was purchased with funds allocated from the SGA budget under the auspices of the student senate.

(12) The summer school SGA will purchase the electric typewriter. It has been set up that the regular term purchase the desks and the summer school SGA purchase the typewriter. Both bodies use these items of equipment equally, considering the time factor.

(13) Fancy gavels have not been purchased, nor name plaques for every officer. The name plaques which have been purchased are for the purpose of recognition of the officers by visiting persons and fellow students upon entering the office. The SGA officers are salaried.

(14) For your personal information there are no carpets in the SGA, the new desks have already been properly purchased by the regular term SGA.

(15) The SGA treasurer made the necessary arrangements for the purchase of posters for a recent

Traditional Fireworks Staged For Celebration Of Fourth

Observance of July Fourth in Greenville was climaxed Wednesday night with a kaleidoscope of brilliant light and color and a bombardment of sound as the College Union staged its town-and-gown fireworks show in the College Stadium.

In spite of a steady drizzle, an estimated 1500 people from campus and community braved the elements to see the spectacular show.

Cynthia Mendenhall, director of the College Union, welcomed guests and expressed appreciation for the help of those in the city and at the college who cooperated in staging the show.

Bill Eyerman, president of the SGA, spoke for students as he thanked citizens of Greenville for their support of the college and their constant interest and cooperation.

The Fourth of July. President Leo Jenkins said, is "the most appropriate day to reflect on our political heritage." American ideals, he stated, are expressed in the Declaration of Independence.

"We believe now," he continued, "as our forefathers did in the past in the principles stated there. As we struggle through the years to preserve our freedom," he declared, "we should consider every day in the spirit of July Fourth."

The big fireworks show, staged under the direction of Edwin E. Rawl, Jr., of Greenville, was received with shouts of approval and enthusiastic applause by spectators. Cascades of light and bursts of color in varied patterns and designs, as shells were fired over the west end of the athletic field, made the scene both exciting and beautiful.

Climaxing the show was a spectacular cluster of brilliant color as 36 shells were fired at once.

Miss Mendenhall expressed regret that because of possible damage to valuable instruments the Summer Band was unable to provide music for the occasion.

Utterback Goes To Mexico City For AAUW

Dr. Elizabeth Utterback, faculty member of the Department of English, will represent the college and the Greenville Branch of the American Association of University Women at the International Federation of University Women in Mexico City July 9-19.

North Carolina will have as a second representative at the meeting Dr. Leslie Syron of Meredith College, Raleigh.

Dr. Utterback served as president of the Greenville Branch of the AAUW in 1957-1959. She attended the International Federation of University Women in Helsinki, Finland, in 1959.

EC Actors, Playwrights Appear In Summer Theater

When the Carolina Beach Playhouse opens its Summer Theater-in-the-Round on July 24 at Carolina Beach, N. C., several EC students will be members of the company.

Participating as actors will be Douglas Mitchell, Minnie Gaster, Lucile Dew, and Westley Howard. Joe Brannon will serve as technical assistant. All worked on the EC Playhouse production of "Sight Unseen," a farce-comedy that will also be on the program of the Beach Playhouse. The play was presented at the college July 9 and 11 at 8 p.m. in Whichard Music Hall.

Three student playwrights will see their works performed as part of the summer schedule. The Theater-in-the-Round will produce one-act plays by G. Carroll Norwood, Patsy Ann Collier, and Milton Crocker, in a program entitled Civil War Plays.

Dates of performances at the Carolina Beach Playhouse are as follows:

"Sight Unseen"—July 24, 25, 26, 27, August 1, 7, 9; "Dirty Work at the Crossroads"—July 28, 31, August 2, 3, 8, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18; and Civil War Plays—August 4, 10, 11.

Guest Consultants Appear

Educ. Dept. Presents Annual Reading Inst.

The two-week annual Reading Institute now being presented by the department of education at East Carolina College has as participants 44 men and women interested in the improvement of instruction in reading in the public schools.

The Reading Institute and a Summer Reading Clinic are offered annually at East Carolina under the direction of Dr. Keith Holmes of the Education faculty and are among the summer courses in demand by teachers, especially in the lower grades and the junior high school.

Assisting Dr. Holmes as guest consultants this summer at the Reading Institute are Miss Julia Teasley of Scott Foresman Company; Mrs. Inez Tanner of Allyn and Bacon, Inc.; Charles Majure of Educational Developmental Laboratories; and Hannis Latham of Science Research Associates.

An exhibition of books and materials, with emphasis on the language arts, was staged in the College Union of the Wright Building by the North Carolina Bookmen's Association, July 5-6, as a special program event of the Reading Institute. "This is an excellent opportunity," Dr. Holmes said, "for all teachers working in both the elementary and the high school levels to review a broad sampling of educational materials and books."

Musical Variety Program Given By Music Dept.

The East Carolina College Music Department with the cooperation of the students and faculty presented a Musical Variety Program Wednesday evening, July 11, in Wright Auditorium.

The Summer Chorus began the program by singing several songs under the direction of Clarissa May and Dan Vornholt. The chorus was accompanied by Olive Herring. Three Opera duets were presented from the Opera Theater under the direction of Paul Hickfang. The singers were Martha Compton and Nettie Bunn, Bonnie Currin and Paul Hickfang, Alison Moss and Martha Bradner.

A trio consisting of Martha Jones and Richard Wilgram on the clarinet and John Olsen on the horn, presented several selections. "Rhapsody in G Minor" was presented by Loretta Ragan, pianist. Tenor soloist Peter R. Juhl sang several selections and was accompanied by Ruth Shaw. Evelyn Eaker, soloist, presented a modern selection.

The program consisted of music well suited for a summer evening. Among the selections were standard classical, folk, modern, light opera and popular selections. The program as a whole proved to be a short hour of light musical entertainment.

Cannon, Bonner Win Honor At Dance Contest

At a recent East Carolina College Union combo dance, James Cannon of Raleigh, and Lana Bonner of Greenville walked off with top dancing honors. The couple received engraved trophies for their distinction in the Summer College Union dance contest.

Combo Dance Committee Chairman George Whitehurst of Washington introduced Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Findlay, owners and operators of a local dance studio, who judged the East Carolina couples in four different rhythms of dancing, Cha Cha, Slow, Bop, and Twist. Cannon and Miss Bonner won the contest over 12 other contestants.

The Humpers

The Humpers, composed of graduate students, lead the East Carolina College Intramural League in softball competition. These "old grads," with a 12 and 2 record, will be the favorites in the championship playoffs this afternoon at 3:30 p. m.

Anyone for a free game of Putt-Putt? If so come around this Friday night with your ID card. That's right—all. Just bring your ID card to the Putt-Putt golf course on the Ayden highway and, as the saying goes, "Putt your troubles away", from 6:00 till 11:00. This a great opportunity for all, compliments of the Men's Intramural Association. Above all, it's free—and that's the best way. As an addition there will be free prizes given to the low scorers.

Speaking of free things—do you like to bowl? Would you like to learn how to bowl? If the answers are yes, the Hillcrest Lanes should be your destination. There will be free games and free instruction and as an added interest (and necessity) there will be free shoes. This college bowling line will be held on Wednesdays at 3:00 p.m. Let's all go and show our appreciation.

Closer to campus—the softball competition has been fast and furious this past week as can be judged by the standings. The Humpers, with a 12-2 record, are still the ones to beat. But if the standings are any indication, the Lambda Chi's just might be the ones to show up the old players. By the way, the championship playoffs are today. If you really want to see some action, just amble on down to the roundball field about 3:00.

event; however, he had the sanction of the student senate to do so since he correctly followed the requisition system as explained on page thirty-three of the student handbook, THE KEY.

(16) The Student Fund Accounting Office and the telephone company keep the necessary records of all official SGA long distance phone calls.

(17) Every group that represents our college while on official trips is required to, and does submit itemized receipts of all expenditures of the student activity fees.

(18) If you are referring to the officers of the SGA as exerting too much authority in student government affairs I will have to, in turn, ask you just what is your interpretation of too much power? The power is, in my opinion, fairly and equally distributed among those persons who were elected to serve and to lead. To my knowledge the SGA does not have committees composed of one.

(19) The expense of the NSA trip will be approximately nine-hundred dollars. This trip will enable those going to have a better understanding of the operations of student government, and in turn those going will be able to improve the quality of our SGA in the future years. Space prohibits my explaining all the benefits of NSA, but the twenty-three to three vote in the student senate speaks well of the NSA.

With reference to the dress, conduct on campus, dormitory hours, and the alcoholic beverage regulations. I want to inform you that the SGA officers have met with members of the administration and discussed these problems. Individual standards will have to govern some of these problems, but the SGA is attempting to remedy most of them.

As president of the summer school Student Government Association may I express my appreciation to you for being so sincerely interested in the affairs of the SGA. However, may I remind you that the elections for summer school SGA positions were open to one and all, and that if you were interested in assisting to remedy your so called problems, your support at election time would have been greatly appreciated.

We are proud of East Carolina College, and equally proud that we have the opportunity to express ourselves in the form of debate and discussion in the Student Government Association meetings. The SGA promotes democracy in all aspects of college life, and it is through the SGA efforts that we hope to maintain our rights as students and future leaders of the nation.

If you have any further questions I will be most happy to see you about them. The SGA office, located in the Wright Auditorium, is open every day from 1:00 until 5:00.

"The broader your knowledge, the greater your chance of success!"

Edwin J. Ducayet, President

"As I look back, graduating from college in the depth of the depression was a blessing in disguise. It was difficult to get a job, and even more difficult to hold it. It proved to me early in life that to succeed in business requires constant struggle.

"I found that the truly successful individual never stops learning, that a formal college education is the foundation on which we continue to build the knowledge and experience required to get ahead.

"Even in today's age of specialization, a man eventually reaches a point where breadth of knowledge is necessary. The engineer must understand accounting and marketing. The marketing man must know his product. The financial man must be sympathetic to engineering development and sales programs. Management must have a working knowledge of all phases of the complex and highly competitive business world.

"Therefore, even though specializing, a student should make his college curriculum as broad as possible, and diversify his outside activities. Authoritative surveys have shown that only a small percentage of individuals end up in the field in which they specialized in college.

"Widen your world. Broaden your interests right now. Since graduation from college I've discovered that those who are really succeeding today are the ones who do more and keep on learning from what they do. The broader your college interests are now — the steadier your ladder of success tomorrow!"
