Belk Dorm Dedication Sunday

East Carolina will dedicate Sunday the new men's dormitory it has named for Goldsboro News Argus editor Henry Belk.

Ceremonies, scheduled at 3:30 p.m. in the dormitory, will include unveiling of a portrait of Belk and the dedicatory address by Sam Ragan, executive editor of the Raleigh News and Observer and the Raleigh Times.

Mr. and Mrs. Belk will be guests of honor at the ceremonies and at a dinner afterwards to be held at the home of EC President Leo W. Jenkins.

Dr. Jenkins will open the ceremonies with words of welcome. Then Susan Price of Goldsboro, a close friend of the Belks, will unveil the trustees, will accept the portrait which will hang in Belk Dormitory.

State Sen. Robert B. Morgan of Lillington, chairman of the EC trustees, will accept the portrait which will hang in Belk Dormitory.

After Ragan's address the EC Men's Glee Club will sing and Rev. Thomas H. Caulkins, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist Church in Goldsboro, will give the prayer of dedication.

Secretary General Kimsey Announces UN Delegates

Middle South Model United Nations Secretary General Jim Kimsey announced today the names of thirteen East Carolina Students who will serve as delegates to the Middle South Model U N General Assembly to be held on campus in April.

Chosen through personal interviews by Secretary General Kimsey and Secretary of External Affairs, Bill Deal, the following students will represent Albania, Byelorussia and China respectively:

ALBANIA: Frank Johnson, Steve Burns, Ed Tipton, Don Pierce.

BYELORUSSIA: Jeff Bacon, Courtney Andrews, Cynthia Smith, Bill Ruffy.

CHINA: Ried Overcash, John Meares, Carleen Hjortsvang, Jane McKlosken, George Francis (Security Council).

Secretary General Kimsey commented on the appointments by stating: "These people are going to be representing East Carolina College — our academic standards.

The impression they give the 1967 General Assembly will be the one that Assembly members will take with them as they return to colleges and universities across the nation."

All delegates selected to represent East Carolina at the Model U. N. Assembly accept the responsibility of attending 15 seminars on Communist Party Structure, Russian and Chinese History, and Russian and Chinese Economics and Sociology.

Five seminars on the functions of the United Nations and its specialized organs will be required of delegates as will eight sessions of debate training.

In addition to attending the required seminars, all 13 delegates will be spending a great amount of time in researching their individual countries. Two people from each delegation will also be assigned to political committees: one to an economic committee and one to a social cultural committee.

Newest Cheerleader Will Romp On All Fours To Support EC

Students at East Carolina want to add a Great Dane to their cheerleader squad.

Frank L. Rice Jr. of Sunbury, vice president of the Student Government Association, says he'd like to find one of the big dogs to use as a mascot for the last two football games of the season.

He says the students would decorate the dog with purple and gold, school colors, and let him romp with the cheerleaders at Ficklen Stadium.

The purpose is to whip up enthusiasm to support the football team in its last two home games. EC plays the University of Richmond Nov. 12 and Southern Mississippi University Nov. 19.

Rice invites anyone who has a Great Dane to loan for the two weekends to contact him in the student government office at the college, telephone 758-3426. Ext. 271.

EC'S SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

... Gets ready for its first concert to be presented in Wright ...

Music For Everyone Offered By EC Symphonic Orchestra

The East Carolina Symphonic Orchestra will present its first concert of the year this Sunday, November 6, 1966. The concert will be held at 3:30 P.M. in Wright Auditorium. Admission is free and all students, faculty, staff members, and Greenville residents are cordially invited to attend.

The eighty-three piece orchestra, under the direction of David Serrins, will open its performance with Mendelssohn's "Italian Symphony" which has been hailed by critics as a "near perfect work."

Next, for the romantics in the audience, the EC Orchestra will perform two Nocturnes by Debussy: "Nuages and Fetes" (meaning clouds and festivals, respectively).

Winding up the program will be Prelude and Fugue in E Flat Major from the "Clavierbung, Part II" by Bach. This work, originally written for the organ, was adapted for a large orchestra by Schoenberg in 1928.

The concert is set up so that there is something for everyone. David Serrins, the musical director of the orchestra, urges all students to attend the concert saying that they are as much a part of education as are classes. Says Mr. Serrins, "Part of coming to college is making oneself available to classical as well as popular music."

Once again — all students, faculty, staff members, and Greenville residents are invited to attend the EC Symphonic Orchestra concert. Admission is free.

The EC Symphony, he added, "takes great pride in making music of this quality available to the campus and the surrounding area."

Discussing the three works the symphony will play, the conductor noted that the opening Mendelssohn symphony, written in 1833, is scored by critics as the composer's near-perfect work.

According to Serrins, the Debussy piece "is one of the great works of the early 20th Century." Written in 1889, it demonstrates, says Serrins, the Orchestral color and the impressionist descriptive music that Debussy and other French composers and painters were so interested in at that time.

He says the Bach-Schoenberg piece is a "masterpiece with expressions of the most noble grandeur, tender sensitivity and exuberant lyrical fast-moving fugal subjects."

Martin St. James Performs Tonight

Martin St. James, billed as "the world's most hilarious hypnotist," is scheduled to perform at East Carolina Thursday night, Nov. 3.

His performance, first attraction of the season on the Student Government Association's Popular Concert Series, is scheduled at 8:15 p.m. in Wright Auditorium.

Rudolph Alexander, concert manager, said tickets at $3 each are available to the non-college public. They may be purchased at the Central Ticket Office in Wright Auditorium or at the door Thursday night.

AFROTC

Bloodmobile Visits Campus

The East Carolina detachment of the Air Force ROTC is promoting a two-day visit by the Red Cross Bloodmobile to the campus next week.

A quota of 125 pints per day has been set for Wednesday, Nov. 9, and Thursday, Nov. 10.

Bart Edelen of La Plata, Md., is chairman of the project for the AFROTC. Assisting him are John Sheldon of Wilmington, Del., and Mac Coleman of Goodyear, Ariz. All three are seniors in the college's AFROTC program.

According to Edelen, his committee will be contacting dormitories, fraternities, sororities, other campus organizations and faculty members in an effort to get pledge cards signed. Also, while the bloodmobile is here the cadets will help Red Cross staff members at the collection center.

Blood given during this annual drive will be for general use by the Red Cross. It will be counted toward the year's quota assigned to the Pitt County Blood Program.

The bloodmobile will be at Wright Auditorium on Wednesday, Nov. 9, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., and on Thursday, Nov. 10, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Singers, Dancers, Musicians Wanted

Can you sing? Can you dance or play an instrument? A small group of 15 to 20 performers are to be chosen by audition to represent East Carolina as a highly mobile public relations act. This group, as yet unnamed, will be used to present programs in neighboring schools, at civic functions, and at other requested places. Only light music will be used, utilizing as much talent as possible. Members of the group will be required to sing and also play an instrument or dance.

Auditions will be held in the Music Hall, Room 148, on Tuesday and Wednesday, November 8 & 9 from 7:30 - 9 P.M. Requirements for auditions are a C average and a Sophomore or above standing.

Interested persons should sign up in the Music Hall before Tuesday, November 8 for an audition time.

Open Letter:

Evaluation Explanation

This is the last of three articles and it is addressed to the students and faculty of East Carolina:

In order to clear up any misunderstanding, I will explain the general purpose of this evaluation and the booklet that will follow.

The purpose of this questionnaire is to allow students the opportunity to evaluate their courses and instructors. It is not intended to allow the students to slander anyone or to tear a faculty member or a course apart. The booklet is to be used in the adviser's offices only and its general purpose is to allow the student a chance to get an idea of what a course entails and what an instructor expects of a student. It is not intended to tell who is a "good guy" and who is a "bad guy."

This evaluation will be done as objectively as possible. The booklet will be an advantage to the student in preparing his course load since he will be able to see what the course entails and how much time is required by the course and the instructor. This is the main purpose and the only one involved in this evaluation.

I hope that the above has clarified in everybody's mind what this evaluation is all about. We have tried to be as complete as possible in getting our information about the classes and the number of students in each.

You must realize that some classes will be left out as well as some instructors. This is something we cannot help due to the size of the student body and the course load. If an instructor teaches more than one section of a particular course, he will be evaluated in only one section. This will cut down on the number of forms which we will have to handle.

I hope that this is clear to every one. If you still have questions, you may contact me through the SGA office and I will be glad to answer any question that you may have concerning this evaluation. It is up to you the student to help make this evaluation real and meaningful. I urge you to approach this evaluation in an objective frame of mind. This is the only way that the students who follow behind you will be able to get a true picture of the course and the professor.

To the faculty, I ask that you co-operate with us in this effort of higher learning. Tonight there will be a meeting in the Library Auditorium of all students who are interested in helping with the evaluation that will take place on November 9-10.

Unless, we have a good turnout, all our efforts will be in vain since we need people to act as monitors in the classroom buildings during this evaluation. If you desire to help, please come tonight to the Library Auditorium at 6:30 p.m.

Thank you, Jay Barber, Chairman Faculty and Course Evaluation Committee.

Students Get Involved . . .

In the face of next Tuesday's election, we are becoming somewhat aware of the college student's involvement in national and state politics. Not only here at East Carolina but in sections throughout the United States it is becoming an accepted fact that college students are often politically potent at national party conventions, at civil rights rallies, and in party headquarters in every county and precinct.

Here at East Carolina we become more and more aware of the functions of the Young Republicans' Club and the Young Democrats' Club as both organizations are competing with top campaigns for their individual party candidates. Both clubs' strength is being felt as other students are drawn from all facets of campus life into the political ring of next Tuesday's election.

The much talked about Kennedy political machine leans heavily on the zeal and energy of college students. Students at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill showed their political strength when they united in a combined effort to force the General Assembly to reverse its views on the Speaker Ban Law. Of course with the combined efforts of students and the intellectual community, UNC-CH soon saw the results of their political undertakings.

Students at UNC-CH, however, do not hold a monopoly on political awareness and strength. Indications of both student and faculty involvement in politics are becoming more and more obvious on the EC campus. Heated political arguments go on almost constantly in lobbies and dormitory rooms. Students are either attending dinners for Walter Jones or carrying banners for John East as they evaluate the potential of both candidates and what each proposes for North Carolina and the "East." If political stickers on car bumpers, doors, windows and trees are any indication of student political interest, East Carolina is on the political wagon full force.

Many college students are reportedly spurred to political interest and action by the personal threat of the war in Viet Nam. Others are concerned with the American economic situation while some are stirred to active participation in politics by the difference between ideals expressed and reality that must be accepted between the promises and individual actions by party politicians, that seems unjustifiable to the students.

Whatever their motives or interests, we can all be proud to find that students and faculty at East Carolina are becoming involved in political affairs within and beyond our campus.

Interest evidenced thus far this year certainly points toward a hopeful future and is perhaps the best guarantee we have against public apathy in the years to come. The fact that students care enough to be concerned with what is happening here and now in the political world continuously encourages principles of democracy so vital in maintaining the rights of all men and individual personal freedom.

A Fitting Tribute . . .

(Editor's note: The following editorial is a reprint of an editorial found a few weeks ago in The News and Observer. We could find no tribute more fitting for Henry Belk than the one reprinted here from the Observer.)

It is often a doubtful procedure to make monuments to the living by giving the names of persons still among us to public facilities. But the naming of the new, big dormitory at East Carolina College is recognition that Henry Belk has become a legendary figure in North Carolina in his own time.

Henry Belk deserved this honor not because he is the able and effective editor of The Goldsboro News-Argus — not even because as a long-time trustee of the college he has contributed to its flourishing growth. Henry Belk is worthy of this distinction because he is Henry Belk. He is a man who has stood tall not only in his stature but in his understanding of and his contribution to the needs of his neighbors of every sort and kind. Despite his blindness he has been a man able to see more clearly than most other men. He has brought the gifts of goodness, wisdom and grace to our land.

This fine new building rises in appreciation of contributions to his countrymen, but the building and its builders are more honored because this dormitory where young men will live while they learn bears Henry Belk's name.

Our Apologies . . .

The East Carolinian offers its sincere apologies to East Carolina's College Union. By accident we gave credit to WECC Radio for last week's Halloween Dance props.

We realize the tremendous amount of time involved in setting up a display of quality such as the one which several individuals on the College Union committee organized. We congratulate you on the success of your dance and hope for the same quality of work from the College Union in the future.

Again, our sincerest apologies and congratulations for the fine job you did for UNICEF.

Last Night

A Deaf Ear?

By Duncan Stout

Now that Fall elections are over, the Student Government has returned once more to its mediocre state of mindless inactivity. Where are those campaign cries we heard a month ago if we elected this person or that person? As of yet, the only important thing carried on in the new legislature has appeared to be the diligent correction of the minutes.

This fall we witnessed the birth of a two party system on campus. However, while both have their merit, they have also fallen to the disgusting rat game of snide name calling and inflated egos.

Student Governments have been an important part of every college and university that supports one. At East Carolina we have been satisfied in general with the work of our Student Government Association.

However, the traditional lack of communication between the SGA representatives and student body still persists.

The lack of interest in the expensive SGA Lecture Series, Fine Arts Program, and Foreign Films (five times as expensive as the popular films) is very disturbing. A tremendous amount of money is being spent to produce programs enjoyed only by small minority. The recent presentation of the New York Brass Quintet was marred by unexcusable bungling when the auditorium lights were cut off and on constantly for several minutes before the scheduled intermission.

Are these programs valid when they seem to be treated so lightly and half heartedly? Perhaps, the Student Governments clientel will never be ready to accept such programs. James Brown is as good as ever and probably costs much less.

Student support has been lacking in many SGA projects. This year in notably the Faculty Evaluation program and The Buccaneer (the SGA sponsored yearbook).

We wonder why the average student is not excited as a legislative member concerning much of the work of the Student Government. The legislature at times has appeared to be dominated by party and private interest. Perhaps some of these are not as concerned with the interest of the student body as they are with IMAGE of East Carolina.

With the question of university status, East Carolina must be accepted for what it is — our merits and our faults. We cannot build it up to be something it is not.

Perhaps those who make up our Student Government, and especially the student parties, should show less interest in who we will elect next Spring to the SGA executive. And instead of brandishing gimmicks and sensationalism, should seek student support through talking directly to the students and finding out what the student body wants.

This lack of communication however, is not entirely the fault of the Student Government. Students at East Carolina are either not aware of or do not seek the help of many organizations and committees the SGA has created.

Lack of communication breeds two very distinct types of students: the Apathetic and the Ivory Towerist. There is no extreme division of the two at East Carolina, but the division at times is often evident.

It is sincerely hoped that communication will improve on our campus between the SGA, student body, and all other campus organizations.

Letters To The Editor

POOR PROCTORS

Dear Editor

As new coming freshmen to Jones Hall, we have noticed the attitudes of the proctors and residents of first floor to be domineering. This is the way it should be to a certain extent, but they insist on making the dormitory life for the freshmen as miserable as possible. They probe the inner depths of their minds in search for new regulations such as door closed after 6:00 P.M., no showers after 11:30 P.M., no talking in showers, not more than one person outside the phone booth, and no clothes hung on the pipes for drying even though we pull the shades.

The rules are not half as bad as the manner in which they conduct themselves. Being that authority was some how placed in them, they are out to exert all the power possible and to use the first floor freshmen as examples for the entire dorm. When entering school we were told that these officials were for the students help, but so far their objective has been nothing but finding fault. They enjoy the feeling of being able to boss someone around, something they have never been able to do. The officials would just as soon write you up as look at you. We are not saying that all freshmen on first floor are little angels because we're not, but such a misuse of power is unnecessary for controlling the freshmen. These feeling would be told to the officials personally, but they probably would write us up and charge us with disrespect to a college official, actions unbecoming to an East Carolina student, being too noisy, or anything else they could think of. We hope this will be recognized as an injustice to East Carolina freshmen and hope it will be corrected for next years freshmen.

MORE ON BYRD

Dear Acting Editor,

In regard to your editorial observation of October 25th that Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia kept his state and our country from "progressing", it seems that perhaps your conception of progress might have been explained in order to insure a clear understanding of the ideas and actions which constitutes that "progress" which the Senator found unacceptable.

Although the ideas of governmental social welfare, which have been the basis of the "progress" with which Senator Byrd concerned himself, have become established in Washington during the past 35 or so years, the long-range values and consequences of those ideas still remain to be proved historically. It is possible that Senator Byrd, considered by many to be merely a negative force in a forward-looking government had the wisdom and foresight to recognize that the emerging welfare system in this country is incompatible with the basic social ideals and objectives of the American people — particularly with the ideal of individual freedom to develop oneself and enjoy the fair rewards subsequent to that development. The strengths of social welfare — especially the philosophy of man's responsibility for his fellow man — were no doubt apparent to the Senator, but he chose to object to the advancement of the welfare system because he felt that this philosophy's practical social applications, as outlined in the policies of the "liberals" who have constructed this welfare system in the U. S. in the last few decades, were not in the best interests of our American ideals. It is likely that he also feared that an extended program of governmental social welfare is inherently detrimental to a society which chooses to remain as dynamic as that which the American people have traditionally created. Considering the example of the British people, who were once a dynamic group but who are now caught up in a relatively stagnating society which emphasizes an extensive welfare system, perhaps Senator Byrd's apprehensions were well-founded, though more historical proof will be necessary before his fears can be fully evaluated. In light of these possibilities, it is conceivable that history may find the Senator a more competent interpreter of the future needs of the American people than those who support the "progress" of which your editorial speaks.

America's freedom-of-choice and self-reward system has proved more successful than any design in history in providing opportunities for this personal development, and Senator Byrd, recognizing this past achievement and fearing a social welfare state to be a threat to this success in the future because of its tendency to over-tax the producers in the society, took his invaluable and conscientious stand against those supporting the extension of social welfare in the name of the false "progress" to which your editorial refers.

Sincerely,
Tom Parrott

Students Misinterpret Assignment At UNC

Editors Note: The following is a summation of the recent furor at the University of North Carolina concerning the controversial "Paul Case". One personality however, is obviously missing. WRAL Television Editorial Board Vice Chairman, Jesse Helms. Since the darling of the "offended" more than likely did not speak out for pure sensationalism, but presented his attack for the betterment and safe guard of the community we would not like him to go unmentioned.

—D.S.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (CPS) — When 17th century poet Andrew Marvell suggested to his "Coy Mistress," "Now let us sport us while we may," he found a sympathetic ear among his Restoration England readers.

Now, however, a group of University of North Carolina students have been "offended" by the assignment of Marvell's poem and a theme on seduction to a freshman English class; and their displeasure has led to the transfer of their instructor to "other duties" at the school.

Graduate instructor Michael Paul asked his class to write a paper on seduction in conjunction with their assignment of Marvell's widely anthologized classic love poem. After the papers were turned in, the 24-year-old Ph.D. candidate claimed that his class had misinterpreted the entire point of Marvell's work.

To demonstrate the students' misunderstanding of the poet's purpose, Paul read three of the students' papers in class — one of which, he said, contained "words that were inserted merely for shock value." The resulting embarrassment among the students led to protests against the assignment and widespread publicity of the case over Chapel Hill's local television station, WRAL-TV.

The furor over the assignment led a faculty committee to investigate the situation for University Chancellor Carlyle Sitterson, and after consultation with a larger Faculty Advisory Committee, the Chancellor transferred Paul to other duties at the school.

"On the basis of the evidence before me," Sitterson said, "it did not appear that (Paul) had effective communication with his class and that the reading of themes in his class . . . with consequent embarrassment on many points, had seriously disturbed the normal teacher-student learning relationship."

Paul contended that he was not "deviating" from the course syllabus and that the students' themes he read aloud "sort of embarrassed me."

"I went on to explain that this was not what I had meant by the assignment," he continued, and that the class had "missed the entire point of the poem."

Despite protests by several students against the transfer of Paul, Sitterson claimed that his action was not meant as discipline. "In making this reassignment, no punitive measures are being taken against Mr. Paul nor are there any charges being made against him," he said.

Paul, editor of the Carolina Quarterly, has refused to comment on his reaction to the transfer, but his case has won the sympathy of at least one amateur poet in the Chapel Hill student body. In a letter to the Daily Tar Heel, the student newspaper, he wrote:

"The dumb, the slow, attend the show
And join your family three;
All clap hands and dance and prance
Under the ignorance tree."

Local Professor, Dr. East Prepares For Election Day

By BEV CARAWAN
Assistant News Editor

Tuesday will not be just another school day or just another off-year election day to Dr. John East. Tuesday will be the day that Dr. East sees the effect of his campaign against Congressman Walter Jones for the first district congressional seat.

Newly promoted from the position of assistant to that of associate professor of political science, Dr.

East has "always been interested in American politics, government, and history." The Republican first ran in the February 5 special election because he "did not think it right that the election go to the Democratic candidate by default." Furthermore, a personal dissatisfaction with the national administration — the basis of his entire campaign prompted him to offer himself as a candidate.

After gaining 40 percent of the district's vote in February (more than twice that of any Republican in this century), Dr. East announced his candidacy for November. The general feeling of East supporters is that while he received 40 percent of the vote with only one month's campaigning, he could win handily with eight.

Holding the following degrees: B.A. Earlham College, Indiana, 1953; LL.B. (law), University of Illinois, 1959; and M.A. (1962), Ph.D. (1964), University of Florida; Dr. East definitely qualifies as an expert in politics and law.

Even more than his knowledge, his quick sense of humor and seemingly dauntless energy make the Phi Beta Kappa member well liked by students of any political persuasion. They have been amazed that he has been able to fulfill his teaching job and campaign in spite of his paralysis.

Dr. East cites "undisciplined federal spending and no effective end to the Vietnamese war" as the prime causes of inflation.

The former Marine Corps Lieutenant feels that "we cannot stop Communist aggression in Viet Nam until through the use of conventional prudent military effort we end the war." He is for peace but peace with freedom.

When asked to comment on the 25 to 1 Democratic registration in the district, Dr. East, perhaps showing a concern for the future of his two daughters emphasized that, "No party is sacred; only the country is sacred. Parties exist so people can express opinions."

Dr. East and his attractive wife "Sis" live with their daughters, Kathryn, 11, and Martha, 6, in Brookgreen. Though the daughters are not actively involved, all three of his "girls" are definitely assets to the campaign. The daughters are bright and Mrs. East is vivacious. Because of her obvious intelligence, knowledge, and warmth, Mrs. East has been frequently dubbed as the "perfect politician's wife."

Dr. East, at only 35, has definitely made an impression on the "solid Democratic" first district.

Lower Voting Age

Mich. Student Wages Campaign

(ACP) — A Central Michigan University freshman is heading an organization which is waging a state-wide campaign to lower Michigan's voting age requirement to 18 in the November election, the CENTRAL MICHIGAN LIFE reports.

Andy Marks is chairman of Youth Equal Suffrage, one of several organizations seeking electoral support for the change.

Marks claims Michigan is being used as a test case for the nationwide issue because it is a highly industrialized northern state with one of the largest education expenditures in the country.

He also claims great support throughout the state, including support of the Young Democrats and Young Republicans, who together have raised $10,000 for billboards, leaflets and bumper stickers.

The Michigan Citizens Committee for the Vote at 18, affiliated with the National Student Association, and the Young Americans for Freedom have also come out for the 18-year-old franchise.

Major candidates from both parties, including Gov. George Romney, Zolton Ferency, G. Mennen Williams and Robert Griffin have included their endorsements.

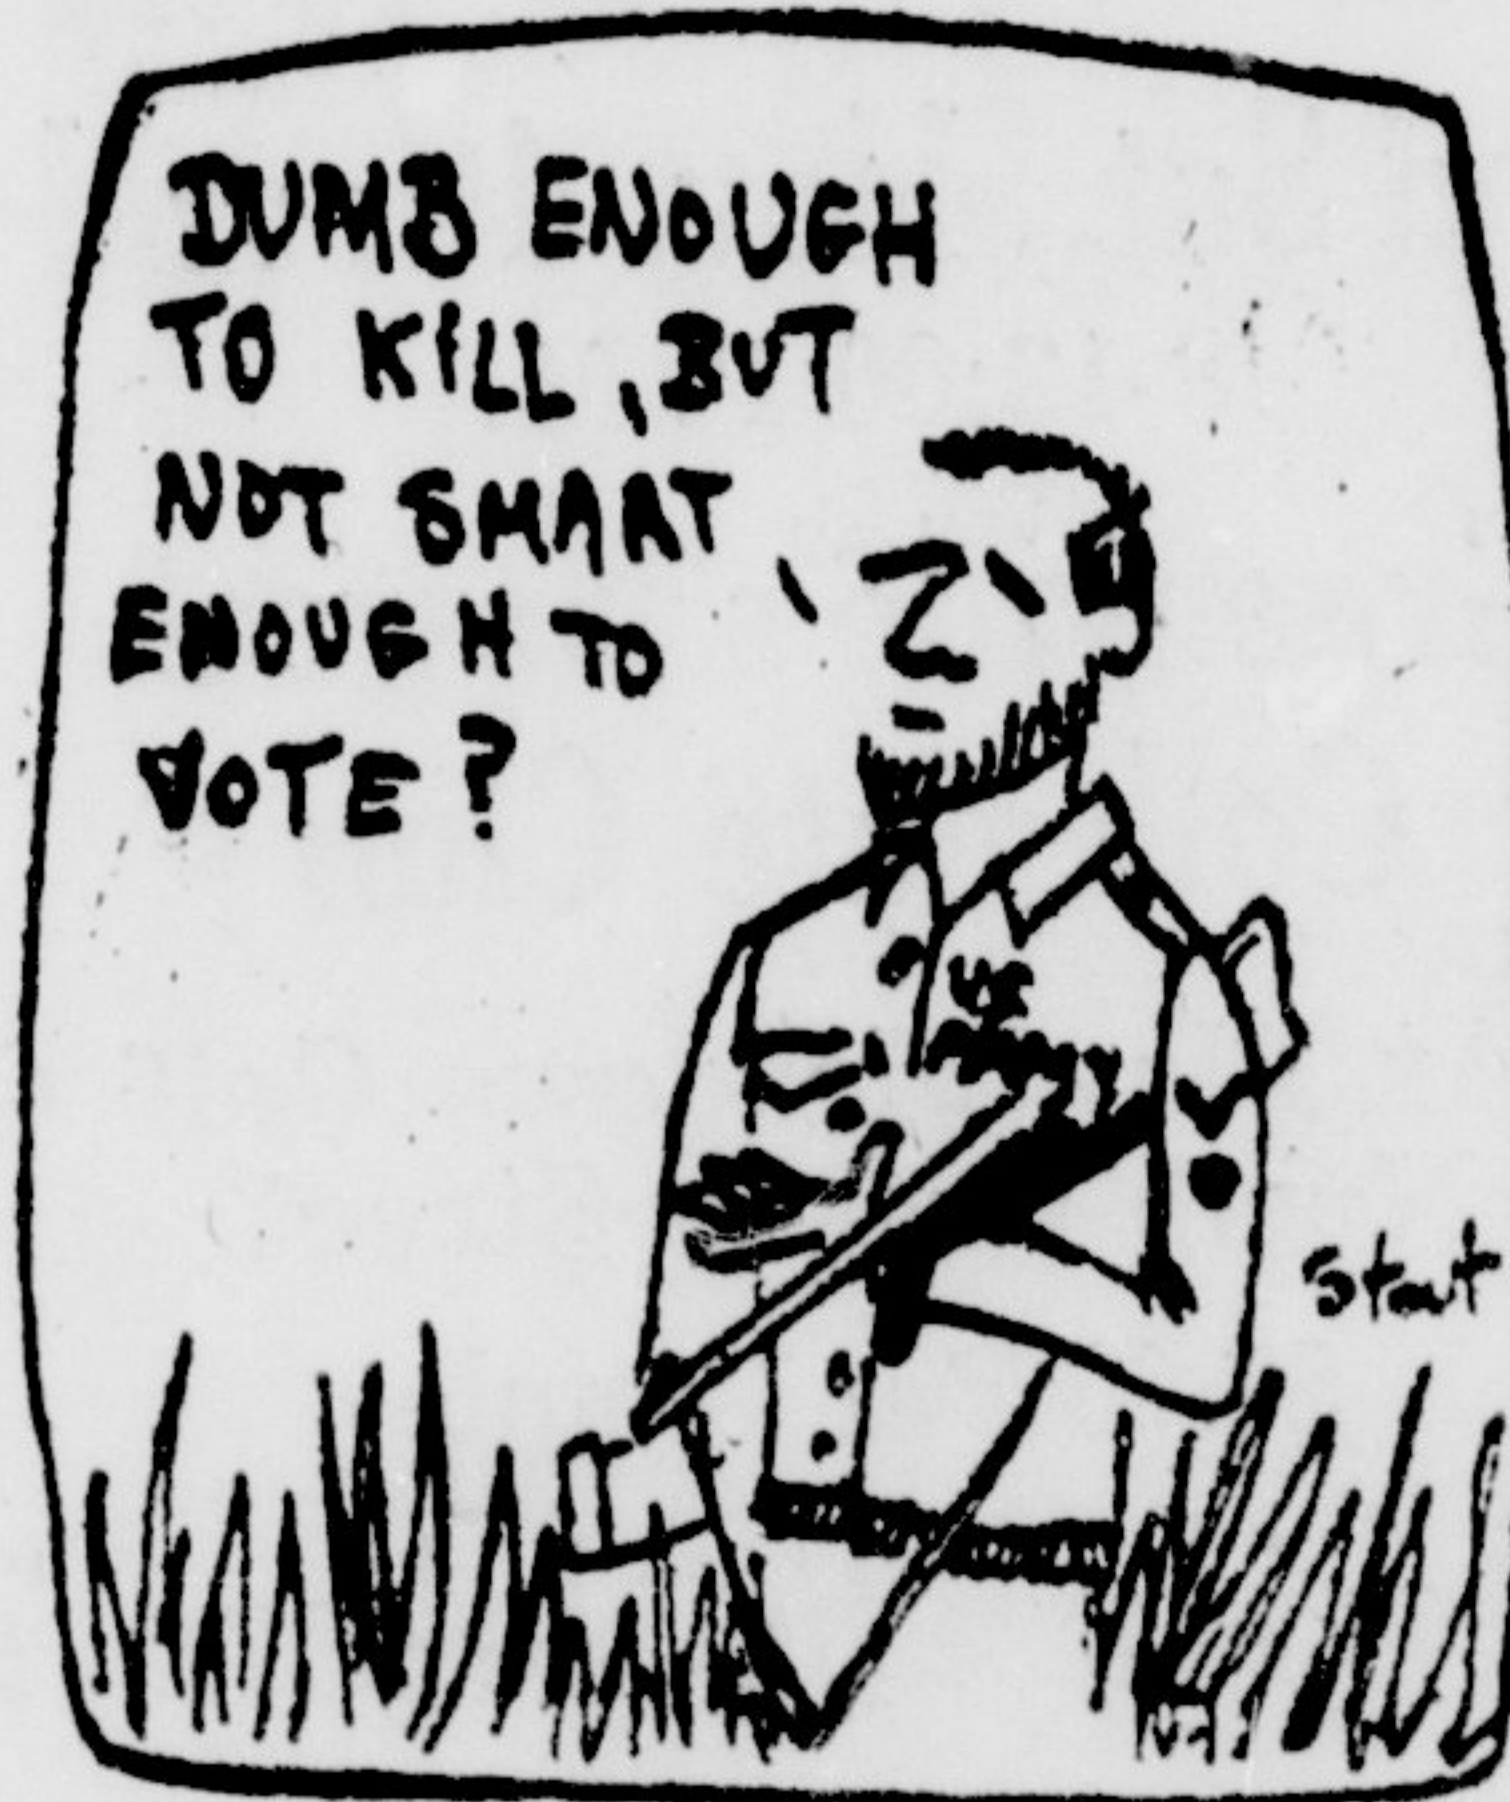

Would the enfranchisement of 18-year-olds change the voting patterns of the electorate? Studies so far have been inconclusive, but a report of the 1961 Michigan Constitutional Convention indicated the following predictions based on their research:

1. The new electors will not have as high a turnout rate as older voters.

2. They will probably have weaker party attachments than their elders.

3. They will probably not display any markedly different pattern of political choice than any other voters under 30.

The Untimely Question.

Congratulations also go to all the young men who entered into our Greek system this past week.

PHI MU ALPHA

Zeta Psi chapter of Phi Mu Alpha Simfonia Fraternity received the Charles E. Lutton Award at the regional convention held at Georgia Southern College Oct. 24 and 25. This award is given to the outstanding chapter in Region E which includes such schools as the University of North Carolina, University of South Carolina, and William and Mary College.

Alan VanTuyt, the recording-secretary of Zeta Psi, was elected Region E Representative to the national convention which will be held June 28-30 in Chicago.

A. J. Fletcher, a Zeta Psi chapter Honorary, was inducted as a National Honorary member during the convention. He is the founder of the "Grass Roots Opera Co." which is now the "National Opera Co." He is also president of WRAL Radio and Television Station in Raleigh.

National President Harry R. Wilson, National Secretary Price Doyle, and Dr. Wiley Housewright, Dean of Florida State University Music Dept. and president elect of MENC, attended the convention along with 100 delegates representing the various chapters of Phi Mu Alpha from the South Eastern United States.

DELTA SIGMA PI

This week Delta Sigma Pi had a representative from Merrill-Lynch Brokerage Firm to speak to the fraternity. This will be followed up by a tour of their offices in Wilson, N. C.

On the sports side the Delta Zeta Chapter is really coming into its own. The record is now 4-2 and hope that we will be able to go all the way.

DELTA ZETA

Delta Zeta Sorority — The Zeta Lambda chapter of Delta Zeta enjoyed Halloween Monday night by distributing candy at the Greenville Nursing and Convalescence Home. We would like to thank the Kappa Sigmas for the candy filled pumpkin.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

The Brothers of Pi Kappa Alpha recently redecorated their basement with several paintings donated by Sally Drake. In conjunction with the "new look", for the "House on the Hill," a mural of unity was painted on one of the walls.

The Brothers and Pledges of Pi Kappa Alpha would like to extend their most sincere appreciation and thanks to the following hostesses for their help: Misses Sally Drake, Marcia Smith, Beverley Bowden, Martha Hoot, Caroline Riddle, and Miss Adriane Gehman. A special thanks is extended to Mrs. Basden, the PIKAS house mother, who spent much time in and out of the kitchen preparing for "Rush".

The Brothers of Pi Kappa Alpha would like to welcome all of their fine pledges into the "Greek System of Brother and Sisterhood."

PHI OMICRON

Margaret Rumbly was recently initiated into Phi Omicron Honorary Home Economics Fraternity. A resident of Greenville, Miss Rumbly was selected on the basis of her scholastic average and her standards of personal conduct. Mrs. Gelbach, past national president of the fraternity was also present at the initiation. She discussed the requirements for becoming affiliated with a national home economics fraternity. Also, she made suggestions for improvement of the local chapter.

ALPHA DELTA PI

The Alpha Delta Pi's had a National officer from Richmond, Virginia visiting with us October 24, 25, and 26. We felt very fortunate to be able to have Mrs. Ward visit our chapter. She gave us some new ideas and suggestions from other Alpha Delta Pi chapters throughout the nation which were most helpful.

We're presently working on the Alpha Xi Delta All-Sing which is scheduled for Wednesday night, November 2. We want to keep the plaque for a second year.

Alpha Delta Pi pledged four coeds during fall informal rush. They are Diana Burnette of New Bern, Jane Daly of Clayton, Donna Sales of Alexandria, Va., and Becky Weeks of Durham.

We, the undersigned students and faculty members of East Carolina College, heartily endorse for re-election to the United States House of Representatives

Women's Glee Club Presents First Concert Of New Year

The 38-voice Women's Glee Club of East Carolina has a varied program ready for its concert in Kinston on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 3. The girls will present the program for the Kinston High School assembly. It begins at 2 p.m.

Beatrice Chauncey of the ECC School of Music faculty, director of the choral group, lists this program:

"Devotion," "Moon River," "Three Irish Songs," "Un Bel Di," "Choral No. 52 St. John Passion," "Now Thank We All Our God" and "Michael Row the Boat Ashore."

Diane Auten of Kannapolis, Donna Forbes of Dunn, Sandra Garrett of Elizabeth City, Emalyn Helms of Albemarle and Cordelia Lewis of Farmville have solo parts on the program.

Miss Auten will also play the string bass, along with Judy Lynn Tuttle of Winston-Salem and Sandra Rahban of Jamestown on the guitars and Kathryn Marshall of Burlington on the ukelele, to accompany the glee club in the finale, "Michael Row the Boat Ashore."

Thursday's program in Kinston marks the first public concert this year by the popular vocal group. Other concerts for the Women's Glee Club are set for Christmas and the spring seasons.

The reading of "Everyman" to be presented tonight at 8:00 is being rehearsed by members of Sigma Tau Delta and other interested students. Everyone is urged to attend free of charge.

Radiothon

UNICEF Approaches Goal

The Radiothon for UNICEF '66 began Thursday, Oct. 27 at 7:00 a.m. and ended on Saturday, Oct. 29 at 11:00 p.m. It ran for 54 hours and the disc jockeys were Don Kean and Jack Hardy.

The goal for UNICEF this year is $525 and so far $475 has been raised. Pledges are still coming in. Any organization that wishes to contribute may do so by sending a check to the campus radio, attention of Vicky Turner.

The Nite provided the music at the dance Friday night at which $48 was raised. Door prizes for the dance were donated by the following stores: Campus Corner, the Clothes Horse, Proctors, the Pirates Den, Brody's and Blount Sarveys.

UNICEF co-chairman Vicky Turner and Carleen Hjortsvang expressed the gratitude of the station to all students and faculty members who contributed. They added that the theme of "We stay awake so that others may live" will be continued again next year.

Chairman Minnis Displays Paintings

A One-Man Show of Paintings and Ceramics by Professor Paul R. Minnis, Chairman of the Ceramics Dept., School of Art, East Carolina College, Greenville, N. C., will open on November 6th with a reception from 3:00 to 5:00 P.M., at the Kinston Art Center, 108½ W. Caswell Street, honoring the Artist. The public is cordially invited to come and greet Professor Minnis. Several long pile, hand and loom woven Rya rugs will be included in this show. Professor Minnis is a native of Pennsylvania, and a graduate of Edinboro State College. Before coming to teach at East Carolina College in 1957, he taught at Penn State University and other Art Schools in Pennsylvania and Washington, D.C. He has had many one-man shows in North Carolina, and has exhibited in Louisiana, Tennessee, Virginia and New York. The public is invited to the reception: 3:00 to 5:00 P.M. Sunday, Nov. 6th.

Morality Play Offers 'Everyman' Tonight

Sigma Tau Delta, Honorary English Fraternity presents a dramatic reading of the Fifteenth Century Morality play Everyman on Thursday, Nov. 3, at 7:30 p.m. in Room 201 of the College Union.

Dr. Ralph Hardee Rives directs the student production with the assistance of John Avery and Donna Cherry, officers of Sigma Tau Delta. The cast is composed of students from various departments on campus. They are: messenger, Donna Cherry; voice of God, Ben Terrell; death, Hank Cherry; Everyman, Buddy Pate; fellowship, Joyce Perry; Kindred, John Avery; Cousin, Ricky Orr; Goods, Suzanne Whitson; Good-Deeds, Linda Wright; Knowledge, Ben Terrell; Confession, John Avery; Beauty, Carmen Tutor; Strength, Hank Cherry; Discretion, Peggy Davis; Five-Wits, Olivia Bottoms; Angil, Sherry Gilliam; and Doctor, Donna Cherry.

The author of Everyman is not known. Known that it is the greatest of all surviving morality plays, and that in its own time, when acted by townspeople on a primitive, cart-like stage in the open air, it was both played and received with the utmost religious reverence. Today the personified abstractions which are the Characters seem no less real. They speak as people do to themselves, in the realization that the struggle for the soul of mankind is keener, is no less an abstraction than ever it was before. Everyman's confusion and shattered values are those of mankind.

Sigma Tau Delta gives special thanks to Bill Kitchen and other members of the staff of WECC for their much needed assistance with the sound effects of the reading.

Spirit Committee Receives Budget

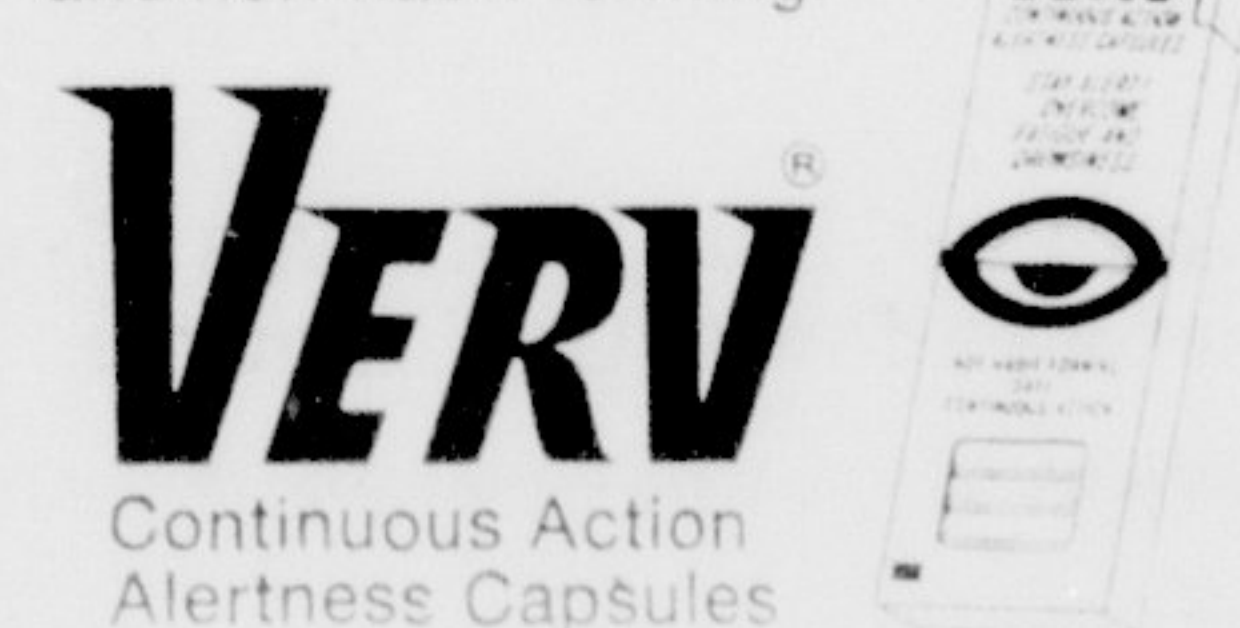

By DOYLE PERDUE
SGA Staff Writer

The Student Legislature met last Monday at 5:00 p.m. in the Legislative Chamber. The main order of business was the approval of the Spirit Committee's budget request. Mr. Frank Rice, the Chairman of the Spirit Committee, was present to explain his committee's work. Rice said that the committee intended to increase school spirit by selling ribbons, painting the goal posts in Ficklen Stadium, staging bonfires, releasing helium balloons, and having a mascot for the home football games. The Legislature then approved the Spirit Committee's request for $400.00. The next order of business was the approval of a request made by the Rebel for $18.00 for typewriter repair. The Chair then announced the formation of a Rules of Procedure Committee to be chaired by Miss Sally Yopp, SGA Secretary. Speaker Burns administered the oath of office to Benn Webb, Senior Class President, and, with the approval of the Legislators, adjourned the meeting.

Pirates Recuperate

By Clem Williams

Pirates Rest

Coach Stasavich's fighting Pirates will take a break this week which should help the team out considerably. The Bucs currently are suffering from an extreme number of injuries and this should give these boys a chance to recuperate from injuries suffered in previous games.

Dennis Young Lost For Year

Dennis Young, who has been the Pirate standout in two previous games is out for the rest of the season because of a broken collar bone. Bill Bailey, the starting tailback is still on the injured list but will probably play anyway. Maybe luck will still our way when we meet Richmond in the final Southern Conference game.

Freshman Basketball Team

The freshman basketball team has many outstanding boys according to Coach Radevich, who was a member of Carolina's undefeated National Champions.

Radevich believes he has three outstanding guards in Andy Maurak (6'3"), Tommy Miller (5'11"), and Jerry Cavanaugh (5'9"). Radevich also had high praise for Jim Moklin, 6'6" forward, who is a good shooter and Roy Peterson, 6'5" center. Radevich named William Stokes as his sixth man. Stokes is 6'3".

"Jerry Cavanaugh was a real surprise to us, he is very quick and a good ball-handler and is an exceptional shooter. However, he needs to do some work on defense," replied Radevich.

"We will have a height problem as we are probably going to do a lot of running. We also plan to use the pressure defense and the fast break very often."

The freshmen seem to have a good team this year and we wish them good luck.

Did You Know

The United States won more medals than any other nation at the 27 nation Little Olympics in Mexico City. One of the big difficulties that hindered most of the athletes was the lack of oxygen in the atmosphere and the lack of organization by their host.

Mike Herring Pro Prospect

Mike Herring, 6'2" 212 lb. junior has been a bright addition to the Pirate kicking game. Mike has been averaging forty yards a kick and has caught the eyes of some pro scouts. Herring is also a starting guard on the Pirate offensive line.

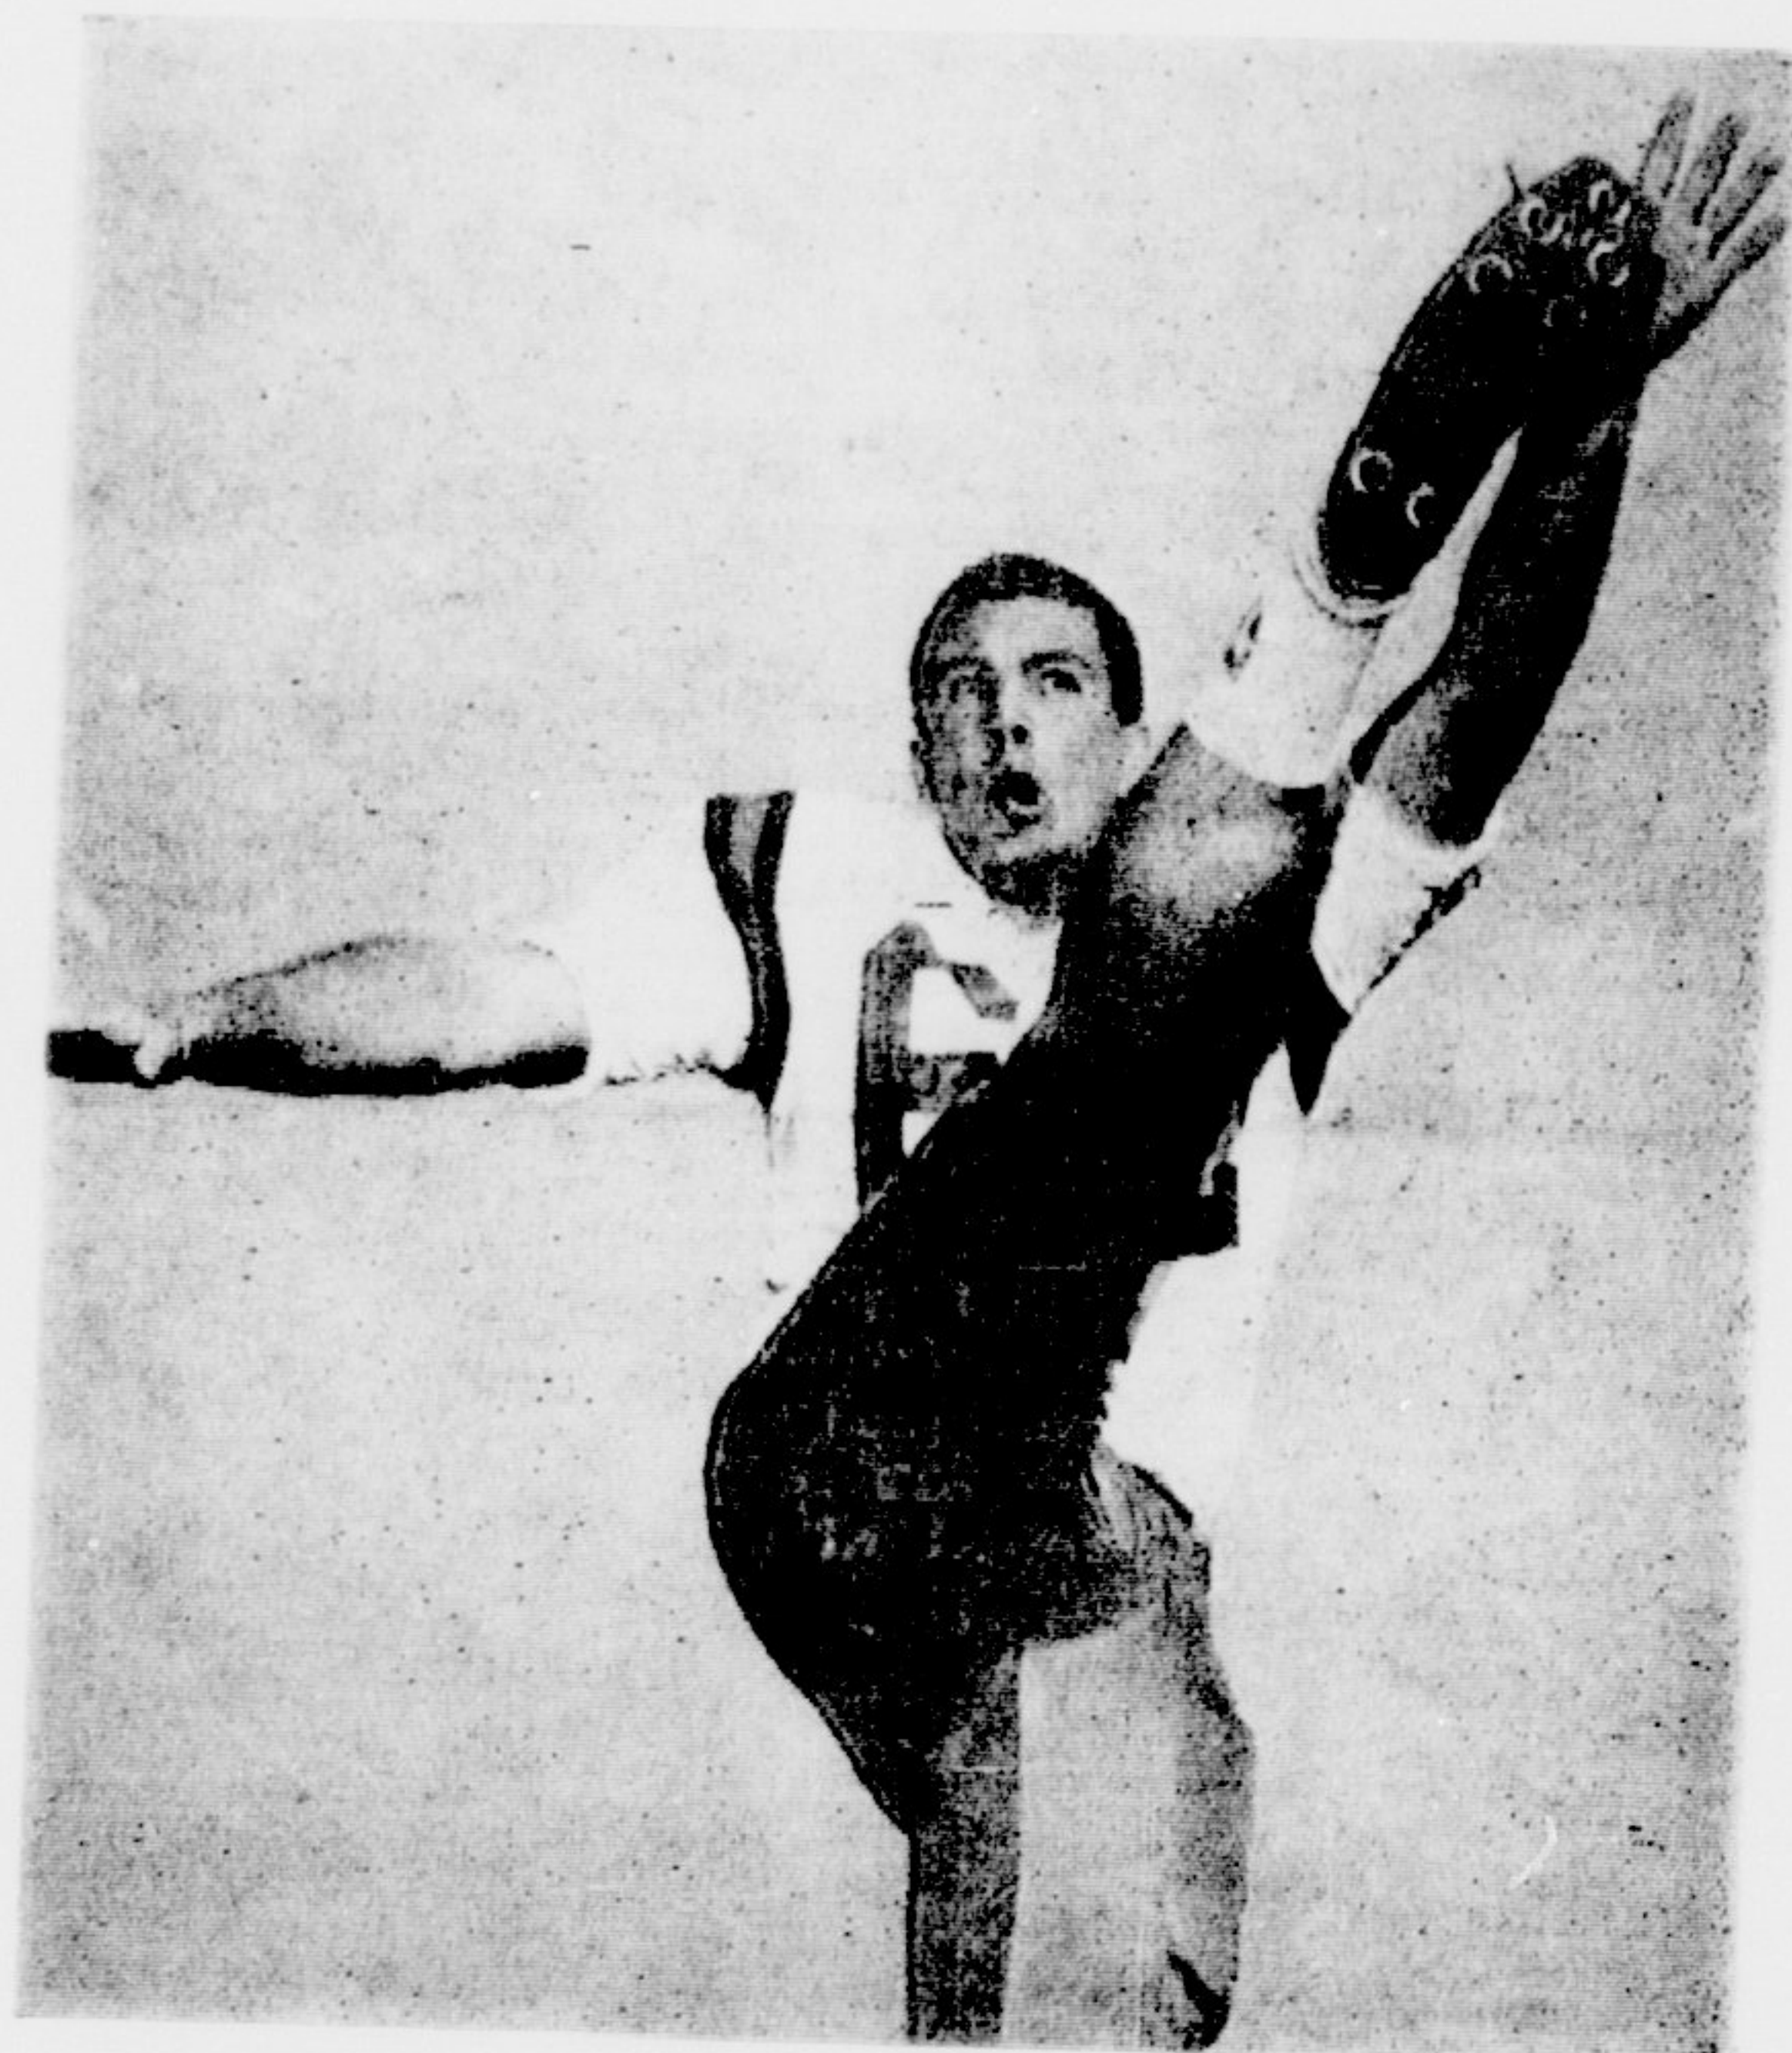

Harriers Prepare For Eighth Win

Coach Berryhill and his cross-country team will travel to Furman University for the Southern Conference Cross-Country Championships on Nov. 12. The Pirates currently have a seven and two record going into the championships. With one meet remaining against the Baptist College.

Don Jayroe will spell trouble for all of the schools. Jayroe is one of the leading contenders for the cross-country title. He has broken three course records this year and will be shooting for another one at the Southern Conference Championships. Charlie Hudson, school record holder in the mile and Terry Taylor will also provide stiff competition for some of the higher places.

Coach Berryhill predicts at least a second or third place finish and with the determination and fortitude of these boys they could pull a boner and walk away with the title.

John Osborne, Mike Smith, and Dick Roth, leaders of last years freshman team have come into their own this year. With another years experience the Southern Conference Schools had better watch out. Good luck Boys!

NELSON GRAVATT

... leads interference for Pirates ...

MRC And East Carolinian Athlete Of The Week

Gravatt Shows Leadership

The Men's Residence Council and the sports staff of the East Carolinian are proud to name Nelson Gravatt as our athlete of the week. Nelson is the starting blocking back of Stasavich's single wing machine. In case you don't know, the blocking back is responsible for calling plays as the quarterback would on a T-formation. He also leads interference for the running backs.

Coach Stasavich praises Nelson because he is a team leader and is a real hustler. Nelson is 6 feet tall and weighs 190 pounds. He is a junior math major.

Aside from playing football Nelson is an active member of the East Carolina Chapter of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. He serves in the capacity of Program Chairman.

He is a native of Summersville, Virginia and is the son of a minister. The MRC and East Carolinian again congratulate Nelson Gravatt as the Athlete of the Week.
