Deal Sparks 'SGA Fireworks,' Introduces 'University Party'

By SANDRA MIMS
Staff Writer

East Carolina College now has two campus political parties.

Opposing the relatively new Student Party which was formed last spring comes the announcement of a University Party, chairmaned and organized by Bill Deal, Speaker of East Carolina's Student Legislature.

The first organizational meeting of the University Party is scheduled for tomorrow night at 6:30 p.m. in Old Austin Auditorium for anyone interested in acquainting themselves with the goals and purpose of this new party.

In the following statement Chairman Bill Deal explains the "whys" of the formation of the University Party (which has no correlation with East Carolina University).

"In the Spring of last year rumors started on campus about the formation of a political party on campus of East Carolina College. The rumors all turned out to be true, and before long the Student Party was formed. I was against student parties in the beginning because I did not think that ECC was ready for them. Then in the general election, in which I was a candidate for the office of President, running on my own, I, along with other candidates, was defeated by the Student Party. I now see that it worked, or that the candidates which were SP members at least made a clean sweep of the ballot.

Over the summer months, I have thought about, worked, and reworked ideas on how to combat this party. The most sensible one I think I have chosen . . . form another party.

What would another party do? Would there be participation? Could it get going? All these questions are yet to be answered. However, after seeing how party membership pushed through legislation in the Student Legislature, that will limit the branches of SGA that one may be part of. I am now convinced that someone and something must combat it!

I am formally announcing the formation of the University Party of East Carolina College. To set things straight, the title of the party has nothing to do with East Carolina seeking university status. The "union" is what this party will stand for among students.

Not only will we now have two parties by name, but now we can have two combating forces. I am sure that these forces will not have a great deal of hate for each other. The goals of the University Party will be similar to that of the Student Party. We also will work for the good of the students. The only difference will be the difference of the leaders and members.

This party needs young blood to make the nucleus of its foundation. With a large freshman class we can achieve this if the new students will only take an active part.

At our first meeting tomorrow night, I hope that every student on this campus will attend, if for no other reason but to see what campus political parties are all about.

We need a mixture of upper classmen, freshmen, and transfer students. We need both day students and dorm students. If this idea is to ever materialize it must have student support.

Let me urge each of you to attend the first meeting. If you are a Student Party member, and would like to help get another party started you are welcome. If you are not sure about political parties then come out and see how it will work. But come, whatever your interest in the idea may be. . . ."

The Constitution of Deal's University Party is composed of four Articles which state the principles of the University Party concerning membership, meetings, officers and amendment procedure. Membership in the party is open to any ECC student who is interested in the organization and is willing to work for Party goals. The officers — Chairman, Vice-Chairman and Secretary-Treasurer, are elected by the Party and perform the various administrative tasks. Amendments can be made to the University Party Constitution after being introduced by any member, and passed by two-thirds of the members on the roll.

The principles of the University Party and the Student Party are similar. The University Party is not being formed to oppose the Student Party on all issues but rather to provide the students of ECC a two-party system.

Students, Officials Warn: Don't Bring 'Game Booze'

By BILL RUFTY
News Editor

In prelude of the first home football game and with a firm resolution to prevent an occurrence of last year's West Chester "drinking fiasco," President Leo W. Jenkins has issued the following statement: "State law and college regulations are very specific regarding the use of alcoholic beverages at football games.

Students and guests desire to enjoy these contests. We have every intention of making this possible through a vigorous enforcement of State law and college regulations. Athletics and drunkenness are completely incompatible. Drinking at these games is not only in poor taste but is a nuisance to other spectators and, to be very blunt about it, such obnoxious persons are not welcome here."

Comment from other members of the administration and campus leaders upheld this statement.

In an interview Dean Ruth White, Dean of Women, remarked, "At times the conduct of the student, due to drink, has been deplorable and a bad reflection on East Carolina."

Miss White went on to say, "Since the first home game is Parent's Day, we hope the students' conduct will be such that the parents will be proud that they sent their son or daughter here."

Attention all students

Each ECC student must go to the central ticket office in Wright Auditorium and pick up a football ticket each week before each home football game.

Each student must have one of these tickets to be admitted into Ficklen Stadium.

Each student must bring his activity card and ID card to the central ticket office to obtain his football ticket.

Student guest tickets will be on sale at the athletic ticket office in the gym the week before each home game. The price is $3.50.

The Dean of Women also added that she was confident that the student would present a well behaved, adult image. She expressed a hope that no disciplinary problem would arise so that harsh punishment would not be warranted.

In a joint statement, Dr. James Tucker, Dean of Student Affairs, and Dean James Mallory, Dean of Men, stated:

"There is no place at any athletic event for drinking to an excess or violating the N. S. Statutes.

"All of our athletic teams are ones to be proud of. We hope that the conduct of our students will also be something to be proud of."

Campus leaders were just as ardent in support of President Jenkins' statement.

MRC Prexy Bill Moore said, "If you plan to drink to the degree that it will become embarrassing for

File For Elections Before Thursday!

By DOYLE PURDUE
SGA Staff Writer

Marvin Smith, Chairman of the SGA Elections Committee, has announced the date of the upcoming Student Government elections as scheduled for September 29. This important election is for the selection of representatives to the SGA Legislature and class officers.

This year representatives and class officers will be elected by place of residence. Candidates representing day students will be elected by classes. Day students and full time students will have an equal number of representatives in the Legislature. For each 300 to 400 students, two representatives will be elected.

Anyone interested in participating in the SGA should file for office as soon as possible. As of now, very few people have filed for this election.

The position of representative is very important and vital to the life of the Student Government Association. The representatives write the legislation which governs the student body.

The position of class officer is of equal significance. The offices to be filled are President, Vice President, Secretary and Treasurer, for each class.

Filing of candidates began on September 7, but very few students have registered. Anyone fulfilling the qualifications for holding office should consider filing immediately.

All candidates register with the SGA receptionist in Wright Annex. Filing will be closed on Thursday (September 22) at 7:30 p.m. The election will be held on Thursday, September 29, followed by a run-off election on October 5.

Qualifications for filing are:

1. The candidate must have and maintain a "C" average. Freshmen must obtain a "C" average by the end of their first quarter.
2. The candidate must be a full-time student at EC, carrying a minimum of 12 hours.
3. The candidate must be in good standing with the college.
4. Candidates for class officers must have the following class hours:
  - a. Freshmen must have completed no more than 47 hours.
  - b. Sophomores must have at least 48 quarter hours.
  - c. Juniors must have at least 96 quarter hours.
  - d. Seniors must have at least 144 quarter hours.

Voting procedures are as follows:

1. Dormitory students vote only in their respective dorms. Day students vote at polls indicated for day students.
2. Each student must have his I.D. card and activity card in order to vote. Graduate students also may vote by presenting their activity cards.

At 8:00 a.m. Thursday morning (September 22) in room 132 of New Austin Building, there will be a meeting of all candidates. This meeting is mandatory for all candidates.

Candidates failing to attend will be disqualified unless they have a bona-fide excuse.

Again the importance of elections is emphasized. Anyone fulfilling the above qualifications and who would like to participate in the SGA are encouraged to file immediately.

'Parents Day' Festivities Greet 'Moms' And 'Dads'

East Carolina will observe this Saturday "Parents Day," a campus-wide open house program especially for students' moms and dads. The activities to be held Saturday, Sept. 24, mark the second year that this special day has been staged at the college.

Inducements for parents to visit are a full schedule of Saturday afternoon open house events, the first home football game of the season Saturday night and a dance in Wright Auditorium after the game.

Carleen Hjortsvang of Greenville, student chairman of the day's activities, says that "Parents Day" has been planned in order to give the parents an opportunity to see the EC campus and to create continuing interest in the future of the college.

Starting the afternoon's activities will be an open house by the Air Force ROTC from 2 to 4 p.m. The College Union will open its doors for visiting parents and guests from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Rolling out the red carpet from 3 to 5 p.m. will be 11 women's and four men's dormitories. At the same time welcome mats will be out front at eight fraternity and eight sorority houses.

The WECC broadcasting studios in Joyner Library and the Student Government Association offices on the third floor of Wright Annex will also be open for guests, as will all class room buildings.

The evening's special events begin at 8 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium when the EC football Pirates square off with Northeast Louisiana.

After the game parents will be special guests for the Wright Auditorium dance for which the Staccatoes will furnish music.

The open house schedule for Saturday, 3 to 5 p.m., is:

Dormitories — Aycock, Beik, Jones, and Scott (Men); Cotten, Fleming, Fletcher, Garrett, Jarvis, New Dorm, Ragsdale, Slay, Umstead, Wilson and Woman's Hall (Women).

Fraternities — Alpha Epsilon Pi, Kappa Alpha Order, Lambda Chi Alpha, Phi Kappa Tau, Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Phi Epsilon and Theta Chi.

Sororities — Alpha Delta Pi, Alpha Omicron Pi, Alpha Phi, Alpha Xi Delta, Chi Omega, Delta Zeta, Kappa Delta and Epsilon Sigma Sigma.

Students Invited . . .

Students who are seriously interested in journalism are invited to participate in a creative writing group headed by Dr. Ralph Hardee Rives. The group will meet every two weeks to discuss the work of its members and exchange ideas and experiences related to writing.

The first meeting of the group will be held in room 309, New Austin, on Thursday, Sept. 22 at 7:30 p.m.

Those interested may also contact Dr. Rives in his office in room 313 New Austin.

New Roof Covers Minges Coliseum

By JOSIE LACKEY

On September 15, 1966, as the sun shone brightly on the East Carolina Campus at 9:30 A.M., the roof of the new Minges Coliseum was slowly being hoisted off the ground.

The roof weighing 450 tons was lifted at the rate of three feet an hour. It will be thirty feet off the ground when the operation is completed.

The roof is a two way truss system. It measures 260 feet east-west and 230 feet north-south, covering an area of ground 45,000 square feet. The plumbing, heating, and electrical utilities for practical purposes has already been installed, so the men could work on the ground to install them. The truss and lifting operation are unique. The roof of the cafeteria at the Air Force Academy in Colorado is the only other built on the ground and lifted.

Architect F. Carter Williams stated that the structure will be completed in about one year.

Year-Old 'Student Party' Prepares Election Slate

By EDDIE BRODIE

Last spring's successful election of Student Party candidates may have expressed a general desire of East Carolina students to support a party system on the EC campus.

In that election, four out of five officers elected were members of the Student Party. This year, the S.P. again offers its services to those who wish to run on a party ticket.

According to Party Chairman Barry Blick, the party plans to "offer the students a slate of candidates that reflect interest in improving the organization of our Student Government."

In reviewing last year's accomplishments, the Student Party initiated several important programs which received S.G.A. endorsement. Chairman Blick gave the following examples: "a reapportionment bill supported by our party to provide for better representation for all students regardless of their residency was endorsed by the S.G.A.; women's hours have been changed; student polls have been conducted; faculty Evaluation comes closer to completion; and study continues concerning the organization of the Women's Judiciary. All these steps have been considerable improvements and represent marked benefits to the student body."

Chairman Blick went on to explain the party's conception of how it should serve East Carolina in the future. "Right now I feel our most important goal is to present a list of candidates that reflect interest in trying to accomplish governmental excellence within the framework of the S.G.A. Our party is striving to promote the highest possible standards of progressive legislation."

"It is not only our wish to endorse candidates for election, but it is also our desire to remain politically active throughout the entire year. After elections, our organization can serve as a pressure group to express the students' interests to the S.G.A., the faculty, and the administration."

"We have discussed plans that would enable us to support other campus organizations by co-operation with them in an attempt to meet their goals. In other words, our membership wants to serve as a vital force at all times and in all phases of campus life."

"Our goals can be summed up as 'A Quest for Quality,' which is our party's motto. If the student shares in our desire to bring about quality government on our campus, I would strongly urge him to attend our party meetings tonight in the New Austin Auditorium (Rom 132) at 7:00 p.m. At this time there will be a full explanation of our position as well as a selection of candidates to run under our party's banner. Regardless of whether an individual plans to run as a candidate or support an candidate, we welcome his membership in the Student Party."

Chairman Blick was asked about his opinion regarding the formation of a second party. He commented in the following manner: "Well, all I can say is that I have been working toward a two-party system on campus for over a year. Under such a system it is my belief that our elections will lose the complexion of being popularity contests and take on a genuine atmosphere with issues being a criterion for casting votes."

"I welcome a second party, and I urge all students to vote for the party of their choice. By voting for a party the student sanctions a two-party system, thereby assuring its growth and stability."

'Game Booze'

E.C., the MRC, or yourself. I urge you to stay home from all athletic events."

SGA President, Steve Slateman, summed the situation by saying:

"Traditionally, the topic that is always under discussion at this time of year is the conduct at the football game. It is a topic that I do not enjoy listening to for in effect, the discussion is not aimed at the student body but at a small segment. This exclusive pop segment argues that their poor conduct is justified by the similar action taken by other schools in the state who conduct themselves in an "average" Carolina way. To me, the average indicate the best of the worst or the worst of the best, which neither description is indicative of us; therefore, let us together, as the entire student body, dictate our own code of conduct and continue to show the people that East Carolina is the independent institution of this state."

"One of the things students at East Carolina should learn is good behavior and this means nothing more than good sportsmanship," explained Football Coach Clarence Stasavich in a candid comment session concerning behavior at coming football games.

Stasavich, who has made quite a reputation for himself and East Carolina in the sports world, termed sportsmanship as "a respect for the rights of others."

"The athletes," he said, "try very hard to keep proper discipline and we hope students will properly discipline themselves."

Indicating that the athletes as well as himself were most anxious that East Carolina be projected in a favorable manner, Stasavich said that "everyone must keep in mind the fact that it is the individual responsibility of us all to hold our tempers in upsetting situations that will inevitably occur."

New 4-Point System Ready For Activation

By SANDRA RABBAN
Special Staff Writer

In a series of articles, the EAST CAROLINIAN, with the willing aid of the administration and guidance office, will attempt to acquaint each of you with the new four point quality point system.

This system shall start for students who enrolled at East Carolina College for the first time for the first session of Summer School, June, 1966 and thereafter. For those enrolled before first session of Summer School, your grades were converted to the new system at the beginning of Fall Quarter, 1966. This system applies to undergraduate and graduate work.

With the new four point system a grade of "A" earns four quality points per hour credit, a "B" earns three quality points per hour credit, "C" earns two quality points per credit hour, and a "D" earns one quality point per credit hour, and an "F" earns no quality points.

A significant difference in this system is that the hours of "F" are counted in computing your average; these hours of F, however, are not counted in the total of hours needed for graduation.

For example: A student is taking three five-hour courses and gets a "B", a "C", and an "F." Instead of being credited with ten hours (by subtracting the "F" hours) his average is computed on the basis of fifteen hours. He will receive fifteen quality points for the "B", ten quality points for the "C", and no quality points for the "F." His total will be fifteen hours and twenty-five quality points.

The difference: no quality points are subtracted from the total quality points for the "F," and hours of "F" are counted. In this example the student had earned ten hours toward graduation.

The method for converting your average on the three point scale to the four point scale is relatively simple. First, add the total quarter hours of all ECC courses failed and not repeated to your present quality points. This restores the quality points taken away that would be given back if the course had been repeated under the old system. Giving back quality points formally taken away for "F's" prevents penalizing the student who failed courses under the old system and repeats them under the new system.

Second, add your EC credit hours to your present number of quality points. This is done because the quality points have been increased one point per hour credit.

Third, replace EC hours attempted with EC hours credit. This initially gives you the same grade average under the new system using attempted hours that you had under the old system after you repeat the quality point adjustments using hours credit.

Fourth, EC hours credit, transfer hours, and total hours will remain the same.

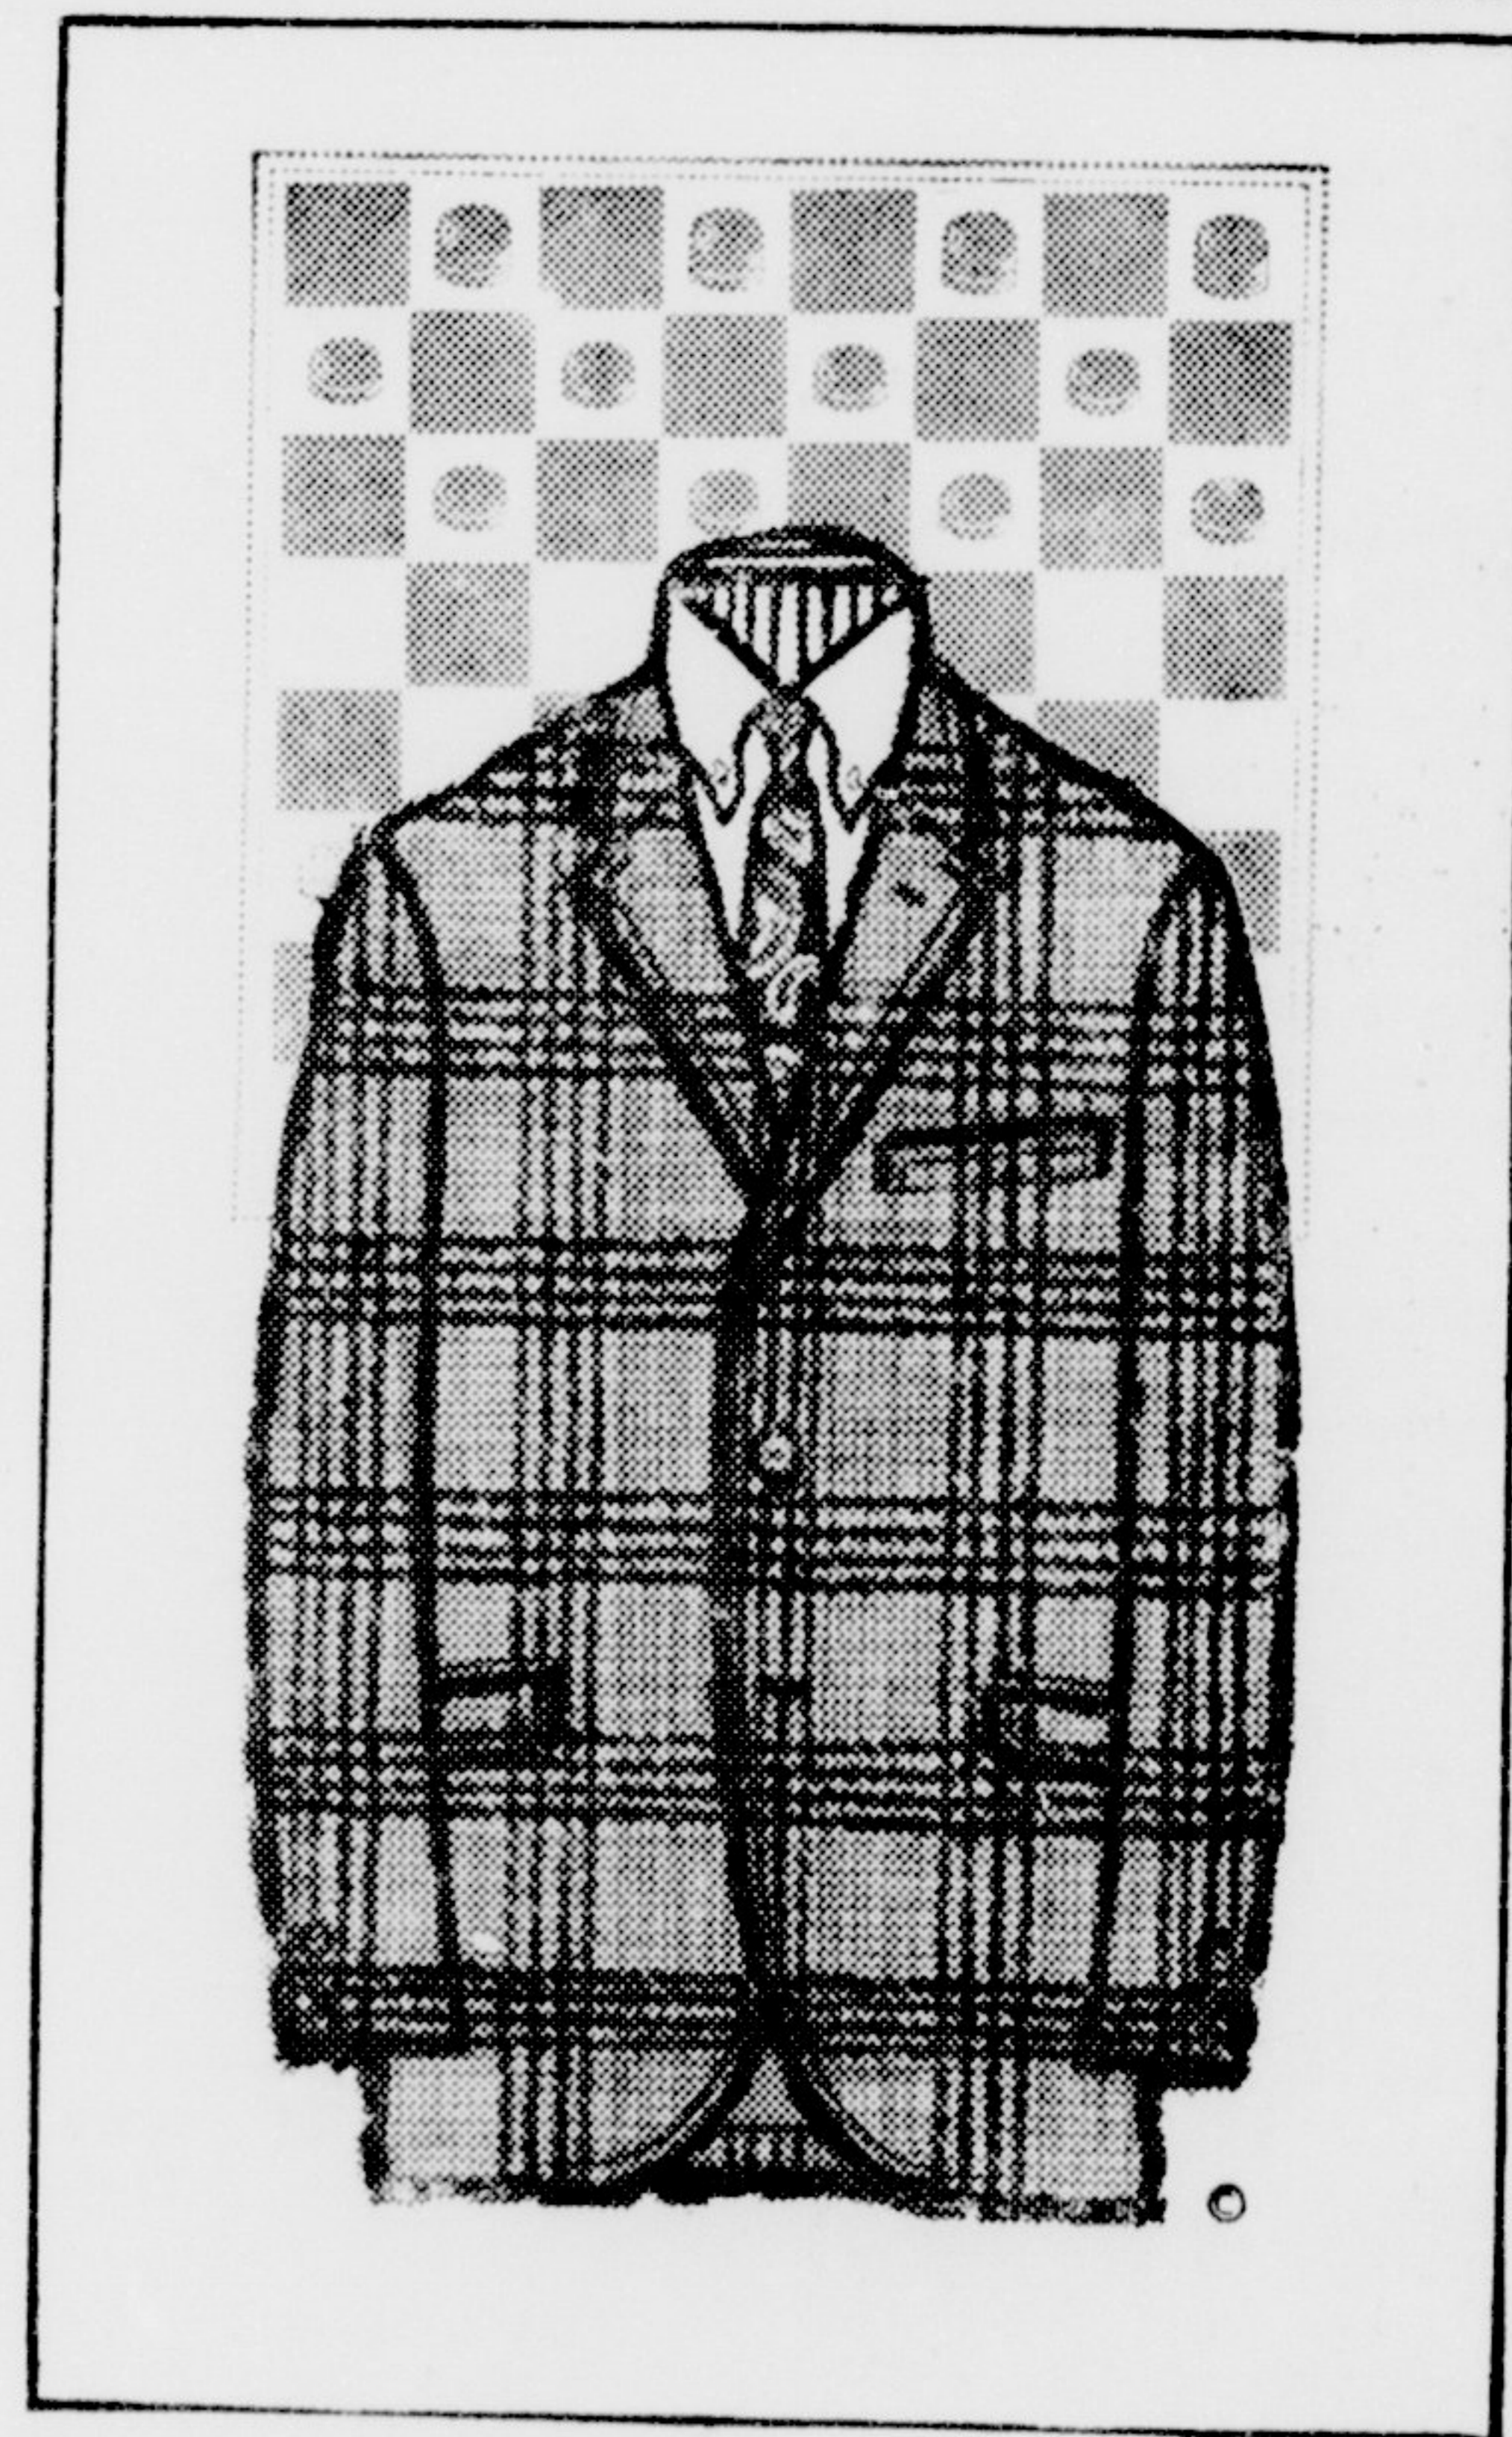

If you have any questions about the explanation, write to the Editor of the EAST CAROLINIAN giving your situation completely enough to be understood. We will print the question and answer without names. This question-answer section will continue until there are no further questions.

Students-For-East

There will be a meeting of all interested people who would like to see Dr. John East become the United States Congressman from the first district of North Carolina. This meeting will be held Wednesday, September 21, at 7:30 in the Education-Psy. aud. room 129.

When asked to comment on the meeting John Meares, Chairman had this to say, "This meeting is open to Republicans, Democrats and Independents."

"I think that any student who has had Dr. East for a teacher admires and respects him and knows that he is quite capable of representing the people of North Carolina. I urge all people to come to the meeting no matter what their political convictions may be."

Last Night

Strangers In The Night

By Duncan Stout

Sitting in the Rat last night, whilst pondering the meaning of Charlie and a few things about Buffy St. Marie, we were soundly interrupted by a kid.

Really nice I suppose, but a bare-foot kid, walking through our bowl of chips and goodies. I mean what the hell? So what? We didn't want to start anything so we let him tippy toe on to the next table.

The Phantom would have killed him. I mean cheeze, him an his dog Faithful Fartful would have busted into the place and torn the living daylight out of him.

But that wasn't so bad. You know, just a few chips and things.

So we bought a pack of menthol somethings, and played the Yellow Submarine, and jumped around a lot until a little bit later 50 million girls came crashing in.

Everywhere these crazy girls wearing flowers and prints were crowding and pushing things over. All of them, six foot high and wearing silver hip boots! BeBating the hell out of us and screaming all kinds of things! Man it was crady! Wild!

Hours later the smoke cleared and we were crawling back up in our chairs, trying to breathe, and you know, smile again.

I won't complain any longer, it wasn't permanent. But gee whizz, if you're sitting there wearing a flower print dress and getting mad and getting ready to go out and fight again.

Please don't hit me.

I've already been through it once and I promise I'll never say a thing about you again. (I'm a thin kid with long hair and I wear a lot of blue shirts. . . etc.)

Democrats Hold Meeting

The East Carolina Young Democratic Club met for its first meeting of the year on Tuesday, September 13 at New Austin Auditorium at 7:30.

Earle Beasley, a sophomore from Raleigh was elected vice-president to replace Molly Nicholson who transferred to the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. David Shalank, a sophomore, was elected Public Relations chairman.

The Young Democratic Club also announced that Congressman Walter B. Jones will appear on campus September 26 at 8:00 p.m. at a locale to be announced later.

Anyone interested in joining the YDC should see the president, Walter F. Hendricks.

Senator Dominick Expresses Views

Republican Senator Peter Dominick of Colorado gave his viewpoints on the dangers of a one party government as he began East Carolina's yearly lecture series in a speech before a capacity crowd in Old Austin Auditorium Thursday night.

"Whether it be communism, fascism or an allegedly democratic form of government, there is no guarantee of the preservation of individual liberties if there is no dissent by the people," Dominick said as he explained the dangers to individual freedom when one party system gains too much power.

"History," he said, "has shown us that at best poor government and at worst tyranny and oppression can only prevail in a climate providing no avenue for opposition views."

According to Dominick, once a people has no opportunity to present alternatives to government, the authority of those in power inevitably becomes oppressive and less representative of the people.

"This nation is in serious danger of one-party rule when the views of a minority party in Congress cannot even get a hearing," he explained.

"The Republican Party (out numbered two to one in the House and Senate) has made proposal after proposal to solve some of our society's greatest problems, but these proposals are never allowed to see the light of day. They are buried in Congressional committees, all of which are controlled absolutely by the Democratic Party."

Dominick stated that no single party can have all the answers and expressed a wish that some consideration be given Republican proposals to protect the rights of the individual, strengthen state and local governments, preserve the integrity of the dollar and establish a strong foreign policy.

Dominick commented on the war in Vietnam by saying he agreed with Johnson in principle but that he did not think we had to be there to the extent we are.

"I think our purpose should be to win the war or to pull out. It makes no sense to me that we continue to put people there to fight the enemy, yet they have to sit by and watch ship after ship of supplies unload in Haiphong Harbor without being able to stop them."

Dominick said that he thought there were two Republican proposals that should get more consideration in the House and Senate: the Tax Credit for Higher Education proposal and the Human Investment Act Proposal.

"The Human Investment Act," he said, "would eliminate the job corps camps which have failed."

When asked what he thought was the ultimate goal of Red China in the Vietnam war, Dominick commented: "To keep us tied up as long as they can without getting tied up in the war themselves. I don't expect direct entry by Red China."

Dominick granted an interview to Greenville and East Carolina news media before his lecture on campus Thursday night.

Civil rights questions were emphasized throughout the interview. Commenting on race riots in existence throughout the country, Dominick stated: "Race riots are one of the worst things that have happened to our country. They are not good for the reputation of our country and constitute good communist propaganda."

Expressing his sentiments concerning government based on law and order, Dominick explained that until we get back to people relying on the judicial system, the breakdown in our government is going to continue.

"I think it's tragic. . . just tragic." Asked whether or not he was willing to make a stand on the possibility of communists having infiltrated civil rights groups, Dominick replied: "I can't say generally. The question is not whether communists have infiltrated the groups but whether or not they have succeeded."

Asked whether he would make a statement on who would be top Republican candidate in the 1968 national election, Dominick said: "I'd rather not do that. The whole future of the Republican Party depends on our success this year."

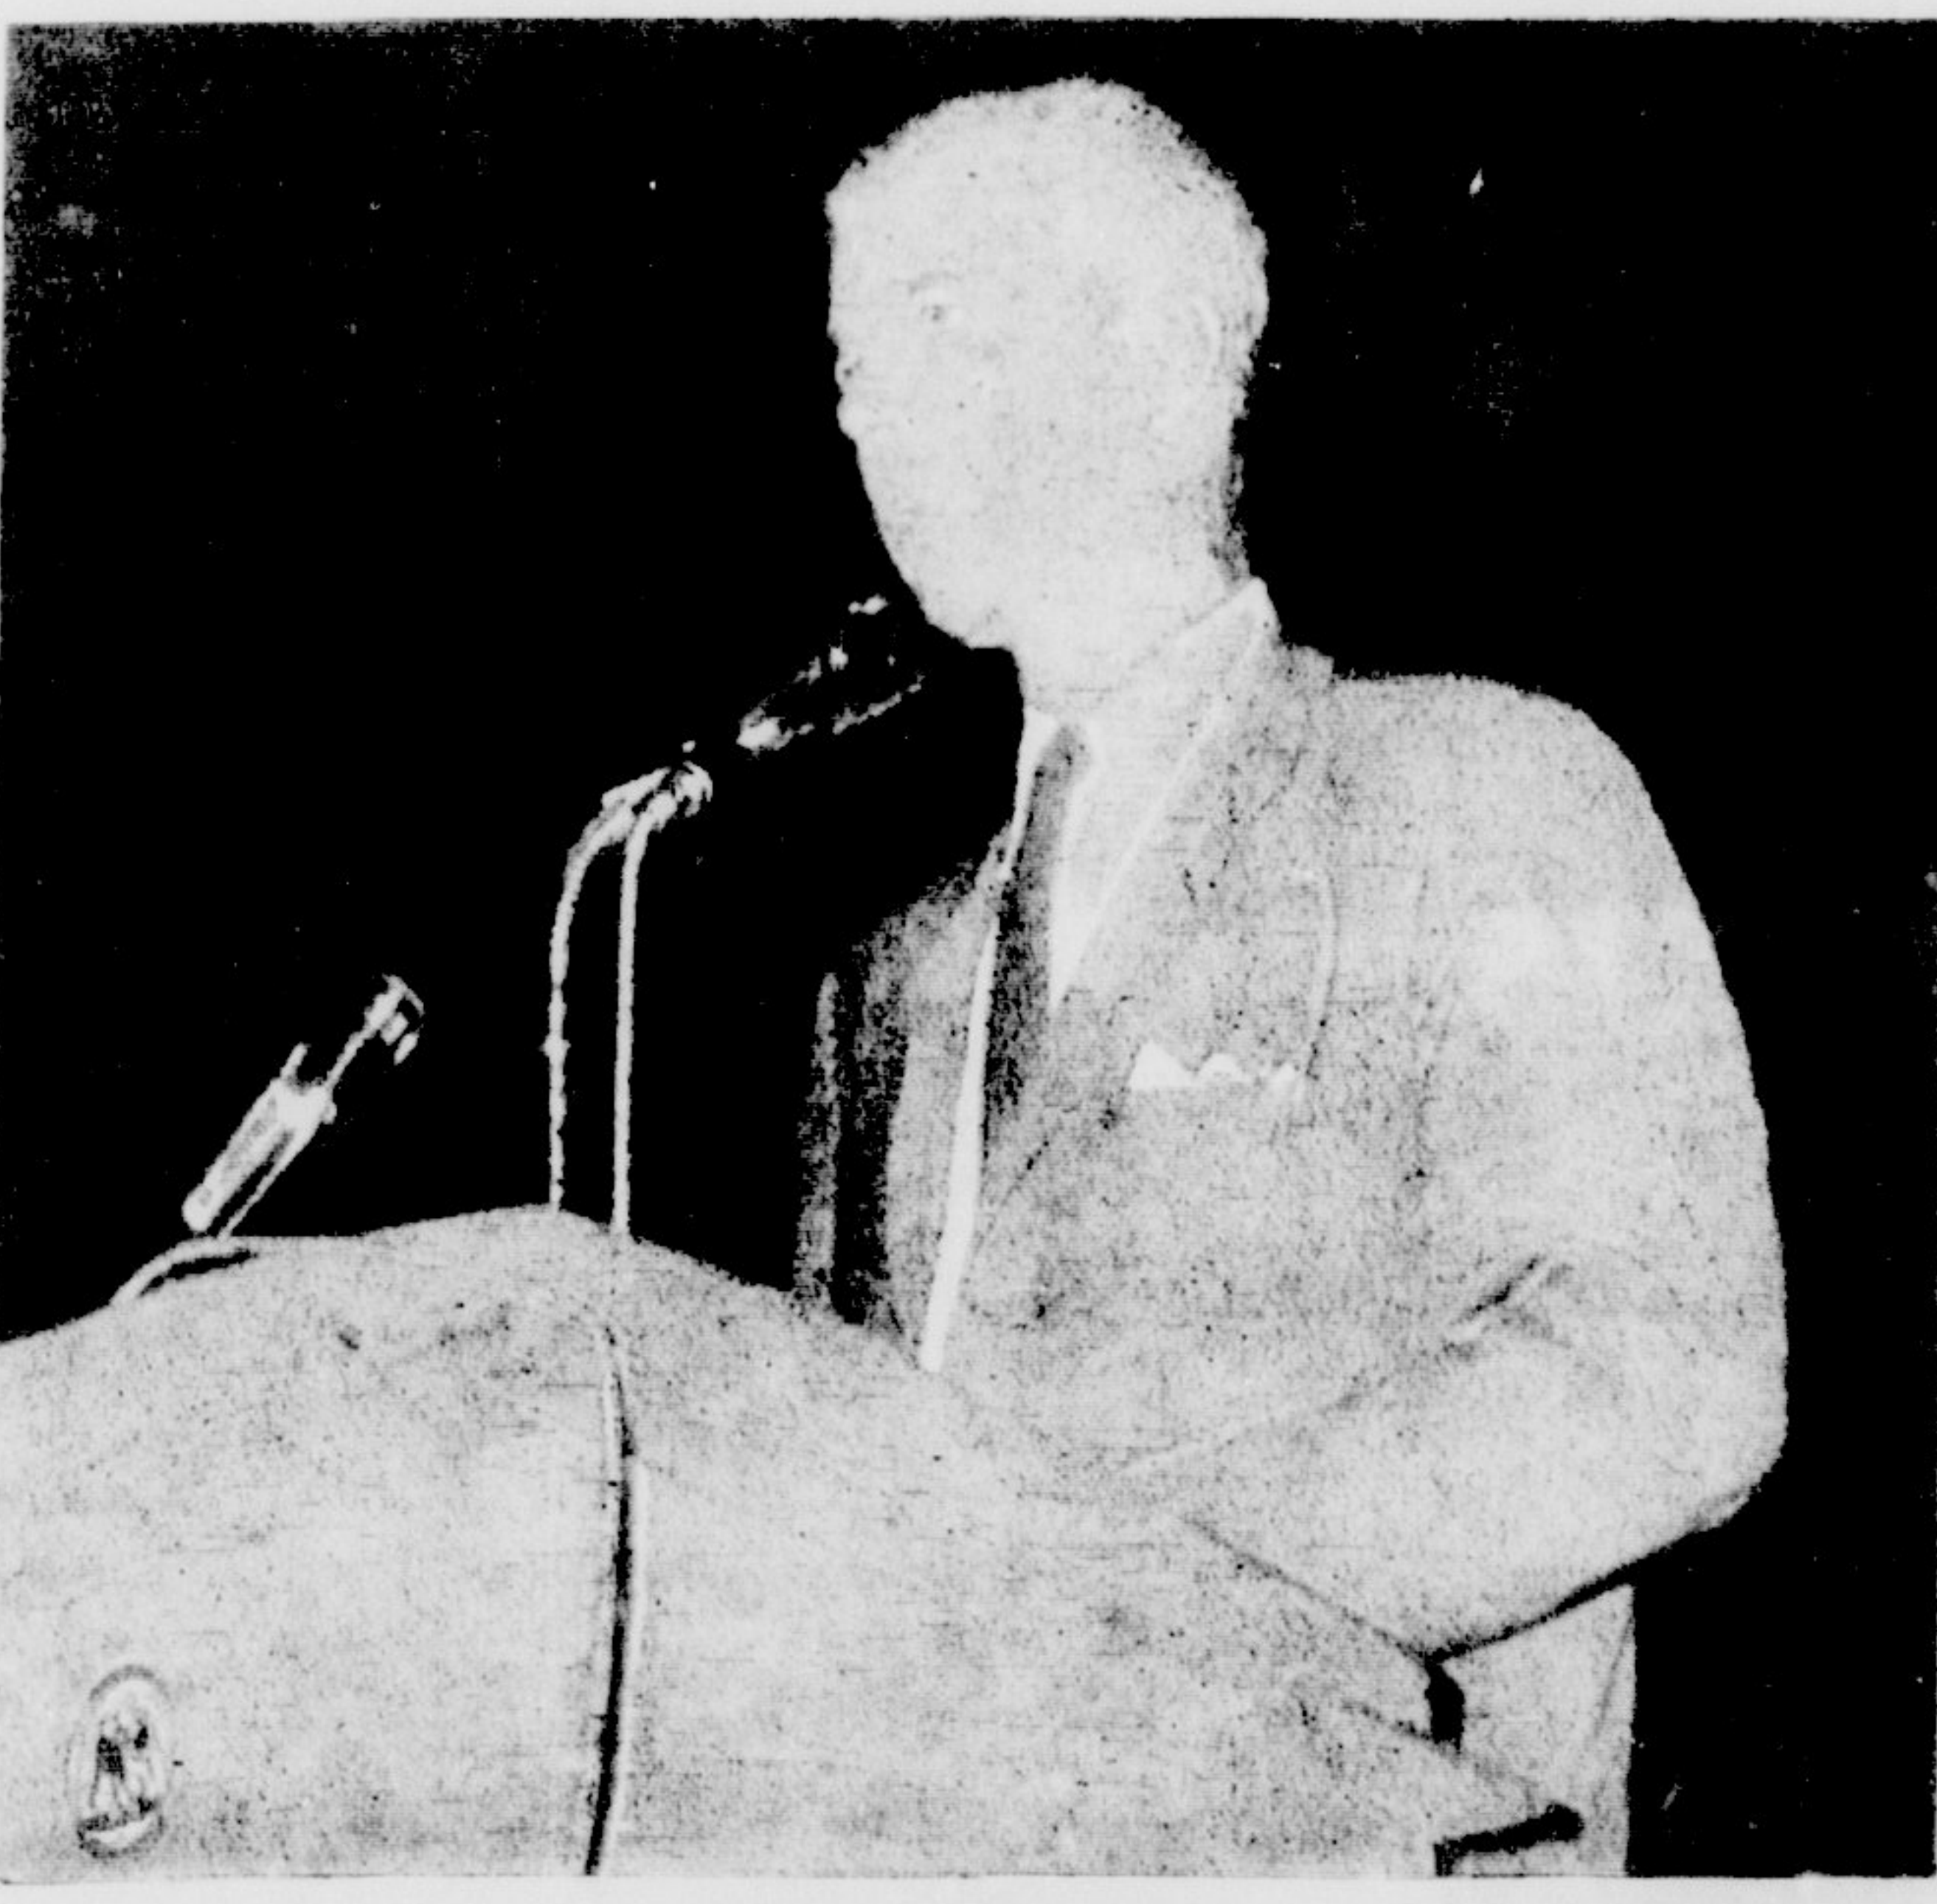

"I think we are going to have a number of upsets this year in gubernatorial races and other areas. New names will come to the surface."

Concerning the local campaign of John East, the Senator from Colorado said: "I'd vote for him."

What does Dominick have to say about President Johnson's thinking on the war in Viet Nam?

"This nation has survived to achieve its present greatness only because it has so far been able to provide for the people a means of redressing their grievances to the government," Dominick continued, as he expressed his belief in the future well being of our government as depending upon non partisan programs.

"Allow partisan programs to erode into an omnipotent one party government and you will destroy the union," said Dominick.

Bring On The Party!

SGA Speaker Bill Deal deserves a nice pat on the back for finally seeing the light and organizing the overdue University Party.

It seems that only one in 9,500 people could really get upset with the fact that East Carolina's Student Government lies within the totalitarian rule of a Student Party. A political party opposed by none, yet aspiring to the liberty found in a democracy.

Deal might also be commended for being "black sheep" enough to stand up and say that he thought EC was not ready for political parties. He might as well have said that he was sure EC could exist more democratically without the dangers involved to individual rights under a one party government.

And what if Deal is right about political parties at EC? Who's fault is it but that of the student body?

You let a one party system practically sweep the SGA elections last spring. Sure, some of you talked about starting another party . . . but only after it occurred to you that you couldn't win an election unless you had a sticker by your name saying "I'm on the incrowd — vote me and my party into office and we'll form a system of government that the independent man can't fight."

This time quite a few people are going to have to involve themselves in the workings of the new University party if it is to succeed and be a counterpart equal in power and strength to the over zealous Student Party.

We do not condemn the Student Party in recognizing that to date it has been the camp for one party rule. We praise the good which has come from this one party. Certainly it proved that its purpose was made in "a quest for quality."

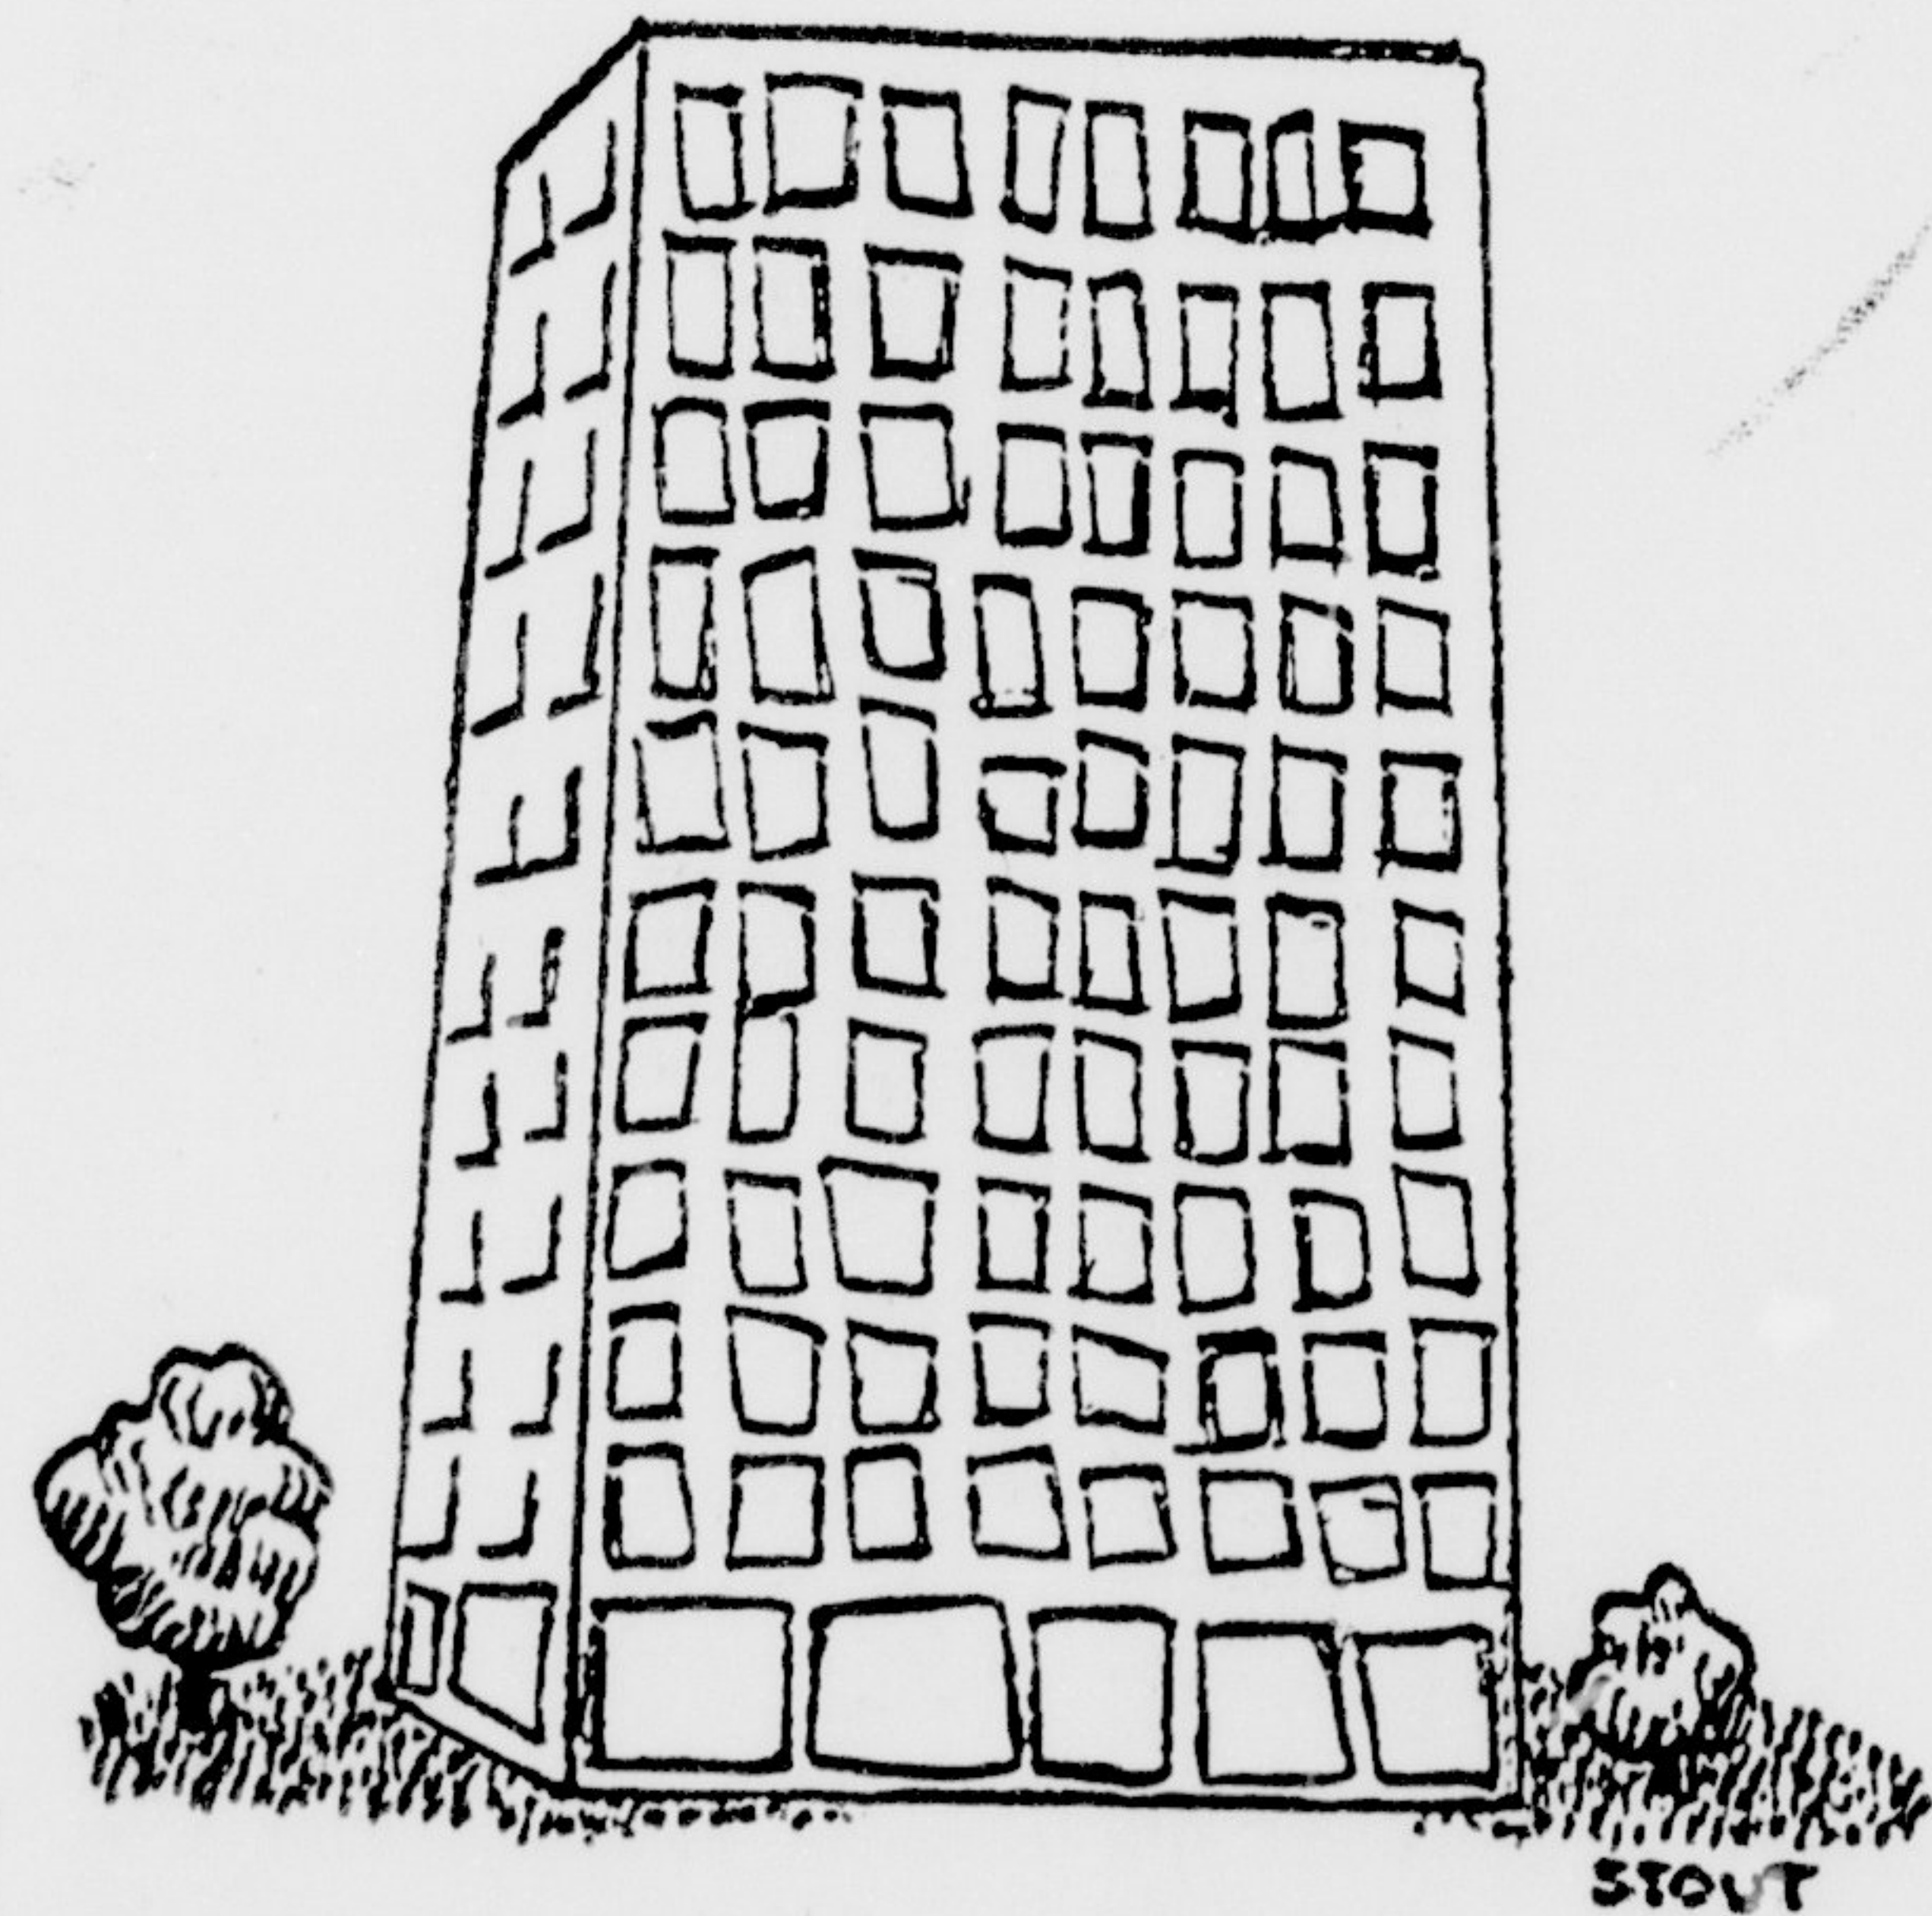

Deal says the University Party's goals are similar to those of the Student Party. That being true, it seems feasible that it could operate with as much success as the Student Party.

The makings of any party depends upon the general interest of the public. And in the case of this new University Party, the same holds true. A few people may get the thing going, but without support from a significant number of students it is possible that the brave new party will die.

We of the EAST CAROLINIAN strongly urge everyone to attend meetings of both parties this week . . . at least have the motivation to find out what each party stands for and "why."

We are not supporting either the University Party or the Student Party at this time. What we are supporting is a two party system and not the dictates of a one party government.

Maybe Peter Dominick is a Republican but what he has to say about government makes a great deal of sense: "Whether it be communism, fascism or an allegedly democratic form of government, there is no guarantee of the preservation of individual liberties if there is no avenue for dissent by the people . . . no single party can have all the answers. Regardless of the alleged benevolence of any ruling political regime, once the people have no opportunity to present alternatives to government policy, the authority of those in power inevitably becomes more oppressive and less representative of the people."
—N.J.L.

"It's gonna fall!" . . . love, Jeannie Dixon.

Pacifists Vs. 'Moochers'

By Frisby Hendricks

This newspaper is always happy to receive letters from the student body. We must admit that we have gotten more letters in the last two weeks than usual. Below this column is a letter written by a Mr. Roberts who disagrees with us in every paragraph of his letter. We respect his views, but we feel compelled to answer his letter at the same time.

Mr. Roberts begins his letter with a false statement. When a man pleads that he is a conscientious objector because of his belief in a Supreme Being, he is not "attempting to shun his responsibility." A1-0 or a 1A-0, two forms of classification for a conscientious objector, must serve his country for the same length of time that the 1-A does and he does it in the same spirit that the 1-A does. If anyone has the idea that a C.O. leads a quiet life, may we remind those who believe this, that it is much more difficult to fight the labels of "communist," "coward," and the ostracism of the students than to agree with the majority.

And please, Mr. Roberts, just because a man doesn't agree with your ideas don't refer to him as a "Moocher" or as an immature young American. We are also surprised that you used a quotation by Thomas Paine to end your letter. Most historians realize that Thomas Paine, although an eloquent writer, was the greatest radical of his time. We, who believe that the Viet Nam war is wrong, are called "radicals." Since your dislike for "radicals" is apparent, we do not understand why you use the greatest radical to back up your argument.

While we are on the subject of the Viet Nam War, we would like to pass on what is occurring around the nation concerning this issue.

The National Office of the American Veterans Committee sent out a questionnaire asking the members to vote either: We should or We Should Not Bomb North Vietnam strategic areas. To date, the results are: Should Not — 56 per cent; Should — 44 per cent.

The College Young Democrats at the National Executive Committee meeting in Nashville, Tenn., September 2-4 challenged "inequities" in the Selective Service.

And finally, University of Michigan students may soon vote on the release of their class rankings by the University to the Selective Service System.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

First of all, let me be the first to say that I tremendously enjoyed the performance of the Bitter End Singers on Thursday, September 8. I would like to commend the Student Government Association on its fine job of kicking the entertainment concert series of to an exciting start.

The purpose of this letter is to pose a question to the students on this campus that has been haunting me ever since the concert.

I was brought up to understand that one of the worst insults you could give a performer or group of performers was to get up and leave during the middle of a performance. I should like to know why so many of the students of East Carolina College, my classmates, did not have the courtesy and tactfulness to remain seated (during the Bitter End Singers' concert) until at least the intermission? Sure, I know it was chilly that night, but many people sat there throughout the unexpected cold in this attire. Maybe everyone had hours of homework pressing them, but even this excuse is doubtful, for many had not even been to classes yet. Perhaps the girls were worried about the curfew, and persuaded their dates to 'escort' them directly back to their dormitories. I find this very hard to believe, for if they had only waited until intermission, they would have heard it announced that the curfew would be extended. Besides, I noted too many fraternity-pinned men and women filing out, and I know they weren't all freshmen. Certainly, they were aware that campus regulations would be flexible enough to allow the female members an extended curfew in order to attend the concert. Certainly, they were aware that "their Student Government spends one of the largest college budgets in the country to provide entertainment and definitely would not due (sic) so if the students were not allowed or able to attend the concerts. Certainly, they were aware that the image visitors receive of East Carolina College will remain with them wherever they go, whether it be the Bitter End Singers, Senator Dominick, or anyone else.

I can think of nothing any more disheartening to that young group of performers, down there on that stage, singing their hearts out, and watching that steady stream of students ambling their way back towards the campus. It's no wonder we aren't a university yet.

Sincerely,

Randy Dinguid
Class of '70

Dear Editor:

We read and hear too often of young Americans who attempt to shun their responsibilities (sic) of serving their country in military roles. There are fellow Americans who burn their draft cards, profess religious faiths that oppose military service, rush into marriage, and hastily start perpetuating a future generation. Are we guilty of condoning (sic) such actions?

In our day and time in which we question and attempt to refute anything and everything relating to authority, there are those who question their responsibility to protect and preserve for their posterity our freedom that was won and paid for on the field of battle by countless thousands of lives who shouldered their tasks willingly to preserve what they valued more than their lives. Patrick Henry is a historic example of a dedicated American. ("Give Me Liberty or Give Me Death!")

All of we Americans (sic) enjoy the fruits of our freedom but it seems that there are a few who want to enjoy their freedom without fulfilling their military responsibility. We all recognize the stereotype who wants something for nothing. We refer to him as a "Moocher."

To those mature young Americans who are willing to give a few years of their life in exchange for a lifetime of receiving goes the love and admiration of our entire nation.

Bar-B-Cue Special

By John Stone

The Judicial Immunity bill, which was pushed by the S.G.A. President, passed the Legislature by a vote of 3 to 1. Apparently there is a great deal of Party discipline this year.

However, it is rumored that the President made a mistake and had to veto his own bill. We really shouldn't blame him though, because he takes his advice from sources which are not yet known. Maybe the source should take time to read THE KEY. It might save a lot of embarrassment in the future.

If you think that the Greeks are selective of their membership, just try to get into the newly formed academic discussion group. So far they have accepted one faculty member and eight students. I personally would like to become a member. If anyone can find out how to get in, please let me in on the secret.

Professional jealousy rages in the Foreign Language Department, as one of the professors has called another professor a "butcher." Wouldn't it be marvelous to have an international conflict on our campus. That's something that even "Whisky Hill" hasn't come up with yet.

The editor of THE BUCCANEER certainly is spending a lot of time shaking hands and being friendly since school started. Could it be that he will run for some "high" political office in the spring elections.

The EC Science Department announced that it has made a startling new discovery on the campus. LSD is now a thing of the past. There is now available, on campus, a new mixture which produces the same effects as the late wonder cube. Also, it is guaranteed not to be habit-forming. If you are interested in trying some of this new marvel, just ask for Mr. Julian's Bar-B-Q special next time you are in the cafeteria.

The all powerful S.G.A. Budget Committee, chaired by the Treasurer himself, is on the rampage again. We have heard that the Playhouse didn't exactly like their decision last week. In fact, a certain technical director just got up and walked right out of the meeting. Temper, temper. That's no way to get the money you need.

The upperclassmen are again, as usual, taking advantage of the poor little freshmen. However, when the clock on the dash moves toward the witching hour, all fun stops and everyone heads for the dorms.

Last week a friend of mine observed the following two scenes which I would like to share with you. First, two young men hugging each other good night in front of the new womens dorm.

The second was a new Ford convertible parked on the side of Cotton Dorm. The young lady was in the front seat with her head slightly slumped over to one side. Her date was facing her, patting her on the cheeks and saying, "Come on baby. Ah, for God's sake, come on and wake up. If you don't get in the dorm, I'll get in trouble."

Of Hooks And Things

Pick A Color

By Ted Hooks

From THIS WEEK magazine, we stumbled over an interesting contest that has broadened our knowledge beyond the former scope that the "good guy always wears a white hat."

For example, if you're planning to raise chickens — paint the coop orange. Chickens adore orange and may lay more eggs. On the other hand, orange is irritating to high-strung people.

And now for some useful fascinating facts about color preferences — at which point romance rears its interesting head.

You can make a cute game out of checking your date's favorite colors. According to Doctor Sharpe, a psychologist on the faculty of New York University a girl who likes green should get along well with a fellow who likes red. Greens are "joiners," slightly conservative, interested in new ideas and tolerant toward "Reds." Whereas, "Reds" are impetuous, out-going, optimistic, unconventional.

You may ask, "How about if both prefer green?"

Well, it would be safe, Dr. Sharpe says, "but perhaps a bit boring. Testing suggests that mates should not be too opposite. A happy mixture is best."

Now, let's try a little test. Grab a pencil and check off your color preferences below and then get your date to do the same.

1. You are going to buy a car. What color would you prefer?
—Blue —Green —Red —Other color
2. If you are a male, what color dress do you like best on a girl? If you are a coed, what color necktie on a man.
—Blue —Green —Red —Other color
3. If you were buying a set of matched luggage, which would you choose?
—Blue —Green —Red —Other color
4. You have just bought a lovely white house. Which color would you pick to paint the shutters on the house?
—Blue —Green —Red —Other color

Explanation
BLUE: For each blue answer, expect some conservatism. "Blue" people are deliberate, philosophic, refined, apt to be clamish. A "Blue" and a "Green" go well together, but "Blue" might think "Green" a bit to adventurous.

GREEN: For each answer, score tolerance, middle-of-the-roadism. "Greens" are mixers, reasonable competitive — typical middle-class Americans.

RED: For each red answer, score a healthy measure of optimism and aggressiveness. "Reds" are impetuous, outgoing, liberal-minded. "Reds" and "Greens" make good partners, "Reds" and "Blues" are dynamite!

As For Those Write-In Colors
DARK BLUE: Ultra-conservative, rigid, moral. Stay away from "Reds."
ORANGE: A real "joiner." Excitable, happy disposition. Would mix well with a "Green."
YELLOW: Reflective, would like to be known as intellectual, spiritual, but tends to be a bit superficial. A "Yellow" really wants to be a "Blue."
BROWN: Sound, earthy, dependable. A "Brown" would get along with a "Blue," but it wouldn't be exciting. "Browns" need a "Green" for spice.
GRAY: Disciplined, practical, pleasant.
BLACK: Sophisticated, shrewd, cynical.
WHITE: Reflective, a bit repressed.
PURPLE: Artistic, sensitive, temperamental.

EC Freshmen Women Welcome New Rules

By TRISH PARKER

Beginning the fall quarter of 1966 the women students at East Carolina College were given new rules pertaining to the Blanket Permits signed by their parents and the establishment of new hours.

The previous hours which were, Monday thru Thursday, 10:30 p.m.; Friday and Saturday, 12:00 midnight, and Sunday, 11:00 p.m. are now Monday thru Thursday, 11:00 p.m.; Friday and Saturday, 12:30 a.m.; and Sunday, 11:00 p.m.

The Blanket Permits were mailed to the parents to be filled out and returned to the Dean of Women. Permission is granted only for those items checked by the parents, however special permission for various activities may be mailed to the Dean of Women.

The Blanket Permit comes under the new rules for attending beach and house parties without written permission, from the parents, for every trip; visiting in Greenville homes, with a hostess present, without the hostess calling to invite the guest; and spending the day off campus by filling out a special permission card instead of filing an off campus blank.

The new rules along with the new hours makes it less complicated to enjoy the activities and help to make the women and men students happier.

Dr. Batten

Dr. James W. Batten Becomes Ass't Dean

Dr. James W. Batten, member of the East Carolina College faculty since 1960, has been appointed assistant dean of the ECC School of Education.

He fills a new position, created this fall because of the school's growth. In addition to his new duties as assistant dean, Dr. Batten will continue to serve the school as a full professor of education.

In announcing Dr. Batten's appointment, Dr. Douglas R. Jones, dean of the education school, said the new position became necessary because of "a heavy increase in our administrative workload, especially in the areas of teacher certification and federal projects."

Dr. Batten, a native of Goldsboro, is a former narrator in the Morehead Planetarium in Chapel Hill. He was picked by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in 1960 to help train the first seven Mercury Astronauts in celetial recognition and mechanics.

He is a former graduate teaching fellow at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He earned AB, MA and EdD degrees from UNC and has studied at the University of California at Berkeley and Columbia University.

Before joining the East Carolina faculty in mid-1960 Dr. Batten had wide experience as a North Carolina educator.

He is the author of two books, "Our Neighbors in Space" and "Research As a Tool for Understanding." He has also written several articles for scholarly journals and magazines and has contributed extensively to research studies.

Dr. Batten's military record includes five years of active duty with the U.S. Navy and 21 years in the U.S. Naval Reserve.

He is married to the former Sara Storey of Murfreesboro, a member of ECC's library staff.

Carlton R. Benz, James Rees Join Speech And Drama Dept

By KATYE PRIDGEN

East Carolina College is fortunate to have Carlton R. Benz and James Rees as new members of the Broadcasting division of the Drama and Speech Department.

Carlton Benz is an associate professor in the radio and speech department. He is teaching a course called "Fundamentals of Broadcasting" and is director of closed circuit television and WECC Radio and is in charge of the television program, "Concepts," on WNCT Channel 9.

In the past, Mr. Benz has taught at Wayne State College in Wayne, Indiana, and at the Indiana State University in Terre Haute, Indiana.

He has also had a good deal of experience in radio and television. He has produced, directed, and announced various programs on radio and television stations in Rapid City, South Dakota, Ensign, Kansas, and the Wayne State University in Michigan.

Mr. Benz received his A.B. from Ohio University at Athens, Ohio, and his M.A. from the University of Wisconsin. Presently, he is working on his Ph.D. at Wayne State University in Wayne, Michigan.

Originally from Springfield, New York, Mr. Benz is accustomed to a much colder climate than the one found here. Mr. Benz chose to work at East Carolina College because "It is a nice size school; not extra large but large enough to have many advantages." Another influence was the warm climate and mild winters. Greenville is also near the ocean. Friends have told him that North Carolina is a beautiful state with wonderful people and he quite agrees.

Benz has two very interesting hobbies: photography and sports cars. He enjoys photography but his favorite interest is sports cars. He would like to join a sports car club but he hasn't been able to locate one in North Carolina.

Mr. Benz would appreciate any suggestions from the faculty and students for future topics for the East Carolina College "Concepts" program on Channel 9.

James Rees joined the radio and speech department here because he felt East Carolina College has a "tremendous potential" for a department of broadcast. The department of drama and speech is one of the finest for a college of this size. It is also located in a rapidly developing part of the country.

Mr. Rees received his A.B. from Millersville State College and his M.A. from Syracuse University. His major field of study was public address and communications.

Here at East Carolina College he is teaching courses in speech and broadcasting. The East Carolina College Public Relations Radio Service is directed by Mr. Rees. This service provides tape recorded programs about the college for radio stations throughout eastern North Carolina by producing interviews and discussion programs, musical events and other events around the campus.

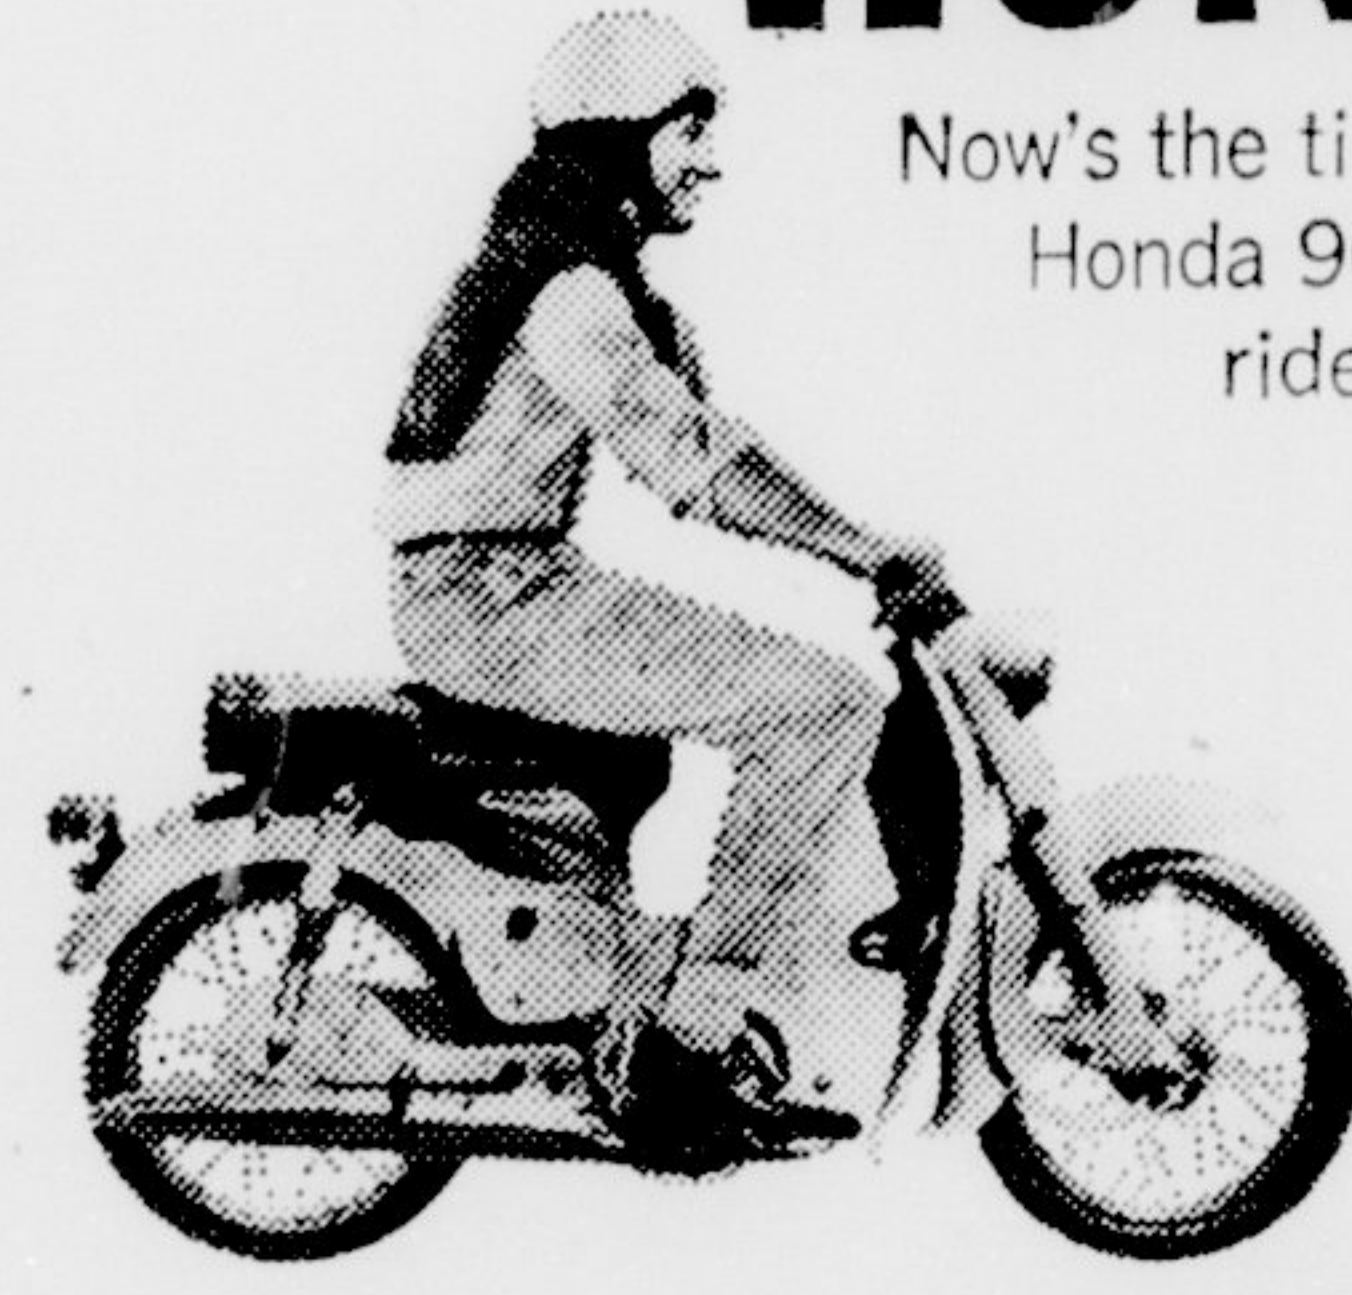

Mr. Rees will be making an attempt to provide a series of programs which will give the people of this region a way to learn how their college is serving them better.

In the past Mr. Rees has worked as announcer and program director for several radio stations in Lancaster, Pennsylvania. He also taught high school for six years and at Syracuse University for two years.

He has many interests outside his occupation. He likes music, concerts, and is especially interested in collecting records. He also enjoys camping and photography.

Mr. Rees would appreciate being informed of any campus events and developments that would be of interest to our radio audience.

Tutorial Society Initiates 2nd Year

By DAN SAIEED

The Greenville Collegiate Tutorial Society will begin its '66-'67 program under the direction of Rick Haskins and Bennie Teel Thursday, September 22.

In an interview with Rick and Bennie, both seniors here at EC, the goals and objectives of the program were set forth.

Rick stated, "The purpose of the tutoring program is to aid less privileged children in grades 1-3, living in the south Greenville area. We will concentrate mainly in the Kearny Park Housing Project."

The tutors will work primarily in the basic skills of reading and math, but starting first from the child's interests.

"This method of starting from the child's interests," Bennie stated, "will allow the child to work with materials meaningful to him; thus developing self-confidence and an interest in learning."

"In addition to the academic side of tutoring," Bennie continued, "cultural enrichment programs in the form of field trips will play a major role in broadening the experiences of the child and making him aware of his environment."

Richard answers, "The educational system of today's public schools are geared towards the middie class child. Therefore, when a child from a lower class and disadvantaged background, enters this situation, he enters a world that is alien to him. Tutoring attempts to provide the motivation that is often lacking in the school situation."

He further stated, "Since our program will work in the child's home on the basis of one tutor to one tutee, it provides more personal attention. It also allows the parents to become involved with the education of their child."

Within the next two weeks, approximately 50 East Carolina students will be oriented in their volunteer work with the Greenville Collegiate Tutorial Society.

The tutoring program here at EC is one of 27 college tutoring programs in North Carolina sponsored by the Youth Educational Services of Durham.

Bennie reflected, "A program such as this gives the college student an opportunity to show his concern for disadvantaged children."

The National Society of Interior Designers will meet in Room 105 in Rawl Building Wednesday, September 21, at 7:00.

Sophomore interior design majors are eligible to join; freshmen are invited. Dress clothes appropriate.

THE GREENVILLE COLLEGIATE TUTORIAL SOCIETY DIRECTORS . . . Bennie Teel (l) and Rick Haskins (r) talk over plans for the coming year. The tutoring program which includes about 50 EC students will tutor less privileged children in the south Greenville area.

Six EC Students Win International Awards

Six East Carolina College students have won international awards for their work in graphic arts in the college's industrial and technical education (I & TE) department. Henry Harsch, a graduate student in art from Asheboro, won three awards.

Julia Winifred Coward and Ronald Michael McLean of Grifton, Charles Wellington Stuckey of Raleigh, Thomas A. Stewart of Greensboro and Daniel C. Kippeny of Chalfont, Pa., each received single awards.

The students produced their winning entries for classes taught last year by Dr. William R. Hoots Jr. of the I&TE faculty. Dr. Hoots' classes also won two group awards.

The awards program was sponsored by the International Graphic Arts Education Association (IGAEA) and the competition was held at Illinois State University.

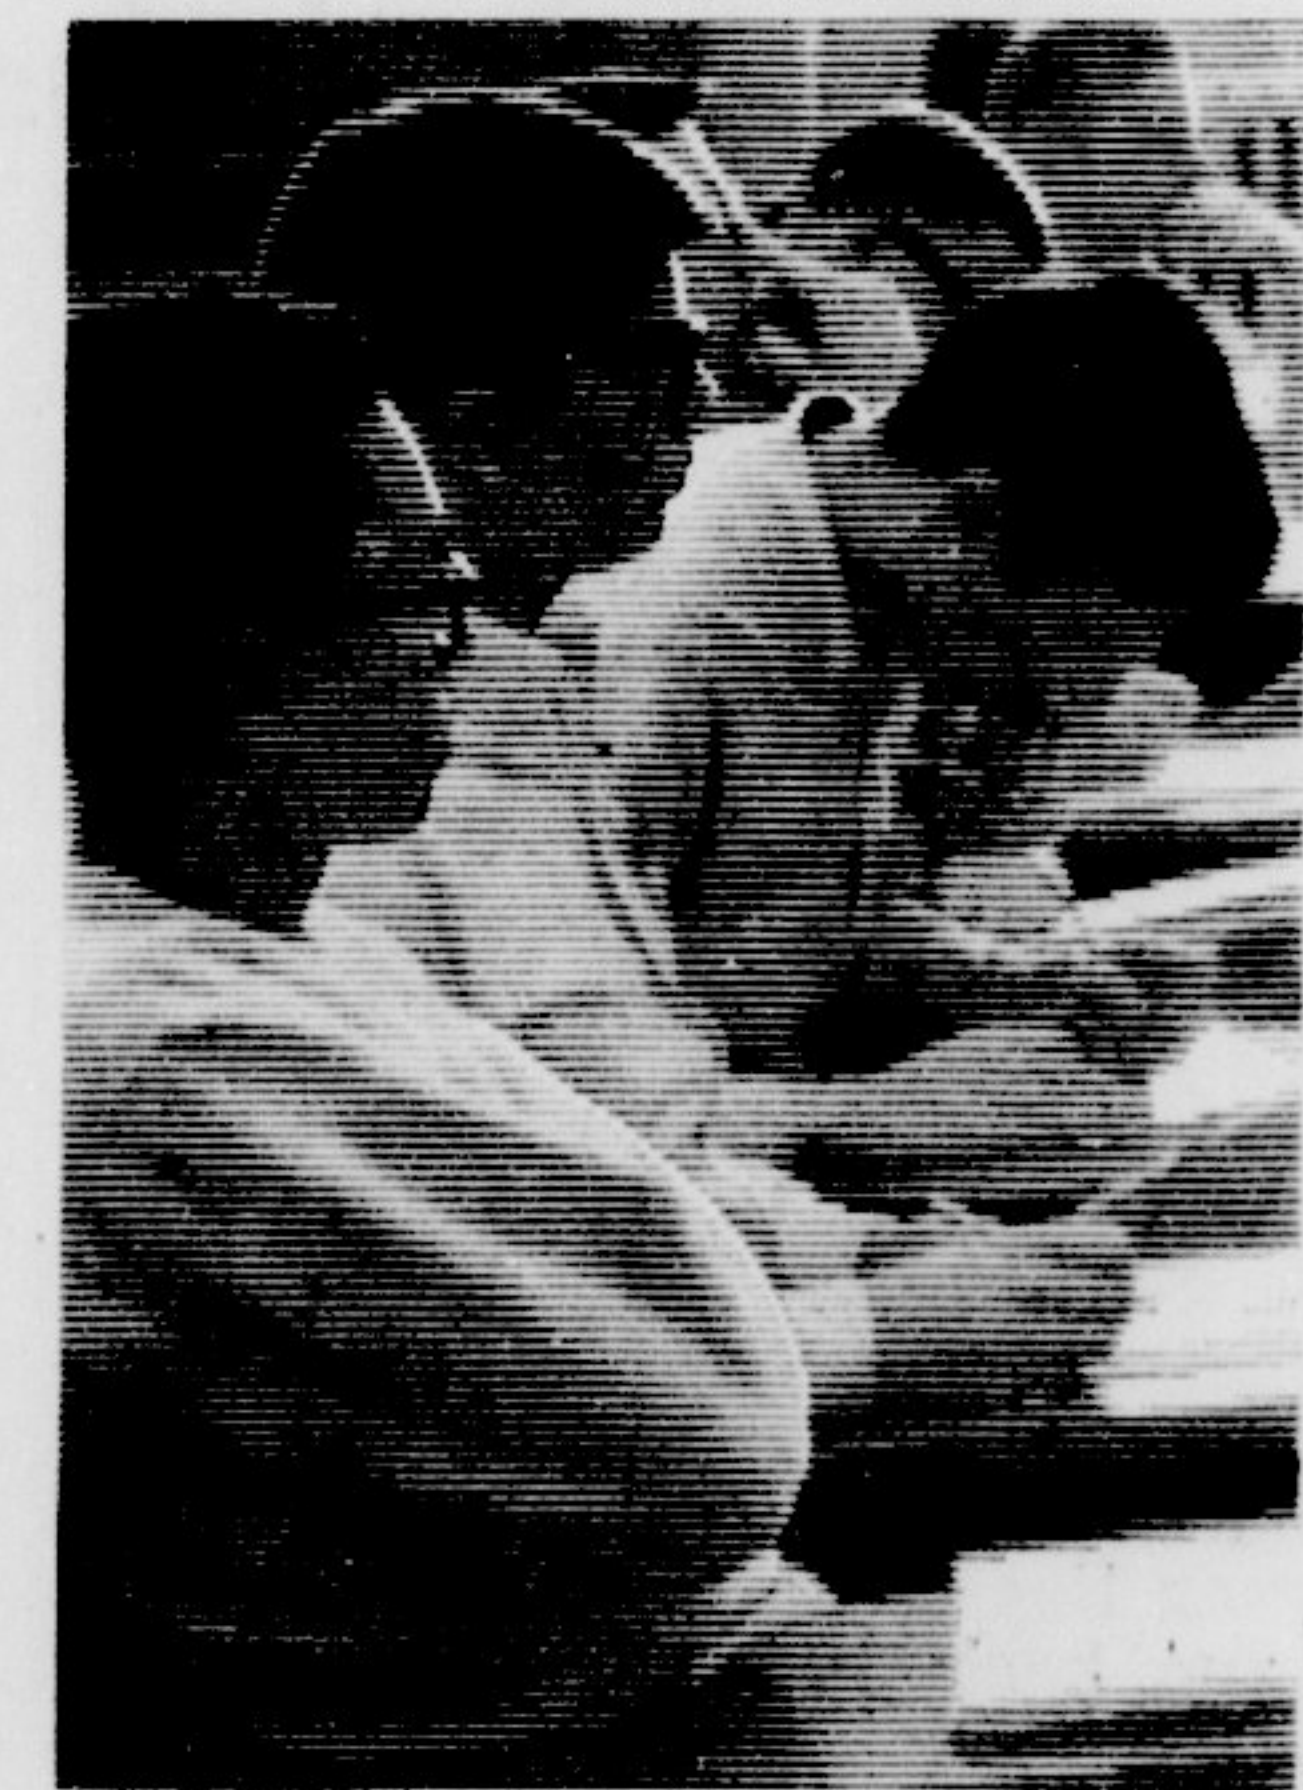

Winning entries, retained by IGAEA for a traveling exhibition, were rated "Outstanding," "Excellent" or "Honorable Mention" and each winning student received a certificate and a ribbon.

Harsch received one "Outstanding" and two "Excellent" awards for his work in photo-offset lithography and photography. Miss Coward, an elementary education major, entered a multi-color silk screen printed Christmas card which was rated "Outstanding."

Kippeny won "Honorable Mention" rating with a teaching aid done by photo-offset lithography.

Dr. Hoots' classes won an "Excellent" award for a duotone print and an "Honorable Mention" for a one-color poster. Both entries were done by photo-offset lithography.

Pirates Experience 'First'

By Clem Williams

By CLEM WILLIAMS
First Time, First Tie
 The Pirates of East Carolina went to William and Mary this past weekend for their season opener. The Pirates under the leadership of Clarence Stasavich experienced a "first" this past Saturday. In the four previous seasons at East Carolina coach Stasavich's teams had never been tied. The College of William and Mary was the first to blemish this record.

Defense Good, Offense Needs Work
 The Pirate defensive line anchored by Kevin Moran and alternate captain Leroy Cobb received high praise from line coach Oddell Welborn. However, he remarked, "We still have some weak spots in our defensive team and they will have to be ironed out before we can play good competitive football."

"We hit very well for the first game, although we did make more mistakes than we should have." As for pass interceptions, he continued, "We should have intercepted more though Neil Hughes came through and intercepted one which turned out to be a crucial one. The defense did progress during the first half," remarked Coach Welborn.

"The offense made a lot of mistakes in fumbles and pass interceptions. Our main trouble was getting a first down on a third down play to keep our drives going. We were able to determine a few positions that were unsettled prior to the game, though we are still unsure about two or three of them," continued Welborn.

Playe To Watch
 In Saturday's game a number of sophomores saw action. Early in the season Coach Stasavich was a little optimistic about the fullback position. During the game at William and Mary two fullbacks alternated, George Gay and Jim Flowe, both sophomores showed great promise. Gay averaged 6.2 yards a carry in his first game of varsity competition. Flowe moved the ball very well at times though he was met by the center of the William and Mary line more than we expected.

Bob Withrow, split end for the Pirates, caught a number of aeri-als from tailback Bill Bailey. Dennis Young, reserve offensive tailback, replaced Bill Bailey for a few plays and completed a fourteen yard aerial.

Bob Reynolds, defensive end, replaced Paul Schnurr after he suffered a dislocated elbow. Reynolds looked real tough and could see a lot more action.

Miles Honeycutt, defensive end, received praise from coach Welborn on his iron-clad defense.

Ballet!
 It has come to my attention that one of our football players is taking a course in ballet. While talking with this football player, he remarked, "I'm actually taking this course to improve by co-ordination." He may be improving his co-ordination but I'm sure he enjoys the class. You ask why? Well, who wouldn't enjoy a class with twenty-five shapely girls?

Pro Scouts
 During the William and Mary game there was a pro scout sitting in the press box. When asked who he was watching, he remarked, "One of East Carolina's guards and their punter." Obviously, he was watching Kevin Moran our All-American candidate and Mike Herring our punter.

EC Pirates Tie W&M Indians With Third Quarter Scoring

By RALPH SMITH
 East Carolina and William and Mary waged a defensive battle Saturday in a game played in Williamsburg, Virginia which ended without either team being able to claim victory.

The Indians from William and Mary scored their only touchdown of the game early in the second quarter on a 95 yard punt return by Chip Young. Senior Donnie McGuire added the extra point to give William and Mary a 7-0 lead which lasted until late in the third quarter.

A punt by William and Mary quarterback Dan Darragh was taken by Robert Ellis on the 25 yard line and returned 75 yards for the touchdown. Robert Paris tied the game at 7-7 to end the scoring for both teams.

East Carolina, while exhibiting a fine defensive game, was hampered in effectiveness by 4 pass interceptions and 5 fumbles, although all 5 of the fumbles were recovered by the Pirates. The Bucs also experienced difficulty in gaining yardage on key third and fourth downs.

In the first quarter East Carolina had the ball on the Indian 45 yard line on the second down with three yards to go. The Pirates gained 22 yards and the series of plays ended on a punt by Mike Herring.

In the second quarter East Carolina had possession of the ball on their own 31 yard line with 2 yards needed for a first down but was forced to punt once again. The most obvious opportunity to score came late in the third quarter on the William and Mary 23 yard line with one yard needed for a first down, but the Indian defense rose to the occasion once again to thwart the East Carolina offense.

In the department of net rushing yardage the Buccaneers gained 157 yards as compared to 81 by the Indians. The Pirates were supreme in net passing yardage getting 111 yards to 81 for William and Mary.

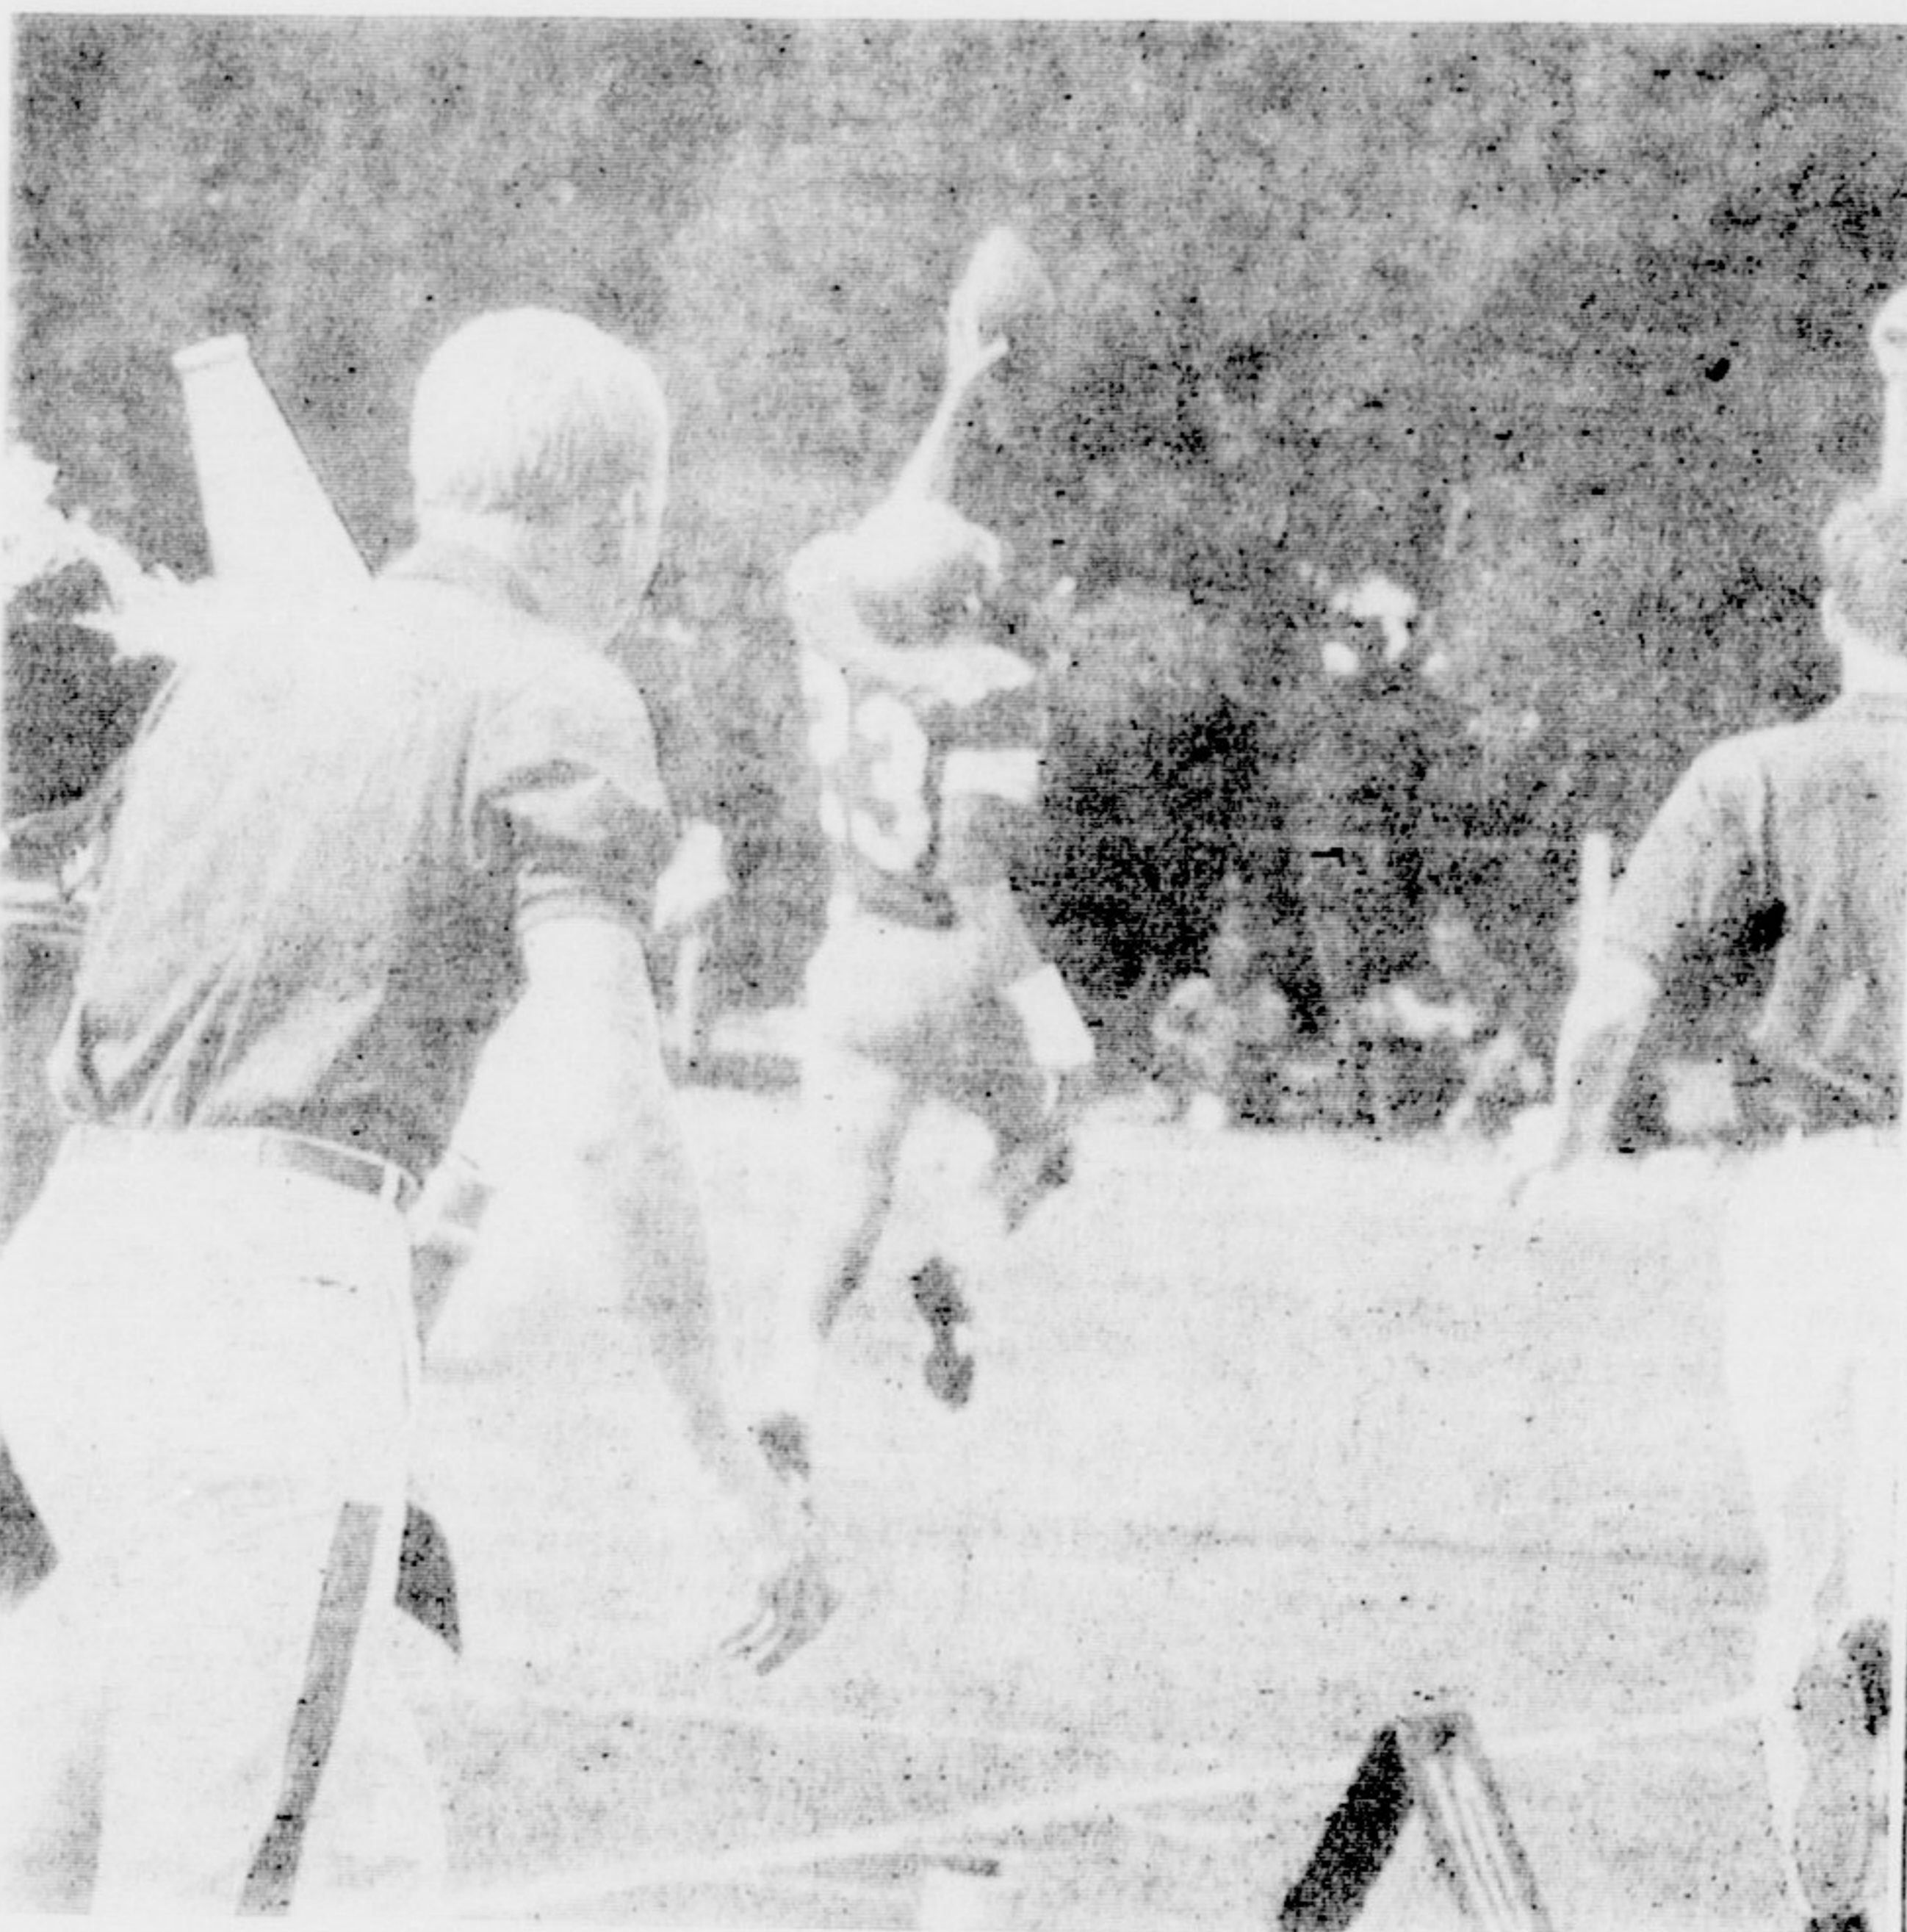

Senior Bill Bailey and sophomore George Gay led the Pirates in the individual statistics. Bailey accounted for 70 yards rushing and 61 yards in passing while Gay carried the ball for 61 yards, including a 37 yard run early in the second quarter, and threw for 34 yards.

Another outstanding sophomore,

Bob Withrow, snatched four passes for a total of 44 yards.

Marty Fuller and Dan Darragh were the leaders for William and Mary. Darragh threw for 64 yards while Fuller ran for 52 in the rushing department. Darragh started off with his first seven passing attempts being complete for 47 of his total 64 yards. Senior Chuck Albertson was the main receiver hauling in 8 passes for a total of 55 yards.

East Carolina continues its bid for the Southern Conference title in two weeks in a home game against the Paladins from Furman University. William and Mary attacks the West Virginia Mountaineers in Morgantown, West Virginia next Saturday while East Carolina battles non-conference foe Northeast Louisiana in Picken Stadium in Greenville.

Coach George Williams Soccer Joins Varsities

Soccer, the game of flying feet, starts its second season September 30, under the direction of a new coach. He is George Williams a 1961 graduate of East Carolina, who also holds a Masters degree in education from the college.

For the first time the sport will be counted as varsity competition. Coach Williams characterized the boys as having good team morale, a great deal of desire, and an all around interest in the sport. Physical conditioning will be stressed since soccer is such a demanding game. "A soccer field is one hundred and twenty yards long and a person has to be in excellent shape to run back and forth constantly," Mr. Williams stated.

When asked about chances of a winning season, it was noted that the loss of Peter Kriz would hurt the team. But, in general the boys seem confident that they will win their share. Promising players noted were Charles Pressley, goalie, Don Bartlett, fullback, and Bob Graham, halfback.

Eight matches are scheduled. The season begins with Wesleyan followed by North Carolina State, Pembroke, Campbell, Wilmington, Pembroke, St. Andrews, and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. The student body is urged to attend these matches and support our players who represent us, as we strive for a well rounded athletic program.
