

Students Organize County Clubs

By JOHN REYNOLDS
Chief Staff Writer

Old Austin became the center of activity Monday, February 6 as eager students met to reorganize the state and county clubs in an effort to better inform their communities about their school and its aims.

Speakers for the assembly of students were SGA president, Steve Sniteman, President Leo Jenkins and Sen. Robert Morgan, chairman of the Board of Trustees and presently president pro tempore of the state senate.

Dr. Jenkins noted in his speech to the assembly that, "They (news media, etc.) are going to say you are forced to come here . . . They don't realize college students can't be forced to do anything these days." Later he added, "I think it altogether proper that you as college people should be involved . . . for after all, this is your world . . ."

Senator Morgan addressed the student gathering with a reminder that, "had it not been for the fighting of many of the legislators from the East 60 years ago we would not be here today."

Morgan informed the students that "Among the members of the North Carolina General Assembly this student body is one of the most respected student bodies in the state . . . Perhaps you more than anyone else can be most effective. It is you and others like you back home that can inform the legislators of the merits of your school."

Several of the chairmen of various county clubs were interviewed after their meetings. The Pitt county club which has the largest representation is chaired by Danny Griffin. The main thing they planned was to have people write to the local newspapers.

Wake county, which is the county Raleigh is located in and where all the action will be taking place, was represented by approximately 25 students Monday night. Barry Blick, chairman of the club, said that they planned to write to the legislators and visit them at a later time. They also plan to submit articles about ECC to the news media, contact influential people in the community, and visit several civic and church organizations with programs about ECC.

Gene Owens, chairman of the Mecklenburg county club, which has the most representatives in the legislature, reported that they planned to write letters to their legislators.

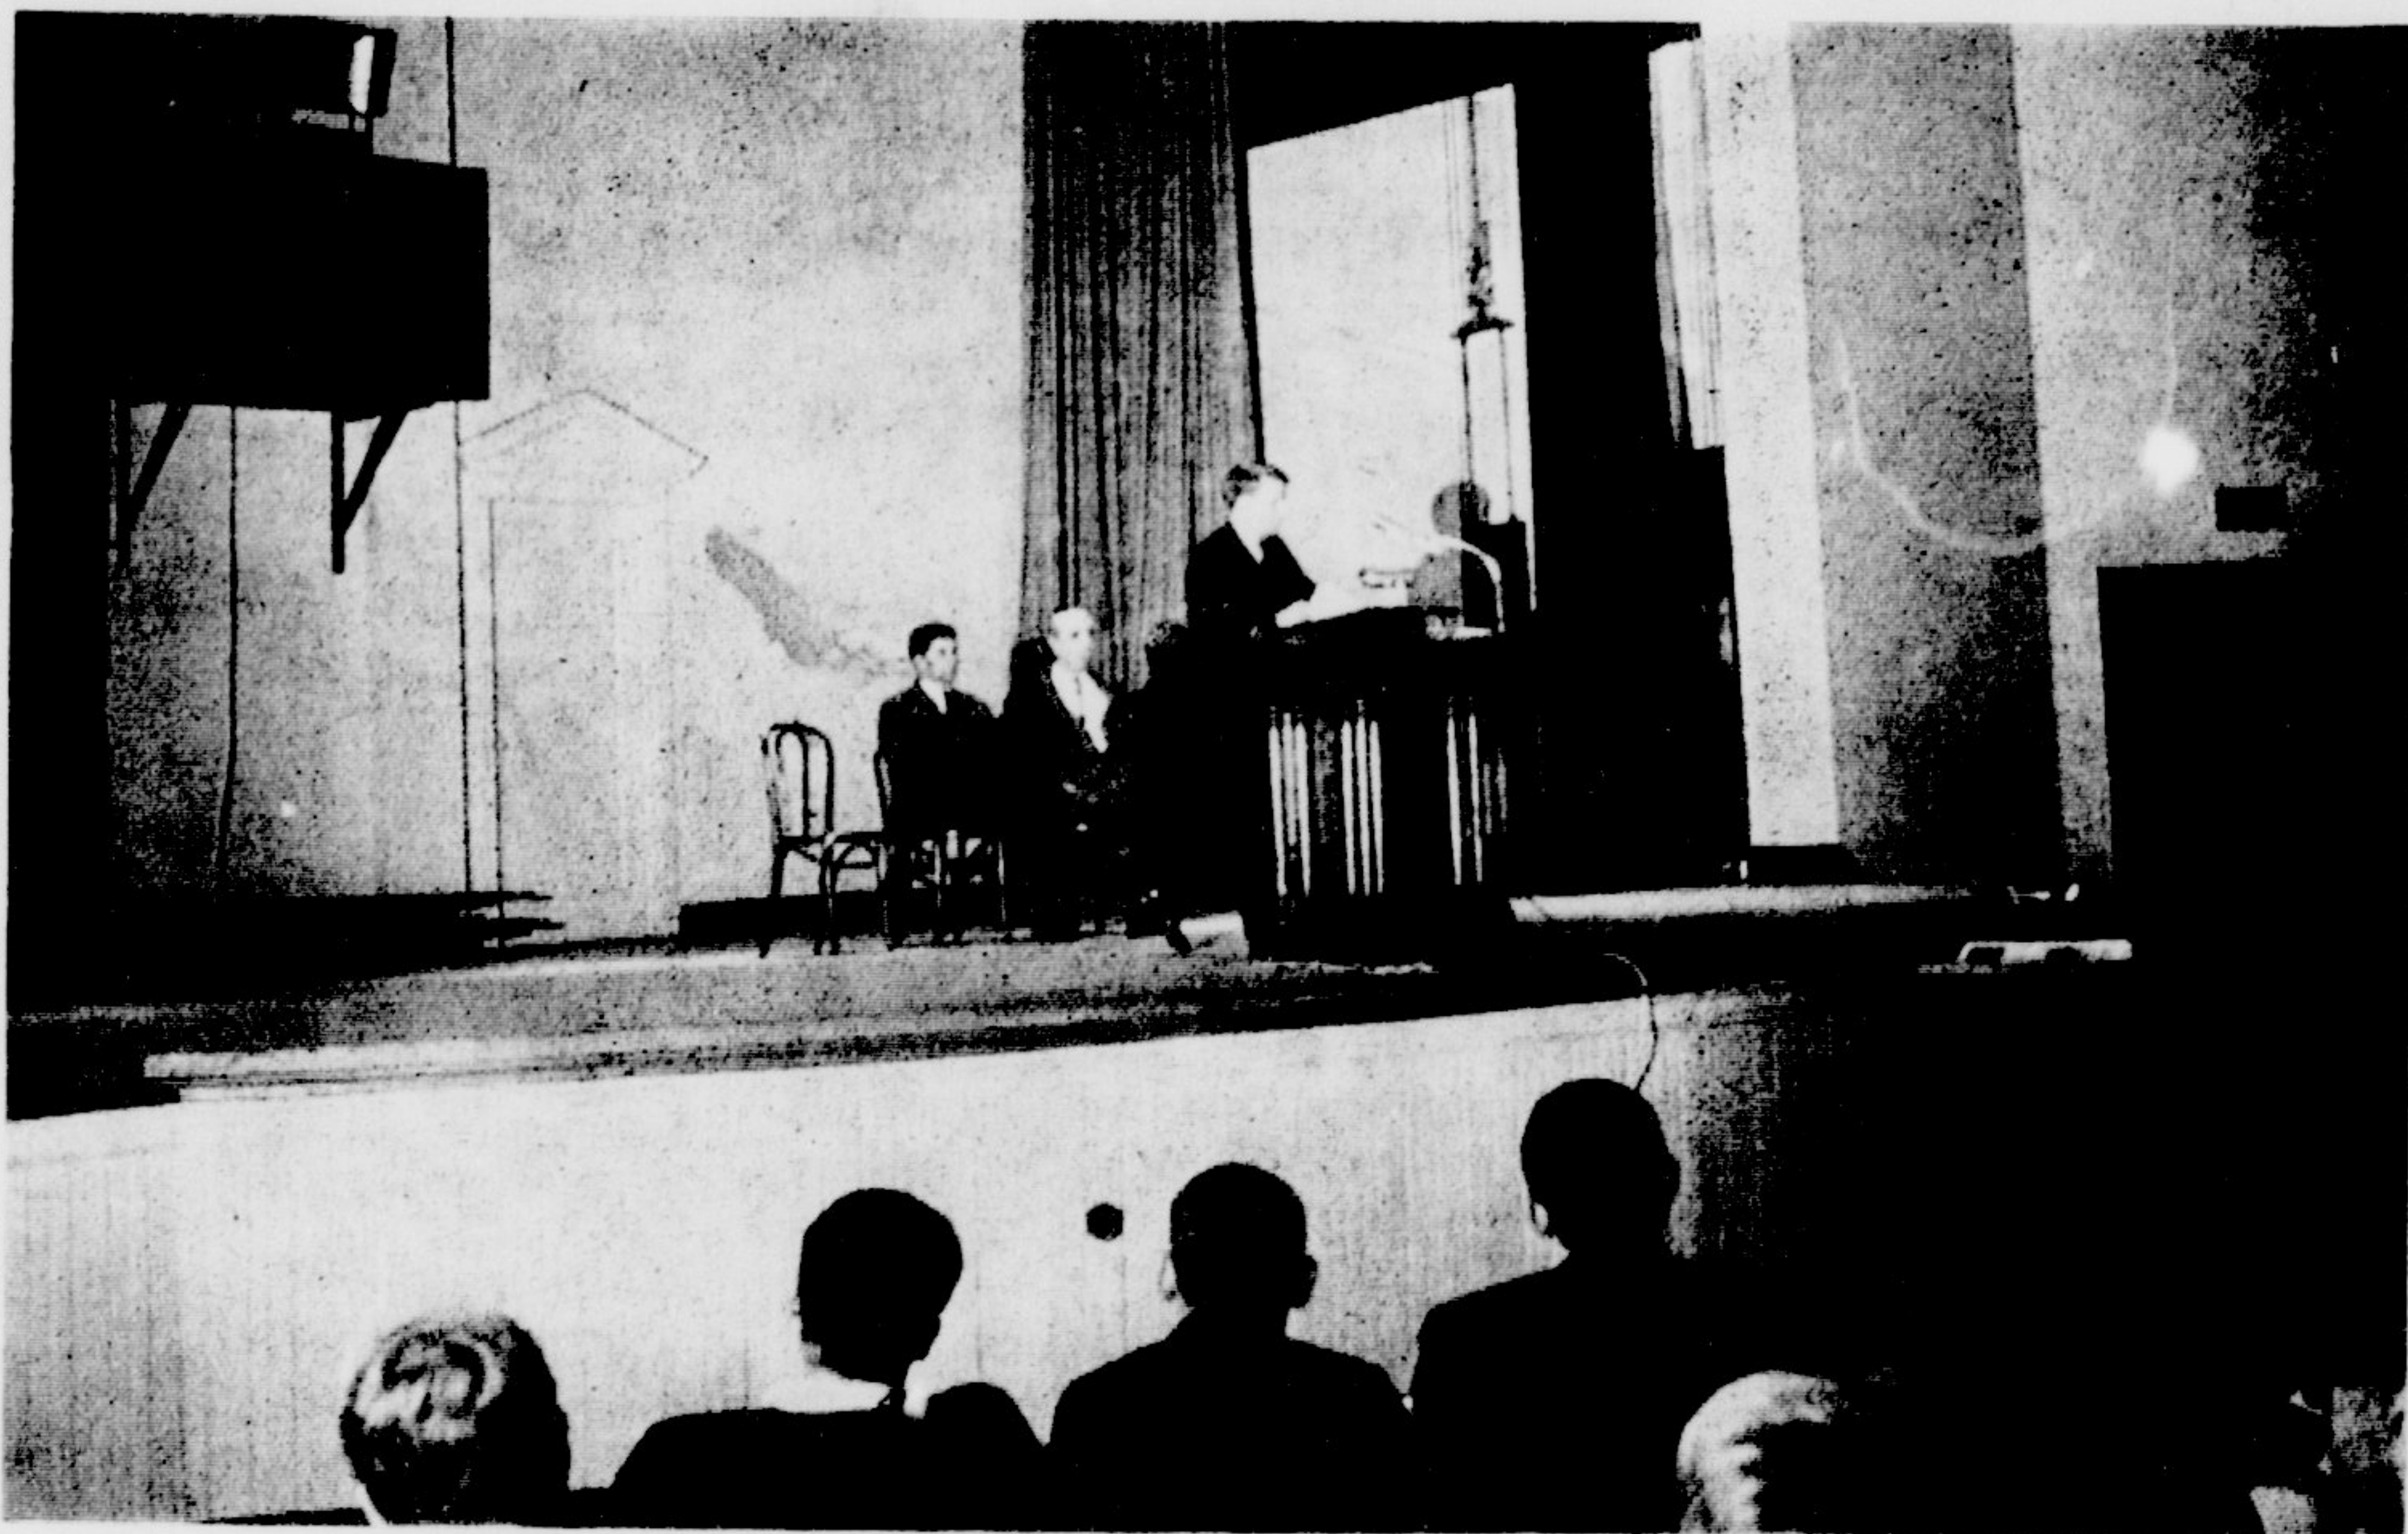

Ninety-four county and forty state clubs were represented at the reorganization meeting Monday night. The chief business of the first meeting was discussing ways and means to inform their various areas about ECC and especially to inform their legislators and other influential people about the merits of ECC and the present request of the school for independent university status.

In an interview with President Jenkins after the meeting he said that the meeting was, "a wonderful display of interest shown by many of our students . . . I know they will do an excellent job."

Sen. Morgan during the interview said he was "very much pleased with the meeting." When questioned as to when and how the bill for independent university status will be presented he replied, "It will probably be some time early in the session."

Morgan said the bill would be introduced into both houses of the legislature at the same time and that it would probably be referred to the Higher Education committee. The committee would then conduct hearings and so forth and make their recommendations back to the legislature.

When asked how he felt about how things were shaping up for ECC he answered, "When the members of the legislature have had an opportunity to study and know the facts they will support independent status for ECC."

Senator Robert Morgan encourages EC students who gathered last Monday night to form county clubs in their pursuit of university status.

General Elections Rules Incite Legislature Conflict

Editor's Note: The following statement was made by SGA president Steve Sniteman upon deadline concerning the general election rules discussed at Monday's legislature meeting.

After scrutinizing the general elections rules I feel that I must veto them on account of the section dealing with expenditures of political parties. I wish to make it clear that the veto is not designed against the initiators of these sections, Mr. Deal or his party, rather it is against the idea of unfair advantage. I do feel that the parties should be given some recognition, or we take the chance of reverting back to the old political system where a candidate was chosen on his popularity alone. But, I also feel that this section as it stands would be detrimental to the independent. I would ask that the student legislature would reconsider this section, as I feel that there was some misinterpretation concerning it at the meeting Monday.

By EILEEN WEINERS
Staff Writer

Under new business at the SGA meeting Monday, a motion was entertained and carried to the effect that the SGA reconsider the general election rules as approved by the body on January 24. Articles I, II, III, and IV were accepted as previously passed. After an eight minute recess, Articles V through VIII were also unanimously accepted verbatim. There was a motion made to add to Article

IX a section 6 stating that political parties may use funds not to exceed seventy-five dollars in the spring election and 50 dollars in the fall election for the advertisement of their programs and policies so long as they make no mention of their candidates' names.

There was an amendment to this motion proposed to the effect that the candidate must include this amount in the list of his campaign expenses. Earle Beasley, who had suggested this amendment, expressed his views in affirmative discussion. This was passed after the phrase "so long as they make no mention of their candidates' names" was deleted.

It was then proposed that a section 7 be added to Article IX to the effect that the chairman of the political party present to his election's chairman an itemized campaign expense account two days prior to the election at a designated place at a time to be decided by the elections chairman. This motion was passed, and articles X and XI were accepted unanimously. The entire general elections rules were then adopted as amended.

Earle Beasley then requested a moment of silence in memory of a dear, departed member of the SGA — "Average College Joe" who had been destroyed by the political system to which he had devoted his life. The body refused to comply.

A resolution was passed that the SGA urge the state legislature to submit a constitutional amendment changing the state voting age from 21 to 18.

A motion was proposed and carried concerning the paving of the exit behind New Woman's Dormitory. A committee was set up to help the SGA historian bring the files up to date. All SGA representatives were urged to attend the meeting at Old Austin Monday night, February 6 concerning ECC's university status.

College Editors Explore 'Generation Gap'; Lippman Answers Translators Wanted Plea

More than 500 college editors gathered in Washington, D. C. this past weekend to attend the annual International Affairs conference sponsored by the United States Student Press Association.

"The Generation Gap — Translators Wanted" wasn't just another topic for another conference. The fact that the front page headlines of The Washington Post emphasized the fact that something most unusual was happening in the nation's capitol gave even greater momentum to student editors who found that they could boo the Vietnam war or sit peacefully and listen. All 500 editors were a unique group this time for all were individuals bound by a common need — a need to find a bridge between the world of their fathers and the revolutionary world they are involved in today. Editors experienced a change of pace from what many are confronted with daily — namely they were free, uninhibited and sharing their thoughts and beliefs without censorship or discrimination.

Famed newspaper columnist Walter Lippman was the noble character of the conference . . . objective and challenging the generation of editors assembled before him.

"I have at least one qualification for speaking to you on the 'Generation Gap,'" he said. "It is that I have lived with two if not three generation gaps during my life time. Practice does not make perfect I realize. But it does help. It teaches one to realize an important human truth. The movement of events is always a great deal faster than the movements of our own minds . . . Men tend to see the world through spectacles that fitted them twenty or thirty years earlier.

"The essential characteristic of the Generation Gap," Lippman explained, "is what sociologists call 'cultural lag.' This is often described as old fogie-ism, or Col. Blimpism, or creeping gaga-ism . . . Because of the 'cultural lag,' old soldiers know best how to win the last battle of the last war . . . Nowadays, if you will permit me to say so, the Administration is trying to convince us that we are fighting the same war in South Vietnam which Churchill and Roosevelt fought a quarter of a century ago against the Nazis and the Japanese.

"The discrepancy between what we learned when we were young and what the reality is coming to be when we are older is a prime factor in the Generation Gap. And this discrepancy between what was once an approximately true picture of reality and what may now become a better picture of the current reality explains why you, who are at one end of the current gap, are calling for translators to close it. You would like a true picture of reality for yourselves and for those who govern you."

Lippman continued later in his speech by saying: "To understand the human condition today, we must realize that in our time the rate of change in human affairs is much faster and much more general and pervasive than ever before in the whole experience of the human race. We may not be better than our ancestors. But there is a lot more motion in us and around us, and we have, therefore, a better excuse for being puzzled and bewildered. . . . I do not need to remind you of the consequences of the acceleration of change. It is, as you know, the result of the progress of scientific knowledge and of the technological explosion which is based on that knowledge, and of course, the most radical of all modern discoveries and inventions is the discover and invention of the art of invention itself. As a result, we are having a hard time keeping

Symphonic Band Performs

East Carolina College opens its best band music to Eastern North Carolinians with the Symphonic Band's annual winter concert here Friday night in Wright Auditorium.

The 80 band members, drawn from the best student talent in the School of Music, will play a two-part program of music by composers Bach, Bellstedt, Jadin, Kosteck, Pesichetti, Reed, Shostakovich and Whitney.

Conducting will be Herbert L. Carter, director of bands at the college.

The concert will begin at 8:15 p.m. It is free and open to the public.

It is the opening event of the two-day Eastern Division All - State Band Clinic that will bring about 171 of the top high school musicians in the eastern part of the state to campus for the weekend.

The concert will open with "Symphonie for Band" by Jadin.

Other numbers are the well-known "Toccata and Fugue in D Minor" by Bach; a Mexican folk song symphony in three movements, "La Fiesta Mexicana" by H.

Issue For The Students . . .

The Student Government Association and students here at East Carolina are to be commended for their spirited display of loyalty and concern over the necessity for reorganizing county and state clubs.

Not in a long time has Old Austin Auditorium been the gathering place for students who came voluntarily to join forces for a cause motivated by their student leaders.

Old Austin looked more like the meeting of a university student body Monday night than anything that has been seen here recently. And surprisingly enough, the rain did not hamper student enthusiasm as more than a thousand students broke into individual county groups to see what they could do for their individual counties as well as campaign for East Carolina University.

Students are to be commended for their orderly behavior. In the absence of a protest march or demonstration signs, students talked openly as to what they thought they could do for East Carolina and university status. Few were disappointed with the outcome of individual county discussions.

Monday evening's display of support for ECU on the part of the student body puts the university issue where it should be. A college cannot become a university without the support and involvement of its students. The administration and the faculty may decide that it is time for East Carolina to be a university, but unless the students themselves are in the mainstream of that desire and are fighting for something they believe in, then the name university would not be of value to anyone.

You have to have students who know why they want a university and why they think their college is ready. And the fact that many students are finding a common need in their support for university status is one of the greatest assets that East Carolina will ever have.

For those students who missed Monday night's meeting, it is not too late for you to help make the university an issue that rests upon the strength of the student body. No one is pressuring you to do anything. If you support university status, then all you have to do is get involved in your individual county and state clubs. You will be asked to help with strengthening the forces of your club, but whether you support the club is a choice that you will have to make.

The next few weeks will be very important weeks to each student at East Carolina. What happens to the university status issue coming before the North Carolina Legislature could be strongly influenced by the support that each of us, as students, is willing to demonstrate.

Everybody likes a good fight—so if you're interested, then get going and write a few letters and let the people of North Carolina know what you think about East Carolina and its quest for university status.

'We Still Love You...'

By John Stone

I stand in defense of Mervis Womble. As word has it, the Chairman of the M.R.C. Court is out for his pound of flesh. We would suggest that he mind his manners. It is not just everyone that can be a dorm representative, and a court member and not have a C average. We cannot help but wonder how he is getting past the administration. Are we to tolerate this favoritism in our midst? Just remember, as you so truly stated, Mr. Chairman, "The Pen is mightier than the sword."

Is a certain fraternity on 5th Street planning to take over the SGA in a couple of years? Now that they have both the President and Vice President of the Freshman class, it might not be hard to do. Watch out 9th Street and 3rd Street, you now have some competition.

If the M.R.C. succeeds in establishing a library on the hill, what books will they purchase? Would you believe $200 for encyclopedias and $800 for skin magazines. Give 'em hell Young. It is almost election time.

Was the campus glad to see an old familiar face this past weekend? I can't vouch for the happy part, but the boy's dorms were certainly in a dither.

And what is everyone giving up for Lent this year? I heard that the KAs were giving up razor blades.

Slip of the Week — All of the SGA executive officers were invited to attend the banquet for the Merit Scholars on Friday night. It seems however, that Sally Yopp was left off the list. She finally got to attend as Steve Moore's date. What a slap in the face to think that you are important and then find out that no one loves you. Then to top off the whole event, she spilled her tomato juice all over the table. Make any impression "big Senior."

Congratulations to Miss Nellie Lee, editor of the EAST CAROLINIAN, on your receipt of the "Stunker of the Week" award.

Onions to Bill Diuguid who may be a carryover from the Class of '70.

Reagan Receives Award

By Frisby Hendricks

It is not surprising to us that the East Carolinian's monthly Golden Key of Ignorance Award goes to a Republican, but it does surprise us that the recipient received it as soon as he did. The award was officially presented to Governor Ronald Reagan last week.

The issue at stake is not if the movie star was responsible for firing Clark Kerr. Reagan voted in favor of firing President Kerr and this is indicative that he wished him fired. The issue that is at stake is that "Death Valley Ronnie" wishes to continue the Republican philosophy of impeding an educational progress of today's youth. He is so anxious to do this that he rushed through his inauguration and within a month of holding office, his true colors were shown.

The Governor saw that there was a $400 million budget deficit and being a conservative he was ready to pay any price to return to a balanced budget and brag that despite the fact that his state had progressed nowhere he had obtained a surplus, single handedly. In his eyes, the only way to wipe out the deficit was to cut out the spending of $400 million a year toward the state's college complex. In turn he cut down a $240 million request to a $192 million budget, a 20 percent slash.

Because of his "sane" action:
10,000 new students who are expected to enter the university must be turned away.

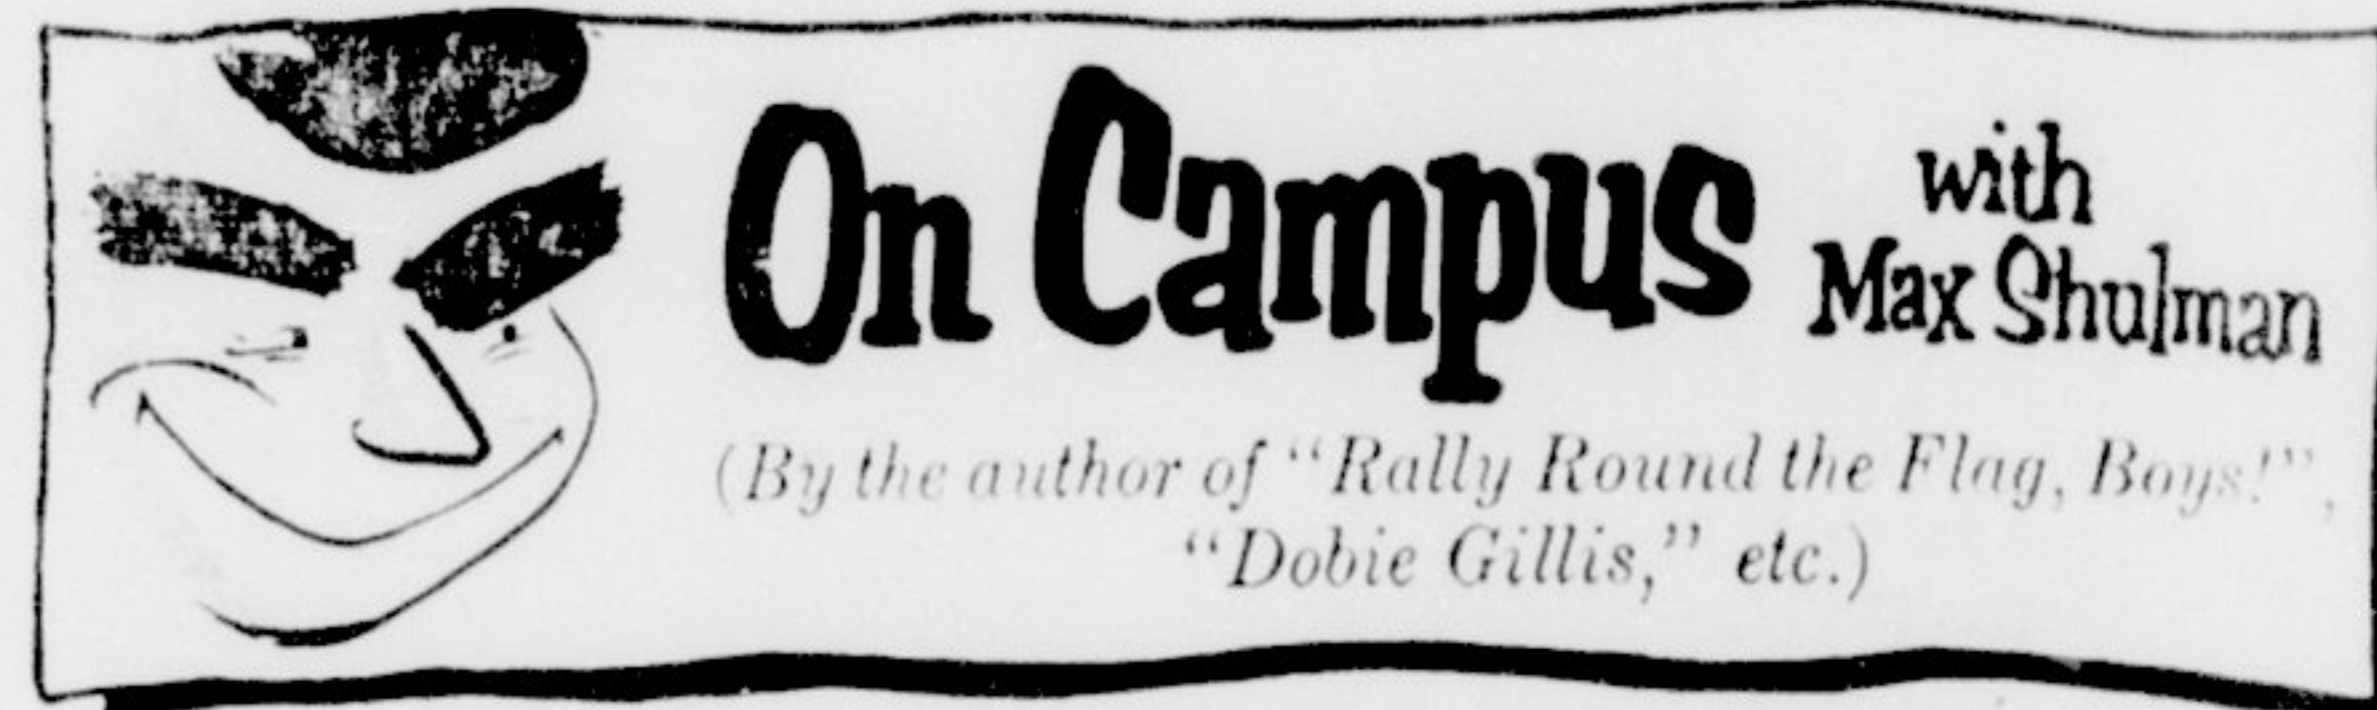

12,500 present students must leave the university.

Students, who at one time could attend the university tuition free, now must pay $400 every year.

But the Governor is still caught in a vicious circle. Through the actions of Ronnie, countless students must enter California's 72 community junior colleges, and this rush will in turn raise property taxes. Along with the university complex, 18 state colleges are affected by the Governor's blunder. The new program will cut $6 million out of their budget. We, the editorial staff, congratulate Mr. Reagan for his award and patiently hope that he is not renominated for the honor.

STAMP OUT YOUNG LOVE

It happens every day. A young man goes off to college, leaving his home town sweetheart with vows of eternal love, and then he finds that he has outgrown her. What, in such cases, is the honorable thing to do?

Well sir, you can do what Crunch Sigafos did.

When Crunch left his home in Cut and Shoot, Pa., to go off to a prominent midwestern university (Florida State) he said to his sweetheart, a wholesome country lass named Mildred Bovine, "My dear, though I am far away in college, I will love you always. I take a mighty oath I will never look at another girl. If I do, may my eyeballs parch and wither, may my viscera writhe like adders, may my ever-press slacks go baggy!"

Then he clutched Mildred to his bosom, flicked some hayseed from her hair, planted a final kiss upon her fragrant young skull, and went away, meaning with all his heart to be faithful.

But on the very first day of college he met a coed named Irmgard Champerty who was studded with culture like a ham with cloves. She knew verbatim the complete works of Franz Kafka, she sang solos in stereo, she wore a black leather jacket with an original Goya on the back.

Well sir, Crunch took one look and his jaw dropped and his nostrils pulsed like a bellows and his kneecaps turned to sorghum. Never had he beheld such sophistication, such intellect, such savoir faire. Not, mind you, that Crunch was a dolt. He was, to be sure, a country boy, but he had a head on his shoulders, believe you me! Take, for instance, his choice of razor blades. Crunch always shaved with Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades, and if that doesn't show good sense, I am Rex the Wonder Horse. No other blade shaves you so comfortably so often. No other blade brings you such facial felicity, such epidermal elan. Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades take the travail out of shaving, scrap the scrape, negate the nick, peel the pull, oust the ouch. Furthermore, Personnas are available both in double-edge style and in injector style. If you're smart — and I'm sure you are, or how'd you get out of high school — you'll get a pack of Personnas before another sun has set.

But I digress. Crunch, as we have seen, was instantly smitten with Irmgard Champerty. All day he followed her around campus and listened to her talk about Franz Kafka and like that, and then he went back to his dormitory and found this letter from his home town sweetheart Mildred:

Dear Crunch:

Us kids had a keen time yesterday. We went down to the pond and caught some frogs. I caught the most of anybody. Then we hitched rides on trucks and did lots of nutsy stuff like that. Well, I must close now because I got to whitewash the fence.

Your friend,
Mildred

PS...I know how to ride backwards on my skateboard.

Well sir, Crunch thought about Mildred and then he thought about Irmgard and then a great sadness fell upon him. Suddenly he knew he had outgrown young, innocent Mildred; his heart now belonged to smart, sophisticated Irmgard.

Being above all things honorable, he returned forthwith to Cut and Shoot, Pa., and looked Mildred straight in the eye and said manfully, "I do not love you any more. I love another. You can hit me in the stomach all your might if you want to."

"That's okay, hey," said Mildred amiably. "I don't love you neither. I found a new boy!"

"What is his name?" asked Crunch.

"Franz Kafka," said Mildred.

"I hope you will be very happy," said Crunch and shook Mildred's hand and they have remained good friends to this day. In fact, Crunch and Irmgard often double-date with Franz and Mildred and have barrels of fun. Franz knows how to ride backwards on his skateboard one-legged.

So you see, all's well that ends well—including a shave with Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades and Personna's partner in luxury shaving—Burma-Shave. It comes in menthol or regular; it soaks rings around any other lather.

Verbatim sat—a word to the wise is sufficient. Glorious and beautiful wisdom I have found you here in the halls of ivy.

Did you know that: There were 1,302,717 cans of beer consumed in the Greenville area from 6 p.m. Friday to 4 p.m. Monday (February 3-6) and unless it rains before next weekend 1,000,000 cans of beer will have to be ordered special from Raleigh?

Marcy Jordan was a nice kid but if she doesn't stop molesting the men on the hill in her Whitewoman costume the MRC (Mu Rux Clan) is going to do hoods and dirty bed linen and crucify her in effigy?

In 1966 the infirmary was not used by more people than the infirmary had facilities for and in 1967 they are predicting they will need a bed and at least two more cases of Joseph's Baby Aspirin?

Greeks who live on campus agree that the "Big Man on Campus" is not the one who smiles the most but the one who lives on campus and can still smile?

In the physical year 1966, 32 campus police in colleges all over the nation died in the service of their country and they were all awarded the gold medal of honor for service above duty and beyond the call of anyone?

Bill Deal has changed his plans and decided if President Jenkins really wants to be governor he will swing all the University Party support behind him?

At the present rate every six revolutions of the world shifts the earth's crust 1/100 of a millimeter and that by 1968—only 19,261,317 more revolutions—Old Austin will out of necessity be a wing of Wilson Dormitory?

By 1970 there will be 2,000 more students at EC than are expected, and can be handled only if the Math 65 course is removed from the General Education requirements?

UNC-C (at Charlotte) is a university—but they have to hold their classes at the bus terminal and the Open Kitchen Restaurant?

By 1975 when there are 17,750 students expected to be enrolled at ECC, UNC-C will have their first dormitory finished?

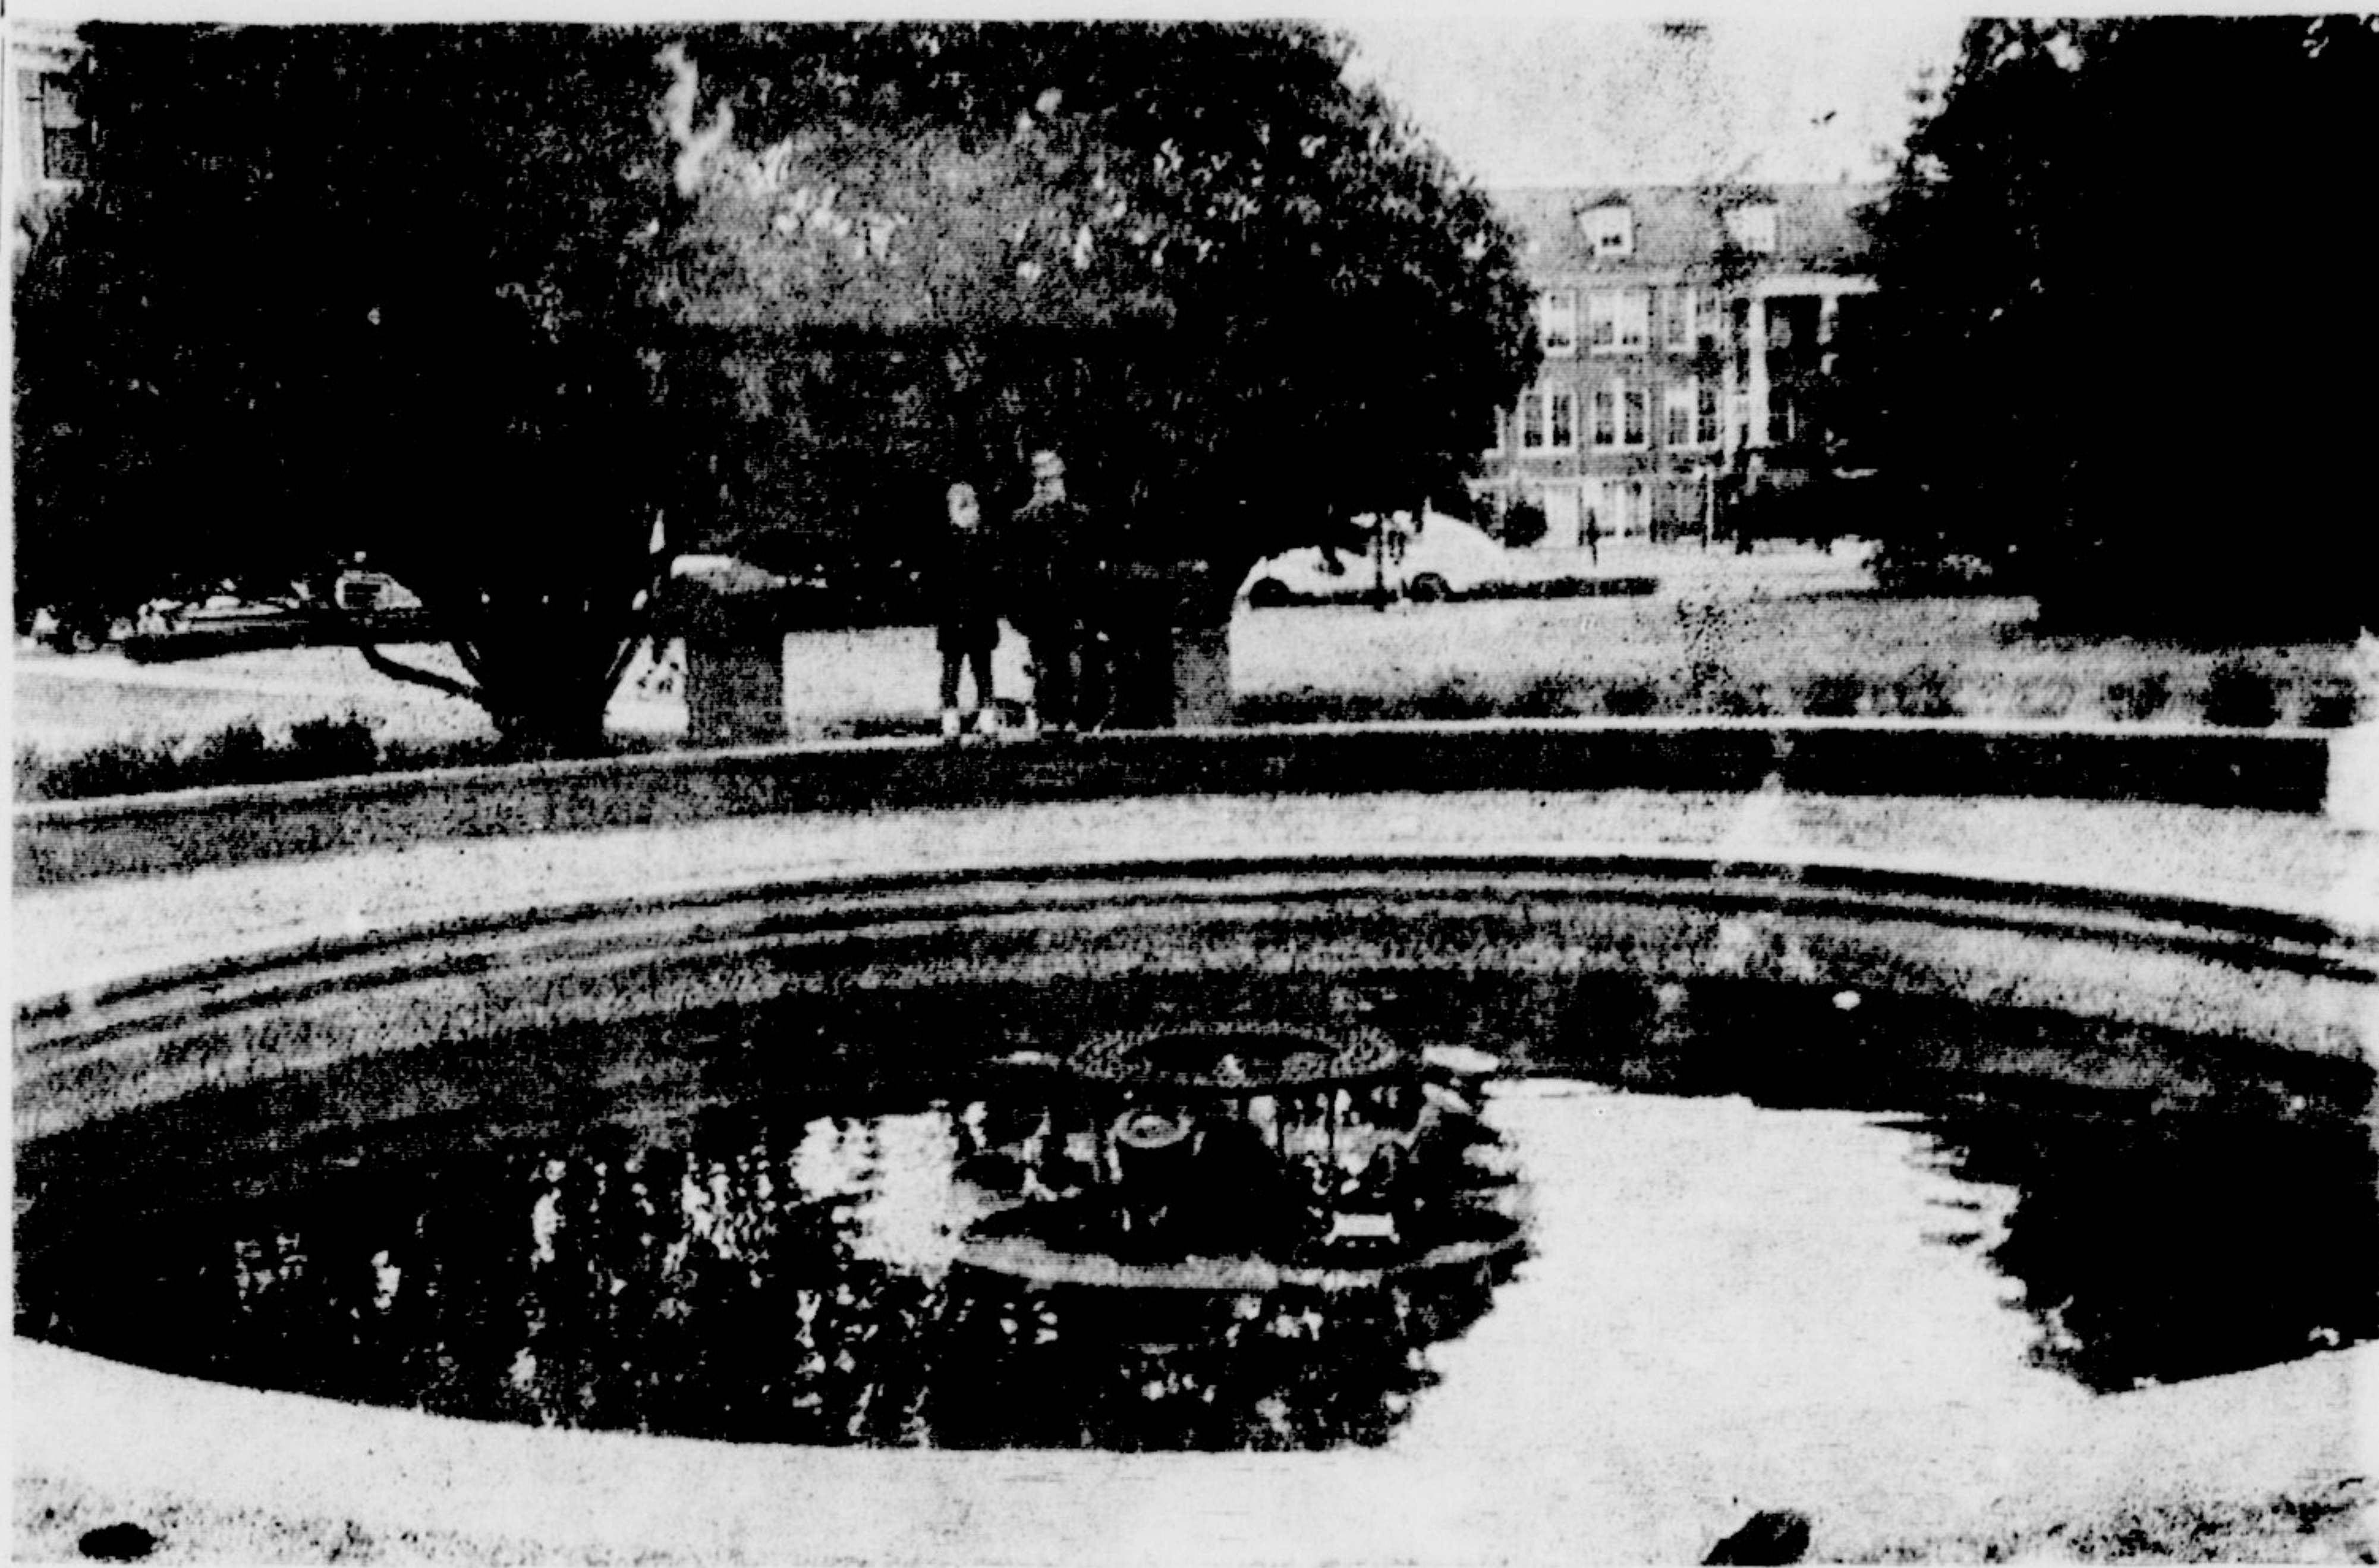

The original site for the EC campus was Washington, N. C., but when the founders heard about all the land and beautiful weather in Greenville they changed their plans?

Studying on the campus lawn—if you are in the presence of a female and have your head in her lap—is a sin and you can be put on the Black List, cut 20 quality points, drowned, damned, and beat to death if apprehended?

A new heating plant is planned to be installed soon because the laundry department lost the old one?

Despite being necessarily expensive the cafeterias of ECC are operated by the most efficient and courteous personnel that side of the Mississippi River?

If liquor by the drink were legalized in North Carolina there would be more people on the campus of ECC, literally, during the weekend—and fewer people at the Kwik Pik?

Gurgling, gushing, green Wright Fountain gurgles and gushes no more. Is there a dire water shortage that EC students ought to know about?

And The Bats Flew Out...

By MARCY JORDAN

Fernanda had a typical day today. Her history teacher assigned five chapters to read, her English teacher assigned two book reports, and her Spanish teacher assigned a term paper—all due tomorrow. She got her history test and Spanish quiz back, both with average grades.

The boy who sits next to Fernanda in English slept through class again today. The professor, right in the middle of his typical lecture, announced that the United States should go communist. The class squirmed, tittered, said nothing, and wrote "the United States should go Communist" in their English notebooks while the boy who sits next to Fernanda slept.

She handed in her English term paper today—the same one she handed to her high school English teacher last year.

She played the role of a perfectly attentive pupil while her mind wandered from thoughts of Tom and Dick to the tree outside the window.

Everyday at 3:00 Fernanda meets Maggie at the Soda Shop, and everyday the hungry masses of humanity congregate at the counter, then gradually disperse until only the female members of the Great Mass are left to be served. It's a perfect meeting place.

Today Fernanda spotted Maggie. "Hey, Maggie. How was your day?" "O.K. I pre-registered. Signed up for Primary Knitting and Darning."

"Primary Knitting and Darning? But you're a physics major!" "Yeh, but it's required."

"What a crummy system. Somebody oughta complain. What else did you sign up for?"

"Commercial Diaper-changing." "Oh, get Dr. Kript for that. I had her last quarter and she's really easy."

"But I've heard that she grades hard."

"Naw. You just have to figure out her way of thinking and agree with her. Listen, I have all her notes and I'll give 'em to ya. You won't even have to go to class." "Great. Well, how was your day?"

"Terrible. I have to do a term paper and two book reports by tomorrow. Not to mention five history chapters." As she spoke Fernanda's eyes grew glazed and vacant.

"Can I help you?" the girl behind the counter asked.

Fernanda stared at her with glazed and vacant eyes, turned around, and ran from the building.

Maggie followed shouting, "Fernanda, where are you going?"

Fernanda kept running till she came to Old Austin Building, tore open the door, ran up two flights of steps, opened the trap door, clambered up the beams, and stopped at the belfrey. Maggie screamed "Don't do it Fernanda, don't!"

Fernanda's glazed and vacant eyes focused downward and slowly scanned the campus. And then, and then she did it! She screamed with every ounce of scream in her torso.

As she came down from the rafters, Fernanda relaxed and sighed, "Boy! I needed that."

Bewildered Maggie trailed at her heels and asked "What are you going to do now?"

"Go back to the dorm and study like hell."

Foolish Students

TV Corrupts College Kids

By BOB STROHM

The Collegiate Press Service

"Is there something really wrong with today's crop of college kids?" ... so begins a recent editorial in the Peoria Journal Star. But this editorial didn't ramble on for a thousand words and then end without drawing a conclusion. Indeed, it pinned down the very thing which affects today's college students so adversely.

You say college students aren't strange?

Well, then, the Peoria Journal Star asks, why is it that a group of University of Illinois students danted the dean of students to meet with them so they could confront him with questions like these:

—Why does the University have the authority to tell you where to live until you're 23 years old?

—Why is the University an accomplice in deciding which students 'qualify' to be sent to Vietnam (i.e., reporting students' grades)?

—Why can the Navy, Marines, etc., use the 'Student' Union and not the unrecognized student group, the W.E.B. DuBois Club?

—When will graduate students be given SIGNIFICANT voice in the decisions of the University?

—What is (are) the established channel(s) for voicing student grievances and obtaining meaningful action?

The Journal Star goes on to say that these questions point up two significant characteristics about the students who ask them:

"They are bothered by discipline—whether it be the discipline of military service, university police, or the students they are taking. They don't even know how or where to complain (e.g., their last question)."

The editorial goes on to say that it doesn't know how Dean Millet consoled "these youngsters" but it hopes he told them to bury their sorrow by hitting the books a little harder. "Whatever," (whatever that means) the Journal Star said, "the fact remains that these college kids are a different breed."

And what did the Journal Star point the finger at for corrupting America's college "youngsters"—plot by the Commies? or by floridation proponents? SMERSH? or SPECTRE?

No, it was television!

Because Mickey Mouse made kids into young adult Musketeers who think that society exists to entertain them.

Because children raised in the electronic world of "white hats" and "black hats" can't be expected to conclude that anything counts but the "fast draw."

Because kids who watched news programs showing South American students spitting on Nixon, and Southern Americans disobeying federal laws, automatically conclude that it is okay to spit on their college deans and to disregard University rules.

Because who can believe that kids "who saw independence and chaos go hand in hand in the Congo" would not think that "the mob scene was the highest expression of liberty?"

Why hasn't anyone thought of this before? With all the sociologists, psychiatrists and whateverelse there are on the University payroll, someone should have come up with this brilliant idea before an editorial writer for a downstate newspaper. Why not even Solomon with all his wisdom ...

Looking back on these foolish student protests of the past, it is hard to imagine that students ever thought they should be concerned with where and how they live, whether or not they would have to spend several years in military service, whether or not they have a voice in the University, whether or not they pay fee money for all sorts of ridiculous buildings, or have an established channel for voicing grievances.

Not even the staunchest critic of Stan Millet could ever claim that, his mind addled by television, he ever thought of paying any attention to these silly kids who object to things that are none of their business.

This is good to know.

Job-Seekers And Employers Meet At Placement Service

The purpose of the Placement Service, located in the Alumni-Faculty Building, is to serve graduates and past graduates of East Carolina by acting as a liaison between students and employers for their mutual benefit. It serves as a ready reference for prospective employers and as an easily accessible, permanent record file for the student. The student's file insures against a reference who may forget an applicant after a few years.

Any senior, graduate student, past graduate, or former student of another college who has completed at least fifteen hours of course work at EC may register with the Placement Service. An application consists of five original copies and six photographs. The neatness of the application plus the information contained in the application represents an accurate student profile which will be kept on file for ten years.

After a student is registered he is notified through the mail of all job opportunities and of all recruiters coming to East Carolina, enabling him to sign up for job interviews. If a student is interested in working for a particular company, the Placement Service can give the student information on whom to contact. Students are encouraged to address any questions concerning job information to the Placement Service.

If a student registered with the Placement Service takes a job, he should notify them to have his record placed on the inactive file. He may activate his application at any time during the ten year period by submitting up-to-date information.

The Placement Service handles applications for all types of jobs, teaching and non-teaching.

Mr. Allan Nelms, director of the Placement Service, stated, "We make every effort to serve students and prospective employers interested in our students in so far as we can."

Committees On Internal Affairs Summarize Ideas And Problems

Last week Secretary of Internal Affairs Barry Blick called a meeting of all committee heads to discuss their individual areas of operation. The meeting proved valuable in that all chairmen were thoroughly apprised of the activities of other committees. Through the exchange of ideas and problems of organization and finance, all SGA programs were better coordinated. The following are brief resumes of submitted reports.

The Book Exchange is an intracampus innovation devised to help eliminate jacked up prices on second-hand books and to insure fair returns on resold books. Committee Chairman Steve Fuss said that students support the bookstores in Greenville because those are the most convenient places to obtain textbooks. The Chairman went on to describe the way the new system is set up. "A card catalog listing books and the students who are selling them will be placed in the College Union. This will provide for an efficient consolidation of advertising. But in order for the exchange to work, it will have to be utilized." Small scale polls indicate that most students are in favor of such a program. The exchange will go into effect on February 9, 1967.

The first phase of East Carolina's faculty evaluation was judged successful by Chairman Jay Barber. He said the faculty was well informed as to the purpose of the project and about eighty percent cooperated. The final figures are based on 15,000 questionnaires. The committee is now tabulating the questionnaires and printing the results in a booklet to be distributed next fall. About 600 of the 200-page booklets will be printed. They will be distributed to the administration, the central committee, each advisor, and the library. Barber recommended that larger committees be organized in the future, because tabulation of questionnaires takes an estimated 365 man hours. He also suggested that an index containing faculty additions and deletions be issued every year and that a new evaluation be made every three years.

The need for policy makers for women dorm students instigated the establishment of a Women's Residence Council. The committee, headed by Mary Ann Gentry and Johann Vaughan, has referred a preliminary constitution to the Student Government Association for further study. The Chairman commented, "The Women's Judiciary had noticed that house regulations were different from dorm to dorm. A uniform interpretation of the rules was badly needed." It has been recommended that the council consist of each dorm president and a Chairman, Vice-Chairman, and Secretary-Treasurer elected at large. The Chairman further stated that a Women's Residence Council would bring about closer bonds among women students. Sororities are not included in these plans, but the council will work with Panhellenic when the need occurs. Although the council was expected to take effect next fall, unforeseen technicalities have put the committee behind schedule.

Considerable research has been done by the Committee on Advanced National Honor Societies. Chairman Mickey Hill stated that the initiation of a balanced system of recognition has received strong campus support. Seven outstanding collegiate societies have been contacted. Although some of these organizations require university status, several are interested in granting charters to East Carolina. Alpha Chi, a coed society, has recently been considering ECC. In accordance, Chairman Hill called a meeting of the top ten percent of the Junior and Senior classes and discussed with them the establishment of an Alpha Chi chapter. All who attended showed an interest in making an application. Other possibilities are Mortar Board, The Secret Order of the Golden Fleece, Gamma Beta Phi, and Omicron Kappa Delta. Dean Tucker has given the committee a list of possible advisors.

Student Government Association Secretary of Finance Steve Moore reported that the budget is in good shape for fiscal 1966-67. Based on figures of December, 1966, appropriations totaled $216,240.16 against $119,554.67 in expenditures. Other expected fund requests total $5,705.40. Moore indicated that finances have been aided by a 4 percent discount in the cost of the Buccaneer and the assumption of bank tellers' salaries by the administration. The treasurer also suggested a new budgeting system by which appropriations for fall operations would be approved in the spring and subsequent funds in the fall.

Martin Lassiter, Chairman of the International Films Committee reported that shortage of committee members is no longer a problem. The Chairman stated that brochures containing short synopses of films, campus posters, and articles in the East Carolinian have contributed to the success of foreign films this year. However, most of the credit goes to the quality of films presented. Lassiter estimated the cost per movie to be $100 with one film per month. Plans for next year include David and Lisa, Loneliness of the Long Distance Runner, Tribute to Dylan Thomas, and The Sheep Has Five Legs.

Marjory Hendricks, Chairman of the Popular Films Committee reported on the many improvements in campus movies this year. New projection equipment, improved sound facilities, and special acoustical draperies have been installed. In addition, two shows instead of one will be shown but still on one night during the weekend. The possibility of concessions being sold has been under consideration by the SGA.

The Popular Entertainment Committee, headed up by Earle Beasley, has tallied a successful season with such top show personalities as The Four Seasons, The Righteous Brothers, Count Basie, and The Kingston Trio. Also coming this year are The Pozo Seco Singers, The Association, and Maurice Williams and the Zodiacs. In the offering for next year are The Supremes, The Tams, and Godfrey Cambridge.

Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.) replaces a pen in his pocket after putting the finishing touches to his speech which he presented at the Washington Seminar last week. The Seminar was attended by fourteen East Carolina Y. D. C. members.

Edward Kennedy Addresses Students At YDC Meeting

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., told nearly one thousand College Young Democrats assembled in Washington, D. C. that he advocated dissent "as being absolutely essential to a country which is devoted to the principles upon which it was founded."

Fourteen East Carolina students were among the thousand college students who attended last Friday's luncheon at which Sen. Kennedy presented the key-note address. Kennedy substituted for his brother, Robert Kennedy D-N.Y., who was previously scheduled to speak.

Sen. Kennedy's topic stemmed from the recent rift between the College Democrats and the Democratic National Committee. The disagreement resulted from a controversy concerning a resolution adopted by the college group's national executive committee which criticized U.S. participation in the Vietnamese War.

The controversy climaxed in November when the National Committee fired W. Gary Winget, who served as staff director for the College Young Democrats organization.

This disagreement between the Young Democrats and the senior party members had other effects on the four-day conference which was held late last month at the Hotel Manger Hamilton in Washington, D.C.

For instance, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey refused to send even a word of greeting to the groups. Democratic Party Chairman John Bailey, who was previously scheduled to speak, cancelled his engagement and likewise refused to send a message.

However, many Democratic senators and congressmen found time from their busy schedules to speak to the group, including Congressmen Don Edwards, D-Cal., and Lester L. Wolff, D-N.Y. Also several presidential advisers and a member from the Arms Control Committee spoke to the students.

Prevalant among topics of discussion was the war in Viet Nam and the draft situation which exists in the United States.

The trip afforded an educational experience for all the delegates, most of whom represented the East Coast. Saturday the East Carolina Young Democratic Club delegation spent time on Capitol Hill and was presented a gavel by Congressman Jones of the First District of North Carolina.

Graduated Scale On Tickets May Solve Parking Problems

By ELLEN ROGERSON
Staff Writer

Steve Snitman, SGA president announced Tuesday that he has appointed David Lloyd to head a committee to study the highly unsatisfactory problem of parking tickets on campus.

In the beginning ECC students had to pay $2 for any and all traffic tickets received on campus. Last year the parking problem became so severe that the parking ticket situation was revised. Any student receiving 3 parking tickets within one quarter must send his car home.

President Snitman stated he does not feel that this parental-like punishment is fair to ECC students. Mr. Lloyd is in full agreement with President Snitman. He has proposed a graduated parking ticket scale under which tickets would steadily increase in value. Lloyd feels that this would definitely cut down on parking tickets as students generally dislike parting with their money. "Also," stated Lloyd, "it would finally put the faculty on the same level with the student."

Lloyd and President Snitman went on to say that they realize the parking problems of the faculty and their purpose here at ECC. "Yet we feel that a double standard should not exist in the area of parking. Both faculty and students are penalized by a lack of parking spaces and disregard for traffic rules. Under the present system, only students are penalized. Under the proposed system, the faculty would receive its fair share of punishment."

Lloyd and President Snitman agree that if proposed graduated scale cannot be put into effect, action will be taken to disregard the present system of "3 tickets and home goes the car."

ALPHA DELTA PI

The East Carolina chapter of Alpha Delta Pi social sorority pledged 16 coeds during Formal Rush. They are Anne Cushman, West Palm Beach, Fla., Leslie Genzardi, Fair Lawn, N. J., Anne Hendershot, Greenville, Dianne Holland, Fairfax, Va., Linda Hopkins, Elizabeth City, Connie Howard and Sandy Whitlock, Hickory, Sue Hunnicutt, Bethel, Janet Moore, Springfield, Va., Kathy Moser, Annandale, Va., Pam Nelson, Durham, Donna Ramsdell, Newtown Square, Pa., Linda Rollins, Wake Forest, Marcia Smith, Landsdale, Pa., Gwen Strickland, Raleigh and Susan Upchurch, Chapel Hill.

Each pledge is presently undergoing a training period of 12 to 18 weeks. During this time the pledges are learning the history of the chapter and their responsibilities as members, and are participating in pledge projects.

ALPHA XI DELTA

Sixteen coeds at East Carolina College have been pledged by the Gamma Phi chapter of Alpha Xi Delta national social sorority. They are Linda Baldwin of Siler City, Jane Cleveland of Gastonia, Donese Coley of Kernersville, Jo Anne Davis of Jacksonville, Mary Galup of Washington, D. C., Denise Gollobin of Elizabeth City, Sharron Hubbard of Wilson, Patti McKinley of Morehead City, Jane Morris of Charlotte, Cheryl Murdoch of Newport, Patricia Potter of Beaufort, Jane Ricketts of Pope AFB, Bonnie Satterfield of Richmond, Va., Phyllis Southall of Kinston, Gayle Surles of Fayetteville and Orlean Thomas of Staten Island, N. Y.

The pledges have begun a pledge period of about 10 weeks to become full members of the sorority. Each pledge is studying the history of the chapter and learning her responsibility in the sorority. A scholastic average of C on all courses taken at the college is another requirement.

ALPHA OMICRON PI

New pledges of the Alpha Omicron Pi are Jane Hammond LeBlanc, Lucy Ann Scoggin, Frances McRay Ross and Vicki Jane Cooper. Other new pledges are Elizabeth Lee Kaminski, Elizabeth Anne Cummings, Nancy Louise Kuhn Myra Sally Pittman, Mary N. Reynolds, and Carolyn A. Kumerow.

After successfully entertaining at the College Union coffee house Thursday night, January 26, Jake Holmes and his accompanists, the CU committee and the CU directors visited the Alpha Omicron Pi house. While the sisters and their guests chatted informally, light refreshments were served.

Mrs. Donald Sanders, vice-president of Alpha Omicron Pi, is visiting the Zeta Psi chapter from Monday, February 6 until Thursday, February 9, 1967. The sisters welcome her.

KAPPA DELTA

Gamma Sigma chapter of Kappa Delta sorority is proud to announce the initiation of two pledges into sisterhood. They are Lynda Davis and Judy Gurganus.

On Thursday, January 26, they began their White Rose Week during which time they were honored by the sisters. They were initiated on Thursday, February 2.

The brothers and pledges of Kappa Sigma fraternity entertained the Kappa Deltas at a social last Tuesday, January 31. Kappa Delta's pledges were entertained at a social by the Lambda Chi's last Wednesday, February 1.

DELTA ZETA

Fourteen coeds at East Carolina have begun a pledge period of approximately 10 weeks toward becoming members of Delta Zeta social sorority.

They are Ann Breeze, Lowry AFB, Colo., Marie Annette Broadwell, Charlotte, Cathy Anna Chandler, Baltimore, Md., Beverly Deem, Arlington, Va., Sandra Duncan, Dunn, Beverly Foushee, Sanford, Charmelle Hayes, Gastonia, Susan Hill, New Bern, Jane Hinton, Goldsboro, Karleen Klemp, Annandale, Va., Lyn Lovelace, Macclesfield, Margaret Scovil and Connie Sexton, Raleigh and Judy Wilson, Greenville.

They were pledged by the Zeta Lambda chapter during formal rush. During the pledge period the girls will be required to maintain a C average and to participate in civic projects, a sister's project and a party honoring all the sisters.

DELTA SIGMA PI

On February 3 the Delta Zeta Chapter will have its annual Rose Ball at the Greenville Mose Lodge. This will include a dinner and dance. The Rose Ball Queen will be announced that evening.

Bob McInerney, a new brother from fall quarter, was elected as Junior Vice President in charge of the incoming pledges.

We would like to congratulate the bowling team for winning a trophy for second place in the ECC Fraternity Bowling League. The members of the team included: Steve Murray, Terry Merritt, Jay Katon, Bob Ahlum, and Ed Hudgins.

A tour to R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem was taken by the brothers of the Delta Zeta Chapter. It included a tour of the plant, personal interviews, a free lunch at the company's expense and free cigarettes. This was definitely a worthwhile venture.

On January 17 we had the honor of having Mr. Nelms of the Placement Service Bureau speak to the brothers. His speech dealt with how the bureau is run and what it will do for you. This was followed by a question and answer period.

PHI KAPPA TAU

Phi Kappa Tau had a successful Parents Weekend and Founders Day on Feb. 3 & 4. The weekend included a cocktail party for the parents Saturday afternoon, a banquet at the Holiday Inn, and a Semi-formal Dance at the American Legion Building. The weekend was highlighted by the presence of Dr. & Mrs. Leo Jenkins, and Mr. & Mrs. J. Mallory.

The Phi Taus won first place in the inter-fraternity swimming meet and also captured first place in the inter-fraternity bowling league.

At present the Phi Taus are 2 wins & 1 loss in basketball.

Phi Kappa Taus Winter Pledge Class consists of Steve Drum, Fred Forsythe, Stan Braddy, Chipper Tenville, Tim Kesler, Dennis Seagle, and Steve Taylor. They will make up the Chi Pledge Class.

THETA CHI NEWS

Theta Chi's were pleased with the announcement that Miss Dottie Ferguson was the winner of the annual White Ball. This is the fourth year in a row that Theta Chi's have sponsored the winner.

A winter Informal Rush is planned for Wed. Feb. 15, 1967. Epsilon Iota Chapter invites all interested boys to drop by the house at any time and acquaint themselves with Theta Chi members.

The annual Dream Girl Dance will be held on Feb. 10, 1967 at the Candelwick Inn. Music will be provided by "The Manhattan's." At this time Miss Lisa Green will crown the new Dream Girl for the coming year.

PHI BETA LAMBDA

Phi Beta Lambda met on February 1, 1967, at 5 o'clock in The Browning Room for its monthly meeting. This year's money-making project for the organization is the sale of Katydid's. The candy was issued to the members, and the members were impressed with the importance of the successfulness of this project.

This month's speaker was Dr. Alton V. Finch, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the North Carolina Chapter of Future Business Leaders of American and Phi Beta Lambda, who spoke to the group on the FBLA-PBL State Convention which will be held in Durham, North Carolina, on March 31, April 1, and April 2. The East Carolina Chapter of Phi Beta Lambda will be the official registrars for the convention; therefore, the organization is looking forward to a very successful convention. The new officers of Phi Beta Lambda for the year 1967-1968 are as follows:

President, Patrick Berry; Vice President, Haywood Forrest; Secretary, Nancy Bittner; Treasurer, Rita Everette.

The officers were installed on Monday, February 6, 1967, at a dinner at the Kenland Restaurant.

SIGMA NU

After operating in full capacity for a year under suspension from Sigma Nu National fraternity, Eta Beta chapter has regained its national charter, literaries and all ritual materials. Formal initiation of Cleland Fowler, Dan Pasquello, John Chandler and Fred Stokes as new brothers will be scheduled for next week.

PHI ALPHA SIGMA

On Monday February 6, Phi Alpha Sigma, EC's twelfth social fraternity, was formally voted into the Inter Fraternity Council.

The brothers of Phi Alpha Sigma have as their purposes to form a bond of brotherhood both within the fraternity and the whole Greek system on campus. Coordinating academic fulfillment with social life is one of the new fraternity's goals.

Much has been said about the shortcomings and gradual dying out of the social fraternity on the campuses of American Universities. Phi Alpha president, George Blanchard, feels these statements are to the contrary.

"Fraternities are now needed more than ever, to cope with the rapid change and harsh pressures on today's college men, brought about by larger colleges and the trend toward automation in courses."

At present a local fraternity, Phi Alpha Sigma has intentions of trying to become affiliated with a national fraternity. On top of the list of preferred "nationals" are Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Chi Psi, and Alpha Tau Omega.

The officers and brothers of Phi Alpha Sigma are George Blanchard, president; Bill Ruffy, vice president; Rick Binet, treasurer; Woody Huband, recording secretary; Bill Colvard, corresponding secretary; Greg Reddick; Jerry Banks; Charles Denny; Bob Halyburton; Gerry Grubbs.

The brothers hope to hold rush during Spring Quarter for their first pledge class.

PHI MU ALPHA

Alan W. Van Tuyl of Arlington, Va., is the new president-elect of the Phi Mu Alpha national music fraternity chapter at East Carolina College.

Van Tuyl and eight other students will take office March 1 and serve through the 1967-68 school year.

The others are Marvin Piland, Lacrosse, Va., vice president; Harry McLamb, Newton Grove, treasurer; Steven Morlan, McLean, Va., recording secretary; Morris Parker, Williamston, corresponding secretary; Larry Wells, Clinton, alumni secretary; Wayne Lett, Newport News, Va., historian; Scott Walker, Hickory, music director; and Alan Moore, High Point, warden.

Van Tuyl is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Van Tuyl, 4857 N. 29th St., Arlington, Va. He is a junior trumpet major and violin minor in the college's School of Music.

He has previously served as recording secretary of Phi Mu Alpha and will be a delegate to the national convention next summer. He plays with the Marching Pirates, the Brass Choir and the Symphonic Band, and is a member of the ECC Rowing Club.

Phi Mu Alpha is open to any male student with a C average. The fraternity strives to advance the cause of music in America, to foster brotherhood and to encourage loyalty to the Alma Mater. Donald C. Tracy of the ECC School of Music faculty is chapter adviser.

"When you ask for translators, I have to remind you that one great characteristic of the modern scientific and technological revolution is that no one understands all of it, and only the specialists really understand some of the parts of it. So I say you must think charitably about your fathers and your grandfathers. For in the face of what has actually been happening they have, all of them, been unprepared and uneducated men. . . . Do not expect too much of them. Do not expect from them what in the old traditional society was the common heritage of men . . . to have handed down to you the knowledge you need to live and live well. You will have to educate yourselves to understand the infinite complexity of the modern age. This is such a great task that none of you need ever wonder whether there is something worthwhile for you to do.

The capacity to judge rightly is an art which cuts across all specialties. It is possessed by those who have an imaginative feeling for what really matters to human beings, whether they travel in jet planes or walk on foot, whether they are weak or poor, powerful or weak . . . To be wise is to have a certain familiarity with the deposit of human values that persist in any human environment. When you look across the gap between the generations you will find on the other side some traces of this wisdom. If you have good sense, if you have an instinct for what will make life interesting, you will seize upon this wisdom when it comes your way."

Decisive Games Ahead

By Clem Williams

Tankmen Gain Revenge
The Pirates did it again! A closely packed crowd of 1800 people saw East Carolina's first Southern Conference Championship team top the University of South Carolina in a grudge meet which last year was lost by the Pirates by a very slim margin. Students and residents of Greenville were among the many people at the meet. Congratulations on a job well done, boys!

Williard and Mary Dominates V. P. I. Invitational

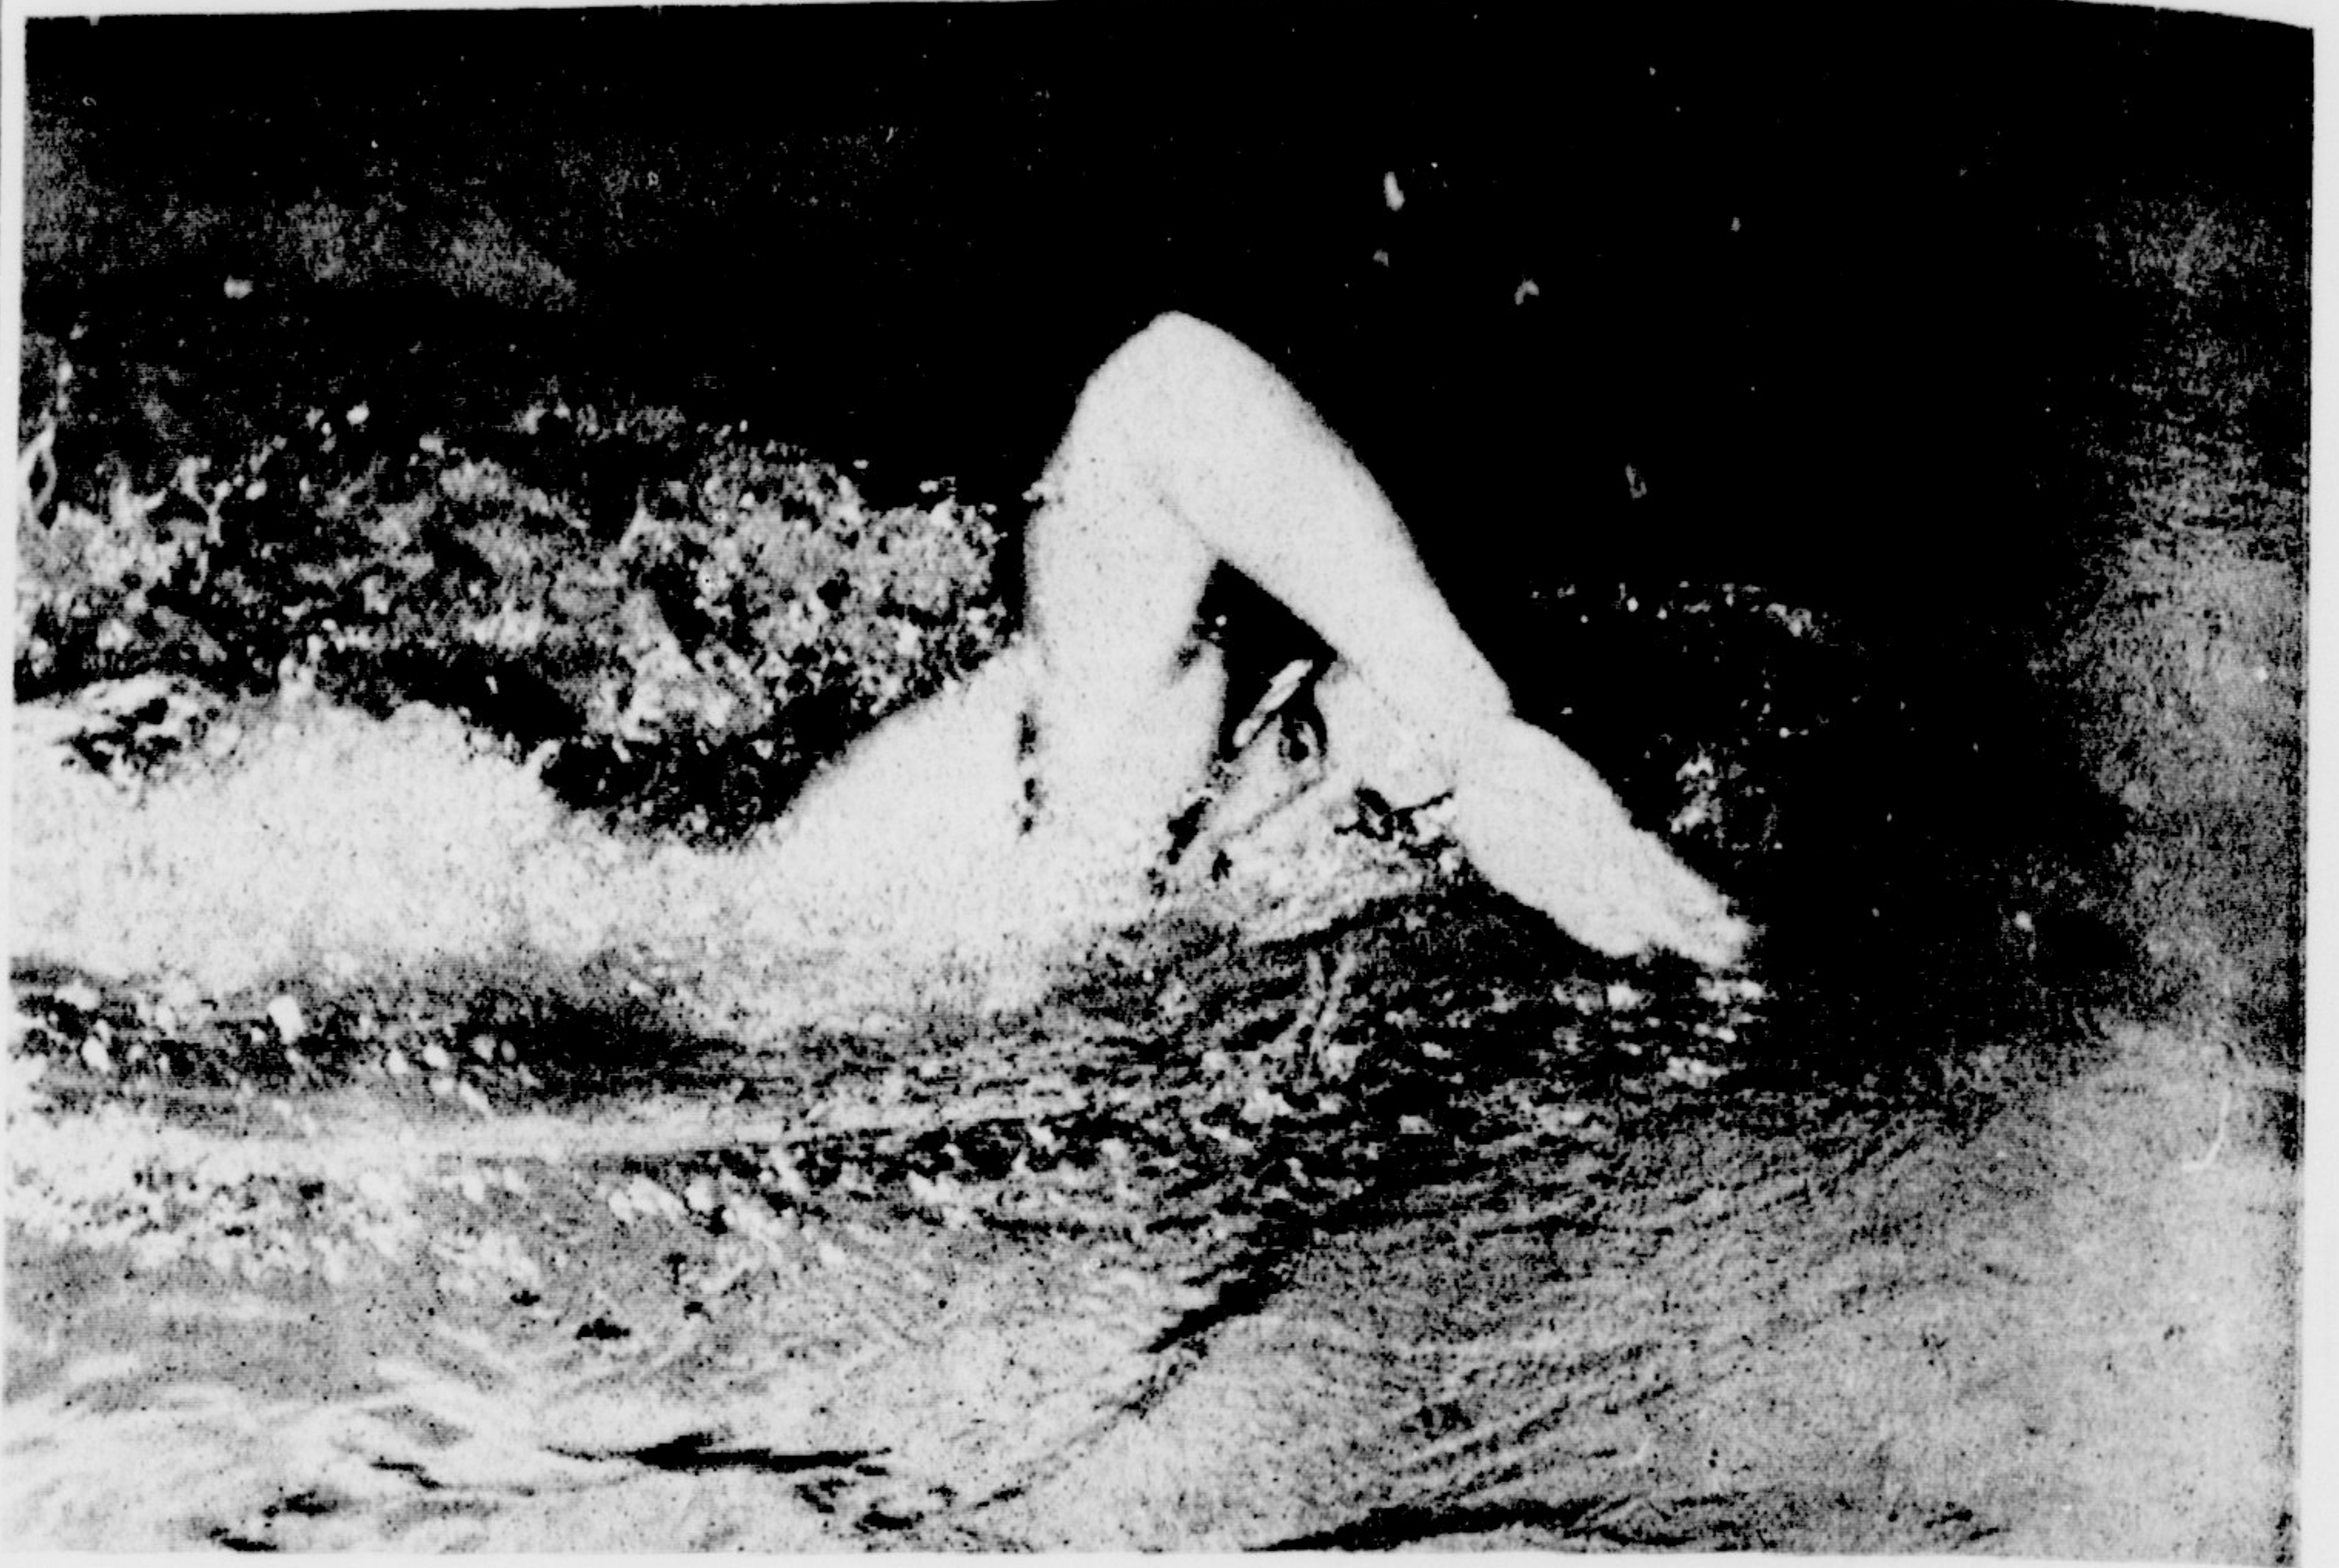

Out of forty colleges and universities, William and Mary reigned victorious in the V.M.I. relays. Eighteen members of the Pirate camp went. Among those who brought good results was Ken Voss who placed fourth in the mile. The Pirate distance medley team took a fifth place. Team members were: Don Jayroe, Charles Hudson, Mike Bridges and Bill Cothren. The Pirates have the Big Six meet coming up at Carolina on February 18 with Carolina, Duke, Wake Forest, N. C. State, Davidson and North Carolina College. This should be the top meet of the state for the in-door season.

U.C.L.A. Has First Close Call
The top ranked U.C.L.A. Bruins had their first close call against Southern California. The South-erners played a deliberate slow down game, thus carrying it into an overtime. The Bruins are still the only unbeaten team in college basketball. However, no team is unbeatable!

Bucs on the Road

Thus far this basketball season, the fighting Pirates have had a rather dismal season on the road. The next three games will be very crucial as far as the Southern Conference goes. The Bucs will play the Citadel, George Washington, and Richmond on the respective home courts. Maybe the Pirates can break this jinx.

Eric Orrell sprints toward finish line to win the freestyle relay, thus winning the meet for EC against the University of South Carolina.

EC Swimmers Win Victory Over USC In Close Meet

Never before in the history of battle from the opening relay. The East Carolina has there ever been relay team of Domberlin, Paris, such an athletic event as there Littleton, and Sultan gave EC swim- was Saturday, February 4, when the mers a quick seven points. The EC swimming team won a super- thousand yard freestyle which fol- colossal victory over South Caro- lowed provided more excitement.

South Carolina swimmers took the race out quickly, but Jim Man- chester came on strong in the last eight lengths to take a second place which brought a roar from the partisan crowd.

The 200 yard freestyle was won by Mike Hamilton in a brilliant per- formance with an EC varsity rec- ord time of 1:52.

The meet was a nip and tuck

The USC divers were superb and gave All-American ECC divers Dick Tobin and Les Gerber a rough time as USC got first and second. But EC proved its power when Mike Hamilton came back to win the 200 yard butterfly.

ECC moved on when Mike Tom- beilin won the 200 yard back stroke and Owen Paris won the 200 yard breaststroke. The Gamecocks even- ed up the match by winning the 100 and 500 yard freestyles.

The match was undecided down to the final relay because ECC had fallen two points short of winning. This made the winner of the 400 yard freestyle relay the winner of the meet since the relay is worth seven points. Each leg of the relay was neck and neck until anchorman Eric Orrell edged out South Caro- lina's Dick Machata in the final lays. The combination of Hamilton, Jorgensen, Sultan, and Orrell brought home a 58-46 victory over South Carolina.

Pitt County Awards Two $500 Scholarships

Two freshmen in East Carolina College's School of Nursing are recipients of 1967 scholarship awards given by the Pitt County Medical and Dental Society.

Judith Mary Roberts and Judith Corinne Williams have been award- ed the $500 scholarships.

They were chosen for their ma- turity, ability in nursing and out- standing records as students at East Carolina. Both are 1966 gradu- ates of J. H. Rose High School in Greenville.

The $500 awards, which provide $125 a year for four years, are offered each year to Pitt County students who enter the ECC nursing degree program.

Sigma Tau Delta Professional English Fraternity will meet Thursday, February 9, 1967, at 7:00 P.M. in room 212 of the Col- lege Union.

Annual 'Marchathon' Nets $2300 For 1967

Air Force ROTC cadets at East Carolina College this week present- ed another record-breaking contri- bution to the Pitt County March of Dimes campaign.

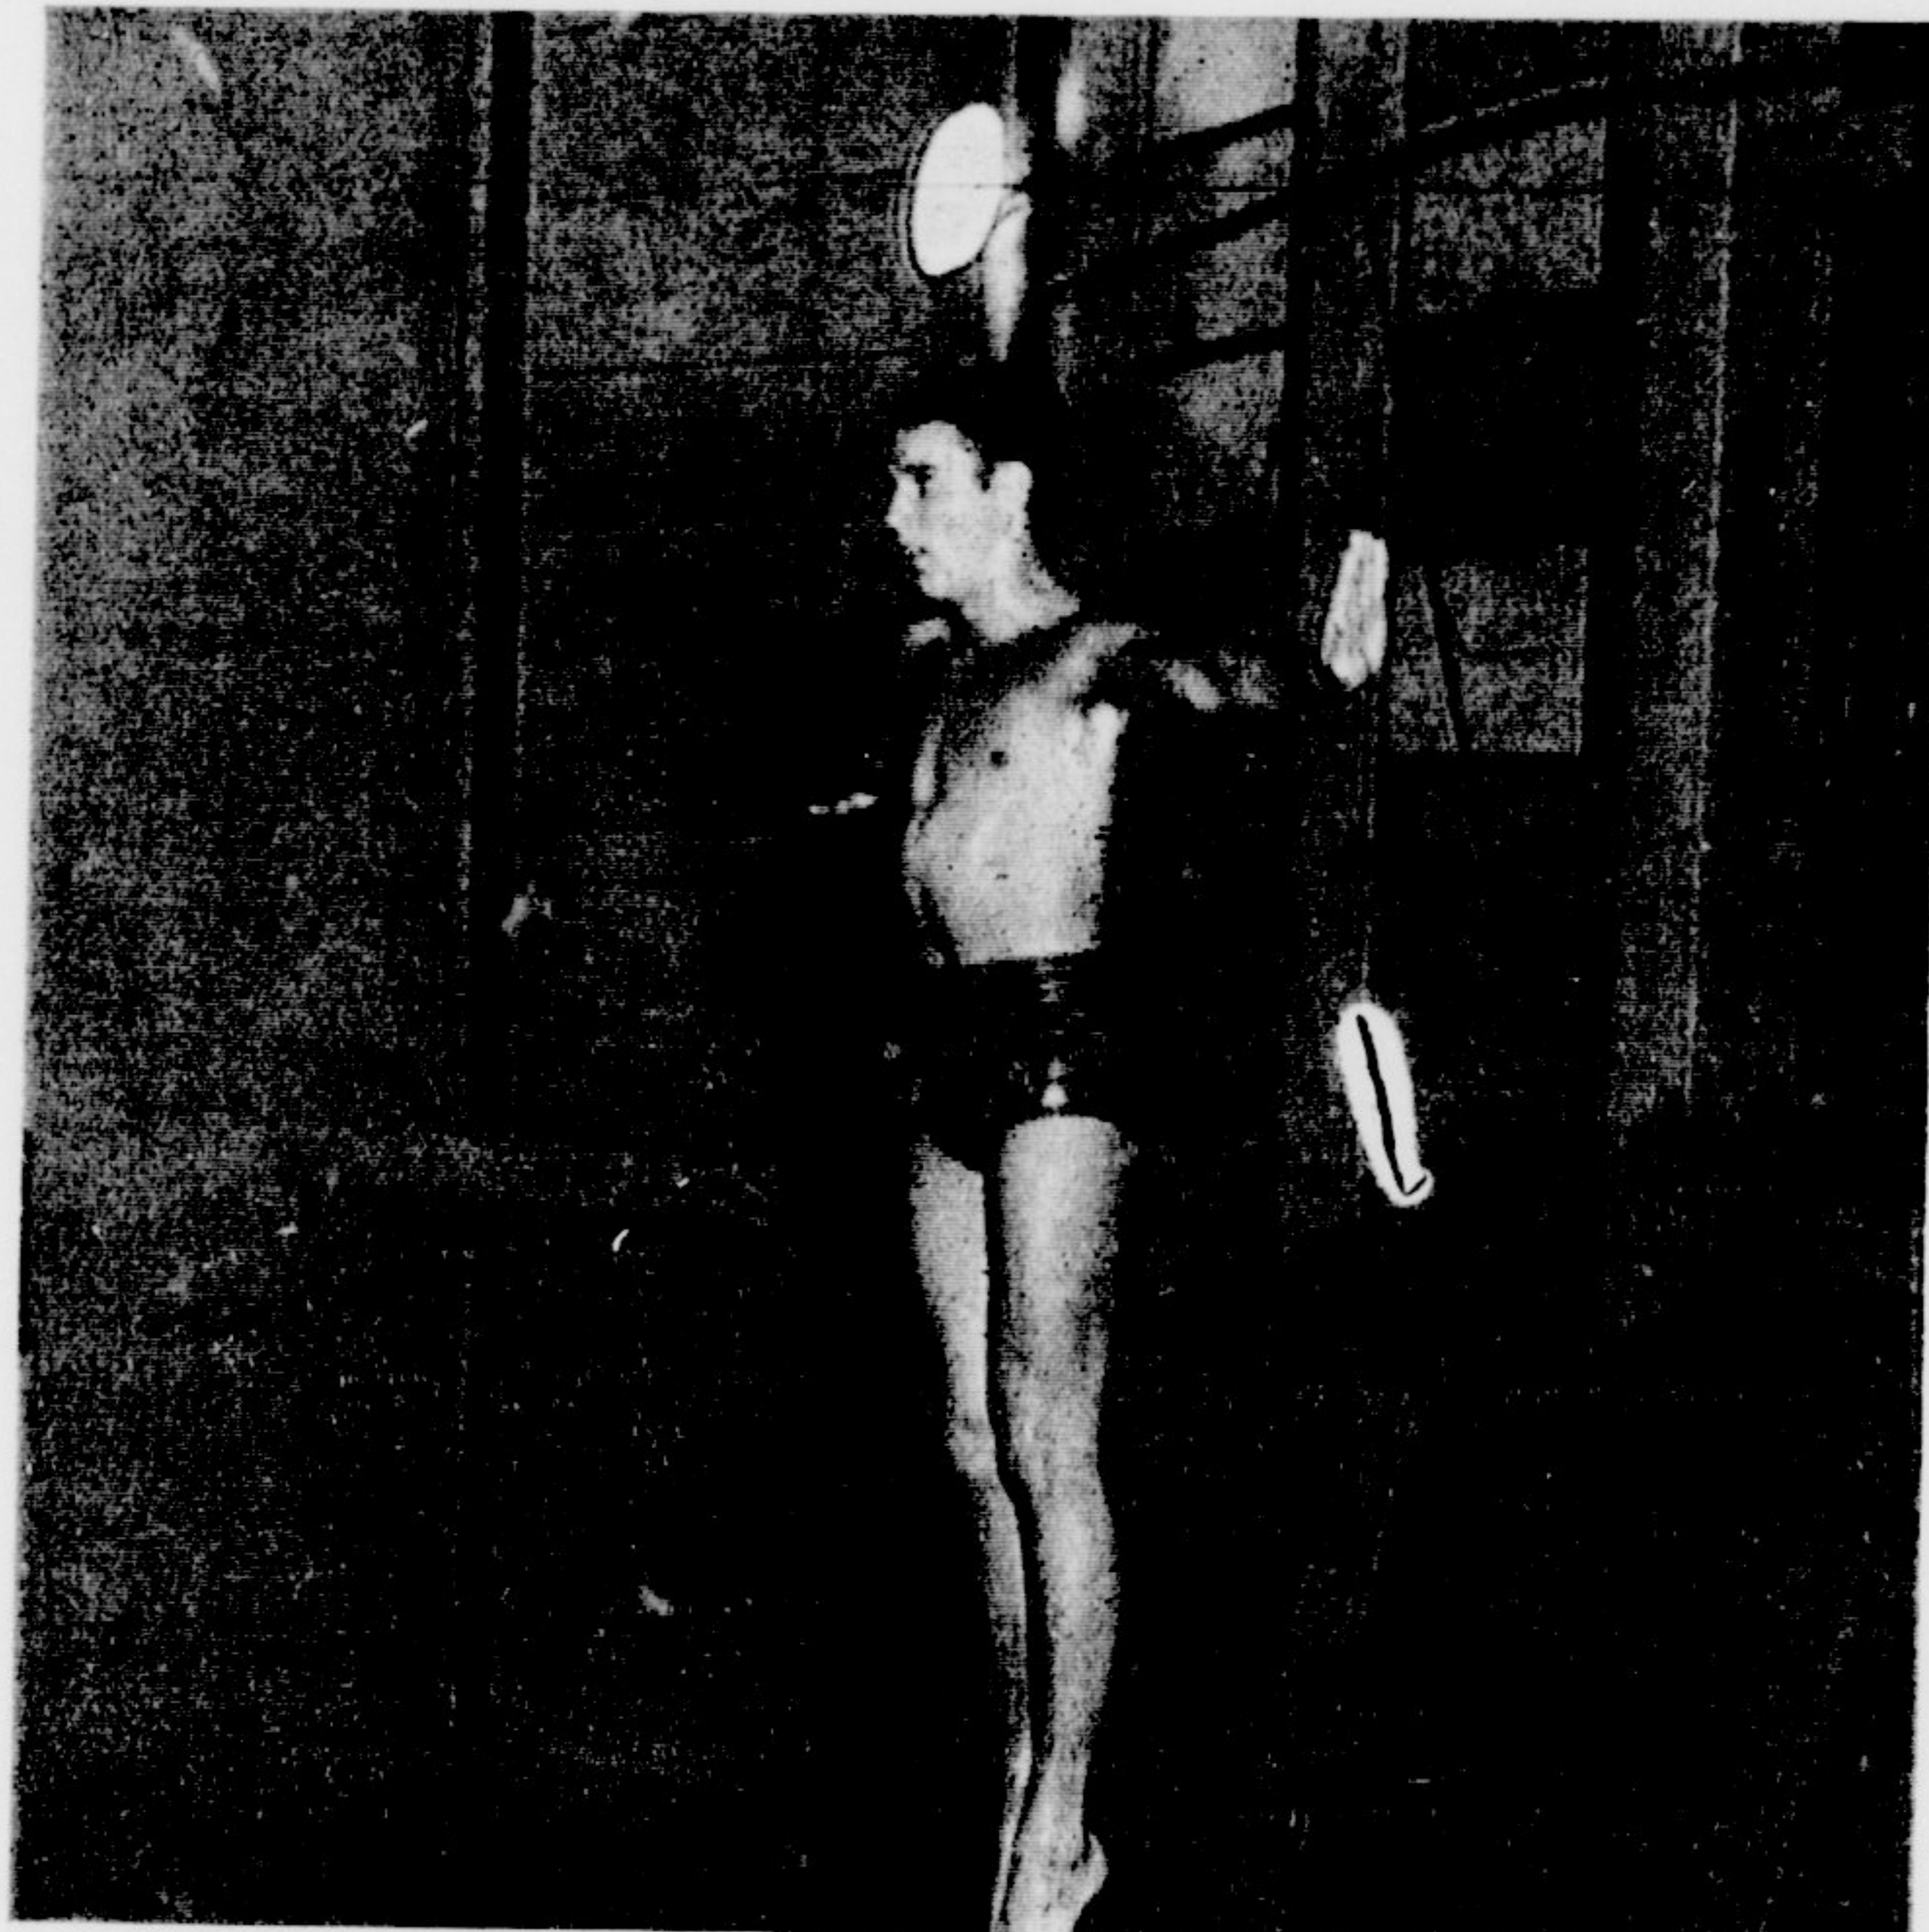

Mrs. Louise Carrigan, county campaign chairman, will receive a check within the next day or so for $2,300 which represents contribu- tions the cadets collected in their eighth annual "Marchathon."

The Marchathon program this year involved marathon downtown drilling sessions by the detach- ment's Honorary Drill Team while cadets and members of the auxil- iary Angel Flight collected contri- butions.

The total amount collected in the Marchathon exceeds by more than $200 the previous record, $2,094.23 in 1966.

To collect this total amount the drill team held all-day marches in Greenville last Saturday, Jan. 28, and a drill session in nearby Farmville on Tuesday, Jan. 31.

Lt. Col. Douglas F. Carty, chair- man of the aerospace studies de- partment, had words of praise for the effort by the cadets. "These young men turned in a fine per- formance, upholding a tradition of eight years now, and we're very proud of them," he said.

The skill of USC divers in a February 4 swim meet was notable, but EC surpassed them in a 58-46 victory.

School Of Music Presents Recital

Two seniors in the School of Music gave a recital Monday night at East Carolina College.

Betty Jo Ott and Virginia Holmes Shipp played music by Brahms, Chausson, Faure, Hahn, Mozart, Schubert, Schumann and Wolf.

Also on the evening program was a three-member wind ensemble in- cluding Miss Ott, Marvin S. Pil- land, and Ida Andrews.

Miss Shipp, a student of Gladys White, opened the program with a Mozart aria. She also sang Meno- ti's "Steal Me, Sweet Thief" rom "The Old Maid and the Thief" and one of her own compositions, "Mice." Other numbers included Ives' "Hymn" from "The Swim- mers" and Sandoval's "Sin Tu Amor."

Miss Ott, a clarinetist, is a stu- dent of George Knight. She played Seiber's "Andantino Pastorale," and Brahms' "First Sonata in F minor, op. 120."

Sylvia Bradley accompanied Miss Shipp at the piano. Dr. Gregory Kostack, ECC composer-in-resi- dence, accompanied Miss Ott.

The wind ensemble performed "Divertimento III" by Mozart.

'Concepts' Features EC Summer Theatre In Sun. Presentation

The producer-director of the East Carolina College Summer Theatre and two of his colleagues will dis- cuss the beginning of the theatre here, its structure and financial status at noon Sunday on Green- ville television station WNCT-TV, Channel Nine.

Sunday's regular weekly half- hour telecast, "ECC Concepts," will feature Edgar R. Loessin, producer- director; John Snedden, set design- er; and Mavis Ray, choreographer.

Moderator of the program, "A Review of the Artistic and Financial Development of the ECC Summer Theatre," is Joe DeLoach of Chan- nel Nine. It is a cooperative pro- duction by ECC and WNCT-TV.

Scheduled for the 1967 season are two non-musical comedies -- "Arsenic and Old Lace" and "Any Wednesday" -- and four musicals: "The Music Man," "South Pacific," "The Mikado" and "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying."

Osborne, Taylor Place Third And Fifth In Duke Marathon

John Osborne and Terry Taylor, members of the East Carolina Col- lege varsity cross-country team, recently competed in the first an- nual Duke Marathon. Osborne and Taylor, both running the twenty- six and one quarter mile distance for the first time, finished third and fifth respectively out of a field of seventeen. Two experienced mar- athoners, Brue LaBudde of Geor- gia State and Ed Hereford of Sey- mour Johnson AFB, finished one- two.

The race started at the Duke Chapel in Durham and ended on the track at N.C. State University in Raleigh. Osborne lead the pack for the first thirteen miles, but lack of experience began to take its toll as the mileage added up.

Osborne finished third with a good time of two hours and forty- nine minutes and established a new East Carolina school record. Terry Taylor finished the grueling race in fifth place with a good time of three hours and eight minutes.

Osborne and Taylor are planning to get into some international com- petition at the Boston Marathon this spring. Runners from all over the United States and the world run at Boston every year on April 19th.

Terry Taylor (left) and John Osborne placed third and fifth in the first annual Duke Marathon, a grueling race of 26 1/4 miles.
