President's Tea

Shortly before the Freshmen begin to arrive for their annual tea at the home of President and Mrs. Jenkins, Dean Tucker and Dean Mallory are seen conversing. Two "Big Sisters" look on as Mrs. Mallory discusses the upcoming year. The receiving line that honored the class of 1968 was composed of Dean of Women Ruth White, Vice President and Dean Robert L. Holt and Mrs. Holt, Vice President and Business Manager F. D. Duncan and Mrs. Duncan, and Dean of Men James B. Mallory and Mrs. Mallory.

Gavin Speaks At Rally; 'Leaders Not Afraid'

By CARRIE TYSON

Wednesday afternoon and night several hundred East Carolina students gathered in the Guy Smith Stadium to see and hear Republican gubernatorial nominee Bob Gavin and to eat a free political supper.

According to reports, barbeque and friend chicken plus their accompanying dishes of slaw, potatoes and rolls were prepared for some 2200 persons.

Introduced by Van Watson of Rocky Mount, Mr. Gavin launched into a speech ad libbing much in a free and easy, sincere manner.

He had many points for coverage and with communistic or Christian-like zeal and enthusiasm, he told the crowd that "A leader is not afraid to speak his mind on any subject," that "ten different factions exist in the North Carolina Democratic Party and there are factions within factions."

Of concern to EC students, faculty and administration he offers a seven point program on education, spearheaded by East Carolina and Western Carolina expansion. He envisions "that the goal of East Carolina College would be to grow to university status."

During an interview after his speech Mr. Gavin did not have adequate time to discuss all questions which were prepared. However one interesting point were his feelings about becoming a Republican Governor with a Democratic state legislature. He stated that he knew his "programs would be passed because they are for and would be for the betterment of the entire state. And Democrat or Republican would vote the same in regards to improvements."

In the realm of civil rights, he cited that he'd sent Democratic Nominee Dan Moore a request asking a face to face discussion of N. C.'s racial situation. Dan Moore's reply, he told, "He fired back a telegram" stating a sound "not interested."

Mr. Gavin desires "to keep violence down" but he doesn't suggest how or when. He further added that presidential candidate Goldwater had done his fair share in the national racial arena by integrating his Ariz. dept. store several years ago.

He further added that the national Democratic party had "encouraged racial violence" and is actually the Democratic Socialist Party." Furthermore, "Johnson is not sincere and is a hypocrite."

To the more local level, Nick Evers, who is Pitt County Chairman states, "the Republican headquarters will open in about two weeks."

Also, "Leadership is what we need for North Carolina and it will come from the Republican Party, for this party offers more opportunity for young people."

Dr. Riley, an EC English prof. who was at the rally discussed the role of the EC students in this election. Some of his remarks are below.

"There is much active work students can do in this campaign, and they are participating."

"Students are investing in their future and are attempting to better not only themselves, but also their country as well, whether taking part in the Republican or the Democratic campaigns."

"They're determined to have a free America and they recognize that new leaders will come from college-age people."

"These young people are working for the future, realizing that they will be the major force in the formation of this country and the principles we'll live by."

Bill Moore, EC chairman "Students for Gavin" states "Well over 100 EC students have already aligned themselves with the campaign here on our EC campus and the number is expected to increase. We invite all interested persons to join."

Loessin Announces Tryouts For 'Fair Lady' Production

Auditions for parts in "My Fair Lady," first student theater production of the 1964-65 season at East Carolina College, will be held here this evening. ECC Playhouse Director Edgar R. Loessin has announced.

He said tryouts to pick a cast of about 40 actors, dancers and singers are scheduled from 7:30 to 10 o'clock in McGinnis Auditorium.

Loessin reminded that ECC Playhouse roles are open to students and faculty of the college and to interested residents of Greenville and the surrounding area. He issued a special note for singers: "They should come prepared to sing something they can do well."

"My Fair Lady" will be a joint production of the Playhouse and the School of Music at ECC. It will be presented in a four-night run the last four dates of next month, Oct. 22-31.

Generally regarded as the greatest musical comedy hit in theatrical history, "My Fair Lady" will be making its second Greenville appearance of 1964. Last July it attracted the largest audience of the professional ECC Summer Theater's first season.

The October presentation will be the first of five productions scheduled by the 1964-65 College Theater Series, a segment of the concert-lecture theater program sponsored by the Student Government Association.

Sets and costumes used by the Summer Theater in July have been made available for use in the student theater's version of the musical.

Loessin, as director, heads the "My Fair Lady" production company which includes four other ECC specialists: Gene Strassler, music director; John Sneden, set designer; Mavis Ray, choreographer; Georg Schreiber, technical director and lighting designer.

Stephens, Two Others Head Honor Council

Three upperclassmen at East Carolina College have been elected to top offices of the Men's Honor Council, highest student court for men on the campus.

Berkley Moore Stephens a senior from Danville, Va., is the new chairman and will preside at Council sessions. Serving with him for the 1964-65 school year will be William Hunter Clark of Warrenton, vice chairman, and Robert Wayne Kaylor of Wilmington, secretary.

The three officers are among eight members of the Council which is called into session only when cases arise in which students are charged with serious offenses.

The chairman is studying physical education and social science at ECC. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Stephens, 125 Mt. Vernon Ave., Danville, and a graduate of Danville's George Washington High School.

Clark, also a senior, is a pre-law student and is president of the ECC chapter of Theta Chi social fraternity. The son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Clark, Route 1, Warrenton, he is a graduate of John Graham High School at Warrenton.

Kaylor, the new secretary, is a junior social studies major at the college. He is a graduate of New Hanover High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Kaylor, 226 Oakleaf Drive, Wilmington.

Other council members are Ted Malcolm Day of Washington, N. C., Sam A. Keel of New Castle, Del., Martin Neel Linker of Mooresville, Charles Mitcham Stroud of Goldsboro and Jerry Russel Tolley of Edenton. The eight members were appointed to the Council last spring.

Mailman Guest Conducts Premiere Of Completed Band Composition

Another composition for band by East Carolina composer-in-residence, Dr. Martin Mailman, has been completed and delivered.

A four-movement work, "Liturgical Music for Band," was written by Mailman under commission from the Greenville County High School Band of Emporia, Va.

Under the baton of John Savage, the high school musical group soon begin rehearsals for presentation of the premiere performance of the new Mailman piece at the band's annual concert. Savage, an ECC graduate, is band director of the Emporia school.

Mailman himself is tentatively planning to visit Emporia to act as guest conductor for the premiere. Other performances of the piece are expected soon after the premiere, including a probable presentation during the fourth Contemporary Music Festival at East Carolina next spring.

"Liturgical Music for Band" is the second Mailman work commissioned by a high school band in recent months. Last Fall he composed a special composition for the band at Rose High School in Greenville. Publication or placement for rental of the work just finished will be handled by Mills Music, Inc., music publishers of New York.

Mailman, who has received a general excellence award from the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers (ASCAP) for the second consecutive year, is currently working on other compositions. Among them is the underscore for a stage production of "Moby Dick" to be presented at ECC next May.

A native of New York City Mailman joined the faculty of East Carolina as resident composer in 1961. He holds bachelor's, master's and PhD degrees from the Eastman School of Music, University of Rochester, Rochester, N. Y.

Elections

Elections for IDC members will be held in the dormitories between 9:00 am and 4:00 pm Friday. Filing for these offices will be held today and tomorrow. All dormitory students are urged to vote.

Construction is in progress on the addition to Joyner Library. When the inconvenience of building is finished, there will be more room for study and a larger book storage area.

Truth As It Stands

The following letter was given to us as we wandered around the office trying to become organized. After reading it we realized that it expressed, better than we could hope to, sentiments that ought to be read by our freshmen. It is an actual letter, not a fabrication. We hope it will be taken as such. Only the names have been changed. . .

Dear Cathy,

Well, how's college life? I know you must have found by now that it's fun, hectic, thrilling, challenging, and full of new adventures and experiences. College can only be what you make it. If you strive to make it fun and worthwhile, it will work for you. If on the other hand, you take a poor or "self-ity" attitude it will definitely work against you, and make your life there miserable. Cathy, you and I both know the value of an education in order to get out of life what we want, and have missed in our past. We know we must have this education in order to give our children what we wanted and lacked.

I know the first few months will be the hardest because of the adjustment you must make from the security of a home to the unpleasant feeling of uncertainty. Uncertainty as to whether this is what you want. Believe me, Cathy, when I say that you must be strong in these months so that you can get a solid footing. Once you have this firm hold, you will be able to see and benefit from the dividends that come from the best years of your life, your college years. Study hard and remember that I am pulling for you and am as near as the nearest telephone whenever you need any advice or help.

Cathy, do not take what I am going to say as something derogative toward Bob, but please date if you are asked because you miss out on the most educational part of your college years, and that is learning new and different people. However, please be wary or cautious of who you date. I love you too much to see you and your dreams ruined and banished at such a young age. Be good and study hard.

Love,
Larry (her brother)

Police Please

From time to time, it occurs to us that there are certain groups on campus who deserve recognition, groups who work hard and get little honor for working hard.

Such a group is the campus police force and its chief, Johnnie Harrell.

Though most students never give them much attention, Chief Harrell and his men have a difficult job and they do it rather well. In many, many little ways, their jobs are long and rather dull. They are responsible for catching those of us who won't, can't or don't park in the right areas. And they do it. Extremely well, as we in particular know.

Their hours are long. And they are responsible for checking every building on campus, and there are a few buildings.

They go out of their way to help those who need help. Those who will watch will notice that our policemen are a courteous and friendly group.

They do a lot for us here and we think they deserve a little more done for them.

Advertisements Prove Misleading

On first hearing, the following radio promotion of a local clothier, it seemed innocent enough. Its suggestions, until thoroughly examined, seemed to be anything but sinister and insulting.

(1) "For all style conscious young men and women."

(2) "Pick out a fall wardrobe designed exclusively for you."

On examining the contents of the promotion a little more closely, though, I began to question the motives of those who were responsible for the broadcast. The promotion is played regularly by a Greenville radio station and was, obviously designed to entice EC students into a particular clothing shop. I don't find fault with their practice of hawking their wares to the students of EC but the psychology used in the promotion is what I find contemptible and insulting. Any thinking individual will not long fail to see to whom this psychology was intended to appeal and should feel that his intelligence has been insulted.

I'll begin by explaining to what faction I believe the words "style conscious" in the 1st line refer. Is it not possible that those people who are style conscious are the same ones who are not only lacking in individuality and originality but also those who lack the intestinal fortitude to dress and think independently? The ad man who concocted this promotion certainly understood how much clothes are overrated on the EC campus, and he also understands the weak and how best to appeal to them. It would seem that the clothiers would be satisfied with the advantage of having a captive mar-

Not Enough Time Between Classes

By CLARA KATSIAS

With only 10 minutes to change classes, we sometimes run into trouble. Allow me to explain some of the entanglements a person can get into while en route from Flannagan to Austin.

The bell rings in your health class in Flannagan. If you are cautious, you won't be crushed by the mob scene for the door. After fighting your way through the door, you proceed to the foyer where one can be stomped to death from the approaching crowds who are equally attempting to reach the exit.

Having arrived outside, one finds himself fighting off the flies, birds, and squirrels and directs himself to Austin. While crossing the streets, it is necessary to be aware of the motorscooters, cars and bikes—the pedestrian does not have the right of way.

Since people do not have tail lights like cars, one can become irritated when people stop dead in front of you and block your path. Walking around people is time consuming, so it is better to force your way through even if you have to push them lightly.

Walking into the wrong class can be embarrassing, but this is easily covered up if you just say "hi" to someone in the room and discreetly leave.

Having arrived in your next class in Austin late, the professor usually frowns upon you, but you arrived just in time to hear the lecture's topic—"Survival of the Fittest."

CU Bowling League

Students are invited to bowl with the College Union Bowling League each Tuesday afternoon at Hillcrest Lanes.

Persons interested in bowling or learning to bowl should meet at 4 p.m. Tuesday in front of Wright Auditorium. A bus will be available at this time as free transportation.

Shoe rental is also free. The only cost for an afternoon of bowling is a $1.10 fee for three games.

Team and individual trophies for high scores will be presented at the annual College Union awards banquet in the spring.

ID CARDS

Photo ID Cards will be made today and Friday from 9:00 o'clock until 4:00 o'clock P.M.

They will also be handed out today to those who had them made at the beginning of school.

Cards will be handed out in Wright Auditorium in the SGA office.

Foolin' Around With Fris Entertainment For Students

By FRISBY HENDRICKS

Today, our department and staff are quite optimistic and content with the world. Not only is it the beginning of the fall quarter, but the statistics of the East Carolina enrollment have just been published.

Approximately 875 students did not enter this fall in our class alone. We certainly are not trying to imply that we are glad that these students did not come back. We are saying that we are glad to be part of the student body who were fortunate to come back. We are sure that all of the students on this campus have this mutual gratitude.

Last week in our column we promised our readers that we would present a list of places of entertainment in Greenville. While preparing for this column, we were faced with a disappointing fact.

There are very few points of interest for the student body. Unfortunately, the city of Greenville, considering her size and potential, does not offer much for the college student.

Miniature Golf

However, we did find three places of interest that were quite happy to help us. The first place is the Pitt-Putt Miniature Golf Course. Although there is less than two weeks left in the season, the students have a chance to go there.

It is open from 4:00 to 10:30 p.m. on week days, from 9:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. on Saturdays, and from 1:00 to 10:30 p.m. on Sundays.

The fare for one game is 40c, 25c for a party, that is over ten persons. One receives a free pass for a hole-in-one on the 9th hole.

Bowling Lanes

A more permanent place for entertainment is the Hillcrest Lane Bowling Alley. Their hours are from 9:00 to 12:00 p.m. on Mondays through Fridays. On week-ends the hours are from 9:00 to 1:00 p.m.

For the college student and faculty member the price is 30c from 9:00 to 6:00 p.m. on week days. The player may receive a free pass if he makes a strike with a red pin that is in the number one position.

Art Center

Our third place of entertainment, and we must admit, our proudest point of interest is the art center. When the East Carolina Art Society sent us information we were impressed.

And for those who do not know where it is, it is located at 302 South East Street.

The Craft Shop has been removed and Art Classes will be lined up by the end of this month. Dates of instructors will be announced later.

Christmas cards will be on sale by Board Members for the benefit of the Building Fund. We might add that the center is located in a large and attractive house.

The present exhibit of Japanese Arts came through the courtesy of the Olsen Foundation of New Haven, Connecticut. The exhibit will be from 8:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. on the days until October 2.

If anyone knows of other points of interest, please contact us in order that we may be able to spread the word to other students.

"Hamlet"
Pitt Theater brings superb entertainment to Greenville again on September 23 and 24 at 8:00 and 8:00 p.m. "Hamlet" will be presented by Warner Brothers from Broadway in Electronic Theatrefilm.

This is the new electronic-optical process. One thousand theaters throughout the United States and Canada will present this interpretation of "Hamlet" on the same days.

Hamlet will be portrayed by Richard Burton, who has been widely hailed throughout the world as one of the greatest actors of our time.

Tickets will be sold by the number of seats in the theatre. We enthusiastically support and recommend this completely new idea of entertainment. Procure your tickets at which are on sale at the box office.

"How The West Was Won"
At the State Theater, "How The West Was Won" is being presented. This production has a very exciting rating and the picture is made with great stars. It will be running until the 30th of this month.

Best of luck with the entertainment of our city and if you feel the staff does, don't complain about it and then forget about it. Complain about to the merchants, Chamber of Commerce and the other "fathers of the city."

Madame Lorraine - Fakir Or Faker Staff Writers Give Their Opinions

By CARRIE TYSON

All summer long and now this fall, we have been hearing on the radio every few minutes—"Friends, now is the time to take advantage of the $1.00 weekend special at Madame..." Already curious about mysticism and the unknown, these advertisements made the subject even more interesting.

First Trip

Sunday afternoon just before the hurricane was to arrive and sweep us all into the Atlantic, a group including Luanne Kaylor, Anne Powell Speight, Patsy Wooten, Carol Rumley and myself left Greenville to go to Bethel to take advantage of the weekend $1.00 special at Madame Lorraine's.

It was amazing how much truth about one's past, present and future she could tell if one entered this experience with an open mind (this seems to be the key—open mindedness). Of the five who attended, various reactions occurred. They centered around how she was able to give facts, specific ones, about one's past.

Second Trip

Then on Thursday afternoon, we heard on the radio a commercial about Madame Fatima, who advertised to be a "media" and she too had a special on for $1.00 for a short time. So to Washington Steve Small, Ed Meeks, Luanne Kaylor, Gary Pegram, Alec McKay and myself went to talk with the media, who was supposed to be able to communicate with others. It turned out that she was only a palmist and a rather poor one for she spoke largely in generalities. Not only that but she charged $2.00 per person and took two at a time into her plushy red and white bedroom.

However, I cannot afford to overlook the truth in her first statement "you have a temper which often shows, but you are soon over your quick anger, usually not holding grudges." In addition, "you usually will not compromise on any issue once your mind is made up. From outward appearances, seemingly you give in, but you never do."

Then Steve Small, hearing future predictions, learned he is supposed to pay a tremendous amount of alimony. Statements such as this one will take years to prove their validity.

Money Problem

Alec attempted to persuade her to give group rates since there were six of us, but to no avail. Two dollars per person was the fee.

For myself, the reading took a rather usual quirk. I was told basically, but in more general terms, at Washington on Thursday night the same thing I was told in Bethel on Sunday afternoon.

The question therefore should be raised: How could two different persons, on two different occasions, both of whom had never met or seen me, know so much about my personal life, about myself, about things that only I know?

As you can well imagine, this was not only amusing but also called for some real thinking on my part. I decided to return to Bethel to Madame Lorraine for another reading, and tell her I worked for the EAST CAROLINIAN and hoped for an interview, plus another reading.

Third Trip

I was scared stiff but curiosity finally won out. Her interview is included in a separate story.

Incidentally this third reading corresponded with the first two in even more detail.

In the meantime, later that night, Anne Powell Speight, who went Sunday, and a group of her friends also jaunted up to Bethel. Madame Lorraine had told Anne Powell if she would come again she would not charge. But such was not the case. Only for $3.00 would she indulge more information. Consequently, Anne decided: "Thanks, but no thanks."

Then there was her group of friends whose first reaction was "Total Fake." Then, after some thought and evaluation, one openly admitted that there were "definitely some true statements made." Another was "pleased" for she was told many true, specific, detailed facts and what she was told was good. Naturally her reaction was favorable.

As for the validity and truth of these predictions, I am not one to say; however, I can state with personal certainty her sincerity and valid statements concerning my past and present (which she had no way of knowing) are beyond a doubt true.

By FRISBY HENDRICKS, III

Madame Lorraine is a fake and she admits it. She has a higher income than some men who hold a BA degree from a four year college. And why? Because there are gullible people who need her "supernatural powers."

Madame Lorraine is a quack psychiatrist, but she does a good job. Although she is doing this for money, she has admitted herself that she has helped people because they have helped themselves explain their problems and in turn they formulate the solution themselves. One can go to his best friend, talk about his problem and feel much better without his friend saying a word.

This particular staff writer went to see her, with other staff writers, and spent $3.00 learning his lesson. She predicted everything wrong and later said that the reason she was wrong was that the person whose palm she had read did not have faith in her. I am a Christian and, like any other practicing Christian, can not accept her "powers." This power is contrary to the idea of Christianity. She, and all other palmists and media, indirectly are saying, "I have divine power." We are not saying or implying that one cannot see what a reader is like or go to one as a joke.

How can a person be a psychology major who flunked Psychology 103 twice, be a doctor when I dislike science, become married in two years when I plan to go to seminary, and visit someone in two months when she is 800 miles away? This writer can, if he believes in Madame Lorraine.

Though Madame Lorraine is accomplishing an aim that most humanitarians want to accomplish—help those in need, she is doing it for monetary gains, claiming to have super powers, and dispelling trust in friends.

Interview

(1) How long have you been practicing?

I first began this type of work when I was 13. At that time I was living in Cleveland and I read tea-leaves. Since then, and I am now 37, I have been practicing.

(2) Of what religion are you, if any, and does or would palmistry in any way conflict with religious beliefs?

My religious background is of a variety. My mother was Roman Catholic and my father a hard-shelled North Carolina Baptist. Palmistry does not in any way conflict, as I see it, with religion. I myself am a Baptist and have never found a conflict to be a problem in any way. Your life is written in your hand when you are born. The basic lines never change, and every person's lines are different from anyone else's. If you can recall, and I don't remember the specific place, reference to this are made in the Bible. Lot's wife was warned about looking back to the evil city and Julius Caesar was told to "Beware the Ides of March." Throughout history many incidents similar to these may be found, and the Bible mentions nothing of them conflicting to religious teaching or being wrong.

(3) Of what national origin are you?

"I am an American, a North Carolinian, was born in Shelby, N. C. Both of my grandparents were from Wales and my parents, Americans." Her mother who is also a palmist is still alive and healthy at 76 and is still reading palms.

(4) What relationship, if any does a palmist have to Medists, Clairvoyants or astrologers?

None directly, yet all relate being that all have something to do with you as a person. Astrology, as understood, deals more with character traits, where palmistry is about one's life itself. I do not know enough about medists and clairvoyants to even discuss them for this is not in my profession.

(5) Is reading palms an inherited trait or can one be trained,

It is both. One must be patient, have an understanding of human nature, and be willing to listen to become a good palmist. Especially important is this listening part. Many of the people who come to me have problems and have no place or no one to turn. I listen and by hearing themselves talk and feel as though someone else knows and understands, they can begin to more realistically see life. However for the actual reading of palms, it involves training and the ability to read others minds or ESP (extrasensory preception). I inherited, probably, my tendencies from my grandparents who were as I told you earlier, from Wales. In that country palmistry is considered an art and is readily accepted by persons who live there. However one can become trained to some extent. And here is where again, as with teachers, some bad ones manage to live and practice not for serving, but for the money they can make. These will most frequently speak only in generalities rather than specific details. I consider my profession as a helping one, one which gives service to others. Both colored and white people come to me.

(6) If someone, say a student, were interested in this field, what would you suggest?

They should read books, probably many are in your school library on the subject, and obtain what ever information is possible. It is not easily accepted in this country, particularly in North Carolina, as it is in some other places, and that makes it harder to obtain material about it. Then too, one could do some searching on their own whenever possible. Often one learns much in this way.

Later we were just chatting and I brought up the subject of reincarnation. She had read the book "The Search for Bridey Murphy," and enjoyed it immensely. However, no attempts were made to draw definite conclusions.

One last comment—she suggested the book "The Three Faces of Eve" for my reading.

The interview was most enjoyable and Madame Lorraine was extremely cooperative. I personally appreciate her allowing the interview and hope that through it, many of you gain some insight into the thing called Palmistry.

Campus Chatter Individualism Or Mob Action

By CARRIE TYSON

This column has for the summer and for the first part of this fall been a folksy chat-chat on whatever items came to mind or were available.

However, word has it that I leaned toward female interests on our campus rather than our men, that is, with the exception of the wine and liquor review and coed smoking male opinion poll.

An all-round enlightened man's point-of-view was, you tell us, much needed. Consequently, we now have for you in the future a man's point-of-view — one which should be enlightened as well as entertaining and up-to-date. Maybe too, this calls for a name change, for CAMPUS Chatter is not very manly is it?

FOR THE MEN

Anyway, the man who is fulfilling this position hails from Fayetteville, N. C., is a senior business major and a brother of Lambda Chi fraternity. . . BEN SUTTON.

One of the more active young men on campus, Ben is presently serving as Vice-President of IFC and has a variety of interests in many fields.

Many of you know Ben personally and he, too, is always open for suggestions for this column. Welcome aboard Ben!!

CONCERNING FEET

As for this week's newsy items, I find it quite hard to switch my thinking to fall and winter clothes after such a free and go-as-I-please summer attire of unmentionable combinations, but it was certainly fun!

The item for consideration this week is scotch-grain loafers. Ever since the opening of school, I've been observing to attempt to find an article or item most common to EC students and this seems to be it. I apply the term "Loafers" because this encompasses all the brand names whether Bass, Taylor, Spalling or Whatever.

Now I'm not totally anti-shoes, exactly, but I do oppose the idea en masse solely for the purpose of attempting to be accepted. And that, fellow classmates, is why, and only why, many of you are wearing these shoes.

Of course I sound mother-ish and home ec major-ish when I ask you to consider looks, durability, indubitably REALLY, why did you buy them?

GANT SHIRT

You know, I heard from a friend a most disgusting experience his roommate had this weekend. While attending a fraternity rush party his date had the nerve to ask him what brand name of shirt he was wearing! Or maybe it wasn't just nerve, for she was truly concerned.

Although totally opposed by many of you, nevertheless, I raise the question: where's your sense of individualism, your recognition of yourself, the real you? Is there one? Do you exist as a particular being, or could you have a number, as in Brave New World, and no one, not even yourself, ever know the difference?

I sound perhaps as an oldster, not as a 1964 college coed, for I value individualism and uniqueness. Is my set of values, whether in relation to shoes, shirts or other, totally out of focus with you, today's student?

Perhaps next week, with Ben's help, we can discuss a topic more interesting, of more prevalence to you, and of more "collegiate importance."

In the meantime, please let me know about my distorted value system. Who knows, I may need professional help from the church.

Campus Co-ed Earns License Operates Own Fishing Boat

And what is so great about a fully licensed boat captain? Well, besides being a Pirate Freshman . . . the captain is a she.

Ready for another surprise? This captain is also the number one girl in the E.C. Industrial Arts Department.

Susan N. Anders. . .oops! Excuse, please. . .CAPTAIN Susan N. Anderson is the Pirate Frosh, skipper of a ship and Industrial Arts major that East Carolina has acquired.

On July 14, 1964, Susan was awarded her United States Coast Guard license by commander J. C. Fox of the U. S. Coast Guard. This license permits Susan to operate motor boats and any other machine-propelled vessels of fifteen gross tons.

She made the remarkable score of "100" on the "Rules of the Road" test which must be taken by the applicant before a captain's license can be granted.

Captain Anderson has been interested in machines and shop work ever since she can remember. Though originally from Raleigh, North Carolina, Susan has also lived in Harker's Island and Core Sound, N. C. Spending so much time on the coast has been a contributing factor in her growing love of boats and the sea.

In the summer of 1962, Susan took a job in a fishing camp at Harker's Island. After this she signed aboard the Party Boat.

After a few days on this sport-fishing boat she advanced to first mate. While working in this position, Captain Anderson learned the ropes of general boat operations and gained valuable experience as a diesel mechanic.

Due to Susan's wide experience on the Party Boat, she was able to secure a job on the Patriot. After one day on hand on this excursion, she moved up to the position of engineer. Susan has also worked as an assistant engineer on the Queen.

At the present time, Susan is the captain of the Possum Trail. Anderson is also owner of a ten-foot commercial fishing boat.

Presently residing in Raleigh, North Carolina, Captain Anderson is an excellent and talented artist and talented athlete. She enjoys playing tennis, swimming, and carving. Having an avid interest in horses, Susan has had a year's experience in teaching horseback riding. When asked why she chose to attend East Carolina University, Anderson stated:

"I wanted to get a better education and I was interested in settling down or going to school in North Carolina. The Department of Industrial Arts is going to major in Diesel Engineering. I am studying diesel engineering at the Industrial Education Center in Raleigh, N. C. Then it's out to sea for me!"

Enrollment Doubles As UEC Begins Classes

The first term of a new night school program offered by the East Carolina Extension Division is under way with almost twice as many students as expected.

Figures announced Wednesday by Dr. David J. Middleton, division director, show that 175 students account for class rolls totaling 220 for the fall term of the new Undergraduate Evening College (UEC). The latter number counts twice the 45 students taking two courses.

According to Middleton, the UEC program was expected initially to attract about 100 individuals who would have accounted for perhaps as many as 150 class registrations.

"Of course we are very much pleased that the demand for this program was even greater than we had anticipated," Middleton said. He added that continued strong interest in the evening classes would mean further development of Extension Division plans to broaden the UEC program.

In discussing the first term's enrollment, Middleton pointed out that students come from several counties in the ECC area. Most are from Greenville and Pitt County, he said, but about 20 represent Washington and Beaufort County, about 25 commute from Kinston and Lenoir County and several others come from Craven, Edgecombe, Greene and Martin Counties.

Nine courses are offered in the first UEC term. Five of them meet on Tuesday and Thursday evenings and the others meet on Mondays and Wednesdays. All classes are held on the ECC campus. They begin at 7 o'clock and adjourn at 9:50.

The fall term will end in early November; others will follow, beginning Nov. 9, Jan. 25 and March 24. Middleton noted that students may begin their UEC work with the beginning of any new term.

The UEC was established at East Carolina to provide an opportunity for those who cannot enroll in the regular daytime program at ECC to begin a college education by attending evening classes. Detailed information about the program is available from the Extension Division office in Rawl Annex on the ECC campus.

School Of Nursing Increases Staff

Appointment of a new member in the School of Nursing at East Carolina has been announced by the dean of the school, Eva W. Warren.

Dean Warren said Edith Myers, a native Pennsylvanian with 34 years' experience in nursing, will join the ECC staff next month. Miss Myers, who holds a postgraduate degree in nursing from the University of Kentucky, will be in charge of the school's nursing program.

When she begins her duties in medical and nursing in early October, Myers will become the 14th member of the nursing faculty at ECC. She will be on staff at the rank of assistant professor.

Miss Myers holds a Bachelor's degree from Pennsylvania State University and the MS in Nursing from Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio. She also holds a nursing diploma from the Pennsylvania General Hospital.

She is a former director of nursing for the government of Korea in 1940s. She has been a nurse and has served as a nurse in a Korean hospital at Hamot Hospital in Philadelphia. She was assistant director of the Williamsport, Pa. Hospital going to Whitesburg last year.

Miss Myers is a graduate of a high school at Edinburg, western Pennsylvania on the Allegheny River. She is a member of the American Nurses Association and the National League of Nursing.

East Carolina Pirates Explode And Trounce Rams 33-7

Bucs Find Openings In Second Half

After an evenly matched first-half, the East Carolina Pirates rolled up a surprisingly large margin against the West Chester Rams Saturday night in the Pirates' second game of the season and their first away game.

Bill Cline, after missing the Pirates' first game because of an injury to his hand, came on strong against the Rams, scoring two touchdowns and passing to Dinky Mills for another. Cline's playing so much was a surprise to many Buc followers who expected that he would be used only for punting this game. His bandage was removed just last Thursday.

Dave Alexander romped through the Ram defense all evening to score two touchdowns, one on a twenty-five yard run.

The Pirate defense proved to be even stronger than most had hoped it would be. The Catawba game made promises about the team's strength at defense, but the West Chester game proved them true.

At the half, the Pirates had pulled ahead to lead 13-7. At the half, though, it looked like anything could still happen—on either side. When the teams took the field again, it all broke loose as the Pirates swarmed all over the field, keeping the traffic down at the West Chester end of the field.

Dave Bumgarner began showing up all over the place, not only kicking for the extra points, but receiving passes as well.

In rapid succession, the Pirates moved down the field, until finally a pass to Mills from Cline ran the score up to 19-7. The extra point ran it up to 20-7.

Handling the ball beautifully, the Pirates hauled down to the 14 after stopping the Rams. Cline then picked up five and passed to Bumgarner for five more yards. Alexander then took the ball over the goal. The extra point try failed, making the score 26-7.

Recovering a fumble (the Rams were a bit nervous by then), the Pirates took the ball on their 43 and carried it to the 42 in two plays. Cline then tore through the line all the way to the six. Richardson moved it to the 4 and Dave Alexander took it over. The kick ran the total up to 33-7.

At this point the time-honored gesture of sending in the reserves took place. And, as the time ran out, the Rams were still powerless.

The Pirates will meet Howard this Saturday in Ficklen Stadium for the second home game of the season.

The victorious Pirates are shown returning from Philadelphia where they defeated the West Chester Rams. Although favored, the Rams managed to collect only one touchdown to the Bucs five.

Sports Around The World

By JIM NEWMAN

Baseball

Manager Harry Craft of the Houston Colts was fired Saturday. Veteran third base coach Luman Harris was named to succeed him. Harris began his new duties by directing the Colts to a 2-1 victory over the New York Mets Saturday night.

Presently Philadelphia is leading the National League. They have won 89 games and have lost 59 games. The St. Louis Cardinals are far behind having won only 82 games and lost 64. In the American League it is quite a different story. The Yankees (88-58) are followed by Baltimore and Chicago with 89-61 and 88-63 records respectively.

Golf

Barbara McIntire, U. S. women's amateur golf champion and Curtis Cup player, tries for a rare double in the British women's amateur championship over the Prince's links at Sandwich, beginning this afternoon and lasting through Friday.

Barbara is trying to add the British crown to her U. S. title. The last girl to win both championships in the same year was Britain's Pam Barton, who collected them both in 1936 at the age of 19. Miss McIntire is 29 years old.

Saturday Ken Venturi shot his third straight 69 and took a one-stroke lead over Jack Nicklaus after the third round of the $40,000 Portland Open Gold Tournament. Venturi stands at 207, nine below par, on the 6,404-yard Portland course.

The new National Amateur golf champion, Bill Campbell, was named Saturday to head a four-man team to represent the United States in the World Amateur team championship in Rome October 7-10.

Ed Tutwiler, runner-up to Campbell in the 64th national tournament; Dale Morey of High Point, North Carolina; and Deane Beman of Bethesda, Maryland, the former winner of the U. S. title, round out the U. S. team.

Tennis

September 25 is the date of the Davis Cup match. Roy Emerson of Australia and Fred Stolle, another Australian, will go into the challenge round for the Davis Cup against Chuck McKinley of San Antonio, Texas, and Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, California. The tennis match will be held at Cleveland.

Football

As it now stands the Minnesota Vikings and the Green Bay Packers are co-favorites for the Western Conference title. Sunday's winner in the Cardinals-Browns game is atop the Eastern Conference standings after only two weeks of play.

Y. A. Tittle's favorite catching partner, Del Shofner was back on the scene this past Sunday. Shofner has missed New York's last two games due to an injury.

Indoor Track Begun

East Carolina's first cross-country team, in the history of the school, has been organized.

Presently we have ten boys to fill both varsity and freshmen teams. This is just a bare minimum of the boys we need, and anyone who is interested in running would help us a great deal.

We have some interesting meets scheduled. On October 2 we run the Richmond varsity and freshmen at Richmond; on October 9 we have a triangular meet with North Carolina State and the University of Virginia; and on October 16 we will entertain on our home course the very fine University of North Carolina cross-country team.

We plan to have an indoor track team to supplement the outdoor program. Last years cinderman team captain, Whitty Bass, invites any and all interested persons to contact him or Coach Barryhill in the gym.

Bill Cline

Bill Cline, who was expected to see limited action in the first few games, was used extensively and most effectively in Saturday night's game against West Chester. He was responsible for two of the Buc touchdowns and passed for a third. With players like Cline, it is possible that East Carolina will better its 9-1 record of last year. The next game on the EC schedule will be against Howard College here Saturday night.

Intramural Roster Deadlines Set

The deadline for intramural football rosters and a $5 deposit is 4 p.m. Sept. 22. The office will be open from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. and from 3 to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

All rosters should include the name, address and phone number of your sporting director.

Directors will work with and attend all meetings of the intramural staff. The meetings will be posted in the EAST CAROLINIAN and on the Intramural Bulletin Boards.

Teams that have not turned in the name of their sports director should do so before the deadline.

The intramural program for the remainder of the fall quarter includes Volleyball and Swimming. Deadline dates for these activities are Sept. 30 for Volleyball and Oct. 6 for Swimming.

These deadlines are absolutely final. Please check bulletin boards and the EAST CAROLINIAN for further information.

YDC Holds First Meeting; Johnson Plans Visit

An organizational meeting of the Young Democrats Club was conducted at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Library Auditorium.

The speaker of the evening was Miss Janice Hardison, Director of alumni activities. Her topic was, "How The YDC Can Contribute to the Campaign." She pointed out that if East Carolina emphatically campaigns for the Democratic Party, and the party wins the election, the college will benefit from the victory due to the fact that the General Assembly will remember the college's participation when drawing up the budget for the college.

She also pointed out that the student will learn more about government in the city and state, while at the same time become associated with the local party and the leaders of the party. According to Miss Hardison, students may help by assisting at the Democratic headquarters, registering people to vote and campaigning out in the city.

Tom Mallison, head of the eastern part of the state for "Citizens for Johnson and Humphrey," which includes thirteen colleges spoke on the National Democratic Convention held in Atlantic City, New Jersey last month.

Mr. Mallison spoke of how the Democratic Party stood on care-for-the-aged, race relations, labor and youth. He also told the Club, which was attended by more than one hundred students, the different activities that happened at the convention which one was unable to see on television.

Wayne Clark, President of the YDC, said that at the next meeting, Tuesday, Sept. 29, Dr. Rachel Davis of Kinston, one of the members of the state legislature to vote against the "Speaker Ban Law," would speak.

He also stated that President Johnson will probably speak at the stadium of the college and that members of the YDC would have reserved seats in the stadium in front of the speaker's stand.

Hubert Humphrey is also planned to speak at Ficklen Stadium at a later date. Plans have been made for Robert Scott, Luci B. Johnson, and Harry Golden to speak later in the school year.

There is hope that all thirteen colleges of the eastern part of the state will come to East Carolina and then attend a rally on the weekend of the Richmond-E.C.C. football game. This is when Luci Johnson is planned to come. Tom Mallison is in charge of this convention.

Preparations were also made for the arrival of the "Lady Bird Special" in October.

The officers of the organization

Hardly Working

Using the most modern of learning procedures, Charlie Wigglesworth dictates his term paper to his secretary. The paper is then typed by the young lady and proofread by the student. Since most papers are made by carelessness, this new method precludes student mistakes. Since he has the final say in the making of the paper, it is still considered his work.

were introduced. They are: Wayne Clark, President; Mike McShane, Vice President; Carrie Tyson, Secretary; Larry Limer, Treasurer; and Walter Hendricks, Public Relations Chairman. The faculty advisor is Dr. Stokes.

Art Center Gives Eight-Week Class

Art classes are scheduled to begin the first week in October and will continue for a series of eight weeks at the Greenville Art Center.

Mrs. Francis Speight will be instructing the adult classes to begin Thursday, October 1, at 10:00 a.m. She will be teaching portrait study from a model and study from still life.

Mr. Louis Jones and Miss Willie Marlowe, senior art students at East Carolina College, will instruct the Children's Classes to begin Saturday, October 3 at 10:00 a.m.

Persons interested in enrolling in any of the above classes may call PL 8-1946 or write the Art Center.

Special free art classes for a limited number of Pitt County school children will be offered again this year by the School of Art at East Carolina College.

Dr. Wellington B. Gray, dean of the school, said the classes will begin next week with a regular member of the art faculty, Betty E. Petteway, as instructor.

Persons interested in the classes have been asked to telephone Miss Petteway Wednesday or Thursday, Sept. 16 or 17, between 7:30 and 9 p.m. at her Greenville home number, 752-7578. No registrations will be accepted at the School of Art.

Twenty students will be enrolled in each of two classes for the fall quarter. Each class will last approximately 10 weeks. One class, scheduled to meet each Tuesday beginning Sept. 22, is for students in grades four through eight. The other is open to students in grades nine through 12 and will meet on Thursdays, beginning Sept. 24.

All of the classes will meet from 4 to 5 p.m. in the cafeteria of Wahl-Coates School on the ECC campus.

Pierce Presents Selections On TV

Ovid Pierce, novelist and author-in-residence at East Carolina College, read from his forthcoming novel on a Greenville television program Sunday.

He was the featured guest on "Let's Go To College," regular weekly half-hour program produced and telecast by Greenville station WNCT-TV, Channel 9. The program was scheduled at noon Sunday.

Before discussing novel writing in general, Pierce read the final chapter of his latest novel which is scheduled for publication early next year.

Pierce is a native of Halifax County and presently lives near Enfield. He commutes to the ECC campus where he teaches courses in literature and creative writing and serves as advisor to the students' literary magazine, The Rebel, year.
