

Help Vietnam 'Bleed-In!'

Students Boost G. I. Morale; Give Hope To U. S. Soldiers

East Carolina's Christmas project -- to send a merry Christmas to American soldiers in Vietnam -- has progressed rather well, but its completion has yet to be reached.

Directed by the Student Government Association, a campus "Bleed-In," with a goal of 600 pints is in progress. Also, students and townspeople (notably, the Greenville churches) are collecting Christmas cards, fruitcakes and paperback books for the soldiers, and clothing for the people of South Vietnam.

Student leaders in the project are SGA President Eddie Greene; Lou D'Ambrosio, book and Christmas card drive chairman; Bill Moore, clothing drive chairman; Jonathan Burt, Bleed-In chairman; Steve Moore, project treasurer; and Bill Morris, overall chairman.

U.S. Senator B. Everett Jordan (D-N.C.), in a letter to President Greene, announced that the Air Force would fly the collected clothing, cakes, and books to Vietnam in time for Christmas.

Senator Jordan commended "the entire student body on this very worthwhile project" and extended his "best wishes for a successful drive."

Two greeting card companies have donated 500 cards each to the college project -- Hallmark Cards of St. Louis and National Art Crafts, Inc., of Detroit.

Each card will bear a written message from an East Carolina student who, if he wishes to correspond with the soldier who receives it, will write the return address.

The cards will be packed together December 4 and sent to South Carolina where they will be sent to Vietnam by an organization of private citizens, Vietnam Mail Call.

The student donations of paperback books are being deposited in a large wire cage in the North entrance to the College Union.

Together with clothing and fruitcakes, the books will be sent to Seymour Johnson Air Force Base for transport overseas.

All students are urged to contribute to the Vietnam Christmas project if they would show support of the American stand in the war.

'Bleed-In' Set For Dec. 6-8

Blood will be donated for the "Bleed-In" at the following times:
December 6 -- 12 to 6 p.m.
December 7 -- 10 to 4 p.m.
December 8 -- 12 to 6 p.m.

For those students who are dubious about giving their blood, SGA President Eddie Greene mentioned three advantages of blood donation:

1. The majority of people do not know their blood type. Blood donors will be informed of their type.
2. Within a year after donating blood, the donor and his immediate family, in case of an emergency, will receive free blood transfusions from the American Red Cross. (Blood usually costs $25.00 a pint.)
3. Those who gave blood will help to save lives, in this case, the lives of American soldiers.

Greene also noted that due to the shortage of the blood supply in Vietnam, blood is being taken from un-wounded soldiers for those injured in combat.

Mr. Joseph O. Clark, chairman of the Pitt County Chapter of The American Red Cross has been instrumental in this blood campaign. He said that students who take part in the "Bleed-In" should be aware that blood is useful in other ways than its pure form; blood plasma, for example is in great demand at present in Vietnam.

Railway Society Boards Caboose

Members of the East Carolina Chapter of the National Railway Historical Society, participated November 16 in the last run of a train over the East Carolina Railway, Tarboro to Farmville.

Through the cooperation of the Atlantic Coast Line, of which the East Carolina Railway has been a subsidiary for about three decades, the following persons paid their fares, signed the necessary waivers, and boarded the caboose: Mr. David Jefferies, of the Voice of America; Bill Morris, a Senior Business major; and Professors H. F. Dade, Velma Lowe, and R. R. Morrison. Membership applications for this group may be obtained from one of the above persons.

EC Chapel Choir Presents Concert

The annual Christmas Concert of the East Carolina Chapel Choir is scheduled for Sunday afternoon, Dec. 5, at 3:30 p.m. in Wright Auditorium.

The 70-member vocal group, under the direction of Dr. Carol Hjertsvang, will present the Christmas oratorio by Saint-Saens and eight other Christmas selections.

The Saint-Saens work will conclude the program after the choristers sing six versions of the angels' song announcing the birth of Christ and two interpretations of the Benedictus.

The program, free and open to all interested persons, will feature six student soloists -- sopranos Diana Beaver of Morehead City and Phyllis Corbett of Farmville, mezzo-soprano Gale Landis of New Bern, alto Billie Combs of Winston-Salem, tenor Bob Chambers of Crewe, Va., and baritone Ben Willoughby of Snow Hill.

Organist for the program will be Mary Claire Rosser of Whitakers.

apiece; $15 a crate) to students and townspeople will be the primary source of funds to help reach the goal of $2,200.

Also contributing will be the admission from last Monday night's benefit combo dance held jointly by the SGA and the CU, "Little David and the Wanderers" provided the music.

Added to this will be profits from the concession stand at the Louis Armstrong concert.

Assisting in the fund drive are the IDC, the band and cheerleaders, Circle K, and Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity.

A special train to Orlando will leave Greenville at 6:00 p.m. on Friday and arrive in Florida Saturday about 3:00 a.m. The game will be at 2:00 p.m. The train will leave at 10:00 p.m. to arrive in Greenville at noon Sunday. Train tickets which will cost about $35 each, can be bought at the Central Ticket Office.

Students who cannot go to the Bowl and support the Pirates in person can help by buying tangerines to send the band and cheerleaders.

Bill Deal, Chairman of the SGA Tangerine Bowl Committee, stressed the importance of campus backing: "Only with the support of students can the SGA send the band and cheerleaders to Florida."

I. D. Cards

Students who had pictures taken registration day for photo Identification Cards may receive their completed I.D. cards Tuesday, Dec. 7, from 9:00 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Wright Auditorium.

Pictures will be made Tuesday for students who did not have their pictures taken on registration day. Those students who have pictures made Dec. 7 may receive their completed cards Tuesday, Dec. 15, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Wright Auditorium.

Tuesday, Dec. 7, will be the last day that I.D. card pictures will be taken this quarter.

TANGERINES FOR SALE—Bill Deal, Coach Stas, and Tommy Waller push SGA Fund Drive by selling tangerines to send the Marching Pirates to the upcoming Bowl Game in Orlando, Fla.

What Can We Do?...

American soldiers are fighting in Vietnam and many of these same men are oppressed by an ideology that they cannot define or comprehend. Many are bewildered as to why they are involved in war and yet one of the major principles that keeps them fighting is the fact that it is for America and the people back home.

A vast number of these soldiers are wounded and dying. One of their main problems is an insufficient supply of blood so vitally needed in saving their lives. At this time, those soldiers who are in combat are having to give their own blood in order to keep their comrades alive.

Most students are participating in the Vietnam Drive which the SGA has been sponsoring for the past few days. But how many of us have seriously considered giving blood for the Vietnam Bleed-In on December 6, 7, and 8?

The Bleed-In is the main goal of the five point program for making Christmas in Southeast Asia a little brighter for the American soldiers fighting there. Most students should find it difficult to refuse to give blood, because even those who disagree with American involvement in Vietnam should at least be thankful that others, not they, are having to fight there.

If we are basically a compassionate people, then we should not mind giving blood for someone else whether that person be a personal friend or a soldier in Vietnam. Maybe we as students do not fully understand why we are involved in this war or maybe we cannot fully accept it. However, we do understand what happens in war when men die because there is an inadequate supply of blood to remedy the situation.

Let us push foreign policy matters and personal prejudices aside and as a united group give a worthy public expression of our appreciation to those American men who are doing a job which they think is necessary whether they like it or not.

So when we ask "What can we do?", remember that the Bleed-In will be held in Wright Auditorium on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week. You might also keep in mind that the few minutes it will take to give one pint of blood will be minutes which might mean life or death to a certain soldier.

Our contribution to this effort is the only direct way we can show our support of the Americans in Vietnam and hopefully speed the end of this war.

Been Typed?...

On Monday of this week, an urgent request was made by the Duke University Hospital that anyone with type "O" negative blood report at once to the EC Infirmary.

Dr. Thomas A. Chambliss, who is in charge of Student Teaching here, was reported in critical condition and in urgent need of this rare blood type.

Due to the fact that many students on this campus were ignorant of what type blood they had, it was late Tuesday before anyone could be located who had "O" negative type blood.

For those of you who do not know your blood type, you would benefit yourselves by giving blood in the Bleed-In for Vietnam, in that you would find out what your blood type is and at the same time serve a worthy cause.

Anyone who has type "O" negative blood, please contact the Infirmary or be sure to make it known when you give blood to the Bleed-In next week. Dr. Chambliss is still in critical condition and type "O" negative blood is very much in demand.

Where Is It?...

Scene: Weary student standing outside classroom babbling incoherently to himself.

"Well, this is room 126," he looks at his watch, "yeah, it's the right time—but where is everyone?"

Another student shuffles up, gazes at the number on the door, then glances at the crumpled paper clutched in his hand. "Is this voice and diction class?" asked of no one in particular he resignedly falls against the wall and stoically awaits an answer from above.

Presently another student, who obviously hasn't been through the drop-add line, strides up to the door glances at the room number, then at the schedule in his hand. This process is repeated a couple of times, until the slow dawn of comprehension spreads across his face, and he bursts out with his new found knowledge. "It's Tuesday! It's Tuesday! It's Tuesday!" "That's what it is—it's a Monday, Wednesday, and Friday class!"

And as he strides down the hall laughing indulgently at himself, a hunched figure leaning against the wall mumbles to itself, "The mass of men spend their lives in quiet desperation—the mass of men spend their lives in quiet desperation—the mass of men"

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:

In the November 5 edition of the East Carolinian, there appeared a letter written by a Charles Bernier. In his letter certain rules and a certain girl lifeguard of the college pool were criticized.

Though I am only a Freshman at ECC, I have been swimming at the college pool for nearly 3 years. (This is because my parents are faculty members.) During the past 3 years and my twice weekly visits to the pool I have yet to see a 6'3" Amazon bellowing at anyone. I know through lifeguarding experience like the one described by Mr. Bernier. Since I know the lifeguards fairly well, I am inclined to think that this immature fellow owes an apology for his criticism. As to the regulations of the pool, I suppose he never stopped to think that there could be a reason for the regulations. He probably never thought that some girls might not want boys to see them in their bathing suits. Maybe he does not realize that more time to swim would be more work for someone else and less time of his own. I certainly hope that I have not stepped on Mr. Bernier's toes as hard as he stepped on the lifeguard's.

Dear Pollster,

I feel that your Student opinion poll of our policy in Vietnam was mis-representative in that it neglected one important school of thought, that of the staunch opponents of our present policy.

I will not attempt to argue against our policy of Support for South Vietnam in their present conflict, for this is a matter of personal conviction on the part of each American, and, to revert to a cliché, "every-one's entitled to their own opinion."

However, I must vehemently object to the sacrifice of American youth to a political entity which changes hands every other day, which suffers internal strife from religious differences, and whose present head of government found it necessary to paint the jets of the Vietnamese Air Force purple in order to match the purple ascots he's so fond of.

The typical and damnable attitude of too many of our students, was expressed perfectly by one Gilbert Cameron when he said, "I don't think about whether its right—we're there." Absence of thought seems common to the proponents of our present policy in Vietnam.

Why can't we support South Vietnam in the same capacity that Red China supports North Vietnam: one of aid, arms, and propaganda—but not one of human life? Is it because North Vietnam would immediately take over? Is it because the South Vietnamese army is unwilling to sacrifice enough for its present, pro-western ideology to retain it? If this is true, Vietnam doesn't deserve even our gold, to say nothing of our blood.

To the Editor:

The School of Music will occupy new facilities by September, 1966.

A proposal to add a major in Music Therapy to the curriculum offerings under the Bachelor of Music degree has been submitted. The proposal includes a request to activate the program in the fall of 1966 with a registered music therapist in charge of the program. Internships will be a part of the training and will take place in various state hospitals.

Many additional changes and offerings are contemplated, but those mentioned above are for activation in the immediate future.

Cordially yours,

'Honor System'

The 1965-66 East Carolina College "Key" lists eight "Penalties for Honor Code Violations". By reading these penalties, the incoming freshmen are convinced of the existence of an "honor system" at E.C.C. Who would be so bold as to suggest that this, and all similar systems, exist only on paper? Only confirmed schizophrenics, neurotics, and Realists would dare suggest such a thing. If these misguided sceptics would search through the records of the Honor Council, they would find scores of violations of the honor system. How is it possible to violate something that does not exist? These unruly doubters will soon learn what they are up against.

The existence of an "honor system" at E.C.C. having been established, the subject of improvement is next in order. Although the brilliant editorials of "The East Carolinian" have proposed many progressive ideas for the permanent perpetuation of the status quo, many students feel this is not enough. The student body must be made aware of the great responsibilities it bears under the present honor system. Indeed, many students do not realize they have any responsibilities to the system (other than to avoid being caught in a covert act). These students should be ashamed of themselves. Although it is true that some professors are so dull as to induce paralysis in their students, and other professors are so blatantly ignorant of their topics that they induce convulsions in their classrooms, the students have no right to cheat on the several "trash" courses forced on them at E.C.C. Perhaps the philistines need to be persuaded by other means to conform to the system. These scoffers need a moral "shot-in-the-arm", so to speak.

This shot-in-the-arm could be administered by the infirmary before and after the students took examinations. After being given a small injection of sodium pentathol, students preparing to take examinations would be asked, "Are you going to cheat?" After the examinations, the students would again receive a shot, and would be asked, "Did you cheat?" If both answers were negative, the grade on the examination would be recorded. If the first answer were negative, but the second were positive, the student would receive an "F". However, if the first answer were positive, but the second were negative (and the student wore a smug smile), he would receive an honorary position with the C.I.A.

As a final suggestion, if all else failed, the tons of paper composing (and decomposing) "honor systems" could be burned. In place of such publications as "The Key", each entering freshman would receive a copy of Rudyard Kipling's stories. If the entering students did not grasp the concept of the "Law of the Jungle", they would either return home after the first quarter, or remain to become future E.C.C. professors.

Student Faction Defends Vietnam

Following are the beliefs of the Student Committee for the Defense of Vietnam and a letter explaining their objectives.

We believe that the war in Vietnam is part of a general Communist effort to dominate all of Southeast Asia.

We believe that the cause of the war rests clearly with Communist leaders in Hanoi, Peking, and among the Viet Cong.

We believe that the so-called our role in Vietnam is encouraging the Communist to continue their aggressive actions in South Vietnam and, in turn, all of Southeast Asia.

We believe that the overwhelming majority of young Americans join us in supporting the efforts of our government to oppose Communist aggression in Vietnam.

Dear Campus Editor:

The college-aged students of the United States have been badly criticized in recent months for their attitude toward the Vietnam issue. This criticism has resulted from the unfortunate wide-spread publicity given to the small, noisy minority of students who have been opposing the American defense of Vietnam.

Consequently, Young Republicans, Young Democrats, and Independents have come together to form the new bi-partisan National Student Committee for the Defense of Vietnam. This new student committee has no association with any extra-party political organization of either the right or the left. Our sole purpose is to mobilize college students in a concerted program of responsible action in support of American resistance to Communist aggression in Southeast Asia.

Specifically, we will engage in a number of activities on the campus level. First, our committee intends to distribute and collect petitions supporting the United States defense of Vietnam. At the end of November, we plan to announce nationally, the total number of student signatures favoring the American commitment to the people of South Vietnam.

Secondly, we are urging college campuses, especially during the period from November 22 to December 10, to engage in a series of rallies supporting American policy in Vietnam.

Thirdly, we plan to distribute educational materials to college campuses explaining this country's position in Vietnam.

Finally, we urge students on campuses to send Christmas cards to our soldiers in Vietnam.

We welcome cooperation and assistance in this bi-partisan, national program to show the American people that the new student radicals do not speak for our generation in their irresponsible opposition to our country's policy in Vietnam.

Guidance Counselors

Dr. George Weigand will again be teaching a course in study skills this quarter. This course, which will meet Monday through Friday at 10:00 a.m. beginning this Monday, will cover studying skills, training, and reading. It is open to all students.

A national survey has shown that the two main problems concerning failing students are: not knowing how to study and lack of interest in a general area. If a student fails he either doesn't work at all or doesn't work effectively.

The main idea of the study skills course is to correct what students are doing wrong and to improve what they are doing right. Dr. Weigand feels that all students, especially freshmen, would benefit from this course.

Canadian Students Spirit Movement

"We just want to be ourselves, and we cannot be ourselves and stay ourselves in the atmosphere in which we live now . . . We're nothing, but we want to be something."

This statement could have been made by a young American Negro in talking about the civil rights situation in the South. It wasn't, however, it was made by a young French Canadian college student in Montreal, in discussing the issue of French Separatism in Quebec.

The Separatist movement in Canada is in many ways similar to the civil rights movement in the United States. The population of Quebec province, home to one-third of Canada's people, is 80 per cent French-speaking Montreal, the largest city in Canada, is the second largest French-speaking city in the world. And yet in Montreal the French feel themselves to be second-class citizens. Their economic inferiority is demonstrated by the contrast between the prosperous Anglo-Saxon west-end of Montreal and the shabby French east-end. Anglo-Saxons dominate government and industry; relatively few French Canadians rise to top positions, and those who do must have a masterful command of English. For these reasons, many French Canadians urge the separation of Quebec from the rest of Canada.

Although the Canadian government has recently attempted to resolve the French Separatist conflict by, among other things, establishing a Royal Commission on Bi-Culturalism and Bi-Lingualism, the movement is still very much alive, as evidenced by this year's riots and demonstrations on Queen Victoria's Birthday. And nowhere is Separatism more apparent than at the University of Montreal, where it seems to be the main social and political issue, occupying the thoughts of both students and faculty.

To get a first hand look at the problem, Mademoiselle's College and Career Contributing Editor, Rita Hoffmann talked to Canadian students at Montreal's two universities, McGill and the University of Montreal. Her findings are reported in the November issue of Mademoiselle. Although the University of Montreal students, mostly of French descent, seemed thoroughly caught up in the Separatist issue, such is not the case at English-speaking McGill. McGill students are aware of the Separatist movement, but they feel it is not their cause. McGill seems to have no unique cause, unless it is that of preserving the ginkgo tree in front of the Arts Building.

The most striking contrast between the two universities is the difference in opinions and attitudes between young French and Anglo-Saxon Canadians. McGill students, when not looking ahead to their personal futures, look aside to the United States, while the University of Montreal students see an intimate connection between their personal futures and the minority-group status of the French-speaking majority in Quebec province. When University of Montreal students discuss America, it may be to condemn U.S. foreign or domestic policy, but more often it is to deplore the influence of the United States on French-Canadian culture.

Young French Canadians are in revolt against the authority of the Roman Catholic Church as much as they are against English domination. Young Anglo-Saxon Canadians, however, have no authoritarian church against which to revolt, no status quo to upset; thus no cause to excite them, to give their lives a larger purpose. Although many McGill students are, on the surface at least, content with life at an internationally-recognized university, and the promise of a prosperous future, a few envy the French Canadians' passionate commitment to a cause.

The search for a just and workable solution to a common problem is an exhilarating and enriching experience. It has been said that the civil rights movement has been as important to the intellectual and moral growth of U.S. students as the students themselves have been to the growth of the movement. The Separatist movement is an important and indigenous cause that might similarly help Canadian students — both English and French working together — to establish a sense of their national identity.

CU Card Contest Accents Christmas

The College Union is sponsoring its annual Christmas Card Contest. This program is designed to give artistic students a chance to participate in College Union programs while displaying their artistic ability. The winner will be required to make 25 duplicate cards by December 17, 1965. These cards will be sent to sister Unions in the Region V of the Association of College Unions.

All sample prints must be turned into the College Union office by 10:30 p.m. Sunday night, December 6. Interested students may obtain a copy of the rules in the CU office. The College Union will pay the winner a $10.00 reward plus paying for — or purchasing — necessary material and twenty-five to fifty cents per card for labor making them.

because now you can complete Air Force ROTC in just half the time!

Are you interested in starting a military career while in college—but afraid it will cut too deeply into your schedule?

Well, here's good news for you. Air Force ROTC now offers a 2-year program. You can start it any time you have 2 years of higher education remaining—whether on the undergraduate or graduate level.

Here's another good thing about this program: you get a chance to "sample" Air Force life before you sign up. During a special summer orientation session, you get to make up your mind about the Air Force, and the Air Force gets to make up its mind about you. Only when both are satisfied are you finally enrolled in the program.

You'll learn a lot in Air Force ROTC. The curriculum has been completely revamped. The accent is on aerospace research and development. But of course the classes are only the beginning. The important thing is that you'll be taking the first big step toward a profession of great responsibility, as a leader on America's Aerospace Team.

Sororities Hold Convocation

Prospective Rushees Meet Greeks Tonight

By LINDA EVANS
Greek Editor

East Carolina's Greek women will formally begin this year's Formal Rush tonight by holding the annual convocation in Austin Auditorium. The meeting begins at 7:00 p.m.

According to Dean Ruth White, Panhellenic Advisor, "To go through Formal Rush, attendance at tonight's convocation is required; therefore, we are urging all interested upperclassmen and freshmen to attend."

At convocation, potential rushees will hear from Dean White about rules governing Formal Rush procedure. The eight presidents for each respective sorority will be presented to the group and give a short talk about her sorority and the sorority system in general.

Convocation also represents an opportunity for the girls interested in rush to meet with and become acquainted with the various sororities and their individual members.

Blanks to be filled out with information about each individual girl will be given out at the convocation. These blanks are necessary for rush procedure and must be completed and returned to the office of the Dean of Women at a specified time to be announced at the meeting tonight.

Formal Rush will begin on February 5, 1966. During the rush period of one week, certain rush rules must be followed. Girls attending convocation will be presented the rules as approved by the East Carolina Panhellenic Council.

Rush Week consists of one week which is set aside by the sorority system for the purpose of becoming acquainted with girls on campus who are interested in the sorority system. Rushees will attend a series of three parties.

The first party will be an open house to which all girls are invited. At the second party, the sororities will present a short skit for the entertainment of the girls.

The third, and last party, is the most important for the sorority and the rushee as it is their last contact until the rushee has decided that she will accept or decline a bid to the sorority. This is the Preferential Party.

After the Preferential Party, both the sorority women and the rushees observe a "Silence Period" in which there is no contact between the two until a specified time on Saturday when the rushee announces her decision.

Rush rules stipulate that a student must have a "C" average to go through rush. No chapter may rush, pledge or initiate a girl until she has fulfilled all eligibility requirements.

Any rushee who violates the rush rules, to be presented in full at convocation, will be automatically disqualified from rush.

According to Panhellenic officials and Dean White, the advisor, it is the sincere hope of the council and the EC Greek women that all girls investigate the possibilities of joining the Greek Society.

Sigma Tau Delta Sponsors Reading

As a part of the traditional observance of the Christmas season, for a number of years the members of Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English fraternity, have sponsored a reading of Charles Dickens' immortal "Christmas Carol." The reading this year is scheduled for presentation on Monday evening, December 13, in Flanagan Auditorium, Room 209. Dr. Ralph Hardete Rives of the English Department will direct the production.

Dr. Rives has announced that try-outs will be held on Wednesday, December 1, at 7:00 p.m. in Flanagan Auditorium. There are a variety of roles available as well as an opportunity to assist in the technical aspects of the production. All students and faculty members interested in working with this production are invited to attend the try-out sessions or to contact either Dr. Rives or Dr. Hermine Caraway, also of the English Department, who is advisor for Sigma Tau Delta.

ALPHA OMICRON PI

The pledge class presented the sisters with a spaghetti dinner last night at the AOPi house. The AOPi enjoyed a social with the Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity last Thursday evening. The AOPi alums attended a brunch last week at the AOPi house. Mrs. F. A. Halstead and Miss Libba Wilson were hostesses for the occasion. The sisters and pledges have begun a drive for the collection of clothes for the Frontier Nursing Service. The project, under the direction of Mary Ann Gentry, will be completed in time to brighten the Christmas of poverty-stricken individuals in the Kentucky mountains. AOPi Judy Joyner, a senior from Rocky Mount, is president of Pi Omega Pi honorary business Fraternity. She holds office in Kappa Delta Pi honorary society as well as serving as treasurer of Panhellenic.

KAPPA ALPHA

The KA's have staged a "train robbery" for the benefit of the underprivileged children in the Greenville area, contributed the most pints of blood of any EC fraternity to the Red Cross blood drive, donated 75,000 glasses of milk to UNICEF, and recently became the first organization of its type to join the Pirates Club.

The KA's are proud to announce the initiation of four new brothers. They are: Tommy Adams from Greensboro, N.C.; George Cummings from Atlantic Beach, Fla.; Tim Gregory from Chesapeake, Va.; and Ron McElheney from Knightdale, North Carolina.

The KA's have several new officers this year who were elected to fill recent vacancies. Jerry Medford, who recently scored the highest mark on the SGA Parliamentarian test, is the new Treasurer. Bill Johnson is the new Doorkeeper while Jerry Allen is the new Sergeant-at-Arms. David Joyner was elected to the Appeals Board, the highest court on campus.

Greek Of The Week

Editor's Note: This is the first in this year's series of the Greek of the Week Column. Alternate weeks will be dedicated to the sororities and fraternities with a representative from each of Greek organizations as well as advisors and interfraternal officers.

This week's number one Greek is Maxine Brown, EC's President of the Sorority Panhellenic Council. A tall, slim, and attractive red-head, Maxine began her duties with the council last year as Panhellenic Representative for her sorority, Delta Zeta. This fall, she took over as president.

Very active on the EC Campus, she has served on the Dean's Advisory Council, SGA, and is now working with the Buccaneer staff. She is also a member of SNEA and the Association for Childhood Education. Maxine is pinned to Phi Kappa Tau, Tom Dildy.

Scholastically, she has been placed on the Dean's List or Honor Roll every quarter since she enrolled and was chosen as a marshal last year.

As for her sorority life, the Wendell, N.C. native pledged Delta Zeta in 1963 during Formal Rush. She has since served the sorority as Vice-President in charge of pledge training, and as its president as well as keeping up with her Panhellenic activities.

She attended the sorority's national convention in Cincinnati last year and represented the EC Panhellenic in Williamsburg at a National Panhellenic Conference earlier this year.

"The sorority life here has provided a chance for me to put into practice the art of gracious living," commented Maxine.

"It has widened my circle of friends, strengthened my self-confidence, and helped me to distinguish between my principals and my prejudices."

"As for Panhellenic itself, I feel that it can be much more active and it is our hope that it will grow through activities such as the recent 'Campus Clean-Up Project.'"

"An active Panhellenic is necessary to establish a good sorority atmosphere on the campus."

EC's Dr. John P. East Announces Candidacy

RALEIGH — The statement below was made by Dr. John Porter East, assistant professor of political science at East Carolina, as he announced his candidacy for representative of the First Congressional District of North Carolina at the State Republican Headquarters, Carolina Hotel, Raleigh, at 11:30 a.m. Monday, Nov. 29.

"I wish to announce that I am a Republican candidate for the Congressional District. I will be filing at the State Board of Elections office in Raleigh on Monday morning, November 29. Increasingly, I have received calls from citizens throughout the District urging me to enter this race, and, as a consequence, I have discussed this matter in recent days with various citizens, including Republican State Chairman James Gardner of Rocky Mount. All of these persons, including Mr. Gardner, have strongly urged that I enter this race and I have finally accepted their support and I welcome the challenge.

My principal reason for accepting this challenge is that I personally cannot in good conscience remain on the sidelines, and without protest, watch another Democratic congressman selected to go to Washington to bow to the wishes of the Johnson Administration. Lyndon Johnson needs to be opposed and the Congressional members of his party are not permitted to raise any serious voice of protest. If there is to be a return to reasonableness and common sense in Washington, it will have to be done within and through the framework of the Republican Party."

Dr. East received his BA degree from Earlham College (Richmond, Indiana) and his MA and PhD from the University of Florida. He has a law degree from the University of Illinois.

He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and has written a book published by the University of North Carolina Press.

EC Receives $25,000 Gift; Minges Show Appreciation

The Administration announced Wednesday a $25,000 gift from Pepsi-Cola bottling companies in Greenville, Kinston and New Bern owned by the Minges family.

The cash contribution — largest single private one ever received by the college — will go into the project fund to construct a field house for the ECC program of intercollegiate athletics.

Formal presentation of the gift was made to ECC trustees' Chairman Robert B. Morgan and President Leo W. Jenkins by John F. Minges, president of the Greenville company, and his brother, Dr. Ray D. Minges — Greenville physician, stockholder in the companies, and president of the ECC sports boosters organization, the Century Club.

Others in the family are Forrest E. Minges, president of the New Bern company; Hoyt A. Minges, president of the Kinston company; Max E. Minges of Greenville, a stockholder; and Martha Minges Bass of Farmville, a stockholder.

Jack Minges, speaking in behalf of the family, said the gift is an expression of the family's appreciation for widespread acceptance of the companies' products in Eastern North Carolina. The Minges companies have won Pepsi-Cola awards for best per capita sales records in the world.

"We feel," Minges continued, "that the well-being and progress of East Carolina College and Eastern North Carolina are so closely interwoven and so interdependent that a contribution to this great and deserving institution is at the same time a contribution to this great and growing region."

In officially accepting the gift, Chairman Morgan and President

Jenkins had high commendation for support by the Minges family, both past and present.

Chairman Morgan, State Senate president pro tempore from Lillington in Harnett County, said:

"On behalf of the trustees, I want to express appreciation for this, another manifestation of loyal support given East Carolina College over the years by the Minges family. We consider such a substantial gift from an Eastern North Carolina family to be an emphatic and unmistakable clear expression of an abiding faith in the future of East Carolina College and its region. It is both encouraging and inspirational for the college and its plans for further development."

Said Dr. Jenkins, "We at East Carolina College owe a debt of deep gratitude to the Minges family, not only for this, the largest single private contribution our college has ever received, but for the continuing support they have rendered this institution over the years."

"The members of this fine family can be assured that this outstanding and unprecedented expression of faith in East Carolina College and Eastern North Carolina is accepted with a genuine desire to apply it to our overall purpose: to develop this institution to provide a fuller and richer life for the people it serves."

The new field house for which the Minges gift will be used is to be built near the west end of Ficklen Stadium. It will provide locker, training and other rooms for intercollegiate programs in baseball, football, lacrosse, soccer, and track. Those facilities could not be included in the $2.5-million coliseum and pool facility the college will build soon because of state restrictions.

John F. Minges, along with Howard L. Hodges Jr. of Greenville, has headed a 16-man field house project committee which set out to raise at least $100,000. With gifts already received, the Minges family contribution and donations hoped for in the near future, committee spokesmen say they are confident of successful completion of the project.

Dr. Ferrell Speaks In Va.; Reviews Byrd Organization

In Richmond November 18, Dr. Henry C. Ferrell, Jr. of the East Carolina history faculty described the roles of Claude A. Swanson and Thomas Staples Martin in laying the foundations in the early years of this century for the Byrd Organization of the Virginia Democratic Party.

In a paper prepared for presentation to the morning session of the Southern Historical Association's annual meeting, Dr. Ferrell said that Swanson and Martin "made more use of their personal attractiveness and political flexibility than appeals to race, ideologies or religionism."

By 1911, the result of their efforts, he said, was "a powerful, effective middle class organization... that continued to function successfully owing to its ability to reflect the interests and concerns of Virginia's electorate."

Dr. Ferrell's paper, entitled, "Claude Swanson and the Origins of the Byrd Organization," was part of the program scheduled for the Association's 31st annual meeting here.

Dr. Ferrell, an Associate Professor of history at ECC, has AB and MA degrees from Duke University and a PhD from the University of Virginia. He has been on the ECC faculty for about four years.

Dr. J. W. Berg Lectures Here

Dr. Joseph W. Berg, Jr. of the Department of Oceanography at Oregon State University will lecture Thursday, December 2, in the Library Auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

His topic will be "The Dynamic Earth." All those interested may attend.

This lecture is sponsored by the East Carolina Department of Geography and is a part of the Visiting Scientist Program of the American Geophysical Union.

A Honda is a slim 24" at the widest point. This narrows down the hunt for a parking space considerably. You can slide into almost any shady spot. Like just outside of English Lit. Hondas fit into slim budgets too. Prices start about $215*. Gas goes farther, up to 200 mpg on some models. And cutting your wheels in half does just about the same thing for insurance costs. Or more.

This is the sporty Super 90 with its distinguished T-bone frame. Tops 60 mph. Just one of the 15 Honda models that make other campus transportation strictly for the birds.

Victorious Pirates Revisit Orlando

By DAN SAEED

The East Carolina Pirates return to Orlando as defending Tangerine Bowl Champions on December 11th when they meet the Black Bears of the University of Maine. The bowl game is symbolic of the East Coast Championship for small colleges.

The Pirates, currently ranked third in the nation, won the Eastern Championship last year with a 14-13 victory over the University of Massachusetts. The post season game is rather routine for the seniors on the squad who have been to three successive post season bowls. The Bears of Maine present impressive credentials, as they have posted an 8-1 record for the season while scoring an average of 27 points a game.

Coach Stas commented that "The University of Maine isn't as large as we are on the line but their defense is extremely quick." The Bear's defense will provide a strong test for the high scoring Pirates. Coach Harold Western has been head coach at Maine since 1911.

The S.G.A. is selling tangerines again this year to raise funds to send the Band and cheerleaders to the Tangerine Bowl. Once again the Atlantic Coast Line will run a Pirate Special for students, that leaves Friday evening for Orlando. The reserve tickets will cost $34.50 including the train fare and game tickets. Game tickets or Pirate Special tickets may be purchased at the ticket office in the Gym.

EC Swimmers Open Season With State Monday

By MIKE CONLEY

Dr. Ray Martinez, who has coached some great EC swimming teams, believes that this year's team "should be the strongest ever at East Carolina" and that it will be facing "by far the most difficult schedule". This year, East Carolina will host four of the top twelve teams in the nation, affording the people in this area an opportunity to watch Olympic-caliber swimmers.

This year's team inherits a championship heritage. In 1957 and again in 1959, the Pirates won the NATA Swimming and Diving Championships. When East Carolina joined the NCAA, the swimming team continued the winning tradition by capturing second place in the 1964 College Division Championships and placing fifth last year. East Carolina will be eligible for the 1965 Southern Conference Championship, and Coach Martinez states, with confidence in his outstanding swimmers, that "we should win and set eight new records in the Southern Conference". An examination of conference times backs up the coach's optimism.

The team's strong diving will be led by senior Paul Donohue, who scored second in the 1965 College Division National Championships. Bob Copeland, a Junior College transfer, and sophomore Dick Tobin adds depth and promise to give East Carolina three fine divers.

Captain Larry Hewes, a senior 50 and 100 man, leads a group of strong sprinters which includes junior Mike Hamilton and sophomore Jay Hiltz. The middle distances are represented by junior Mike Dineen, sophomore Rick Conaway, and senior Dick Fogle. Mike Hamilton, a junior, and Joel Cygan are being counted on for the 500.

Senior Dick Fogle and sophomore Don Snyder promise to make the butterfly a strong event. The best "one-two" punch in the school's history will be provided by two sophomores, Owen Paris, a prep school all-American, and Tom Houghton, in the breaststroke. Unusual depth is also evident in the backstroke with sophomore Mike Tomberlin, senior Joel Cygan and sophomore Jay Hiltz. Junior Lee Rachmel specializes in the individual medley. Pete Klaus in the backstroke and breaststroke, and Layne Jorgenson, in the sprints supply additional depth.

The coach happily describes his new swimmers as "by far the best freshman team ever" and believes that they will develop into a team as equally fine as the new college pool. The pool which will be of Olympic size is part of the EC gym complex whose construction was begun last week. Seating for a thousand spectators will surround the new pool and diving tank.

On Monday the number four team in the nation, N.C. State, will be here for a 4 p.m. meet followed by the number six team, the University of North Carolina. These North Carolina schools, which have supplied many swimmers to U.S. international teams, will provide exciting swimming.

EC travels to N.C. State on Jan. 10 and will host high school teams from North and South Carolina and Virginia for the 12th EC High School Championships on Jan. 15. Three of the South's best will invade East Carolina during January, with Alabama here Jan. 24; the University of Florida, nationally ranked 12th, on Jan. 27; and Florida State, ranked 11th, on the next day.

VPI will be here on Jan. 31 followed by Washington & Lee on Feb. 5 and Southern Conference foe the Citadel on Feb. 12. The team will travel to another SC opponent, Davidson, on Feb. 14 and then continue to meet South Carolina on Feb. 15. VMI, the third SC foe of the season, will be here on Feb. 26. The Southern Conference Championships will be held at the Citadel on March 3-5, while the NCAA Championships will be at the Air Force Academy on March 24-26.

The Freshman schedule includes Grimsley High School here on Dec. 10; N. C. State there on Jan. 10; and Wingate College here on Feb. 5. The team will journey to UNC on Feb. 9 and to South Carolina on Feb. 17. An Invitational Championship will be held at Athens, Ga. on Feb. 18 and 19 and the Freshman Invitational will be at UNC on Feb. 21.

The state of North Carolina has made tremendous gains in recent years in competitive swimming under the leadership of men like East Carolina's Coach Martinez. Eastern North Carolina will have the privilege of watching a great season of swimming at the ECC pool.

Bear's 8-1 Record Earns Bowl Bid

The University of Maine's unbeaten Yankee conference football champions were named to play in the Dec. 11 Tangerine Bowl game at Orlando, Fla.

Ross T. Smith, athletic director at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and chairman of the seven-member selection committee, named the Black Bears as one of the entries for what is officially called the Atlantic Coast Regional College Division Championship of the NCAA.

The University of Massachusetts won the 1964 Northern invitation after winning the Yankee conference title last year.

The Maine selection was a bitter pill for Springfield College, which had hoped to see its first undefeated team in 72 years become the northern representative in the title play-off.

"It was a very difficult selection to make," Smith said. He said that the committee conducted several conference calls before choosing Maine.

"We tried to appraise the strength of the schedules of the various teams," Smith said. Springfield Massachusetts, East Stroudsburg State, Central Connecticut and Ithaca College were identified as the other teams which received final consideration.

Maine missed an unbeaten season by just 72 seconds when record-shattering quarterback Dick De Varney was nailed in the end zone by three Tampa defenders last Saturday night. The safety gave Tampa a 2-0 victory and shattered an Eight-Game Black Bear winning streak.

De Varney, the senior passing Ace—broke a dozen University records as Maine whipped all five Yankee conference rivals as well as non-league opponents Boston University, Colby and Youngstown.

The Black Bears' biggest victory was a 10-3 season-opening decision over defending yankee champion Massachusetts.

2nd Half Come Back Brings 35-10 Victory

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 20 — Fullback Dave Alexander scored four touchdowns, passed for another and broke three southern conference records today to pace Bowl bound East Carolina College to a 35-10 win over fumbling Howard College.

East Carolina, the Nation's third ranked small college team, and bound for the Tangerine Bowl against Maine in Orlando, Fla., Dec. 11, scored all of its points in the second half behind the bruising Alexander.

The 200-pound senior from Washington, D.C. scored on runs of 15, three, one and 25 yards and also threw a three yard scoring pass to end Ruffin Odom.

Alexander set Southern Conference records for most touchdowns in a season (16), most points scored in a season (96) and most yards gained (1,587). He gained 187 yards on 37 carries, one more than the entire Howard team.

Alexander also outrushed his own teammates who, except for Alexander, were held to minus 14-yards rushing by Howard's defense.

Howard, which led 3-0 at halftime on Keeling's 35 yard field goal fumbled six times in the second half. Three of the fumbles led to East Carolina scores.

Larry Lackey scored Howard's only touchdown on a one-yard plunge in the third period.

The win was East Carolina's eighth against a loss to Furman. For the Bulldogs of Howard it was loss No. six in 10 games.

Jerry Garrison, Howard's speedy halfback, was the Bulldogs leading ground gainer with 72 yards on 15 carries. Garrison fumbled three times however, and they all lead to East Carolina.

Touchdowns:
Howard 3 0 7 0-10
East Carolina 0 0 14 21-35
