

Freshmen Arrive On Campus

By TERESA HUFFMAN
A great many "world Shakers" arrived on campus Monday, a very happy and elated, but inside — frightened. Each of us want to reach out and touch — to be a part — belong. We are excited by the crowd and all the activity, while underneath we harbor doubts about all these strange people.

The college campus, so large and intriguing in the catalogue, is very large and lonely when you find yourself without your best friends and the presence of your parents.

New friends are soon made and pert girls nod their heads in unison when asked if they like E.C.C., they then dive into a whirlwind of comments, peppered with rumors heard from friends and upperclassmen; while the guys settle into discussion of football and observations on the players and coaches.

"Mixed-up", is the word for the day, but in the confusion, problems are worked out, dorm numbers exchanged, classrooms found and a new mode of living introduced.

Bitter Ends Mark Happy Beginning

The Bitter End Singers, a five-member troupe of vocalists and instrumentalists, are scheduled to return to East Carolina College for a concert tonight.

Weather permitting, and the forecast is encouraging, the musical concert will be presented at 8 p.m. in the portable bandstand of Ficklen Stadium.

Though the attraction is a special feature of freshman orientation at EC which began Tuesday and ends Thursday, the sponsoring Student Government Association has invited everybody. No tickets are required. (If rain should force a change of plans, the concert will go on at the same hour but will be moved into Wright Auditorium.)

The five performers, three boys and two girls, made their first appearance here last year for the 1965 Freshman Orientation Program.

The two girls are Tina Bohlman and Vilma Vaccaro. Their partners in song are Lefty Baker, Bruce Albert Farwell and Kenneth Sutton Hodges.

They draw their group name from the New York Club where they got their start just over two years ago. The owner of The Bitter End, Fred Weintraub, launched the singers because he saw a new trend in what he calls the "Dixieland Rock Folk" field.

Since they opened at The Bitter End on Aug. 24, 1964, they have made various club and TV appearances and are under contract with Mercury Records. They have also appeared twice at the White House and they accompanied the President's wife on a whistle-stop tour she made through the South in 1964.

Last spring they appeared on two network TV shows: "The Steve Lawrence NBC Follies" and on "Shindig."

EC Honored By NUEA Membership

East Carolina College has been accepted into full membership of the National University Extension Association (NUEA), the oldest and largest American organization for university extension programs.

East Carolina is one of three institutions in North Carolina which have membership. Others are the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and N. C. State University at Raleigh.

EC President Leo W. Jenkins announced the new membership recently after receiving formal notification from NUEA President Charles F. Milner in Washington, D. C.

Dr. Jenkins said the director of the ECC Extension Division, Dr. David J. Middleton, will be East

Carolina's official representative to NUEA.

The association now has more than 110 members, including many of the oldest and most distinguished universities in the United States, its territories and Canada.

East Carolina's membership became official at this summer's NUEA convention at Albuquerque, N. Mex. A vote of all delegates sanctioned a recommendation from the board of directors.

The board had approved a favorable recommendation from an NUEA committee which visited the East Carolina campus last spring.

Under Dr. Middleton's direction the EC Extension Division operates three fully accredited two-year resident centers (at Goldsboro, Cherry Point and Camp Lejeune), the Undergraduate Evening College (UEC) on the EC campus, a program of graduate and undergraduate extension courses throughout Eastern North Carolina and a new program of continuing adult education.

According to President Jenkins, the Extension Division in a recent year offered 45 per cent of all extension classes conducted by colleges and universities in North Carolina.

In the upcoming school year the ECC division, according to Dr. Middleton, expects more than 10,000 course registrations.

Welcome Freshmen . . .

While everyone else on campus is extending hearty welcomes to the largest freshman class in EC's history, we of the EAST CAROLINIAN extend an equally cordial welcome to each of you.

As freshmen you will soon find that this is to be one of the most progressive and momentous years in East Carolina's history as well as your own educational career.

Each of you are offered countless opportunities for educational and social enrichment during your stay here. All these opportunities are yours for the asking provided you take them with responsibility and determination.

Prerequisites for academic success at East Carolina are not difficult if you get off to the right start. Your first quarter is a test of maturity, discipline and stability. There are no short cuts to good grades. Develop good study habits and plan at the beginning to spend twice as much time studying outside class as you do in the classroom.

There is only one way to stay at East Carolina and that is to be academically acceptable.

If you learn in the beginning to budget your time there is no reason why each of you should not find time for campus activities. As freshmen you are the life blood of our campus. Every organization will eventually depend on what you have to offer in the way of changes and new ideas.

Perhaps the best place to start as a participant in campus organizations is with your Student Government Association. Progressive and moving toward student benefits, the SGA is one organization which opens the door to numerous other campus activities while giving each participant an opportunity to help himself as well as others.

Even in this first week of orientation the SGA has scheduled the Righteous Brothers for the 1966-67 entertainment series, extended women's hours and provided the best movie equipment in the city for your weekend entertainment.

All clubs and organizations will welcome you and whatever you have to contribute to their well being. Many of you will become officers and serve in other responsible positions.

It is not too early to get involved in the activities offered here. The main thing is to do one thing well without spreading yourselves too thin. You have four years here, so get a good solid footing in the beginning and you will find fairly smooth sailing the rest of the way.

We of the EAST CAROLINIAN sincerely hope that each of you will come to think of East Carolina with the same pride and love which we feel for this institution. We stand ready to assist you in any way possible.

Aim high, look to the future and have confidence in your own personal worth. Good luck and have a happy year.

The Chance Of Your Life . . .

There comes a time in the term of every college editor when he must ask for the support of the student body. And I am no exception to that rule.

Certainly our staff has had previous experience in starting a new year of publication and recruiting a new staff. Each year some of our staff does not return and it becomes necessary to fill vacated positions.

Sometimes we return in somewhat as confused a manner as do most college freshmen. We need a new staff and therefore we are asking all of you who have a little free time to lend a helping hand.

There's a lot of work to be done and vast opportunities for those people on campus who desire staff positions. We have a lot of fun and consequently would like for you to share in an experience which could easily become the center of your college activities.

Frankly, our staff is prejudiced with the opinion that there is not a single organization on campus with as much to offer as the EAST CAROLINIAN. We're an unusual bunch of individualists. And if you don't get to know us personally, we think you will miss the better half of your college life!

We're particularly nice to freshmen and we know you will want to get in on a good deal.

Come on down to our "upper sanctum" Sunday afternoon at 4:00 p.m. and let us introduce ourselves to you at our first open house. We're located on third floor Wright.

We're looking forward to seeing lots of new faces, so don't disappoint us. Remember that the best half of your college life will be lost if you do not investigate the opportunities and future waiting for you in the EAST CAROLINIAN office.

Counseling Testimonial

By Frisby Hendricks

EDITOR'S NOTE: This column begins a weekly view of national, state, local, and collegiate news written by the editorial staff of the EAST CAROLINIAN.

We are usually leary of testimonials, but we feel compelled to give one at this time. The testimonial is awarded to Dr. George Weigand and his staff of Counseling and Guidance.

In our freshman year, when Terry Sanford was governor and East Carolina had a total of 4,000 students, a professor from the University of Maryland arrived at East Carolina and faced a skeptical student body. This professor, Dr. Weigand, soon gained the confidence of the student body through lectures and classes. The confidence at East Carolina has now grown to where Dr. Weigand's staff is composed of a receptionist, Mrs. Joyce Crisp; three counselors, Dr. Leighton Harrell, Dr. Ione Jean Ryan, Mrs. Phyllis Kernen; the expansion of additional offices and a Veterans Administration contract.

We were less confident of counseling, which is a relatively new device of probing the mind, than the rest of the student body. After reading testimonials and books about or by Dr. Weigand, we walked in his office with the idea that he would whisper the secret of academic success, throw a bit of magic powder above our heads, and we would walk out of his office cured of academic probation. We won't say how many quality points we were lacking, but it was more than twenty. It wasn't as easy as we thought. It took a year and a half of patience every Monday afternoon with Dr. Weigand. We can now proudly say that we have a C average.

The theory of counseling is to find the individual student's problem. It may be a mental block, insecurity, insufficient academic background, or even sex. Once the problem is found, it is comparatively easy to solve. We were shown our problem by means of interviews. Others are given tests to find their solution. Although it took us over a year to find a solution, others take a shorter time. We are not the only successful ones. Numerous cases can be cited. One co-ed rose 30 Q.P.s in one quarter. A male student rose 50 q.p.s in two quarters.

If there are any freshmen or upperclassmen who have academic problems, you have probably heard of the office. Take advantage of a great opportunity that is being offered.

East Carolina Looks To The Future

FROSH AND FACULTY HEAR SPEECH

... President Jenkins explains university status to new comers ...

Dr. Jenkins Explains University Intentions

East Carolina College President Leo W. Jenkins told his faculty in their back-to-school assembly Tuesday that East Carolina "will continue to grow as vigorously as we can in order to serve better the growing needs of our region, state and nation."

Jenkins said, "ECC is building on a 20-year growth record that shows enrollment up from 1,404 to an expected 9,000 this fall, a rise in faculty numbers from 37 to about 450 and an annual operating budget increase from $1-million to $10.5 million."

He told the faculty, which includes 103 newcomers this fall, of the proposal to convert the college into a university and said: "I feel confident that with your help we shall attain our objective and that East Carolina College can and will become a great regional university."

Later Dr. Jenkins addressed a meeting of new freshmen. He pointed out to them that they each have the equivalent of a state scholarship and urged them to make the most of their educational opportunities.

In his faculty speech, Dr. Jenkins pointed out that the college has again filed record breaking budget requests in order to keep up with growing demands for expansion and increased quality.

For the 1967-'69 biennium, he said, East Carolina has asked for $27.5-million for capital improvements, $25.3-million for operating expenses and $4.4-million more for the B Budget, a separate request to provide for expansion beyond normal growth in the operating budget.

Among B Budget items, he explained, are requests for funds to grant 20 per cent salary increases, reduce the teacher-student ratio from 7-1 to 15-1 and free faculty members for more research in the next biennium.

On the university topic, Dr. Jenkins emphasized to the faculty that the proposal to elevate East Carolina to university status is not intended to hurt any other state institution.

"That," he said, "would be not only irrelevant to the central questions, but also completely foreign to our aims."

"The motto of East Carolina College is 'To Serve' and the motivation of this (university) proposal is to prepare this great institution to serve better the growing needs of our region, state and nation."

"Neither the college nor the eastern region of the state need be timid about seeking growth," he explained. "Historically the eastern part of North Carolina need not be on the defensive. It was in these eastern counties that early leadership and vision were provided."

"Now in mid-20th century, if Eastern North Carolina fails in initiative and courage to reach toward its maximum development, it will fail to honor its historic past, and it will fail to serve its living present," Jenkins said.

"What the eastern half of the state does for itself will inevitably serve all of North Carolina."

Frosh Star In TV Special

Orientation Scoops Spotlight

Thursday television station WNCT-TV, Channel Nine, will broadcast a half-hour special tonight on the opening of East Carolina College for the 1966-'67 school year.

Produced by the station's remote unit, the special is titled "East Carolina college: 1966" and will be aired at 10 p.m. Thursday.

It will open and close with comments by East Carolina President Leo W. Jenkins. It will include the campus construction story by Vice President F. D. Duncan and interviews with students conducted by WNCT-TV Program Director Ed Fields.

A special feature will be comments by head football Coach and Athletic Director Clarence Stasovich. He will also introduce top players of the varsity football squad.

In announcing the special campus production, WNCT-TV General Manager Hank Tribble said the station "welcomes this opportunity to present to Eastern North Carolina a close look at what is happening at this fine institution."

WNCT-TV personnel have worked closely with the college public relations office in arranging for production of the half-hour special. Part of it will be videotaped at Wright Circle on the main campus and part in Ficklen Stadium.

Dr. Wiley Assumes Position

English Dept. Greet New Head

East Carolina College announced Saturday the appointment of a new English department chairman.

He is Dr. Charles G. Wiley, Western New Mexico University professor for the past two years and former director of professional and graduate studies of the U. S. Naval Ordnance Test Station at China Lake, Calif.

As chairman of the 47-teacher English department, Dr. Wiley starts his first academic year at East Carolina when the 1966 fall quarter opens Tuesday.

He succeeds Dr. Meredith Neill Posey, professor of English at ECC since 1938 and chairman of the department since 1958.

Dr. Posey asked to return to full-time teaching in the department. He plans to retire next year.

Dr. Wiley, a widower, is a native of Santa Rosa, N. Mex. He has AB and PhD degrees from the University of New Mexico and an MA from Columbia.

He went to Western New Mexico in 1964 after serving for two years as director of the extension and graduate program operated by the Navy at China Lake in cooperation with the University of California.

Dr. Wiley, 44, has taught at the State University, the New Mexico Institute of Technology and Fort Lewis A&M College at Durangi, Colo.

At Fort Lewis he was chairman of the humanities and language arts division.

The Chemistry Department has a new department chairman, Dr. Robert C. Lamb. He resigned as chemistry chairman of Augusta (Ga.) College to succeed Dr. Grover W. Everett.

SGA Buys Equipment For Movies In Wright

By DAN SAIEED, JR.

"Ah, what's the matter," has in the past been the typical cry when the movie equipment has broken down in Old Austin for campus movies.

Well, this will never happen again, beginning Fall Quarter. Dean Alexander, Assistant Dean of Student Affairs, has purchased new movie equipment for air-conditioned Wright Auditorium. According to Dean Alexander, a proposal to the Student Legislature to appropriate money for the equipment. In the Spring, the legislature appropriated $9,000 and the Summer School SGA appropriated the other $3,000.

The contract was awarded to Standard Theater Supply of Greensboro, N. C. Purchased for Wright Auditorium are two Century Projectors with Bousch and Loub lenses, Altec Sound Equipment, Strong Power units and lamps, and movie screen that is 15 feet, 5 inches high, and 33 feet, 5 inches long; the largest screen in Greenville. This screen is the absolute maximum size that could be put on the Wright Auditorium stage. In addition a turntable will provide soft music before each movie production.

The projection booth will be completely sound proofed to rid the auditorium of projector noise. The equipment is scheduled to be completely installed by the end of August. The Fall Schedule is "Sons of Katie Elder" on September 9; "Quo Vadis" on September 16; "Your Cheatin' Heart" on September 23; "Harlow" on September 30; "Flight of the Phoenix" on October 7; "Joy in the Morning" on October 14; "The Cincinnati Kid" on October 21; "The Spy Who Came in from the Cold" on October 28; "The Hill" on November 4; "Circus World" on November 11; and "Operation Crossbow" on November 18.

In the future, a supply of better film prints will be available to EC; thus, providing more current and popular films.

Dean Alexander stated, "Records indicate that Campus Movies are the most popular form of extracurricular activity on the campus of East Carolina. The Student Government Association recognized this and is spending much money in preparation of the projection booth, wiring of the auditorium for sound, and the installation of equipment."

"The reason that Campus Movies are shown only at 7:00 p.m. on Friday nights this fall according to Dean Alexander is because of the greater seating capacity of Wright Auditorium over Old Austin. But if increased, student attendance warrants it, the movies will be shown on Saturday nights.

EC Soph. Awarded $500 Medical Grant

A rising sophomore in East Carolina College's School of Nursing is the recipient of the 1966 scholarship award of the Pitt County Medical and Dental Society.

Miss Evelyn Lois Brooks, a native of Pitt County and granddaughter of Mr. W. O. Crisp of Route 3, Greenville, and Mrs. Roy B. Cuntz of Clarkdale, Arizona, has been awarded the $500 scholarship.

She was selected on the basis of maturity, ability in nursing and academic excellence.

A graduate of Wurzburg Army Military High School in Wurzburg, Germany, she was a member of the National Honor Society there. She was also the winner of a $200 scholarship award given by the Wurzburg Woman's Club.

Her parents are Chief Warrant Officer Robert A. Brooks and Mrs. Brooks. A veteran of 10 years service, he is stationed at Ft. Campbell, Ky., and recently received orders to report to Viet Nam.

Her mother and five younger brothers — Robert Thomas, John Marion, David Edwin, Larry Anthony and James Wesley — have returned to Greenville. Her aunt is Miss Lou Crisp, also of Greenville.

Graduate Exams Offered Here

GRADUATE RECORD

The testing office of East Carolina will offer the Graduate Record Examinations (GRE) six times during the 1966-'67 school term.

Franklin J. Sadlack, testing director at the college, said this week that GRE sessions are scheduled on these six Saturdays: Oct. 29 and Dec. 17, 1966; Jan. 21, Feb. 25, April 22 and July 3, 1967.

As in past years, according to Sadlack, the GRE will include an aptitude test of general scholastic ability and advanced tests in various major fields of study. This year for the first time, however, an advanced test in geography will be available.

GRE Scores are required or recommended of candidates for admission to many American and Canadian graduate schools and of applicants for many graduate fellowship awards.

Sadlack said candidates should learn from their preferred graduate schools of fellowship committees which of the exams are required or recommended and when they should be taken.

GRADUATES IN BUSINESS

The Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business, a requirement for entrance by more than 140 graduate business schools throughout the nation, will be offered at East Carolina College five times during the 1966-'67 academic year.

Franklin J. Sadlack, director of testing at the college, said the examination, designed and administered by the Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N. J., will be given here on five Saturdays — Nov. 5, 1966, and Feb. 4, April 1, July 3 and Aug. 12, 1967.

East Carolina is one of the official testing centers designated by the Princeton testing service.

Senior Receives Spilman Scholarship

A senior in the School of Business at East Carolina College has been awarded the $500 John B. Spilman Scholarship for 1966-'67.

He is Hugh Douglas Helms of Morganton, one of EC's top students in business. "He has maintained a straight A average in all his courses," according to Dr. Paul T. Hendershot, assistant dean of the business school.

The scholarship was created from a $11,000 gift to EC from the daughter of the school's first treasurer, the late John Barham Spilman. The donor, Mrs. Frances Spilman Facci of Montreal, Que., said the memorial scholarship is to help "a deserving young man or woman in the field of business (who is) a native of the state."

Helms is the first recipient of the new award, established last summer. Another $500 award will be made to a senior next year.

Helms is the son of Mr. C. H. Helms of Morganton.

PANHELLENIC COUNCIL

The new officers of the Panhellenic Council for 1966-67 are President, Jane Brown (Kappa Delta); Vice President, Kathy Howett (Sigma Sigma Sigma); Recording Secretary, Pamela Lackey (Alpha Delta Pi); Corresponding Secretary, Constance Trompeter, (Alpha Omicron Pi); Treasurer, Donna Dorsey (Alpha Phi); Rush Chairman, Juanita Barbee (Alpha Xi Delta); Parliamentarian, Eleanor Fowler (Chi Omega); Chaplain, Eloise Helms (Delta Zeta).

Plans are now in process to hold a meeting in the near future to discuss activities for the coming year.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

The brothers and pledges of Lambda Chi Alpha hope everyone had a nice summer, and welcome you back to campus. The Lambda Chi Alpha chapter hopes to see the students at the school sponsored programs this year and at the fraternity and sorority houses. Good luck all new freshmen and we cordially invite you to visit our house at 552 S. Cotanche Street.

ALPHA XI DELTA

Mrs. Blanche Grey, former housemother of the Alpha Xi Delta Chapter at East Carolina College, died Friday, September 2, 1966 in Stokes, North Carolina. The funeral was held Sunday at 2:00 P.M. Mrs. Grey was forced by a lingering illness to leave the Alpha Xi Delta house in the Spring Quarter of 1966. Her duties have been assumed by Miss Mary Wells of Teachey, North Carolina.

THETA CHI

A great deal of work was done at Epsilon Iota Chapter of Theta Chi this summer. The house was given a new coat of paint, repairs made throughout, and new furnishings were purchased for the housemen's apartment.

With the majority of the brothers returning to school this fall a good year is foreseen. Plans are being made for Fall Rush, and several combo parties are already scheduled.

Offices for this year are Butch

Temple, Paul Ross, Jim O'Brian, and Larry Holt.

Theta Chi extends a warm welcome to all new freshman and transfer students and hopes that everyone will drop by the house at 414 West Fourth Street any time and meet the members of Epsilon Iota Chapter.

Sports Film Library Comes To Campus

East Carolina College's athletic department has established a sports film library with the help of Wachovia Bank and Trust Company.

A Wachovia representative, Dr. J. W. Pou, presented the first three films to ECC Director of Athletics Clarence Stasavich this week.

Stasavich said the films will be used, not only as instructional materials for varsity sports, but also for various classes in physical ed-

New Dorm Honors Educator's Ideals

East Carolina's new 500-bed men's dormitory will bear the name of one of North Carolina's leading newspaper editors, Henry Belk of the Goldsboro News-Argus.

College president Leo W. Jenkins says it is "highly appropriate that this beautiful new men's residence be named for this champion of educational opportunity for all."

He added: "Henry Belk's name will serve as a constant reminder to the men students who are residents of Belk Dormitory that they owe an obligation to excel as citizens of our society in return for the opportunity that has been made available to them in keeping with Henry Belk's ideals."

The dormitory, constructed on a budget of about $1.375 million, goes into service Monday, as students arrived for the opening of EC's 58th year.

A Greenville architectural firm, Dudley and Shoe, designed the new dorm, the fourth of its size for EC men students. Exterior corridors give access to 63 four-room suites, each with accommodations for eight residents.

Belk Dorm faces north from the south end of College Hill Drive which runs in front of the three other 500-man dorms. They are named for Governor W. Kerr Scott, Governor Charles B. Aycock and Dr. Paul E. Jones of Farmville.

Belk, senior member and former chairman of the EC trustees, is a native of Monroe. He attended Duke University when it was Trinity College, receiving an AB degree in 1923, and later studied at Columbia University's School of Journalism.

He began his North Carolina newspaper career on the News-Argus in 1926. He had already directed the news bureaus of Trinity and Wake Forest colleges.

His professional colleagues have honored him by electing him president of the N. C. Press Association (1950-'51), the Eastern N. C. Press Association (1944) and the N. C. Associated Press News Council (1963).

Since 1956 he has been a member of the American Society of Newspaper Editors and is a former member of the Associated Press Managing Editors. He was chosen to address the APME San Francisco convention in 1951.

Belk has been active in religious, civic and educational as well as newspaper circles.

Governor Dan More recently re-appointed him to the Committee for Employment of the handicapped and at the same time named him to that panel's executive committee.

An active member of Madison Avenue Baptist Church, he has served his denomination statewide as a director of the Biblical Recorder, Baptist state newspaper and now serves on the board of directors of homes for the aging operated by the Baptist State Convention.

'Unloaded' Gun Kills Student

John Charles Hanks, a student at East Carolina from Lenior, North Carolina, accidentally shot himself at Brook Valley Country Club on Tuesday, September 6.

Hanks was employed as a part time caterer at the club. According to the investigating officers from the Sheriff's Department, Hanks picked up a pistol that he thought wasn't loaded, and put it to his head. He then pulled the trigger and Hanks was dead within minutes from the bullet.

Hanks resided at 804 E. Third Street at the Redwood Apartments. He was married to the former Carolyn Plouski on August 29.

EC Cultural Opportunities Extended

Students at East Carolina have the opportunity to attend 23 theatrical performances, musical concerts and lecture programs scheduled for the 1966-67 season of campus entertainment.

And while the programs are arranged each year primarily for student and faculty audiences, the Student Government Association is again offering a limited number of season tickets for sale to the general public.

Season tickets for the entire 23-part program are $17.50. They are $5 each for the Fine Arts Concert Series, the Popular Concert Series, the College Theater Series or the Lecture Series.

Single tickets, also limited in supply, are priced at $3 each for the fine arts and pops concerts, $2 for the theater productions and lectures, and $1 for lecture-film programs in the Lecture Series.

The season opens Thursday, Sept. 15, with a lecture by Sen. Peter Dominick, R-Colo., and continues with two or more programs each month until the EC Playhouse closes the season with a four-night run of the Arthur Schnitzler satire, "La Ronde," next May 3-6.

Some highlights of the season: concerts by the Dukes of Dixieland, the National Symphony Orchestra, the Westminster Choir and flamenco guitarist Sabicas; stage productions of "Stop the World, I Want to Get Off" and "Marat-Sade" ("The Persecution and Assassination of Marat as Performed by the Inmates of the Asylum of Charenton under the Direction of the Marquis de Sade"); and lectures by Pulitzer Prize-winning historian Richard Hofstadter and John Spencer Churchill, nephew of Sir Winston.

Rudolph Alexander, SGA concert manager, said a brochure which describes the 23 programs and includes a ticket order form is available on request from the Central Ticket Office in Wright Auditorium.

Popular Concert Series (four programs) — magician Martin St. James, Thursday, Nov. 3; "The Music of Richard Rodgers" starring Elaine Malbin, William Metcalf, Joanne Wheatley and Hal Kanner, Saturday, Nov. 12; guitarist Sabicas, Tuesday, Jan. 17; Dukes of Dixieland, Friday, Feb. 3.

EC's Fighting Pirates Prepare For Season

By CLEM WILLIAMS

The East Carolina football team has been preparing since August for its season open against William & Mary. As of now there have been no casualties. The coaches all agree that most boys came back in good shape.

Coach Welborn, assistant coach remarked, "We've had quite a few surprises from sophomores, Ham Hamilton, tackle; Bill Livermore, guard; Miles Honeycutt, defensive end; Bob Reynolds, off end; Wayne Lineberry, middle line backer; and Dennis Young, tailback. Jim Flow and George Gay are the top candidates at the fullback position. These boys, along with our veterans, are working very hard." Coach Welborn, also, had high praise for guard Bill Ragan.

The nucleus of the team will center around the seven returning veterans. Among these are Bill Bailey, offensive tailback; Churchill Grimes, offensive end; Walter Bostic, offensive guard; Leroy Cobb, defensive tackle; Pete Crane, offensive guard; Johnny Crew, offensive center; and Robert Ellis, defensive halfback. Johnny Crew is a member of last year's all-star football team and is also captain of the Pirate football team. Leroy Cobb is alternate captain. High praise was also given Bill Bailey and Mike Herring for their punting.

The kicking chores have been vacant by Pete Kriz who was declared ineligible. Currently, Peter Moe, also a star track performer, is his high jump and triple jump, has been working very hard to get the kicking job. Moe is also a soccer, flye kicker.

Kevin Moran, who made the All-Southern Conference team is back and is a prime candidate for All-American honors. The coaches, along with the players are anxiously looking forward to the season opener with William & Mary.

Health And PE Department Adds Five Staff Members

Five new additions to the East Carolina health and physical education department have been announced by the department's chairman, Dr. Nephi M. Jorgensen.

Dr. Jorgensen said the new additions expand to 26 the total faculty for the 1966-'67 school year which begins Sept. 6.

New additions, announced by Jorgensen, are Frances Douglas, a native of Beaufort County and former instructor at Methodist College in Fayetteville; Larry L. Kendrick, who comes from East Baton Rouge Parish School, Louisiana; Thomas R. Quinn, who leaves a coaching and teaching post at High Point College to become EC's head basketball coach; George Everett Williams, a native of Shiloh who formerly held a position with the personnel administration of First Citizens Bank and Trust Co.; and Ernest William Schwarz, born in Philadelphia, Pa., who comes from an associate professorship at Methodist College.

The department chairman also announced other faculty changes: Julia Ellen Eason is on a year's leave of absence to teach at Methodist College, and Harold T. Ellen, Ronald West Kanoy and Dr. Thomas J. Martin have resigned.

Brief biographies of the five new faculty members follow:

Miss Douglas, an instructor, has BS and MA degrees from East Carolina College. She has previously held a teaching fellowship at East Carolina College and teaching positions at Jacksonville High School and Methodist College.

Kendrick received his BS and MA degrees from Louisiana State University where he has also done some work on a doctorate. A former teacher-coach at Franklin Parish School in Louisiana, Kendrick has been a personnel officer in the U.S. Air Force and a teacher-coach at East Baton Rouge Parish School in Louisiana. He has the rank of assistant professor.

Quinn is a graduate of Marshall University with an AB degree and the University of Florida with a MPH degree. He has taught at Coacoa High School and Newberry College and has served as assistant professor of physical education and basketball coach at High Point College. He is a native of Beckley, W. Va.

Schwarz, an assistant professor, received his AB and MED degrees from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill where he has been completing work on a PhD degree. He has held positions as instructor of physical education at Aberdeen High School in Aberdeen, Md., and associate professor of physical education and athletic director at Methodist College in Fayetteville.

Williams, an East Carolina College graduate with BS and MA degrees, is a former teacher in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Schools and a personnel officer of First Citizens Bank and Trust Co. He has the rank of instructor.

EC Karate Team Begins Practice

East Carolina's Karate team will begin practice next Tuesday. Many of last years members will be returning.

Paul Donahue and John Ferry are the captains of the Karate team. There will be 35 members returning from last years squad.

The Karate team will have matches against the University of North Carolina, Camp Lejeune, Quantico Marines.

Any boys interested in taking karate lessons should contact John Ferry or Paul Donahue.

Assistant football coach Odell Welborn talks over plans for practice sessions with head coach Clarence Stasavich. The two men hope to lead their new squad to an equal or greater season than last year's record of 9-1.

Sports Notes

Lynn Smith, shortstop of last years southern conference champion had a very good year in the Valley League. He finished with a batting average of .250. Lynn was on the same team that all-American Danny Talbot was on.

Jimmy Raynor, ace pitcher of last years squad has signed with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Wayne Britton, All-state center-fielder has signed with the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Ken Sabo, 6'11" center of last year's freshman basketball team was in an automobile accident. The extent of his injuries are not known to any great extent.

Charlie Alford 6'8", center will be lost from the varsity squad because of academic reasons.
