The Faculty and Course Evaluation Committee make plans for the long-awaited questionnaire on professor evaluation.

School Of Arts & Sciences Notes Promotions In Rank

Eleven faculty members in the East Carolina College School of Arts and Sciences have been promoted in rank.

The dean of the 16-department school, Dr. John M. Howell, said the 11 promotions were made in the departments of English, foreign languages, health and physical education, library science, political science, science education, and sociology and anthropology.

Dr. Howell lists these promotions; Dr. Richard Capwell, from associate professor to professor of English; Dr. Albert Scholz and Dr. Henry Wanderman, both from assistant to associate professor in foreign languages; Dr. Ralph Steele, from assistant to associate professor in health and physical education; Henry Vansant, from instructor to assistant professor in health and physical education;

Gene D. Lanier, from associate professor to chairman of the library science department; Dr. Darrell C. Wilson and Dr. John P. East, from assistant to associate professors in political science; Dr. Moses M. Sheppard, from assistant to associate professor in science education; James D. Nicholson, from instructor to assistant professor in science education; and Dr. Blanche G. Watrous from associate to professor of anthropology.

Brief biographies of the 11 faculty members follow.

Dr. Capwell, a faculty member here since 1957, received his AB degree from Brown University at Providence, R. I., his MA degree from Yale University and his PhD from Duke University. He is a native of Rhode Island and is married to the former Margaret Ruth Johnston of Greenville. They have two sons.

Dr. East, a native of Springfield, Ill., joined the ECC faculty in September, 1964. He came to Greenville from the University of Florida which granted him MA (1962) and PhD (1964) degrees. He also has a Bachelor of Laws degree from the University of Illinois (1959) and an AB from Earlham College (1953), where he graduated fifth in a class of 125.

Lanier is a graduate of Conway, N. C. High School. He has degrees from East Carolina College (BS, '55) and from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill (MS in library science, '57). He is a candidate for the doctorate there and was a part time instructor in UNC's School of Education from 1964-'66.

Nicholson holds the BS and MA degrees from East Carolina College. Born in Williamston, he has also studied at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Duke University, Converse College and Emory University where he was enrolled in graduate work. Prior to joining the EC faculty, he was a chemistry and physics teacher at Rose High School in Greenville.

Dr. Scholz, who came to ECC in September of 1965, earned his MA and PhD degrees from Yale University. He was born in Gottesberg, Germany. From 1945-'65 he was a member of the faculty at Syracuse University.

Dr. Sheppard, born in Hendersonville, attended Campbell College and has BS and MA degrees from East Carolina College. His PhD is from Ohio State University. He has also done graduate work at Duke University, VPI and William and Mary. He joined the ECC faculty in 1963.

Dr. Steele, native of Hamilton, Ohio, holds the BS and MS degrees from University of Illinois and the EdD from Indiana University. Before coming to ECC in 1960 he was the director of the department of physical education in Upper Iowa University, Fayette, Iowa.

Vansant has BS and MA degrees from East Carolina College. He was an outstanding football player for the ECC Pirates and in his senior year won the John B. Cristenbury Award for scholarship and leadership awarded to a physical education major. His home town is Hampton, Va.

Dr. Watrous, native of Cleveland, Tenn., earned AB and PhD degrees at Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill. In 1964 she became ECC's first anthropologist.

Dr. Wanderman, native of Czernowitz, Austria, holds the bachelor's degree from the Hochschule fuer Helthandel in Vienna and the doctor's degree from the University of Berne, Switzerland. He has taught at the University of Czernowitz and the University of Bucharest, Rumania.

Dr. Wilson came to ECC in 1962. He received his BS degree from Lewis and Clark College, Portland, Ore., and his MA and PhD degrees from the University of Oregon. He was born in LaGrande, Ore.

UP Holds Elections; Deal Chosen Chairman

By SANDY MIMS

The University Party elected officers in its meeting Tuesday night. The meeting was called to order by Bill Deal, roll was taken, and the minutes of the last meeting were read before the floor was turned over to Jim Kimsey who conducted the election of officers. Bill Deal was elected Chairman by acclamation after Jim Young requested that his name be removed from the slate for this office. George Francis and Jim Young were nominated for Vice-Chairman. Jim Young, who plans to run for the position of SGA President next spring, was elected to the position of Vice-Chairman. Lenette Lee, who was opposed by Diane Mather-son, was elected Secretary Treasurer.

Following the election of officers the Constitution was adopted. Mike Aldredge proposed that the 1st Article of the Constitution be amended in that a person is qualified for membership only after attending two consecutive meetings and thereafter be removed from the roll after having two unexcused

Participating in the Alpha Xi Delta All-Sing will be members of all EC social fraternities and sororities.

The All Sing is open to all EC Students free of charge.

Students Evaluate Faculty & Courses

Editors Note: This is the second in a series of three articles concerning Faculty and Course Evaluation. This article is directed to the students of the college who next Wednesday and Thursday, will make their evaluations of the faculty members and courses in the college.

It is important to the success of the evaluation that the students enter into evaluation with the proper attitude. This evaluation is meant not to judge a faculty member as to whether he is an easy instructor or a hard one. It is meant to judge his ability to present the information in a particular course in such a way as to make it meaningful to the student. This information will not be used in a manner to discredit any faculty member of the college.

Last Spring, S.G.A. President Eddie Greene set up the Faculty and Course Evaluation Committee. Since that time much money and student work has been put into this idea. The purpose of faculty and course evaluation is one to help students during pre-registration in balancing their work load each quarter. It is for this reason, and because this is a time for great strivings of the college, that the booklet will be placed only in faculty member's and advisor's offices. There they will be readily available for the student's use.

On Wednesday and Thursday certain students will receive the Faculty and Course Evaluation Questionnaire. The reason not all students will receive the questionnaire is that it is felt that a representative evaluation can be made by using only one section of each course taught by each instructor. The questionnaire will have more than twenty-five questions pertaining to your course and your professor. It will ask for several pieces of information other than the actual evaluation. Two things of which the student should be aware are his classification (1, 2, 3, 4, G) and his quality point average (on the new four-point system). First quarter freshmen will leave the space for quality point average blank and all other students can find their average by dividing their total ECC hours (in previous grade reports the hours passed) into their total number of ECC quality points (quality points are found by adding the number of hours of all outstanding F's to the quality points and then adding the total number of hours passed to them).

The next article will be the third and last of the series. If there are any questions as to the student's role in the evaluation, please write the question on a sheet of paper and leave it in the S.G.A. office.

SGA Legislature Corrects Budgets

By DOYLE PERDUE
SGA Staff Writer

The SGA Legislature met in the Legislative Chamber Monday, October 24, at 5:00. The assembly was called to order by the Speaker Steve Burns. After the roll was called, the Chair called for old business. Under old business, the Legislature approved several corrections in the budgets approved at last week's meeting. The following corrected budgets were approved: Campus Movies, $14,162.50; Key, $2,930.00; Central Ticket Office, $4,967.80; Full-Time Salaries, $11,213.70. There being no further old business, the Chair called for new business. Under new business, Joyce Williams and John Brent were appointed to the Popular Movies Committee. There being no further new business, the Chair called for announcements. Two former Legislators, Margaret Stephens and Bill Peck, who were visiting the Legislature, were recognized. A motion to adjourn was entertained by the Chair and passed unanimously.

Elections were conducted in the University Party Tuesday night. New officers are, from left to right: Lenette Lee, Secretary-Treasurer; Bill Deal, Chairman; Jim Young, Vice-Chairman.

Faculty Evaluation

SGA Primes Pump...

The pump is finally primed for the long awaited teacher evaluation project sponsored by the Student Government Association. The students who have requested and planned this evaluation have taken a gigantic step forward in the creation of responsible student opinion. We only hope that the rest of the student body will follow the faculty evaluation committee's remarkable beginning.

Always at East Carolina the radical idea of having students rate their professors has been approached with an age old echo that goes something like "wouldn't it be nice if someone had a Faculty Evaluation project." Always the idea of Faculty Evaluation has been considered but without anyone actually setting the wheels in motion and doing anything about it.

Last year's SGA first gave evidence that for once the proposed Faculty Evaluation project might actually turn into a reality. Following up with the decisions for professor evaluation made last year is a competent committee under the direction of Jay Barber. Having begun their work early this fall, it appears that this year's committee is providing reliable guidelines for the long awaited evaluation project.

All over the United States, the idea that students just might have something to say about their professors techniques in the class room caught fire. The fact that student opinions might have some influence on the departments in retaining or releasing professors and in scheduling courses sparked the idea of professor evaluation to heights never reached before.

On numerous campuses the growing wave of increased student participation in campus affairs brought with it documented, reliable teacher evaluations. As is often the case East Carolina was not a part of the mainstream of progressive student thought and action.

Until now, nothing has been accomplished to indicate that EC might finally be getting into that mainstream of thought and action which is so vital to the life of any college or university. If one considers the institution of any professor evaluation as an innovation here, it must be said that this particular evaluation promises to be really noteworthy.

The usual pitfalls — not sampling enough students, no real assurance that the published evaluation will be used by the faculty in addition to the students — seem to have been anticipated this time and avoided by the SGA Faculty Evaluation Committee.

It remains only for those students who will actually take part in the evaluation to respond intelligently and responsibly. We believe that students here will welcome this chance to let themselves be heard. This evaluation should be a real mainstream primer in the establishment of an effective student voice... in an area where it certainly is necessary and should be most welcome.

They Have Problems, Too...

An article in this month's SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH reminds us of the fact that it is not only on the state level that educators and the educated butt heads with legislative bodies.

For the second consecutive year House Rules Committee Chairman Howard W. Smith recently killed a three-year study to lay the ground work for the adoption of the metric system.

Smith opposed the study last year because "I don't understand it, so it can't be very important."

This year he blocked it again when Representative George P. Miller, chairman of the House Science Committee, was unable to convert into metrics "10 yards of cheesecloth at 10 cents a yard."

Miller is confident, however, that Congress will authorize the study next year — possibly because Smith won't be back.

Fearless Campaigning

By Steve Thompson

Last week we got the word from Daddybird via Walter Cronkite that opponents of the "Great Society" are carrying on campaigns based on fear. The President doesn't like this one bit.

Do you know why? Because he knows how well fear campaigns work. Remember back in 1964. The Republicans chose Barry (The Hun) Goldwater to lead their ticket. Goodness sakes! One would have thought Doomsday was at hand. Within forty-eight hours of the ad-journalment of the San Francisco convention, Drew Pearson, George Meany, and Martin Luther King sent stentorian warnings from coast to coast to the effect that we were witnessing an indigenous neo-fascist power grab. Lyndon & Company followed up with a psychological Atomic Attack on Goldwater. It consisted of a one minute TV clip showing a pretty little girl licking an ice cream cone and an audio commentary explaining that Barry was a big backer of Strontium-90 in children's food. Liberals ran around having fits of moderation, telling Negroes that the GOP nominee would repeal the Emancipation Proclamation, informing farmers that he would end price supports and explaining to people over sixty-five that Barry didn't think they should have medical care. The astute New York Times went into hysterics on its editorial page and described Goldwater as a "threat" to the nation. Now there was a fear campaign. Millions rushed to the polls to save America from a political Bubonic plague.

The GOP nominee was buried beneath an electoral landslide by a Democratic opponent who exuberantly promised everything for everybody. Goldwater's warnings about pussyfooting with the Communists in Viet Nam, the danger of more domestic violence unless the President took the lead in reinforcing national respect for law and order, and that old conservative bugaboo - Inflation were muffled by a campaign based on fear. They have since re-emerged because they were the real issues and a lot of folks who went "All the Way With LBJ" now wish they had a round trip ticket.

Letters To The Editor

Letter to the Editor
Attention: Nellie Lee

In answer to Miss Hegy's letter in the October 18, 1966 edition of the EAST CAROLINIAN, I would like to suggest that she leave when movies are shown that she does not want to see. I may be speaking only for myself, but I'm at ECC for an education. I hope to be married within a year or two. Eventually I want to have children. I know nothing about child birth except what I've seen in books. I would like to learn.

Does the medical profession exploit people? How do "doctors-to-be" learn about the practical end of medicine?

You speak of "just plain taking away his God given freedom of living a personal and private life." Is not the gift of children a God given right? Should not the general public be given the chance to learn more about one of God's miracles?

Miss Hegy, in St. Luke 8:10 and St. Luke 8:17, Christ said: "... Unto you it is given to know the mysteries of the kingdom of God; but to others in parables; that seeing they might not see, and hearing they might not understand. ... For nothing is secret, that shall not be made manifest; neither anything hid, that shall not be known and come abroad."

Sincerely,

Vicky Faye Turner

RE: BIRTH FILM.

Yes, Sandra, people are born alive, some more so than others. You and I arrived in this cruel world in much the same circumstances as the child in the film. Shocking to you perhaps but sincere and as true as life. Exploitation of the dignity of the mother? I think not. She has a courage that many of us lack. We entered these halls to learn more about life and living. This in many cases will involve the displacement of ignorance and superstition with facts. Let's hope your husband-to-be knows and appreciates the sacrifices that the mother of his heirs will make. Beauty and other things are merely in the eye of the beholder.

Respectfully yours,

Dee Elwood

To the Editor:

Let me voice my sincerest appreciation to the Sister of Alpha Delta Pi, Alpha Omicron Pi, Alpha Phi, Kappa Delta, Chi Omega, Alpha Xi Delta, and Delta Zeta sororities for the outstanding services they have rendered by furnishing volunteer clerical labor during the six weeks of BUCCANEER portrait taking. Words cannot be found to express my gratitude to these fine women who converted a seemingly impossible task to one that was completed with an absolute minimum of difficulty.

And we are all deeply indebted for their contribution toward making the 1967 BUCCANEER the best ever.

'Home Rule'-A Must

Editor's Note: Last week, this column reprinted the views of the Christian Science Monitor concerning Rep. Charles Weltner's resignation. This week, we present the view of "home rule" as seen by the Raleigh News and Observer.

It is a continuing irony that the Congress of the United States, a representative body, refuses to grant self-government to the nation's ninth largest city.

For almost a century, Washington, D. C., has muddled along under a number of governmental foster parents. Its day to day affairs are decided by a three-man commission appointed by the President. Congress determines the city's laws, delegates administrative powers, levies taxes and appropriates funds. Justice is administered by the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia and subsidiary municipal courts. And each house of Congress has a standing committee on the District of Columbia which exercises supervisory and investigatory authority over the city.

This year, as in the past, Congress flirted with the idea of giving the nation's capital home rule, but finally tabled a forward-looking bill designed to accomplish this end last week. A number of informed observers have described Washington as a city on the verge of explosion. Racial unrest seethes in slums in the shadow of the Capitol building. The crime rate is unusually high, even for a city of its size. Its streets and thoroughfares are overcrowded to the point of peril.

Aware of the situation, President Johnson made a special appeal for home rule last year. Every post-war President has made the same appeal. Residents have voted overwhelmingly three times in favor of self-government.

Certainly the city's present administration has failed to demonstrate that it is capable of dealing effectively with Washington's complex, pressing problems. It's time for the people of the city themselves to decide how their community should be run. When Congress convenes again in January, home rule should be high on the agenda of unfinished business.

LBJ In The Hall Of Fame

I Pledge Alligience...

Editors Note: The following letter, signed simply, "Nina", came through the mail assuring us that even though our great President has left us to spread the gospel of the Great Society in Manila his work here is still being carried on! And just when we were learning how to say our prayers again...

D.S.

Dear Brother,

We have been given the task of raising $3,000,000 to erect a statue of Lyndon B. Johnson in the Hall of Fame in Washington, D.C.

The committee was in a quandary as to where to place this statue. We cannot place it next to that of George Washington, who never told a lie, nor next to that of Franklin D. Roosevelt, who never told the truth, since Lyndon B. Johnson can never tell the difference.

It was finally decided to place it next to that of the greatest "New Dealer" of them all—Christopher Columbus; in that he started out not knowing where he was going, in arriving did not know where he was, and in returning did not know where he had been — and he did it all on borrowed money.

The inscription shall read as follows:

I pledge allegiance to Lyndon B. Johnson

And to the National Debt for which he stands.

One nation, under Bobby Baker With graft and corruption for all Five thousand years ago, Moses said to the Children of Israel, "Take up your shovels, mount your asses and camels, and I will lead you to the Promised Land."

Gymnastics Club Joins PE Program

By PAT ARNOLD

One of the newest outlets of physical energy on campus is the practice of gymnastics by a small group of college men and women each afternoon downstairs in the gym. The aims of this group of men and women are to both become more physically fit and to develop an aesthetic appreciation of gymnastics.

It is hoped by the group that gymnastics will become a larger part of the physical education and recreational programs at East Carolina. The gymnastics club also hopes to improve the cultural offerings of ECC and to serve as a means of creating desirable public relations between various public groups and other colleges and universities.

In order to create public relations with other colleges and the public either competitive programs or exhibitions must be a part of the ECC gymnastics program. Since there are very few, if any, colleges within the conference area that the gymnastics group can compete with, competitively, the EC gymnastics group will have to depend mainly on public and inter-collegiate exhibitions.

In order that exhibitions be held both the physical fitness of the group and their aesthetic appreciation of art forms must be great. The goals to be approached physically are strength, flexibility, and agility while the aesthetic approach emphasizes grace, rhythm, and form.

This year the gymnastics club has scheduled exhibitions at Duke, Camp Le Jeune, and Old Dominion College in Virginia. Come on down to the gym at 4 p.m. each afternoon and join us!

ATTENTION: All Organizations

Your entry for BUCCANEER QUEEN must be submitted to the business manager of the BUCCANEER before November 9. A five dollar entry fee is required.

WASHINGTON — For many students this will be the last term. As the war in Viet Nam broadens, an increasing number of former students are going to be toting rifles.

Already the I-A men are in short supply. Seventy thousand men between the ages of 26 and 34 were tapped for their physicals at the end of September. Even if call stay at their present level, which is ten times the draft rate of the winter of 1965, all those 26 to 34 found qualified will probably be inducted, according to Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Director of the Selective Service System.

But the pickings are slim, and Hershey expects that over two-thirds of the age 26 to 34 men will not pass their physicals. The one-and-one-half million college students now deferred constitutes the next large group of men.

Just how much stiffer is it going to get? That all depends on how much further the war escalates, Hershey said in a recent interview.

Coming into the November elections, many of the official predictions on Viet Nam are optimistic. During the last year, however, the count of U. S. military personnel has increased from 2,686,000 to 3,184,000. Defense Department officials have added that the build-up will continue at that rate unless there is a change in the war.

Part-time students are no longer deferred, and many State Boards have been requiring students to carry a full schedule to be defined as "full time." Previously, students were often allowed to carry three-quarters of a normal year's load and were still considered full time. Now boards are asking their 2-S registrants to complete one-fourth of a four-year program each year.

While Selective Service policy has not considered a student's choice of major or field in reviewing his deferment, Hershey indicated that this may not always be the case.

The judgment of individuals on the local level is often quite independent, he said, and "if the need gets tighter... the public understands much better what you do with a liberal arts" major.

Students who have taken a year out of school, for any reason, have had trouble getting their deferments back since last fall. Class rankings became available to the local boards this summer, as did the results of the College Qualification Test administered in the spring.

Eighty-one per cent of the almost 800,000 registrants taking the examination at that time made passing scores of 70 or better. A new series of tests has been scheduled for November 18 and 19.

Opposition to the draft has been exhibited in challenges to the qualification tests. Several schools have held referenda on whether to permit the test to be held in their facilities.

In one of the latest votes, students and faculty at the Buffalo campus of the State University of New York swung two to one in favor of holding the tests, stressing the convenience of having the operation on campus.

Three midwestern universities are holding general referenda on the Selective Service November 16. Students at the University of Minnesota, the University of Michigan and Wayne State University will indicate both whether they think their schools should cooperate with the draft by releasing rankings and grades and how they feel about conscription in general.

Refusing to cooperate with the Selective Service, several institutions have recently announced that they will discontinue the practice of ranking students by grade, including Antioch College, Haverford College, Wayne State University, and the City College of New York.

General Hershey defends the use of grades and ranks in evaluating students for the draft. In response to criticism that the prospect of being drafted for low grades puts students under undue pressure and induces them to take easier courses Hershey replied that the Selective Service did not invent the standards.

"The colleges are the people that used examinations and standing in class" to determine how many students they would not flunk out, Hershey said. "We just went out and found a yardstick that was there."

"When the colleges get so they don't use grades any more," he added, "then whatever they're using, we'll try to use."

ADDRESSES SEMINAR

Dr. Ralph R. Napp, associate professor in the sociology and anthropology department at East Carolina College, has accepted an invitation to give a paper at a distinguished international affairs seminar at a Canadian university next month.

Dr. Napp is believed to be the first representative of a North Carolina college or university to be invited to address the annual Seminar on International Affairs at Sir George Williams University in Montreal, Que.

His paper, "Some Theories Concerning Warfare as a Contemporary Social Problem," will be presented as part of the eighth annual seminar scheduled Nov. 1-5. The seminar, planned this year to bring about a greater understanding of modern military organization, has awarded him a full financial grant to participate.

The Napp paper is based on the book he co-authored with West German Professor Reiner Rodenhausen, "Breaking Down the Barrier."

While attending the seminar, Dr. Napp will also represent the United States in a radio panel discussion on the Canadian Broadcasting System.

Dr. Napp, a native of Bridgeport, Conn., has been an ECC faculty member since September 1957. He has an AB degree from the University of Alabama and MEd and EdD degrees from Duke University. He has also studied at the University of Munich in West Germany.

BEARDON APPOINTED

Governor Dan Moore has appointed a professor in the East Carolina College School of Business, Dr. James H. Bearden, to the 10-man State Emergency Planning Task Group for Industrial Production Resource.

Dr. Bearden and his colleagues in the group are responsible for assistance in "developing and installing an emergency preparedness program," according to the Governor.

The task group will have its first meeting in Raleigh on Thursday, Oct. 27.

Dr. Bearden has been an ECC faculty member since September 1959. He has a BS degree from Centenary College of Louisiana in Shreveport, an MA from East Carolina and a PhD from the University of Alabama.

MODERN MATH

John W. Daniels of the East Carolina College mathematics faculty will speak to parents and teachers of the Agnes Fullilove School Parent-Teacher Association at their meeting Thursday night, Oct. 20, at 8 p.m. His topic will be "Modern Math."

PHILOSOPHY PANELIST

Cleveland J. Bradner Jr. of the East Carolina College philosophy faculty is a panelist for a program in Norfolk, Va., Sunday and Monday, Oct. 23 and 24. He will join other philosophers in a discussion of the nature of man during the annual meeting of the South Atlantic Philosophy of Education Society to be held at Old Dominion College.

Art Students Publish Book Of Visual Essays

Students in the School of Art at East Carolina College have published a book of visual essays showing representative work from the various studio areas.

The publication, titled Visual Forum I, contains photographs of work done by students in the School of Art during the 1965-'66 school year.

Henry Harsch of Asheboro and Jerry Howell of Greenville, both graduate students, designed and produced the 40-page, staple-bound booklet under the supervision of Donald L. Durland, chairman of commercial art in the school.

Thirty-three undergraduate and graduate students enrolled in the School of Art last year had work chosen for publication.

Types of work illustrated include sculpture, ceramics, weaving, india ink, limestone, jewelry, intaglio, oil, woodcut, commercial art, watercolor, figure drawing and book covers.

Students who have work in the Visual Forum I include:

The Zeta Lambda Chapter of Delta Zeta Sorority celebrated Founder's Day on Monday, October 24, 1966. To celebrate the occasion, a banquet was held at the Candlewick Inn, Greenville, North Carolina. Among the guests were Dean Ruth White and Mrs. Mildred Tate of Blacksburg, Va. Mrs. Tate was appointed Province Director of Province XX at the Delta Zeta National Convention on Grand Bahama Island this summer. Mrs. Tate has been on the staff of Virginia Polytechnic Institute for ten years, and is now serving on the Wesley Foundation Board for Higher Education in Virginia. This was her first visit to North Carolina schools, with East Carolina College and its students.

On Tuesday afternoon, October 25, a tea was held to introduce Mrs. Tate to the other Greek women on campus. Invited were all housemothers, advisors, sorority presidents and Panhellenic advisors. Also among the guests was the visiting Province President of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority.

During Mrs. Tate's visit, plans were discussed for Delta Zeta's first State Day celebration in North Carolina to be held this spring. At this time, we hope that the Delta Zeta National President, Mrs. Betty Adler will be able to visit the East Carolina campus to meet the members of our Panhellenic. Delta Zeta was very proud to have had the honor of a visit from Mrs. Tate.

PHI MU ALPHA

Officers and members of Phi Mu Alpha professional music fraternity at East Carolina College attended a regional convention this week at Georgia Southern College at Statesboro.

The convention was held Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 24 and 25, and included chapters of Phi Mu Alpha from various colleges and universities in Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida.

Zeta Psi chapter of East Carolina was represented by its officers: Paul Schrum of Manassas, Va., president; Douglas Fitzgerald of Wilson, vice president; Alan Van Tuyl of Arlington, Va., secretary; Perry Norris of Durham, treasurer; Morrison Turner of Mebane, warden; James Holt of Greenville, corresponding secretary; Wayne Lett of Newport News, Va., historian; Marvin Piland of LaCrosse, Va., alumni secretary; and Scott Walker of Hickory, music director.

Other members that attended the convention were Sam Allred of Asheboro, Albert Cordell of Greenville, S. C.; Kenneth Deans of Hampton, Va.; Ernest Logemann of Rapidan, Va.; Morris Parker of Williamston; Mike Soltys of Midway Park; James Stockner of Galax, Va.

A saxophone quartet from Zeta Psi chapter, conducted by James Houlik of the School of Music faculty, played at the convention.

KAPPA DELTA

Gamma Sigma Chapter of Kappa Delta Sorority has a new first degree pledge, Linda Davis of Sanford, North Carolina. Linda received her first degree pin on Monday, October 24. The pledge class will have a car wash this Saturday beginning at 9:00. Posters will be placed on campus giving details.

Kappa Delta is entering into a Bowling League with six other sororities. The games will begin this Wednesday at 4:00 at the Hillcrest Bowling Lanes. This new sport should be a good spectator as well as participating game.

'ECC Concepts' Televised

A photographic report of a trip around the world by an East Carolina College sophomore is scheduled on Greenville television station WNCN-TV, Channel Nine, Sunday.

The half-hour telecast at noon, "ECC Concepts," will feature slides taken in six continents by Michael Edwin Handley of Norfolk, Va., news director and production manager of the campus radio station WECC.

Handley, a former sales agent with the Pan American Airlines, completed his trip around the world last May. He went to Europe six different times and to Africa and South America once each.

The Sunday program will spotlight South America, Africa, Australia and the Far East.

Moderator of the program is Kristina Simone Allen of Fayetteville, a freshman drama major.

Director of the production is Carlton R. Benz, associate professor of drama and speech at ECC.

Workshop Theatre Presents 'Sandbox' And 'Slight Ache'

The East Carolina College drama department will present two one-act plays next week as a part of a new feature of the department, the Workshop Theatre.

The plays will be presented Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 26 and 27, in the Assembly Room of the College Union.

The plays are "The Sandbox" by Edward Albee and "A Slight Ache" by Harold Pinter. Albee and Pinter are contemporary playwrights who have received critical acclaim for their plays. Albee is noted for his "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"

and Pinter for "The Caretaker."

"A Slight Ache" involves three characters played by Lola McDermott, Tim Elliott and Randolph Cochran. The play is one of subtle mood and impending doom.

"The Sandbox" is a satirical play of human unfeeling which deals with the lack of human communication. The characters are Angie Ritchie, Katie Bryan, Richard Usery, Roger Peacock, and Linda McDonald.

Douglas Ray of the drama faculty is directing "A Slight Ache." Working with "The Sandbox" are Robert Gooden, director; Georg Schreiber of the drama faculty, lighting director; and Paula Johnson of Kernersville, stage manager.

Two Attend Seminar

Two students from the East Carolina College School of Business have been selected by the school to attend the Fifth Annual Walter F. Pancourt Memorial Seminar in Greensboro Thursday and Friday.

They are George Tommy Matthews and Roger David Temples. They are seniors and will be accompanied by their professor, Dr. Albert R. Conley, who teaches business and economics in the business school.

The seminar, sponsored by W. F. Pancourt Co., textile chemical specialists, is a meeting of the textile industry executives and students from major universities and colleges in North and South Carolina.

It is the only event of its kind in the entire industry held annually to explain the opportunities for young people in the field.

The seminar consists of discussion sessions with leading textile personnel and visits to textile manufacturing plants.

Clarence N. Cone, vice president of Cone Mills Corporation, will deliver the principal address at the seminar banquet Thursday evening.

The students and accompanying faculty members will also visit the Kayser - Roth Hosiery Plant in Burlington and the White Oak Plant of Cone Mills Corporation during the two-day conference.

Project Planned To Give Jobs

A group meeting of the East Carolina College Employment and Job Training Information Project was held Thursday on the campus to plan "a sound and workable program that will reach the unemployed and underemployed with information about job opportunities and job training," according to project coordinator Furney K. James.

Sponsored by the ECC Extension Division, this community service project has been designed to help the unemployed in 16 eastern N. C. counties find jobs or job-training opportunities.

Dr. James H. Bearden, professor in the ECC School of Business, and Robert H. West, associate professor in the ECC School of Business, led five discussions:

(1) The possible value of the project to the counselors and businesses, (2) the kinds of training and employment information needed by counselors, (3) methods of gathering this information, (4) the kinds of businesses to survey, and (5) activities which the members of the project could pursue.

James gave the introductions at the meeting; and Dr. David J. Middleton, director of Extension Division and institutional representative for the project, talked on the development of the project.

EC Angel Flight Entertains Coeds

The Angel Flight of East Carolina College will hold an informal coke party Tuesday, November 1, 1966, from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. at their headquarters in Old Austin, across from Room 16. All coeds who are interested in joining Angel Flight or who would just like to learn more about it are cordially invited to attend.

Angel Flight is an honorary service organization of selected college coeds sponsored by Arnold Air Society, serving the college, the corps, and the community. Its primary purpose is to serve the Air Force Cadets on campus as their hostesses and help promote the interest and respect for the corps that it deserves.

The Flight's activities include co-sponsoring the Military Ball, serving as hostesses at the annual corps picnic and field day, participating in the annual Marchathon, sponsoring a "King for a Day" within the corps, and promoting many other social get-togethers.

To become a member a girl must have at least 15 hours and a "C" average.

EC Student Displays Senior Art Exhibit

The senior art exhibit of East Carolina College student James Grover Barefoot Jr. of Raleigh was on display last week in the college's School of Art.

Barefoot's show was viewed in the Kate Lewis Gallery on the third floor of Rawl Building. It opened Sunday, Oct. 16, and closed Saturday, Oct. 22.

A candidate for the BS degree in art, Barefoot has placed particular interest on commercial art. He expects to graduate in February, 1967, and become advertising and promotion manager for Nowell's Men's Stores in Raleigh.

Barefoot is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Barefoot, 1312 Curfman St., Raleigh, and is married to the former Jeanne E. Poole of Raleigh. He is a 1960 graduate of Broughton High School.

At ECC, Barefoot has been a senator in the Student Government Association, secretary of the Men's Inter-Dormitory Council and a member of Delta Phi Delta honorary art fraternity.

First Performance Given By Choir

The East Carolina College Concert Choir presented its first performance of the year Friday night at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church in Greenville.

The 53-voice choir sang selections from Mendelssohn's "Elijah" as a part of a week of special services at the church.

The Concert Choir is directed by Charles Moore of the ECC School of Music faculty. It performs throughout the year in several area concerts and at a series of events on the ECC campus: the Contemporary Music Festival, the District High School Choral Clinic, the annual Christmas Assembly and Commencement.

Members of the Concert Choir include:

Johnny Michael Goforth, bass, Guy Leonard Hatley, tenor, Gregory Lee Bell, tenor, Michael Larry Pittard, bass, Gale Lynne Landis, soprano, Laurence Augustine Stith, tenor, Gafford Yancey Pearce, bass, Carol Ann Honeycutt, soprano, Cora McGregor Bell, soprano, Sondra Lee Cash, soprano, and Jane Youny Birmingham, soprano.

Undefeated Baby Bucs Meet Citadel

By Clem Williams

For someone not even listed as a tailback on East Carolina's depth chart at the first of the season, Dennis Young has come a long way. Sophomores with three veterans ahead of them have a way of not playing much. However, the way Young responded to the job given him in desperation at George Washington and in relief at Citadel was marvelous.

Recruited as a defensive safety, Dennis held a ray of hope he could play some offense. As a freshman he led the Baby Bucs to wins their last three games and led the team in total offense.

In the Purple and Gold game last spring Dennis had a problem passing. He seemed to telegraph give defensive backs a tip off on where he would throw his passes. Dennis had two passes intercepted and had to work hard all summer to improve his passing. Young, a former high school tailback, threw a heave (weighted) ball to improve his accuracy. This strategy has worked as Young has completed 13 of 24 passes for 274 yards in games with William and Mary, George Washington, Davidson, and Citadel.

Nothing is wrong with Mr. Young's running ability, he has speed to turn the corner and enough power to run inside. Against the Citadel he ran 20 times for 92 yards for an average gain of 4.6 yards. With a total offense of 403 yards as a spot player, Dennis Young of Winston Salem shows us promise of things to come.

With Bill Bailey still injured and Neal Hughes too valuable to move from defense, Young will probably start this week against Southern Illinois. As a tip off Coach Stas worked the offense with Young at tailback on throwing the ball Monday.

Now a note of significance, Mr. Young also excels in the classroom. He has a "B" average in accounting in three quarters. So for those of you who think football players are out of bounds in the classroom you are wrong.

The Sports Staff of the East Carolinian hopes Dennis Young keeps his desire to play and comes through for us many more times.

DEFENSE RECEIVES PLAUDITS

Coach Stasavich credits the Pirate defense with most of the victory over the Citadel. The Bucs were able to contain their offense after the first half. After being down 17-6 at the half the old single-wing machine started rolling with tailback Dennis Young leading the way.

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS

Southern Illinois is one of the best small college teams in the nation. The Pirates will definitely have their hands full. If the "ole single-wing machine" starts rolling the Pirates could really make a good showing. The Pirates' defense, however, will have its work cut out for them because of the variety of offensive sets that Southern Illinois uses.

The Pirates could be without some of its veterans this Saturday too. Tailback Bailey has an injured knee and defensive tackle Leroy Cobb injured his ankle against Citadel.

TALBOT BACK

Danny Talbot, Carolina star, will be back in the lineup again when the Tarheels clash with nationally ranked Georgia Tech. Talbot played the final three minutes against Wake Forest and his ankle stood up under the strain.

CROSS-COUNTRY TEAM HOST CITADEL

East Carolinas cross country team will host the Citadel this Saturday, Oct. 29. The Pirates runners will be trying for their seventh win of the season against only one loss which was to Carolina's star-studded track team.

The Pirates and the William and Mary Indians seem to be the teams to beat in the Southern Conference meet. Don Jayroe is one of the best in the conference and could come out as Southern Conference champ. This is only the third year the Pirates have had a cross-country team and tremendous strides have been made because they are now championship contenders.

Meet time will be at 10:00 next to the baseball field. Come out and cheer the cross-country team on to victory.

BABY BUCS TRAVEL TO CHARLESTON

The Baby Bucs will travel to Charleston, S.C. to play the Citadel Bulldogs this Friday. The Bucs now have an undefeated record and will be fighting to keep it when they play the Citadel.

The Baby Bucs have been very impressive in their two previous wins over Fredrick Military Academy and Newport News Apprentice School. Tre Bucs have shown a well balanced offensive attack featuring the explosive running of fullback Butch Colson and tailback Mike Garrett. Tommy Bullock has been tremendous in the first two games too. Bullock ran for two against Newport News and one against Fredrick.

The Buc defensive unit should be praised for their fine work too. Defensive end Roger Bost and tackle George Wheeler have looked good in previous games. In two games the Baby Bucs have yielded only 21 points while amassing 60 points.
