EC Students Supply Stores Presents Mayo Nunn Awards,

Two East Carolina students were honored Monday night with fifth annual "Student-Employee-of-the-Year" awards from the EC Students Supply Stores.

Engraved plaques and $100 scholarships were presented to Mrs. Frances Edwards Mayo of Belvoir and Greenville and Michael Anthony Nunn of Kinston. This year's winners are the first recipients of the scholarships which now become annual awards.

The co-winners were picked by a Students Supply Stores committee. Nominees were drawn from the 75 students who help pay their college bills by working part-time in the student stores.

Joseph O. Clark, manager of the stores, noted in presenting the awards that the annual honor recognizes all-round "favorable attitude toward duties and outstanding performance of assignments." He said Mrs. Mayo and Nunn have been "truly outstanding members of our student staff."

On hand to watch the awards ceremony were Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, president of the college; and F. D. Duncan, vice president and business manager.

Mrs. Mayo, the wife of Clayton B. Mayo of Falkland and Greenville, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Edwards of Route 1, Fountain. A junior primary education major at East Carolina, she has been a member of the supply stores student staff for several quarters. She was valedictorian of her 1961 graduating class at Belvoir-Falkland High School.

Nunn, a 1959 graduate of Kinston's Grainger High School, is a junior business major at EC who has held his self-help job in the supply stores for several quarters. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Nunn of Kinston.

Mrs. Mayo and Nunn will join former winners whose names are engraved on a permanent trophy displayed in the manager's office.

NCAA Coaches Make Selection At Annual Meet

(UPI)—Head football coach, Clarence Stasavich has been named the College Division "Coach of the Year" in the annual voting of the Football Coaches Association.

Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame and Frank Broyles of Arkansas were named co-coaches of the year in the University Division.

Stas was the District III nomination for the title for the fourth time. He was runner-up for Coach of the year honors in 1960.

He took his team this past season to the Tangerine Bowl in Orlando, Florida where he dumped the University of Massachusetts.

Stasavich made a come-back in 1964 following a heart attack which benched him after the fourth game of the 1963 season. This was his third season at EC.

He is a staunch believer in the old rough single-wing offense.

He is a graduate of Lenoir-Rhyne College where he coached for fifteen years compiling a record of 120 wins, 36 losses and 7 ties.

This included 5 undefeated seasons and the National Small College Championship in 1960.

VISCOUNTS PLAY AT COLLEGE UNION DANCE

The College Union Record and Dance Committee Chairman, Joe Rippard, announces that the Viscounts Combo will play this Friday, January 15, 1965, at the College Union Combo dance to be held in Wright Auditorium, from 8:30 p.m. until 11:30 p.m. All students are invited.

New Cut System Soon A Reality

On January 11, 1965, the student legislature met and discussed the problem on the cut system. Eddie Greene, chairman of the cuts committee, made a motion that the student legislature recommend to the faculty of East Carolina College the adoption of new regulations concerning student absences. The essence of Mr. Greene's motion stated that "all students taking courses numbered 1 through 199 are allowed the following emergency absences: a one hour course, one absence; two and three hour courses, two absences; four and five hour courses, three absences. These absences are to be used only in the case of an emergency." Another important phase of this motion concerned the drop - add, students will be excused from their respective class if they are dropping or adding the same. The drop-add form is evidence of excusability.

After some discussion about the motion, Bob Curl and proposed a substitution about the number of cuts which was similar to the old cut system of one absence per quarter hour. This idea was debated and voted down. Mr. Greene's motion was then voted on and passed by a firm majority.

The motion is now on its way. The faculty must discuss it and decide on its fate. There is one major problem which was pointed out to the student legislature by Dr. Tucker. It takes time to evaluate the effectiveness of a new idea such as the cut system. The no-cut system which was tried in the Fall Quarter has not been in effect long enough for it to merit a decision. Before a new cut system can be established, the old one must be fully evaluated. But have no fear—something is being done.

Co-operation between the students, the professors, the student legislature, and the faculty legislature will bring about the needed change.

Colorado Approves School Of Business

Colorado, one of few states with boards to approve schools for accountants, has put the School of Business at East Carolina on its first approved list.

Dr. Elmer R. Browning, dean, said the secretary of the Colorado State Board of Accountancy, Clayton A. Becker, advised EC officials of the favorable action.

Board sanction is an asset to graduates of approved schools who take the Certified Public Accountant examination in Colorado. North Carolina's board approved the EC school several years ago.

Dr. Browning said the school "receives this recognition with a great deal of pride." He added: "We shall continue to do our very best to earn such notice from all parts of the country."

With a faculty of about 40, the School of Business is one of the largest academic units at EC. It offers a variety of courses in business and accounting.

SGA Cut System . . .

The student legislature has approved the latest cut-system. And we congratulate them on the efficiency and poise with which they undertook the approval of such a task.

It should be noted that the cut system is not officially in effect . . . yet. It must still be passed by the faculty.

Therefore, . . . DON'T CUT A CLASS THINKING THAT YOU WILL BE EXCUSED!

It should be realized that this is not just another piece of legislation. This is a gigantic step forward in student government, administration relations.

This is physical proof that the students are working with and not under the administration.

The East Carolinian feels that the system is much improved over the two previous systems. Compromise is still a way of life in this nation.

It is also felt that the faculty will vote unanimously in favor of this proposal. Such a vote would show the faith which the faculty has in the members of the student body.

Read This . . .

The East Carolinian for many years has been running two issues per week. For several years this organization has had assorted internal problems which have stymied any attempts to produce a consistently good newspaper.

Many students criticize their campus newspaper. This is to be expected. And to build a good newspaper, many students have placed their hearts upon the chopping block. And there are the few who only criticize. . . and this is expected also.

Few people about the campus realize the many complex changes which have taken place during the past few years inside the East Carolinian staff. It is astounding.

The newspaper has not improved during these years. Oh, there have been high points in the staff's misery but the "voice of the students" has not improved for any consistent period of time.

A remedy for this situation is not easy. Time is the all important element. Several programs are in progress at the present which should alleviate many of the headaches. This is a painstaking task. . . and it is mandatory that the entire school realize this.

The changes will take the rest of the year. . . at the minimum. The job of cleaning house is much more difficult than beginning from scratch. But, this job will be done. . . this, the staff now promises.

To remodel the newspaper several things are in order.

First. . . The East Carolinian will publish only one issue per week for some undetermined period of time. The single issue, now in effect, will lend the staff time to take care of the many small problems and aim at disintegrating the larger problems. But, the single issue will not continue any longer than is absolutely necessary.

Secondly, cooperation from the entire student body, their legislature, the administration and our many faithful contributors is vitally needed if this reconstruction period is to be of any value, whatsoever.

And finally, the East Carolinian request help from the students. The newspaper needs people . . . not writers but the people who who are intelligent enough to enter this institution.

If you as individual are interested in seeing the newspaper grow and at the same time helping your own progress of attempting to learn to live in the world about you, please offer your assistance.

Come to the East Carolinian office (third floor in Wright Building) at any time. Drop a postal card in the mailbox addressed to The East Carolinian, East Carolina College, Greenville, North Carolina, if you wish to help.

Or, if you know a staff member. . . ask them about the work and offer your assistance.

It's not what you can do, but what you may do with your time here at the newspaper.

The East Carolinian regrets that it must reduce its work load for a short period of time. But it offers for this one step backward. . . two steps forward.

Music, Movies Highlights Week

By BOB BROWN

Greetings dear friends. I hope this issue of the East Carolinian finds you well. Have each of you completed preregistration for this coming spring quarter; and do you get up early Friday like you want to?

Good news to all students; this coming Friday night at the armory you will be entertained by the FABULOUS FIVE dance combo. The dance starts at eight and lasts until twelve midnight. The admission is $1.50 per person which is quite reasonable.

This Friday and Saturday at old Austin we will be entertained with the movie ROME ADVENTURE. This movie is a very good humorous type of entertainment so grab yourself a date and run on up there early, get a good seat, and settle back to two hours of fine entertainment.

Tonight at eight-thirty in the college union (lobby of Wright) there will be a dance for all college students. Lets all come on over and heat the soles of our feet to some real swinging music. If you get tired of dancing you can sit down and watch some television on the color set, or play a game of cards with your friends. Please come.

From now through January 30 the Greenville Art Center is holding an open house, featuring the works of Frank L. Tolar, Jr.

Mr. Tolar holds a B. S. degree from Atlantic Christian College and M. A. degree from the East Carolina College School of Art. Mr. Tolar has also studied at the North Carolina State School of Design in Raleigh. He presently lives in Greensboro, where he is an instructor in art at A & T College.

The Frank Tolar one-man show consists of paintings, drawings, and box-assemblages.

The public is invited and reminded that all works on display are for sale.

Greenville Art Center Hours are from 9 to 5, Tuesday through Saturday.

This coming Monday the East Carolina Fine Arts Series presents the fabulous Metropolitan Opera star Miss Teresa Stratas. She will entertain you with some of the songs of the world's greatest composers. Try not to miss the performance of this talented young lady.

This Friday and Saturday at the Pitt Theater Walt Disney's EMIL AND THE DETECTIVES will be playing for your entertainment. This Movie is a detective story in which children are the detectives. The adventure of these youngsters proves quite interesting, and entertaining. Don't miss it.

At the State this Saturday you are in store for a treat as you are presented with three horror pictures for your gorish entertainment. The Blob and all his slimy glory cozes across the screen and threatens the whole world with death. As the Blob exits, enter Dinosaurs and his cave-man companion to terrorize a whole island with threats of destruction and murder. Next arrives Zsa Zsa Gabor as the Queen of Outer Space and her beautiful army of Venus goddesses. Their beauty is betrayed as they try to destroy the men of earth. Do not, I repeat, do not miss these greatest of all horror pictures.

So long for now; be good and we will see you next week.

PROFESSION: STUDENT

"YOU'RE SICK!"

Tributes To Terry

The cooperation between Dr. L. W. Jenkins and Governor Terry Sanford, has been a major factor in the obtaining of assistance, financial and otherwise, from the State and Federal Governments for East Carolina. We are grateful to Governor Sanford for his interest in our College and to many of us this is an outstanding achievement of his Administration.

FRANK M. WOOTEN, JR.

Now that we can see the Terry Sanford administration whole, we recognize that it will go down as the most creative in North Carolina history. Its role in our history will be seminal—our State will be developing over a long period of years the many ideas that Governor Sanford has thrown out in all directions during his four years in office.

In his inaugural address he promised to move North Carolina into the mainstream of American life. He has represented us to the United States, and is responsible more than any one person for the respect with which North Carolina is viewed in the rest of the country today. His other emphasis was education. And any serious thinking about public education in America today must begin with what has been done in California—and in North Carolina.

In government there are normally two parties, a party of Hope, and a party of Memory; a party of innovation and a party of consolidation. Terry Sanford belongs to the party of Hope. We in North Carolina shall always remember him for his courage and his ability; and with amazement, intellectual respect, and warm gratitude.

L. RICHARDSON PREYER

Terry Sanford's great vision of North Carolina is that we must soon emerge from our roll as the leader of the South to take our place among the leading states of the nation. His vision was shared in 1960 by North Carolina's youth and citizens of all ages who saw our state's great potential, promising but not yet fulfilled.

As Governor, Terry Sanford has pushed our state ahead with giant strides toward the fulfillment of this vision with education as the focal point of his forward march. Sanford has continued the road program of Kerr Scott, expanded the industrial program of Luther Hodges, without sacrificing one iota of the fiscal soundness of Angus McLean.

Sanford's was an administration of innovation and challenge. His New Day was the perfect companion to the New Frontier. His North Carolina fund was the prototype of Lyndon Johnson's War on Poverty. We will not soon see another who so imaginatively opens new avenues of state government. In a day when so much is left for Washington to provide, it was refreshing for us to witness the initiative assumed by a state and led by Terry Sanford.

DAVID E. REID, JR.
Immediate Past President
North Carolina YDC

History will be kind to Governor Terry Sanford, as his administration has done much to benefit the future of North Carolina. Governor Terry Sanford has exemplified throughout his administration his love and understanding of his fellow man. His Educational Programs alone will forever be a living tribute to him.

TOM GILMORE
President NC YDC

"History will record for future generations the development of North Carolina during the past four years during which Terry Sanford served as our Governor. I am confident that it will reveal an unparalleled trend of growth in physical assets. But of equal or more importance, especially to me as a member of the younger generation, it will show that during this period North Carolina and its people, led by the wisdom and foresight of Governor Sanford, has captured the respect of the nation. I like to think that Terry Sanford's tenure as President of the Young Democratic Clubs of North Carolina in 1949 assisted him in attaining the growth and maturity which he has exhibited during these years.

If I were to select a single factor of Terry Sanford's administration that impressed me most, without hesitation, I would point to his unswerving faith and confidence in the young people of North Carolina. He solicited their advice and ideas; he respected their opinions. Many of his programs were directed toward the development of our younger generation. History will certainly reveal that his efforts in this area will pay untold dividends in the future."

GEORGE W. MILLER, JR.
President-Elect
Young Democratic Clubs
of North Carolina

Governor Sanford has served as Governor with foresight and initiative and has demonstrated that he is a leader with great courage. He chose the harder route by proposing and by having enacted new programs to advance and to improve the opportunities for all the people of North Carolina. Governor Sanford's programs were essential to progress for North Carolina and in some instances required the levying of additional taxes—always in the beginning an unpopular act. The people of North Carolina will reap the benefits and fruits of Governor Sanford's administration for many years to come.

SNEED HIGH
Comm. of Dept. of Revenue

North Carolina has been most fortunate in the selection by the people of its chief executives. Terry Sanford stands out as one of the great governors of our State and will be recognized in the State's history for the progress of this State during his administration. His interest in all people has been shown and the forward move of this State under his guidance has been recognized throughout the nation. Without a doubt, his ability will continue to serve the State and nation in many, many years to come.

HERBERT C. BONNER

"TERRY 'N TOM"—As usual, genuinely concerned with youth and our future, Gov. Terry Sanford chats with Tom Mallison, a senior political science major. Tom is an example of many North Carolina young people who have worked closely with Gov. Sanford to help the state progress and to provide experience for later careers.

Tenth Social Fraternity Chapter Hopeful With Doherty President

A Canadian, Gerald Michael Doherty of Toronto, Ont., is first president (or consul) of a new organization which aspires to become the 10th national social fraternity chapter at East Carolina.

Doherty, a junior geography major, heads a slate of nine officers of Sigma Chi Alpha. The group hopes eventually to affiliate with Sigma Chi fraternity.

Officers serving with Doherty are William Atlas Parrish of Jacksonville pro consul (vice president), George Edward McAlee Jr. of Spring Hope, quaestor, house manager and treasurer, David Evan Goheen of Virginia Beach, Va., master (pledge master), Joel Herbert Franklin of Lynchburg, Va., annotator (secretary), Robert Adrian Ormand of Hickory, tribune (scholarship chairman and corresponding secretary), Alan Wayne Orcutt of Jacksonville, historian, Robert Felix Haynes of Raleigh, kustos (sergeant at arms), and James Edward Lester Jr., of Orange, Va., public relations.

Officially approved by EC's Inter-Fraternity Council (IFC) in December, the local Greek organization's purpose is to petition for a charter from Sigma Chi, national social fraternity.

To be approved for national membership, the fraternity must build its membership, gain notice for campus projects and make a good scholastic showing.

Sigma Chi Alpha has joined campus life by entering intramural sports, sponsoring a candidate in a campus queen contest and holding open rush during January.

Future plans include public service projects and the acquisition of a chapter room.

Local Sigma Chi alumni who have helped guide and advise the new group are Harry Allen of Greenville (N. C. State at Raleigh), Cliff Edwards of Greenville (UNC at Chapel Hill) and Harold Staton of Bethel (UNC at Chapel Hill).

The members of Sigma Chi Alpha are:

He will be in charge of the student work of the Episcopal Church at the college. He succeeds the Rev. Richard Ottaway who has taken up work as Episcopal Chaplain to Wake Forest-Salem Colleges and Bowman Gray School of Medicine in Winston-Salem.

"OUR TERRY & US"—Typical of the many of Gov. Sanford's visits to East Carolina, here "our governor" chats informally with the theater crew. This particular shot was made after a showing of "West Side Story" in the 1964 Summer Theater. The theater itself is a "dream-come-true" idea of Sanford and our Dr. Jenkins.

Last Saturday afternoon Lambda Chi Alpha held its annual pledge-brother football game. The brothers stopped a determined pledge team, 22-0. The spoils of the game were five kegs of beer and were consumed at a party held at the house after the game. The brothers and pledges and their dates joined in songs with the Kinsmen Quartet.

ALPHA OMICRON PI

The AOPi housemother, Mrs. F. A. Halstead, had a birthday January 6, and the sisters surprised her with a birthday party.

AOPi defeated ADPi 14-13 in overtime of a hard-fought basketball game last Thursday. The AOPi's have copped three out of three games so far in the intramural tournament.

Patty Tart represented AOPi at the White Ball. The sisters were proud of how lovely Patty looked at the dance.

THETA CHI

Now that the holidays have passed, activity at 414 W. 4th Street has settled down to the usual steady madhouse. A welcome new addition to the house is the new color television the brothers gave Mom Harris for Christmas.

Gloria White, Theta Chi's nominee for White Ball Queen, escorted by Herb Adams was crowned Queen Saturday night by last year's Queen and Theta Chi Dream Girl, Linda Daniels. The votes, a penny a piece, were obtained by collecting and selling coat hangers, a week long project undertaken by the brothers and pledges. We are glad to have helped the Crippled Children Campaign by our donation.

Tuesday night Theta Chi defeated Lambda Chi Alpha with Kent "Swish" Feddeman scoring the winning point. Bert Stephens, Pete Libertie, Lynn Phillips, Herb Adams, and "Wild" Bill Hunt compose the basketball team that is to date undefeated.

Congratulations to Mike Brown who became engaged to Brenda McCannless on Christmas Eve.

SIGMA CHI ALPHA

Sigma Chi Alpha was officially recognized last Tuesday night, December 8, by the Interfraternity Council and the Administration of East Carolina College as a local fraternity with the future purpose of petitioning Sigma Chi National Fraternity for a national charter here at ECC.

The idea of establishing Sigma Chi Alpha was proposed last Spring Quarter although the first official organizational meeting was not held until this past Fall Quarter on October 8. Since that time Sigma Chi Alpha has progressed into a working organization of twenty members.

In the next twelve to eighteen months Sigma Chi Alpha plans to perform several public services, both to the college and the community. It plans to have several social functions, both for the students at ECC and the other fraternities. It also hopes to petition Sigma Chi for a national Charter.

The current officers of Sigma Chi Alpha are: Jerry Doherty—Consul; Bill Parrish—Pro-Consul; Joel Franklin—Annotator; and Buddy McAlee—Quaestor.

PHI SIGMA PI PLANS MEETING

The Tau Chapter of Phi Sigma Pi National Honorary Mens Scholastic Fraternity opened the new year with its first meeting Wednesday night. It was held in the Alumni Building at 6:30 pm, January 13, 1965. Plans for the coming dinner meeting and Founder's Day activities were discussed. President Raymond Farnes urged all brothers to be present at this time. Winter Quarter dues were paid and refreshments were served.

Six brothers were selected for the 1965 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities giving Phi Sigma Pi the honor of being the organization of all campus groups holding the largest membership to this honor. The brothers selected are Raymond Farnes, Herb Williams, Gil Crippen, Noel Tisdale, Henry Horsh, and Louis Jones.

PI KAPPA PHI

The last weekend before the holidays, the Brothers and pledges of Beta Phi Chapter were visited by Ted Scharfenstein, the assistant executive secretary of the Fraternity. During his two day visit, Ted discussed all phases of the chapter operations with the officers and men of the local chapter and made many worthwhile comments.

During the weekend several other mentionable events occurred. Our Archon, Brother Bobby Childress and Miss Angela Costen were engaged. Christmas certainly came early for these two. In addition, Brother Larry Phifer pinned Miss Dee Dee Leonard.

Taking advantage of the spring-like weather last weekend, the sisters and pledges divided their time between cleaning up the yard around their house, and having fun - filled, if not accurately played, game of soft ball with the Kappa Phi fraternity.

Along with the fun the snow has been having some work to keep the girls occupied. Officers of the new pledge class are as follows: Ann Nichols, President; Wendy Duncan, Secretary; Honey Rans, Scholarship; Zoe Booley and John Hudson, Projects Chairman; and Kay Hall, Song Leader.

PHI TAU

The Phi Taus are busy now completing their party room before the cold weather sets in. The room will be tightly insulated and sound-proofed since it will be located in the back yard. Many memorable cold weekend nights can now be spent comfortably and with the added advantages of no complaints from neighbors.

Brothers John Aldridge and Ed Guest lavaliered Susan Davis and Becky Beard respectively.

The Phi Taus would like to thank their housemother, Mrs. Etta Gill, for the lovely fire irons and accessory fire place set that she gave them for Christmas.

Congratulations are in order for Henry Wallace and Sam Keel for making "Who's Who."

Moore For Death Penalty 'Occasionally Needed'

By WAYNE CLARK
Staff Columnist

At his first press conference as North Carolina's new governor, Dan Moore stated his opposition to abolishing capital punishment. Governor Moore cited his experience as a judge saying there were occasions when the death penalty was needed and should be imposed. Governor Moore did not give any examples of these occasions. Neither did he attempt to justify bias belief in any other ways.

Capital punishment is not an easy belief to justify, and perhaps that is why Governor Moore did not attempt it. If it is wrong for a man to take the life of another, it is just as wrong for the state to do it. Some believe that it is quite alright for the state to kill because they think of the state as an abstract entity that easily shoulders the responsibility of putting a man to death. We, the people, are the state. Therefore, when the state murders a man each of us must accept the moral responsibility for it. It is a savage, eye for an eye, type of revenge, and it will indict our society, especially our political leaders, as long as it exists. I personally object to being even remotely responsible for any man's death.

That many other people feel the same way is obvious. Juries are less and less inclined to resort to the death penalty, even when heinous crimes are involved.

Wealth and Color vs. Death?

Regardless of how much evidence exists indicating that a man is guilty of murder, or how many times he confesses, some element of doubt often exists. Many innocent men have died because twelve people and a judge thought they were guilty.

Reduction in Murder Numbers

The argument that capital punishment reduces the number of murders is ridiculous. Countries that have no capital punishment for murder often have a lower number of murders per year than do countries that have capital punishment. Psychologists claim that most murderers do not consider what their punishment will be before they commit the act.

The mental tortures that men go through waiting in jail to die make the tortures of the Inquisition look humane. The situation resembles a cat playing with a mouse before killing it. Often a date of execution is set, then the victim is granted a stay of execution a few days, or even hours, before he is scheduled to die. A new date is set and the entire ordeal begins again. Only death itself could be worse punishment than this.

Governor Moore, please reconsider.

Roanoke Rapids Gira Exhibits Artwork

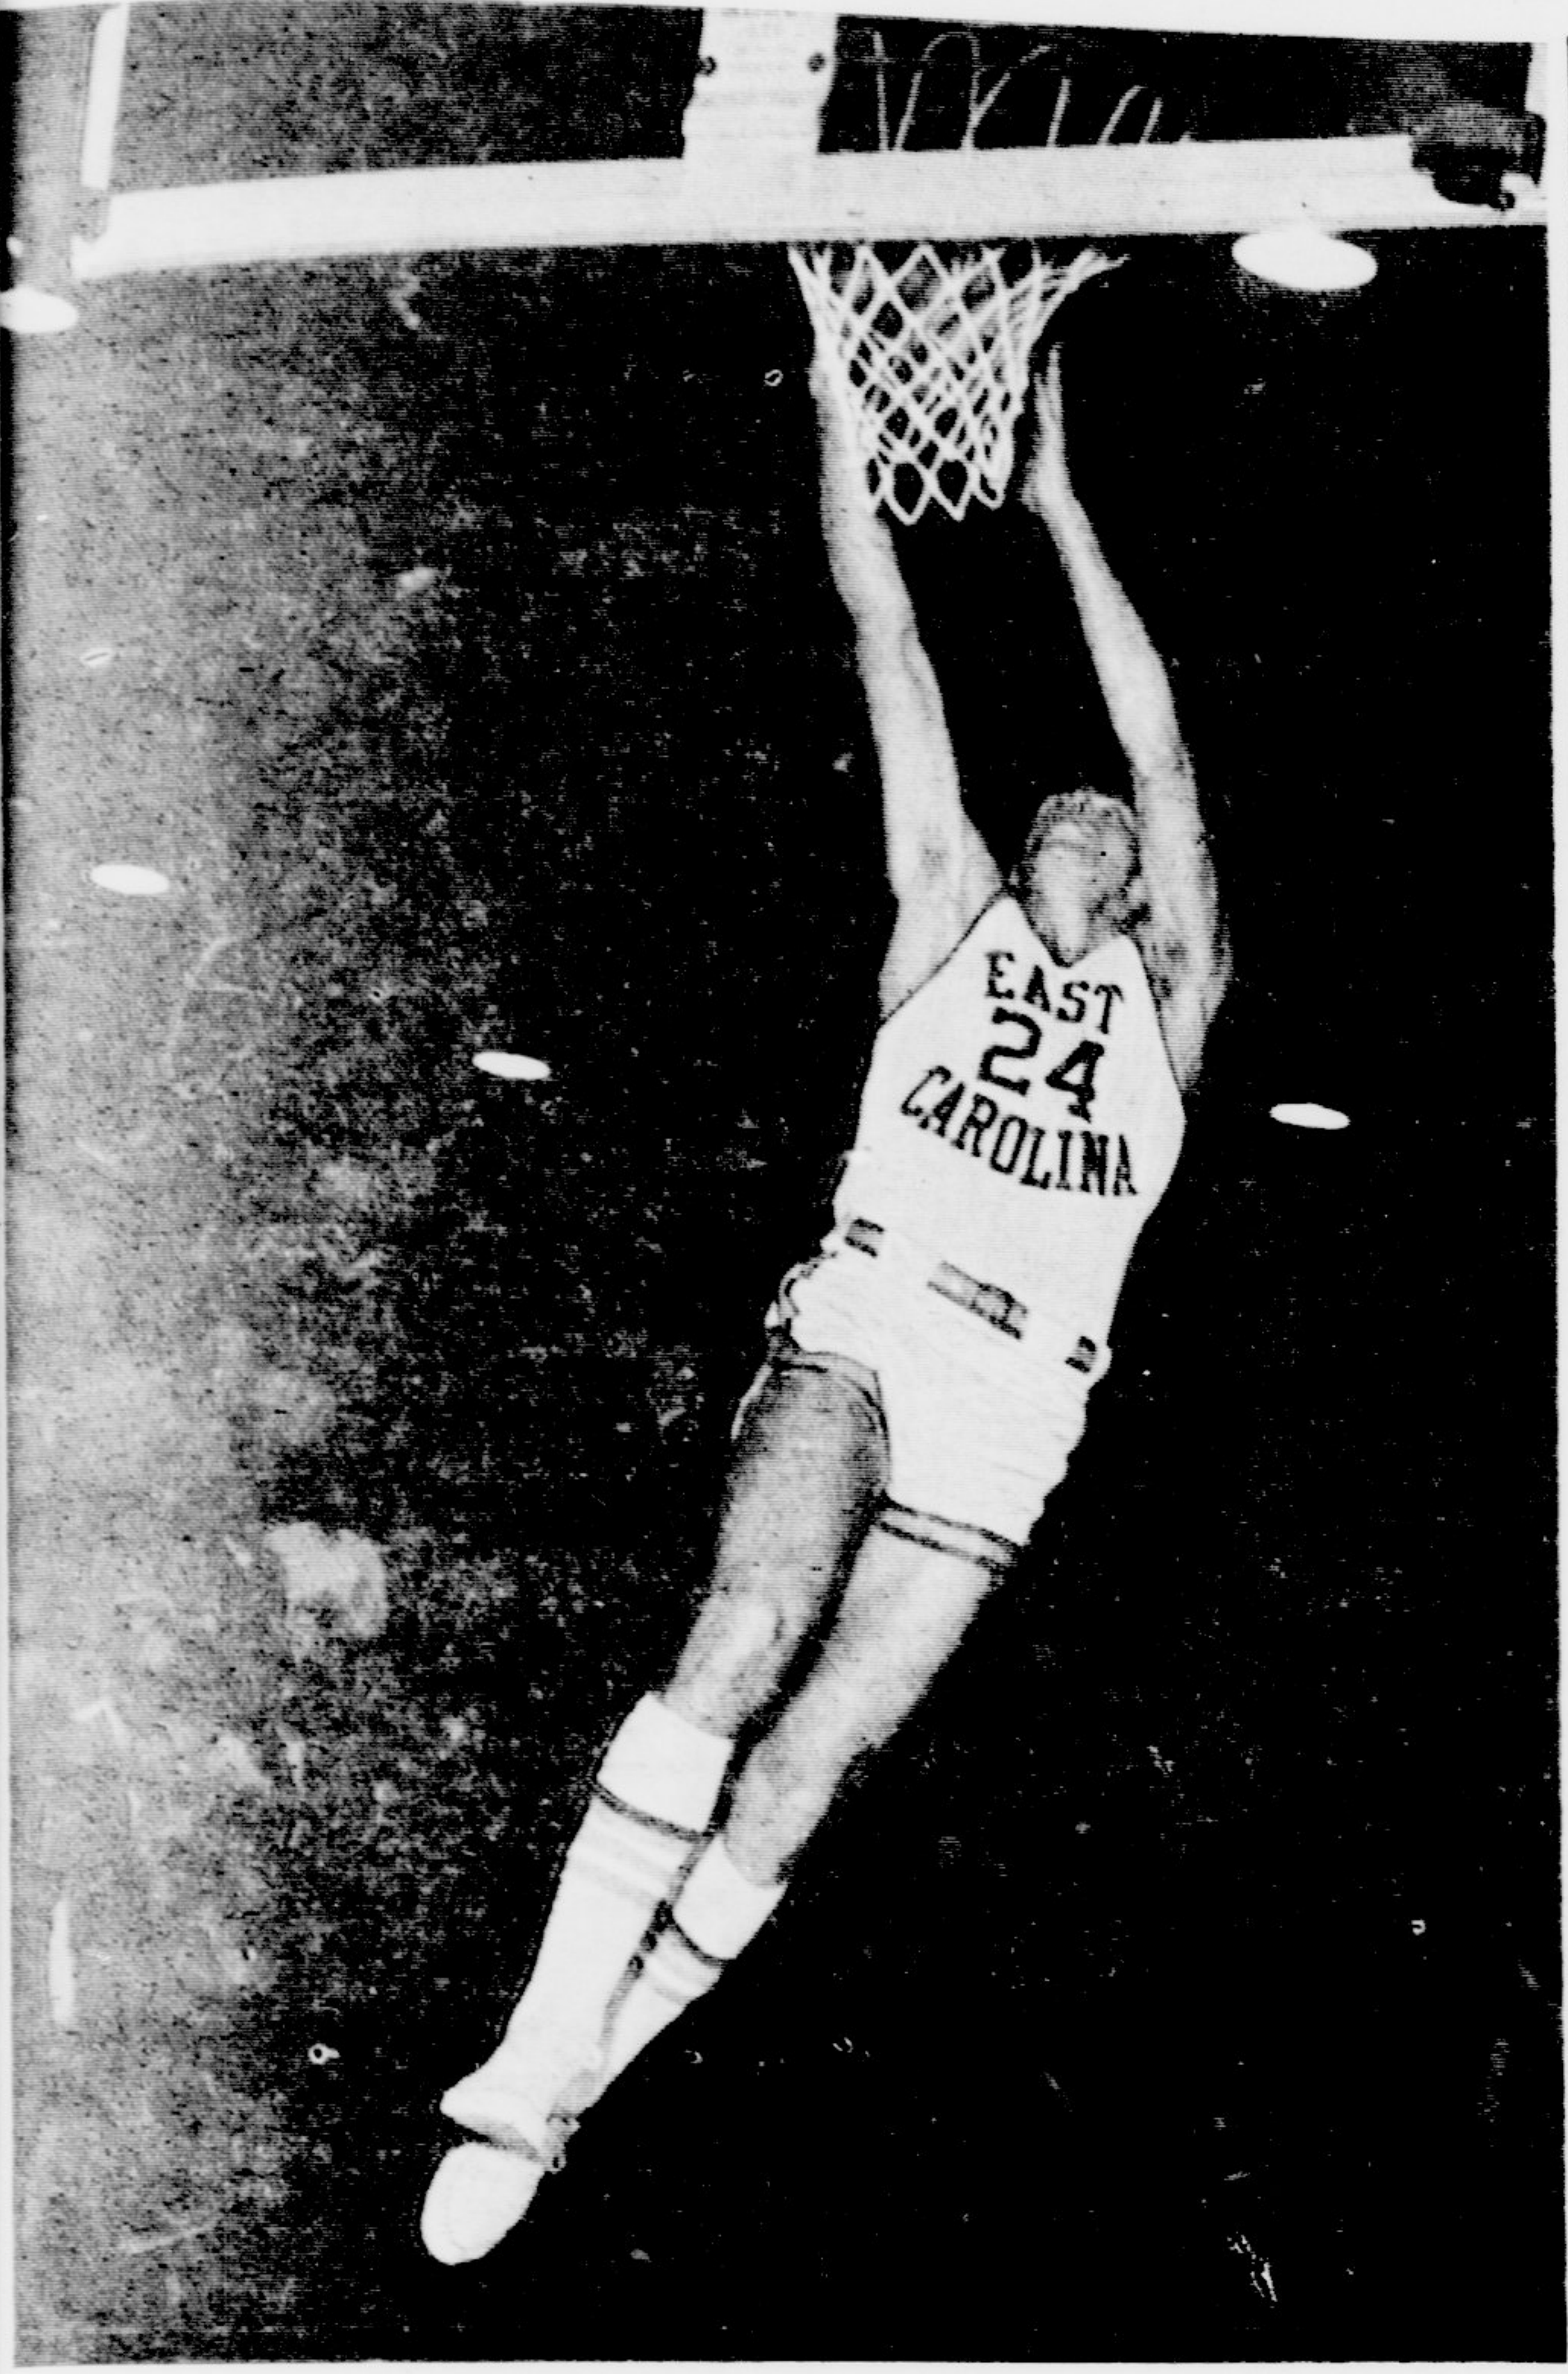

Angela Allen of Roanoke Rapids, a student teacher in the Durham County Schools this winter quarter, is exhibiting 14 works of art in the East Carolina Kate Lewis Gallery.

Miss Allen is the fifth student artist this quarter to display her work. She was selected by a faculty committee in the East Carolina School of Art.

Her show in the third-floor gallery of Rawl Building is open to the public through Saturday.

The exhibition features Miss Allen's watercolor renderings of interior designs and pen and ink furniture drawings. Her sculpture, an abstract string creation, is in blue.

At East Carolina, Miss Allen holds membership in Delta Phi Delta national honorary art fraternity, the National Society of Interior Designers and the National Art Education Association.

Jerry Woodside

This six-foot-four, 190 pounder reigns from nearby Durham. He has been chosen as the first "Athlete of the Week" for his fine contribution to the 1964-65 Pirate quintet. A forward on the basketball team, his scoring average was 23.2 points for the first ten games. Jerry is also one of the co-captains.

Pirates Score 7th Victory As Woodside Scores 22

By RANDY RYAN

East Carolina, utilizing a strong press and the scoring power of Jerry Woodside, swept to a 67-60 victory over Elon College on Saturday night. The Pirates came back from a two point deficit, 34-32, in the first half, to score 7 straight points at the start of the second half and cruised to their seventh victory of the season.

Woodside scored 22 points to lead the Pirates but the determining factor in the contest was the press which the Bucs applied in the second half to hold Elon to 26 points while scoring 35 points themselves. Jesse Branson took the game scoring honors with 26 points in his losing cause.

The Pirates jumped to an early lead when Woodside drove in for a layup and Billy Brogden hit a jump shot. The Bucs slowly pulled away in the early minutes, holding a 6 point edge most of the way, until the Christians of Elon began to fight back in the closing minutes of the half. Arthur Davis of the Christians hit a long jump shot to finally pull the Christians ahead 23-27 with about four minutes left. The lead bounced back and forth until the buzzer when Elon lead 34-32.

The Pirates took control early in the second period on Billy Brogden's jump shot, followed by a score by Grady Williamson and basket by Woodside. Williamson's basket provided a three point play and thus the Pirates had a string of seven points and a 39-34 lead which they never lost after that. The Bucs increased their bulge to as many as eleven points, 52-41 midway in the half but the Christians rallied at that point to threaten the Bucs.

Branson began a six point skunk which cut the lead to five and with five minutes left the Pirate's lead had been whittled to a thin two points, 54-52. The Pirates weren't to be outdone and Woodside was sprung twice under the basket for close shots that gave the Bucs a firm six point advantage.

From there in the Pirates played out the time, adding one point to their lead to finish as the 67-60 winner. East Carolina now has a 7-3 record for the season while Elon now stands 3-6.

The Pirates had four men in double figures, Bob Kinnard with 11, Billy Brogden with 11, and Grady Williamson with 10 points followed Woodside's 22. East Carolina hit 43.9 of their shots from the floor while Elon had a 36.8 shooting percentage.

Pirates Alley

SPORTS IN BRIEF

By RON DOWDY

Welcome to the first publications of the PIRATES ALLEY! This (exclusive) column comes to you through the courtesy of the Sports Department and will be a regular feature. The name of the column is from a nightclub on Bourbon Street in New Orleans. The intent of this column is to bring to the readers the special activities of our own sports world which are large enough to be a separate article within itself and something similar to "Sports in Brief."

Honors are still coming in for our football coach and athletic director, Clarence Stasovich. Coach Stas (which is what he will be called in this column) has again been named the "Coach - of - the - year" of the NCAA District 3, College Division. This is the fourth time in the five years the award has been presented that he has been the recipient.

On January 8th Coach Stas left Greenville for Chicago where he will represent the college division of District 3 at the annual meeting of the NCAA American Football Coaches Association.

At this meeting Coach Stas will deliver several lectures to those attending. On the 13th the NCAA (National) Coach-of-the-Year was announced. With the stunning 14-13 (upset) victory over the University of Massachusetts, our coach will be a prime target for this award! Good Luck Stas!

Coach Stas will also be lecturing at the Coach - of - the - year meetings in Washington, D.C. on Feb. 20 and 21. He will be a featured speaker along with other notable figures such as Duffy Daugherty of Michigan State, Darrell Royal of the Univ. of Texas, and former Oklahoma football coach Bud Wilkinson.

All of this traveling and more so lecturing of Coach Stas is bound to bring the name of the "Fighting Pirates" of EC and Greenville, N.C.

Coach Earl Smith was also in attendance at the American Association of Baseball Coaches which was held in Chicago, during the other meetings.

Coach Stas is still trying to schedule a 10th game for the '65 football season. He is seeking a home game whereas, we have just 4 home games. Although, with just a 4 game series in Greenville, the '65 season should be a powerful one with games against conference foes George Washington University and the Citadel as well as West Chester three victories last year from their Southern tour. The wins from Alabama, Georgia and Tulane might have had significant bearing on those teams refusal to schedule the Pirates this year.

The Pirates are coached by Dr. Ray Martiner, who starts his tenth season. Joel Shannelbrough, the senior who captured a gold medal at last year's National Swimming Championships, is returning as Assistant Coach. The third part of the coaching is filled by a senior Art major from Ft. Bragg, N. C., Captain Harry Sober.

Chuck Norwood and Bob Bennett along with Siber are returning for their last season. Norwood and Bennett are P. E. majors from Chapel Hill, N.C. and Palerno, N.J. respectively. Norwood presently holds EC's backstroke record and hopes to reduce it again this year. Bennett is a butterfly specialist and plans a success with the aide of Richard Dogle, a junior from York, Pa.

Sophomore Nike Hamilton and junior Larry Hewes, from Fairfax, Va. are expected to help Sober considerably in the freestyle events. Paul Donahue, the junior from Wilmington Del. shall continue the strong diving to which EC is accustomed.

State and the old rival, Lenoir-Rhyne.

Special congratulations are in order for the '64 - 65 Pirates Quintet who are presently sporting a 7-3 record. The spirited Pirates play an exciting and thrilling type of basketball with nothing short of an entire team effort in every game. Led by the preciseness of the Ivy League style point getters, Jerry Woodside and the poise and professionalism of Bill Brogden, the Pirates should show another winning season.

"It's not whether you win or lose, but merely how you play the game." Completely team centered, with the desire and determination of being a winner the only prerequisites are good sports, manhood and good productivity. This constitutes an "Athlete of the Week". Another innovation added for the reader's benefit as well as the athletes themselves.

As host of the George Washington University football team next fall we should meet them in the new D. C. Stadium when we play in '66. That stadium holds about 50,000 persons. . . how many will we have there?

EC Co-eds Show New Fashions They Include Stockings, Boots

By NELLIE LEE

Hey co-eds! What happened to your dirty sneakers and white bobby socks? EC gals are showing up as fashion-conscious trend-setters from the classroom to the Rathskeller.

Word has it that there is quite a noticeable change in the leg and footwear of EC co-eds. Just take a glance at the new fashion trend of textured stockings and high boots that is gradually infiltrating our campus.

Fish Net On Legs?

Perhaps the biggest eye-catcher is the diamond fishnet patterned stockings that every stylish female is sporting these days. Varying shades of gray, black, brown, blue, and occasionally purple, focus attention on the legs and feet of the co-ed. Of course, if one really wants to be a unique individual, she may wear stockings of black lace or textured stockings with designs of ovals, squares, clubs, and occasionally spades. For the girl who has an insight for romantic appeal, she might even try stockings with little heart-shaped designs.

Knee socks and above the knee socks are appearing on EC co-eds in a variety of alluring and striking shapes and designs. Horizontal and vertically lined socks, as well as flashy Scotch plaid socks are being displayed by many of our college co-eds. The more daring co-ed who wants to be seen rather than heard, may find red and purple polka dot over-the-knee socks just what her admiring public calls for.

Books Galore

Boots are climbing to an all time high on the co-eds fashion list this year. Some of these eye appealing boots, which are presently being worn by many college girls, are said to have "cuffs that may be rolled up or down according to the lady's hems or whims." Our campus is an excellent witness of these new styles of boots, which vary from smooth glove leather to crocodile and alligator. These boots are also available in a variety of styles and colors.

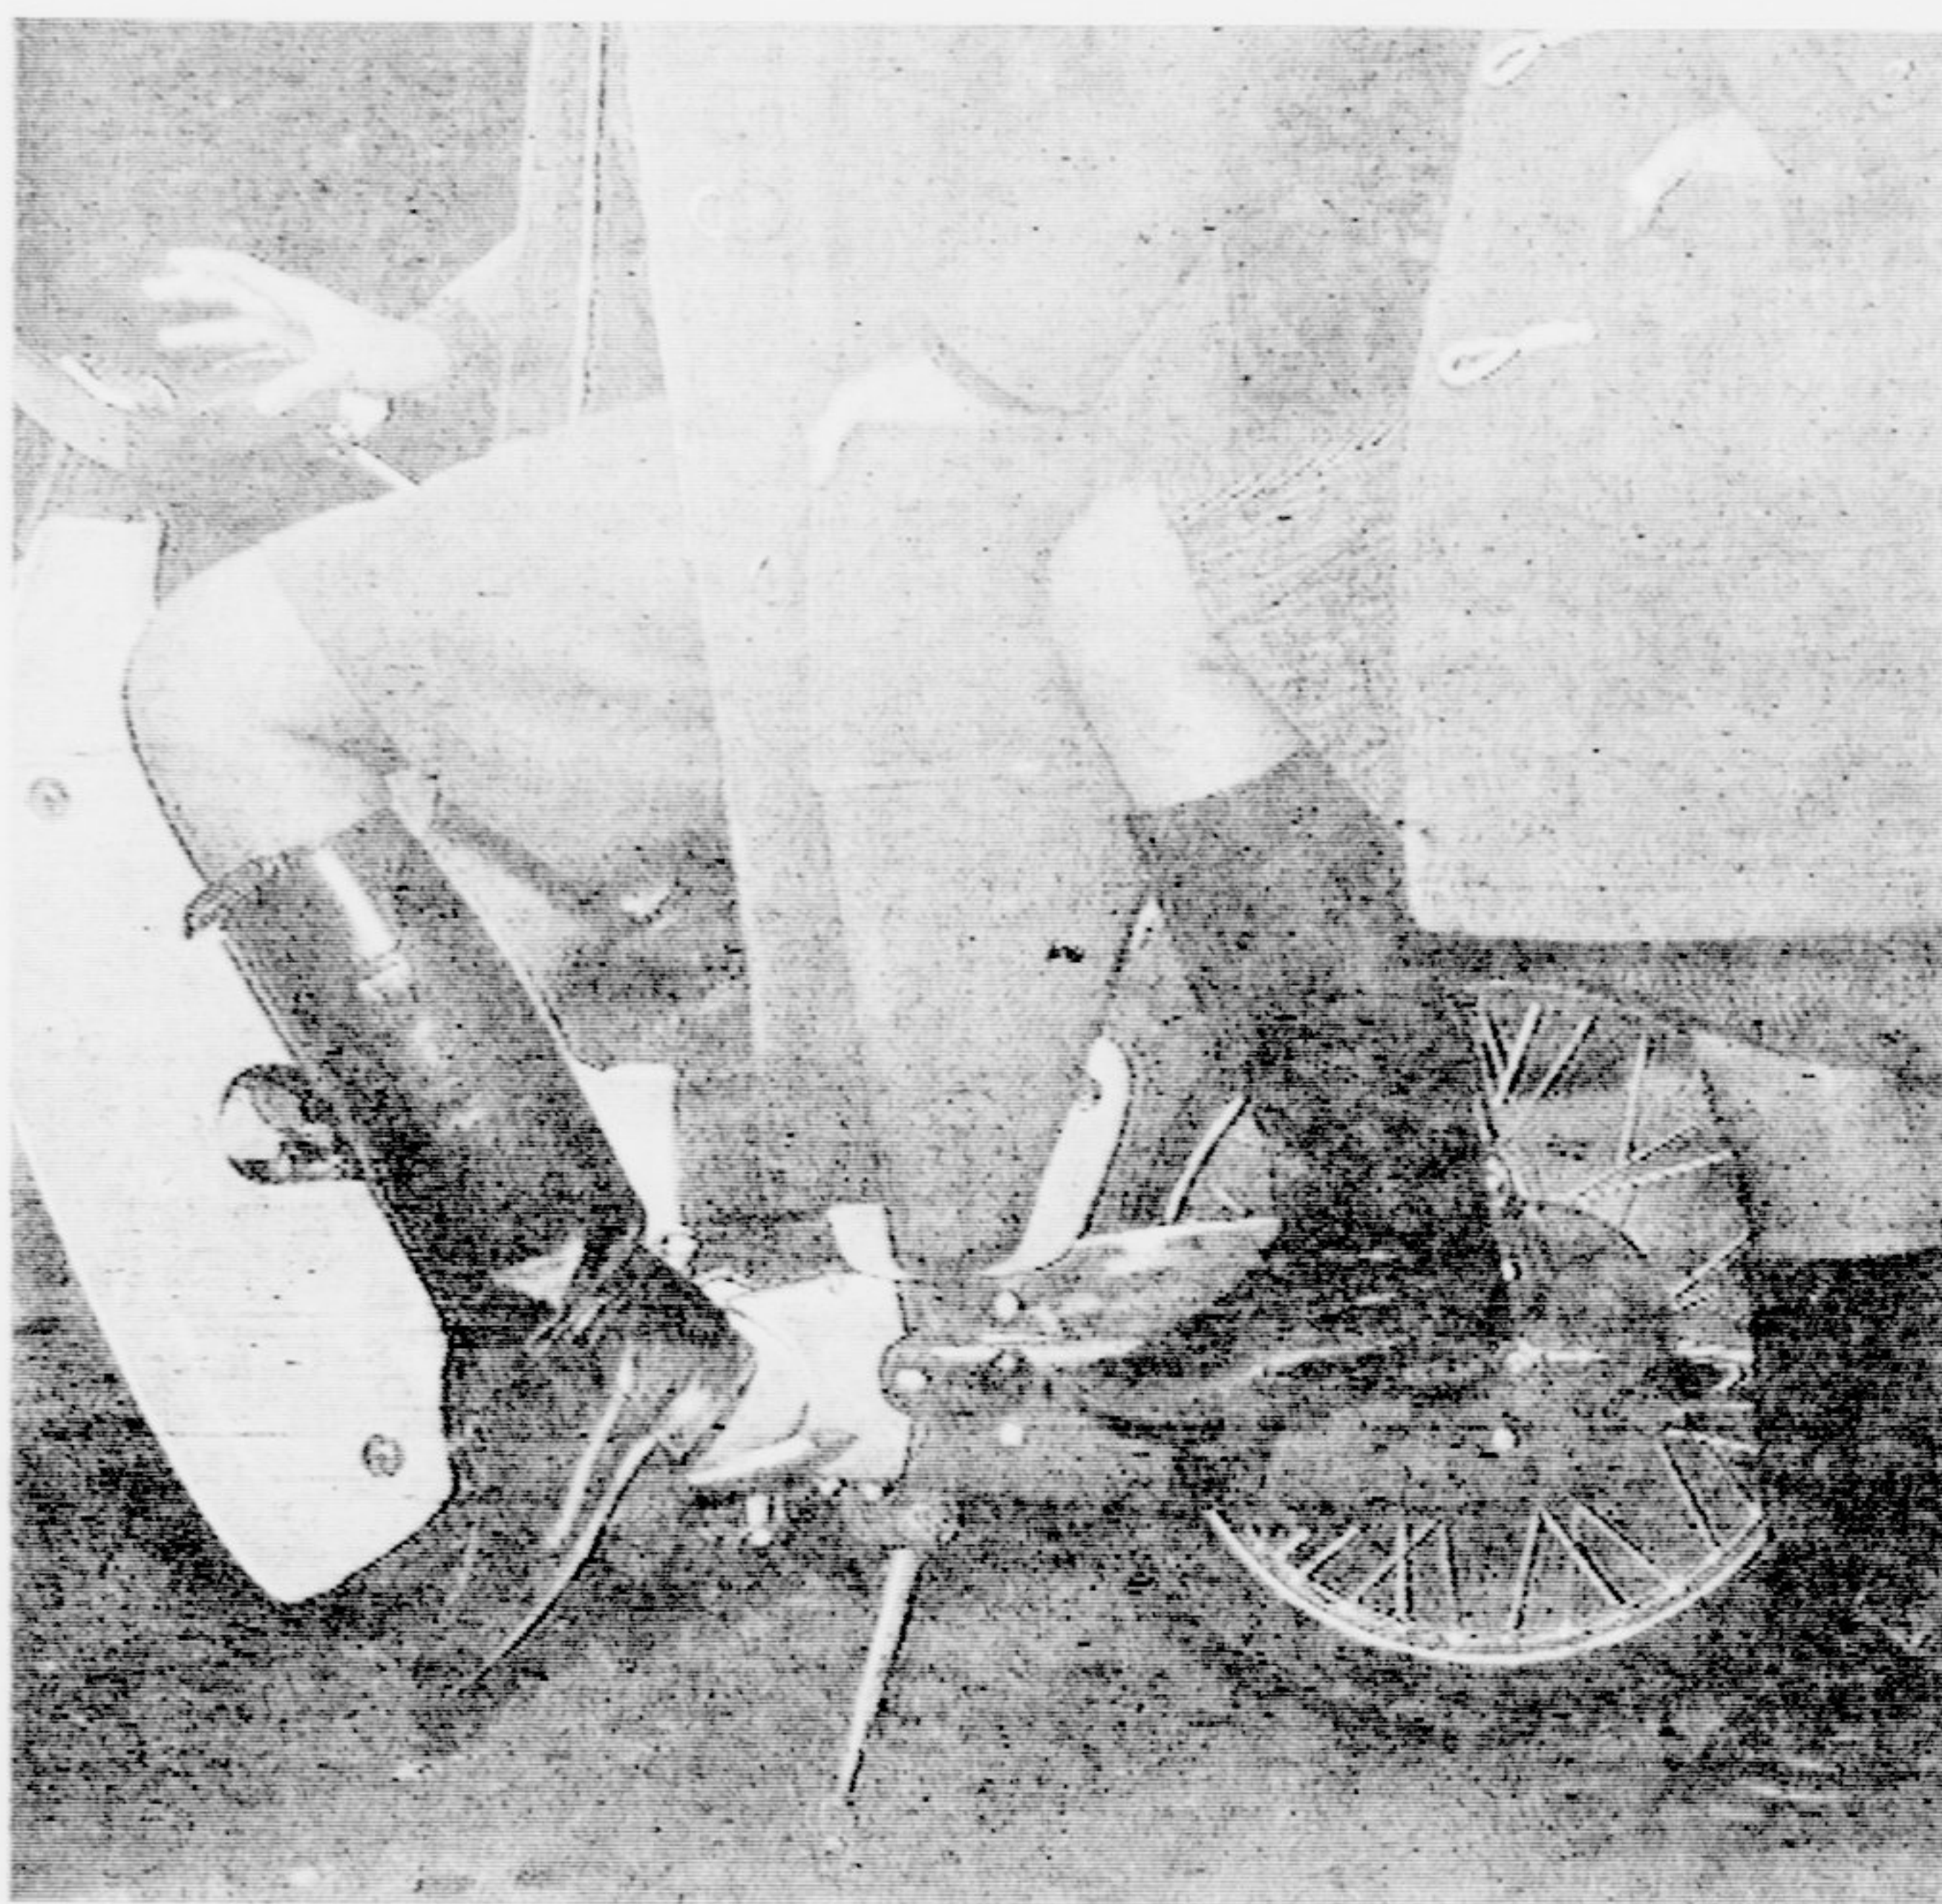

Textured stockings, socks, or boots in any size or shape are completely different from any fashion trend that has hit the college campus in many years. Whether this is a result from the swinging discotheque idea that started not too long ago in France, or just an attempt of the American female on sex, remains to be seen. On the other hand, maybe the college co-ed is trying to regain the 99% of her femininity that she loses when she lights her own cigarette. Any other suggestions, anyone?

Cigarette Lighting

What is the general attitude of the typical EC student toward these newest innovations? The girls are in general agreement that they like them.

"They're really different from anything in the past, and I go for them in a big way," offered one co-ed. "I feel comfortable in the textured stockings—not to mention how warm they are on cold days," commented another. Still another girl said she liked these newest innovations because "I think they're the most distinctive and sexiest things that have ever happened to women's fashions."

"OUR MEN"

STRAIGHT FROM PARIS AND NY—Again trend setters for fashion, our EC coeds have the "Vogue" and Harper's Bazaar" looks. Not only an unusual look, but even better they serve a purpose for boots are extremely practical at EC. Rain, mud, dew, dust, soot, snow, hail,—you name it, it's here. However, die-hards who prefer to keep the contemporary woman inferior to prove their own questioned superiority, commonly sneer—"Male Complex."

Contributions Of Loessin Aid 1st Issue Of Red Clay Reader

Edgar R. Loessin, director of the drama and speech department of East Carolina, is among contributors to the premiere issue of the Red Clay Reader, a journal of contemporary Southern writing.

Loessin, also director of the EC Summer Theater, teamed with Jim Lineberger, playwright - in - residence at the Tyrone Guthrie Theater in Minneapolis, Minn., in a two-part review of a new one-page play by Lawrence Ferlinghetti.

The play, "The Jig Is Up," has only 253 words in seven short paragraphs. It has no specific characters.

In his 900-word review, Loessin predicts: Writers will not like it; but he adds that it may represent "a beginning step into what might be a realm of theater that involves group creativity on the part of author . . . and actor in a new way" by shifting the prime creative function from author to actor.

He concludes: "To look at the work as a complete . . . piece of writing seems impossible, for it is not alive on the printed page in the sense that a conventional play is. "It is only partly finished or barely begun in its present form. The actors must develop it and finish it. In short, they must do a great deal of work that is normally done by the author."

Loessin's review, "Exit the Playwright," appears on pages 43-45 of the Reader's first issue, a hard-back volume of 93 pages released late in 1964.

Copies of the Red Clay Reader are available at $3 each from its editorial offices, 2221 Westminster Place, Charlotte, N.C. Now in its second printing, the first issue was published by the Southern Review, a non-profit corporation formed to support Southern writing, and edited by Charleen Whisnant.

NOTICE

There will be a College Ring Sale conducted in Wednesday, January 20, beginning at 9 a.m. All students having 96 hours are eligible to buy a ring.

The boys, however, are not overly enthusiastic about the geometric prints in stockings. The boots, surprisingly enough, do seem to be in approval by most of our males.

One boy complained about textured stockings when he remarked "I think they're awful! Why do girls wear those things anyway? Seems to me they ought to let their true assets show." A few boys expressed grudging approval by saying they thought the boots and stockings were all right "in the proper place."

Perhaps one of the most amusing or descriptive comments regarding stockings was given by one boy when he commented "First time I saw a girl in those things, I thought she was wearing a pair of snake-skins."

Drawing Course For Extension

For the first time next term the Cherry Point Center of East Carolina will offer engineering drawing, a course in basic draftsmanship.

The course, cataloged as Industrial Arts 11, will be taught in the drawing room of Havelock High School.

It will meet Monday nights from 6:30 to 9:30, beginning Feb. 1 and continuing for 10 weeks through April 5.

In announcing scheduling of the course, officials pointed out that enrollment must be limited to 24 students and, thus, that interested persons should make reservations as soon as possible.

Sgt. Harold Chartley in the Station Education Office at Cherry Point (Phone: 3130) has begun to take reservations. Formal registration for the drawing course will be conducted on the regular dates for the upcoming third term at the center, Jan. 22, 23, 25, and 26.

A member of EC's regular industrial arts faculty, Clarence M. Kelley, will teach the course, tuition is $27. About $22 more will be required for supplies.

Williams Reviews New Book On Intermarriage

Dr. Melvin J. Williams, director of the sociology department at East Carolina, has reviewed a new book on intermarriage for a current issue of Social Forces, a sociological periodical published by the University of North Carolina Press.

Dr. Williams' review in the December issue cites the book — Dr. Albert I. Gordon's "Intermarriage: Interfaith, Interracial, Interethnic" — as an important new source of information on the subject.

He also says Dr. Gordon is convincing in underscoring the importance of values in marriages and asserts that the book "should certainly influence the actions of those contemplating intermarriage."

Dr. Williams agrees with Dr. Gordon's statements that "... intermarriage is definitely inadvisable" and "... constitutes a threat to society."

The reviewer joined the EC faculty in September, 1963, as the first director of the sociology department. He holds AB, BD and PhD degrees from Duke University.

Delegation Goes To Chapel Hill

Dr. Douglas R. Jones, dean of the School of Education at East Carolina and president - elect of the North Carolina Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, will head an EC delegation to an ASCD meeting in Chapel Hill Tuesday.

Joining Dr. Jones for the conference will be two faculty members from the School of Education, Dr. Helen Ingram and Dr. Ruth Modlin.

The feature attraction on the program will be an address on the pros and cons of recent instructional developments by Dr. Harold D. Drummond, president of the national ASCD and chairman of the elementary education department of the University of New Mexico.

GEOMETRIC LEGS?—Seen some before the Christmas holidays, textured stocks are now in full-bloom 'round our camp. For fear, you have "nothing to fear but fear itself" for next year, bloomers may be here. So enjoy the leg watching while it lasts.

2nd Fine Arts Series Presents Teresa Stratas On Monday Night

The rescheduled Eastern North Carolina concert by Metropolitan Opera soprano Teresa Stratas will be presented at East Carolina next Monday night.

The second attraction in the 1964-65 Fine Arts Series sponsored by the Student Government Association at EC, Miss Stratas' concert will begin at 8:15 p.m. in McGinnis Auditorium.

The popular singer will present an eight-part program divided by an intermission. Artists represented in the works she will sing are Brahms, Chausson, Palla, Menotti, Mozart, Obradors, Puccini, Scarlatti, Schubert, Verdi and Vivaldi.

Her scheduled piano accompanist is Arpad Sandor.

Monday's performance was originally scheduled last Nov. 3 but illness forced Miss Stratas to postpone the concert.

Tickets issued for the original date will be honored for Monday's performance. In addition, about 75 tickets at $3 each remain.

England, Buckley Appear In Music Recital At EC

Carolyn Rebecca England of Rural Hall, pianist, and John Buckley Olsen of Kinston, a horn specialist, were presented in a senior recital by the School of Music at East Carolina Monday evening.

Their recital was scheduled at 8:15 p.m. in Austin Auditorium and the public was invited to attend without charge.

Julia Gladwyn Osteen, a sophomore from Asheboro, was piano accompanist.

Miss England opened the program with Bach's "French Suite in E Flat Major." Other selections for the pianist, a student of associate professor Charles Stevens, included Beethoven's "Sonata in F major," Brahms' "Intermezzo in B Flat Minor" and Debuss's "Prelude to the Suite Bergamasque in F major."

Olsen, a student of associate professor James H. Parnell, played Mozart's "Rondo from Horn Quintet in E Flat Major," Mendelssohn's "Andante from Symphony No. 5," Busser's "Concert Piece in D" and Dukas' "Villanelle."

Miss England is serving as president of the college's chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota, professional music fraternity for women students, and publicity chairman of the Choir. Olsen plays with the band and Orchestra.
