"GOOD SHOW"—Ferrante and Teicher, the movie "theme team," entertain EC students with piano innovations and a generous sample of their humorous personality.

Theme Team Expresses Wit, Opinions, And Reactions

By NANCY MARTIN
Staff Writer

The much awaited for team of Ferrante and Teicher made their scheduled appearance at the Memorial Gymnasium Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. and presented the usual pleasurable evening with their twin pianos.

Previously, several members of the EAST CAROLINIAN staff were the guests of Arthur Ferrante and Louis Teicher for an exclusive interview with the two.

The outstanding feature noticed about the two was their easy going, yet witty manner.

With the accompaniment of two campus radio announcers, and several fellow staff members, I received the following interview:

Interviewer: How many miles do you travel in concert in a year and where you going after you leave Greenville?

Mr. Teicher: We travel 25,000 to 50,000 miles a year usually by airplane. Our pianos go by truck. Tomorrow night we will be in Spartanburg, South Carolina.

Interviewer: I realize you are called the theme team, but which type of music do you prefer to record?

Mr. Ferrante: We got that title by accident a happy accident for us. The themes from "The Apartment," "Exodus," and "West Side Story" are our favorites. We limit our recordings to popular music.

Interviewer: Would you rather perform in front of a live audience or on television?

Mr. Ferrante: On television it is just a five minute shot, you are on and you are off. But a live audience is more personal. You get to know them, and they get to know you.

Interviewer: How many gold records do you have?

Mr. Ferrante: We have three singles and six L.P. nine in all. We have sold over 14 million records for all singles and L. P.'s over the past five years.

Interviewer: What record did you enjoy making the most?

Mr. Teicher: We enjoy making any record. It is fun doing it.

Interviewer: About how many practice hours do you put in during a day?

Mr. Ferrante: We put in six to ten hours in a normal day, but when we are on the road we can only practice about two hours during the day.

Interviewer: On recent tours, where was your favorite audience?

Mr. Teicher: We have been on tour since October, but the second half of the tour just began. An audience is an audience. It doesn't matter whether it is in Lincoln Center or right here on your own campus.

Interviewer: In addition to playing the Piano, do you play any other musical instrument?

Mr. Ferrante: I play the cello, but I had rather not talk about that!

Interviewer: Do you have any other special hobbies besides playing the Piano?

Mr. Ferrante: I enjoy boating. I have a boat moored at Long Island Sound and I usually go there in the summer.

Interviewer: How do you like East Carolina College?

Mr. Teicher: Very much! I think you had better get some grass out there though, so I won't get mud all over my shoes!

Interviewer: Has anything unusual happened during your concerts?

Mr. Ferrante: Sure they have. But we don't like to talk about those things. Not for a college newspaper.

Interviewer: How did you two get together as a team?

Mr. Ferrante: We were put together at the age of six by our music teacher in the Julliard School of Music and, since then we have been playing together.

It was fortunate indeed for us that these two celebrated piano players stayed together and we hope that they will continue doing as wonderful job as they have in the past.

EC Moves Forward In Scholarship, Growth Enlarges Departments

East Carolina is moving forward at an accelerated rate of speed. Take a look around campus—our growth is obvious. New buildings and additions to old ones are rapidly changing the face of our campus. You see the physical advancements of EC clearly, but do you know exactly what has happened in other areas of our progressive program.

During the past four years East Carolina has been accredited for a new ten year period by both the Southern Association of Colleges and the National Council on the Accreditation of Teacher Education. East Carolina is also accredited by eight other regional and national associations.

The academic program here at EC has grown in breadth and depth. The Schools of Art, Business, Music, and Education have grown from departmental beginnings and a four year school of Nursing has started. The Division of Science now includes departments of biology, chemistry, physics, and science education. The department of Social Studies was abolished to allow a clearer definition of social disciplines in the newly created departments of history, political science, and sociology. A department of Philosophy was also established.

New degree programs were inaugurated in several fields making possible the granting of several new degrees. Included are the Master of Arts, Bachelor of Science in Nursing, Bachelor of Fine Arts, and Bachelor of Science in Medical Technology.

Admission standards to East Carolina are on the rise. Today's entrant must score 800 or above on the College Entrance Examination Board Scholastic Aptitude Test. The minimum grade of 900 is required of out-of-state students. Graduate students today must present a better than-average transcript of all work beyond high school including a Bachelor's degree from an accredited College.

Students admitted find they must also exert greater effort to remain at EC. There is now an English proficiency examination for all students. Standards of minimum achievements have been established in most other departments, also. There has been a perceptible upward movement in the amount and quality of work required of all students at every level.

Concurrent expansion and improvement of our faculty has been a prime contributing factor in the growth of the academic program here. Because of funds voted by the N.C. Legislature, we have been able to hold many of our better professors and recruit competent persons for replacements and for new positions.

Imaginative programs and instructional plans have been recent subjects of experimentation. The development of closed circuit T.V. has continued. Inter-disciplinary courses, independent study programs, language laboratory work, and the use of other types of machine teaching have proved to be of value.

With more selective admission standards and higher academic requirements, EC has a greater number of students who must be provided with a more demanding academic goal so necessary to the gifted students.

During the past four years the School of Art and the School of Music were created. Both received the highest accreditation in their respective fields.

Theater productions, concerts, lectures, and art exhibits are sponsored by the Art School, Music School, or the Department of Drama and Speech. These offerings serve to promote a richer cultural experience for E.C.'s students and this area of our state.

The Student Government Association presents a lecture series which during the past has featured such speakers as Drew Pearson and Dr. Arthur Schlesinger.

The North Carolina Poetry Circuit visits Greenville on its rounds at the invitation of the college. Lectures and informative programs featuring some of the world's most prominent scholars and prominent public speakers are presented through such varied associations as the Danforth Foundation and the British Embassy.

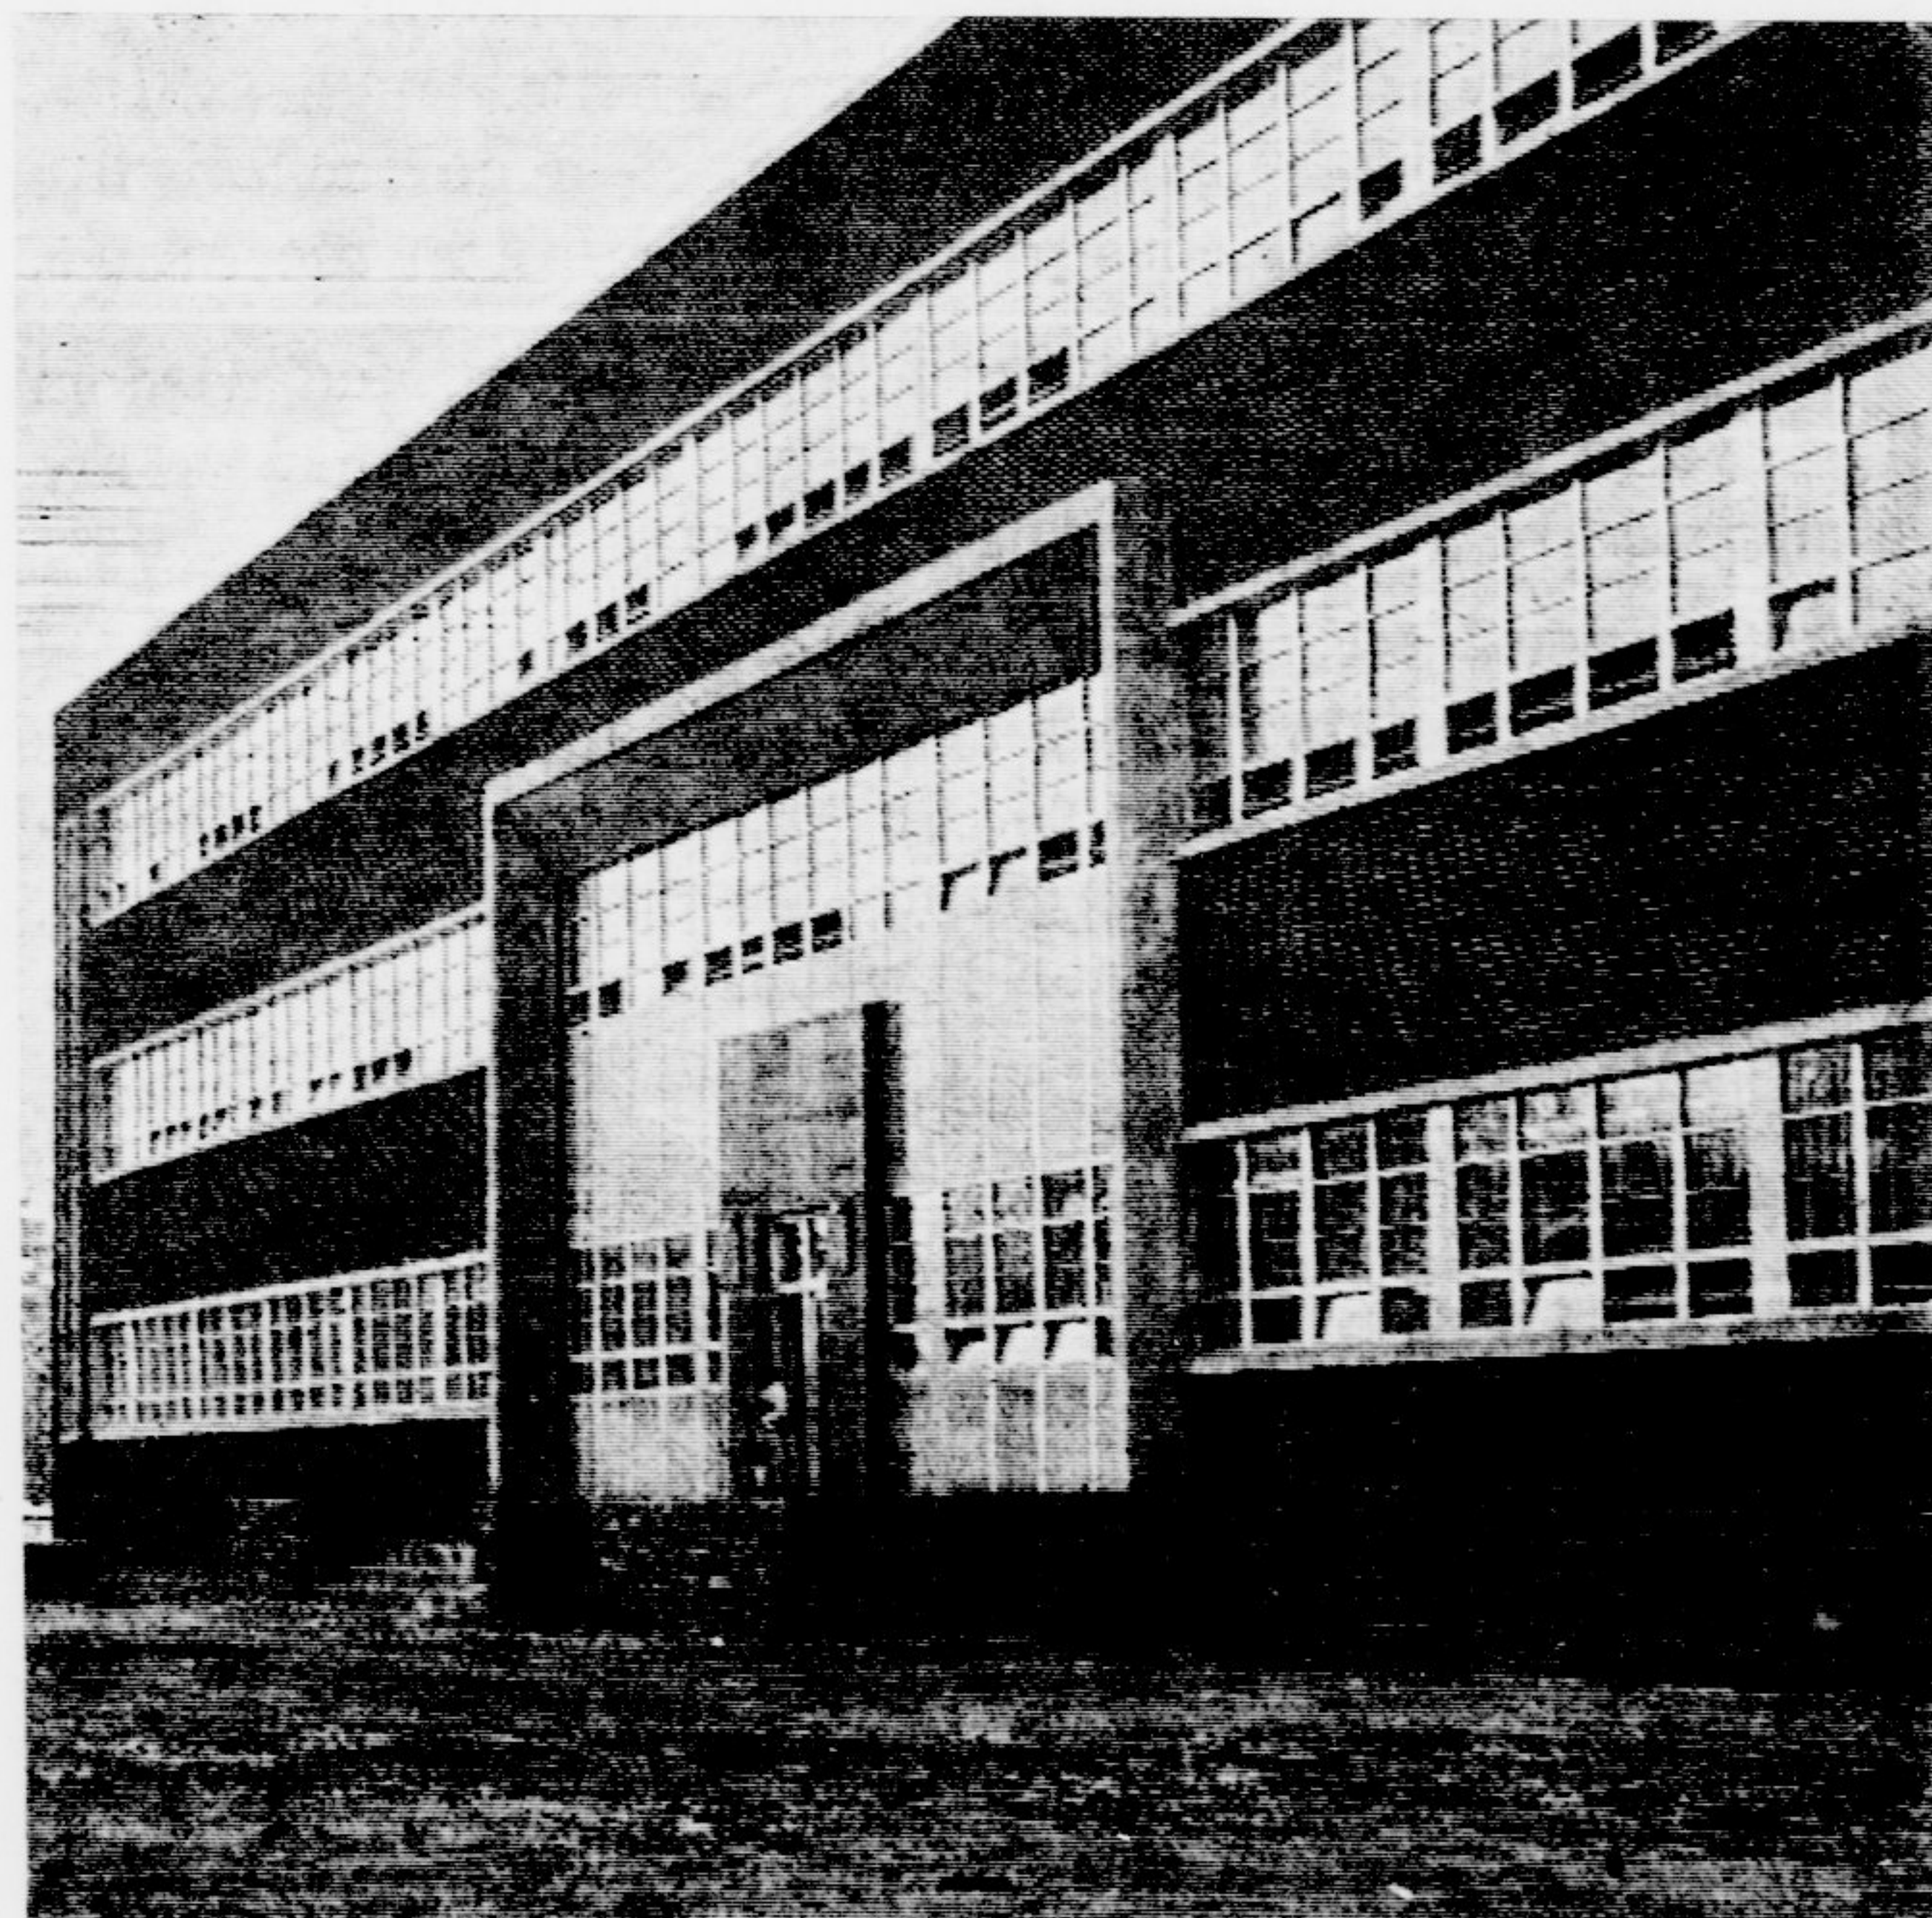

The East Carolina Summer Theater, no more than an idea a year ago, drew audiences of almost 24,000 for week long runs of six Broadway musicals last summer.

Another first during the past year was the approval by the Board of Higher Education to establish an Institute for Research in Regional Development located at East Carolina. Its purpose is to collect, correlate, and analyze data concerning this section of the state.

A Computer Center has been operating at full capacity since its beginning in the fall of 1963. The installation includes a card reading IBM 1620 Computer with a core memory capacity of 2,000,000 digits.

In the Student Affairs program, the chief characteristic is the extent to which students have been encouraged to govern themselves. Through the Student Government an amount in excess of $150,000 is spent for student welfare and entertainment for publishing a newspaper, a yearbook, a prize-winning quarterly literary magazine, and a manual for students.

Athletics at EC have developed in wholesome balance with the rest of the college program. We have been admitted to the National Collegiate Athletic Association and have also become affiliated with the academically and athletically strong Southern Conference.

EXPANSION—New Austin was completed toward the end of last December. This is a part of the progressive building program in effect here at East Carolina.

HAPPY VALENTINE'S DAY

Beachitis . . .

It's about that time again. The test grades pile up, the tension becomes intolerable and the facial expressions are a bit more severe than usual. It's a week before examinations.

Reflecting upon past scholars troubles, the EAST CAROLINIAN dug into its files and produced an editorial written by Jonnie Simpson on February 2, 1956.

TOO MUCH WORK AND NOT ENOUGH HOURS IN THE DAY?

"Studies serve for delight, for ornament, and for ability," said Sir Francis Bacon.

It is being said among students that the professors are giving too much work and that there are not enough hours in the day left for extra-curricula activities and socializing.

Why did you come to college, student? Is it not accepted if not a fact that one come for an education? Or am I being facetious to accept the assumption that an education is still the primary incentive causing individuals to enroll in this institution of higher learning?

Are we crafty, simple, or wise? "Crafty men condemn studies, simple men admire them, and wise men use them," according to Bacon.

If we be wise, let's evaluate the house we live in. No one knows any man save God like he knows himself. Others merely see the exterior, our front porch. We ourselves only know what our inside furnishings are.

Did you come to East Carolina to dodge the army, to get married, to live it up, or to please mama and daddy? Whatever your drive may be, is the incentive East Carolina College?

Philosophies and ideals change like the seasons. Perhaps somewhere in this revolution of today that our world is in we have lost the fundamental principle upon which East Carolina was founded.

The four years a student spends in college are short compared to the average individual's life span of 65 years. Life is a gift from God to every man. How greedy and selfish we are grasping this gift—always receiving but never giving in return.

We cannot demand, nor expect not to work. Someone once said that anything worth having is worth working for. To directly benefit from our courses of studies we must participate with diligent enthusiasm.

"To spend too much time in studies is sloth; to use them too much for ornament, is affectation; to make judgment wholly by their rules, is the humor of a scholar."

This is true, and like Bacon we are not advocating that college should be nothing but books. Moderation is the ideal to strive for in every aspect of college life. For it is an experience not only to learn, but to play a little, laugh a little, live a little, and love a little. Every aspect of our college life can be a learning experience preparing for life in the future.

The time we spend studying brings wisdom, and wisdom is the reward of the fortunate. It is but a brief time we are here and we are not likely to pass this way again.

But, will we accept the challenge of education which is before us? By receiving it, we are taking another one of the gifts life so graciously gives us. But this is one act of receiving that is the beginning of giving. To our town, our state, our country, and to our world we can give ourselves an educated citizen who will strive on to fulfill future goals.

We have decided to continue our paper as we did last quarter, two issues per week. Our new staff is slowly improving and we decided to see if they were capable of putting out the large amount of work required for each paper. We hope that the Tuesday paper pleases you; if it doesn't please write us a letter expressing your opinion.

I have been asked to inform all history majors that there will be a departmental meeting February the eleventh. Please check the official bulletin boards for time and place. This meeting is required of all history majors.

Who 'rects?

A recent visitor to the School of Music at East Carolina wanted to know who's in charge of the wrecking crew there.

Those he asked were puzzled. Until he explained.

He had overheard a conversation between another visitor and Chris Knight, three and a half year old son of George W. Knight Jr.

The youngster had chirped:

"My daddy 'rects one and Mister Serrins 'rects those others."

The elder Knight is director of the Marching Pirates, crack EC field band; and David Serrins is conductor of the EC Symphony Orchestra.

Young Chris has other ways of showing interest in his dad's profession. Occasionally in Marching Pirates practice sessions the bandsmen have trouble keeping their minds on music when they spot Chris nearby joining dad in his directoral gyrations.

And there's at least one other budding young musician with EC School of Music connections. Martha Nan Mailman, 2 and a half year old daughter of EC Composer-in-Residence Martin Mailman, always conducts from her seat when mom and dad let her attend a concert.

Let's Dance

By BOB BROWN

This Friday and Saturday at the free movie you will be entertained with "PARIS WHEN IT SIZZLES." This movie should be good so be sure to see it.

This Saturday night in Wright Auditorium there will be a Valentine party-combo dance. The dance will start at 8:30, and last until 11:30. Music will be furnished by the EGOIDS from Durham. Be sure to attend this appropriate dance and you will be guaranteed of a good time. By the way, this is a dance so when you get there haul it out on the dance floor and shake a leg. Most of the students on this campus attend dances merely to stand and shoot the bull. Well, the bull is dead so come on, grrl. (or boy) and get that excess energy out during the week.

For the benefit of those that may visit Raleigh end there is a dance at Thorntons dance hall. This dance is furnished by ulous Continentals from Rapids, N.C. This is a good and if you get a sure to go.

Adios mis amigos we see next week.

On Campus

(By the author of "Rally Round the Flag, Boys" "Dobie Gillis," etc.)

THE BEARD OF AVON

Topic for today is that perennial favorite of English that ever-popular crowd pleaser, that good sport and American—William Shakespeare (or "The Swedish Nightgale" as he is better known as).

First let us examine the persistent theory that Shakespeare "The Pearl of the Pacific" as he is jocularly called) is not a real author of his plays. Advocates of this theory insist that he are so full of classical allusions and learned references that he couldn't possibly have been written by the son of an illiterate country butcher.

To which I reply "Faugh!" Was not the great Spinoza's father a humble woodcutter? Was not the immortal Isaac Newton's father a simple second baseman? (The elder Newton, incidentally, is one of history's truly pathetic figures. He was, by all counts, the greatest second baseman of his time, but alas, alas, had not yet been invented. It used to break young Newton's heart to see his father get up every morning, put on his spikes, glove, and cap, and stand alertly behind second base bent forward, eyes narrowed, waiting, waiting, waiting. Isaac loyally sat in the bleachers and yelled "Show, Dad!" and stuff like that, but everyone else in town regarded derisively, made coarse gestures, and pelted the Newton with overripe fruit—figs for the elder Newton, apples for the younger. Thus, as we all know, the famous moment came when Isaac Newton, struck in the head with an apple, leapt to his feet and shouted "Europa!" and announced the third law of motion: every action there is an opposite and equal reaction!)

Figs for the elder Newton, apples for the younger.

(How profoundly true these simple words are! Take, for example, Personna Stainless Steel Razor Blades. Shave with Personna. That's the action. Now what is the reaction? Pleasure, delight, contentment, cheer, and facial felicity. Why such a happy reaction? Because you have started with the sharpest, most durable blade ever honed—a blade that gives you the closest, closer shaves, comfortabler shaves than any other blade on the market. If, by chance, you don't agree, simply return your unused Personnas to the manufacturer and he will send you absolutely free a package of Beep-Beep or any other blade you think is better.)

But I digress. Back to Shakespeare (or "The Gem of the Ocean" as he was ribaldly appellated).

Shakespeare's most important play is, of course, Hamlet as it is frequently called, Macbeth. This play tells in living detail the story of Hamlet, Prince of Denmark, who one night sees a ghost upon the battlements. (Possibly it is a goat he sees; I have a first folio that is frankly not too legible.) Anyhow, Hamlet is upset by seeing this ghost (or goat) that he stabs Polonius, the king, who hollers, "Get thee to a tannery!" Thereupon Ophelia refuses her food until Laertes shouts, "Get thee to the room, crying, "Out, damned Spot!" She is fined fifty shillings for cussing, but Portia, in an eloquent plea, gets the sentence commuted to life imprisonment. Thereupon King Lear and Queen Mab proclaim a festival—complete with kissing games and pie-eating contest. Everybody has a perfectly splendid time until Banquo's ghost (or goat) shows up. This so unhinges Richard that he drowns his cousin, Butt Malmsey. This leads to a lively discussion, during which everyone is killed. The little dog returns to utter the immortal curtain lines:

Our hero now has croaked,
And so's our prima donna.
But be of cheer, my friends,
You'll always have Personna.

Yea and verily. And when next thou buyest Personna buy also some new Burma Shave regular or menthol, which both eth rings around any other lather. Get thee to a pharmacist.

Eight EC Students Join In Model UN

In case you have not missed them, Bill Peck, Eddie Greene, Henry Wallace, Joan Powell, Marjorie Hendricks, Linda Evans, Brenda Barrett, and Ross Barber have left the East Carolina College campus in order to participate in the Model U. N. Convention that is currently being held at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Our delegates are among the 400 from colleges and universities in the Mid-South who are present for the convention that began Wednesday, February 10, and will end on Saturday, February 13.

The objectives of having the Model U. N. are to promote a better understanding of the work and problems that confront the actual United Nations, to interest the students in current events, and to promote better cooperation among colleges and universities. The delegates from each school represent a different country and its problem in the United Nations. Four of the East Carolina delegates will represent Uganda, a country in East Africa. The other four will represent the Central African Republic.

The students who attend the Model U. N. have to be well-informed of the political, economic, and social problems of the country they represent. They work hard and keep to a rigorous schedule. Each morning at 9 o'clock the four delegates from each country separate and go before the four committees—Administrative and Budgetary, Political, Economic, and Social and Humanitarian. These committee meetings last until 11:30 P. M. In addition to all of the hours spent in the committee meetings, the delegates are expected to be prepared for the next day's meeting.

On the final day, the morning meeting during which they discuss and either pass or defeat the bills that the committees presented. During the discussions on the floor, it is of great importance that the student be well-informed of the current issues in the country he represents. At the time of voting, if a delegate votes out of character with what would ordinarily be expected from a native of that country, his vote can be challenged. If a delegate's vote is challenged, he has to explain why he voted as he did. The challenger must also tell why he challenged the vote. At this time all of the delegates vote on which vote seems more valid.

The students who are attending the Model U. N. are quite serious and genuinely interested in what they are doing. Bill Peck, who attended the Model U. N. last year at Duke University, said, "I think that this is one of the most interesting events that East Carolina participates in."

Young Republicans Meet In Charlotte

A small but energetic delegation of Young Republicans attended the Y. R. convention February 5 & 6 at the Heart of Charlotte Motel. Representing the E.C. club were Miss Charlene Langdon, Ronald Smith and Charles Oldham.

Registration for the convention was held Friday afternoon, followed by a social for the delegates. Later in the evening the 1965 Miss Y. R. contest was held and Miss Langdon of the East Carolina delegation was chosen first runner-up.

Saturday morning the delegates attended the caucus of the Y. R. College Council and smaller district and county caucuses. The official convention convened at one o'clock Saturday afternoon and was highlighted with a speech by Mr. Jim Gardner.

Later the convention moved to general business and a 1965 convention platform was adopted. One of the highlights of the platform was an endorsement of the controversial speaker ban law. Later in the convention two resolutions were proposed, the first commending Representative Albert Watson of South Carolina for switching to the Republican Party. The second resolution was passed as amended to censure the Committee for Civic Responsibility formed by Dr. Arthur Larson during the 1964 campaign. Larson, a registered Republican backed President Johnson during the past campaign.

Saturday night the East Carolina delegation attended the $10 a plate Lincoln Day fund raising dinner. The convention ended with a combo party for the delegates in the motel ballroom.

ASIS Announces Summer Jobs

GRAND DUCHY OF LUXEMBOURG — The American Student Information Service announces that there are still more than 20,000 summer jobs available in Europe to U.S. college students. The jobs are being filled out on a first come, first served basis and the ASIS is granting a $390 travel grant to each of the first 5,000 applicants.

Some positions pay $400 a month with no previous experience or foreign language ability required. Room and board are often included. The most requested jobs are resort work, office work, lifeguarding, sales work, shipboard work, factory work, child care and camp counseling work, farm work and restaurant work. Interesting summer work not found in the U.S. is living as a guest of well-to-do European families in return for teaching their children English.

Job and travel grant applications and detailed job descriptions (location, wages, working hours, photographs, etc.) are available in a 36-page booklet which interested students may obtain by sending $2 (for the booklet and air mail postage) to Dept. IV, ASIS, 22 Ave. de la Liberte, Luxembourg City, Grand Duchy of Luxembourg.

Position On Campus Aquanymph Team Causes A Wet Monday Night For Girls

Living the life of an East Carolina Aquanymph is living a life of terrible strain and endurance, especially during the winter season. Most people hear of the Aquanymphs only when they present their winter or spring water show. The remainder of the time they are obsolete in the coeds' minds. But should they be? Let's spread a little light of knowledge upon these devoted females who work so hard to present so beautiful a water show each year.

Every Monday night, at 6:15, about twenty-five girls faithfully venture from their warm, noisy, jolly dormitories, and walk through the cold and rainy atmosphere. They make a silent bee-line for the gymnasium.

These devoted damsels may be attired in garments ranging from bathing suits and knee socks covered with a coat, to bathing suits, knee socks, slacks, sweaters, and a coat, topped by a head scarf.

Upon reaching the gymnasium and the ladies' dressing room, (at 6:30), they prepare themselves for the cold plunge into the pool. For some, this procedure includes the removal of contact lenses, rings and watches, and the careful application of bathing caps.

After several final grimaces at the images reflected in the full-length mirrors, the aquanymphs get ready to ascend a tiny, damp, circular steel stairway which leads to the pool. It is a very dangerous little stairway, but so far, all of them have made it up to the top alive.

Staring them in the face is the pool, a big blue rectangle with black stripes running lengthwise on the bottom. Not a ripple can be seen. A damp chlorine smell is in the air and the lights above the pool throw down dancing reflections on the surface of the water. Seated on benches along one side of the pool, some of the aquanymphs wait patiently; others wander around, glancing at the little doorway (the one leading to the gym itself), secretly hoping that some curious handsome boys will be peeping in. (Sometimes there are some!)

At last Mrs. Gay Blocker, the advisor and instructor gives the awaited word: "Jump in."

Amid screams and giggles of "Oooh, it's cold," they gradually enter the water. Mrs. Blocker touches a switch and music blares from a record player. "Alright! Everybody do a pike! Now a black dolphin! No...no, Sue! A BACK dolphin!"

"Now everybody float...Mary, keep your toes pointed!...Hold still, Betty!...Betty, can't you float?"

"Now, everybody oyster! NOW!...I said OYSTER Judy!"

With technical terms flying (amid a few widely-spaced OTHER "terms and phrases") the evening slowly drifts by.

The girls practice performing fancy strokes together for a while, then they practice their individual and group numbers for the spring show.

When 8:30 P. M. arrives and those beloved words "That's all—you can go" have been uttered, the water logged aquanymphs make a mad exit down the curving stairway, shivering madly.

Rapidly they dress and wrap their towels and scarves around their wet heads. The silence is broken by an occasional sniff, sneeze or "Brrr", and the hum of the hair dryer as it blows hot air.

One-by-one, or in groups of twos and threes, they may be seen leaving the gym—E.C.C.'s aquanymphs—preparing another lovely water show for the enjoyment of the college.

Pay Fees

Fees for Spring Quarter may be paid beginning Monday, February 15, 1965, in the Cashier's Office; Room 105 - 107; Administration Building. All students are encouraged to pay their fees before registration day in order to avoid waiting in line.

Angel Flight, Service Group Gives Much To College Life

The young ladies dressed in blue uniforms with the flourere cord are in a campus organization known as Angel Flight.

This organization is affiliated with ROTC. However there is no service obligation for the girls after school. Angel Flight is a service organization sponsored by the Arnold Air Society which is a select group of cadets who sponsor the girls as hostesses for special events.

Angel Flight has been established since 1960. Besides presiding as the hostesses for ROTC's special events, the girls participate in various other activities. Throughout the year they have helped with the March of Dimes, sponsored a needy family, and helped publicize the military ball which is an annual event. They gave parties for detachment staff children.

During April 11-14, the National Conclave in Washington D. C. will be held. There will be 108 chapters of Angel Flight members represented here. During the conclave, new resolutions will be made, and business meeting will be carried on. The climax of the conclave will be the military ball. Awards will also be given that night. Practically all of the members of Angel Flight at E.C.C. will be represented in Washington.

Once a week in Old Austin, Angel Flight holds their meetings. Their advisor is Lieutenant Col. Elbert Kidd.

Sigma 'Playboy' Bunnies Greet Prospective Pledges

On Sunday afternoon, the sisters of Tri Sigma welcomed over one hundred and twenty rushees to their 803 E. 5th Street home. This open house party signaled the beginning of Sigma's Formal Rush for 1965.

Wednesday night's party witnessed a change of pace and scenery for the party's guests of honor. With the classic Playboy Bunny head spotlighted on the roof, the Sigma Bunnies literally rolled out the red carpet, complete with canopy, to usher them in. Admission was by gold key only, checked by the tuxedoed "doorman".

After meeting the hatcheck girls, the rushees were taken through the "Gallery of Bunnies", pastel caricatures of the sisters, to the Cocktail Lounge then seated at candlelit tables to await the floor show.

Emceed by Bunny Mary Skinner, the show featured Faye Spencer and Cheryl Walker in a jazz dance duet, Pam Hall and Emily Edison in comedy monologues, and "The Superbs", Cornelia Holt, Pam Dalton, and Martha Fowler. Brenda Johnson added with piano accompaniment. Refreshments were as-

Delta Zeta Sorority Sponsors Scholarship

The Delta Zeta Sorority has established a $1,000 graduate scholarship in Audiology and Allied Fields (applied areas in speech and hearing). The program is administered by the Delta Zeta Foundation. The scholarship is open to women students who are preparing for the teaching of the deaf, for clinical work with the hard of hearing, or for teaching audiology or a closely allied subject. Seniors making plans for their first year of graduate study or students already pursuing graduate study are eligible to apply. The decision of the committee will be based upon the student's academic record, evidence of professional interest, personal qualifications, and need of financial assistance.

Alpha Epsilon Pi Exchanges Visits

Last weekend, being an open one for the AEPi's saw many of the Brothers going to various parts of the state to party for the weekend. The girls at UNC at Greensboro will especially remember the wild times enjoyed by all this swinging weekend.

This coming weekend the AEPi's are planning a tremendous time with some exciting activities on schedule. With the theme of the weekend as "AEPi: Friends and the Future" the Epsilon Kappa Chapter has many invited guests coming down from North Carolina, Virginia, and Washington, D.C.

A house party is on tap for both Friday night and Saturday afternoon. Saturday night, atop Ken's Furniture Store, the dynamic, exciting Starlighters Combo will provide the entertainment fare for the Brothers, affiliates, and out-of-town guests. In addition, the EPI's are pleased to have Kappa Alpha Order as their guests on Saturday night to share in the good times. Overall it looks as though it will be a tip-top weekend for the men at 562 S. Cotanche.

Monday, February 8, the AEPi's trounced the Sig Eps in a hard-fought basketball game. Pulling away from the start and soon building up an insurmountable lead, the Gold and Blue played with their best scoring and defensive effort of the whole season thus far. The final score, 48-33 in favor of the AEPi's, was indicative of the spirited team effort. Special pats on the back go to Norm Lanchart, Earl Wald, and Ross Barber for star performances.

PI KAPPA PHI

This week the Brothers and pledges of Pi Kappa Phi will celebrate Founder's Day in memory of the founding of the local Chapter. Beta Phi was founded and chartered on February 16, 1963, and the charter was received on this same date. At that time, there were 14 men in the fraternity; now, there are 56.

Friday night, a banquet will be held at the Candlewick Inn for all Brothers, pledges, alumni, and invited guests. Following this, there will be a combo party at the Chapter lodge. Entertainment will be furnished by a local combo and floor show. Saturday night, another combo party will be held at the Chapter lodge with the entertainers being "Little David and the Wonders". Everyone is expecting a good time.

Last Wednesday, five men were pledged to Pi Kappa Phi. Pledged were Rich Edwards, Washington D.C.; Rod Justice, Hendersonville, North Carolina; Jimmy Parrott, Kinston, North Carolina; Jerry Quinn, Jacksonville, North Carolina; and Howard Shelbie, Annandale, Virginia. Thus far, Pi Kappa Phi has pledged 13 men during the I.F.C. "Wildcat Rush".

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

Lambda Chi Alpha is happy to welcome eight new brothers into its brotherhood. Initiated last weekend were Chip Martin, Jayde Wiloughby, Bob Quinn, Ollie Jarvis, Jim Tyson, Mike Malinski, Ken Austin, and Jim Harvey. The new brothers and their dates were entertained at a party at the house Saturday night.

This weekend Lambda Chi Alpha is having its annual Crescent Dance, at which time the Crescent girl for the next year will be announced. The brothers and pledges would like to take this opportunity to thank Miss Sandy Baxley, the former Crescent girl, for representing us in such a fine manner. We are honored to have been represented by such a fine person. Thank you Sandy!

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

On February 2 the following men were installed as officers in the North Carolina Kappa Chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon: President, John Biddar, Scotch Plains, New Jersey; Vice - President, Woody Hogg, Williamsburg, Virginia; Secretary, Bill Blumer, Raleigh, North Carolina; Controller, Hunter Vermillion, Williamsburg, Virginia; Recorder, Tony Ford, Williamsburg, Virginia; Chaplain, John Truesdale, Lancaster, South Carolina.

The Sig Eps are making unusually rapid progress on their new party room which will be located between the two houses which are owned by the Kappa Chapter. The concrete has already been poured for the floor, and the actual laying of block has been underway for several days. The construction of the new facility is a joint project of Brothers and Pledges and will add much to the value of the property as well as to the social life of the Sig Eps.

Sigma Phi Epsilon is the second largest fraternity, with 172 chapters across the United States from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Over 600 men are on its rolls. Its leaders of state, business and education. Its National Headquarters is in Richmond, Virginia. Sigma Phi Epsilon was chartered in 1865 from a group which has formerly been called Sigma Epsilon.

We are proud of our Sigma Phi Epsilon and proud of our new officers who lead us through the year. The Brothers of Sigma Phi Epsilon wish to express their appreciation to the retiring officers who so ably carried on the Fraternity through the past year.

DELTA ZETA NEWS

To put it mildly, the Delta Zeta has been busy this year in preparation for rush.

Tuesday night show Delta Zeta was lavished by Don Lawhorn from Waverly. They were in Pi Kappa Phi.

Wednesday night the secretary Jean Wickert will be with us all night. It is a great help to us during her visits.

Our housemother Mrs. Parker surprised Thursday night with a day party given to her by all the sisters.

We would like to acknowledge Helen Hayes, a Delta Zeta alumnae, presented us with a sterling silver punch set and accessories.

We had a spring fashion show for our regular standard dress. It was given by Brody's Department store here in Greenville.

PHI EPSILON KAPPA

Ron Bergman, Pledge Master Phi Epsilon Kappa, Physical Education instructor, announces that the following men have been accepted into the Phi Epsilon Pledge Class at East Carolina College.

Clinton Frank Harrell, Jr., Richard Grimley, Joe Price, Bob Roberts were the men accepted. Harrell, a junior from Chesapeake, was elected President of the Phi Epsilon class by a unanimous vote.

The Pledge period is to last five weeks during which members of the pledge class are to wear paddles bearing the Greek letters of the Fraternity and the Phi Epsilon seal.

David Bumgarner is President Phi Epsilon Kappa Fraternity. Advisors for the local Beta Iota Chapter are Dr. Glenn Boster, Dr. J. Martin, and Dr. Ray Martin.

THIS BASKETBALL TEAM

By RON DOWDY

Having just returned from the University of Richmond - East Carolina basketball game reminds me of a cheer which we here at our own athletic events, at least the "home" events anyway.

In essence the cheer goes something like "We've got a team and couldn't be PROUDER." In those words you receive a summation of how I felt after personally observing the recent basketball defeat at the hands of the University of Richmond.

Going into last night's game against the Citadel the Pirates were supporting a perfect 500 season at 8 wins and 8 losses.

This basketball team is a team that is not self-centered in the least. There is no number one man on the team. There are several.

This basketball team is a team that fights (literally not physically) from the time go, until the time to stop. There is no let-up during the game at all.

This basketball team is a team that plays their heart out each and every game.

This basketball team is a team that plays as proud representatives of East Carolina College and not as just scholarship winners of EC.

This basketball team is a team that plays basketball to win, but more so, to play fair and square with only good sportsmanship prevailing.

This basketball team is a team that is led by four well experienced and well versed athletes.

This basketball team is a team that plays with the desire, determination and pure guts from the start to the finish.

This basketball team is the 1965 version of the EC Pirates.

This was the first time a 'fan' (such as myself) had traveled with an athletic team purely to write about them. That is what I've attempted to do and will continue to try and do in this article.

The trip up lasted about 3 hours with one stop. The atmosphere on the bus was one of little talk and much concentration. Concentrating on either the game, or a Sports Illustrated magazine or a Playboy magazine with the playmate of the month torn out. Eventually the bus driver let loose with a few jokes which eased the tension of the players. The trip back was one of drowsiness and solemnity.

The strategy used by Coach Carr is to be praised to no end. Realizing how many fouls had been called the first half and (not how had been committed - but called) how many first stringers were close to fouling out he instituted a zone 'offense' which had his five players passing the ball around for the first 12 minutes and 2 seconds of the second half, not trying one shot.

This game should go down in history for the following reasons: 1) it was so easy for the referees to call a foul against, at times the clock wasn't even running. 2) Richmond picked up 20 points from the referees (from foul shots) 3) It was the worst officiated game in the history of basketball, well next to our games against William and

KARATE TEAM MEETS

Saturday, February 13 at 4 p.m. the East Carolina Karate Team will hold its first sanctioned meet. Opponents will be teams from Atlantic Christian College and N. C. State.

Varying styles of Karate fighting will be seen as well as the formal Kamite and Free Style Sparring. All students are urged to attend.

Mary. 4) The attitude of the spectators was that of a group of high school drop-outs. At several times during the second half time had to be called so that the referees (or janitors) could clean the floor of rubbish from the gallery. 5) The attitude and sportsmanship of BOTH teams is also to be commended! 6) The way the Pirates fought to come from behind and tie the score on two occasions 7) The deplorable language used by the Richmond Coach should bear him from the Southern Conference!

The Pirates Whipped Richmond in every manner except the final scoring column. At times, around 80 per cent, the Pirates were playing against a 8-man Richmond team, which included the '3' referees. No, I'm not complaining—I am bragging—because we beat them—all 8 of them.

This is not the first time EC has been shown such disrespect on the road. It has happened twice at William and Mary. What can we do? Is this the right conference for us? We don't show such utter-disrespect for our visiting conference teams, or an other team.

Our Frosh did a tremendous job over the baby Spiders. Their 93-76 victory was led by the scoring efforts of Sam Cox (31), Charlie Alford (26) and Tex Everett (21). Congratulations Baby Bues!

Why do we not have cheerleaders at our away games???

Dr. A. Schlesinger's Address Fails To Lend Insight On JFK

SCHLESINGER AND HIS JOB
By HENRY E. WALDEN III.
Dr. Arthur Schlesinger's recent lecture failed to shed much light on his job as Special Assistant to the late President Kennedy.

His role in the "New Frontier" was extensive indeed. The credentials he presented for the task were impressive, Harvard Historian Pulitzer Prize Winner and expert on F.D.R.'s Administration. Fortunately, we noticed in the lecture his mastery of English - language phraseology and his attention to enticing expression, as skillfully executed in the following statements he made:

"History outwits the past certitudes of men. Some decline to surrender simplifications of the past. Dangerous to mistake rhetoric for policy."

President Kennedy once said that his Presidential Advisers served two functions: (1) to inform him, and (2) to enlighten him regarding the possibilities and limitations of executive action.

Theodore Sorensen, also an assistant to the late President, enumerated these duties of a Presidential Adviser: (1) to provide specialized skills and information; (2) to assist the President in the drafting of speeches; and (3) to represent and negotiate for the President on diplomatic missions.

Sorensen's experience enabled him to advance these qualifications for an adviser: (1) organizational experience; (2) some political background; (3) ability to report information to the President on the basis of what he needs to know and NOT what he would prefer to hear; and (4) to realize the limitations of his own political perspective in order to prevent his bias from diminishing the quality of the President's decisions.

Joseph Roddy, Senior Editor of Look Magazine, attempted in a July edition of Look last year to theorize the position Schlesinger occupies in the present political spectrum. Roddy expressed that Schlesinger was one of the foremost liberals of our day.

Schlesinger, in fact, typifies liberals who are beckoned from the ranks of the "Power Elite" and are situated on conspicuous vantage points throughout Washington. Paradoxically, of all recent, liberal spokesmen, none can surpass him for his eminence or reticence.

Furthermore, Schlesinger feels that liberals should not have a definite program for action. As quoted in the Look article, he said, "If liberalism should ever harden into ideology, then, like all ideologies, it would be overwhelmed by the turbulence and unpredictability of history—especially in an age when science and technology have made the velocity of history so much greater than ever before."

According to Roddy, Schlesinger seems to be saying, above, that the chief problems of civilization are without solution, hence, their illimitable scope warrants their importance.

Actually, Schlesinger's brand of liberalism tagged him by his critics as being the chief instigator of Kennedy's "drive to socialism".

Aside from his views, Schlesinger's experiences in his subordination to the President ran the gamut from splashing in a swimming pool with Ethyl Kennedy to driving the President to get tougher with his adamant Congress. In both cases, however, Schlesinger was largely ineffective. Ethel could swim and Kennedy kept a part of himself from politics.

In spite of his essential socializing in Washington, Schlesinger, nonetheless, found time to get his head wet in the Cuban fiasco, attend UN functions, and fly south to Latin America.

A major achievement on his part was to persuade Kennedy to agree to listen to the grievances of the Cuban Revolutionary Council quartered in Miami during the Cuban Crisis.

Undoubtedly, a personal portion of the John F. Kennedy legacy is forever engraved in the mind of Dr. Arthur Schlesinger—a participant in a "Braintrust".

Men Give Boredom As Main Cause Of Their Infidelity

In Sunday's N & O a full page feature was devoted to husbands' infidelity. Below are excerpts from the article:

From Men Themselves:

(question asked: 1—why do married men stray? and 2—how does straying affect a marriage?)

"Three ingredients of an extra marital affair are the nature of the beast, boredom and opportunity."

"No matter how careful you are, people know." (All men interviewed mentioned BOREDOM as a factor.)

"A woman who stays home all day and talks to no one but children and store clerks isn't likely to startle a man with anything new and different."

"People get so used to each other that they forget the little considerations. A man likes to feel that he's being an interesting lover. It's good for his ego. Women have a habit of saying peculiar things at the most inopportune times, such as, 'I think we need to get the ceiling painted.' When that happens, you want to do a little survey of greener fields."

"Marriage, like Democracy, is a great institution, but every once in a while we have to amend the Constitution."

The interviewees mostly agreed that outside interests often made for better disposition around the house. "A man needs to feel that he's attractive to women in general, not just to one woman."

All acknowledged "That women are human too." "They've been the victim of so much propaganda—all this stuff their mamas tell them. There's no reason why a woman shouldn't want a little adventure in her life too. It might help them from getting so upset when they discover something their husbands have done."

And from the little women: (were asked the whys and wherefores of straying husbands.)

Basically the agreement: "custom will not state the obvious 'riety' of a good wife.

"If a woman stays home or when the man is here and if he's a good cook, then a husband behaves himself."

"A woman can make or break home. If she makes a good home for him and makes feel like he's king of it, he won't want to go elsewhere."

"It's entirely up to the wife whether a man runs around."

"If a wife keeps a man home and if she's faithful, he'll be content. Of course, should be affectionate too."

Doctors viewpoints: Psychiatrist (were asked the whys):

Psychiatrist: "Many people don't understand the place of sex in the totality of life."

"In the matter of variety, a man believes that a need for variety in partners is a result of sexual ignorance."

Dr. of Divinity: "Cases of infidelity can be traced almost invariably to a neurotic state, most frequent—a sense of inadequacy and a need to prove oneself."

"Most cases of unfaithfulness are to emotional instability in both guilty partners."

Obviously a conflict of interest emerge from the above.

The wife: Keep the home in order and hubby will stay there.

The husband: What is needed, variety, that you, the wife be a son of interests.

The doctors: Emotional instability and lack of understanding of one's sides.

Our solution: Allow each person to be an individual with separate activities as personalities.

EC School Of Music Hosts Singers For Coral Clinic

The School of Music of East Carolina College will be host to 250 Eastern North Carolina choral singers Saturday, February 13.

This will be the fourth annual Eastern North Carolina Choral Clinic, presented by the East Carolina College School of Music in cooperation with the Music Section of the Northeastern District NCEA. The Clinic will be held in the Whitchard Music Building.

Director of the Clinic Chorus will be Charles Stevens. Other members of the School of Music Faculty who will also serve as clinicians are Ruth Shaw, Beatrice Chauncey, Carl Hjoetsvang, Ingeboord Jarratt, Gene Strassler, Dan Vornbök, and Gladys White.

Registration for the Choral Clinic will begin at 9:00 A.M. Sectional rehearsals for each section will be held, as well as several rehearsals for the full Clinic Chorus. A recording session of numbers rehearsed will be held at 2:30.

The East Carolina College Concert Choir will present an informal Concert for the participating students and their directors at 3:00 P.M. The Choir will be conducted by Charles Stevens and will be accompanied by Michael Howe, a junior music student.

The purpose of the Choral Clinic is to provide an opportunity for choral students from schools of varying sizes to rehearse good choral music in a festival atmosphere. Choral composers to be represented will be Hassler, de Victoria, Mozart, Brahms, Smith, and Bart. The styles range from early church music to 20th century Musical Comedy.
