THE RIGHTEOUS BROTHERS

EC Hosts Righteous Brothers For Two Concerts Thursday

THE RIGHTEOUS BROTHERS will present two concerts at East Carolina College on Thursday, October 27, in Memorial Gymnasium. The first concert will be at 7:00 p.m., and the second concert will be at 9:30 p.m. Tickets will be available beginning at 9:00 a.m. on Thursday, October 20, in the Central Ticket Office. There are as many tickets as were available for the FOUR SEASONS, therefore, it will not be necessary to stand in line for hours!

The Central Ticket Office will run a special faculty and staff line in Wright Lobby on Thursday, October 20, only, while two student lines (one for 7:00 p.m. tickets and one for 9:30 p.m. tickets) will be open at the office. The Central Ticket Office will be open also on Friday, October 21, and Monday, October 24, through Thursday, October 27, until 4:00 p.m. each day. Student, faculty, and staff tickets carry a 50 cents service fee each. Guest tickets are available for $3 each.

The Righteous Brothers, who appear at East Carolina have made a sudden impact on the recording and concert field that is unmatched by American entertainers. Their string of record hits on the Moon-glow and Phillies labels is unparalleled in recent recording history. "Koko Joe," "Fanny Mae," "Try and Find Yourself Another Man," "You've Lost That Lovin' Feelin'," "Just Once in My Life," "Hung on You" and "Unchained Melody" have all risen to the top of the nation's record charts. At one point, three of their albums, "The Righteous Brothers Right Now!," "Some Blue-Eyed Soul" and "You've Lost That Lovin' Feelin'," were all in the top twenty on the album charts. This is a feat that cannot be claimed by any other performer, including such "powerhouses" as The Beatles, Barbra Streisand, and Peter, Paul & Mary.

Bill and Bobby's personal appearance tours, stretching cross-country from Los Angeles, Cal., to Houston, Texas, to Asbury Park, N. J., have been so successful that the enthusiasm and excitement generated by the boys towards their audiences have been met with similar emotions by those in attendance. This no doubt has played a great role in gaining The Righteous Brothers their own chapter in a sociology book. They have left their impact on such television shows as "The Steve Allen Show," "The Tonight Show," "The Lloyd Thaxton Show" and "Shindig," where the boys were regular performers. They have also been in two motion pictures, "A Swingin' Summer" and

EC University Status Tops Students Queries

By DAN SAIEED, JR.
News Editor

East Carolina inaugurated a "Meet the Fellows" program sponsored by the Men's Residence Council Monday night at 7:45, Oct. 17, with Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, President of East Carolina speaking. The program was held in the basement of Aycok dorm with several Administration officials present including James Mallory, Dean of Men; James Tucker, Dean of Student Affairs; and Bob Miller, Assistant Dean of Men. The basement was filled to near capacity as Bill Moore, President of the M. R. C., introduced Dr. Jenkins to the dorm students, who gave him a standing ovation.

Dr. Jenkins began, "I am happy to have this opportunity to speak here. I am very pleased with students on this campus. . . I think the main value of this type of meeting is to answer questions from the students."

The first question posed concerned University Status for East Carolina and the opposition to it. Jenkins commented in effect that the arguments are basically economic. We had the same arguments against us 60 years ago when East Carolina was founded. The people that represent the power structure in this state feel that it would take money away from the Consolidated University. Papers like the Greensboro Daily News, whose editor is Bill Snyder, have written 36 negative editorials against us. They have outlived their usefulness by this violent opposition. Concerning entrance requirements, no state supported institution in N.

C. has requirements higher than E. C. C. does. Some of the arguments against University status have been that E. C. is selfish for Eastern North Carolina but we have many students from all parts of the state. Another is North Carolina shouldn't pioneer in regional Universities because we are poor but 43 regional universities have already been established in this country. We ran into the same type of arguments with the Southern Conference in applying for membership. But E. C. stood on its record. A committee of academicians from Davidson, George Washington and William and Mary and others came to the E. C. campus to investigate us by themselves. They commented that they were surprised at what they saw and in secret ballot they voted unanimously for E. C.'s admission to the Conference. Jenkins, talking about our struggle to become a University, stated, "I will carry this fight to the legislature and even to the gubernatorial race if need be. East Carolina deserves its place in the sun."

Another student asked what Dr. Jenkins thought would happen in the state legislature about the proposed independent status. He commented that three bills will probably be introduced in the forthcoming legislature. The first bill would be for Independent University Status for East Carolina; the second, for E. C. to become a branch of the consolidated University, and the third, a diversionary bill, to make some college in the West independent. . .

PRESIDENT JENKINS MEETS THE FELLOWS

Delegation Of Nine Attends Collegiate Press Convention

A nine member publications delegation departed at 6:30 a.m. Wednesday morning for the annual Associated Collegiate Press Convention in Philadelphia, Penn. The four-day conference, which ends Sunday, is a national convention representative of college publications throughout the United States.

An "excellent" program for yearbook publications is planned for this year's ACP Conference. Professor C. J. Medlin of Kansas State University, who is author of yearbook texts and the winner of two major awards for ALL-AMERICAN advisers, will teach a basic yearbook course. Another featured yearbook authority will be Benjamin W. Allnut, yearbook author and winner of a Distinguished Service Award and ACP judge for major college yearbooks. Glenn Hanson, professor of typography and makeup at the University of Illinois, will teach several courses on yearbook and newspaper makeup and layout.

Charles Kurault, CBS News New York Correspondent, noted for his outstanding work on CBS reports and former editor of THE DAILY TARHEEL, will open the ACP Convocation.

Featured on a panel that will discuss "Freedom of the Press" as related to college newspapers will be Harold E. Kohn, noted libel lawyer and partner of the law firm that represents the Philadelphia Inquirer. Other newspaper seminars offered student journalists include "The College Newspaper Viewed from the Editor's Chair," "How Much Emphasis Should College Newspapers Give to World News" and "The Student Revolution and the Press."

Highlighting the newspaper seminars will be Professor Melvin Menger of the Graduate School of Journalism at Columbia University. Menger's chief commentary will concern "The Editorial Page as a Forum." Professor Roy Copperud, from the University of Southern California, who is a noted style expert, offers a course on the "Art and Craft of Creative Writing."

East Carolina's delegation should return to campus early Sunday afternoon. The delegates to the ACP Conference are sponsored by East Carolina's Student Government Association.

Religious Survey Favors Baptist

More than half the students at East Carolina College say they prefer either the Baptist or Methodist church.

Based on replies from 8,334 of the 9,000 students at ECC, figures revealed by religious activities Director D. D. Gross show that a total of 4,795 students prefer the Baptist or Methodist denomination.

The Baptist denomination is the most popular: 35 per cent or 2,746 of those replying listed that preference.

Twenty-three per cent, 2,049 students, listed the Methodist church. High percentages for the Baptist and Methodist churches, Gross pointed out, continue the pattern of religious preference among ECC student bodies of recent years.

Last year, for example, 32 per cent (2,471) of the students replying preferred the Baptist church and 24 per cent (1,836) the Methodist. Combined they accounted for more than half the entire student body.

Other denominations listed by substantial numbers of this year's students (with last year's figures in parentheses) include:

Presbyterian, 937 (843); Catholic, 520 (434); Episcopal, 487 (408); Christian, 302 (316); Lutheran, 189 (176); Jewish, 72 (62).

A total of 1,345 students, compared with last year's 909, listed various other religious preferences. Those denominations include Christian Science, Free Will Baptist, Mormon, Pentecostal Holiness, Quaker and Unitarian faiths.

Replies from 187 students indicated no denomination preference.

Changing World . . .

(The following is a guest editorial by Bob Ewegen, Editor of the Colorado Daily at the University of Colorado. This is the first in a series of editorial exchange columns to be printed once every month to present a broader scope of editorial views at colleges and universities throughout the United States.)

"The life of a college generation is of short and indeterminate length.

Two or three years sees a majority turnover. By its very temporary nature, the tone of a college generation is subject to swift and radical change. Such a change may be occurring today.

The college students from the twilight of the Eisenhower years through the New Frontier on up to about 1965 were very much the children of Kennedy. Regardless of their particular philosophical orientation, they sought improvement in man's condition through governmental change and public action.

Naturally the bulk of students never became massively involved. But what Clark Kerr termed the small creative minority of leadership which sets the tone of each generation found an outlet for its aspirations in public affairs.

Now the tone seems to be changing, from outward orientation to inward orientation. The students who fueled the great civil rights movement, the peace movement, the student-rights movement and the other great student efforts of the last few years seem to be disappearing, growing inactive or losing influence. Their replacements are inwardly oriented, not outwardly. They seek outlets for their dreams in personal exploration rather than public involvement. The children of Kennedy are giving away to the children of Leary (LSD).

There are many possible reasons for this change. Many of the thrilling dreams of the past few years are today destroyed or mired down. The civil rights movement is bogged down amidst a primordial swamp of "Black Power" demagogues and the old "White Power" cretins. The goal of racial harmony and human progress looks further away now than it did in the fifties.

The peace movement is suffering a kind of emotional paralysis regardless of the petitions, teach-ins, demonstrations and political work, the war continues to grow ever larger and more brutal. The fire is feeding its own draft, the war is creating a warhawk spirit that strangles any rational arguments for peace. It is as if the war is obeying the old Russian maxim that when enough men are armed "the guns begin to speak of their own accord."

The Great Society programs, which once offered a new outlet to idealism, are now waylaid by the demands of the military machine and bogged down in gutter politics.

The draft hangs over students' heads as the "third inevitable" and it now seems impossible to many students to plan their own lives or contribute meaningfully to human welfare.

Perhaps these factors are the social backdrop which is producing the children of Leary (LSD). If it seems impossible to find a better life through outward socially directed action, perhaps students feel the only alternative is to withdraw and find Valhalla within their own inner self with the help of a sugar cube.

This, of course, is the other factor, the spread of LSD. Simple to manufacture, impossible to detect within the human system, LSD offers the way to an internal paradise for the children of Leary.

The web of laws slowly beginning to surround LSD may simply be another "noble experiment" with even less chance of success.

Prohibition failed against alcohol, which is incredibly easier to find. A quart of John Barleycorn can stone two men. A quart of "acid" can stone a major city. Even marijuana, far weaker than LSD and probably less harmful than alcohol, is simple to control compared to LSD.

So the children of Leary can confidently expect to have at least the back door of their paradise ajar if they wish to enter. The question is then, will they enter, in what numbers, and what will happen to society as a result.

The most dangerous thing about LSD is that the intense personal expansion and discovery it produces seem to dull interest in the outside world. The children of Kennedy, anxious to remake a nation, carefully planned their tactics, chose their issues and to a degree played the game of retropolitik with its inevitable overtones of public relations and subtle compromise.

The children of Leary merely state their own summum bonum to the world, scorn anyone who remains "straight" and regard the necessary alliances and compromises of politics as "selling out." Above all, the children of Kennedy sought to communicate. The children of Leary wish only to proclaim their own reality and care little if they are understood by those who have never shared their religious experience.

The children of Kennedy have not yet departed. But if this is indeed a transitional stage they may walk beside the children of Leary for some time to come. Yet inevitably their paths must someday diverge.

An inner Camelot does not wipe out a Watts. A week-end "trip" does not erase poverty. The road to a private paradise and a public New Frontier cannot always coincide.

The motto of the children of Kennedy was "Ask not what your country can do for you, ask what you can do for your country." The slogan of the children of Leary is simply "Ask only what you can do for your senses."

The two standards are in deep conflict, and both are needed at the college generation. The one accepted by this generation may well set the tone of American life for decades to come."

Last Night

Boo Hoo, Billy Graham

By Duncan Stout

A recent editorial printed in the Colorado Daily, the University of Colorado student newspaper, cited frustration with the Viet Nam, Racial, and Civil Liberties protest movements as being prime contributors to the growing number of disciples following the teachings of Dr. Leary and the LSD cult.

However, we wonder if these are the only reasons for the popularity of the magic sugar cubes. Perhaps, the HAPPENING, the supreme communal revelation, has much to offer those people in wanderlust of self.

Recently we had heard several sketchy rumors of LSD on campus. Could it be that there is some foundation to them?

The Bonfire Prelude to Homecoming appeared to be a rather simple minded affair. However, we cannot help but feel that the burning of the art work in Rawl Building was possibly a high manifestation of some inward reverence by those guilty souls. Even Wright Fountain, once the image of simplicity, has now taken a dynamic twist of personality.

But again, LSD at East Carolina is only a rumor. Perhaps IT IS just a case of overcrowding. Certainly, some unknown force caused that window to crack in Aycock Basement while Dr. Jenkins addressed the men of The Hill.

We were sorry not everyone could hear Dr. Jenkins' talk up on The Hill last Tuesday night. It was quite a treat. University Status was the topic of the night and some of our foggy notions were brought to light.

Perhaps last Spring's Intrepidman was a little too hasty in criticizing Gov. Dan Moore's stand on a consolidated university. Now we are assured that in reality Dr. Jenkins and the Governor are really good friends. It seems that politics and party loyalty are to be blamed for the Governor's sinister reputation . . . too bad.

Another Presidential friend was also mentioned briefly mentioned—fellow Tar Heel, Billy Graham. Remember? He was the one, who, while speaking in South Carolina mentioned some poor moral attitudes of the Nation's Youth citing the temporary suspension of PIKA and Sigma Nu fraternities at East Carolina. According to Dr. Jenkins, while supping with Mr. Graham before his well publicized London Crusade, the evangelist asked what denomination supported East Carolina. He even went further to guess the population of old immoral us as 500 gee!

Of course not everyone is a friend of the school. We wonder just who is the Chairman of the Board of Higher Education's 140 name private mailing list. And all of that talk about the GREENSBORO DAILY NEWS and large economic-political blocs out to get us! Apparently no one heard the distinct hiss-like sounds that emancipated from a nearby Royal Crown Cola machine.

We were further assured politics is politics. And to even further clarify the subject, when asked if he were a possible candidate for Governor Dr. Jenkins stated he would "run for Dog Catcher" if it would help. Hmmm . . .

There were a lot of questions asked that night but the most intriguing must be credited to the boy who, after listening for a while to the speaker, asked his buddy, "Who's that?" The reply was of course, "I dunno."

When it was all over Dr. Jenkins thanked the fellows for the opportunity to speak and then turned the chair over once again to, "Brother Bill."

Things by the way look pretty good for Brother Bill. With each of the residents of The Hill shelling out three dollars there should be no limit on the services provided to the men. We hope all of the men get a chance to stop by and see the second mimeograph machine they just purchased and of course that shiny new IBM Electric Typewriter to replace the old hand operated machine.

We understand that the last Bus Trip to Washington, cost $350.00. Twenty five students paid seven dollars each for the ride. Not bad huh? That only $175.00 down the drain for the pleasure of the men. Even at full bus load capacity (37 passengers) there is a question of ninety-one dollars. But getting back to twenty five passengers you also have to include the cost of the game tickets that the MRC so graciously provided — approximately another fifty five dollars. $230 . . . ho, ho, ho . . .

It's too bad the first dance at The Hill will not be held Fall Quarter. We understand there are too many football games to get in the way. But, you cannot say all of the MRC's efforts are purely physical. Brother Bill mentioned the possibility of having Brother Dr. Timothy Leary himself coming here to speak.

We can't wait. Maybe at last we will be able to get at the basis for all our problems. We would love to hear the man speak . . . just as soon as he gets out of jail.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Over the period of time that I have been reading the EAST CAROLINIAN I have noticed the "Letters to the Editor" section has presented many more complaints than compliments. I would like to even the score somewhat by stating, in reference to cafeteria cuisine, that I consider the meals served at the campus cafeterias excellent. Before you condemn my taste buds and/or my intelligence, allow me to defend myself. For four years, Uncle Sam set my table under the auspices of the United States Air Force. Therefore I consider myself an authority on slop, swill, gruel and the like. Cafeteria food does not fall into any of these categories nor does it come close. Agreed, my compliment comes about by contrasting cafeteria cooking with something much worse, but is this anywhere near as unjustified as complaints that come about by contrasting cafeteria food with home-cooking or that of some Parisian restaurant? The cafeterias prove that it is possible to provide hundreds of students every day with a varying menu, and a decently balanced diet, but I think it's asking too much to expect them to equal or even approach home-cooking. Furthermore, for those of you who complain about the prices, I think the complaints should be directed more towards the White House than towards the cafeterias.

Sincerely,
William Callahan

To the Editor:

Once again I am very proud of East Carolina College. I have been here almost three years and have experienced many proud moments. However, I do not think that I have ever been as proud as I was Homecoming as I watched our Marching Pirates high-stepping it down Evans Street and on the Football field.

Under the tremendous leadership of Marvin Piland, who in his own way stole the show, the Marching Pirates presented a beautiful program. They really outdid themselves.

Everyone here should be duly proud of their fine performance and of the fact that we have one of the finest music schools on the East Coast. I know, some may say that I am prejudice for one reason or another. Perhaps I am, but I am glad that I have the privilege (note that word) of knowing many of the people responsible for the fine music program on our campus.

Some of the uncultured on this campus think that the Music Hall is overflowing with nuts!! Yes, those people are different—but Vive la Difference!! Those same uncultured ones walk by the Music Hall and think, "Hey, look at the Junies on the back porch!" Well, if they are "Junies" (which I doubt), then God bless everyone on them!

Very proudly,
Shirley Frohman

Formal Rush Begins Sunday, October 23

East Carolina's Greeks are set to go! The annual "Formal Rush" will begin Sunday, October 23 as 10 social fraternities will swing open their doors for all rushees.

"At the present time, about 300 EC men have signed up and we have set the deadline for Friday, October 21," commented Bill Hunt, IFC President. Hunt added that the IFC expects to sign up many more in the next two days because information about Rush is reaching all the men.

In short, the initial purpose of Formal Rush is to give all the men students who are not associated with Fraternities a chance to meet the Fraternity men and visit their houses. There is no obligation tied to Rush. Bids are extended, but the acceptance of a bid to pledge is purely optional.

The aims of the social fraternities in the East Carolina Fraternal system are to build scholarship and civic duty among student members and provide a great opportunity for members to participate in intramural sports. Annual projects of community service include Christmas parties for needy children and scholarships to deserving students. Congeniality based on character — that is the fraternity system at East Carolina.

The assets derived from fraternal life are countless. Contributing to the betterment of the college men, these fraternities offer to their members both rich and rewarding experiences. The many phases of the Fraternal system combine to make this college a more democratic and enjoyable place, a place where men build life long friendships and prosper in true brotherhood.

The social fraternities realize the advantage of numbers in getting big name entertainment for the week-ends and combine the fraternities efforts during the annual Greek Week to bring in such groups as the "Four Tops" and the "Temptations" as they did last spring.

And don't forget this. According to a U. S. Government study, a college man's chances of graduation is increased by 42 per cent if he joins a fraternity.

IMPORTANT! Last day to sign up for Formal Rush is Friday. All prospective Rushees meet at Old Austin Auditorium at 12:30 p.m. Sunday, October 23.

This is a REQUIRED MEETING!
FORMAL RUSH SCHEDULE
Oct. 23 Rush Begins, 1:00 P.M. - 6:00 P.M.

Oct. 24, 25, 26 — 7:00 - 10:00 P.M.

Oct. 27 — Noon to 5:00 P.M. Bids are to be extended in BUCCANEER ROOM, third floor Wright Building.

All Rushees must visit each Fraternity House during the first night of Rush. Rush cards must be signed by either the Rush Chairman or the President of each Fraternity. Any violation of this rule will cause cancellation of Rush privileges.

Booths will be open this week for signing up in Jones Cafeteria.

Board Member

Helen Vane Stear, assistant professor in the drama and speech department at East Carolina College, is new on the editorial board of the Southern Speech Journal for 1966. As a new board member, Miss Stear will evaluate articles on drama and oral interpretation.

Students rush to sign up for Formal Rush before the deadline Friday.

Fraternity Benefits Student And Promotes EC Progress

In their twelve years of existence at East Carolina College, fraternities have been the hub in the wheel of progress. Since their inception, fraternities have constantly stressed service, scholarship, cooperation, teamwork, friendship, and self-improvement.

The ten national social fraternities at East Carolina College comprise around 12 to 15 per cent of the total male students. These men are not very homogeneous. A truer cross-section of the entire campus enrollment would be hard to find. Socially, culturally, intellectually, athletically, and politically, these men are among the leaders in these facets of college life.

The governing body of the fraternity system is the Interfraternity Council. It consists of the presidents and two chosen members from each fraternity. The power of the vote resides with the two chosen members. The officers of the Council are the president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer. Bill Hunt is the able and energetic President of the Council.

The Interfraternity Council of East Carolina College would like to take this opportunity to state six reasons why joining a fraternity will be of benefit to the individual. These reasons are as follows:

1. Fraternities encourage superior scholarship.
2. Fraternities increase chances of graduating.

3. Fraternities inspire high standards of conduct.

4. Fraternities create a sense of "belonging".

5. Fraternities develop leadership ability.

6. Fraternities instill a spirit of good citizenship.

Dr. W. Clark Wescoe, Chancellor, University of Kansas says, "Fraternities have had a tremendous influence in improving scholarship. Indeed, many parents want their sons to join a fraternity because they appreciate this emphasis and insistence on good scholarship."

According to a U. S. Government study, a college man's chance of graduation is increased by 42 per cent if he joins a fraternity! Besides the all-important scholarship, fraternity men are expected to set an example on the campus in matters of behavior. This includes good grooming, courtesy to elders, correct manners, and other marks of a gentleman. At the core is the spirit of brotherhood. This involves respect for the rights and feelings of others, self-discipline, loyalty, fair play, and personal integrity.

Paul E. Van Horn, President of American Life Insurance Company of New York says, "Life in a fraternity is the finest training available for young men for future professional and corporate life. They must make decisions, assume responsibility for these decisions, and learn to work as a team."

College fraternities also take pride in being "good citizens" of the community as well as good neighbors. Working together for an unselfish goal is a valuable experience to any young man on the threshold of a career. Anyone who takes and absorbs the fraternity experience has taken a strong first step toward good citizenship as an adult.

Fraternity Addresses

Every rushee is required to visit the individual houses of all social fraternities during the first night of Formal Rush. The following list of fraternity house addresses should aid each rushee in complying with Rush Rules.

Fraternities and their addresses are as follows:

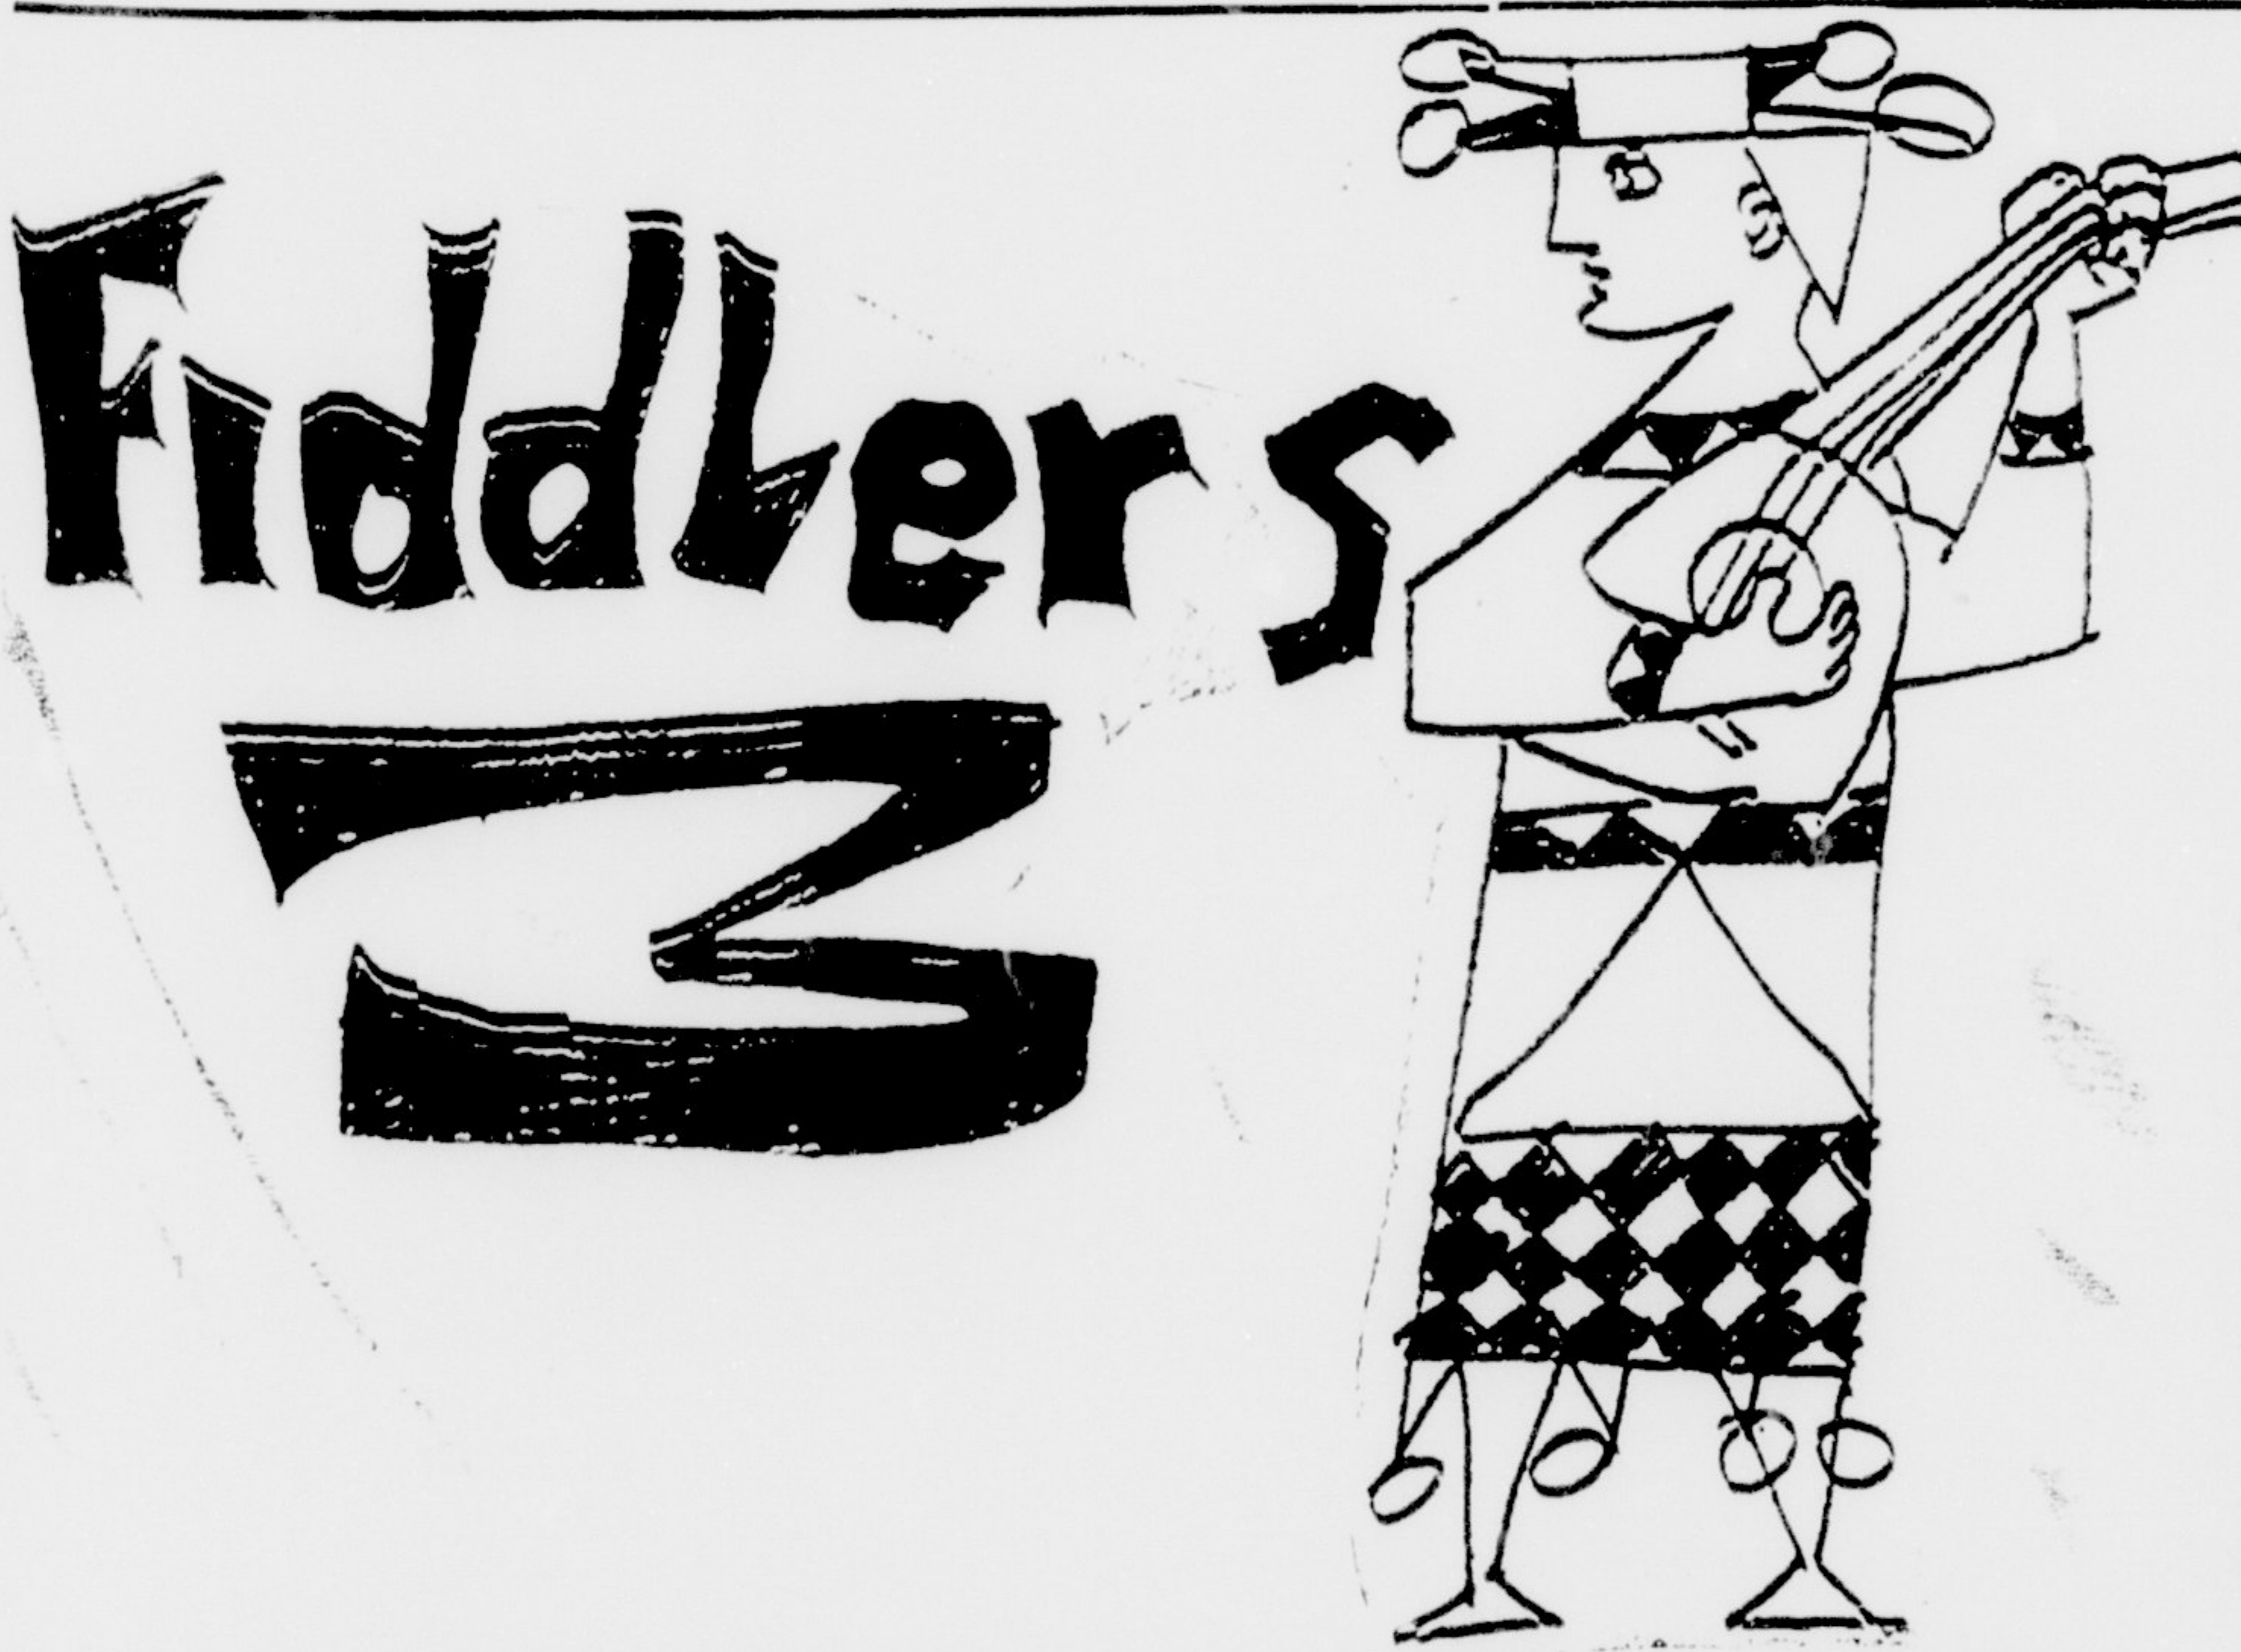

1. Alpha Epsilon Pi: 562 Cotanche St.
2. Kappa Alpha: 412 East Ninth St.
3. Kappa Sigma: 208 South Pitt St.
4. Lambda Chi Alpha: 552 Cotanche St.
5. Phi Kappa Tau: 807 East Third St.
6. Pi Kappa Alpha: 407 East Fifth St.
7. Pi Kappa Phi: 1301 East Fifth St.
8. Sigma Nu — Rush will be held at the Sigma Sigma Sigma house during the first two nights and at the Chi Omega House on the third night.
9. Sigma Phi Epsilon: 411 West Fifth St.
10. Theta Chi: 414 West Fourth St.

IT'S ALL GREEK

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

The Iota Upsilon Chapter initiated seven pledges into brotherhood on the 19th of October. They are Skip Ciampa, Wayne Gardner, Glen Chitty, Paul Roseman, Jim Parsons, Bill Turcotte, and Pete Murphy.

The Brothers of Lambda Chi Alpha would like to invite all interested Rushes to their house, October 23, from 1 to 6 P.M. This is the official beginning of Formal Rush for the 1966 season. The Lambda Chi's will hold rush from 7 to 10 P.M. on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. The final night of rush, Wednesday, will be held at Dr. Leo Jenkins's house. The Iota Upsilon Chapter would like to thank Dr. Jenkins for this honor.

KAPPA ALPHA ORDER

This coming Friday, the brothers and pledges of Kappa Alpha Order will hold their annual simulated train robbery. The Security Life train will be carrying children from Winterville to Greenville when it will be attacked by Indians and be defended by "the boy's in gray". This annual service project is held in conjunction with Security Life and Trust of Greenville.

In accordance with service projects, the KA sponsored Midget Football Team is currently leading the Greenville league with a record of 2-0.

DELTA SIGMA PI

This past weekend the first of the nine Regional Meetings of Delta Sigma Pi was held. Edward Hudgins, president of the Delta Zeta Chapter, represented us at the meeting held in Atlanta, Georgia.

On October 31, 1966 Mr. William Bridges, from a well known Brokerage Company, will speak at a banquet at the Kenland Motel Restaurant for the fraternity.

DELTA ZETA

The Zeta Lambda chapter of Delta Zeta is happy to announce the pledging of three new girls: Karen Sloan, Cary, N. C.; Jeanne Storter, Naples, Florida; and Ann Thomas, Fayetteville, N. C.

Congratulations to Lynne Jones for winning a scholarship to John Robert Powers Fashion and Finishing School this summer.

Best wishes to sister Frances Kelley who was recently lavaliered to David McFadden, a Phi Sigma at U.N.C. Best wishes also go to sister Betsy Chickering who is lavaliered to Richard Scott of Pi Kappa Phi.

We are looking forward to the arrival of our Province President, Mrs. Tate, who will join us in celebrating Founders Day, October, 24.

PI KAPPA PHI FRATERNITY

The brothers and pledges of Pi Kappa Phi would like to extend a warm welcome to all rushes during the week of Formal Rush. The Pi Kappa House is located at 1301 East Fifth Street (Between Ragsdale and the EP Bldg.)

This past Monday night the Brotherhood serenaded Miss Pat Eubanks and Miss Rita Tingle, who were pinned to Danny Ray and Ron Seigfried.

Kappa Delta

On October 23, tribute will be paid to the founding of Kappa Delta Sorority. The 69th anniversary of the Sorority will be celebrated by its 59,000 members in 102 college chapters and 350 chartered alumnae associations in the 50 states.

Kappa Delta was founded at Longwood College, Farmville, Virginia, on October 23, 1897. On Founders' Day, special tribute will be paid to the only surviving Founder, Mrs. Arthur M. White of Norfolk, Virginia. Kappa Delta Sorority was founded by four young women, including Julia Tyler Wilson, who was the granddaughter of John Tyler, tenth president of the United States.

The first National Panhellenic Conference sorority to select the care and aid of crippled children as its national philanthropy, Kappa Delta gives $10,000 annually toward the support of six beds at the Crippled Children's Hospital in Richmond, Virginia. In addition to this aid, the Sorority regularly makes contributions for special projects or equipment for the hospital. At the Sorority's 1965 Convention in Chicago, Kappa Delta presented a check for $10,000 to the hospital for the purchase of an emergency power system. Individual members contribute to the Hospital Fund by purchasing Kappa Delta Christmas seals. Members provide gifts of toys and clothing for the children throughout the year. Chapters and alumnae associations also assist crippled children in their own communities.

In recognition of outstanding research in the field of orthopaedics, Kappa Delta presents, annually, three Kappa Delta Orthopaedic Awards. Each award carries a $1,000 grant, and is administered by the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons. The 1965 awards were presented to Dr. Carl E. Anderson, Santa Rosa, California; and jointly, to Dr. William J. Kane and Dr. Eugene Grim, Ph.D., both of Minneapolis, Minnesota. The Kappa Delta Orthopaedic Award, established in 1947, has been presented annually since 1950.

Loessin Directs 'Marat - Sade'

East Carolina College is preparing what may be the first campus production of a play whose shortened title, "Marat-Sade," abbreviates what is surely one of the longest names of any drama ever penned. Tryouts are scheduled this week for "The Persecution and Assassination of Marat as Performed by the Inmates of the Asylum of Charenton under the Direction of the Marquis de Sade."

The play will be presented under the direction of Edgar R. Loessin, in a four-night run, Dec. 7 - 10.

"Marat-Sade" ended a highly-successful New York run just a few months ago. It was brought to American by the English Royal Shakespeare Co. for a two-week engagement that eventually stretched to nearly five months.

Its playwright, Peter Weiss, now has another play on the New York stage, "The Investigation," which is causing a wave of comment similar to that brought forth by "Marat-Sade."

"Marat-Sade" is a play within a play. In it Charlotte Corday murders Marat in an intense story which involves many inmates of the asylum as well as the warden and others of the staff. Other principals are the Marquis de Sade, Duperré, warden Coulmier and Simonne Evrard, Marat's nurse.

The East Carolina Playhouse production, according to Loessin, will include drama and other students from the campus and "we hope, a large number of residents of the Greenville area."

Loessin says the Playhouse "is fortunate to get production rights to this memorable theater experience so soon after its New York run." He adds, "We don't know of any other college productions of it yet. There may have been, but certainly we are among the first if not the very first college theater to produce it.

Law Society Meets

The Law Society of East Carolina College invites all interested students to attend its next meeting in Rawl building, room 130, next Monday night at 7:30 P.M. There are no requirements to join, just a sincere interest in Law or current Legal controversies.

"We are very pleased because it represents a very good experience for our drama majors in the latest of contemporary theater, and it also gives us an opportunity to present this kind of theater fare to the people of Eastern North Carolina."

Loessin expects keen interest in "Marat-Sade" from campus theatergoers, but he also believes ticket supplies will be ample to take care of interested persons in the surrounding area.

Tickets will be available to the non-college public at the regular college theater price of $2 each. Ticket information is available now from the Central Ticket Office in Wright Auditorium, P.O. Box 2722.

SGA Approves Campus Budgets

By DOYLE PERDUE
SGA Staff Writer

At the Monday evening meeting of the Student Legislature, the final approval of budgets was the main order of business. As old business, the constitution of the School of Music Forum was taken from the table and approved by the Legislature. With no further old business, the Chair moved to the new business. Steve Moore, Chairman of the SGA Budget Committee, submitted several budgets prepared by his committee to the Legislature. The following budgets were approved by the Legislature, Buccaneer, $57,589.10; Cheerleaders, $2,095.00; East Carolinian, $28,115.00; SGA Executive Committee, $9,552.93; Full-Time Salaries, $11,513.70; Honor Council - Judiciary, $35.00; Photography, $1,586.69; ECC Playhouse, $11,025.00; Rebel, $4,481.94; Symphony Orchestra, $700.00; Model United Nations, $6,700.00. The appointment of David Lloyd and Gale Adams to the Rules Committee was announced by Speaker Burns. Dean Alexander said that tickets for the Righteous Brothers Concert would go on sale Thursday, October 20. Alexander asked the Legislators to remind students that there will be plenty of tickets for the concert and to ask students not to stand in line all day.

The meeting was then adjourned by Speaker Burns.

Foreign Film Series Arranged For '66-'67

The 1966-'67 series of foreign films at East Carolina College has been arranged by a committee of eight students working in conjunction with six faculty members. Martin Lassiter of Raleigh is student chairman of the group. Working with him are Thomas Daughtry of Smithfield; Roy Dicks of Fayetteville; Ryan Keith of Wake Forest; Ellen Lassiter, Lynn Ridley Shearin and Beth Wilson of Raleigh; and Harold Short of Charlotte.

The 1966-'67 series of foreign films are shown about once a month in Wright Auditorium. Some of the movies included in this year's series are "Albert Schweitzer," "Sandcastle," "Ballet of Romeo and Juliet," and "The Island." Films in this year's series come from producers in eight countries: Canada, England, France, Ireland, Italy, Japan, Russia and Sweden. The Foreign Film committee selects the movies to be shown, makes necessary arrangements for their showing, and provides publicity. Faculty members working with the students are headed by co-chairman Dr. Ralph Napp of the sociology department and Rudolph Alexander, assistant dean of student affairs. Other faculty members are Mrs. Frank Adams of the English department and Dr. Henry Wanderman, Dr. Fred Martin and Mrs. Marguerite Perry of the foreign languages department.

New Dorm Women Await Elevator

The patient girls in Women's Ten Story Dorm are getting a wonderful Christmas present. It is the thing they want most in the world; the thing they have been subtly hinting for since the beginning of fall quarter. Enough hints and the new elevator is at long last being installed in the dorm.

It will take four to six weeks to install the gem but it will be well-worth the wait. The reasons it will take so long are that there are 50,000 miscellaneous parts that they have to discover a place for. After the installation is completed a cement floor must be poured and then it has to be inspected for safety. The elevator is loaded with all kinds of safety devices. It can only fall up, never down. When the elevator falls five feet a special triple safety device snaps on that halts it in mid air. Nice to know, huh? Everyone is finally happy. The elevator is being installed and weary girls are anticipating a rest.

Righteous Brothers

"Beach Ball" and a well-planned program of projects is in the offing for future film properties. One of the main reasons given for their immense popularity stems from the musical sound which they have been producing since 1962, when, while appearing at various clubs in California, they decided to merge talents. Bill, a California native and Bobby, born in Wisconsin but reared in California, call their sound, aptly enough, "The Righteous Sound." It is composed of many styles and types of music, including spiritual, rock 'n' roll, blues, country and western, gospel and standards, all of which have been adapted into a distinct and unique sound, one that has sold over 10,000,000 records in three short years. "Basically," they say, "we have no gimmicks. Our approach to music is one specific quality, the heart of the song. The secret is to create a mood rather than articulate words. We don't do an easy show and when we perform we are up there to satisfy ourselves as well as the audience. We have set our own limits on performance and that limit is high." That kind of attitude has kept The Righteous Brothers from being content with their sudden success. They want to go even further in the business as full-fledged entertainers and have worked out specialty numbers and choreographic effects to enhance their performances. Bob Hatfield and Bill Medley are at the forefront of today's popular music scene and following a concert tour of American college campuses the boys plan to take their sound to the Orient, Australia, England and the European continent. The Righteous Brothers are certainly a phenomenon of the times. They have reached the heights of success and their effect on the American public has been startling. It is easy to see why those professors at Southern California are giving The Righteous Brothers a rightful chapter in their comprehensive study.

EC Honors Scholarship Goes To Kinston Coed

A senior history major from Kinston, Martha Doby Humphrey, has been awarded East Carolina College's third annual history honors scholarship. As recipient of the scholarship, Miss Humphrey has been assigned to an honors professor in the history department, Dr. Betty C. Congleton, a specialist in 19th century American history. Dr. Congleton will direct Miss Humphrey in a program of intensive reading and research in 19th century American history during this school year. Dr. Herbert R. Paschal Jr., department chairman, said Miss Humphrey was chosen "for her outstanding academic record, sterling character, interest in the field of history and potential to undertake graduate work in the future."

Choice of Miss Humphrey for the scholarship was made by the ECC student financial aid committee on recommendation of the history honors committee and the chairman of the history department. In addition to Miss Humphrey's scholastic achievements, she has been a campus leader in numerous extracurricular activities. For three years she was student counselor of Slay Hall, dormitory for women, and is currently serving Slay as student hostess. She holds membership in the Gamma Beta Phi national honorary scholastic fraternity and Phi Alpha Theta national honorary history society.

ATTENTION ALL FRESHMEN

All freshmen must complete the freshman testing program. This includes freshmen who started to school in the summer as well as those who started in the fall. If you did not take these tests during the Pre-College Counseling Sessions in the summer, please report to Flanagan 206 on Saturday, October 22, at 8:30 am. A $5.00 fee must be paid at the time of testing.

STUDENTS-FOR-JONES PLAN RALLY

Two EC Campus Chairmen Plan Walter Jones Campaign

The Honourable Walter B. Jones, Congressman from North Carolina's First District, has announced the co-chairman of the Students-for-Jones, on the campus of East Carolina. Nat Bost, a senior from Wilington, and Sonny McLawhorn, a sophomore from Winterville, will head the group for Congressman Jones, which has been in operation for the last month. The Students-for-Jones will co-ordinate local rallies, distribute material, inform the students and faculty of the issues, and assist in the senior party in electing Congressman Jones.

Within the last two weeks, the Students-for-Jones have formed two Jones-for-Congress caravans and attended two local rallies. The first one was in Ayden where over 500 people attended. The second was held last night in Washington, North Carolina. Several other rallies are planned. There will be a Jones-for-Congress Rally in Greenville, on October 25 at the Moose Lodge.

Upon notification of the selection of chairman, Walter Hendricks, President of the Campus Young Democratic Club said, "The fact that it is necessary to form an organization that concentrates solely on the campaign of Congressman Walter Jones is indicative of the strong support that the campus is showing for the Democratic nominee. I am sure that both Nat and Sonny will continue to do a fine job, as they have in the past. With the continual growth of support, I am confident that the campaign will be successful."

Faculty Notes

On National Arts Program
Dr. Wellington B. Gray, dean of the School of Art at East Carolina College, was one of four panelists for a major discussion group of "Improving the Internal Communication" at the 20th annual meeting of the National Association of Schools of Arts. As the representative for ECC, one of 43 member schools, Dr. Gray was invited to take part in the association's program to visit other schools and art studios in the San Francisco, Calif., area.

State Organizers
Nine members of the East Carolina College foreign languages faculty were in Winston-Salem last weekend for state-level organizational meetings of three national associations: teachers of Spanish and Portuguese, French, and German. They are department Chairman James L. Fleming, Manolita Fernandez, Dr. Frederick Ivey, Andre Marlon, Molly M. Morgan, Mrs. Marguerite A. Perry, Dr. Norma Lee Richardson, Dr. Albert Scholz and Helene G. Zarovich. Dr. Scholz was one of the speakers in the German teachers' meeting.

FHLE Picks Jones
Dr. Raymond L. Jones, professor in the School of Business at East Carolina College, was one of six state educators to take part in a seminar on the Federal Home Loan Bank System in Asheville last weekend.

NCSA Participants
Three members of the East Carolina College speech and drama faculty attended the North Carolina Speech Association meeting at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. They are James L. Rees, Rosalind Roulston and Helen V. Steer. Miss Steer was named to the committee on goals and aims of the organization for 1966-'67.

Horn Clinic
James H. Parnell of the East Carolina College School of Music will present a French horn clinic Friday at the district meeting of the North Carolina Education Association in Wilmington. His clinic is a feature of the Music Division meeting.

Geography Geology Majors Find Many Jobs Available

By keeping in touch with his department's graduates, the chairman of geography and geology at East Carolina College finds that their job opportunities are plentiful and varied.

Dr. Robert E. Cramer reports that 42 of last May's graduates chose jobs in the District of Columbia, Maryland, North Carolina or Virginia.

Their jobs vary from cartographer to research analyst, from government intelligence agent to bank trainee and from geography teacher to soldier. Dr. Cramer says the variety of work emphasizes "the many good opportunities in the field of geography."

According to Cramer's records, Frank Shane Doty of Greenville is an intelligence agent for the Central Intelligence Agency in Washington and Emmett P. Jones of Tyner is a research specialist in the Defense Intelligence Agency, also in Washington.

William George Fields of Rocky Mount is a production supervisor for Du Pont in Richmond, Va., Connie Varnell of Elm City is also in Richmond working as a manager trainee of Southern States Corp.

Kenneth Shannabrough of York, Pa., and Greenville is a cartographer in the U.S. Navy Oceanographic Laboratory at Suitland, Md.

Five graduates have North Carolina jobs. Teaching at Dalton Junior High School in Winston-Salem is Sitas Henry Pryce of Rockingham. Herman Oscar Edwards of Ahoskie is an agent for the N. C. Highway Commission and Russell D. Oliver of Culver, Ind., is a property manager for the Redevelopment Commission of Durham.

Two 1966 graduates have remained in Greenville — Terry Vann Sparrow of Belhaven as a bank trainee and Robert D. Mewborn of Snow Hill as a research analyst with the Eastern N. C. Development Institute at the college.

John Eugene Sumner of Winston-Salem and Davis Lee Moore of Greenville are in the Armed Forces.

Such a variation in job opportunities in the fields of geography and geology, tend to show the rising need for specialists in both.

Notice

The Student Party in cooperation with the S G A Legislature will hold a Parliamentary Procedure Class to all those interested individuals on campus. Dr. James Dixon of the Political Science department will conduct this lecture Tuesday, Oct. 25 in 132 New Austin at 7:00. All interested should be acquainted with Robert's Rules of Order before coming to the lecture.

ATTENTION

The University Party will meet Tues., Oct. 25 in Rm. 132 of the New Austin Bldg. ALL INTERESTED STUDENTS ARE URGED TO ATTEND.

The neutral block in the state legislature will have to be won if the independent bill is to succeed. East Carolina's students could help the College by going home over Thanksgiving and Christmas Holidays and talking to their local legislators. These students could ask their legislators to ask them questions about East Carolina.

East Carolina is not without friends in N. C. We have them at Wake Forest, friends at State, Duke, and even Carolina. But we have enemies like the Greensboro Daily News that isn't mature enough. . . There is a possibility that these would be some political trading in the legislature, for example the East could vote for liquor by the drink, if the West would vote for separate University status for E. C. asked what are the advantages of being independent, Jenkins stated much federal legislation regarding higher education is for universities.

Many foundations only give money to Universities. Becoming a branch of U. N. C. could also do this, but the policy making of E. C. would then be governed by the U. N. C. hierarchy.

In response to a question about E. C.'s growth rate, Dr. Jenkins response, "Twenty years ago, E.C. had 1222 students, now we have 9,000 students plus around 12,000 in extension. The enrollment has increased 10 percent each year in the past few years. By 1970 we should have over 15,000 students if housing and classroom facilities can be made available.

Commenting on the quarter system, he said studies have shown that the semester system is no better than the quarter system.

Quered as to undergraduates would be affected by University Status Jenkins stated, that undergraduates would not be affected. We are accredited by 12 accreditation organizations and have 7 honor societies, and I don't intend to jeopardize this. We will move slowly if we get university status, offering probably a doctorate in American History and Philosophy within 4 years after acquiring university status.

Commenting on his determination to get University Status, Dr. Jenkins said, "I would run for dogcatcher if it would help E. C. receive university status."

In closing Dr. Jenkins expressed his appreciation for the chance to speak to the students. The program ended with a tremendous standing ovation from the dormitory students.

Clem's Clipboard EC Vs. Citadel

By Clem Williams

Pirates vs Bulldogs

The fighting Pirates after a rather disappointing game against George Washington will travel to Charleston, S. C. to take on the Bulldogs from Citadel. The Pirates will be wanting revenge from last week and this should be a good game. The Bulldogs thus far this season have not done so well. They fell at the hands of George Washington by a score of 21-0.

Former Regulars To Play Against Citadel

Paul Schnurr who received a dislocated elbow in the first game of the season will wear the Pirate uniform for the first time since the William and Mary game. Defensive tackle, Bill Livermore also injured will be back after a prolonged knee injury. Charlie Forbes a defensive rover back and offensive tailback should be ready for Saturday's game against the Bulldogs.

Wayne Lineberry, middle linebacker, is still out because of a badly bruised kidney. Lineberry was starting until the injury.

G. W. to Play Undefeated V. M. I.

The Colonials of George Washington University will take on Virginia Military Institute. Currently V.M.I. is atop of the conference with a 1-0 record. George Washington should give the Cadets a rough time after the upset they pulled on ECC.

Basketball Teams Start Practice

Football season is only half over and East Carolina's basketball team has gone into full practice sessions. The Bucs have several returning lettermen which should provide a sound nucleus for a good team. Coach Tom Quinn believes that this season will mainly be a rebuilding year. With the addition of Vince Colbert to the lineup the Bucs could be a tough team to handle in the Southern Conference race.

Citadel Changes Defense

Coach Red Parker's Bulldogs have been shifting their defense considerably in order to stop East Carolina's single-wing machine. Coach Parker's boys came out of the William and Mary game with everyone in good condition.

One of the big guns for the Citadel is end Tommy Moore who is presently leading the Southern Conference in pass receptions with 16.

Freshmen Undefeated

The "Baby" Bucs are really making a good showing this year. At the present rate they are going they could break the total number of points scored in one season which was set by last years freshman squad. Many of the boys on the team have never run the single wing before and it usually poses a problem if you haven't. However, they have adapted very well to the new offense.

Mike Garrett, a tailback and Butch Colson, fullback are the freshman offensive leaders. George Whaley a 6' 0", 225 pounder and Philip Bladear spear head the freshman defensive line. Roger Bost, defensive end, also has played fine ball this year.

DON JAYROE

Athlete Of Week, Pirate Runner

Don Jayroe, Record Breaker

Don Jayroe, number one Pirate runner, is definitely making a well-known name for himself. Jayroe is from Morehead City, N. C. and is now a Junior Physical Education Major.

As a high schooler he was an All-State miler during his senior year. His record still stands in the Eastern Sectional district. This is not the end of his records either. He holds the course record at St. Andrews, University of Richmond, and Old Dominion.

During the off season Jayroe is still very active and participated in many summer track meets. He won the Blue Marlin Festival Race which was a 15 mile race. He also won the Fayetteville Invitational and set a record.

Jayroe, now unofficially holds the school record for the two mile but it cannot be accepted because he was ineligible last year. Jayroe recently placed second in one of the top meets featuring some of the best runners in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Jayroe is looking forward to the Southern Conference Championship. With his undefeatable attitude he could be the man to beat.

Cheerleaders Build Morale Of Pirates

Fifteen cheerleaders and a Pirate mascot, all clad in purple and gold, whoop it up down front at East Carolina College football games this season.

With Ed Walton of Arlington, Va., as squad chief and Gary Dean of Winston - Salem as the Pirate, the cheerleaders are on hand at every game to build the morale of the football Pirates. The same squad will stay on duty when basketball season rolls around.

In addition to Walton and Dean, members of the squad are Brenda Bullock of Richmond, Va.; Jim Camp of Pittsboro; Cindy Catchpole of Highwood, Ill.; Skip Ciampa of Fayetteville; Pam Dalton of Greensboro; John Grubbs of Winston-Salem; Ed Hale of Roanoke Rapids; Chick Krautler of Silver Spring, Md.; Don Pierce of New Bern; Sherry Robertson of Petersburg, Va.; Don Simmons of Goldsboro; Patsy Simmons of Portsmouth, Va.; Marilyn Timberlake of Youngsville; and Stephany Tisdale of Annandale, Va.

The cheerleaders were chosen last spring by a committee of Student Government Association representatives, members of the faculty and representatives of the football team.

The SGA sponsors the cheerleaders, and their faculty adviser is Andre Brousseau of the math faculty, also coach of the varsity rowing crew.

FCA Meeting

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes held its first meeting for the upcoming year. Approximately fifty athletes from the football, basketball, baseball, track, and soccer were present. The meeting consisted of elections of officers and a talk by Coach Stasavich and Todd Hicks on their experience at the F.C.A. convention at Blue Ridge Assembly. Other coaches present were George Williams, faculty advisor and head soccer coach and Coach Henry Vansant, head freshman football coach.

The first item of business was to elect officers for the Fellowship and they are: Todd Hicks Fellowship leader; George Gay, Secretary-Treasurer; and Nelson Gravatt, program chairman.

The F.C.A. would like for all athletes to come to their meetings for an hour of enjoyment and relaxation. The time and place will be put in the paper for the benefit of those who would like to come.

Football Managers Offer Unseen Aid

Men Behind The Scene

"Hey, Terry tape my ankle! Bill fix my shoulder pads! In case you are wondering where this comes from, just go to the football dressing room. So often many people forget the men who keep the football team together and keep their uniforms clean.

Terry Wills, the head trainer, is East Carolina's first full time trainer and also helps coach the track team. Terry holds 5 track records and was the captain of the 1965 team.

Robert Harrison is Terry's assistant and is a very competent worker. Robert is a native of Henderson, N. C.

Mike Wood, and Allen Burns also assist Terry as the never ending task of keeping the freshmen taped up. Mike is a native of Spring Hope and Allen is a native of Wadesboro.

Bill Dickens, head manager for the Pirates has the headache of keeping all of the uniforms clean and having them ready the next day for practice. Bill is a P. E. major and is Vice Pres. of the Senior class. He is also a member of Lambda Chi Alpha social fraternity. Bill is from Wilson, N. C.

Vernon Taylor, head equipment manager keeps all of the players equipment in tip top shape. Vernon is a native of Hickory, N. C.

Eddie Johnson, Field Manager takes care of the practice equipment such as blocking dummies and is assisted by Barry Aycock who is the freshman field manager.

A hand of thanks should go to these boys who perform such a good job.

IMPORTANT

Tickets for the Citadel game this weekend will be sold at the gate for half price in Charleston to all students who present their student activity and identification cards.
