Casting Ballot

Tomorrow all students will again cast their votes for new SGA officers in the run-off election.

Polls Open Tomorrow For Run-Off Election

Seven offices of the Student Government Association will be filled by the run-off election tomorrow. This election will climax spirited political campaigns on the part of the fourteen students seeking the posts.

Bill Eyeran and Oran Perry are seeking the top office of the SGA. As president, either Eyeran or Perry will lead the student body for the coming year. With the position goes seats on the Discipline Committee, the Dean's Advisory Council, the Publications Board, and several committees of the SGA.

For the post of vice president, the two contenders are George Wightman and Billy Braswell. The new vice president will also head the SGA Ring Committee.

The historian post is being sought by Ed Smith and Pat Waff. This SGA office carries a voting seat on the Senate and Executive Council.

Tom Scott and Jim Rabon are the two seeking the position of secretary-treasurer of the Men's Judiciary. This judicial post carries the responsibility of keeping all the cumulative records and issues the summons.

Rebel Announces Fourth Annual Writing Contest

The Rebel, campus literary magazine, announces the fourth annual Rebel Writing Contest. A $35.00 first prize and a $15.00 second prize is offered for the best prose—short story, play, essay, etc.—and equal prizes are offered for the best poetry. Winning entries will be published in the spring issue of the Rebel. The contest closes May 1, 1963. Entries may be sent to Rebel Writing Contest, Box 1420, College. For further information, contact the Rebel office, 306½ Austin.

For the top position of the Women's Judiciary, Joan Wetherington and Linda Slaughter are competing. As chairman, either Joan or Linda will also have a voting seat on the College Discipline Committee.

Nancy Freeman and Lynn Howell are seeking the vice chairmanship of the Women's Judiciary. The winner of this run-off will preside in the absence of the chairman.

In the run-offs, Lib Piner and Carol Morris are completing for the office of secretary-treasurer of the Women's Judiciary. This elected post carries full voting rights on the judicial board.

SGA Elections Chairman Berk Stephens has announced that the polls for tomorrow's run-offs will be open from 9:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. The precincts will remain the same with an additional one for day students. Day students will be able to vote either in the College Union or the Post Office, while dormitory students are to vote in their respective dorms.

Room Assignments For Fall Quarter

On Thursday night, April 4, at 10:30 o'clock there were House Meetings in the upper-classmen dormitories to give those who wished to retain their same rooms—or rooms in the same building—the privilege of signifying such. However, those who are having rooms held for them must pay their deposits and follow the same procedure as others on the days specified for their classification. At the House Meetings the application cards were given out. Application Cards were also given out in freshman dormitories. These cards should be filled out completely with ink before going to the Cashier's Office.

Please follow this procedure when signing up for rooms:

1. Take room application with $10.00 deposit to Cashier's Office and get application stamped "paid."
2. Take room application to Jarvis Hall and sign up for room. If your name is printed on the chart, you should erase it and put your name in your own handwriting. The assignment is not permanent until this is done.

The hours for assignments will be: 8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., 1:30 p.m.-4:30 p.m.

The balance of $43.00 for Fall Quarter room rent must be paid by July 1. You will be sent an additional notice about this previous to the time of payment.

Ruth White
Dean of Women

Pre-registration for rooms in the men's dormitories for Fall Quarter, 1963, will be held immediately after the Easter Holidays. On Wednesday, April 17, applications for room assignments will be accepted from rising seniors and graduate students. On Thursday, April 18, applications will be accepted from rising juniors and on Friday, April 19, from rising sophomores.

Applications for dormitory room assignments may be picked up from the dormitory counselors in Jones Hall, Aycock Hall, and the New Dorm or from the Housing Office, Room 214, Administration Building. These cards must be filled out completely in ink, taken to the Cashier's Office with a $10.00 deposit where you are to have application stamped paid; then upon presentation to the Housing Office, room assignment will be made. Also please note that no one may sign up for a room for anyone else, you must do this yourself.

The hours for assignments will be:
8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., 1:30 p.m.-4:30 p.m.

The balance of $43.00 for Fall Quarter room rent must be paid by July 1, 1963, otherwise the room assignment will be cancelled and this deposit forfeited.

SGA Delegates Attend Region NSA Conference

Four delegates of the EC Student Government Association attended the Carolina-Virginia Regional Conference of the United States National Student Association at Greensboro College Friday and Saturday, April 5-6.

Among the special services of the USNSA is the Student Government Information Service which distributes to colleges and universities general information, case studies, and reports in the following areas of student activity: Student Government, Higher Education, Student Activities, Student Welfare, Student Political and Social Responsibility, and Student Values.

Delegates from EC participated in discussions of "The Student and the Total Community," a commitment to an educational process that extends beyond classroom training.

On other programs that the EC students attended was the "Student-Faculty-Administration Relations" discussion group.

Professor Cary McWilliams of the Political Science Department at Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio, and Al Lowenstein of the Political Science Department at N. C. State College were the keynote speakers.

Delegates representing EC at the regional conference were Tom Mallison, President, Student Government Association; Berk Stephens, SGA Elections Chairman; Bill

Miller, Barnhill, Local Circle K Members, Receive Offices

Two EC students were elected to offices of the Carolinas District Circle K's convention in Charleston, South Carolina during the weekend of March 30.

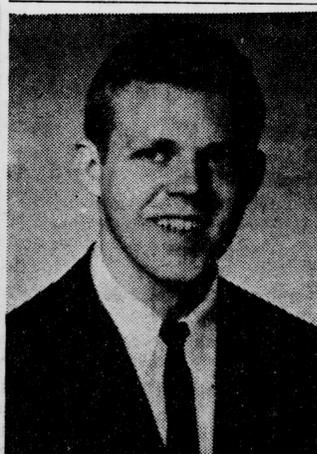

Bob Miller, Jr. was elected governor of the 21-club district and Jack Barnhill was named lieutenant governor for the Eastern Division, which includes Circle K clubs on Eastern North Carolina campuses. EC, Atlantic Christian Wilmington College, Chowan College, Edwards Military, and College of the Albemarle are the schools represented in the division.

The EC Circle K was the fourth club in the nation to be founded. In addition to the offices now held by Miller and Barnhill, the EC chapter includes the international secretary of Circle K, Joe Flake, Jr.

Host for the convention was the Circle K club at the Citadel. EC proposes to bring the convention to Greenville in 1965.

RUN-OFFS

So much has been said previously about elections that there seems little left to say. Students have been exhorted from every front: Vote for anybody, just vote. Vote on issues not on emotional bias. Vote for me. Vote for him. Probably little of it has had any effect; but since the polls open tomorrow for run-offs, we make one final attempt.

What qualifications are necessary for the offices to be decided tomorrow? As we see it, the person elected to the Presidency should have reasonably mature judgment, an ability to work with and give and take with people and a thorough knowledge of the machinations of the SGA and the administration. Last and most important, he should hold student interests above selfish considerations at all times and possess the energy to accomplish something. Neither of the candidates fulfills all these qualifications, but it is the voters' job to decide which one, if either, fulfills more of them.

The qualifications are much the same for Vice President, but the results of a poor choice will not be as disastrous. The other area in which qualifications are urgent considerations is the judiciary elections. Students should take great care in placing power of such magnitude in the hands of poorly qualified people. The two absolutely necessary qualifications for any judiciary position are responsibility and tolerance. Certainly, students do not wish to make a mockery of their student judiciary processes by electing libertines or profligates. But at the same time, we should consider carefully what we know of each candidate. If he or she is greatly intolerant in any problematic area of student affairs, students will rapidly regret their choice. Women students complain now that their judiciary is intolerant and unfair. Upon inspection, the difficulty seems to be with the rules and not with the judiciary members. However, if great care is not taken with the elections, the other problem could exist. Pity the poor student faced with this.

So again we urge you to vote. But we exhort you to vote judiciously.

CAROLINA BEACH

We noticed with some interest the article on page 22 of Monday's News and Observer. Entitled "Rain Squelches Collegiates," the article states that "Cold rain squelched any urge toward riot here (Carolina Beach) this weekend—but police booked some 125 revellers on a variety of misdemeanor charges.

"Carolina Beach Police Chief D. L. Tanner estimated that 20,000 students, Marines and soldiers congregated at the beach on Saturday . . .

"It was in front of the dance hall (Ocean Plaza) that police and Mp's marshaled their forces in anticipation of a riot. One student frequently blew a bugle, as though for cavalry action. The others yelled and jumped into the air. However, a chilly rain began falling in blustery air about 10:30 p.m. and the crowd dispersed to cottages and motels."

It seems that college students can't win. If they misbehave, they are entirely responsible; but if they behave, or only misbehave slightly, someone or something else is responsible. This attitude gives the student darn little incentive either way.

Incidentally, the East Carolinian had intended doing a feature on college students and the Azalea Festival and to this end sent a photographer and a reporter to Carolina Beach. Unfortunately, the police took all the photographer's film, for taking a picture of one of the rights that didn't happen, and the reporter got inebriated. Thus went the feature.

A MAJOR CRIP

By HERB WILLIAMS

Sitting in front of one of the classroom buildings the other day, I overheard a rather surprising conversation between two men students.

One of the students announced that he had changed his major and was asked why. He said he had changed because his previous major was too difficult and because it took too much of his time. When asked why he had chosen his new major, he replied, "Because it's a crip." His companion argued with him for a few minutes about the merits of his former major and about the stupidity of changing to a new one for no other reason than considering it to be "crip." Finally, exasperated by inability to reason with the student, his companion asked, "Well, why are you coming to college then?" The student never blinked an eye as he glibly answered, "To please my old man." His companion then asked what his old man would think about the change in majors. The student replied, "Oh, I'll tell him this major I'm getting into is the hardest in school; he doesn't know enough about it to know any better."

A variety of thoughts were brought to mind by this little conversation. My first impulse was to laugh because I know some students in this guy's new major, and believe me, it ain't "crip"! Then I wanted to congratulate him on his wise decision to change in the first place; boy, it's really smart to change to a major you know nothing about when you have almost half the requirements filled for the old major, isn't it? When he made his statement about coming to college because it pleases his old man, two thoughts came up. How noble it is, I first thought, for him to give four years of his life to please his dad! But then I thought, no, how stupid it is for him to waste his time and his dad's money if he doesn't really want to go to school! The clincher came when he told how his dad would react to the change in majors. That little statement put the finishing touches on his character; just a lazy bum who somehow managed to get into college and who has no respect for the man who is financing his stay here. The one bright spot in the picture was the companion who tried to talk some sense into him but failed.

It's no big thing though because the old repression mechanism is already at work, and the memory gets dimmer by the minute. In fact, I guess it would be better if we all forgot it, unless of course, we're in the same boat with him!

Perry's Ex-campaign Manager

TO THE STUDENTS OF EAST CAROLINA COLLEGE:

Are we not seeing "the trees for the woods"?

It is dismaying to see the election date for run-offs nearing with such chaotic rumors exploding all over campus. In the past it has been suggested that many of the EC students have been apathetic in their response to SGA activities. This suggestion may be true, but let us not turn vehemently against apathy to blind enthusiasm.

We must not be so gullible as to support a complete non-existing political body such as the IDC or the IFC. The purposes of these two councils are to initiate legislation and carry out judicial authority for their respective jurisdictions. Certainly we must not split our school into blocks over this misconceived propaganda that could become injurious to our next administration.

It is our sole responsibility as the students of EC to logically deduct for ourselves who we want to represent us as the great college that we are. It is our challenge to formulate a wise decision by asking ourselves the following questions about the candidates:

1. Are they qualified?
2. Are they going to represent all students, organizations, groups, and fraternities equally?

3. Can they protect the rights of the students?
4. Do they have the knowledge and concept of the offices they are running for?
5. Will we be proud to have them represent our college wherever they go?

Yes, this is our responsibility for a better SGA, and we must continuously strive to preserve these foundations. Let's all get out and vote for the candidates of our choice—not the machine.

Sincerely,
Bob Miller

DECEIVED

To the deceived men's dorm students:

This letter is written in the hope that the real issues of the forthcoming election for SGA president will be realized. It seems to me that in campaigning for the presidential position, one candidate has deliberately twisted the issues in order to gain votes—and what is getting is his only objective! Mr. Oran Perry is the candidate to whom I refer. Mr. Perry is to present the president of the Inter-Dormitory Council (IDC)—or perhaps he is disillusioned and thinks he is the IDC! His present campaign manager is Mr. John Mahan, the vice president of the IDC. A recent letter, edited by Mr. Mahan in support of Mr. Perry, begins by saying that the president of the SGA is going to be elected in the run-off election on April 10. This is very true, but where the truth stops!

The next paragraph states that "The Inter-Fraternity Council (IFC) has banded together in support of Eyerman." This is an outright lie! I challenge Mr. Perry or any of his associates to find in the minutes of the IFC any support given by the group to Mr. Eyerman or to any other candidate. The next sentence states that "As a result, your Inter-Dormitory Council (IDC) has given its support to our candidate, Oran Perry." This is also an outright lie! At the time of the writing of this letter the only group to give its support to Mr. Perry has been the Executive Committee of the IDC. This group is made up of five men; the president, who is Mr. Perry, the vice president is Mr. Mahan; the secretary is treasurer and one member; at large appointed by the president. This makes me wonder exactly what Mr. Perry means by representation. Can these five men express the feelings of the 1400 men of this hill? If they can, then perhaps we won't even need a Senate next year. We will just let Mr. Perry pick a few of his friends and they can give us some true representation!

I would also like to challenge Mr. Perry's attempt to make the IDC a political party. According to the IDC's constitution, it is strictly legislative and judicial in nature—not political.

I hope all students will look at the real issues of this election and vote for the man whom they feel is best qualified. After examining Mr. Perry's letter, I have begun to wonder if he is taking advantage of his position as president of the IDC as well as the students of EC in furthering his own political ambitions.

Army Field Band To Present Concert On Campus April 27

One of the finest bands in the nation, the United States Army Field Band of Washington, D. C., will present a free concert at EC at 8 p.m., Saturday, April 27, in Wright Auditorium. The program has been scheduled through the courtesy of the Department of the Army in co-ordination with the college. The public is invited. Popular songs will be included with classical and military numbers in a continuous, fast-moving program. The famed "Soldiers' Chorus" will sing several all-time Broadway hits. The chorus is an integral part of the band, many of its members being instrumentalists in the organization. The U. S. Army Field Band appeared in the inaugural parades of Presidents Truman, Eisenhower and Kennedy. The organization wears Army dress blue uniforms for all of its performances. The band has played in all 50 states and 15 countries of Europe and has presented 35 concerts in the Orient.

Major Robert L. Bierly, Commanding officer and director of the band, said: "The primary mission of the Band is to play for Army units in the field and to offer concerts in the grassroots communities of the U. S. No town is too small so long as there is a place in which to play and sufficient hotel or motel accommodations in which to billet the band members."

Available will be 2,000 free tickets, which may be picked up at the Central Ticket Office in Wright Building from 12-4 p.m., Monday through Friday, April 16-26.

High school bands are given a special invitation to attend the concert. Band directors interested in having tickets reserved for their bands should write Assistant Dean of Student Affairs Rudolph Alexander, Box 282, East Carolina College, and state the number who will attend.

Tickets reserved in advance will be held at the Box Office until 8 p.m. April 27. Other tickets which have not been reserved or previously picked up will be given away at the door beginning at 7:15 p.m. on the night of performance.

Greek News

Pi Kappa Alpha

During the weekend of March 30, the leadership qualities of brother Jack Barnhill were recognized when he was elected to fill the lieutenant governorship of the Eastern Division of the Carolinas District Circle K. He will have the responsibility of coordinating activities of the Circle K clubs of six colleges in the area.

Wednesday, April 3, marking the culmination of a very successful spring rush, seven new pledges were formally installed by the fraternity. They are: Reynolds Bailey, Robert Betts, Brice Elliot, Bob Foreman, Jimmy Jett, Ashley Johnson, and Tom Twynham.

Brother Bud Wall, junior art major, was recently awarded third prize in the Miami National Painting Exhibition, another addition to his rapidly growing collection of honors in the field of art.

The brothers and pledges of Pi Kappa Alpha are anxiously waiting for April 20. At that time, the annual Pika "Concert by the Sea" will be held and "a good time will be had by all."

Delta Sigma Pi

Sophomore Roger Nixon was installed as president of the campus chapter of the national business fraternity, Delta Sigma Pi, in a ceremony in the chapter room of the organization Tuesday, April 2.

Other officers who with Nixon are members of the Executive Council of the fraternity were also installed at the meeting. They are Paul R. Stokes, senior vice president; Fred D. Ayers, vice president and pledge master; Richard M. Holbert, treasurer; James L. Rabon, secretary; Wayne Cook, historian; and Roger V. Register, social chairman.

The Council is now planning a calendar of events for 1963-1964. Included among events will be a series of professional tours and programs featuring guest speakers. A special project conducted each spring jointly with the Circle K Club of the college is distribution of the Buccaneer.

President Nixon previously served the Chapter as efficiency chairman. In that capacity, Nixon was in charge of seeing that all local chapter efficiency points were transmitted to The Central Office in Oxford, Ohio, for competition with the fraternity's 113 other chapters.

Kappa Delta

Kappa Delta's National President, Genevieve Forbes Morse of Charlottesville, Virginia, visited Gamma Sigma Chapter of East Carolina College during the week of March 25-30. During her visit, Mrs. Morse met with each newly elected and appointed officer to instruct her in her duties for the next year. On several occasions, she met with the sisters and pledges as a group. At the close of her visit and with vice-president Bobbie Sumrell of Kinston presiding, the chapter honored Mrs. Morse at a dinner meeting at the Cinderella Restaurant. Miss Ruth White, Dean of Women and a Kappa Delta sister, was also a guest during the banquet.

ELECTIONS

To Whom It Might Concern:

I have been accused of resorting to smooth talk and half-truths in FORCING the men on the hill to BLOC VOTE for Oran Perry for SGA president. But in reality, my purpose in writing the letter was to bring the political situation of the campus as it now stands to the men. I did not try to force anyone to change his opinion on the election. If anyone changed his mind after reading the letter, it was his own decision, and if many of the boys did form opinions in favor of Perry, then could it be that there is truth to what I said?

There has been a rumor around campus that Perry has not been endorsed by the IDC. I wish to take this opportunity to state that Perry was officially endorsed by the executive branch of the IDC. In fact, only one member of the entire IDC does not support Perry; his reasons—fraternity obligations.

In response to the accusation that I said Perry would represent only the hill if he were elected, I wish to refer the accuser to my previous letter in which I stated that I felt Perry was the best man for the job because of his ability and also because he would better support the whole populus of the campus, not being obligated to any one minority group.

Thankfully and sincerely yours,
Jim Mahan, Vice President
Inter-Dormitory Council (IDC)

To the Students of East Carolina:
Some students think the job of historian is of little importance, but of course this is not so. Every senate vote is of equal importance.

I would like to have this position not only to keep a permanent record of one of the most outstanding student governments in the country, but also to do my share of keeping our student government active and effective.

The question now seems to be whose side I am on. I honestly say that I am on the side of the student, and will do my best to work with the person the students choose to lead them.

I hope each person will take an interest in the coming election, and will let the Senate members know of any problems that arise and would otherwise be missed; this is the only way we can have a truly effective SGA.

In order for elections to provide a good representation of the student body, I urge each of you to study the candidates and their qualifications—and then vote for the candidate of your choice. Your vote is valuable. Cast it!

Respectfully,
Ed Smith,
Candidate for SGA
Historian

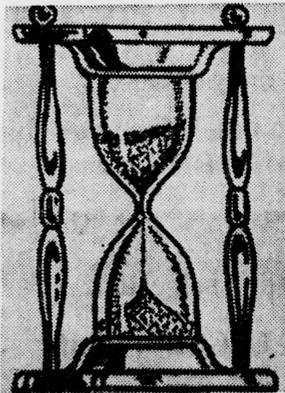

Fellow Students:

To those of you who supported me in my recent unsuccessful campaign for Chairman of Woman's Judiciary, I wish to express my sincere appreciation. You are the people who must now elect a judiciary chairman. I urge you to consider each of the candidates and to vote to select the one who will serve you and the interests of your fellow students best. Don't stop now by failing to vote on April 10, 1963. To do so will be to assert a real apathetic attitude—one which the entire student body has worked hard to wipe out during this election. If you stop now, you let it persevere.

To the voting student body and all candidates I offer my appreciation for your interest in a better East Carolina College. It will be impossible for me to meet all of you and extend my personal thanks, so may I repeat an age-old phrase which says exactly what I would like to—THANK YOU.

See you at the polls,
Jean Bell

Pasti Heads Summer Program On Courses Related To Asia

As a special event of its 1963 Summer Session, EC will offer a Program in Asian Studies June 17-July 23. Dr. George Pasti, Jr., professor in the Department of Social Studies at the college, will act as director.

He has announced courses of study to be offered. In addition, a series of public lectures, films, and art exhibits is being arranged for those who are enrolled.

The Program in Asian Studies, he stated, is designed to provide teachers and graduate and undergraduate students with information about Asia. Each student participating in the program will receive through the courtesy of the Asia Society a packet including a wide variety of instructional aids.

Courses offered are: undergraduate—Geography of Asia and History of East Asian Civilization; graduate—Geography of the Orient and Comparative History of East Asia and Europe; and allied causes, both on the undergraduate level, —Religions of the World and World Masterpieces in Translation. It is expected that courses of directed reading and research on Communist China will also be arranged.

In addition to Dr. Pasti, the teaching staff of the Summer Program in Asian Studies will include Dr. H. P. Milstead, professor of Geography, of East Carolina College, and Dr. Andrew D. Perejda, associate professor of Geography, of East Carolina College.

Dr. Pasti is a graduate of Northwestern University and of the University of Illinois, where he earned the Ph.D. degree. He has done graduate study at the University of London, England, and in 1959-1960 was a fellow at the Center for Asian Studies at Harvard University. Last summer he attended an Institute in China Civilization at Tunghai University, Taiwan. His teaching and research interest is in the comparative study of East Asian and European history.

Dr. Milstead holds the Ph.D. degree from Clark University. Before coming to East Carolina in 1958, he was for 25 years Chairman of the Department of Geography at Montclair State College in New Jersey. He served as Director of the Department of Geography at East Carolina for four years and is now a professor of geography at the college.

Dr. Perejda, Ph.D. graduate of the University of Michigan, translated and published with Dr. George B. Cressey, internationally known specialist on China and the USSR, and V. Washburn the first volume of the "Great Soviet World Atlas" and has also published a chapter on the USSR in the McGraw-Hill textbook "World Geography" (1958) and numerous articles in professional journals. While with the Federal government, he was consulted by the State Department on the geography of the Far East and USSR.

Dr. Moore Speaks To FHA At Mother-Daughter Banquet

"Faced with the possibility of multiple life roles as a career worker, as a wife, and as a mother, the woman must make careful plans if she is to fulfill her potential," Dr. Miriam Moore, director of the EC Home Economics Department, told members of the Future Homemakers of America at their FHA Mother-Daughter banquet Thursday evening, April 4, at Coopers High School, Rt. 3, Nashville.

Speaking on "Home Economics Career with a Double Life," Dr. Moore said that it is important to plan for the future. Because changes for the interrupted career woman are taking place, "women are beginning to realize that it is not enough to think in terms of a job for a few years; rather, that they must think in terms of their life pattern," the speaker stressed.

"Education in America has not been just a mechanical process for communication to the young of certain skills and information," continued Dr. Moore. "Rather, it springs from deeply rooted convictions and if we are to continue in our progress, we must be infused with the values which shape our educational system, including integrity of the individual, freedom, and equality."

Depicting various roles of home economics, Dr. Moore demonstrated from posters the roles of teaching, dietetics, research, and business.

In concluding she asked members of FHA if they were the type to qualify for home economists. Among questions she asked the group to ponder were: Do you have a strong interest in the welfare of people? Do you have the ability to think and help others to think? Do you have a warm personality with enthusiasm and energy? Do you have the ability to work well with others? Do you have a good college foundation? And do you have an interest in keeping up with developments after college?

Constitutional Institute Meets July 24-Aug. 16

Plans for a summer Institute on Constitutional Democracy and Totalitarianism, July 24-August 16, are now being made here. Sponsored by the North Carolina Educational Council on National Purposes, the institute has the purpose of preparing social studies teachers of the state to carry out the State Department of Public Instruction's new approach to teaching about communism.

Directors of the program at EC this summer are Dr. John M. Howell and Dr. Robert W. Williams of the Department of Social Studies. Two other full-time staff members and a number of guest lecturers will also participate in the work of the institute.

The pattern of work each day will consist of lectures in comparative government and contemporary political theory. Those completing requirements of the course of study will receive three quarter hours of undergraduate or graduate credit, which can be applied to certification of the renewal of certificates.

Sixty fellowships are available to qualified teachers of the social studies. These have been made available through the assistance of the Educational Council on National Purposes and of civic groups in the state. The fellowships will include $50 to be paid to the college for tuition and the administrative costs and $200 to participants for room, board texts, and an amount to be regarded as a stipend.

Those enrolled in the institute will be chosen through nominations by county and city superintendents and a final selection to be made by staff members of the institute. Attention in choosing participants will be given to an equitable distribution throughout North Carolina.

Those attending the institute are eligible to room in campus dormitories and to use such college facilities as the cafeterias.

Additional information on the institute may be obtained from Dr. John M. Howell.

Burnette Retires After 24 Years

Roland Burnette, EC employee for the past twenty-four years, retired last week. From 1939 to 1961, he acted as janitor in the Wright Building, and for the past two years has worked in the Rawl Building.

A courteous, efficient worker, he has made during his long service at the college many friends among students and staff members.

He makes his home at 1400 Fleming Street.

EC Delegation Attends Industrial Arts Conv.

Dr. Kenneth L. Bing, director, Frederick Broadhurst, Blondy E. Scott, and Paul Waldrop, Jr., of the Industrial Arts Department will represent EC at the Twenty-fifth Annual Convention of the American Industrial Arts Association; the Fourteenth Annual Convention of the American Council on Industrial Arts Teacher Education; and First Annual Convention of the American Council for Elementary School Industrial Arts.

Sponsored jointly by the American Industrial Arts Association, Inc., and the Indiana Industrial Education Association, the Conventions will be held at Indianapolis, Indiana, Tuesday through Saturday, April 9-13.

"An outstanding feature of the convention will be the approximately 104 commercial exhibitors demonstrating new tools and heavy equipment which may be an asset to the Industrial Arts Department at East Carolina," Dr. Bing stated.

Internationally renowned speakers have been engaged for the programs. Highlights of the Convention will be the annual banquet Friday, April 12, with the "Ship," composed of exhibitors, awarding prizes during the banquet. Tours to the Indianapolis school and industrial trips will also be on the agenda.

EC Chapel Choir Sings In Special Easter Programs

Opening a series of programs to be presented over Raleigh radio station WPTP in observance of the Easter season, EC's Chapel Choir sang "The Seven Last Words of Christ," oratorio by the French composer Dubois, Monday, April 8. Other programs in the series for the week are scheduled for the same time.

The Chapel Choir will also be heard April 14, in the "Requiem" by Faure on the "Let's Go to College" series presented each day over WNCT-TV of Greenville.

The Chapel Choir of 60 students musicians is directed in the religious compositions by Dr. T. Hjortsvang of the School of Music.

Cong. Paul Revere Panel To Appear At UNC Thurs.

UNC YRC President Buddy Broome announced today that a "GOP Congressional Paul Revere Panel" composed of three youthful Republican Congressmen would appear on the University of North Carolina campus on Thursday, April 18. The panel will speak and answer questions at an open meeting in Gerrard Hall scheduled to begin at 3:30.

Broome also declared that the panel members would conduct a special "Collegiate Briefing" for officers of college Young Republican clubs in North Carolina prior to the public program.

The panel will consist of Representatives Anderson of Illinois, Dole of Kansas and Lloyd of Utah. Anderson and Dole are now in their second terms in the House of Representatives, while Lloyd was elected last fall for the first time. "Each of these men has shown himself to be an articulate and aggressive Republican," Broome said. "I hope no one will miss this opportunity to hear them."

AAUP Suggests Change In Investigation Method

BOWLING GREEN, O.—(I.P.)—The local chapter of the American Association of University Professors on the campus of Bowling Green State University recently "noted with deep regret" that the Trustee's Committee report on Student Affairs did not incorporate the principles and practices associated with academic freedom and civil liberties in the conduct of student affairs. The AAUP emphasized that the method of investigation was faulty because testimony from students making serious complaints was evidently not taken; representation of all faculty viewpoints was not reflected in the membership of the committee. The AAUP recommended that students should be guaranteed the right to petition the administration. —that students should be explicitly guaranteed the right to conduct peaceful assemblies without prior approval.

—that students should be subject to disciplinary action only as a result of specific individual acts in violation of University regulations. The University should assume the responsibility to: a. give the accused student adequate notice of charges placed against him. b. give the student access to all relevant information, including the testimony of his accusers. c. allow the student the opportunity of offering personal testimony and witnesses on his own behalf. d. respect the right of a student to decline to testify against himself. e. offer the rational behind any decision. f. free the student from the possibility of double jeopardy. g. try students by an impartial body. h. allow the student free choice of counsel. i. insure that prosecution proceed by persons other than members of the trial body, and other than those having brought charges.

Inter-Dormitory Council To Crown May Ball Queen

The Inter-Dormitory Council has announced preliminary plans for the IDC Ball, Saturday, May 18, in Wright Auditorium. Vice president Jim Mahan is completing arrangements for a popular, big-name band for this informal dance which will highlight the IDC weekend.

Ball Receives Penn. Grant

Ruby Claire Ball, faculty member of the School of Art, was notified last week that she has been appointed to a graduate assistantship at Pennsylvania State University for the summer months and has been granted a scholarship award by the National Art Education Association.

The main activity of the evening will be the crowning of the IDC Queen. Each resident of the men's dormitories is eligible to enter nominations for Queen by turning in a girl's name and address to any one of the IDC members.

At Pennsylvania State University this summer, Miss Ball will continue work on a doctorate and will do research work. Awarded for the first time this year, the grant by the National Art Education Association amounts to $500. Announcement of Miss Ball as recipient was made at the National Convention of the organization in Kansas City, Mo.

The Interdormitory Council, which has been approved by the Student Government Association and the administration, was organized to promote and maintain an efficient system of student government in the college residence halls, to foster a wholesome program of social activities, and to aid in fraternal relationship among dormitory residents. Oran Perry is currently serving as IDC President.

Dean Warren Leads Panel At State Meeting Of Nurses

Dean Eva W. Warren of the School of Nursing at EC was among discussion leaders during the Educators, Administrators, Consultants, and Teachers Section of the North Carolina State Nurses Association meeting Thursday, April 4, in Goldsboro.

of Higher Education, "Education for Practice in the Profession."

During the program based on "The Future of Nursing Practice," nurses examined some of the implications of the American Nurses Association relative to nursing education.

EC Air Society Elects Speight

Dean Warren discussed "how nursing can best meet the needs of the non-hospital patient." Other discussion leaders in addition to Dean Warren were Dr. Virginia Stone and Mrs. Katherine Nuckols, both of Chapel Hill; Dr. Joseph Johnson, State Board of Education, Raleigh; and Miss Katherine E. Tilley of Charlotte.

Cadet Lt. Joseph D. Speight has been elected Commander of the EC Arnold Air Society, professional honorary service fraternity affiliated with the Air Force ROTC. With other newly elected officers, he has just assumed his duties with the society.

Principal speakers listed with their topics were Mrs. Edith P. Brocker, assistant dean of the Duke University School of Nursing, "Nursing Education in our State—Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow," and Dr. William C. Archie, director of the State Board

Cadet Speight is a junior majoring in mathematics. For the past year he has acted as Operations Officer of the Arnold Air Society.

Greenville Art Center Displays Woodcuts, Louis XVI Textiles

The Greenville Art Center now has on display two separate exhibitions: an exhibition of woodcuts by "Five Winston-Salem Printmakers" and an exhibition of Louis XVI textiles from The Scalamanre Museum of Textiles in New York. Both are scheduled through April 25.

The "Five Winston-Salem Printmakers" are: Mary Goslen, Virginia S. Ingram, Susan Moore, Ann Carter Pollard and Anne Kesler Shields. All five have degrees in Art, all have exhibited widely and all are award winners.

Mary Goslen's remark, in reference to her woodcuts, was that "the wood, the paper and the color kindle my thoughts and feelings, and through these I have the joy of exploring a variety of new and exciting relationships. While working with wood, a product of nature, I have an intensified feeling of being united with nature."

Virginia Ingram feels that through the forces of wood, ink and paper she likes to take a simple statement and make it into something important.

Susan Moore says she enjoys woodcuts because "it is a media in which one can be spontaneous and free, or disciplined and tight."

Ann Carter Pollard finds that her particular interest lies "in the simplicity and directness to which the single block printed in black and white lends itself."

In contrast to Miss Pollard, Anne Kesler Shields finds the "choice of color extremely important," and she often spends more time experimenting with color than in cutting the blocks.

A poster explaining the process of making a woodcut print will accompany the exhibition.

The Scalamanre Textiles will be displayed in the North gallery. The exhibition consists of shimmering silks and toiles of the Louis XVI Neo-Classics Period. Some of the fabrics are old, documented pieces preserved since the reign of the French King and his Queen, Marie Antoinette (1774-1792). Others are reproductions created by Scalamanre to commemorate the birth of the King. (1754).

The attractive and vivacious Queen became the inspiration of the artists. The feminine influence was predominant. Daintiness best describes the art of the period. The excavations of Herculaneum and Pompeii, which were in progress at that time, motivated a classicism based on the Greco-Roman art. However, the Louis XVI Period is a pseudo-simplified version that made antiquity possible to live with. The philosophical writings of Rousseau, who advocated living the simple pastoral life, was also an influence. The Queen and her friends played at dairying and gardening in the gardens of Versailles with elegant make-believe. Farmyard scenes were popular for the toile designs. Stripes replaced the serpentine lines of the Rococo era, petite floral sprays and bow-knots are much in evidence and an airy lightness giving the appearance of being blown by a breeze.

MARKING ON THE CURVE—AND WHAT TO DO ABOUT IT

Twonkey Crimscott was a professor. Choate Sigafoos was a sophomore. Twonkey Crimscott was keen, cold, brilliant. Choate Sigafoos was loose, vague, adenoidal. Twonkey Crimscott believed in diligence, discipline, and marking on the curve. Choate Sigafoos believed in elves, Julie London, and thirteen hours of sleep each night.

Yet there came a time when Twonkey Crimscott—mentor, sage, and savant—was thoroughly outthought, outfoxed, outmaneuvered, outplayed, and outwitted by Choate Sigafoos, sophomore.

"You and your ideas!"

It happened one day when Choate was at the library studying for one of Mr. Crimscott's exams in sociology. Mr. Crimscott's exams were murder—plain, flat murder. They consisted of one hundred questions, each question having four possible answers—A, B, C, and D. You had to check the correct answer, but the trouble was that the four choices were so subtly shaded, so intricately worded, that students more clever by far than Choate Sigafoos were often set to gibbering.

So on this day Choate sat in the library poring over his sociology text, his tiny brow furrowed with concentration, while all around him sat the other members of the sociology class, every one studying like crazy, every one scared and pasty. Choate looked sadly at their stricken faces. "What a waste!" he thought. "All this youth, this verve, this bounce, chained to dusty books in a musty library! We should be out singing and dancing and cutting didoes on the greensward! Instead we are here."

Then, suddenly, an absolute gasser of an idea hit Choate. "Listen!" he shouted to his classmates. "Tomorrow when we take the exam, let's all—every one of us—check Choice 'A' on every question—every one of them."

"Huh?" said his classmates. "Oh, I know that Choice 'A' can't be the right answer to every question," said Choate. "But what's the difference? Mr. Crimscott marks on the curve. If we all check the same answers, then we all get the same score, and everybody in the class gets a 'C'."

"Huh," said his classmates. "So why should we knock ourselves out studying?" said Choate. "Let's get out of here and have a ball!"

So they all ran out and lit Marlboro Cigarettes and had a ball, as indeed, you will too when you light a Marlboro, for if there ever was a cigarette to lift the spirit and gladden the heart, to dispel the shades of night, to knot up the ravelled sleeve of care, to put spring in your gait and roses in your cheeks, it is filtered Marlboros—firm and pure and fragrant and filled with rich, natural, golden tobacco. And, what's more, this darlin' smoke comes in soft packs that are actually soft and flip-top boxes that actually flip.

Well sir, the next morning the whole class did what Choate said, and, sure enough, they all got 'C's, and they picked Choate up and carried him on their shoulders and sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and plied him with sweetmeats and Marlboros and girls and put on buttons which said "I DOTE ON CHOATE."

But they were celebrating too soon. Because the next time shrewd old Mr. Crimscott gave them a test, he did not give them one hundred multiple choice questions. He only gave them one question—to wit: write a 30,000 word essay on "Crime Does Not Pay."

"You and your ideas," they said to Choate and tore off his epaulets and broke his sword and drummed him out of the school. Today, a broken man, he earns a living as a camshaft in Toledo.

SPORTS REVIEW

By RON DOWDY

In today's column we will do a little traveling in the wide world of sports in order to give the reader a few ideas as to what is happening and where.

Although Arnold Palmer is plagued by his inability to hit efficient enough drives, he is still favored to win the 27th annual Master's Golf Tournament to be held April 4-6 in Augusta, Georgia. Jack Nicklaus and little 5'6" Gary Player are considered to give Palmer a tough run for first place prize money. Who won?

N. C. State held their annual Red-White football game on April 6. It was held in Riddick Stadium and, as here, it wrapped up the spring drills. Who won?

The New York Yankees and the Los Angeles Dodgers have been picked as the teams most likely to meet each other in the World Series. With the Yankees, the U. P. I. had an easy choice, but not so with the Dodgers, who have to fight off the Cincinnati Reds and the San Francisco Giants.

Stan Musial, long-time outfield star for the St. Louis Cardinals, is ready for another season and is hoping he can be of help to his team and his faithful fans.

Minnie Minoza really seems to be enthused over his recent trade from the St. Louis Cardinals to the Washington Senators. This trade makes a sport enthusiast begin to wonder why the Senators bought a 40-year old (who could very easily become a star) when the average age for the retirement of baseball players is around 34 or 35. Could it be that they (the Senators) are just planning for the immediate future?

Yankee-star third baseman Cleve Boyer's name has been added to the popular sick list. He joins veterans Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris, Whitey Ford, Tony Kubek, and the 1962 Rookie-of-the-year, Tom Tresh. It is feared Boyer has a broken finger.

Campus Sports

It seems that the William and Mary Indians are having a hard time winning a baseball game. They've lost three since leaving here. We only beat them 2-1.

It seems that the Delaware Blue Hens didn't think too much of last Tuesday's massacre by the Pirates—especially from the results of Wednesday's game between the two teams—the Blue Hens won it 12-7.

That goes to show that the team with the majority of the runs one day can easily turn up on the short end the next day.

Asian Flu Hits Old Wake Forest

(ACP)—If you didn't have the Asian flu last week, you just weren't "in," notes OLD GOLD AND BLACK, Wake Forest College, Winston-Salem, N. C.

For the boys, a dose of the flu was just as much a status symbol as Gold Cup socks, Sero shirts or madras wallets. And the girl who was not stricken had just as well throw her weejuns and wrap-around skirts away. She was "out" of the social clique.

And speaking of the infirmary, if you didn't have a temperature of 103 degrees, you were out of luck. Students who were not absolutely near the point of no return were sent back to their dormitories loaded with pills and good wishes for a speedy recovery. Those who survived the ordeal in their rooms had better make a last minute donation to the development campaign and hope that a new infirmary is built soon. The campus may not survive another epidemic.

Pirates' Netmen Beat Deacons, 5-1

The EC tennis team defeated Wake Forest 5-1 in a home meet last Wednesday.

It took very little effort for the Pirate netters to overcome a brief Deacon lead in the opening moments of the game.

Individual honors go to Blarney Tanner, Bone Shaw, Ray Stellings, and Jerry Muecks, as they all won their matches and thus helped EC to even its season record at 2-2.

Unidentified EC batter takes a hefty swing as the Pirates are overpowered by the Hens of Delaware.

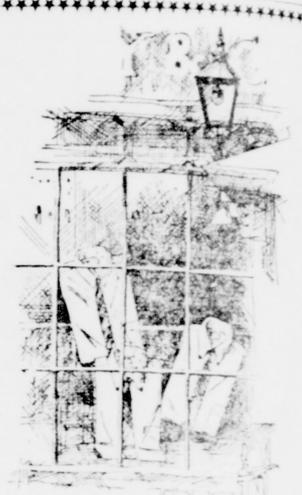

Delaware Blue Hens Overcome EC's Power As Pirates Lose Their Second

The Blue Hens from the University of Delaware pulled a turnaround on the EC Pirates last Wednesday afternoon. After being shown very little "Southern hospitality" in their first game with EC, which ended up a 19-3 massacre victory for EC, the Hens showed the Pirates a little "Northern power" as they overcame an early 3-1 lead by the Pirates to hand them their second setback of the season, 12-7.

Delaware's 5-run eighth inning proved to be the difference. In that inning, after four walks, pinch-hitter Luke Lackman's two-run double, Terry Arnold's two-run single, and Bob Grenda's sacrifice fly, the 5 costly runs were scored.

The Pirates' big inning, which wasn't big enough, was the second when they scored 3 runs. Merrill Bynum led off the rally with a single, followed by Tommy Kidd's walk, a double by Jim Robinson, which knocked in two runs, and a wild pitch which allowed the third run to be scored.

Buddy Bovender had EC's only other extra base hit when he tripled and scored on a wild relay throw. Robinson and Bovender each added a single.

WHY WE CARRY GANT

There's more than fabric superiority in Gant. In addition, "needled-into the ways and woof of every Gant shirt" — there's flair-fit show — three vital ingredients that make all the difference when a man wears a Gant.

We chose Gant because they take shirt making seriously. They're hard to please (like we are) when it comes to fit of collar, its roll, its profile—how much it shows above the suit collar. They're fastidious about the way the body of the shirt drapes and folds. All must integrate to achieve that viable ingredient which gives comfort and aplomb. In substance, Gant shirts are keyed to the discerning tastes of well groomed men who appreciate quality. These men are our customers.

The guy in the picture knows that Madras is in for a fresh whirl this season. Marvelously hued colors of an unsurpassed brilliance lend a pungently pretty tone to fashion. Obviously Madras was meant to be paired with our button-down collar design styled with smart three-quarter sleeves and an extremely flattering cut.
