Mallison Urges Enlightened Vote By Students Tomorrow

The fact that student government is often dependent upon inconsistent student leadership is a major cause for concern with Student Government elections just around the corner. At best, any democratically elected form of leadership will have its share of personal inadequacies; however, this situation is magnified in college government the accompanying lack of "governmental experience" within a particular institution. As a result, the concept of "leadership training" has become an increasingly important one for student government. Leadership programs directed particularly at the development of underclassmen play an important role in stabilizing the influence of student government. A number of college administrators have admitted that it is more comfortable to place confidence in a student government that is reasonably certain of filling its graduating senior ranks with well-trained underclassmen.

Student leaders, although aware of problems and anxious to treat them, are generally unwilling to pause for self-evaluation and to offer genuinely constructive self-criticism. A Greek philosopher related that unexamined life is not worth living.

Student Government is conceived as an educational enterprise. That because of the relatively short period of college student life and is, student government has a moral obligation to care for all of the student activities on campus. The important thing is that whatever student government does it should do with a purpose. Is the trouble that students are bored with student government? The cure for boredom is the establishment of goals.

Therefore the concept of "student government" is not an easy one to resolve nor a simple one to pursue. It certainly should be explored by the voters of East Carolina College before the coming elections are held.

However, the hope is that you will become familiar with much that should be available to you through campaigns so that you might aid in student government and glean increased knowledge with which to cast new light on your campus government.

Voting Frauds Merit Penalty For Cheating

The election will run from 9:00 a.m. Thursday, March 28, 1963 until 4:00 p.m. that same day.

Complete election rules will be posted in all dorms and in the College Union and also in Austin.

The penalty for fraud or attempted fraud will be the same as cheating. The maximum penalty is expulsion of the student(s) involved. This is a violation of the honor code and will be strictly enforced. Dean Mallory; Dan Wooten, Director of Men's Housing; Dean Tucker; Rudolph Alexander, Assistant Dean of Student Affairs; and elections committee chairman, Burke Stevens will be circulating about the polls to prevent fraud or illegal practices from being committed.

Last year five boys went before the Men's Judiciary. They were charged with voting more than once, using other students' I.D.

cards. They were found not guilty due to insufficient evidence.

TV Interview

A TV and radio interview by five panel members, asking the three presidential candidates their views on pertinent aspects of East Carolina and certain vital issues pertaining to the students, will take place at 7:00 p.m., Wednesday, March 27, 1963. Students may watch this interview in the College Union, the Library Auditorium, Austin 211, or Flanagan Auditorium.

After this television show, there will be a reception in the College Union for the purpose of letting the students meet the candidates and ask questions at length about anything they wish to know.

Notice

The students of East Carolina College are invited to attend a March of Dimes Benefit Dance sponsored by Chi Omega. The dance will feature the Collegians Dance Band on Friday, March 29, 1963 at 8:00 p.m. in Wright Auditorium.

I.D. cards are necessary to vote and they will be punched. Day students will vote in Wright, while dorm students will vote in their dorms.

Gives SGA 'New Look'

GRAB-BAG COMMENTS ON, BY CANDIDATES GOBLINS VICE-PRES. GOLLOBINS

This issue of the East Carolinian is even more of a hodgepodge than is usual, but we hope that by bringing the elections and the candidates before the students we can somehow induce them to vote on Thursday. This space is going to catch all the things we couldn't include in the rest of the paper and wanted to.

One comment: Why is there no rotating ballot as in regular elections? There had been plans made for one and then they were discarded, apparently at the request of some of the candidates. Naturally candidates who were at the top of the ballot would not want to rotate the ballot, but should these selfish considerations have influenced the non-partisan Elections Chairman?

The most unfortunate thing about the elections Thursday is that candidates for two of the major SGA offices are running unopposed. All registered candidates for Assistant Treasurer and for Secretary withdrew at the last minute to leave these positions uncontested to Larry Sneed and Cathy Shesso. We understand that a write-in campaign has been started for Carolyn Thayer for Secretary and only regret that someone has not started a write-in campaign for Assistant Treasurer. Perhaps the people running can do the jobs as well as anyone, but they should not be allowed to assume these jobs unopposed in a democratic election.

Contrary to opinion, the decision not to publish the results of last year's SGA elections was not Dean Tucker's, it was the idea of the Elections Chairman, who did it to "save candidates who received few votes embarrassment." We believe that if a person wishes to run for office he had best be prepared to face the facts just as they are if he loses. The East Carolinian will publish the results of this year's elections.

Absentee ballots may be obtained by students practicing teaching by writing Burke Stevens elections chairman at the SGA office.

The social committee of the College Union invites the students to come to an open house in the College Union lounge this Wednesday night, March 27, at 8:15 p.m., to meet the candidates running for offices in the general elections, which will be held this Thursday.

Noel Tisdale and his CU social committee members will serve as hosts and hostesses, serving refreshments after the candidates have been introduced by Student Government Elections Committee chairman, Burke Stevens. Students are encouraged to come and meet the candidates informally.

STRADDLERS

Several years ago at the University of Missouri, a young man quite adept at writing and speaking, became angry over the elections on campus. The two candidates running for the office of president of the student body were non-committal and would not take a stand on any issue.

As a joke, the young man demanded equal time on the campus radio and gave a witty speech lampooning the other two candidates. His platform was the "Do-Nothing" Party. His slogan was: "We are not going to do anything about a thing." Because of his speaking ability and wit and colorful campaign, he was elected. It was found later, however, that he had never registered, and was disqualified.

This frivolous treatment of elections is amusing on the surface. A deeper probe showed that the students voted on a basis of things entirely unrelated to the office of president. The lion's share of the blame falls not on the students, but on the two candidates who refused to state what their views were. Their's is the blame for a stalemate, for apathy, for lack of interest; and their's is the blame for the outcome of that election. The student newspaper probably should claim an equal share of the blame for not forcing the candidates to take a stand.

The East Carolinian has done this, and shoved the fence-loving candidates off to one side or the other. Now it is up to you, the student, to see who you are "for" or "against."

Dr. Clinton R. Prewett, of the psychology department stated his views on the election. His comments are as follows:

"One of the major issues confronting both the students and the candidates in the campus election is the absence of both an enemy to attack and a positive goal to pursue. When this situation exists students frequently find it necessary to erect fierce "goblins" or to suggest phantom and illusory goals.

No longer is the idiom of participation in an election as a duty of citizenship very much motivation. Students tend to be ego-centered and the candidates would be well advised to appeal to the students on the basis of some personal need being met or the thrill of the participation.

Question: "Do you think there are any motives or issues that should be unimportant or irrelevant, that become important and are a deciding factor in the outcome of an election when these issues should not have a prominent place in deciding elections?"

Yes. Whether or not students belong to a fraternity is unimportant. Whether or not he is majoring in one particular field is unimportant, and such other things as political affiliation, church affiliation—a person's private world of worship and correlative attitudes are not an issue in a campus election. Also, it's not what's up front that counts but what's on top that counts. In other words, good looks are not as important as good values and good intelligence.

It is easy to confuse noise making with discussion of relevant issues and it is easy to confuse posters and billboards with conscientious thought about the purposes of East Carolina College. Catchy slogans—"I Like Ike"—sometimes have more vote appeal than they should. It's the purpose of the president of the Student Government of East Carolina College to place on the agenda the unfinished business which confronts all the citizens of the college community. Sometimes this will require personal courage as well as intelligence."

HISTORIAN

The position of Historian is considered by many as being of little importance. This, of course, is not true. I would like to see a complete history of the work of the next administration written down and kept as a permanent record to show future students what one of the best Students in the country has accomplished.

The person who holds this position, or any other, should apply himself to the best of his ability to any task that comes before him. I believe the S.G.A. needs willing, interested, and experienced students. We no longer need glory hunters and do-gooders who quit their position as soon as they are elected and have won a popularity poll. I heartily beg the students to study each candidate before voting and to vote for the best qualified person. If I am elected I will do my best to apply two years of previous experience to serve the students of our college.
Ed Smith

My aim in running for the vice-presidency of S.G.A. is not just to be an office-holder, but to help students gain a better, fuller understanding of the various functions of student government. I plan to use this position as a link to strengthen the gap between the student body and the student government.

By working with the president, and the other executive officers of S.G.A., interest could be aroused so that the students could participate more fully—especially in the weekly meetings, elections, etc. Publicity of bills or resolutions on the agenda should be given prior to their final voting, in order that the student body be aware of intended governmental action. I feel that the office of the vice-president has, in the past, been entirely too insignificant and weak; a type of "do-nothing" position. He could easily relieve the heavy burdens of the President by taking over some of his smaller, time-consuming duties—with his consent.

A candidate for this position should be experienced and interested. Two years of service in the Senate, delegate to State Student Legislature and presenter of EC bill in the Senate, chairman of EC delegation to model United Nations General Assembly—writing and presenting resolutions, and fraternity officer: all are basic qualifications.

The office of the vice-president is more important than some students actually realize. Do not tend to over-look it, for it also deserves utmost thought and consideration.

Billy Braswell
Candidate for office of Vice-President

After interviewing the presidential candidates, my conclusions are:

That Bryan Bennett has a weak platform, but that he could do the job.

That Oran Perry was totally unprepared for an interview and that he had not thought long enough about the issues involved, and that he was unable to express himself either concisely or clearly, and that he was more concerned with saying anything than saying something that would let the students know where he stands.

That Bill Eyerman has a good grasp of the workings of the S.G.A., that he has a good mind and was the only one of the three that realized the purpose of the interview fully. He seemed to understand what was wanted and responded accordingly better than the other two candidates. That he was the only one of the three that had the courage to take a stand when asked to do so.

On just the basis of the interview, I think that Bill Eyerman is the best qualified as far as personality, grasp of the subject, articulation, and speaking ability. However, I would like to remind the reader that the interview is not the only basis for choosing a candidate. We have presented it merely to give you a glimpse of how the candidate feels about certain issues, how well he expresses himself, how well he is able to say what he means as concisely as possible, how he leans in national politics, and in general, just a general representation of each candidate on as many different items as possible.

Ronald W. Gollobin

THE PRESIDENT SPEAKS

March 25, 1963

To the Editor:

It is a deplorable situation when one looks at the S.G.A. elections to be held this Thursday. I certainly do not criticize the persons running but am interested in knowing why more students do not vote. This is one of the problems on our campus where the need for voters arises and the voters neglect this hard earned privilege.

Is this an example of the apathy that prevails on the campus? Is this the attitude that has brought so many to the Registrar's probation list? Is this the attitude that until recently prevented the organization of a Debate Team? If this is the cause of even one of these problems, then it is a great hindrance to those of us who are seeking a LIBERAL education.

Why are the students apathetic? Maybe they do not want to run or vote against a fraternity brother or friend. Perhaps they have been persuaded that this is the best thing to do—drop out or vote in favor of a friend, but this increases apathy in the loss of individual freedom.

Are students apathetic or disinterested because they feel that as students they have little voice in student affairs? Have YOU ever given it a try to see how much voice and freedom students actually do have? If not, then YOU are among the guilty ones. YOU are contributing to making the situation even more serious by neglecting to show interest and stimulate interest in others.

If we continue to have student government elections handled in a manner with a light vote, we will not have a better S.G.A., we will not obtain more privileges, we will not move forward. If YOU have not tried, then YOU have failed not only to yourself but to your college and friends.

I condemn the attitudes of those who may have decided not to participate in student activities because a friend or a fraternity brother would be an opponent. East Carolina College needs enthusiasm in all parts of college life—school spirit, cohesion, if you will. Let's get rid of this apathetic attitude by asserting ourselves as either leaders or followers but by always working together for the good of the College. Clean out the dead weight on Thursday! Vote.

HISTORIAN

I am running for historian because I have a real desire to actively participate in S.G.A. work. According to the Constitution of the Student Government Association, "The historian shall have charge of the permanent records of all students, organizations, and shall compile from such records an annual report of student activities for the President of the College, and a copy for the Dean of Student Affairs." In addition as historian, I would keep a complete record of student government activities in the official scrapbook.

In the past year, I served as Junior Class Senator and served as a member of the budget committee. During this time, my interest grew in student government work. I would appreciate your vote.

Candidate Interviews

Eyerman-Perry-Bennett

Editor's note: We hope that people will pay particular attention to the candidates' answers to questions six and seven. These are the areas which need the most immediate attention in student affairs. Please note that the candidates' answers do not always concur with their stated platforms or promises. Incidentally, these interviews were conducted as fairly as possible. The shortest one required something over three hours.

Eyerman

- Q—What are your reasons for running?
A—My primary reason for running is that I may strengthen certain aspects of the Student Government that I feel need strengthening. I also am running to open the Student Government to the student body which in turn will give the student body an opportunity to express its views on those matters which it feels should be corrected and changed.
- Q—Are there any rules and/or regulations that you plan to abolish?
A—No.
- Q—Exactly what proposals do you have planned?
A—I propose to:
(a) Establish a tutor system
(b) Establish an Honor Council to replace the judiciary
(c) Establish four official S.G.A. bulletin boards on campus
- Q—(a) How do you feel about women's rules?
(b) Do you plan to introduce any changes?
A—(a) I feel that the majority of the women's are outdated, petty, ridiculous, and superfluous. Our co-eds are too mature to be bothered by the majority of these rules.
(b) Yes.
- Q—Are you a leftist or a rightist?
A—My views are primarily to the left.
- Q—Do you think the administration has too much power over the students? (If "yes," what do you plan to do about it.)
A—Yes. I plan to strengthen communications between the S.G.A. and the administration and to clearly inform the administration of the views of the students on specific issues, and in turn inform the students as to how the administration feels on the same issues.
- Q—Do you think the judiciary-disciplinary procedures need changing? (If "yes") Be specific.
A—Yes.
(a) The accused should have the right to be defended.
(b) The evidence against the accused should be based on facts, not prejudice.
(c) The trial and its proceedings should be known to the student body.
- Q—Who in American politics

- today do you admire the most?
A—John F. Kennedy
- Q—Why do you think students should vote for you?
A—I think the students should elect me because I have, during the past three years as an officer in the S.G.A., become aware of the complexities and problems of student government. My experience has been a great asset and I feel I can lead, as president, better than anyone else.
 - Q—(a) Are you up to date on national and foreign affairs?
(b) If so, sum up concisely:
1. The problem of the secession of Katanga
2. The President's argument for the tax cut
3. Who is McGeorge Bundy?
A—(a) Yes.
(b) 1. I do not wish to comment on this item for lack of sufficient knowledge.
2. I do not wish to comment on this item for lack of sufficient knowledge.
3. Bundy is presently Kennedy's right hand man in foreign relations. If Dean Rusk resigns or is replaced, he may be replaced by Bundy.
 - Q—What do you think of these questions?
A—I feel these questions are well worded, well pointed, and very imperative. I believe the questions were fair and that they will in turn enable the student body to get a better concept of the candidates.

Perry

- Q—What are your reasons for running?
A—My reasons for running for S.G.A. president are varied and many. First, I am for the students of ECC. On the whole, they have not been represented in the Senate; by this statement I mean that students are not represented in the true sense of the word. At present, the S.G.A. does not have the support and respect of the majority of the students on campus. I would like to be a leading factor in bringing the students into a closer association with the S.G.A. Second, ECC is growing by leaps and bounds. I, along with many others am tired of our being compared to other large colleges and universities. I would like to aid in establishing our reputation, independent of these comparisons. I feel that the majority of the students are ready for a change in S.G.A. leadership. I have many ideas and policies that I would like to see put into effect on campus. In the capacity of the S.G.A. presidency, I feel that I can best pre-

- sent these ideas and policies to the students for their consideration, and deliberation. On the approval of the students, I would then formulate these ideas and policies with the benefit of the students and ECC in mind. The S.G.A. presidency offers a challenge in managing student affairs, in representing the students, and in working with people. I would like to be given an opportunity to meet this challenge.
- Q—Are there any rules and/or regulations that you plan to abolish?
A—No.
 - Q—Exactly what proposals do you have planned?
A—I am proposing:
(1) A two party system at E.C.C.
(2) A change from a senate vote to a popular vote of the student body on all major proposed amendments in the S.G.A. constitution.
(3) A re-writing of the S.G.A. constitution by a S.G.A. committee with the aid of an English instructor and a lawyer.
(4) Withdrawal of our S.G.A. from the National Student Association (N.S.A.)
 - Q—(a) How do you feel about women's rules?
(b) Do you plan to introduce any changes?
A—(a) There are pages and pages of women's rules and regulations which say about the same thing. I feel that these rules should be condensed into a more definite code.
(b) Any changes made in the women's rules and regulations should come from an S.G.A. appointed committee of women students.
 - Q—Are you a leftist or a rightist?
A—Slightly right, but far from being an extremist.
 - Q—Do you think the administration has too much power over the students? (If "yes") What do you plan to do about it?
A—No.
 - Q—Do you think the judiciary-disciplinary procedures need changing? (If "yes") Be specific.
A—No.
 - Q—Who in American politics today do you admire the most?
A—John F. Kennedy
 - Q—Why do you think students should vote for you?
A—I am deeply interested in seeing the best interests of the majority of the student body represented.
 - Q—(a) Are you up to date on national and foreign affairs?
(b) If so, sum up concisely:
1. The problem of the secession of Katanga
2. The President's argument for the tax cut

- Who is McGeorge Bundy?
A—(a) Yes, I believe I am.
(b) 1. The secession on the part of the Katanga province has disunited the Congo nation. The national advocating reunification; and Katanga is working for a rule independent of the Congo government. These factors have failed to find a common ground of appeasement.
2. I do not think at the present time that I am familiar enough with his argument to comment.
3. I am not familiar enough with McGeorge Bundy to comment.
- Q—What do you think of these questions?
A—Most of the questions were fair and to the point. Questions 1 and 9 were overlapping. In a campus election I fail to see the importance of questions 5 and 10 (b) 3—(Who is McGeorge Bundy)

Bennett

- Q—What are your reasons for running?
A—To return the student government back to the control of the students. To alleviate this "Carolina Complex" present. We have many things to be proud of here at ECC and I think it is time we assert them.
- Q—Are there any rules and/or regulations that you plan to abolish?
A—No.
- Q—Exactly what proposals do you have planned?
A—To change the representation and purpose of the Senate to make it more representative of the students.
- Q—(a) How do you feel about women's rules?
(b) Do you plan to introduce any changes?
A—(a) If the women approach me with a specific regulation they feel is unwarranted or unnecessary, I will do all within my power as president to see that their argument is presented to the administration and I will back it fully until it is repealed.
(b) No.
- Q—Are you a leftist or a rightist?
A—More left than right.
- Q—Do you think the administration has too much power over the students? (If "yes") What do you plan to do about it?
A—No.
- Q—Do you think the judiciary-disciplinary procedures need changing? (If "yes") Be specific.
A—No.
- Q—Who in American politics today do you admire the most?

- A—Senator Smathers of Florida.
- Q—Why do you think students should vote for you?
A—I feel that of the candidates running, I think that I am the only one that has the sincere interest of the students at heart. I also feel that I am the only candidate for president that is looking beyond this year and to ECC's future.
 - Q—(a) Are you up to date on national and foreign affairs?
(b) If so, sum up concisely:
1. The problem of the secession of Katanga
2. The President's argument for the tax cut
3. Who is McGeorge Bundy?
A—(a) Yes, I believe so.
(b) 1. Katanga province is the richest section of the Congo, and that may be enjoyed by the Congo as a whole. Their situation is parallel to New Yorkers not wanting to pay forty-five dollars in taxes to the government and get a return of only twenty-five dollars. Katanga does not want to support the entire Congo.
2. To stimulate business.
3. I do not know.
 - Q—What do you think of these questions?
A—I am glad to see that the paper is presenting to the students the candidates and their views, rather than the candidates' personality. I think these questions present a good cross-section of the campus issues which the student body president must be concerned with, plus the international issues which he should be concerned with.

Answers

The answers to the "quiz" are as follows:

- (Katanga) Katanga holds the majority of the natural resources and riches within its boundaries and does not want to share it with the rest of the Congo.
- (Tax cut) To stimulate the economy, following the reasoning that if people have more money they will invest it and there will be economic growth.
- (McGeorge Bundy) Bundy is the president's special advisor and is rumored to be the "real" Secretary of State. He advises the president on matters of defense, intelligence, and national and foreign affairs. (This information has been in TIME and several other magazines in addition to being in the newspapers recently.)

Statements By Candidates

Bennett

The purpose of this column is to explain my answers to questions No. 6 (Do you think the administration has too much power over the students? If yes, what do you plan to do about it?) and No. 7 (Do you think the judiciary-disciplinary procedures need changing? Be specific.) I feel this is necessary since my interpretation of the position of the office of President may cause you to question my answers.

When asked: "What proposals do you have toward changing the women's regulations?", I answered, "none"; this is true. The Presidency is an executive position, one which calls for coordination of other branches of student government. If any student comes to me with a particular regulation, women's, judiciary, dormitory, or whatever, and shows what he believes to be justification for its repeal, I shall do all within my power as a student, and as President of the S.G.A. to see that this proposal reaches the proper authorities will all "deliberate speed" and with full "viva." Furthermore, I do not believe the Administration of the college has too much power in student affairs. The Administration is not accountable to only us, the students, but also to the Board of Trustees, the General Assembly and the Governor. I believe they give considerable thought before they overrule an act of the Student Senate.

But let no one interpret the above paragraph as meaning I shall be a puppet for the Administration. Anyone who remembers when I proposed we join N.S.A. and debated with the Administration's representative knows that I shall be no one's puppet; that I will stand for the rights of a student whenever that right is challenged, regardless of the origin of that opposition. I do believe, however, in judging a suggestion as to how we can better East Carolina on the merits of that suggestion and not on its origin, be it Student Senate, Administration, or whatever.

I hope this clarifies any questions you may have with regard to my position toward the Administration, and any proposed changes in the S.G.A. I am always open for suggestions.

One final point, whether you vote for me or against me, make sure your voice is heard not only on election day, but every day you are a citizen of a country where voting is not just a privilege but a responsibility. Get in the habit of expressing your views toward the government which you live under and democracy may be a little easier for all of us.

Thank you for your patience,
Bryan L. Bennett

Eyerman

In summation of the interview, I have a few comments to add with respect to the answers I have given.

Question two (2): There are no rules and regulations present that I feel should be abolished; however, there are several rules that I feel should be stylistically and grammatically changed.

Question three(3): a. The tutor system is too complex to describe in the limited space I have here; however, I will be willing to answer any questions about it if anyone wishes to ask me. b. The Honor Council will be a council composed of students elected by the student council will be to try those cases involving cheating, stealing, and lying. This council will differ from the Judiciary whereas the Judiciary do not try those lying are presented. The Honor Council will definitely replace the Discipline Committee, but there will be established an Appeal Board. I also want to see a system established wherein the accused will have the right to be defended by an unbiased person who has enough insight and knowledge of the perplexities of justice. This council will weigh the evidence submitted and will recommend to the president of the college suspension and/or expulsion verdicts which is another factor differing from the Judiciary. c. The S.G.A. bulletin boards will be constructed and placed at four strategic locations on the campus. These boards will contain photographs, flyers, and posters of the entertainers coming to the campus. They will also inform the students as to what is occurring (daily) on the campus.

Question four (4): b. The changes which I have drafted are lengthy; however, I believe they (if adopted and approved) will lessen many of the frivolous restrictions of our coeds. One rule I want to see changed is that rule pertaining to the restrictive 30 minutes after dormitory closing. I feel this 30 minute period should be extended for many coeds have told me thirty minutes is not enough time to prepare themselves properly for the next days events.

Question ten (10): I have no excuse for not knowing the answer of parts a and b; however, I did state the truth and I did not attempt to rationalize or bluff.

Experience is not always the deciding factor in an election! However, every voter should conscientiously scan the qualifications of those running for office. The voters will be subjected to the programs of the incoming officers; therefore, they should take time to make their selections.

I believe I have had ample time to detect what the role of the student government is on our campus, for as president of my freshman and sophomore class, as vice-president of the SGA this past year and as president of the SGA during the two summer sessions this past summer I have served the student body from many angles. Past experience such as being president of the State Student Legislature of N.C. (an organization composed of all the student governments in N.C.) and being chairman of the ring committee this past year have also taught me the essentials in working with and for other people.

I want to have the opportunity to serve as SGA president for numerous reasons — reasons too vast and complex to write down in this summary. I am not trying to fool anyone. . . I have a lot to learn about our SGA, but I feel I have learned enough these past three years to serve as president.

I want to challenge all voters. Vote as you see fit! Do not be socially pressured into voting for the friend of your friend, but vote for that person YOU feel is best qualified.

If I am elected I will always be willing to accept suggestions and recommendations in order to enhance and strengthen our student government.

In commenting on the questions involved in the interview, I should like to make a clearer stand on certain issues. Concerning the NSA, I am actually advocating a re-evaluation of the membership of our SGA in this organization. The student body needs to know more about the benefits of our belonging to this organization. If the benefits of belonging are as few as appearance would have them to be, I think withdrawal on our part would be in order.

Any changes made in women's rules should come from the women themselves. A committee consisting of women from each of the dormitories and women day students could consider and suggest changes in the long list of women's rules and regulations.

I should like to see in effect cooperative means of discussion and negotiations in working with the administration while fighting for the student's rights. The senator represents the students, not the administration. A "Yes man" is not worth two cents.

I should like to see the next student senate be the most effective and efficient yet. A closer association is needed between the senator and the student body. The senator needs support and respect of the senate on the part of the students are lacking at present. This is no fault of the students; the fault lies in the fact that the senate does not strive to work with the student body, and does not keep the student body well informed on senate policies and agenda.

We, the undersigned students of East Carolina College, being vitally interested in a sound, substantial and significant Student Government for ALL students of E C, urge you to vote for and support on March 28 a candidate with a proven record of successful SGA leadership.

ELECT
BILL EYERMAN
Your SGA President
THANK YOU

The Rathskeller takes pleasure in announcing their special Friday afternoon opening. The Rathskeller will now be open Fridays from 2:30 to 5:00 for the purpose of raising money for the East Carolina College Football Uniform Fund. The Rathskeller will donate ten cents on each purchase during these hours. The management of the Rathskeller along with the brothers of Sigma Nu hopes that all students will take advantage of the opportunity to support their school and team.
