Consultants Review EC Status

The Board of Higher Education is sending a group of out of state consultants to East Carolina Monday for the purpose of describing and obtaining a report on East Carolina's educational standing. The Board of Higher Education sends the group after a recent request made to the Board by East Carolina's trustees.

During their four day stay in Greenville, the consultants will approach their evaluation of East Carolina on the basis of its curriculum, extra-curricular activities, student body status and its place in the academic community. As the observation report will be comprehensive in its description of East Carolina, it will probably not be released by the consulting group until early February.

When consultants arrive Monday, they will be greeted by East Carolina President Leo W. Jenkins and the Administrative Council. Later they will attend a luncheon with the Academic Council.

Monday afternoon consultants will have an opportunity to meet the Graduate Council, the President's Advisory Council and Student Government officers and key student leaders.

Highlighting Tuesday's events will be a luncheon meeting of the consultants with the officers and Executive Committee, AAUP. Later they will meet with and observe student officers of the Departmental Honor Societies, the Faculty Senate, and EC's Honors Programs.

Before leaving East Carolina Thursday morning, consultants will have a final interview with President Jenkins.

'MARAT-SADE' THIS WEEK

... stars Michael Lombard ... 'If successful it should shock, amuse, entertain, disgust, enrage, and stimulate the audience.'

Italian Concert Set For Tuesday

The Orchestra Michelangelo di Firenze will give a concert at East Carolina College, Tuesday, December 13, at 8:15 p.m. in Wright Auditorium. Tickets are available in the Central Ticket Office.

The Orchestra Michelangelo di Firenze is an outgrowth of the string quartet, the Societa Cameristica Italiana. The group assumed the name of one of the greatest Florentines of all time because he was identified with the Renaissance glory of their city and because he was uncompromising in his artistic ideals.

The originators of the seventeen piece Orchestra Michelangelo Pogioni, viola, and Italo Gomez, violoncello, received wide acclaim throughout Western and Central Europe, from Madrid to Vienna, and in South America when traveling as a quartet. They are now receiving similar acclaim with their new orchestra.

Presently they are playing on the West Coast and most Western newspapers stated that it is one of the finest orchestras that Europe has made available for an American tour in a long time. East Carolina College is indeed honored to have the Orchestra Michelangelo di Firenze here for a concert and as their guests for a reception in Umstead Hall following the concert. All students, faculty, staff members, and the public are cordially invited to attend.

Bold And Brazen 'Marat-Sade' Intrigues New York's Lombard

If you're wondering how "Marat-Sade" happens to be enduring a four night run in McGinnis Auditorium, Playhouse Director Ed Loessin has all the answers.

ed New York actor Michael Lombard. Local students and faculty members make up the rest of the cast.

The drama is "The Persecution and Assassination of Marat as Performed by the Inmates of the Asylum of Charenton under the Direction of the Marquis de Sade."

Written by Peter Weiss, "Marat-Sade" (the easier remembered name), recently closed a record breaking run at the Martin Beck Theater in New York City. The most talked about drama of the year, The EC Playhouse is one of the first amateur groups in the country to stage the show.

Michael Lombard

"The East Carolina Playhouse must be exceptional if the rest of its productions are as good as Marat-Sade," commented Michael Lombard, New York guest star for the controversial Marat-Sade production which opened here last night.

Lombard states that he has worked with several productions on other campuses in the past. "They 'I saw it in New York,' he explained. 'Maybe I disagreed with the play but I was thrilled by it. Marat-Sade offers very challenging acting problems ... there are no small parts."

Loessin has been known frequently for his outstanding qualities of originality and perception.

"It's the most - significant play we've produced to date," he said. "If successful it should shock, amuse, entertain, disgust, enrage, stimulate and amuse the audience."

"It's definitely the boldest play ever seen on campus ... the most original theatrical production we've ever done."

Cast members for the controversial production are headed by talented actors who were not nearly so good as "Marat-Sade," he explained. "But then East Carolina has the advantage of instructors with professional backgrounds."

Before coming to campus to star in the Marat Sade production, Lombard was with the New York City Center Theater where he starred with Judith Anderson in "Elizabeth the Queen." Before that he appeared on the "Jackie Gleason Show" in Miami.

What are his plans after he finishes Marat Sade? "After leaving here I go to Houston, Texas," he said. "There I'll play in 'Man for All Seasons' with Charlton Heston."

Judicial Branches Need Oaths; SGA Reprimands Cheerleaders

By DOYLE PERDUE
SGA Staff Writer

A motion to strike the words "to the Almighty God" from the University Party Constitution was introduced in Monday's Student Legislature meeting. The motion was introduced by Jim Kimsey, but it was voted down by the Legislators. Bill Deal, U. P. Chairman, asked that the phrase remain in the Constitution, and the Legislature passed a measure to that effect.

The Legislature also made changes in the SGA Constitution, and approved the budget of the School of Music.

Jim Kimsey, reporting for the Rules Committee and moved to establish a system of administering oaths of office to the branches of the student government. Kimsey said that he had talked to Dean Mallory about the subject, and that there was a great need to form a system of oaths. None of the decisions made by the Judiciary and Honor Council, according to Kimsey, were legal because neither court had been sworn into office. The motion was passed and will be submitted to the student body.

Mr. Kimsey moved that the section of By-law 3 providing for the salary of the teller in the Student Bank during the summer be deleted from the Constitution. The SGA has no responsibility toward the Student Bank; there is no provision for the maintenance of the Student Bank in the Constitution. The motion was approved by the Legislature.

Kimsey moved that Art. 1, Sec. 4, I be deleted from the Constitution. Art. 1, Sec. 4, I states "to determine the composition and functions of the Summer SGA". Kimsey's reason for the deletion was that the regular term SGA and the summer school SGA were independent of each other.

Kimsey said that the summer school SGA uses no funds that belong to the regular term SGA, but the regular term SGA uses all left over funds of the summer SGA. The motion was passed.

In the way of new business, Steve Moore, Treasurer, presented a budget request from the School of Music. The request was made to cover the cost of attending the Southern Division Convention of Music Educators later on this year at which the Concert Choir, the Symphonic Band, and the Percussion Ensemble will represent EC. The budget, in the amount of $6,000, was approved.

School Of Music Prepares Felix Mendelssohn's Elijah

By SARAH WHITE

East Carolina's School of Music is now in the midst of preparations for its choral presentation of Felix Mendelssohn's Elijah to be given next Sunday, December 11, in Wright Auditorium at 3:00 p.m. The program will be conducted by Charles W. Moore of the School of Music.

The oratorio will be divided into two parts. Part I of Elijah will begin with Elijah's curse of the people of Israel because of their worship of Baal. This first part continues through the people's repentance of their sins and the return to the worship of God. Part II continues with Israel's repentance. Queen Jezebel interrupts this quiet mood by ordering her followers to slay Elijah. Elijah is warned by an angel to flee. He goes to Mount Sinai, where God appears and takes Elijah to heaven in a fiery chariot.

The cast for Elijah will be: Elijah, Mr. Clyde Hiss; Angel (soprano), Phyllis Corbett, Betsy Phifer; Angel (alto), Sylvia Bradley, Pean-ne Smith; Obadiah, Bob Chambers; The Widow, Beth Bell, Judy Hoell; Ahab, David Traynham; The Youth, Jane Birmingham, Elsie Moore. Understudies for Elijah will be Johnny Goforth and Michael Pittard. Mr. Paul Aliapoulos is assisting in choral preparations.

The oratorio Elijah was written for a music festival in Birmingham, England, on August 26, 1846. Felix Mendelssohn, composer of Elijah, directed this first performance himself.

Fair Warning !!!

It has come to the attention of the EAST CAROLINIAN that several students on this campus are in the process of getting themselves into serious trouble. Students appear to be committing an Honor Council offense that could easily get them suspended from college.

If you've had the unpleasant experience of depositing your books on a nearby shelf in order to go into the Student Supply Store, you undoubtedly know what we are referring to—namely that your books are vanishing into thin air.

Stealing books may not impress those of you who are taking them as a matter of great importance. However, if someone steals your books tomorrow while you're buying a pencil in the book store, what will your reaction be? Could you easily fork out the money to replace those books . . . books that cost ten to twenty dollars?

During this past week more than thirty instances of book thefts have been reported to College Union officials . . . not to mention the complaints made to the manager of the Student Supply Store. Five cases involving individuals who stole books have already come before the Honor Council.

A seemingly small problem of students taking books that do not belong to them has already reached the dilemma stage. Administrative officials and the Student Government Association are already conferring with representatives of the Book Barn and the Student Supply Store in order to find an immediate solution to the problem and expose the book lifters.

Dean of Men James Mallory and SGA President Steve Snitman stated early today that all students who are caught taking or selling books that do not belong to them can be ready to take due punishment accordingly.

Taking possessions that belong to a fellow student is stealing no matter how you view the problem. And students who take books, clothing or information from another student's test paper can have no respect for their college and even less for themselves.

The majority of students who attend East Carolina College are a credit to this institution. But those who infringe upon the rights of other students serve no valid purpose here or to society anywhere.

The Administration and the Student Government Association is giving fair warning to everyone. We urge those of you who are the instigators of this problem to take fair warning.

Theft is an honor council offense no matter how inexpensive the article taken or the book. Suspension from college is the final punishment.

Roly-Poly's Education . . .

(Guest editorial from The Greensboro Daily News)

Having done battle for years with creeping avoirdupois, we take profound umbrage at the news that fat kids have more trouble than skinny kids with getting into college.

According to a survey by the Harvard School of Public Health a bright girl who happens to be chubby has one-third less chance of admission than her bright classmate who happens to be slim — and the fat boys don't fare much better.

The trouble is, it seems, that when fatso rolls into the admissions office, the interviewer pays less attention to his 180 IQ and his comprehensive study of cocker spaniel mating habits than to the way he droops over the sides of his chair, the way his chins jiggle as he talks about T. S. Elliot.

Presumably, that pencil busily scratching away on those mysterious forms is writing something like: "Seems intelligent, but couldn't tell how many people he was." The result is that the letter he gets in April begins: "It was good to visit with you last fall, but regret to inform you that . . ."

There is, of course, a certain variety of fat kid that usually gets in. His blubber runs to 250-275 pounds, and often is distributed over a 6-5 frame; the admissions office often finds it's just the right size for that extra pair of shoulder pads and that gigantic jersey.

But for just plain old Roland Roly-Poly, or Wilhelmina the Whale, the gates to knowledge are closed tight.

What can the fat people do? Well, they could diet, but that would be surrender.

Or, they could fight back. They could throw their weight around, and demand that education, employment and entertainment not be denied on grounds of race, religion, color or girth. They could organize TAFT (Tubby Americans for Tolerance) to press their cause.

The larger the minority, after all, the more potent it is politically. The nation would be theirs overnight.

Liberal Arts At EC

By Frisby Hendricks

Last week while tripping over gum balls in the halls of the cafeteria, we came upon a large sign with the word "Convocation" in large black letters. With anticipation and excitement, we walked up to the sign hoping to read about East Carolina's first realistic academic convocation. To our disappointment, the words at the bottom of the poster were "for all girls interested in rush".

Within the last three years that we have resided at East Carolina we have seen tremendous strides made toward EC's quest for a true liberal arts school. Dr. Jenkins and the administration have divided the various departments into schools and some individual departments into schools. Recently, EC has acquired her first Dean of the School of Arts and Sciences. Happily, there are more students attempting to earn an A.B. and there is less emphasis on teacher education as compared to the past.

However, all of these improvements are abstract. We would at this time humbly submit before the student body a few tangible concepts of emphasizing the liberal arts at East Carolina.

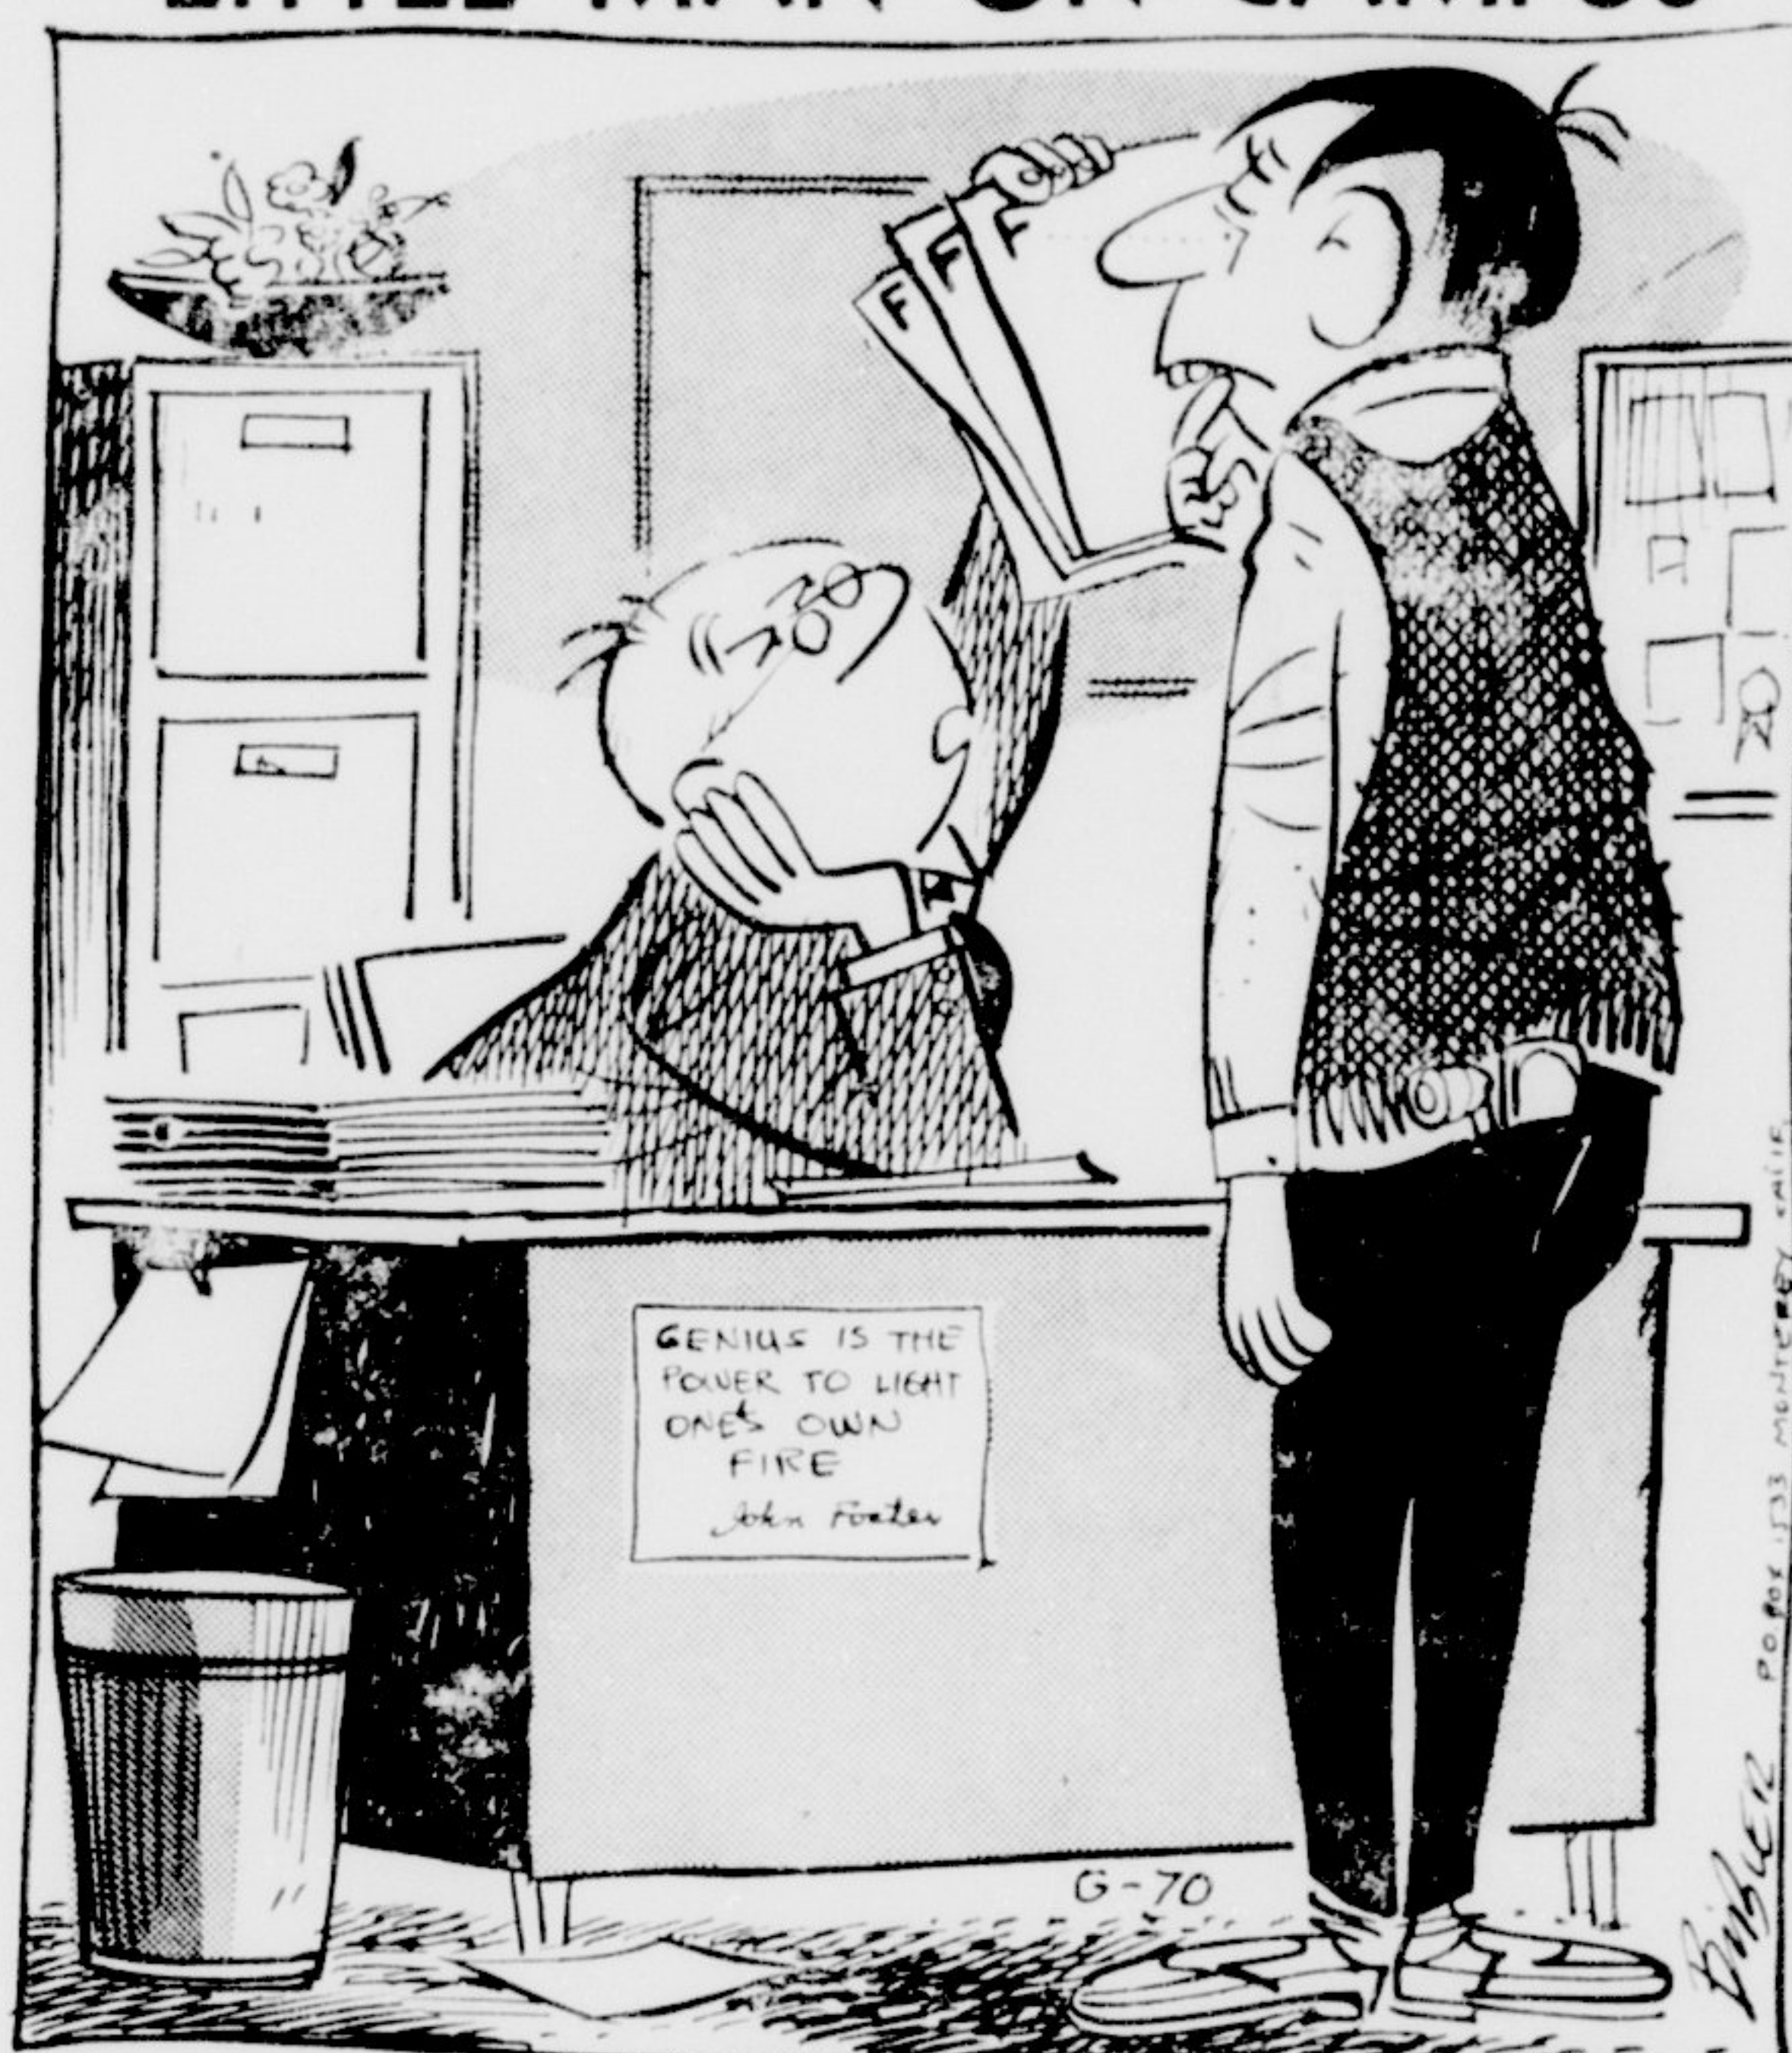

We dare state that there are very few students who have seen a true academic convocation. In an Ivy League college, a convocation is one of the highlights of the season. The various colors and tones of academic robes placed amidst the green grass, fall foliage, and blue sky is indeed an unforgettable scene that enriches a collegiate year. Compare this with the unceremonious shuffling, pushing crowd of students who attend the EC School of Business and Education convocations at EC.

Also contrast the Ivy League convocation to the disappointing departmental meetings that occur occasionally once a year or some departmental meetings that have never convened.

The spirit committee of EC has done a tremendous job in attaining a Great Dane and a cannon for athletic contests. Why can we not continue this interest in academics? Are we too young to obtain a mace or to begin traditional academic programs such as seminars, faculty-student panels, and true conferences?

The administration has begun the process of presenting a dishonest liberal arts college to the East. It is now the responsibility of the Student Government and the individual student to demonstrate that he wants to have the image continue, rather than to have an image of a "glorified high school" or a "teacher's training school" presented.

Letters To The Editor

MODEL UN

Letter to the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to extend my personal thanks to all who aided in the execution of the Security Council on Saturday. All the guest delegates were very much impressed by the press coverage given by THE EAST CAROLINIAN, THE BUCCANEER, and WECC Radio.

To Dr. Faye Carroll and Dr. Jung Gun Kim also go a special note of thanks. Their constant and untiring efforts in advising the delegates were invaluable to the success of the debate.

My personal appreciations are extended to Mr. Royal Soward and Mr. Charles Scoggin of the ECC Drill Team who served as Honor Guards and Presidential aides.

I would like to thank Lambda Chi Alpha and Kappa Sigma for the auditorium arrangements.

Last but not least, the gratitude of the entire assembly goes to the Alpha Delta Pi Sorority. Their work as pages was an immense help to the delegates in the matter of communications, and their presence gave an air of dignity to the Council itself. Appreciation is also extended to the AD Pi's who prepared the luncheon.

If there were any doubts about the capability of East Carolina to host the 1967 Model General Assembly, I sincerely believe that they are now gone. We have only success to look forward to in April.

SULTAN & VIET-NAM

Dear Editor:

Concerning the article 'Draft: Choice or Force' by Mr. Sultan in the December 1 issue I cannot help but feel he has divorced a very important factor from his expostulation — the people of the United States are not separate from the government but the same. When one declares the government of the United States is fighting in Vietnam; the government is drafting — one tends to think of the government as something other than the people, something other than the democracy. The draft is an instrument. We automatically accept it when we pledge allegiance to the flag and when we choose to become a part of that government.

Also I do not consider the War in Vietnam as the "Vietnamese Conflict", but much more selfishly as the American Conflict, and much more broadly as the conflict of all free men. If the Communist threat is not met in Vietnam it brings it only a step closer to the hearth of our own freedom. The United States government is not "forcing American men to fight for Vietnamese freedom" . . . but the government is drafting men (who are a part of the government and therefore supposedly dedicated to guarding the welfare of same) to keep the threat of Communism from coming any closer.

Sincerely,
M. Bijus

MORE ABOUT SULTAN

Dear Editor:

In reply to the column of John Sultan in the December 1, 1966 edition of the East Carolinian, I do not believe Mr. Sultan is being (sic) in view of his recent statements concerning the draft. The very thoughtful (sic) or practical position of leadership in the free world that the United States occupies demands that she be strong militarily. This fact should be obvious to all. Certainly if choice were allowed some men would choose to serve in the armed forces, but this number would not be enough to fulfill the obligations of the United States. Therefore some means of raising an army is necessary and the draft is it. Our constitution permit (sic) the raising of an army, and the draft has been upheld by the Supreme Court. I see no terrible injustices in this.

Mr. Sultan mentioned something about the ends justifying the means. In this case I sincerely believe they do. I feel very sorry for anyone who thinks freedom is not worth fighting for. If no one did, we would not have to worry about freedom of choice for there would be no choices. Sometimes it is necessary to put practical evaluations ahead of idealistic ones.

Finally, concerning the justification of the United States being in Viet Nam, I believe the Communists have done that for us.

Sincerely,

George W. Parsons

BUSINESS RELATIONS

Dear Editor:

I applaud the efforts of the SGA to establish better relations with the Greenville business community referred to in the Nov. 10 issue of the East Carolinian.

However, I would like to correct a statement attributed to be that "of the $997,000 ECC students spend every year only $199,000 is spent in Greenville". The facts are as follows.

1. To date only the clothing expenditures of ECC students have been surveyed.

2. Results of the survey indicated that male students spent $993,000 on clothing in the 1964-65 school year with $199,000 of that amount spent in Greenville.

3. An unpublished survey of female students clothing expenditures indicates an expenditure on clothing of $1,174,000 with $511,000 spent in Greenville.

Sincerely yours,

Donald C. Roche
Assoc. Prof. of Econ.
School of Business

What's really "in" the sphere of fashion this year? Mini skirts, pants-suits, suit-coat ensembles and the London "little boy" look having been competing for the covers of Harper's Bazaar, Vogue and Elle. The British designers have dominated the campus fashions this year with a lot of the Carnaby-Piccadilly look. "In" accessories include textured hose, slingback heels and shoulder strap bags.

Casual dress for campus wear features the short-short skirt-matched or mixed with round collared blouses and imported wool sweaters with a tiny cable stitch. Textured hose with little slingback heels or tasseled flats complete the outfit.

The sportswear scene has experienced a change with the entrance of the pants-suit. This fashion, modeled after men's suits in either double or single breasted styles, comes in a variety of materials — tweeds, herringbones and corduroy are all popular.

After five and formal wear are predominated by skinny sheaths and A-line gowns of metallic materials accented by lots of shiny beads, sequins, pearls or rhinestones. Also seen this year will be an empire type modification of the flowing Grecian style popular last winter. Hose, shoes and other accessories for the evening-on-the-town are aglitter this year with sequins or pearls or are of silver or gold nile. Rag wear this year has taken on a new fur. Mummy's mink has been tossed aside for new hybrid wraps of mixed furs. Now we have mink with rabbit trim or long-haired bunny of white and brown stripes. For duck days, we now have see-through vinyl coats to go over our Carnaby-Piccadilly dresses. And then again, mademoiselles, there are still flower printed blouses and navy blue skirts around good ole Greenville.

The Day It Finally Happened

(Strictly For The Birds)

By MARCY JORDAN
Features Writer

On each end of the pews hung cowboy spurs which jangled pleasantly whenever a breeze passed in through the half-opened windows. The jangle accompanied the organist in a solemn rendition of "It HAD to be you."

The bride's younger sister and her family were sitting on the bride's side — mother, father, and ten little girls. Mother, clutching a first-aid kit in case anyone fainted, pooh-poohed to her husband, "I wish the Pope would hurry up and make a decision on birth control." He smiled lovingly at her and replied, "Don't worry, darling, we'll make it through college someday."

On the groom's side of the church were Jackie, Bobby, Ted, President Reagan, Vice-President Dirksen, Richard Burton and his wife, Liz and her husband, and Frank, Mia, and the triplets.

As the guests of the bride and groom eyed each other askance (except for Liz, who winked in turn at each male guest on the bride's side), the groom's mother (of whom he is the sole financial support) was ushered to the front pew. She is a strikingly attractive woman possibly due to her slender neck (heavily laden with diamonds) or her soft shoulder (draped with a mammoth mink).

After the groom's mother was seated, the bride's mother tripped in, joyously crying, "It's about time, it's about time . . ." She wore her favorite hat, a wide-brimmed straw, covered with a green felt map of America and dotted with bright felt flowers — the symbolic reminder of an agrarian past.

Next entered the minister, the groom (spray-painted in Mafia black), and the best man — General Hershey. They were followed by the bridesmaids, who were wearing yellow mini-skirts.

The minister, the groom, and the best man were all gazing raptly at the legs of the bridesmaids when — lo! — here comes the bride wearing an empire style wedding gown. She looked absolutely stunning and stunned, and kept repeating, "Ah don't believe it, ah don't believe it . . ."

She floated up the aisle accompanied by her proud father who was carrying a walking cane and wearing a ten-gallon hat. He stopped to kiss a baby on the groom's side, then whispered to the bride, "I just couldn't resist it."

The bride and groom came together at the altar, and a hush fell as the moving ceremony began.

The minister asked the bride, "Do you take this man to be your lawful wedded husband?"

"Ah do."

"Do you take this woman to be your lawful wedded wife?"

He choked, "I do," to which the bride promptly added, "You better!"

When the ceremony was finished, the bride leaned over and tenderly kissed the groom, then they happily departed the church to the tender strains of "Home On the Range."

Outside the church a newspaper reporter approached the newlyweds and asked the groom, if he had any comments.

"Well," he sighed, "it was better than checking 'homosexual' on the entrance forms."

The reporter leaned over and asked the bride, "Would you like to make a statement?"

"Ah owe it all to Max Factor!" she beamed.

Student Displays Senior Art Axhibit

An art exhibit by East Carolina student Nancy Carolyn Perry of Durham was open to the public Sunday, Nov. 6, through Saturday, Nov. 12, at the college.

Miss Perry's show was on view in the Kate Lewis Gallery on the third floor of Rawl Building. It contained chiefly examples of the artist's work in interior design, but also has some pen and ink drawings, woodblock prints, plaster sculpture and jewelry.

Miss Perry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O. Perry of 1502 Washington St., Durham, is a 1962 graduate of Durham High School. Before coming to East Carolina College in 1964, she attended High Point College where she was a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority.

At ECC she is working toward a BS degree in Art Education with interior design as her major area of study. She is a member of the National Society for Interior Design and Delta Phi Delta Art honorary fraternity.

Miss Perry plans to graduate from the School of Art next February after student teaching next quarter in Raleigh. She plans to pursue a teaching career in the field of art or a professional career in interior design.

Nursing Program Receives Grant

East Carolina has been awarded a grant to help registered nurses work toward a bachelor of science degree in nursing.

The $9,214 grant, awarded by the U. S. Public Health Service, will provide travel costs, tuition, stipends and dependency allowances for participating nurses.

The first year of the program, 1966-67, is planned for three participants. It is expected that they will come from North Carolina, though applications will be accepted from any state. Applicants must be registered nurses.

Dean Eva Warren of the School of Nursing will direct the traineeship program. All inquiries regarding the program should be addressed to her.

Mrs. Warren, working with Dr. James L. White, coordinator of special projects at East Carolina, drafted the proposal which brought the program to ECC. Support for the grant has been recommended for the next two years, 1967-69, notes Mrs. Warren.

According to the dean, the grant makes it possible for more nurses to obtain the necessary preparation to alleviate the critical shortage in qualified leaders in nursing.

Elementary Students Receive Art Course

An Art course for elementary students in the 3rd through 6th grade is being offered at ECC.

The materials for the course are all furnished and the classes meet on Tuesday and Thursdays.

Interested parents should contact the Art department today to

Phi Delta Kappas Attend Banquet

The East Carolina chapter of Phi Delta Kappa professional education fraternity entertained their wives Monday night at a banquet in the Buccaneer Room of the campus cafeteria.

Edward P. Blair, principal of West Havelock Elementary School, was the after-dinner speaker. He discussed the significance of the Christmas season.

About 200 members of Phi Delta Kappa and their guests attended the Ladies Night program. Chapter President Ed N. Warren, principal of Ayden High School, was toastmaster.

Three seniors in the ECC School of Music provided musical entertainment for the meeting. Lucy Williams McIntyre of Rockingham and William Kelley Alexander of Washington, D. C., sang Christmas carols and other numbers. They were accompanied at the piano by another School of Music student, Mary Claire Rosser of Whitakers.

IT'S ALL GREEK

ALPHA XI DELTA

The Alpha Xis are glad to have Miss Carolyn Smith, Epsilon Province President, visiting them for a few days. She is also a secretary in the general manager's office for TVA. She brought new ideas and suggestions to make a more successful sorority.

KAPPA DELTA

Gamma Sigma Chapter of Kappa Delta initiated six new sisters on November 15. They are Mary Leslie Ambrose, Waldorf, Maryland; Scarlett Ann Dark, Bear Creek, N. C.; Mary Anne Edwards, Polkton, N. C.; Carol Lewis, Burlington, N. C.; Dedi O'Brian, Durham, N. C.; Joan White, Siler City, N. C.

Three pledge awards were given the night of initiation. The Scrapbook Award was given to Judith Yancey. Both the Scholarship Award and the Outstanding Pledge Award were given to Mary Anne Edwards.

Sisters Anne Daniels and Pat Davis graduated last Quarter. Anne was recently chosen to appear in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

SIGMA SIGMA SIGMA

Newly initiated members are: Nancy Harrington, Greenville; Pam Luper, Rocky Mount, N. C.; Arleen Murphy, Kinston, N. C.; Doris Phillips, Greenville; Sally Poindexter, Abernethy, N. C.; Pam Smith Charlotteville, Va.; Linda Thomas, Norfolk, Va.; Mary Wilson Winborne, Portsmouth, Va.; Patsy Womble, Durham, N. C.

The Tri-Sigas are anticipating a most successful winter quarter. Fall quarter brought to the Sigmas second-runner up to Homecoming Queen, Lisa Green; second-runner up to Buccaneer Queen, Janet Farmer; PIKA Dream Girl, Carolina Riddle; and "Miss Cheerleader", Sherry Robertson. Brenda Bullock, also a Sigma, was chosen to be a cheerleader.

The Sigmas are looking forward to meeting and making many friends during formal rush and wish the best of luck to all girls going through.

ALPHA PHI

The Alpha Phi Sorority was hostess to their Field Secretary, Miss Sally Weist, for 5 days. Miss Weist visits every Alpha Phi chapter. Sally brought new ideas and suggestions for many facets of Alpha Phi functions from other chapters. The Alpha Phi's hope to have her visiting with them again during Formal Rush.

The Alpha Phi's, through competition during fall quarter, won the Sorority Volleyball Championships. Also, in the EC Girl's Track Meet, Alpha Phi won in both the sorority and overall point accumulations.

THETA CHI

Theta Chi's had a very successful Fall Rush, the biggest since the chapter was founded in 1958.

New pledges in Alpha Delta Pledge class are: Bill Bulter, Paul Shannon, Eric Overcash, Phil Good-

Epsilon Iota is also very proud of the 1966 All Sing Trophy. A folk singing group made up of Scrappy Procter, Dickie Atkinson, Bill Deal, and Bill Bulter captured the title for the fraternity division this year.

PHI BETA LAMBDA

Phi Beta Lambda is having its December meeting on December 7 at 5 o'clock in Room 132, Rawl Building. There will be a field trip in the afternoon of the same day to Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner, and Smith Inc. in Wilson, North Carolina.

Psychology Fraternity Gets National Charter

The psychology department at East Carolina has announced that the official installation of the local chapter of Psi Chi national honor society in psychology will be held tonight.

The East Carolina chapter will become the fifth in North Carolina. Others are at Duke University, North Carolina College, and University of North Carolina campuses at Chapel Hill and Greensboro. At East Carolina the installation of six faculty members and 22 students is scheduled in Room 129 of the Education-Psychology Building at 7 p.m.

Dr. William F. Grossnickle and Dr. Charles C. Mitchell, members of the psychology faculty and advisers of the local Psi Chi chapter, will conduct the installation.

Special guest speaker at the installation will be Dr. Leo Jenkins, president of the college.

Faculty members in addition to Drs. Grossnickle and Mitchell who are already members of Psi Chi are Dr. Thomas E. Long and Dr. Donald W. Zimmerman.

The six faculty members who will be initiated are Graham J. Burkheimer, Calvert R. Dixon, Dr. Leighton E. Harrell Jr., Dr. Charles T. Martocchia, Dr. Clinton R. Prewett and Franklin J. Sadlack.

Student officers of the local chapter are Fernand A. Landry of Charlotte, N. C., president; Robert Daniel Cowley of Hampton, Va., vice president; and Martha Stephens Montgomery of Durham, secretary-treasurer.

An affiliate of the American Psychological Association and the Association of American Honor Societies, Psi has 200 chapters across the nation.

Among the purposes of Psi Chi are the recognition of scholastic achievement and the advancement of interest in psychology. Membership is open to psychology majors and minors who have at least 12 quarter hours in psychology, a B average in psychology and are in the top 35 per cent of their class.

Student initiates of the ECC Psi Chi chapter include the following:

Stephen Andrew Bundy Jr.; Michael Chisman Bailey; Thomas Shelton Edwards; Martha Stephens Montgomery; William Stewart Teer; Judy Elizabeth Savin; Charlie Gordon Laub; Lynda Kay Martin; Fred Lee Mozingo; Linda Elaine Dodds; Mary Carolyn Barnes; Liston Gerald Edwards; John Walter Betts; Vivian Mae Derrickson; Paul Wright Killian Jr.; Daniel Frank Miller; Jay Robert Steinberg; Karen Allyson Webster; Katherine Anne Laing; Robert Daniel Cowley; Iva Elizabeth Armstrong; Fernand A. ## EC Yuletide Greeting Broadcast Nationwide

A special Christmas greeting radio broadcast prepared by East Carolina for ABC radio will be aired nationwide three days before Christmas.

An official of the national network told EC President Leo W. Jenkins that the East Carolina program will be broadcast by the ABC national network.

The program includes words of Christmas greetings from Governor Dan K. Moore on behalf of North Carolina and from President Jenkins on behalf of the college.

It also includes Christmas music by ensembles in the EC School of Music.

ABC will send the program to its 425 affiliates throughout the nation for broadcast at 8:30 p.m. (EST) on Thursday, Dec. 22.

In North Carolina the broadcast will be offered to about 20 ABC affiliates. They include:

Faculty Notes

Tyson - May Speaker

Dr. James W. Butler of the East Carolina public relations department was the speaker to the 1966 Tyson-May Reunion in Farmville recently.

He paid tribute to the founding fathers of the nation, citing Matthias Tyson and Major Benjamin May as among those early patriots who "built upon principles of religious freedom, honorable public service and sound education for good government." The reunion was held in the Major Benjamin May Chapter (D. A. R.) House in Farmville.

Foreign Scholar List

Dr. L. P. Brewster, member of the East Carolina history faculty and the faculty Fulbright advisor, has a list of over 100 foreign scholars who are available for lectures at various institutions.

Persons interested in obtaining any of these lecturers can consult Dr. Brewster in 235 New Austin Building.

Everhart Joins Faculty

A Spartanburg, S. C., native, Mrs. Frances Burnett Everhart, has joined the library science faculty of East Carolina College.

Mrs. Everhart, a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, resigned a teaching and librarian post at Baptist College in Charleston, S. C., to begin her duties here last week.

She will be working with Gene D. Lanier, chairman of the EC department of library science.

Faculty Recital Tonight

Clyde S. Hiss, faculty baritone soloist of the School of Music at East Carolina College, gave a recital Thursday, Dec. 1, at 8:15 p.m. in the Recital Hall of the new music building.

Selections by Schubert and Poulenc were featured on the program.

Hiss's recital was the first in the New Music Building, located on Tenth Street east of Memorial Gymnasium.

Scholarly Papers

The chairman of the East Carolina College history department, Dr. Herbert R. Paschal, and a professor of English at the college, Dr. Ralph Hardee Rives, were in Winston-Salem Friday, Dec. 2, to present papers at the annual meeting of the North Carolina Literary and Historical Association.

Dr. Paschal reviewed "North Carolina Non-Fiction by North Carolina Authors in the Past Year." Dr. Rives presented his paper on "North Carolina Fiction by North Carolina Authors in the Past Year." Rives also serves the association's committee to select the recipient of the Sir Walter Raleigh Award.

Attend National Meet

The dean of the Graduate School at East Carolina College, Dr. John O. Reynolds, attended the annual meeting of the Council of Graduate Schools in the United States at Denver, Colo., Thursday through Saturday, Dec. 1-3. Dr. Reynolds observed panel discussions concerning the major issues in graduate education today. The Council is composed of some 240 universities and colleges in the United States which offer advanced degrees.

AFROTC Faculty

Lt. Col. Douglas F. Carty, chairman of the aerospace studies department at East Carolina College, has announced the promotion of SSgt. Grover M. Thomas to the rank of technical sergeant.

Sgt. Thomas has been a staff member of the Air Force ROTC detachment at EC since February of 1964. His specialty is in the field of personnel and in the department of aerospace studies he maintains files and records and prepares reports on the AFROTC cadets.

Any Person Wishing To Submit A Nomination of Faculty Members For BUCCANEER CITATIONS Should Turn Them In To The Business Manager of The Yearbook Before Friday, Dec. 11, 5:00 P.M.

Emory University Prof Lectures For MAA

The Mathematical Association of America, with the financial support of the National Science Foundation, is sponsoring a visit of Dr. Trevor Evans, Chairman of the Mathematics Department at Emory University to East Carolina College on Wednesday December 14.

This visit, part of a nationwide lectureship program, has a three-fold purpose. It will strengthen and stimulate the mathematics programs of colleges and universities, provide the mathematics staff and mathematics majors with an opportunity for personal contacts with productive and creative mathematicians and aid in the motivation of able college students to consider careers in mathematics and the teaching of mathematics.

Dr. Trevor Evans received the D.Sc. from Oxford in 1959. He has taught at Manchester University and the University of Wisconsin, and has been a member of the Institute for Advanced Study and a Research Associate, University of Chicago.

A member of the Emory University faculty since 1951, Evans spent 1959-1960 as a Visiting Professor at the University of Nebraska. His specialties are the structure of nonassociative systems and decision problems in algebraic systems.

Some of Dr. Evans' lectures will be open to the public, notably "Recent Work in the Foundations of Geometry (Finite Geometry)" — for faculty and graduate students, on December 14 at 4:00 P.M. in NA-132; "Sets, Logic and Switching Circuits" — for undergraduates, on December 14 at 7:30 P.M. in Old Austin Auditorium.

Dr. and Mrs. Tullio J. Pignani will hold an open house to honor Dr. Evans at 1102 Drexel Lane from about 9:00 P.M. to 11:00 P.M.

Special appointments may be arranged through Dr. Tullio J. Pignani, Chairman and Professor, Mathematics Department, East Carolina College.

George E. Blow Wins $100 Prize

A sophomore in the East Carolina School of Art, George Elliott Blow of Kinston, has won the Best in the Show Award of the second annual Festival of Art at Rocky Mount.

Blow, a native of New Bern and a former resident of Keyport, N. J., won the $100 purchase prize for his oil painting titled "Flag XI."

His painting was one of about 100 works in the competitive show last week. It will be featured in the upcoming traveling Collection of Contemporary Southern Art which will make a one-year tour of 40 major cities in the South.

The paintings at the close of the year will then be exhibited and judged at a leading museum. Judges will award a $1,000 first prize and five $200 awards of merit.

Co-sponsors of the exhibition were the Rocky Mount Arts and Crafts Center, the Rocky Mount Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Sears, Roebuck and Co.

We asked Westinghouse to send us study aids for serious students.

So what did they send us?

Portable phonographs! Pint sized tape recorders! Clock radios that wake you up to frug music! Study aids?

1. This is a 10 pound battery operated or plug in portable phonograph. It's the new Westinghouse Solid State, 4-speed automatic. Plays anything, anywhere: language records at jam sessions. Or the Frug at cram sessions. Some study aid! Model 135AC—$59.95.
2. For the student who has nothing: a high intensity lamp, a clock and a radio all in one. The alarm gizmo works with a buzzer or the radio. The lamp is dandy for needlepoint. And the clock keeps time. Its name is Lumina. Model 974XL—$49.95.
3. You too can be a secret agent with this battery powered, highly portable tape recorder. It has an uncanny stow-away mike that makes it indispensable for those eight o'clocks when note taking is a physical and mental impossibility. Model 27R1—$29.95.
4. The Westinghouse Space Maker Clock Radio was designed for the average enormous college room. It's only 7 inches wide, fits on a cluttered night table and gets you up to music, or a heartbreaking buzzer. Model 215L5—$23.95.
5. This is a tiny travel alarm clock-radio that folds up flat and fits into an over stuffed suitcase. And just so you'll never miss it, it has a metal plate for your initials or name. It's the ideal study aid to take home for the holidays. Model 968PL—$29.95.

You can be sure if it's Westinghouse

Track Men Begin Season; Ex-Freshmen Add Strength

After a strong finish last season the Pirate thinclads will pack more power and depth than ever before at East Carolina. One of the big reasons the Bucs are stronger is because of last years strong freshman team. The Bucs will be stronger in the field events and the sprints, not to mention the distance events led by Don Jayroe and Ken Vass.

Jim Cargill, the big gun for last years freshman team will be the favorite in most hurdling events. Cargill was the teams top scorer and was the North Carolina Inter-collegiate State Champion in the high hurdles, in the freshman division.

Mike Bridges, the fast man on the team, runs the 100, 220, and the 440 yard relay. Bridges placed in the All-State meet in the 100 yard dash in which he ran a 9.7 and also ran the first leg of the All-State 440 yard relay.

Bill Cothers, Todd Hicks and Bill Burgees are other Pirate sprinters who should push Bridges. Burgess was All - Southern Conference in 1966. Bridges will run the 60 yard dash indoors.

The Pirates will be well stocked in the middle-distances too. Mac Howard made All - Southern Conference in the quarter mile and also made All-State in the same event.

Whit Whitfield, as All-State from last years freshman squad will be pushing Howard for the number one position.

Charles Hudson, one of the big guns for last years cross-country team is one of the best half-milers in the Southern Conference. Hudson ran a one minute and fifty-five second half mile. He will be shooting for Whitty Bass's record.

Don Jayroe and Terry Taylor should be the top two long distance runners followed closely by Mike Smith, Dick Roth and John Osborne. Ken Vass, a new addition to the Pirates, will provide the Bucs with one of the best distance runners in the South. Vass has run the mile in 4 minutes and 18 seconds.

The field events should provide even more excitement for Pirate followers. Four of the individual stars are Peter Moe (high jumper and triple jumper), Bill Duiguid (pole vaulter), Clem Williams and Ed Whyte (broad jumper).

Moe has established himself as one of the leading high jumpers in the Southern Conference. Moe has high jumped 6'7" and triple jumped 46 feet.

Bill Duiguid will be the individual leader in the pole vault. Duiguid was the Intercollegiate State champion in the pole vault. Ed Whyte and Clem Williams are two of the top jumpers in the Southern Conference. Both have jumps well over the 23' mark.

Whyte holds the varsity broad jump record and Williams holds the freshman broad jump record. Williams also placed in the All-State meet.

John Murray, an All-State pole vaulter from Virginia will be pushing Duiguid for individual honors. Murray was hampered by a leg injury most of last year.

Bob Rynessson, another pole vaulter was in the shadow of Buddy Price and should provide the Pirates with three top-notch pole vaulters.

Roger Dalton, a husky 6'0" 215 pounder will be heaving the sixteen pound shot for the Bucs. Dalton has put the shot over 40' on many occasions. Henry Coble and Ed Midget will be heaving the shot and should give the Pirates the added depth they will need.

East Carolinian Picks Top Players

Editor's note: Every newspaper and sports publication goes through a ritual of picking collegiate "all Americans." Here is the staff's consensus. Welcome letters from the readers if we have left out someone you believe merits a spot on the team.

Second Team

Forwards: Ed Jummer, Princeton, 6'6" Senior. David Lattin, Texas Western, 6'7" Senior.

Center: Keith Swaggerty, Univ. of Pacific 6'7" Senior.

Honorable Mention

Ron Williams (West Virginia), Sonny Dove (St. Johns), Rusty Clark (U.N.C.), Bill Hasket (Ohio State), Dean Foster (Cincinnati), Thad Jaracz (Kentucky), Lynn Shackelford (U.C.L.A.), Mern Jackson (Utah), Jo Jo White (Kansas), Larry Miller (U.N.C.).

Congressmen Report Federal Loan Brings New Women's Dorm

East Carolina officials learned last Wednesday that the college will get a $1.4 - million federal loan to finance another 10-story dormitory for 400 women students.

Approval of the loan funds was announced by U.S. Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-NC, and Rep. Walter B. Jones, D-NC.

EC Vice President F. D. Duncan said construction of the new building is expected to begin by late winter or early spring so that completion can come before Sept. 1, 1968.

The new dorm will be similar to the 10-story women's residence hall opened to 400 coeds here last September. The new one is the second of three similar high-rise units planned in a cluster at the south end of 7-story Inglis Fletcher Hall now in its third year of service.

All four dorms, including the two unbuilt ones, will provide a large share of EC women student housing — almost 1,650 beds — on a wooded knoll at the west end of the women's campus.

The loan announced Wednesday satisfied one of three dorm loan applications EC filed with the federal Housing and Home Finance Agency more than a year ago. The other two — one for the third 10-story girls dorm, the other for a 7 or 8-story men's unit — are still pending.

EC officials said the loans apparently had not been cleared earlier because the loan agency had been low on funds.

SGA Report...

Moore asked the Legislature to approve a shift of $833.60 from the Playhouse budget to the Full-Time Salaries for bookkeeping purposes. The amount is for the professional actor appearing in Marat-Sade.

It was moved that Speaker of the Legislature - Steve Burns establish a committee to investigate the past records and actions of the EC cheerleaders. The cheerleaders were criticized for a lack of cooperation, a failure to perform duties, and drinking at athletic events.

It was revealed that the advisor to the cheerleaders, Andre Brouseau, had quit because of a lack of cooperation from the cheerleaders. Burns appointed Bill Deal as chairman of the committee, and asked for a weekly report from the committee.

Bill Deal told the Legislature that the 1965 Legislature had passed a measure stating that convention delegates on a per diem basis received expense checks after returning from the convention. Deal moved that this be changed to release expense checks prior to departure to a convention, because not every student attending a convention could pay his expenses.

It was moved that a committee be formed to investigate the possibilities of a permanent SGA car wash on the campus. Mr. Lloyd was appointed as chairman of the committee.

Miss Courtney Andrews moved that a letter be sent to Mr. Joe Clark suggesting that the Student Supply Store be kept open until nine o'clock on the first few days of the beginning of a new quarter.

Dean Tucker told the Legislators that the committee studying EC's readiness for university status would be on the campus next week.

The Legislature congratulated Jim Kimsey for his success with the Model U. N. Security Council here December 3 and for increasing the status of EC.

The Legislature congratulated Miss Nellie Lee and Mr. Frisby Hendricks of the East Carolinian for winning a Carnegie Grant to attend the United States Student Press Association Conference at Duke University.

YDC Sponsors Washington Trip

Local students are participating in the Annual Washington Trip and Seminar Program, January 26-29, 1967, to our nation's capital sponsored nationally by the College Young Democratic Clubs of America. The trip, open to all students, will allow students to meet and hear Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Senator Robert Kennedy, Cabinet members, and Congressional, labor and civil rights leaders.

Students will be able to attend educational seminars on American government and participate in an issues conference, as well as sight-see and visit the White House, Capitol, Supreme Court and historical sights.

Several thousand students are expected to attend this year's Washington Trip from all over the Eastern United States. They will travel by bus and will stay in downtown Washington hotels.

Students interested in knowing more about the trip should contact the campus Trip Coordinator, Walter F. Hendricks, President of East Carolina's Y.D.C. through the East Carolinian.

Sherry Robertson Wins Nomination

Miss Sherry Robertson, a sophomore undecided major, from Petersburg, Virginia, is among the five finalists competing for the title "Miss Cheerleader USA". The contest will be held December 27 in Cyprus Gardens, Florida. The five finalists were chosen from a group of 250 cheerleaders representing colleges from the 50 states. Miss Robertson is a member of Sigma Sigma Sigma Sorority and the Spirit Committee.

Lombard

When very young Lombard decided that he was going to be an actor. For Lombard, the theater was not just a dream.

"All through high school and college I kept that goal in mind," commented Lombard as he reminisced his early years in the theater. "I selected my courses accordingly and started acting in summer stock. That led to off-Broadway which led directly to television."

For Michael Lombard the climatic break in his career came when he was understudy for the lead role in "Cages," starring Shelley Winters and Jack Ward.

"Jack fell down and broke his crown," laughed Lombard. "And that's when I got my chance."

Michael Lombard isn't the loner that some people might have imagined. He appreciates people, particularly North Carolinians. Though it isn't Lombard's first visit to North Carolina he firmly believes "the people here are terribly interested in what's happening around them... they're very friendly and interesting."

Lombard Speaks

Michael Lombard, a professional actor, is speaking at East Carolina Friday afternoon at 2:00 in McGinnis. The subject of Mr. Lombard's talk, which is open to the public, will be "The Actor In The Professional Theatre" and is in connection with the production "Marat Sade," in which he is appearing.

Quinn's Quints

By Clem Williams

East Carolina's basketball quintet headed up by Coach Tom Quinn has lost its first two outings. However, Quinn does foresee a good season provided the boys put out the effort to win. The Buc success lies in the area of the ever-important big pivot man. Ken Sabo 6'10" center has made a great improvement over last year and could in time be the answer to the Buc's problems.

One reason the Bucs seem to be having such a rough time that of playing most of their games on the road. The Bucs will play seven of the first eight games on the road.

Duke vs. Alcindor
Duke University's basketball team must be courageous. You ask why? They are going to play UCLA's Miracle team led by 7' 1" Lou Alcindor. The Blue Devils beat the Bruins last year in Charlotte and Durham. To expect the least, Duke will really have to be up for this one. The Bruins led by the sensational 7' 1" giant have but one thing on their mind and that is an undefeated season. Incidentally Alcindor scored 56 points in his first varsity game.

Look out for Carolina

Carolina's not so small Tar Heels could be the surprise team of the year. They have height, depth and two All-American candidates in Larry Miller and Bob Lewis. Rusty Clark at 6' 11" and Bill Busting at 6' 9" provide the Tar Heels with two outstanding big men.

Who is Number One?

Could it be Alabama, Michigan State, or Notre Dame. I may be wrong, but I like Alabama. You ask why? Because, I always pull for the little man.

Like I say every man to his own opinion.

... foresees a good season for the basketball quintet ...
