Art, Music Achieve New Status

NASA Membership Chance Increases; Music School Plans Five Year Study

The change in title from Department of Art and Department of Music to School of Art and School of Music at EC will bring about a change of status and a future broadening of the programs of each, according to their directors.

The title "School" applied the two former departments of instruction at the college was authorized Friday, October 26, by the Board of Trustees. EC has also a School of Business and a School of Nursing.

Prof. Earl E. Beach, Dean of School of Music and Dr. Wellington B. Gray, Dean of School of Art, commented on what the new titles and the new status will mean to their instructional organizations.

Recognition By Professional Organizations

Each stated that the new title of "school" would result in greater recognition for the former departments by professional organizations in their fields and with outstanding schools in other colleges and universities.

"We fulfill immediately one of the obligations for professional membership in the National Association of Schools of Art," Dean Gray explained.

Both Deans pointed out also that a School of Music and a School of Art because of the prestige of the titles will prove more attractive to students than departments of instruction and so will bring to EC more students with outstanding talent and training.

Because of the size and quality of work offered, the School of Music and the School of Art merit the recognition which their new titles imply.

Dean Beach stated that a revision of the bachelor of music program now offered will be activated in January, 1963, and has been planned as a school of music program of study.

"It will," he said, "lay a foundation of greater depth both musically and academically through the flexibility of the course of study. Because of the depth of the program of studies, it will permit a greater development for graduates of the program who will continue to work toward an advanced degree program both at our institution and others that they may attend."

Five Year Study Program

The School of Music is now working on plans for a professional five-year program of study.

The School of Art, Dean Gray said, is formulating a program leading to the granting of the bachelor of fine arts and the master of fine arts degrees. Now offered are the A.B., the B.S. and the M.A. degrees with majors in art.

Dean Gray, a native of Albany, N. Y., has served as director of the Department of Art since 1956. He Prof. Earl E. Beach, Dean of School of Music.

Dr. Wellington B. Gray, Dean of School of Art.

Cotten Hall Freshmen Install '62-63 Officers

Cotten Hall Dorm held its installation service on November 1 in the parlor of Cotten Dorm. Linda Trotter, chairman of Cotten's big sisters, presided over the installation.

The officers were installed by Ruth White, Dean of Women. The new officers are: Nancy Freeman, President; Marita Rosental, Vice President; Carol F. Morris, Secretary; Euleta Johnson, Treasurer; and Marsha Deese, SGA Representative.

Chairmen of the different committees who were also installed include Committee on Religious Activities, Patricia Lee Braxton; Social Committee, Carolyn Ann Thayer; and Fine Arts Committee, Elizabeth Jane Charles.

holds the D. Ed. degree from New York University and, immediately before coming to EC, was dean of the School of Art at Edinboro State College in Pennsylvania.

Dean Beach joined the EC faculty as director of the Department of Music in 1958. A native of Ohio and an M. A. graduate of Western Reserve University, he had served before coming to EC as Chairman of Music Education at Ohio Wesleyan University, at Mississippi Southern College, and at the University of Georgia at Athens.

EC Representatives Attend 'Miss Yackety Yack' Pageant

Representatives of the BUC-CANEER and Student Government Association attended the annual Miss Yackety Yack Pageant on the University of North Carolina campus last week-end.

Cathy Shesso, Buccaneer Queen 1963, made an appearance on behalf of the local yearbook and was introduced to the audience of several thousand.

Accompanying Cathy were Tony R. Bowen, Managing Editor of the Buccaneer, and Tom Mallison, President of the SGA.

Ninety UNC coeds vied for the yearbook queen title. Each of the girls were presented in evening gowns and judged on beauty. Forty semi-finalists were selected. From the forty, a queen and twelve members of her court were named.

Among the six judges for the competitive event were Norma Carole Summerlin McDonald, an EC student who has held seventeen beauty titles including Miss North Carolina Rescue Squad and Miss Goldsboro, and Mrs. Ted Bissette, the former Betty Lane Evans who was a student at EC during and after her reign as Miss North Carolina 1959.

Winner of the new Yackety Yack Queen title was Pat Hall sponsored by the Pi Kappa Alpha chapter at the University.

2,500 Episcopalians Expected

Lichtenberger Speaks To Assembly On Campus

On Sunday, November 11, the Presiding Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States, The Rt. Rev. Arthur Lichtenberger, will speak in the EC gymnasium at 7:30 p.m. More than 2,500 Episcopalians are expected to attend. In addition to the Presiding Bishop, The Bishop of East Carolina, The Rt. Rev. Thomas H. Wright and The Rt. Rev. Horacio Santa Maria, Bishop of the Philippine Independent Church, will be present.

This is the first time that Bishop Lichtenberger has ever visited East Carolina. In addition to being the Presiding Bishop of the Episcopal Church, he is also a dedicated leader and speaker throughout the whole Christian world today. He was formally installed as Presiding Bishop on January 14, 1959 at the Cathedral Church of St. Peter and St. Paul in Washington, D. C. In 1961, while enroute to the World Council of Churches assembly in New Delhi, India, he paid a courtesy visit to Pope John XXIII in Rome. He was the first head of an American Protestant Church to meet with a Pope. He is a member of the Central Committee of the World Council of Churches and recently has dedicated the new Episcopal Seminary at Puerto Rico. Bishop Lichtenberger also this year has spoken at the centennial celebration of the Church in Hawaii, consecrated the rebuilt cathedral of the Episcopal Church in the Philippines, and participated in services in Manila.

Buc Beauty

This week's Buc Beauty, Jackie Polk, a twenty-one year old senior, will represent EC in the nationwide prettiest girl cheerleader contest. She is majoring in primary education, and is a Sigma Sigma Sigma pledge.

Campus Station Collects $223.55 For UNICEF

Through the staging of a radiothon Nov. 1-3 and a dance on the night of Nov. 2 in the CU, the campus radio station WWWS-AM contributed $223.55 to the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund.

Jimmy Shuman, assistant manager of the college station, began the radiothon at 12:30 p.m., Nov. 1, and concluded at the same time on Nov. 3. During the 48 hours of continuous broadcasting, contributions for UNICEF were collected in front of the library.

Members of the campus radio staff, Rick Brewer and Thomas Wallace, co-produced the dance Friday night in the CU. Admission was a contribution to UNICEF.

The dance was broadcast over WWWS-AM. Brewer was stationed in front of the library to conduct man-on-the-street interviews, and marathon walkers joined him here to accept contributions from passing students.

Answer

We don't usually bother to answer letters of criticism, but since practically the only people who feel inclined to write us are those people who are critical of the newspaper, we feel that perhaps a clarification of a few of our policies is in order. This may save a few of our would-be critics the trouble of composing a letter to the Editor.

We have said that we don't usually bother to answer letters of criticism. We adhere to this policy because constant defense of ourselves would result in the paper becoming a self-centered publication—a purpose for which it is not meant to exist. Also, we feel that the executive staff of this newspaper is probably more well versed in journalistic practices on both the college level and the commercial level than any of our critics. Generally, our critics are arguing about something of which they know little or nothing. We have already explained why we have made an exception to this policy.

Hardly a day passes that someone doesn't ask, either in conversation or letter, for "constructive recommendations" instead of criticism. This is the argument we encounter most frequently, but we feel that it is also the least intelligent argument. The people who insist upon nothing but what they term (rather loosely) "constructive criticism" are saying, in effect, "If you can't solve it, don't mention it." The stupidity of this point of view is obvious. This is something like saying, "It's too bad that Red China has invaded India, but don't talk about it unless you can get them to sign a truce." We feel that the first step in solving any problem is realizing that a problem exists. We don't even pretend to have the solution to many of the problems upon which we editorialize, but we certainly aren't going to ignore these problems because of this.

Another criticism which we frequently encounter comes from the various clubs and fraternal organizations that have found it increasingly difficult to get themselves mentioned within these pages. This is probably the most petty criticism that we have encountered and it emphasizes a point we made earlier—the lack of knowledge in the field of journalism on the part of our critics. We challenge them to find, in the better college newspapers of the nation, organization news of the type that they would have us print. We have heard this type of criticism from these people so often that we are beginning to wonder if their clubs have any other purpose than to gain publicity for themselves.

If you feel that the Editor of this publication is not doing his job well, we would suggest that there may be something wrong with the method by which editors are selected—he didn't seize his position by force. But, good or bad, he is the Editor and until such time as he resigns or is otherwise removed from office, the EAST CAROLINIAN will be operated in the manner which he feels is best.

Short Stories That I Never Got Around To Finishing

"Like, man, what I remembered was a nightmare. That party. Jumping around, dancing, shouting, being a wit. I was a kind of "free" type. But I must have gone out of my head and Bruce and somebody went out and got some whisky. What happened then I don't know.

"God," the next morning I didn't want to open my eyes; it was bad enough to know that I was alive. Whoie, my mouth felt like it had been used as an incinerator to burn dirty foam rubber. Yet it seemed that my head was miles off. Man, like Nirvana, my mind was aware of my well-being body snuggled up in the warmth of the bed, yet I was cut of it. I didn't feel a thing. I slowly cracked one eye; man, it was too much. The whole sun was beaming at me. I opened both eyes to the bright foggy haze, and, hell, I didn't know where I was. I shut them quick. I figured I must have really lost my head last night. I rolled gently on my side. God, I put my hands to my forehead, but I didn't feel anything. Man, I opened my eyes and sat up. I put my hands to my head like a vise, and they met each other. I went lower. And on my shoulder the only thing I could find was my neck. I had lost my head.

"I thought, 'Get dressed; find your head.' I was pretty sure I could dress myself, feeling my deaf, blind, tasteless, and smellless way; but what could I put on my neck? God, I didn't want to touch it. It might have been slimy, greasy, gooey, an open wound; then, of course, it might have been like the stub of a cut-off finger, kind of healed like. How could I go on the street with just the naked stump of a neck? I might be arrested. The only thing I had was a scarf. I could write a note to my landlady and make a burbling sound for her to read it:

"Dear Mrs. Athey, could you do me a favor? It seems as if I've misplaced my head . . ."

"No, no, no. Hell. I had to find it. God, it might dry up without me, then where would I be? How long had I been separated?"

"I thought, 'What time is it?' If I could see the clock, I might have been able to tell. I turned on the radio, but God, I couldn't hear it.

"Maybe somebody would find it.' But, man there was no identification on it. I didn't think I would lose it."

This is where I've been stopped for four years. I've thought about having the Head on a beach and imploring the Body to find it before the tide carries it out to sea. But the Body does not want to leave the security of the room. The Head is frustrated; the Body begins to writhe. The Head grows insane, crying, "Get me if you can" as it floats out to sea. But a dialogue between the Body and Head would mean that the Body has some kind of verbal intelligence apart from the brain and that is impossible.

More Letters

To The Editor:

In a recent editorial in the East Carolinian there appeared the statement "... the Consolidated University! Who needs it?" Well, this may or may not be so, but may I say this.

My concern for the moment is not with the issue of East Carolina's becoming a part of the Consolidated University, but more so with the unvarnished arrogance of this statement.

It has been the policy of the East Carolinian during this year, so it seems, to introduce a little spirit and, perhaps, a little controversy, into the life on the East Carolina campus. In this attempt the editorial staff should be admired and congratulated.

However, I think that in the cause of a sane and sound approach to some of these more controversial issues, caution should be exercised in voicing opinions which might not be in accordance with those held by the majority of students.

East Carolina has come a long way in the past four or five years, and deserves due recognition of its accomplishments. But, one thing it doesn't need, and can ill-afford, is the bad publicity which will arise from such simple-minded statements as this.

In my opinion, the staff member responsible for this dire lack of judgment should spend less of his time in pseudo-sophisticated mental reflection and more on seeking constructive recommendations.

Sincerely,
John Boring

FOOTBALL UNIFORMS

An Open Letter to the Athletic Committee

Re: New Football Uniforms

When our football team takes the field next year for the opening game in Ficklen Stadium, let's have them dressed for the occasion! I firmly believe that the students and faculty of this campus want to be extra proud of our football team, but because the players have to wear ancient-styled uniforms they can't.

Look, for instance, at the Louisiana State University football team uniforms. They have the same school colors as East Carolina and have what many consider to be one of the best looking uniforms in the country. There is no excuse for the Pirates not to dress just as well.

I realize that dressing a football team in first-class uniforms costs money and there may not be enough money in your budget to accomplish this feat. Sigma Nu Fraternity has agreed to give their share of the money they make from the annual Sigma Nu-Pi Kappa Alpha football game to this worthy cause, if the money is needed.

Through your efforts we have improved our football team by acquiring Coach Stasavich and by getting a new football stadium underway. Let's not stop until we dress our football team, so we the people of East Carolina College can be proud of them.

Sincerely,
Jack Wall

DEFENSE

To the Editor:

Re: Letter of criticism from Dave Lord.

Mr. Lord, I say that we commend Mr. Griffin and his competent EAST CAROLINIAN staff. You stated in the October 30 issue of the EAST CAROLINIAN that "if you are going to the expense to publish a paper, why not publish a good one?" If you think that the staff has failed to do the job properly and that they are wasting your money, then, may I suggest that you offer your services to the staff. I feel certain that Mr. Griffin would welcome your efforts.

Mr. Lord, if you wish to read a book review, why don't you avail yourself to our fine literary publication, THE REBEL, or submit your own book reviews to the EAST CAROLINIAN.

I wonder, Mr. Lord, if you noticed the informative topics on the front page? Are you acquainted with the election results for Men's Dorm? Do you know who your own class officers are? Passing by Wright Building I suppose you had a few seconds of curiosity about all of the banging, drilling, and congested traffic. If you refer your attention to the front page there is a thorough explanation even including a picture (in case you did not notice) and the estimated cost of this needed renovation. Certainly, you have been aware of the Cuban crisis, as has the male sect. Pretty Miss Tava from Cuba is with us to interpret for us the feeling and emotions of herself and family in regards to this prevailing danger.

May I conclude by stating that some members of our EAST CAROLINIAN staff have returned last weekend after spending a few days at the ACPC in Detroit, Michigan where they participated in a series of workshops and discussions. Maybe, now, Mr. Lord, they may publish an issue suitable to you.

Yours truly,
An interested student

The Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps trains cadets for commissions as second lieutenants in the Air Force upon graduation from EC.

All qualified seniors participate in flight training in light aircraft. After completing the course, the cadets receive private pilot's licenses.

In addition to attending classes in air science, many of the cadets take part in extracurricular activities. The Drill Team conducts the annual Marchathon for the March of Dimes. Surrounding communities have requested many parade appearances.

The Arnold Air Society is an honorary fraternity within the corps. Angel Flight is an honorary society including girls sponsored by the ROTC and the Arnold Air Society.

Appearing in intercollegiate competition, the Rifle Team travels to other schools for some events. For others, the group participates in postal practice (firing at practice targets and mailing the targets to other schools for comparison).

Besides appearances in parades and campus athletic events, the Color Guard holds retreat each day.

The Air Science staff includes Major Elber; L. Kidd, Professor of Air Science; Major Donald G. Simpson, instructor; Captain Jay E. Baker, instructor; Sergeant William A. Harrison, instructor; Sergeant Ervin E. Koon, supply supervisor; and Airman Henry L. Pitt, administrative assistant.

Commanded by Sally Burdette, the Angel Flight joins with the Arnold Air Society in planning and participating in cadet extracurricular activities. The Angel Flight is open to all girls with a "C" average.

Cadet Major Gerald West of the Arnold Air Society, confers with Captain Baker, Commandant of Cadets, on the basic cadets' progress.

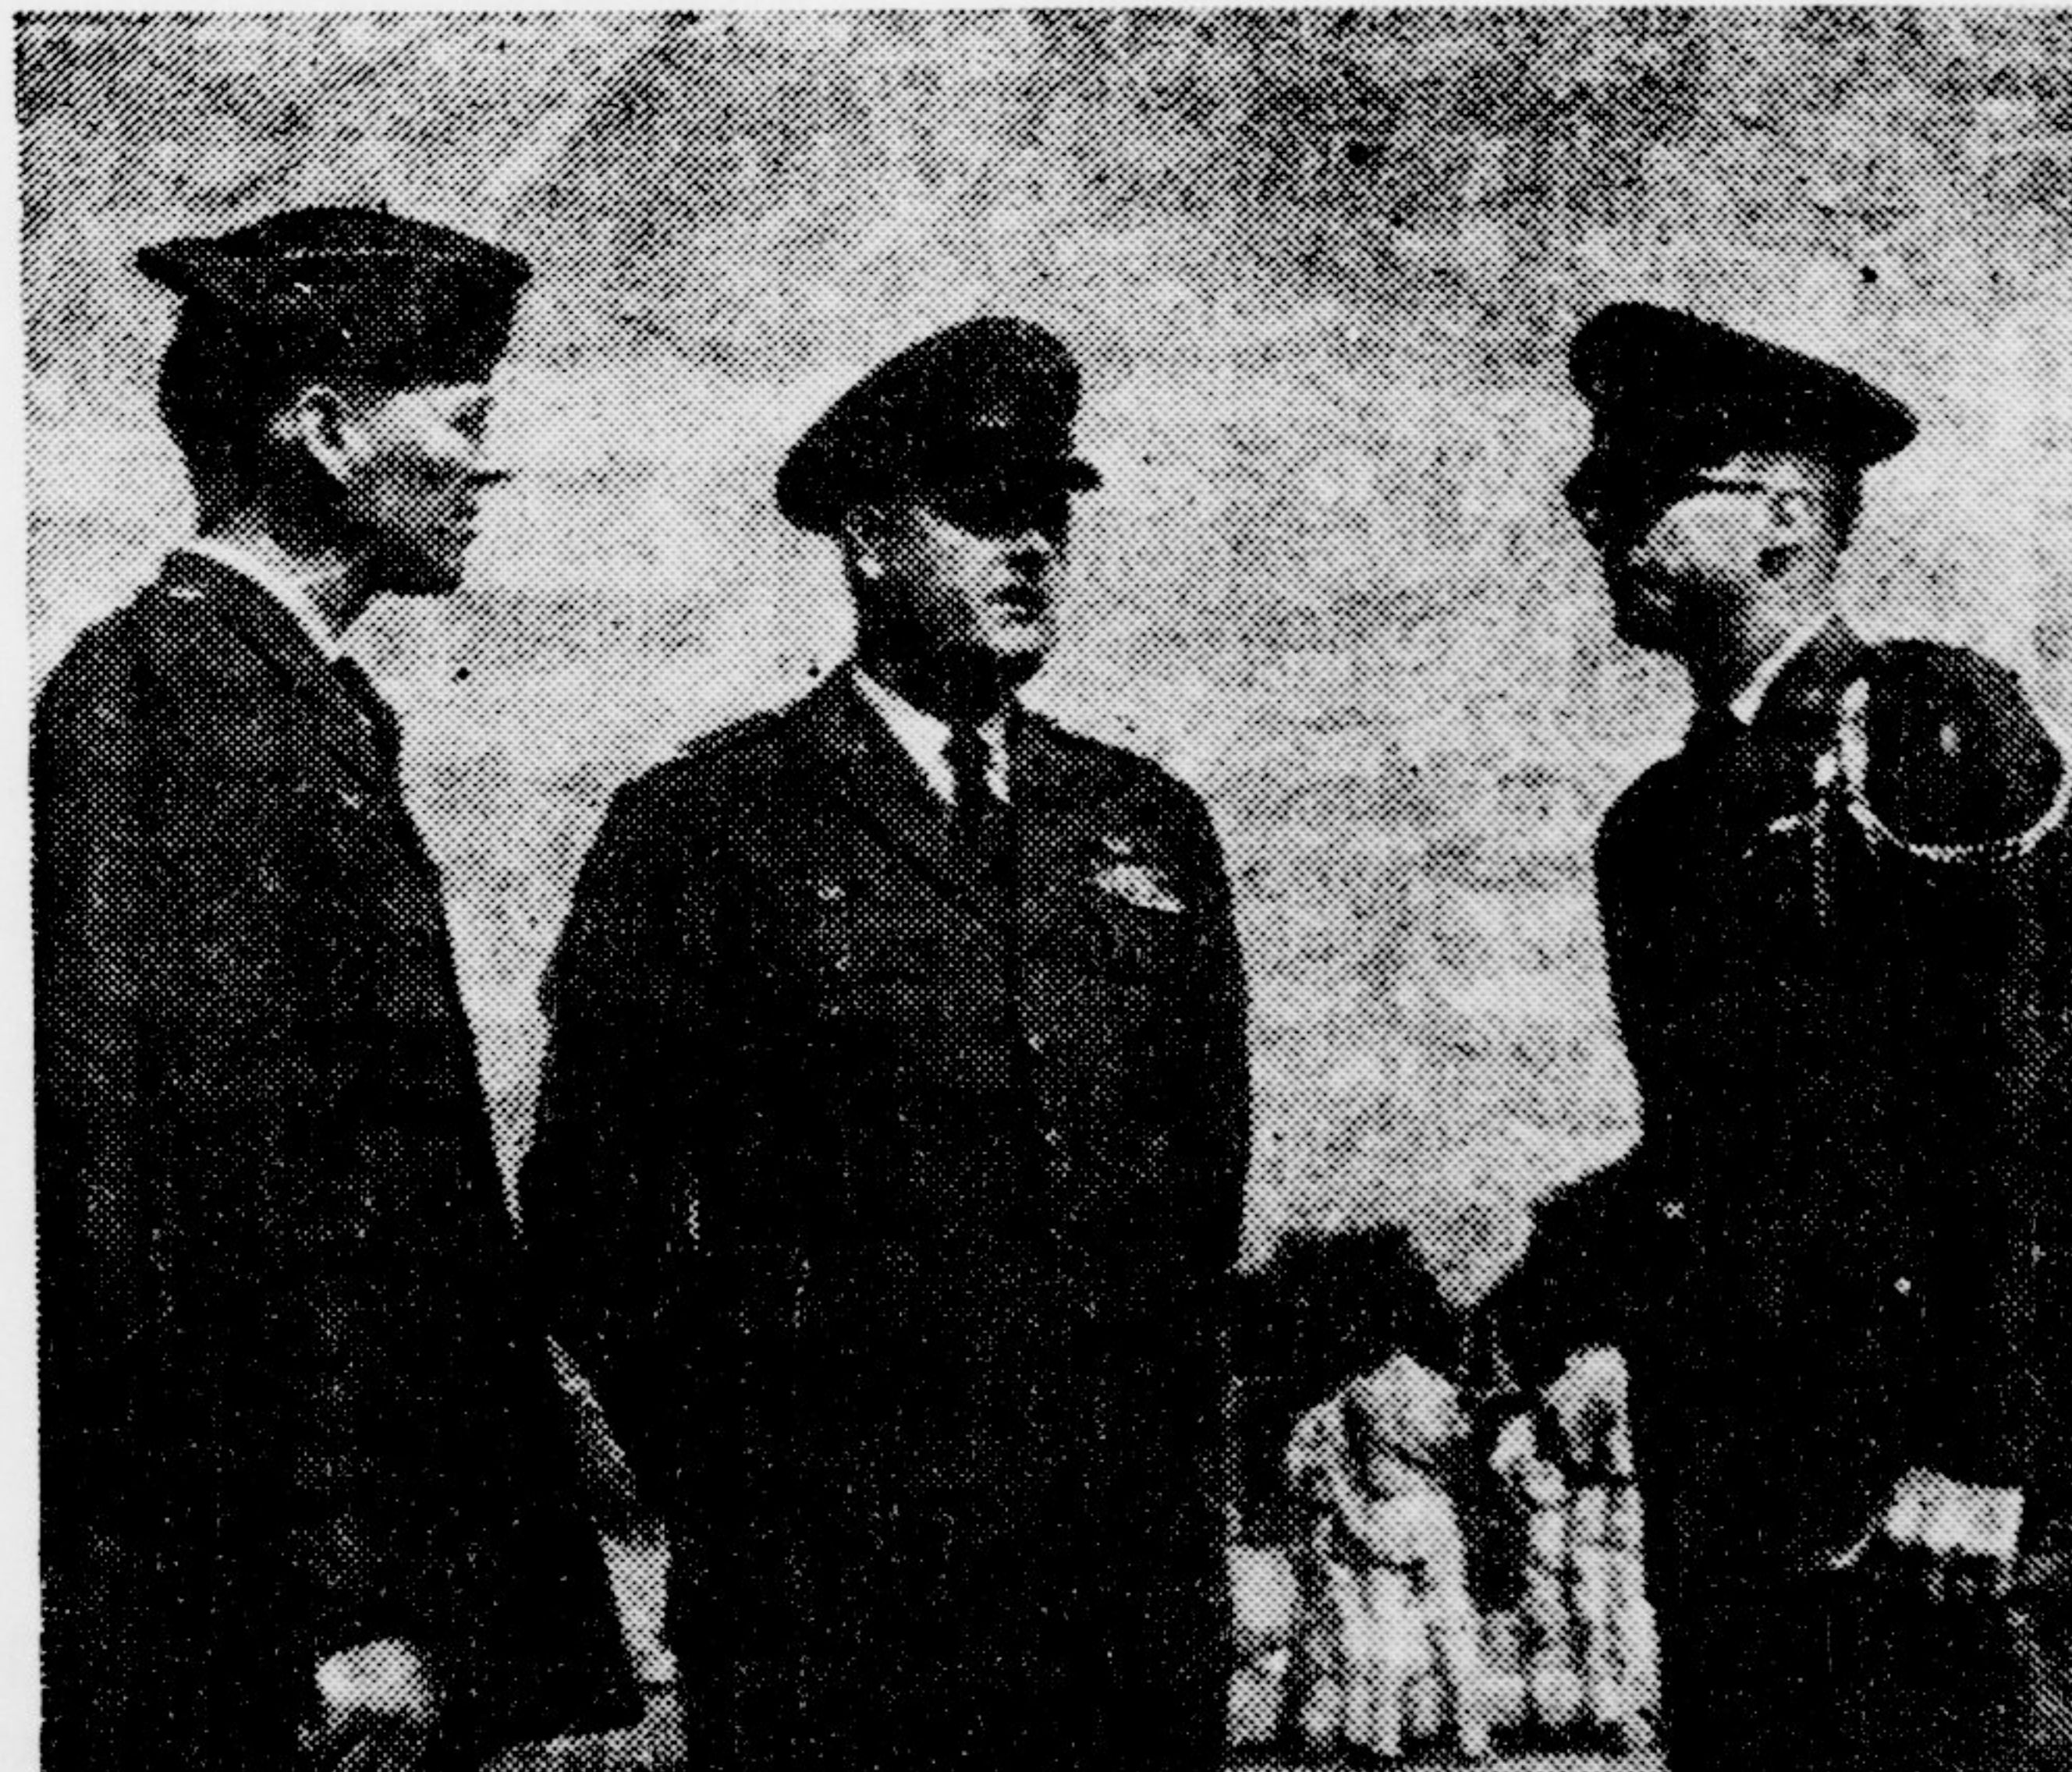

The Drill Team, commanded by Cadet First Lieutenant Edwin Pearce, is now preparing for the various Christmas parades in and around Greenville.

Guidance Workshop Discusses Opportunities In Business Field

A Workshop for Guidance Counselors will be held here tomorrow under the sponsorship of the North Carolina Business Education Council. Business teachers and guidance counselors from approximately forty-seven counties have been invited to the meeting.

The purpose of the workshop is to acquaint guidance counselors with the opportunities for students in the business field and to discuss the role of the counselors in helping boys and girls to make wise choices.

Two panels will discuss "Careers in Business" and "The Counselor and Business Careers." Appearing on a panel discussion at 10:30 a.m. in the Rawl building, speakers who will discuss careers in business are Dr. Aubrey Dempsey, Professor of Business; Mrs. Guyla Clark, Business Teacher, Ayden High School; Wallace Howard, Senior Vice President, Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, Greenville; and Chapman Hutchinson, Personnel Manager, N. C. Pulp Company, Plymouth.

Saturday afternoon's 1:30 program will present a discussion of "The Counselor and Business Careers." Panelists will be Furney James, Guidance Director, Martin County Schools, Williamston; Joyce Bateman, State Supervisor, Business Education, State Department of Public Instruction, Raleigh; Mrs. Mebane Burgwyn, Director of Guidance, Northampton County Schools, Jackson; and Clarence Dodgens, Director of Guidance, Pender County Schools, Burgaw.

The Program has been planned and all local arrangements completed by Dr. James White, Professor of Business. A past president of the North Carolina Business Education Council, he is currently the EC representative to the Council.

The Gant Story

We believe that Gant shirts have a certain well-bred look that distinguishes them from all others. Careful tailoring and adherence to a strict tradition are qualities indigenous to Gant. The emphasis here is on meticulous detail in a heritage of conservatism.

Do you like a really neat, well fitting collar? Softly flared collar construction is gently RIGHT. Do you want to hang your shirt up? A trim hanger loop sees to that. Room to breathe? Oversize body construction is the answer. There's a full length box pleat back for trimness, too. Precise stitching lets the easy barrel cuffs roll up at mid-point.

The Gant shirt has been designed to serve you through a lifetime of correct dressing. There is painstaking workmanship in every fine Gant shirt...it comes from the expert craft of New England's finest shirtmakers. The craft explains why the careful details of these Gant shirts have been many times imitated but never duplicated.

Allan Nelms

Nelms Aids Students In Securing Jobs

Allan Nelms, Director of Placement Services, came to EC in May, 1958. He began in alumni and foundation work and became Director of Placement Services in January, 1962.

Mr. Nelms, a native of Raleigh, is a graduate of the School of Business at State College. Before coming to EC, he served in teaching and coaching capacities and in YMCA work.

Explaining the purpose of the Placement Service, Mr. Nelms stated that his job is "to assist those seeking our services immediately after graduation and in the future." This service is open to former graduates of EC and graduates of other schools who have completed fifteen hours of work here.

Although the office does not give advice, it does try to prevent the student from making mistakes.

After registering with the Placement Office, a student is notified of job opportunities and interviewed by prospective employers. The credentials of a student are sent on file and may be sent to the prospective employers. After an interview with Mr. Nelms, it is recommended that prospective employers visit their employers so the employers know who they will be working directly with, what will be expected of them, what the working conditions are, and what the community is like.

The services of Mr. Nelms and his office are offered for both teaching and non-teaching jobs. If a student is registered, the Placement Service may be used as a reference when applying for positions. These services may be used at any time in the next ten to twelve years.

Information, Equipment, Instructions

Eller Explains Campus Plans For Fallout

What will happen in the event of a nuclear attack? Though not a pleasant thought, this is one which should be seriously considered. In a recent issue of the N. C. State Technician, an article appeared concerning assignment of students to certain fallout shelter areas on campus. These assignments provide specific survival instructions for all students in the face of nuclear attack. Each student is assigned to a certain area. Most of these shelters are supplied with first aid equipment, food and water.

How is EC prepared for such emergencies? An interview with Dr. Frank Eller, who is in charge of radiation protection on the campus, revealed that several steps have been taken. A detailed plan of emergency action has been prepared and distributed for the library. Radiation detection equipment has been placed in certain strategic locations on campus for several months. This measure came into existence long before the most recent Cuban incident. The equipment will be used for detecting places of least radiation on campus.

Dr. Eller states that in case of

YRC Elects Officers, Adopts New Constitution

Election of officers for 1962-63 and adoption of a new constitution marked the beginning of this year's program of the Young Republicans Club.

Roy Morris has been chosen as chairman of the club. Elected to serve with him are Lawrence Behr, Vice-Chairman; Jacqueline Benton, secretary; Lenward Jones, treasurer; and Nancy Nesbitt, member of the club's Executive Council.

Monthly meetings of the YRC have been planned for the 1962-63 term. Appearing on the programs will be a number of off-campus speakers. Club members are also planning activities to increase student interest in the political scene and in the Republican Party.

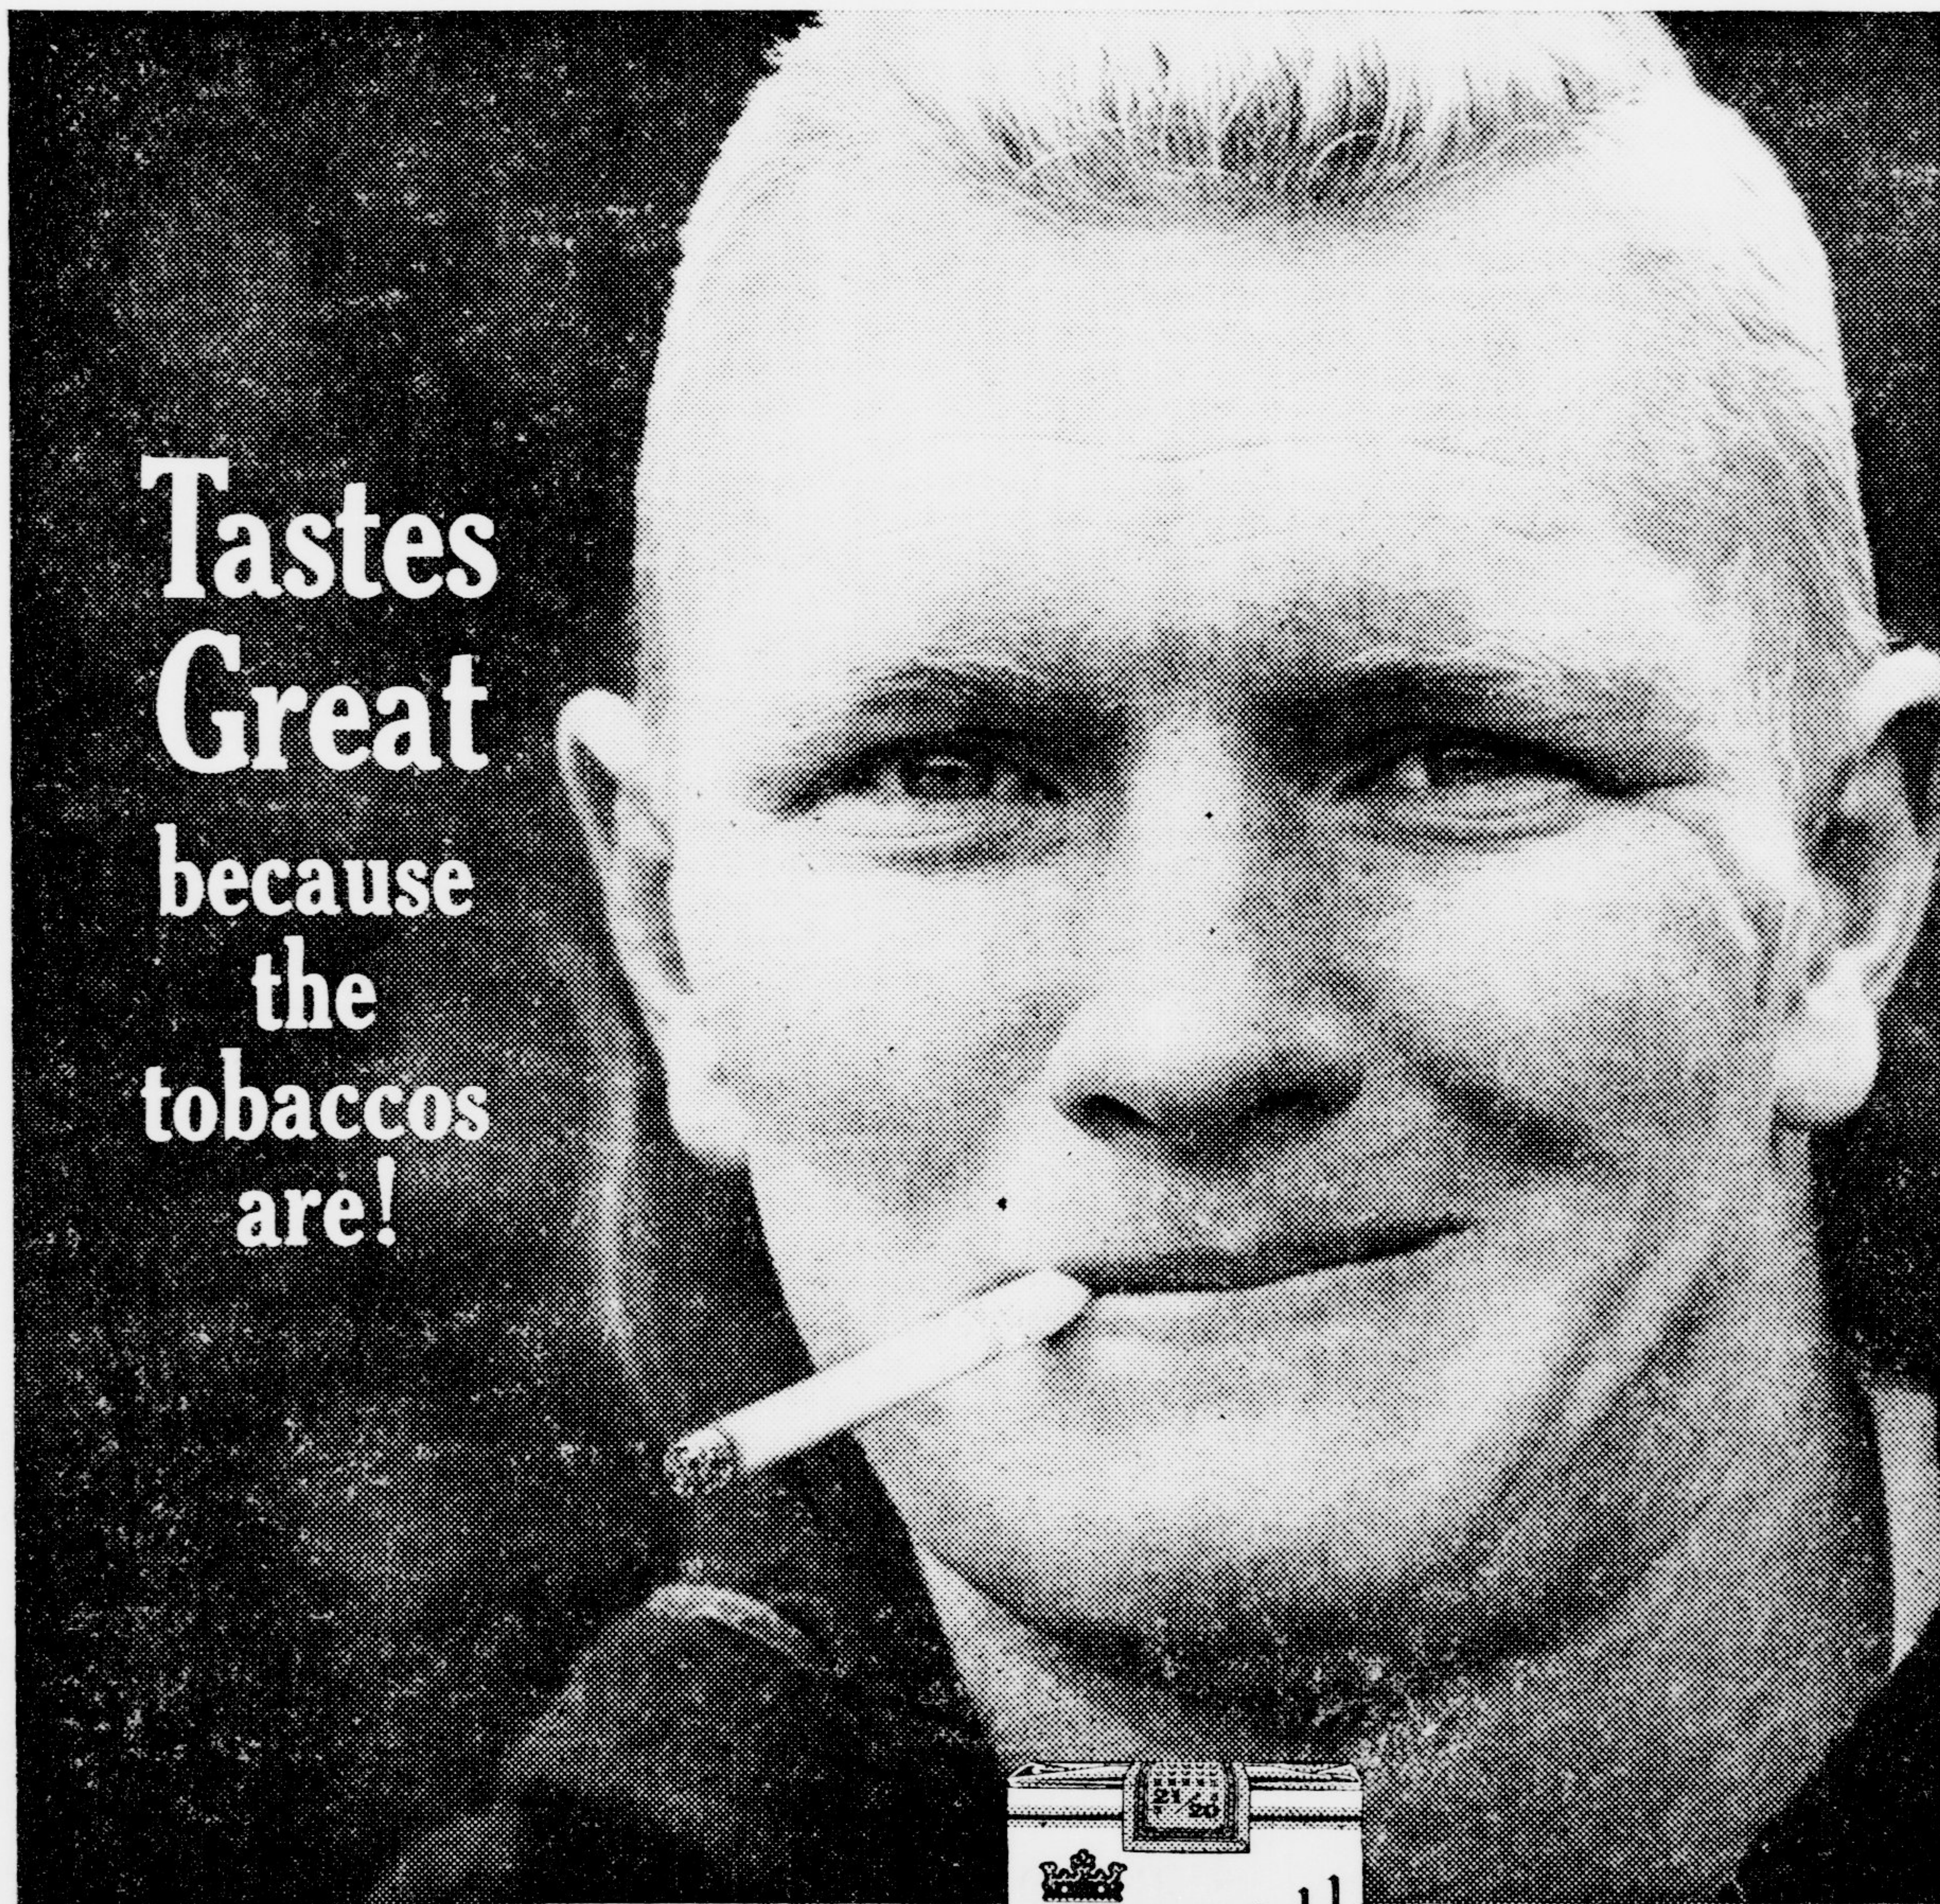

disaster all students are requested to go to the basement hallways of their dormitories and to remain until further notice. Students should stay away from doors and keep the most possible wall space between them and the outside because it is hoped the campus radio can be set up to broadcast. Students should bring with them some type of rations because food and water supplies will be limited.

Dr. Eller strongly stresses the needlessness for panic in case of such emergency. Likely, any fallout here would only make a few people ill. The most recently developed bombs explode in the upper atmosphere, causing minimum fallout. Barring a direct hit by a bomb, there will be only moderate harm here from the standpoint of health.

In the event of disaster, the people of the city of Greenville may attempt to find shelter on the campus. The buildings here offer more protection than any others in eastern N. C. If this situation becomes hypercritical, the Radiological Safety Committee anticipates other steps and recommendations.

Freshmen Begin New Class Plan At Notre Dame

Notre Dame, Ind. (I.P.) — The chief value of the newly inaugurated Freshman Year of Studies at the University of Notre Dame is that freshmen will have the advantage of actual experience here, and of counseling, before making final educational plans. According to Dr. William M. Freshmen contemplating careers in science or engineering will take a second laboratory course, postponing history or social science until the sophomore year.

Freshman prospects for next season's varsity team looked good in the game with Newport News last Saturday. Coach Vansant's boys ended the freshman schedule on the winning side of the ledger by beating Newport News 34-13.

The frosh team has shown continued improvement from their first game of the season to the last. They developed some excellent single-wing material in the line and backfield. If spirit, hustle, and hardnosed competitiveness made a national championship team, the frosh would be playing in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

"Of all the words of tongue or pen
The saddest of these, it might have been."

It is hard to accept defeat, but we did lose. Both teams deserved the win; both teams gave it all they had; both teams played to the best of their ability; and both teams wanted to win this one more than any other game on their schedule, but only one team could win.

If you want to read a real tear-jerker of an article about the LR game, find a copy of Monday's Charlotte Observer sports section — page 1. It leaves you a little choked-up after reading it.

Will Tennessee still run the single wing next year? The coach says yes, the ALUMNI says no. This brings us to an interesting question — who really runs a football team? The coach or the alumni.

Baby Bucs Score 28 Points In Last Period; Rout Newport News 34-13 In Finale

The Freshman team made this season a winning season as it defeated the Newport News Apprentice School 34-13 in Newport News, Virginia, last Saturday. The finale of the season gave the Baby Bucs a 2-1 record.

After trailing 7 to 6 going into the fourth quarter, the Baby Bucs put their scoring machine in high gear and racked up 28 points to win.

The scoring started when John McPhaul intercepted an Apprentice pass. Tailback Buddy Bovender went over for the score from three yards out to give the Pirates a 12 to 7 lead. Jerry Wallace booted the conversion to increase the lead to 13 to 7. Wallace was injured on the play because of unnecessary roughness, but the penalty was refused.

Newport News was held on the next series of downs, and the Pirates took over. Passes from Bovender to right end Ruffin Odom and wingback Dave Alexander carried the pigskin to the Newport 3-yard line. Bovender dove over for the touchdown that gave the Baby Bucs a 19 to 7 lead. Dave Alexander took over the kicking chores for the injured Wallace and kicked the extra point. The Pirates discovered a kicking specialist as Alexander had a 3 for 3 day and booted the kick-off out of the end zone.

NN took the ball on their 20 and moved it to the 26 before kicking. The Pirates took over and moved the ball to their own 46 yard line. At the 46, Bovender swept right end for 54 yards and another Pirate TD. Alexander's conversion made it 27-7.

After receiving the kickoff on their own 20-yard line because of another out of the end zone kick by Alexander, the Apprentices could not move and were forced to punt. The Bucs took over and started a drive for their fourth touchdown, only to have Harold Peacock steal a Pirate aerial and scamper 36 yards for a Newport TD. The conversion attempt failed and made the score 27 to 13.

The Baby Bucs were not through scoring, however. On the first play after the kick off, Bovender went 62 yards on an off-tackle play to the NN 6-yard line. He repeated the same play on first and goal as he carried the ball over for the score. Alexander's extra point try was good, and the Pirates led 34 to 13. This TD rounded out the scoring for the game. The last NN threat was ended when Jon Rife intercepted an Apprentice pass.

The Pirates moved the ball exceptionally well all afternoon, but mistakes hampered their scoring drives in the first quarter. EC took the initial kickoff and moved the ball to NN's 16-yard line where a Buc fumble ended the drive at that point. A few minutes later, the Pirates had another drive stopped on the Apprentice 28-yard line because of another fumble. Penalties held the Bucs back from scoring. They were penalized 50 yards. Even though the Pirate offense did not score in the first half, the defensive team allowed the Apprentices only 20 yards rushing.

Newport News scored in the second quarter on a 65-yard pass play from Goger to Easter. The conversion was good and Newport led 7 to 0.

The Bucs were stopped in scoring territory time and time again but could not manage a score. NN led 7 to 0 at half time.

An intercepted pass gave the Baby Bucs their first score in the third quarter. Norman Swindell batted a Newport News pass into the arms of teammate Steve Jennings. Jennings went 41 yards for the score. The conversion play was missed, and Newport led 7 to 6 going into the fourth quarter.

The Pirate defense was outstanding in holding Newport to a total of 33 yards rushing. The Pirate offense rushed for 244 yards and passed for 149 yards — a total of 393 yards total offense.

Outstanding on defense were Dave Niell, Steve Jennings, Elmer Krusa, John McPhaul, and Richard Barnhill. Barnhill broke through the Apprentice line on several occasions to throw Newport News backs for minus yardage.

The blocking ability of Truman Hilton, Bill Sheffield, and Norman Swindell paved the way for the Pirate running attack.

Injured in the game were right tackle and kicker Jerry Wallace and defensive captain Ira Bullard at the middle linebacker position. Although the playing schedule is ended, the Baby Bucs will continue practice sessions for the next two or three weeks to work on more basic fundamentals.
