Two Year EC Medical School Plan Gives State Advantages

By JOHN AVERY

The proposed two-year medical school at East Carolina is among the most promising goals of our rapidly-expanding institution. Initially stemming from a movement by the physicians of eastern North Carolina, the proposal has received enthusiastic support from the entire state.

The need for such a center is evidenced by Eastern North Carolina's large area and its almost two million people. For some time this section of the state has suffered from insufficient medical facilities, and such a center would help eliminate the deficiency. It would include nursing and technician training, diagnostic and pathological services, and research. The indirect effects of a medical school would provide an economic boom to the area.

Many will ask "Why a two-year medical school?" The answer is found in the large four-year medical schools such as Duke University, North Carolina, and Wake Forest. Often, these schools are filled to capacity for the first two years of the medical course; yet numerous vacancies occur in the third and fourth years. It is estimated that over three-thousand such vacancies now exist in four-year medical schools. Thus, a two-year school would help relieve the burden during the first two years and also provide additional students for the remaining years.

The costs of a two-year medical school is relatively modest considering the various agencies which would provide financial assistance. The federal government would contribute funds through the Surgeon-General's Offices and other agencies. Approximately fifty percent of the five to seven million dollars required for building and equipment would be paid by federal matching grants. Annual operating expenses would total about $840,000, including instruction, research, and medical services for practicing physicians.

Already, Dartmouth, North Dakota, and New Mexico have established two-year schools. And, schools in New Jersey, Michigan, Hawaii, and Rhode Island are planning similar institutions. The American Medical Association strongly supports two-year schools. Here in North Carolina the proposal was recently endorsed by the Pitt County Medical Society, the Craven-Pamlico Counties Medical Society, and the Pamlico-Albemarle Medical Society.

Dr. Ward Darley, Executive Director of the Association of American Medical Colleges also favors the two-year schools. He writes,

"There is strong enthusiasm in most medical education circles for the type of two-year program emphasizing on basic science, closely integrated with liberal arts courses with graduate work in biology."

The current national shortage of doctors is shown by the figures provided by a special consultant group appointed by the Surgeon-General. The committee pointed out the alarming need for physicians in the future. The current output of about 7500 medical graduates must increase by 3600 per year before 1975, according to the report. This great need can be attributed to the great degree of specialization in medicine today. Two-year medical schools would provide a partial solution to this problem.

Tenth Street Light Proposed Traffic Solution

By BENNIE TEEL

New dorm students for some time have been complaining about the heavy traffic on Tenth Street, which makes pedestrian travel somewhat hazardous. But this perplexing situation will soon be rectified.

Through the combined efforts of the college administration, the NC State Highway Commission, and the SGA within weeks, a pedestrian stop light will be placed at the entrance of College Hill Drive.

Since last March, Mr. F. D. Duncan, EC's business manager, has held meetings with the State Highway Commission and other state and local officers to discuss and coordinate plans for the proposed stop light.

The SGA actions were initiated at the meeting of January 11 of this year. The motion for a traffic light on Tenth Street was made by SGA Dorm representative, Bob Leslie. Until the traffic light was erected, speaker of the house, Berk Stephens moved that a recommendation be made to Mr. Duncan to have a campus police direct traffic 15 minutes before each class hour.

Dr. Duncan, who is also vice-president of the college, stated that he met with the Highway Commission two weeks ago and discussed final plans for the new light system. Mr. Duncan further stated that the electronic mechanism of the pedestrian light would allow the pedestrian to control it by pushing a button; the motorist would be able to operate the light by tripping a switch built into the pavement of the street.

Because of EC's yearly population increase, the Tenth Street pedestrian light will certainly be an asset to the students. A few other traffic problems that remain to be solved are being considered by the SGA.

Whales Pleads For Readmission Of East Carolina To Beneficial NSA

By WALTER HENDRICKS

On Tuesday, the East Carolina Young Democrats Club met in Room 130 at 7:30 to elect officers.

The featured speaker was Pete Whales, Associate Editor of the Daily Tar Heel of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. His topic was "The Merits of NSA." Mr. Whales pointed out that East Carolina lost many benefits from withdrawing from NSA. In presenting the argument for his reasoning, he pointed out that NSA offers to assist universities and colleges in initiating Orientation, cultural, fine arts, honors, and circulum programs. NSA also offers work and study programs abroad, conferences at various colleges, and assistance in Student Government problems and revitalizations of Constitutions.

Other benefits of NSA are I. D. cards which enable students to obtain deductions in Continental Europe and large cities in the United States. A life Insurance is also offered to NSA members.

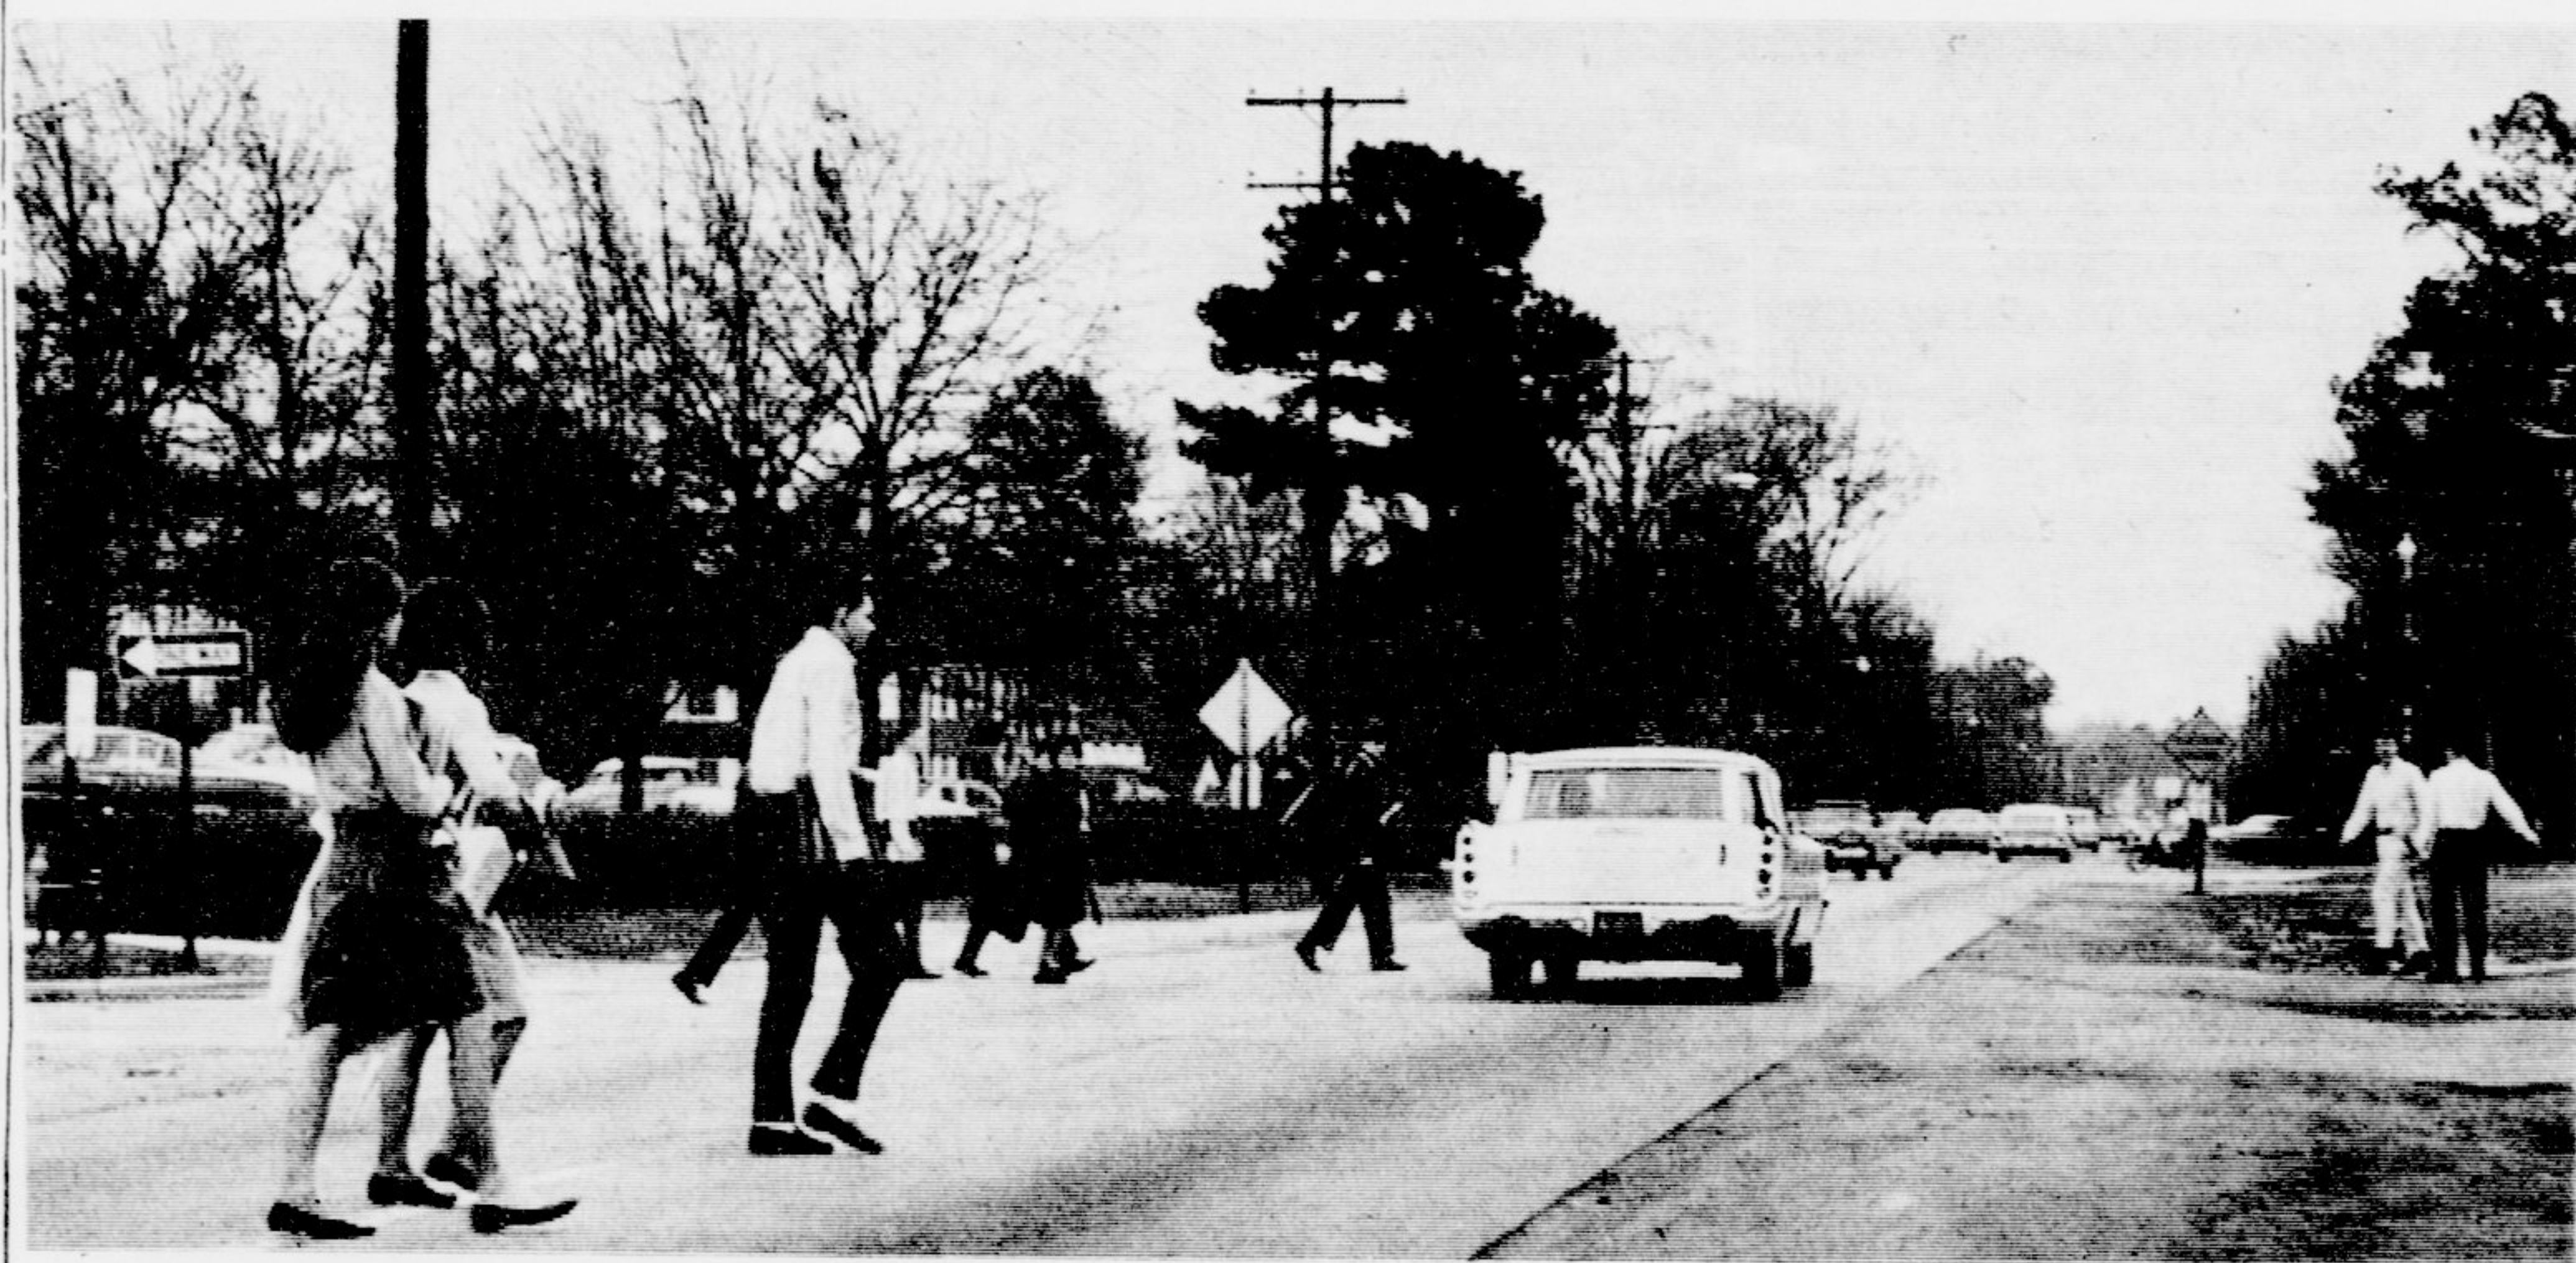

Mr. Whales also pointed out that the AAUP and Congress acknowledge NSA to be the official voice of college students nationally.

After Mr. Whales' presentation, Officers for the club for 1965-1966 were elected. They are Berry Williams, President; Henry Walden, Vice President; Mary Smith, Treasurer; Joyce Tyson, Corresponding secretary; and Linda McKinney, Recording secretary.

BERK STEPHENS
Diligence and undying service sum up the deeds of his years Speaker of the House, Berk Stephens. Stephens leaves this post in order to student teach spring quarter.

DANGER—The crosswalk at 10th Street has been the center of much discussion. This is a danger to pedestrians who must cross at this spot. Action is in the process now to relieve the situation.

Stephens Ends Tenure As Speaker Of SGA

By BENNIE TEEL

When Berk Stephens struck his gavel to adjourn Monday night's SGA meeting, he also ended his tenure as Speaker of the Student Legislature. Because he will be practicing teaching next quarter, Berk Stephens is forced to vacate his office, leaving behind many contributions and accomplishments.

Some of the accomplishments of the Student Legislature under the leadership Berk Stephens include: a budget which allowed for the disbursement of $160,000 to student organizations, the disaffiliation of the SGA with the NSA, and recommendations made to the administration concerning the traffic problem, and the new cut system. These proposals drew immediate action.

Besides holding the position of Speaker, Berk also held the positions of Chairman of the Budget Committee and SGA Treasurer. Stephens also leaves his indelible work as Sophomore class president, Chairman of Men's Honor Council, a member of the Theta Chi fraternity, Election Committee Chairman, and East Carolinian Sports editor. The nominations for "Who's Who" and "The Most Outstanding Senate Member" were also bestowed upon Berk.

Both students and administrators praise Berk for his industrious work.

Dean Mallory considers Berk Stephens as "a young man of great integrity and initiative." Mallory, who also coached Berk and the Varsity baseball team said that "Berk exhibited natural leadership, and was the kind of person that every guy would want to be like." Eddie Green, SGA vice president stated that Berk has been a tremendous asset to the Student Government Association and to East Carolina College.

Green further stated that "Berk performed his work conscientiously and always with the student in mind."

Further comments came from Election Committee Chairman, Bill Peck who remarked, "Berk has done more for this campus than any other student here, and has worked harder and has shown more interests in the students and student government than anyone I know."

Berk Stephens is a graduate of George Washington High School in Danville, Virginia and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Berkley M. Stephens. Mr. Berk is also married to the former Margaret Machill who is the SGA executive secretary.

Fraternity Rift...

The Interfraternity Council was informed Tuesday afternoon that there were to be no more parties, drinking, combos nor bands at the fraternity houses for an indefinite period of time . . . or until action was taken to lessen the number of complaints received by the administration concerning disorderliness.

The statement came from Dean James Mallory, the Interfraternity Advisor from the administration. He emphasized the fact that not all the frats were responsible for the action. This has been building up for some time and several of the frats had no part in bringing about the action.

The events which have transpired during the past few weeks have convinced the administration that it is now time to stop and appraise the whole situation concerning unreasonable noise created by fraternities in residential areas.

The Dean stated: "The fraternity difficulty is not one of persecution but one of self-discipline. The citizens, alumnae, faculty, staff, administration and students have a right to demand that fraternities conduct themselves in accord with society."

The administration will meet with the Interfraternity Council and arrange IFC rules and regulations to control frat activities. Previously, each frat was more or less responsible for its own rules. But such a new system would place more responsibility upon the IFC.

It was stressed that the people that attended East Carolina were selected from a vast number of applicants. Approximately, one in every four or five persons will make it for next year.

Therefore, the people that are accepted should pursue excellence in their education . . . including their social education.

There are several solutions to the problem of noise and disturbing the citizens of Greenville.

First, there is the possibility of a Fraternity Row . . . or a street built exclusively for fraternity housing. This eliminates the disturbance of Greenville citizens and the frats can keep each other awake if they disturb anyone.

Secondly, there is the possibility of each fraternity possessing some place where dances and other social activities may be conducted without the threat of complaints. A chapter-room or a sugar-shack would suit the frat's needs in this case. One of the frats already possesses a place for this function . . . and it is very practical.

Of course, there is always the third possibility. The frats may continue under restriction. This is doubtful. Everyone enjoys a good dance every now and then. So, it is the popular opinion that this situation will be by-passed.

As Dean Tucker pointed out, "This thing is just part of a cycle. Each ten years the whole school must undergo a period of reevaluation. And it is hoped that this will give the frats a chance to reevaluate themselves.

It is obvious, however, that Greenville is lacking in recreational facilities for the college students. But, then the town taxpayers also have no places for recreation. Is it right to keep the Greenville citizens (who pay the taxes to keep students in school) awake?

Current Affairs Test

With today's EAST CAROLINIAN you will find Time Magazine's 1965 Current Affairs Test.

And just how is it that you happen to rate a copy of this exclusive test?

Well, one of the EAST CAROLINIAN'S industrious staff members wrote Time and asked for a few copies of this test, if there were any available. You know how it is—we thought we could use two or three copies here in the office.

About a week ago six big boxes were delivered to the EAST CAROLINIAN office and addressed to this most unsuspecting girl. Not having the vaguest idea as to what the contents of these boxes could possibly be, she quickly ripped them open!

Just what do you think she found—why, only 6,000 copies of a 1965 Current Affairs test!

Still another surprise was in store for our editor. Someone told him he's been billed for $90 directly from Time.

After a bit of screaming and yelling on the part of most everyone in the office, things finally simmered down and returned to normal. Of course our editor was relieved to find out that the tests were free and merely a generous gift on the part of Time Magazine. That's when he decided to let you, the students, share in the benefits of this test.

The EAST CAROLINIAN staff hopes you enjoy it—you may be surprised to find just how well informed you are about this modern world of ours.

LETTERS

To the Editor:

A lack of funds is now plaguing every sport at EC except football. Why is this? I'll tell you why! We have a football coach for an athletic director. Over the past year this problem has resulted in the cutting of many athletic scholarships except of football. A prime example of this is EC's all-star baseball player, Buddy Bovender. His scholarship was cut in half, requiring him to sign a professional baseball contract in order to finish school, and also ended his participation in college baseball. Another example of this over emphasis on football concerns EC's star sprinter Whitty Bass. He had to have financial support from local business men to send him to the NCAA track finals on the West Coast last spring. Surely the athletic department could have allotted money for this.

If this attitude toward sports is maintained, EC will end up being laughed out of the Southern Conference in its first year of eligibility. The reason? Inability to field adequate teams.

Coach Stasavich we want an answer from you on this. And Dr. Jenkins we would like your view on this problem. Surely you do not want EC to get the reputation as having the worst athletic program in the Southern Conference, and of being a one sport school. And if something isn't done people will hear first.

No News

By BOB BROWN

This is the final issue, for this quarter, of our fabulous paper. Exam time is drawing near and we the staff have to do the same as the other students, study! Term papers must be completed, books must be read, and notes must be studied. All of this in preparation for the dread week ahead, EXAMS!! We wish you the best of luck in all your work.

At the free flick tonight and tomorrow, entertainment is provided by Warner Brothers' production of "GYPSY". The picture is in color and cinemascope. The stars of this great movie are Natalie Wood and Karl Malden. This is a very good movie so be sure to see it if you get a chance.

Rumor has it that the fabulous

James Brown and the J.B. Band will be appearing in Greenville, April. The price quoted is $2.50 per person. This is a rumor that every one should hear. His antics and songs are soon forgotten and are all.

Alas dear students, the shortage of campus news department. If any of our readers know of any news on campus, please notify me. I can put it in the paper. If you have anything to say to the rest of the students, send it to the editor in care of the paper.

Next quarter we will bring a paper on Tuesday and Thursday instead of the usual Friday prepared.

Who Am I?

Who am I?
Where am I going?
How and why?
Few indeed is the total of EC students who really know.
Few indeed are adults who know.
But back to the more important—myself.

Frankly I am reluctant to admit I raised from the deep musty re-views of my mind these questions, but somehow I must find the answers. I know inately that if I can get basic principles and ideas gathered into a workable structure, then possible solutions will eventually come. But this is a painful process. And it takes time. Time. And involves a genuine giving and searching of myself.

I am afraid.
I fear what the total answer may be. And so I busy and surround myself with all, more than all, possible occupiers . . . work, activities, clothes, alcohol, socializing . . . anything to prevent from being alone.

I am afraid.
Often there are things I think about and want to discuss with people, but who? Even those I know would laugh. And to ask in a class or an adult?

I am afraid.
So I go from day to day with little variety, except now and then one big drunk. At least these break the boredom and monotony.

Is there something wrong with sex and alcohol? That's a no!

Where?
How is it better?
And school, what is it for?
To help me find a proper wife, to, in the end, or proper ticket for a proper can properly exist in a proper herb; have a proper family, the expected, proper life of conferences, church luncheons, bridge meals, parties?

Is this really life?
Is this really life?
Is this what I want?
Do I know what I want?
How do I find it?

My psych. teachers bite self - reliance and self. Yet far too often, teachers are living human examples of society's misfits thrust into garbage dump, the great being in our U.S. colleges, students compose the vast prodigious disposal.

I want to live.
I want to think.
I want to learn and to grow.
I am being denied a basic substance of life.
I wither.
Smilingly, I silently die.

College Union Brings 'Embers'

In case you were one of the few that did not hear the announcement at the Valentine's dance last Saturday night, the "Embers" are coming.

The Record and Dance Committee of the College Union is sponsoring a combo dance featuring the "Embers" of Raleigh. The dance is to be held on registration night, March 3, in Wright Auditorium from 7 p.m. to 10:15 p.m. Dress is casual and a capacity crowd is expected. Joe Rippard, chairman of the Record and Dance Committee, reports that the committee has adopted a change in its policy for Spring quarter. Instead of having several combo dances throughout the quarter, the committee will sponsor one combo dance with a well known dance band. The objective of the change in policy is to provide better entertainment in which East Carolina students can participate. ID's will be checked at the door.

MEDICAL SCHOOL

In emphasizing the necessity for the medical center, Dr. Jenkins stated that "we are under obligation to entertain this request very seriously and it is my intention to do so." As the focal point for education in this area, the college must endeavor to provide adequate medical facilities for its citizens. Such a school would serve as a center for the study of various diseases and complement President Johnson's medical program. East Carolina is especially appropriate for the center considering our recently accredited nursing school.

From the planning stage, the proposal has now advanced to the State Legislature and will be introduced in the current session. The enormous potential of the two-year medical school indicates that funds probably will be provided. As Dr. Jenkins has stated, "Eastern North Carolina deserves nothing less."

'Mom' Departs

Mrs. Bessie Harris, housemother at the Theta Chi house since 1958, says farewell at a testimonial dinner tonight. The Theta Chi's claim she is a chief in all trades . . . nurse, cook and a shoulder to cry on.

Theta Chi's Honors Outgoing Housemother

By TIM BAGWELL

This week-end marks the first annual alumni week-end for Epsilon Iota Chapter of Theta Chi. Unfortunately, this year, the week-end will be marked by the farewell and testimonial dinner for Mrs. Bessie Harris, house mother since 1958.

"Mom" Harris has truly earned her title, for she has been like a mother to each of the men of Theta Chi through their pledge period, their brotherhood, and even as they became alumni. She was the one who cheered the boys on to victory in the ball games or any other functions the boys were involved in.

As an active participant of any activity of the Theta Chi's, Mom was always on the scene even if she acted as a nurse, a cook, or a shoulder to cry on. She was always willing to help.

She has served as a delightful hostess and excellent chaperone for any occasion that the Theta Chi's have given. Everyone who meets her, loves her. One girl said, "She's always so friendly and nice to everyone."

She has served as President of the House Mothers Association here on campus. "Mom" has earned the respect and admiration of the entire administration. On hand Saturday night to speak in her behalf will be Dean James Mallory, Dr. James Tucker, and Dr. Leo Jenkins.

The Brothers gave "Mom" a beautiful color TV for Christmas and she will be traveling with this back to Mt. Holly where she has her home. The brothers are giving her individual gifts.

Each one will find that once she has gone, there will be something missing in their hearts.

As every brother in Theta Chi knows the real "dream girl" will always be "Mom." "Mom" will be leaving during the quarter break so if any of you wish to drop by and bid her farewell, please feel free to do so. She would love to see all of her friends. The Theta Chi's will never forget her.

Faults Of Average Dorm Girl Shows Another Side Of Coed

By NANCY MARTIN

I do not doubt that every girl thinks her dorm is the friendliest and best on campus, just as I think my dorm is. We have so many girls who are really fun to be with and who are friendly to almost everyone they meet. Of course, there are certain exceptions to this rule, as there are to every rule. In our dorm, I know of several such exceptions, but I will combine them all into one and try to explain her faults so that others may profit by them.

This girl is an average girl, with the average number of dates per week, yet she insists on acting as if she were the only girl around who ever dated. She harps constantly on who she dated, what they did (watch out, boys!) and how much fun she had or didn't have. She will not let anyone else tell about their date, or their week-end. She is continually borrowing clothes and never returning them, or, when she does return them, they are in a condition which makes one wonder what she did to get them that way. She brags about her clothes and the cost of her clothes, but she seems to be forever borrowing someone else's. She complains about the noise on the hall when she is studying, but she seems oblivious of the fact that anyone else is trying to study when she wants to listen to her record player or radio. She turns it up so loud that a person would think that it was the last time this girl would be able to listen to her noise box for a century or so. She receives telephone calls almost constantly all day . . . from the same boy. She doesn't seem to realize that her five minute limit on the telephone is up and stands with her ear glued to the receiver and her mouth flapping in a senseless stream of jibberish which could easily be stated in a single sentence. She also doesn't understand exactly which boy belongs to which girl, and will try to monopolize everyone's caller at the same time. This, of course, is a very great strain on her conversation abilities and she doesn't realize that she may get something similar to lockjaw if she doesn't close her mouth and leave other girls' callers alone. This girl may also be two-faced, telling one girl (or boy) one thing and doing exactly the opposite. She also seems to enjoy entering another girl's room without knocking, or . . . what is worse, without the occupant even in the room to greet her. She is oblivious to the fact that they may be under an unusual spell of concentration and, by barging in like that, she may destroy a thought of genius which would have saved the world (or the girl's grades).

I certainly hope no single person will take this article as a description of themselves alone, because it consists of the faults of several thousand girls all rolled up into one very rude person. No one is perfect. You may have one or more of these faults and, if you do, it is suggested that you try to improve your social habits. Everyone around you will be happier . . . and you will, too.

College Circle K Club Gains Recognition As Active Organization In Carolinas

The Circle K Club has been called one of the most active organizations in the Carolinas. It is a branch of the Kiwanis Club and has the same goal . . . service.

The purpose of the Circle K Club is to help make the college and the community a better place. Its activities include such things as ushering at S.G.A. activities, sponsoring a Christmas party for underprivileged children, offering a $100 scholarship to whoever needs and deserves it, and collecting money for causes like the Kennedy Fund.

This organization is not limited to Greeks or non-Greeks. It is for any boy who wants to serve EC and Greenville. Membership is by invitation. Prospective members must have a C average and show qualities of scholarship, leadership, and character.

The Circle K Club at East Carolina was the fourth in the United States. Now, there are over 500 Circle K Clubs in the nation.

Four years ago the Carolina District was organized under the direction of Dr. John Reynolds, the head of East Carolina's graduate school.

This year East Carolina is host to the fourth annual convention of the Carolina District of the Circle K Club. Circle K members are now busy arranging places for meetings, banquet facilities, and all the other things that have to be taken care of before 200 Circle K members and 100 Kiwanians arrive here on March 26. The delegates to the convention will be here from the 26 until the 28. They will stay at the Town House Motel during this time.

The convention will be a training and business session. Dr. Jenkins will open the convention with the keynote address. Then the delegates will spend the week end discussing projects and taking care of district business. At the last session Sunday morning the district officers will be elected and the convention will adjourn at noon.

Notice

The East Carolina College Symphony Orchestra will give its annual Concerto Program Sunday February 21, at 3:30 p.m. in the gymnasium. The public is invited.

New Debating Team Shows Great Progress

Spring quarter is going to be a busy one for the members of the Debating Team. This newly-formed organization, formed by the Department of Speech and Drama and coached by Mr. Al Peralton, will travel to Lenoir-Rhyne College during the week of March 5, 6, and 7. A few days later the team will venture up to New York for debates at Brooklyn College on March 12 and 13. Our team will also participate in the Southern Regionals at Wake Forest later in the quarter.

You're probably thinking, "Golly, that is a lot of time they'll be gone!" Well, you're right, and what's more is the time these team members have to spend preparing for these debates! The debaters, in addition to the time spent doing research in the library, meet weekly at the Speech House on 8th Street for about 3 hours of practice. Recently the team participated in practice debates held at Old Dominion College in Norfolk, Virginia. So you can see the debaters are really serious about doing a good job in their debating.

The resolution for this debating year is as follows: That the Federal Government should establish a national program of public work for the unemployed. Because the same resolution is used all year long, the team members become so well-acquainted with it that the reasons, pro and con, become more logical, and in this manner, they are better able to analyze what their opponent has to say.

True, East Carolina's Debating Team is new and lacking in experience but this handicap is being overcome remarkably well. The fact that the team won two and lost two at the practice debate at Old Dominion and that the affirmative won 4 and lost 2 and that the negative won three and lost three at Wake Forest is evidence that the team can win among more-experienced teams.

Mr. Al Peralton, coach of the Debating Team, is looking forward to the upcoming debates and to meeting the techniques of a variety of other schools.

Throughout this article I have talked of the members of the Debating Team. Well, just in case you've forgotten who they are, the members are as follows: William McNally, Luarne Kaylor, Pat Shea, Richard Papcum, Peggy Pahl, and Becky Bagley.

At this time I would like to mention that it is too late to join the team this year. But if anyone is interested in becoming a member next year please get in touch with Mr. Al Peralton.

Oh, by the way, good luck Debating Team in your upcoming debates!

Greenville, N.C.

Saturday was the big day for all rushees participating in formal rush. Saturday afternoon at 2:00, the rushees received bids to the sororities of their choice. Among the excitement and joy of the afternoon—the new pledges found themselves surrounded by the sisters of their chosen sorority. The events of the afternoon did not cease when the girls received their bids. Singing followed and many sororities performed pledge ceremonies to make their girls official pledges. Following the excitement of the afternoon, the pledges and sisters attended a banquet held in their honor by the Panhellenic Council.

The excitement could still be felt as many of the new pledges spent Saturday night with their sisters and then attended church with them on Sunday morning.

To all the girls who did not participate in rush, we would like to say that we are truly sorry you missed this wonderful experience. We also like to encourage you to participate at your next opportunity.

Girls, look around on campus and notice all the ribbons and pledge pins worn by the new pledges—then notice that special sparkle in their eyes and the deep sense of satisfaction they seem to express. We would like to encourage you to experience this same sensation, for it is one of the most rewarding and memorable to be found on our college campus.

In closing, we would like to congratulate all the new pledges and wish them success and happiness in their new way of life.

The next morning a very thoughtful gift from the Theta Chi Fraternity was a bouquet of 15 red carnations for the new ADPI pledge class. It meant very much to the ADPI's.

Previous to the meeting of the new pledges on Saturday afternoon, the sisters and pledges joined the Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity in selling balloons to raise money for the Heart Fund. The cold weather did not seem to bother the eager salesmen as all balloons were sold in only a few hours. The total amount raised was $231.52.

Alpha Delta Pi National Traveling Sec., Miss Linda Deitrich, has been visiting the Delta Omicron Chapter here for a week and one half and has certainly won a place in the hearts of all the ADPI's. Province President, Mrs. Donna Lambeth, was also a guest for several days in the ADPI home.

Newly initiated sisters into the sorority are Joan Marie Daley, Peggy Ann Lewis, and Carole Ann Saldin. Initiation is always a special event for the ADPI's, as is the meeting of new pledges. This has certainly been a memorable week for the sisters and pledges of 1401 E. 5th St.

The chicken was barbecued in the pit which is located in Mr. Harrington's beautiful recreation area.

While the chickens were sizzling to a golden brown, the Sig Eps sang, danced, and chatted. The meal was delicious and everyone agreed that this event will be remembered as one of the most enjoyable of the year. The SPE's wish to thank Mr. Harrington and his wife for their friendship and warm hospitality.

The brothers, pledges, and affiliates of A E Pi are spending this week recovering from one of their best weekends.

Friday night began the activities with a quiet party in the newly decorated party room. Much credit is being given to Brother Paul Hersh, who did a fine job. The high-light of the party was the new bar constructed by a Cro-Magnon interior decorator from Washington, D.C. by the name of "bubbles." It is a beautiful piece of furniture constructed to resemble early American plywood.

On Saturday, the real fun began. A party was held that afternoon, during which Phil "Slim" Somers was voted as being the A E Pi equivalent of a "Blivit." The party was entertained by a band made up of Marty Goldfarb on the violin, Ronnie Kallman on the drums, Gary Silverstein on the tuba, and Jeff Berman on the floor.

Saturday night a combo party was held with the brothers and pledges of Kappa Alpha Order as honored guests. The well-dressed band at this affair has since, we are sorry to report, have been recalled by their Viet-Cong brethren.

All in all the weekend was a huge quarter-ending success. As a closing note, Brothers Meltzer, Berman, and Dosik, with typical Gaelic charm, serenaded their dates upon returning them whence they came with thrilling renditions of "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," and "Go Granny, Go Granny, Go Granny Go!" (From the Broadway hit of the same name.)

Athlete of the Week

From Star, N. C. comes Grady Williamson, the ace 6' 3" guard for the Basketball Pirates. As co-captain, Grady has shown his leadership in leading the Bucs through their rugged season. He is a man to watch on the court tomorrow night against Atlantic Christian, the Pirates final game of the season.

Brenda is president of Ragsdale Dorm, a member of the women's judiciary, and editor of SAI. Miss Helen Charuhas, a junior student of Dr. Robert Carter, is second vice president of the fraternity, and secretary of the East Carolina Concert Choir. Helen will perform the Rachmanoff Piano Concerto Number 3. These students, along with four other performers were selected from auditions in October.

SGA Legislature Publishes List Of Delinquent Representatives

Monday night there was a great stir in the SGA when it was brought up that Mr. Stephens, former speaker of the Legislature, had asked at the last meeting to find out who has been missing the meetings. Mr. Bill Deal, the newly elected speaker of the Legislature, took his position as speaker and continued the consideration of the question.

Bob Kerlin moved and had seconded that any representative who misses an excess of six meetings, be dropped. He said that students are not being represented while we are still spending their money and governing them.

Mr. Stephens asked for the floor. He said that he disagreed with Mr. Kerlin because the attendance would be like our former cut system; everyone would take his cuts, and then we really would have a mess.

Mr. Deal then added that action should be taken to embarrass them by publishing their names in the paper or posting their names and who they represent in the dorms, so that the students could see that the people they elected are not doing their job. It is the students duty to bound them when they are not doing their job.

It shouldn't be any different in a dorm as in a fraternity," added Mr. Stephens. "When a brother does something that he isn't supposed to,

all his other brothers

Mr. Kerlin would say, "They do nothing, they're just us; they aren't helping; and they are just a burden to the school, but no one's bound to do anything about it."

Mr. Bob Kerlin then asked a question about the student in which there are people to vote.

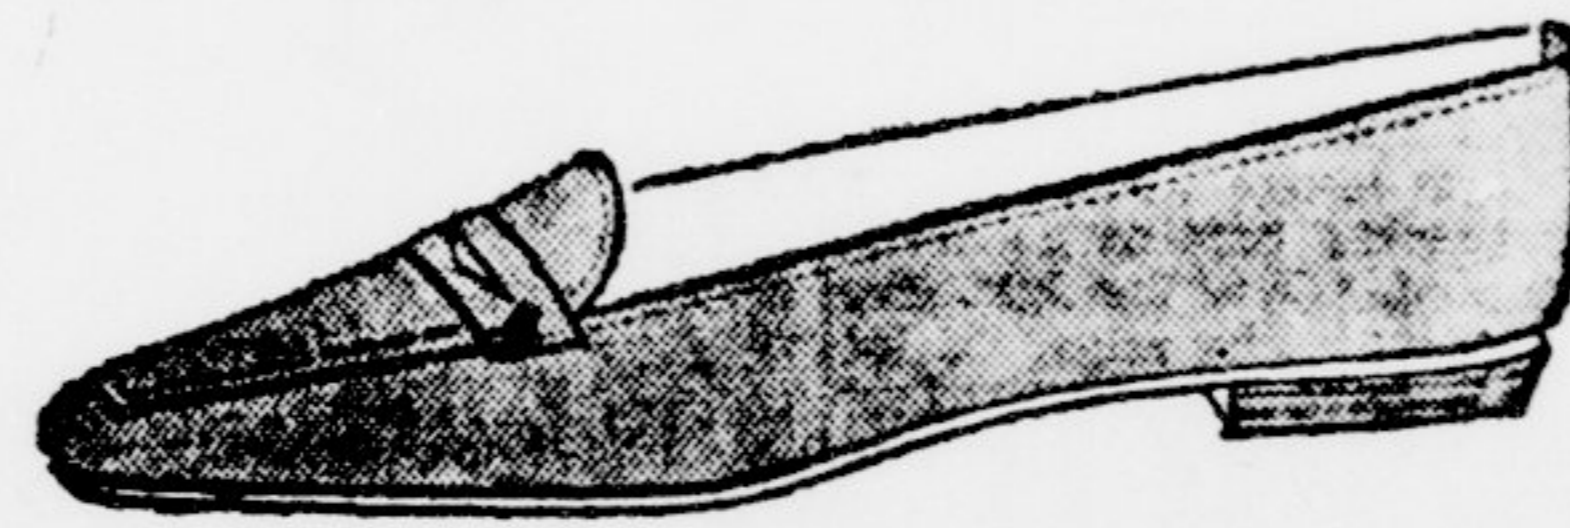

Mr. Stephens replied that by saying, "I made the rule didn't I to back it up?" He said to the Legislature that when a representative is not doing his job, then the student should be dropped.

Carolyn England, the representative suggested that a written note be given an absence note to state the problem.

Mr. Deal gave a list of representatives not to be called and the students get on their backs. "We'll get up, he said, "We won't do anything to make it something."

Beginning with the names of all representatives to take action.
