Judiciary Controversy Continues As Altered Amendments Pass

Steve Sniteman, president of the SGA, addressed the legislature on the controversial Women's Judiciary Constitution. Sniteman said the "Women's Judiciary were condemned, criticized (in the legislature) . . . (their) constitution was called a farce . . . I didn't hear anything good (about them) . . . their constitution has served as a scapegoat for the Rules Committee chairman." (The Rules Committee chairman is Jim Kimsey).

Sniteman went on to say that "freshmen shouldn't be allowed to serve on the Women's Judiciary." About the popular election of judiciary members Sniteman said, "I don't think it's right. You can say what you like but you aren't elected on qualifications, you are elected on popularity. A judiciary member doesn't need to be a politician."

Sniteman continued, "The average person does not want to be involved in government . . . I am in favor of the legislature having the right to choose the members to the Women's Judiciary Council."

When Sniteman finished his address he left the floor without applause. The legislature was called at ease and Speaker Kimsey called a meeting of the Rules Committee.

Co-eds Voice Opinions

Over thirty co-eds packed the legislature to support their amendments to the Women's Judiciary Constitution. Their three amendments were: 1) an amendment to the article on membership to delete the portion that would seat freshmen on the council.

2) the deletion of the parts of the article concerning elections that would require prospective candidates to the judiciary to be screened by the Executive Council of the SGA and the executive session of the legislature.

and 3) the Women's Judiciary Council may make use of an Investigating Attorney and Public Defender.

After rather heated debate between members of the legislature and interested students Bill Deal rose to make the following remark: "This student legislature has been made a mockery of by a bunch of women who don't know what they are all talking about . . . the freshmen have just as much right to serve on the judiciary as the rest of us."

One member of the judiciary rebutted Deal with the remark that "only 19 cases out of 360 cases before the judiciary last year were freshman cases . . . How can you tell us what is best for us . . . when we know how we operate?"

Miss Broadhurst, chairman of the Women's Judiciary Council, said "the freshman entering school fall quarter just do not know enough."

After lengthy discussion the Women's Judiciary Council's amendment concerning freshman membership was amended to raise the membership of the council to eleven, including two freshmen, plus two alternates. The amendment passed. All other recommendations from the council to the legislature also passed.

Also a motion passed for a recommendation to the president of the SGA to extend the filing date for Women's Judiciary Council candidates and also to schedule a special election for WJC candidates.

KD's Honor SP

The Student Party met Monday, March 13, for an organizational meeting. Chairman of the party, Barry Blick, stated, "WE organized to complete the various campaigning task."

SP HONORED

The KDs voted unanimously to support the Student Party in the coming election.

Wednesday night the Kappa Delta held a tea in honor of the Student Party candidates. Members from the SP attending were Steve Sniteman, SGA president, Steve Moore, candidates for president; Barry Blick, Sandy Wentzel, Carleen Hjortsvang, Sally Yopp, and Steve Burns.

SERVE MODEL UN

Volunteers are needed to serve as pages for the United Nations Model General Assembly, Wednesday, April 5 through Saturday, April 8.

Students will be excused from classes to serve and will work in shifts. Any interested students are urged to turn in their names to the SGA Secretary in Room 303 of Wright Annex if they wish to serve as pages.

The Student Party was honored Wednesday night with a tea given by Kappa Delta sorority.

STEVE BURNS

Burns Resigns As Chairman; Legislature Approves Budget

The SGA legislature held its regular weekly meeting Monday, March 13. The first order of business was the resignation of Steve Burns as speaker of the legislature. Burns said, "Because of academic pressure I must leave the chair as speaker."

Jim Kimsey, chairman of the Rules Committee and a prominent member of the legislature, was elected as speaker. Burns was given a standing ovation by the members of the legislature in recognition for his work as speaker.

Jim Kimsey said, "On behalf of the legislature I express regret that Steve Burns has had to withdraw from his position as speaker. Steve, as a newcomer to SGA this year, added real spirit to the legislature."

Appropriations

The following appropriations were suggested by the Budget Committee and approved by the legislature:

1) East Carolinian - $3000 - To be used for printing and engraving.

Begins a plan to improve the advertising ratio in the paper. The paper staff feels that with this extra printing allocation they can return an equal amount to the SGA General Fund in advertising.

2) Central Ticket Office - To be used to print brochures for next year's Fine Arts Series and also for a banquet for "civic minded music lovers." Hopes are that a campaign can be undertaken to sell 1,000 season tickets to the Fine Arts Series at $10 a ticket resulting in $10,000 revenue for the SGA.

3) SGA Executive Council - $350 - To be used to purchase a new mimeograph machine and also for expenses of the SGA Installations Banquet.

4) Playhouse - $850 - To be used for production of the final Playhouse production of the year - "La Ronde".

5) School Of Music - $525 - To be used to produce two operas for the Annual Contemporary Music Festival at the dedication of the new School of Music building.

Earle Beasley Resigns

Earle Beasley, a prominent member of the legislature, business manager of The Buccaneer and active in all aspects of student government, submitted a statement of resignation from the legislature which was read before the close of the meeting.

Beasley stated "It is with a great deal of regret that I must inform you of my decision to resign from the Student Legislature. I have enjoyed very much my two years of association with this body and wish it were humanly possible for me to maintain my participation and still do justice to my academic career. This conflict has compelled my gradual disassociation with Student Government."

"Let me assure you that this decision is no spur-of-the-moment decision. It has been derived after many hours of conscientious consideration and with emphasis on how I can do the most good for the most people."

Last Minute Business

The legislature voted to name the spring entertainment weekend "Pirate Jamboree." Speaker Kimsey appointed Courtney Andrews to fill his vacancy as chairman of the Rules Committee and Steve Yelverton was appointed as speaker pro tempore of the legislature.

From The Voter's Vote . . .

Spring fever is sneaking around the corner, a duck suns himself in the fountain and student body elections are with us again.

Bright smiles, warm greetings and an array of red, yellow and green campaign posters decorate the center mall and all the other conspicuous places on campus.

"The spoken word, the challenging ambitions are often powerful but through the drama of it all, one must look for truth.

The East Carolinian can't afford to endorse a candidate this year. For one thing, we're not an independent newspaper yet. The candidates themselves are entirely too close to the basic issue for us to decide who is the best candidate. We can't promise who will win the election — we don't really know what position the paper would find itself in after elections.

So today's editorial is written strictly from the voter's point of view. It is not the view of a supporter or the candidate. However, the voter would ask the "Average Collgee Joe Candidate" to stop and listen for a moment, even if you are pushed for time.

More than at any other time in the history of East Carolina, student government must primarily be the voice of the students and not that of an individual political group. Everyone knows that student government supposedly represents student opinions. However, just because its student government doesn't insure that student opinion will be represented. It is far too easy, as has been evident in the past, for one or two student leaders to make their own personal opinions seemingly representative of the entire student body.

Student government at East Carolina should stand with the students, not above them as a force to be feared. And in this manner alone, should student government ever act as a coordinator of student affairs.

One should consider also how our student government should stand in relation to our college administration? All of us realize that the administration is the real coordinator of the college as a whole. And in this coordination, students are simply the totality of the whole.

When student government works too closely with administrative authority, we give up all constructive criticism which as a governing body we could exert on the administration.

Student government should strive for working with the administration as the voice of the student majority. It should not strive so much to be the control force for coordinating both the views and aims of the administration and the students.

We look back at this year's student government. We complain only slightly. We've seen all the student government officers giving time and effort to do what they felt was necessary. It just happens that there were times when what they thought was necessary was not brought to the students until the old horse had died apathetically. Sometimes too few people knew entirely too much about situations which should have been projected before the student body before they became an issue for debate.

Past SGA presidents have strived faithfully to give students a voice in the handling of their college. Now is the time when we need a leader who will speak for us — who at every opportunity will insure that the students are having some power in the decisions that effect their college life.

Students at East Carolina are not a center of controlling power. Basically the students are free only to be a controlled body. And the president who leads next year's student government must meet those who control with the forceful, objective, and student representation that we need.

It is no news to anyone that vast improvements must be made in our own system of student government. Our judicial system has become a lax, impotent, and outdated body. Those involved are doing nothing and sheepishly asking "Should something be done about it?"

Our student legislature can likewise take a little more authority and hopefully somewhere along the line be more effective and representative of the students. This does not mean that student government has existed ineffectively this year. It has done much, but there's a lot more that it could do.

As individual voters, we must look at both sides of every candidate—and there are two sides to consider objectively. The office of president is like all other offices. It is not an honor. It is a strenuous, time consuming position. And above all the job requires intelligence, motivation, dedication, innovation and a thousand other adjectives.

As a voter and not a candidate, one apparently decides that he can't do the job—the voter must start thinking and elect the people who will do something. If you get the wrong SGA officers this year, the voter can blame himself for what goes wrong. The voter is as responsible as the candidate.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Thursday night an instantaneous house meeting was called in our dorm for the purpose of presenting two petitions. The petitions contended that (1) the women's judiciary membership should be chosen in a general election by women students and that (2) the nine member women's judiciary be composed of sophomores, juniors, and seniors. These two petitions are secondary to the "neglected" principal issue: a nine member women's judiciary, which apparently has already been effected.

The reason given for the decrease in membership is that the present group cannot work effectively. Since these 28 members admit their ineffectiveness, it is obvious that our elected officials are incapable of performing the task they claimed they could do when running for their respective offices, as each was aware of her responsibility to serve on the women's judiciary as part of a twenty-eight member group. Each candidate should have known whether she was capable of effectively working as part of this organization, instead of waiting until now to show ineffectiveness.

One argument I heard for this decrease is that even a jury has only twelve members. There is no comparison between a jury in a court of law and this nine member group. A jury is carefully selected by both the prosecuting and defending attorneys so that no juror is familiar with the defendant nor opinionated. Every citizen is a prospective juror. This jury listens to a debate presided over by a qualified judge. It often deliberates for weeks or months on a verdict. It serves on only one case and is then dismissed. Obviously, these characteristics bear no resemblance to this nine member judiciary.

Another argument for this decrease is that the members will be elected by all. As the membership now stands it is elected by all. Besides the members at large, each girl represents a dorm or a sorority and together they equally represent all the women students. To afford equal representation for all under this nine member system, each member would have to claim to represent every girl on campus. Nine women cannot successfully represent over 4,000 women. However, if the women's judiciary continues to be comprised of the president of each dorm, the house manager of each sorority, and a definite number of members at large, which should satisfy the "general election" supporters, more equal representation will be assured.

The first purpose of a democratic government is to represent the people, not to see how efficiently it can pass judgment. Simple logic demands that the larger a population, the greater its number of representatives. Strange as it seems, our student population grows, but our student government administration shrinks. Naturally, nine people would be more effective than twenty-eight. It is much easier for nine individuals to come to a faster decision than twenty-eight. By cutting its membership to nine, the women's judiciary's job is made easier, but this is not being fair to all the students, which should be of first concern. At this rate, as our student population grows, theoretically the women's judiciary will consist of one person; after all, it would be more effective — not having so many different opinions and ideas with which to contend.

Dear Editor:

Probably next to Leo Jenkins, the one person on this campus who has put East Carolina in the news this year is SHERRY ROBERTSON who is E.C.'s own "Miss Cheerleader U.S.A. 1967" and now a candidate for S.G.A. HISTORIAN. Sherry is a very out-going person who makes friends easily and leaves an impression wherever she goes.

Besides serving as varsity cheerleader, Sherry has worked on the BUCCANEER staff and in Modern Dance Club. She is serving her sorority, Sigma Sigma Sigma, as TRIANGLE Correspondent, junior rush chairman, and Panhellenic delegate. As a primary education major, Sherry is a member of SN-EA and has been on the honor roll.

Not only does Sherry serve our campus in Greenville, but she carries E.C.'s name well in her away-from-campus activities. This fall she was one of thirty college girls from seven states to serve as a National Tobacco Festival Princess. Also, she was a finalist in the "Miss Petersburg (Va.) 1967" pageant and received the coveted "Miss Congeniality" award.

As Sherry's roommate, I can vouch for her interest in E.C. activities and her hard work to help E.C. in any way. Sherry's friends and associates find her to be very easy to get along with and know that she is a good worker. In fact, a look back at a few of her high school activities — editor of yearbook, business manager of school paper, head cheerleader, president of F.B.L.A. — will show this even further.

While Sherry travels and makes appearances this summer as "Miss Cheerleader", I know that she will continue her good representation of East Carolina. She is proud of E.C. and wants to serve the campus to her fullest.

Now, I ask all East Carolina students to give their fullest support to SHERRY ROBERTSON and to elect her S.G.A. HISTORIAN. I know that she is qualified and that she can do the job well.

Sincerely,
Marion Howard
Sophomore Class

Dear Editor,

I would like to take this opportunity to answer some charges the recent legislation concerning the women's rules and the new election constitution have raised.

There seems to be a large number of girls who have been informed by some of the leaders of the cause who were defeated as to my comments and reasoning. The first question raised is that I have no business, or does any other male, in making rules for women. Some of you may be interested in knowing that it was a male that started the drive which resulted in later hours for the women. It has also been males who have helped the women out in more ways than one in their problems over the years. The new rules, which were written and presented in such terrible form that it took the Rules Committee four hours to re-write them, were written by the women.

Some of the old brass were unable to answer questions that I put to them, as they also were unable to convince the representatives of the Legislature that they had any concrete ideas.

There has now been a drive put forth by the "poor losers" to have their way and keep freshmen off the Women's Judiciary. Their reason is that freshmen are not qualified to sit on this court. It seems rather strange to me that since over half the cases are involving this class that representatives should not be allowed to have a seat. Since when is class standing a requirement for making a finding and setting a penalty? A freshman is just as able to listen to facts and make suggestions for punishment as anyone else.

This is not a court of law and the basic knowledge required is common sense. Some of the best workers and most informed ones at present in the S.G.A. are freshmen women. The majority of the legislature are women, and they voted for this idea . . . why not let them be the representatives and make the decisions. If you are a freshman think about going before this body . . . would you not like to be represented?

The second question concerns the new election rules. The founder of the political parties at East Carolina is again showing his two faces. Why would a leader in a party want to defeat the purpose of what he fought to get. I am sure that Mr. Sniteman wants to keep up his good image in the eyes of the Independent, but at the same time he says he still wants the party to win. He vetoed a measure that his OWN party (which holds the majority in the Legislature) sent to his desk. He then in turn said he would not veto this bill a second time because he felt the Legislature was more representative of the student body . . . why then does he veto anything but for personal reasons?

Mr. Sniteman is saying that I, Bill Deal, control the Legislature. I want to thank him for the compliment, but I will have to decline the award. It is not I who want to run the elections on the big party system; I never said I did. I am saying that if we are a "University" and are trying to grow that we must grow in the party idea also.

It would be foolish to have a party if they had no money to promote their candidates. The party must have something to win more Independents and this added expense account is a great drawing card. I, along with several hundred other students, am confused at the wise old president's reasoning. But this is nothing new!

There are many more of you who should take a more active interest in finding out what is being passed in the Legislature. I think that if more students were aware of the whole situation that you could see the reasons for my actions as well as other students.

Sincerely Yours,
Bill Deal

Blick Details Platform

Dear Editor,
 For the past year East Carolina has been experimenting with a two party system. Students are beginning to realize the value of such a system in that it promotes the competition of ideas and levels of quality.

The Student Party feels that this competition is necessary in effective student government. For this reason the SP has been working to create a dynamic, continuous program to better serve student needs. We do not have a formula for a collegiate utopia, but our past record shows our sensitivity to campus problems and creativity in alleviating them. This year we have completed 15 points of former SGA president Eddie Green's program as well as 90% of our own.

Through cooperation with the Administration, the SGA succeeded in extending women's hours from 12:00 to 12:30 on weekends and 10:30 to 11:00 on week nights. Many students needed an effective evaluation of courses and professors in order to choose a more advantageous curriculum. The Faculty Evaluation was initiated to provide this service. The results of the student poll are now being compiled in booklet form.

The Economic Relations Board was established to provide more favorable price levels for EC students. In addition to student polls, negotiations with the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, civic leaders, businessmen, and elected officials have been conducted.

In the name of university status, we have reorganized the county and state clubs and have instituted a student speaker program to publicize East Carolina across the state.

The Student Party does not intend to rest on its record alone. We recognize the need for the continuous stimulation of ideas to improve collegiate life. Therefore, this year's platform continues to reflect the SP's policy of dealing with campus problems in a resourceful, realistic manner.

Current regulations concerning women's dress are antiquated and need to be brought up to date. Proposed services for women include janitorial service, a mailbox near the women's dorms, a specified number of late time allotments, and uniformity of women's house rules.

Many students are dissatisfied with Drop-Add procedures. The Student Party has already undertaken a study of the problem, and our goal is the elimination of this inconvenience.

The student complaint board will enable the SGA to be more responsive to the problems of college life.

The SP feels that the college should have adequate facilities for the students and should be utilized to the fullest extent. For this reason we are advocating these improvements: a campus carwash; opening of the bank on Saturday and extension of regular banking hours; library and Pamlico room hours; laundry facilities in men's dorms; smoother distribution of tickets for concerts and athletic events; the promotion of better housing facilities for graduate students; expansion of CU recreation; and storage lockers in various buildings.

Many people beg the question of traffic regulations; exploitation of the problems for political purposes is frequent. Most of the rules are there for a reason, and the Student Party is now making a realistic evaluation.

It has come to our attention that many traffic signs, particularly on one-way streets, are confusing. We are also proposing that students be allowed to park in faculty parking areas on weekends.

Many day students have complained that there is no organization acting specifically in their behalf. The Student Party proposes that a Day Students' Residence Council be established so that day students can participate more fully in social and academic areas.

Sincerely,

Barry Blick

Chairman, Student Party

Independent Runs For Treasurer

Dear Editor

I am a candidate for Treasurer of the Student Government Association. Below, you will find listed my qualifications, a statement of my reasons for running for this office and a list of my goals and some plans of action which I feel would be beneficial to the student body. If elected, I will dedicate myself to the task of getting as many of these programs started on our campus as is possible.

I am not affiliated with either of the two existing political parties on campus. My reasons for this are many and varied. I feel that too much emphasis is put on party membership and not enough on qualifications. When the chairman of one party resigns this position to run for SGA vice-president on the other party ticket, I believe that something is not as it should be. This is not to say that I do not support any of the party candidates of either of the parties' platforms.

The SGA here at East Carolina needs to be brought to a level such that each and every student can feel that he is capable of being elected to and serving in either of the three branches of our SGA. It is a STUDENT government association and the legislators and the Executive Officers should be aware of the needs and problems of the students and should be ready and willing to take immediate action to provide solutions to as many of these problems as possible.

I do not believe that the Executive Officers should be allowed to recommend their friends in the Legislature a certain group of their friends for a position of such importance as the Honor Council or Judiciary. This makes it too easy for one group to gain control of the entire SGA.

I have been active in many organizations since grade school and have held positions of leadership in all of them. I feel that my activities in these plus the fact that I have worked as a bookkeeper's assistant for several years qualifies me for the position of SGA Treasurer. Some of the organizations and the positions of leadership I have held include: Order of Rainbow which I served as Worthy Adviser to the local chapter and held a State office for three years; 4-H in which I held numerous local offices and also served as a county officer and held many committee chairmanships; Future Teachers of America; Future Homemakers of America; and Young Democrats Club at ECC. I am a member of the Immanuel Baptist Church here served in my home church as Secretary of the Sunday School and of my class and training union group. I was also elected vice-president of the Cullom Association Youth Council. Here on campus, I have been active in the Baptist Student Union and have served on several committees and have also served as Supper Chairman. I served as the publicity chairman of the 1965 ECC Viet Nam Christmas Drive. My sophomore year I was chairman of the Fleming Hall Religious Committee. At present, I am serving as acting Chairman of the Vance County Club here on campus.

The following is a list of some plans of action which I would like to see completed for the benefit of all students.

1. Organization of a Women's Residence Council. (I understand that this is presently in the planning stage).
2. More united student support for university status.
3. More communication between the Students and the SGA.
4. More encouragement for independents to take an active part in SGA.
5. A study room in each classroom building.
6. Formation of a Student curriculum evaluation committee.
7. Enlargement of the Intramural program.
8. Extension of Women's hours.
9. Revision of dormitory social program.
10. More and better campus married student housing.
11. Making the East Carolinian a daily publication.
12. Revision of registration procedures.
13. A campus transportation system.
14. Removal of campus radio from a closed circuit system.
15. Accomplishment of the four-teen goals listed above.

I can offer nothing more than my sincere effort to serve the students to the best of my ability and shall dedicate myself to this task if elected. My motto for this campaign is "For the Students, not the party."

Sincerely,

Nancy Bobbit
 Candidate for SGA
 Treasurer

Peace Corps Trainees Leave Classrooms For Kibbutzim

By RICHARD L. BERKMAN
EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article originally appeared in the August 24, 1966 edition of The Wall Street Journal and is reprinted with its permission. The author, a senior at Oberlin College in Ohio, was a summer intern and staff writer for The Journal.

Peace Corps trainees are getting out of the classrooms and, despite the grumblings of some old-line pedagogues, are training in the big-city slums, Puerto Rican rain forests, Indian reservations and Israeli kibbutzim (cooperative farms).

While the Peace Corps still trains its Volunteers in partnership with colleges and universities, the emphasis now is on practice instead of book-learning.

At the campus training centers, scholarly teachers are increasingly being succeeded by returned Volunteers with first-hand experience. Discussion groups have replaced lectures, and over-burdened trainees — by tradition told what to do (and usually two things at once) — can now opt to undertake a variety of activities instead of doing calisthenics.

In 1961 a fledgling Peace Corps, determined to help speed the economic and social development of Africa, Asia and Latin America, turned to higher education for assistance in training its first crop of recruits. The professors, the Corps believed, would have the intellectual resources necessary to produce competent Volunteers.

But, as Peace Corps officials explain it now, many of the academicians proved lamentably out of touch with the realities of the overseas situation, and their teaching methods, while fine for producing scholars, didn't prepare the Volunteers adequately for what they would meet in the field.

David Sherwood, a training officer for Africa, remarks that "being a Volunteer overseas meant great emotional involvement, which university classroom situations didn't take account of."

While instructors admit they can't simulate the overseas situation, they can, says Alex Shakow, deputy director of training, "concentrate the trainee with values he's not used to, and at least raise the questions."

Some of its own officials contend that the Corps used to go out of its way to make an ordeal of the training course (average length: 12 weeks). "The idea was that training should be the most difficult experience of a human being's life," says Robert Tufts, an economics professor who taught at the Oberlin College training center.

Part of Early Volunteers
 Early Volunteers trained from 6 a.m. to midnight six days a week; sat in lectures for up to 15 hours a day; underwent grueling physical fitness activities which often found up with the infamous four-day Puerto Rican trek (trainees were driven 30 miles from camp, handed maps and compasses and told to find their way home through the rugged Puerto Rican back country).

Now the Peace Corps has de-emphasized physical conditioning. The "Volunteer overseas faces 'a mental test, not a physical one,'" says Mr. Shakow.

To better prepare for this encounter, Mr. Shakow reports, the Peace Corps is "removing the teacher-pupil relationship" from training.

The new approach was evident at St. John's College in Annapolis, Maryland. There seminars and discussion groups replaced lectures. Trainees discussed, among other readings, Gandhi, Nehru, Martin Luther King, Plato, the Federalist Papers, Marx, Mark Twain, Lincoln, David Riesman, the New Testament, and the Bhagavad Gita. They also raised chickens and learned Hindi.

Friction With Universities
 As training methods have changed radically, friction between Peace Corps personnel and some university academicians has appeared.

Many Peace Corps officials report that scholars often didn't have up-to-date knowledge about their special countries. "Some hadn't been there for 10 years," says one official.

One professor, speaking harshly of the program in which he taught world affairs and communism to Volunteers, recalls that "the lectures were pretty ridiculous. They couldn't be of any help to students who had studied the topics at all previously." He adds that a visiting lecturer from the State Department who spoke on the Cold War was "hopeless. He was so careful he didn't say anything."

In contrast, Mr. Shakow says, "The returnees know what is going on. They know the important elements that make a Volunteer do well and can transmit these to the trainees."

The autonomy allowed trainees can be great. At the Virgin Islands training center, not affiliated with a university, Volunteers are warned that "you will force yourselves to learn or you will stay ignorant. No one will wake you in the morning here, no one will take your attendance, no one will check on you to find out where you are and what you are doing." But along with the autonomy, trainees often can expect life in the field to be a good deal harsher than on the campus. For example, at the Puerto Rican training center, trainees live in cabins without plumbing.

From Campus to Campsite

An increasing number of training programs offer a compromise between campus and campsite: Trainees live on the campus, then send them away for extended field training. At the University of New Mexico, Volunteers training for work in Latin America spend several weeks in Spanish-speaking villages in the Sierras. The Columbia University School of Social Work sends trainees into Spanish Harlem. Dartmouth Volunteers, in training for work in French-speaking Africa, live in Quebec with French-Canadian families and teach in a local school. Trainees at the University of Hawaii live in a simulated Asian village in the rugged Waipio Valley. In 1965, Volunteers spent six weeks on Israeli kibbutzim enroute to India.

Some programs bring the foreign culture to the campus. At the University of Missouri, trainees set up a Nepali house replete with Nepali food, utensils, furniture and traditions — for instance, spreading cow dung on the floor (mixed with water it makes a good plaster) according to the Nepalese practice.

Even with the changes in training techniques, some Peace Corps personnel contend that their major problem is lack of time. A project director says, "We have five hours a day of language training and also have to teach the Volunteers how to raise and kill chickens, grow vegetables, teach physics and math, administer first aid, and even build privies. All these things are crammed into 12 weeks."

JIM YOUNG . . . Editor of the Buccaneer, rates chances high for the '67 yearbook receiving ACP's All-American award.

Attractive Buccaneer Appears Near May 1

By JACK HART

February 21 marked the final publication date for East Carolina's honor rated yearbook, The Buccaneer. Completed layout and copy were sent to Taylor Publishing Company, Dallas, Texas on this date.

Commenting on the appearance of this year's Buccaneer, editor Jim Young said improvements in copy have been made. "The copy and photography are really good. We have designed an attractive new cover and included color inserts," Young added. An increase in number of pages makes the Buccaneer one of the largest yearbooks in the country.

Work on next year's issue has already begun to a degree with the keeping of picture files on Spring Quarter activities. "However, no actual work will be done until the new staff comes in," said Young. The Editor for 1967-68 will be appointed by the Publication's Board and will, in turn, appoint the remainder of the staff.

"As is the case every year, we had our problems," commented Young "but everything was turned in on time and all problems solved. Operating on a $57,000 plus budget and susceptible to $1,200 a day extra cost for a missed deadline demands proficiency."

Tentative distribution date has been set for May 1. To obtain his yearbook, students must present his Student Activity Card at the distribution center in the basement of Old Austin.

"The staff did a tremendous job this year," added Young. "They worked hard and met every deadline. We think we have a yearbook which will appeal to the students."

For the past four years, the Associated Collegiate Press has awarded the Buccaneer a first-class honor rating. In 1966, the Yearbook came very close to an All-American rating. This year, the staff believes, the chances are good for the highest award.

SPECIAL NOTE

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, president of East Carolina College, is scheduled to speak in Chapel Hill tonight.

He is the guest speaker for a meeting of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) chapter of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Dr. Jenkins' address is scheduled at 8 p.m. in Howell Hall on the UNC campus. His announced topic is "The Struggle to Serve."

Jobs Abroad--ISIS

Benchley Explores Europe

Nat Benchley, 19 year old Stanford University student, son of author Nataniel Benchley (The Russians Are Coming) and grandson of the great humorist Robert Benchley, returns home after having explored Europe on three levels — as a worker, a traveller and a student. "This year has proved invaluable in getting me accustomed to the European way of life and perfecting my French," he told F. X. Gordon, Jr., the Executive Director of JOBS ABROAD-ISIS (International Student Information Service, Brussels, Belgium) the organization that arranged his overseas job placement. "I have recommended your organization to students who would like to work in Europe next summer."

Nat has always wanted to visit Europe, but not on the beaten tourist path because that was too costly, and because, "I have always felt that the only way to really know a country is to live and work there." Learning of ISIS from a LIFE magazine executive, he sent his application to that organization last April and in June was flying to his job in southern France.

It was a hotel job in the little town of Albi. "I worked rather long hours, but the friendship of the Albigois was very comforting. I am grateful to them for the help and kindness they offered me. I know there will always be a friendly home there for me."

After the job term, he travelled, for a month. "I saw a bit of Spain, Italy, England and more of France." Then "I settled down to the life of a student at the Faculte de Lettres at the Universite de Nantes. The Nantais, too, have been warm and extremely hospitable to me."

Nat has done what increasing hundreds of American students and teachers are doing every year — seeing Europe the best way by working side by side with Europeans, cutting down their expenses by their earnings, getting to know the culture and language of another country as no tourist can ever do, and, on their free time, travelling the surrounding area.

ISIS offers a low-cost program of guaranteed summer or year-round jobs in Europe. These jobs are ideal for students with little or no skills, with insufficient funds to afford the usual European tours, and with a desire to enjoy the great European Adventure and earn back some of their expenses while doing so.

ISIS is headquartered in Belgium, 133 rue Hotel des Monnaies, Brussels 6. Its American affiliate is ISTC (International Society for Training and Culture), 866 United Nations Plaza, New York, New York, 10017. An illustrated magazine, JOBS ABROAD, which includes full information and application for the available jobs in countries overseas and the costs of the different programs, may be obtained by airmailing $1 to either organization.

Ed. Dept. Receives $18,000 Fed. Grant

East Carolina has been awarded an $18,000 federal grant to continue for another year a specialized program of training for teachers of mentally retarded children.

The grant, announced by Dean Douglas R. Jones of the ECC School of Education, will enable East Carolina to give five more of its most promising seniors a concentrated course in method and technique for teaching the mentally retarded.

Such a program was launched last year under a similar grant. The first five seniors are receiving the special training this year.

Under terms of the grant, each of the five seniors selected gets $1,800 toward their expenses for a year. The college gets a supporting grant of an equal amount for each student.

Dr. Gilbert G. Ragland, special education coordinator, working with the campus Special Projects Office, prepared applications for both grants. Both came from the US Office of Education under terms of Public Law 88-164.

Math Program Grant

East Carolina has been awarded a $20,000 federal grant to support a special mathematics program for 20 college teachers next school year.

In announcing the grant, EC math Chairman Tullio J. Pignani said, "We are very gratified by this award because such activities as this are usually carried on by institutions at the university rather than the college level."

Pignani said the program will be offered during the 1967-'68 school year. Participants will be chosen, he said, from applying faculty members of senior, junior, and community colleges and of technical institutes.

He noted that other applicants might be qualified persons who are planning to teach in college math after leaving other careers.

Under terms of the grant, supplied by the National Science Foundation, the teachers chosen to participate will get free tuition and a travel allowance for weekly trips to the ECC campus.

Two members of the East Carolina math faculty will serve as instructors in the program. Dr. Donald Bailey will lead seminars in "Set Theory" and Dr. Kenneth Davis will conduct a series of sessions on "Modern Algebra."

Dr. Pignani, working with the EC Special Projects Office, prepared the application for the grant.

ATTENTION EDUCATION MAJORS

On March 17, Mr. M. Rogers Smith, Supervisor of Pupil Services, will be at East Carolina from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. for the purpose of interviewing prospective teachers for teaching positions in Queen Anne's County, Maryland. There are vacancies this year on all elementary levels and in most high school positions.

With mad campaigning, accusations, and boisterous cheers, it's nice to see one unconcerned being, quietly enjoying the spring day. Is Wright Fountain truly going to the birds—er—ducks?

13 N. C. Seniors Receive Grant

East Carolina has announced the names of 13 high school seniors picked to receive its 1967 merit scholarships.

The $2,000 grants are allocated in $500-a-year installments for four years.

Merit scholarships, according to EC's dean of student affairs, Dr. James H. Tucker, are "awarded annually to outstanding high school graduates who have scored exceptionally well on the Scholastic Aptitude Test and have exemplified high degree of leadership and scholarship in high school."

The 1967 recipient are:

Ben Mary Bradley, Rocky Mount; Jeanette Carter, Durham; Virginia Arlene Craft, Greenville; Susan Dean Dyson, Clemmons; Frances Margaret Bibbs, Greenville; Linda Rose Holloman, Selma; Rodney Ray Ketner, Mount Airy; Donna Christie Moore, Rocky Mount; Patricia Raye Powers, Havelock; Thomas George Reed, Greenville; Frederick Glenn Smith, Fuquay-Varina; Louis Glenn Tetterton, Durham; Alene Hope Thornton, Erwin.

All of these students were outstanding in the various high school activities such as publications, sports, honor groups, student government, Beta Club, and National Honor Society.

A selection committee screened 1967 applicants for the scholarships. It considered candidates' scholarship, character, potential and financial need.

"The competition was keen and all candidates were deserving," said Dr. Tucker. "The committee had a most difficult time making the final selections."

One of the scholarships can cover about half the minimum student cost at East Carolina. Officials estimate that a student can go to college here for as little as $1,075 a year.

SBI Agent Lectures On Drug Addiction

A special agent of the State Bureau of Investigation is scheduled to speak to interested students in the MRC room in the basement of Aycock Dormitory, at 8:00 Monday, March 20.

Mr. Roy Epps will address the men on his topic, "Drugs on Campus." The problems of addiction, detection, and apprehension will be among the subjects covered.

Dean James Mallory, advisor to the Men's Residence Council, announced that Epp's appearance is a continuation of the present MRC "Meet the Fellows" program series. The program is set up to bring knowledgeable speakers to the men's campus to discuss current topics with the men students.

Epps has been specially trained in the field of detection and apprehension of drug pushers and users. All interested men are invited to attend.

Vote Wednesday

On Wednesday, March 22 when students go to the polls to vote for SGA officers and marshals, etc., they will also find the following amendment to the Constitution on the ballot:

Article V Section 4

Proposed amendments to this Constitution shall go into effect on the signature of the President of the Student Government Association unless:

a. Two percent of the student body has signed a petition stating that they wish the proposed amendment to go before the entire student body in a campus referendum. A petition shall be provided by the Student Government Association and posted in a public place; however, any such petition presented to the President of the SGA containing the required number of student signatures shall be considered as a valid petition. Time allotted for signatures to be collected shall be two weeks from the date the proposed amendment reaches the President of the Student Government Association.

b. The Legislature, by a two-thirds (2-3) vote, has ordered the proposed amendment to go before the entire student body in a campus referendum.

If either of the above conditions are met, the proposed amendment must be presented to the student body in a campus referendum within six weeks after the proposed amendment reaches the President of the Student Government Association.

Campus News Highlights

Building Bids Too High

East Carolina officials found bids too high to fit the budget this week in a bidding session on construction of a proposed $800,000 building for the home economics department.

Low bids came to nearly $883,000, which does not include a bid on built-in furniture the building will need. Also it does not take into account architectural fees and contingencies.

Vice-president Duncan said the bids are now under study by campus officers. He added, "It is extremely doubtful that we will be able to award contracts based on these bids."

Still he was hopeful that with additional funds the building can be constructed in time for the opening of the 1968 school year.

The State Advisory Budget Commission has recommended a supplementary appropriation of $223,000 for the building that now awaits action by the legislature.

The proposed new building, to be built onto the south end of the new School of Nursing building now nearing completion, is a federal-state matching project. The state is putting up two-thirds of the cost and the federal government is putting up the other third.

Mrs. Bradner is a teacher of voice and a member of the staff of East Carolina College's Extension Division.

Percussion Ensemble

The 12-member percussion ensemble of the East Carolina School of Music has been invited to perform at an Atlanta, Ga., meeting of the Music Educators National Conference in April.

The group, conducted by faculty percussion specialist Harold Jones, will give a clinic performance for music educators gathered in Atlanta from throughout the Southeast on April 28.

Science Fair

A Junior and Senior High School Fair attracted some 200 exhibits for display and judging at East Carolina Friday, March 10.

The exhibits represented students from 22 eastern North Carolina counties. The winners in the exhibit were invited to participate in the State Science Fair scheduled for April 7-8 at Duke University.

The fairs are sponsored by the North Carolina Academy of Science with the cooperation of nearly 50 industries, governmental agencies and other organizations.

Dr. Donald Bailey of the East Carolina science faculty was director of the Northeastern District event here. His associate director is James D. Nicholson, also a science faculty member.

ALPHA XI DELTA

Last Friday evening the Rho pledge class of Alpha Xi Delta was formally introduced at the Pink Rose Ball held at the Candlewick Inn. Kathy Marshall, pledge trainer, introduced each of the sixteen pledges during the intermission of the music and entertainment provided by the fabulous Embers of Raleigh.

The sisters and pledges wish to thank the brothers of Kappa Sigma for the social last Thursday night.

Congratulations to sister Nita Barbee who was recently chosen to be the Rose of Kappa Alpha Order. Also, we are very proud of pledge Cheryl Murdoch, who was selected to represent ECC as Azalea Princess at the Azalea Festival in Wilmington this spring.

Bettie Worth Gard has been elected president of East Carolina chapter of Alpha Xi Delta.

Miss Gard and 11 of her sorority sisters have recently taken office and will serve during the 1967-'68 school year.

Other new officers are Sharon Kay Ward, vice president; Judy E. Farrell, corresponding secretary; Anne Elizabeth Royalty, treasurer; Sylvia Ann Jacobs, assistant treasurer and Anita Gay Windley, recording secretary.

Membership chairman is Linda Lee McKinney. Panhellenic representatives are Sandra Lee Britt and Sharon Kay Ward.

Pamela Rae Meadows and Beverly Sue Carmichael are social chairmen for the year. Historian is Linda Townsend Morrison.

KAPPA ALPHA

Members of Kappa Alpha Order at East Carolina are paying tribute this weekend to the memory of the father of their ideals, Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee.

Some 50 brothers and pledges of the fraternity, with their dates, are taking part in a series of "Old South" activities.

The four-day observance began on the campus Wednesday and comes to a climax Saturday night with the annual Old South Ball at the Lake Lure Inn in Rutherford County.

To get the activities started the KAs put on Confederate uniforms and marched beneath a Rebel flag onto the central campus mall Wednesday. There they gave their dates formal invitations to the Old South observance.

After the 300-mile bus trip to Lake Lure Friday, the students will attend the annual Old South Banquet and Ball at the Lake Lure Inn Saturday night.

One of the highlights of the evening will be announcement of the fraternity member who has grown the best beard this year. All members grow beards each year as part of the tribute to Old South gentility.

KAPPA DELTA

Two officers of Kappa Delta social sorority at East Carolina have been reelected for a second term for the school year 1967-'68.

Linda Lee Jones was reelected president and Bette Venable membership chairman. They joined five new officers this month in beginning new one-year terms of office. Serving with Miss Jones and Miss Venable are Judy Griffith, vice president; Juli Mandell, secretary; Donna Dunbar, treasurer; Hilda Durham, assistant treasurer; and Mary Leslie Ambrose, editor.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

The brothers and pledges of Lambda Chi Alpha invite all rushees (must have a "C" average) to a party on Saturday night, March 18, 8:00 p.m., at the Lambda Chi party room. Then on Monday and Tuesday, March 20 and 21, all rushees are invited to Rush at the Lambda Chi house, 7:00 - 10:00 p.m., at 552 Cotanche Street.

Congratulations to the new officers of Lambda Chi Alpha. The new president is Bill Austin, Jr.; vice-president, Jens Bang, Freshman; secretary, Donnie Simmons, Jr.; treasurer, Paul Roseman, Sr.; Rush Chairman, Glenn Chitty, Jr.; Pledge Trainer, Ken Austin, Sr.; Ritualist, Jim Jones, Jr.; Social Chairman, Tommy Waller, Jr.; Correspondent, Wayne Gardner, Soph. Brother Doug Byrd is the new IFC President.

In intramural basketball Lambda Chi is undefeated with latest victims Phi Kappa Tau and Theta Chi. Leaders are Charles Lanier,

In softball Lambda Chi defeated Alpha Kappa Psi, 17-0. Leaders are pitcher Lynn Goforth, Phi Qualls, Ed Walton, and Jim Camp.

GAMMA BETA PHI

Twenty East Carolina students are new members of the campus chapter of Gamma Beta Phi honorary scholastic society, an organization dedicated to scholarship, leadership and citizenship.

The new members were initiated in a ceremony held in the College Union and conducted by the local president, Mary Catherine Joyner. Gail Adams also assisted in the initiation.

To qualify for membership a student must have had previous affiliation with a Beta Club chapter or honor society in high school in addition to maintaining a grade average of at least C-plus and displaying the qualities of leadership and citizenship.

Langley Visit Gives Cadets Better Insight Into NASA

The cadets of East Carolina College Air Force ROTC Detachment visited Langley Air Force Base last Friday, March 10, in order to gain a better insight into the Air Force and the National Space Program.

The all-day affair began at 5:30 a.m. when the Corps left the campus by bus. At Langley, the cadets dined in the Officer's Club and spent the rest of the morning touring the National Aeronautics and Space Administration installation. After lunch, the cadets visited the Tactical Air Command (TAC) command post. Later, the 316th Troop Carrier Wing was toured by the cadets and during this time the cadets inspected a C-130 (Hercules) troop carrier aircraft. The highlight of that afternoon for most of the cadets was a ride in a C-118. The tour was ended for the cadets with dinner in the Airmen's Mess.

Barricades May Come Down!

Jim Young, Chairman of the University Party Traffic Controls Committee, met with President Jenkins late Monday afternoon to present the committee's report and proposal for the removal of the campus traffic barricades during certain hours of the week. The report, which was the result of a sixteen-week student effort called for removal of the barricades between the hours of 6:00 p.m. and 1:00 a.m. on Friday and Saturday nights and between 6:00 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. on Sunday nights. The barriers would also be down during the day on Saturday and Sunday.

Dr. Jenkins has designated the upcoming week-end as an experimental test for the legislation. He said, "If we see that we can do this without any serious problems and without an excess of non-student interference, I see no reason why such a policy cannot be enacted on a permanent basis."

Young commented that the legislation was, of course, of primary importance, but the manner in which it was approached was also a big step forward. He stated that "this only goes to show what student participation in their own interests and affairs can do. A group of students, conscientiously working toward a feasible goal can meet with success. I sincerely hope that this measure will serve to provoke more student interest and more student participation in their Student Government."

Remarking on the student interest, Dr. Jenkins said, "This is a great idea, and I hope to see more of this student participation in the future."

Belmondo Stars In 'Weekend At Dunkirk'

The regular Friday night free film will be "Weekend at Dunkirk," a French film about the two days in June 1940 when the British were evacuating their troops from Dunkirk.

Jean-Paul Belmondo, a French soldier, trapped with his comrades tries to decide what should be done; escape to England, desert and return home, or stay and be captured. The Germans give him little choice.

A mood of bewildered futility, helpless frustration, and weary apathy for the war of the French is authentically captured. Belmondo, fatalistic about the war's outcome, plays his part in the senseless chaos without a trace of heroics.

Carleen Hjortsvang Seeks SGA Office

Carleen lists as her qualifications for the office: past Secretary of the Freshman Class, present President of the Sophomore Class, Orientation Counselor, Chairman of the SGA Special Event Committee and Marshal.

Among her other activities are membership in: Gamma Beta Phi (honorary scholastic fraternity), Tutorial Society, Model U N delegate, last year's distinguished Freshman in Home Economics, vice-president of Alpha Phi sorority and the North Carolina Collegiate Queen for 1966.

Carleen has four things she would like to do as historian: 1. Bring the filing system of constitutions and officers up-to-date; 2. Make a more complete and colorful scrapbook, covering more areas and including more photographs; 3. Work more closely with the East Carolinian, photographer, News Bureau, and individual organizations sponsored by the SGA; 4. Write a complete report of the years activities for Dr. Jenkins.

Draft Polls Seek Alternative To Selective Service System

polls of college and university student opinion regarding the draft were recently released by the United States National Student Association. Results were presented to a closed-door conference of leaders from a wide variety of youth and student organizations who will be looking for a unified support for an alternative to the present Selective Service System.

"The results of campus-wide referenda on over twenty campuses were strikingly consistent," announced Eugene Groves, president of NSA.

—More than 90 percent of American students feel that a nation can be justified in conscripting its citizens into the military.

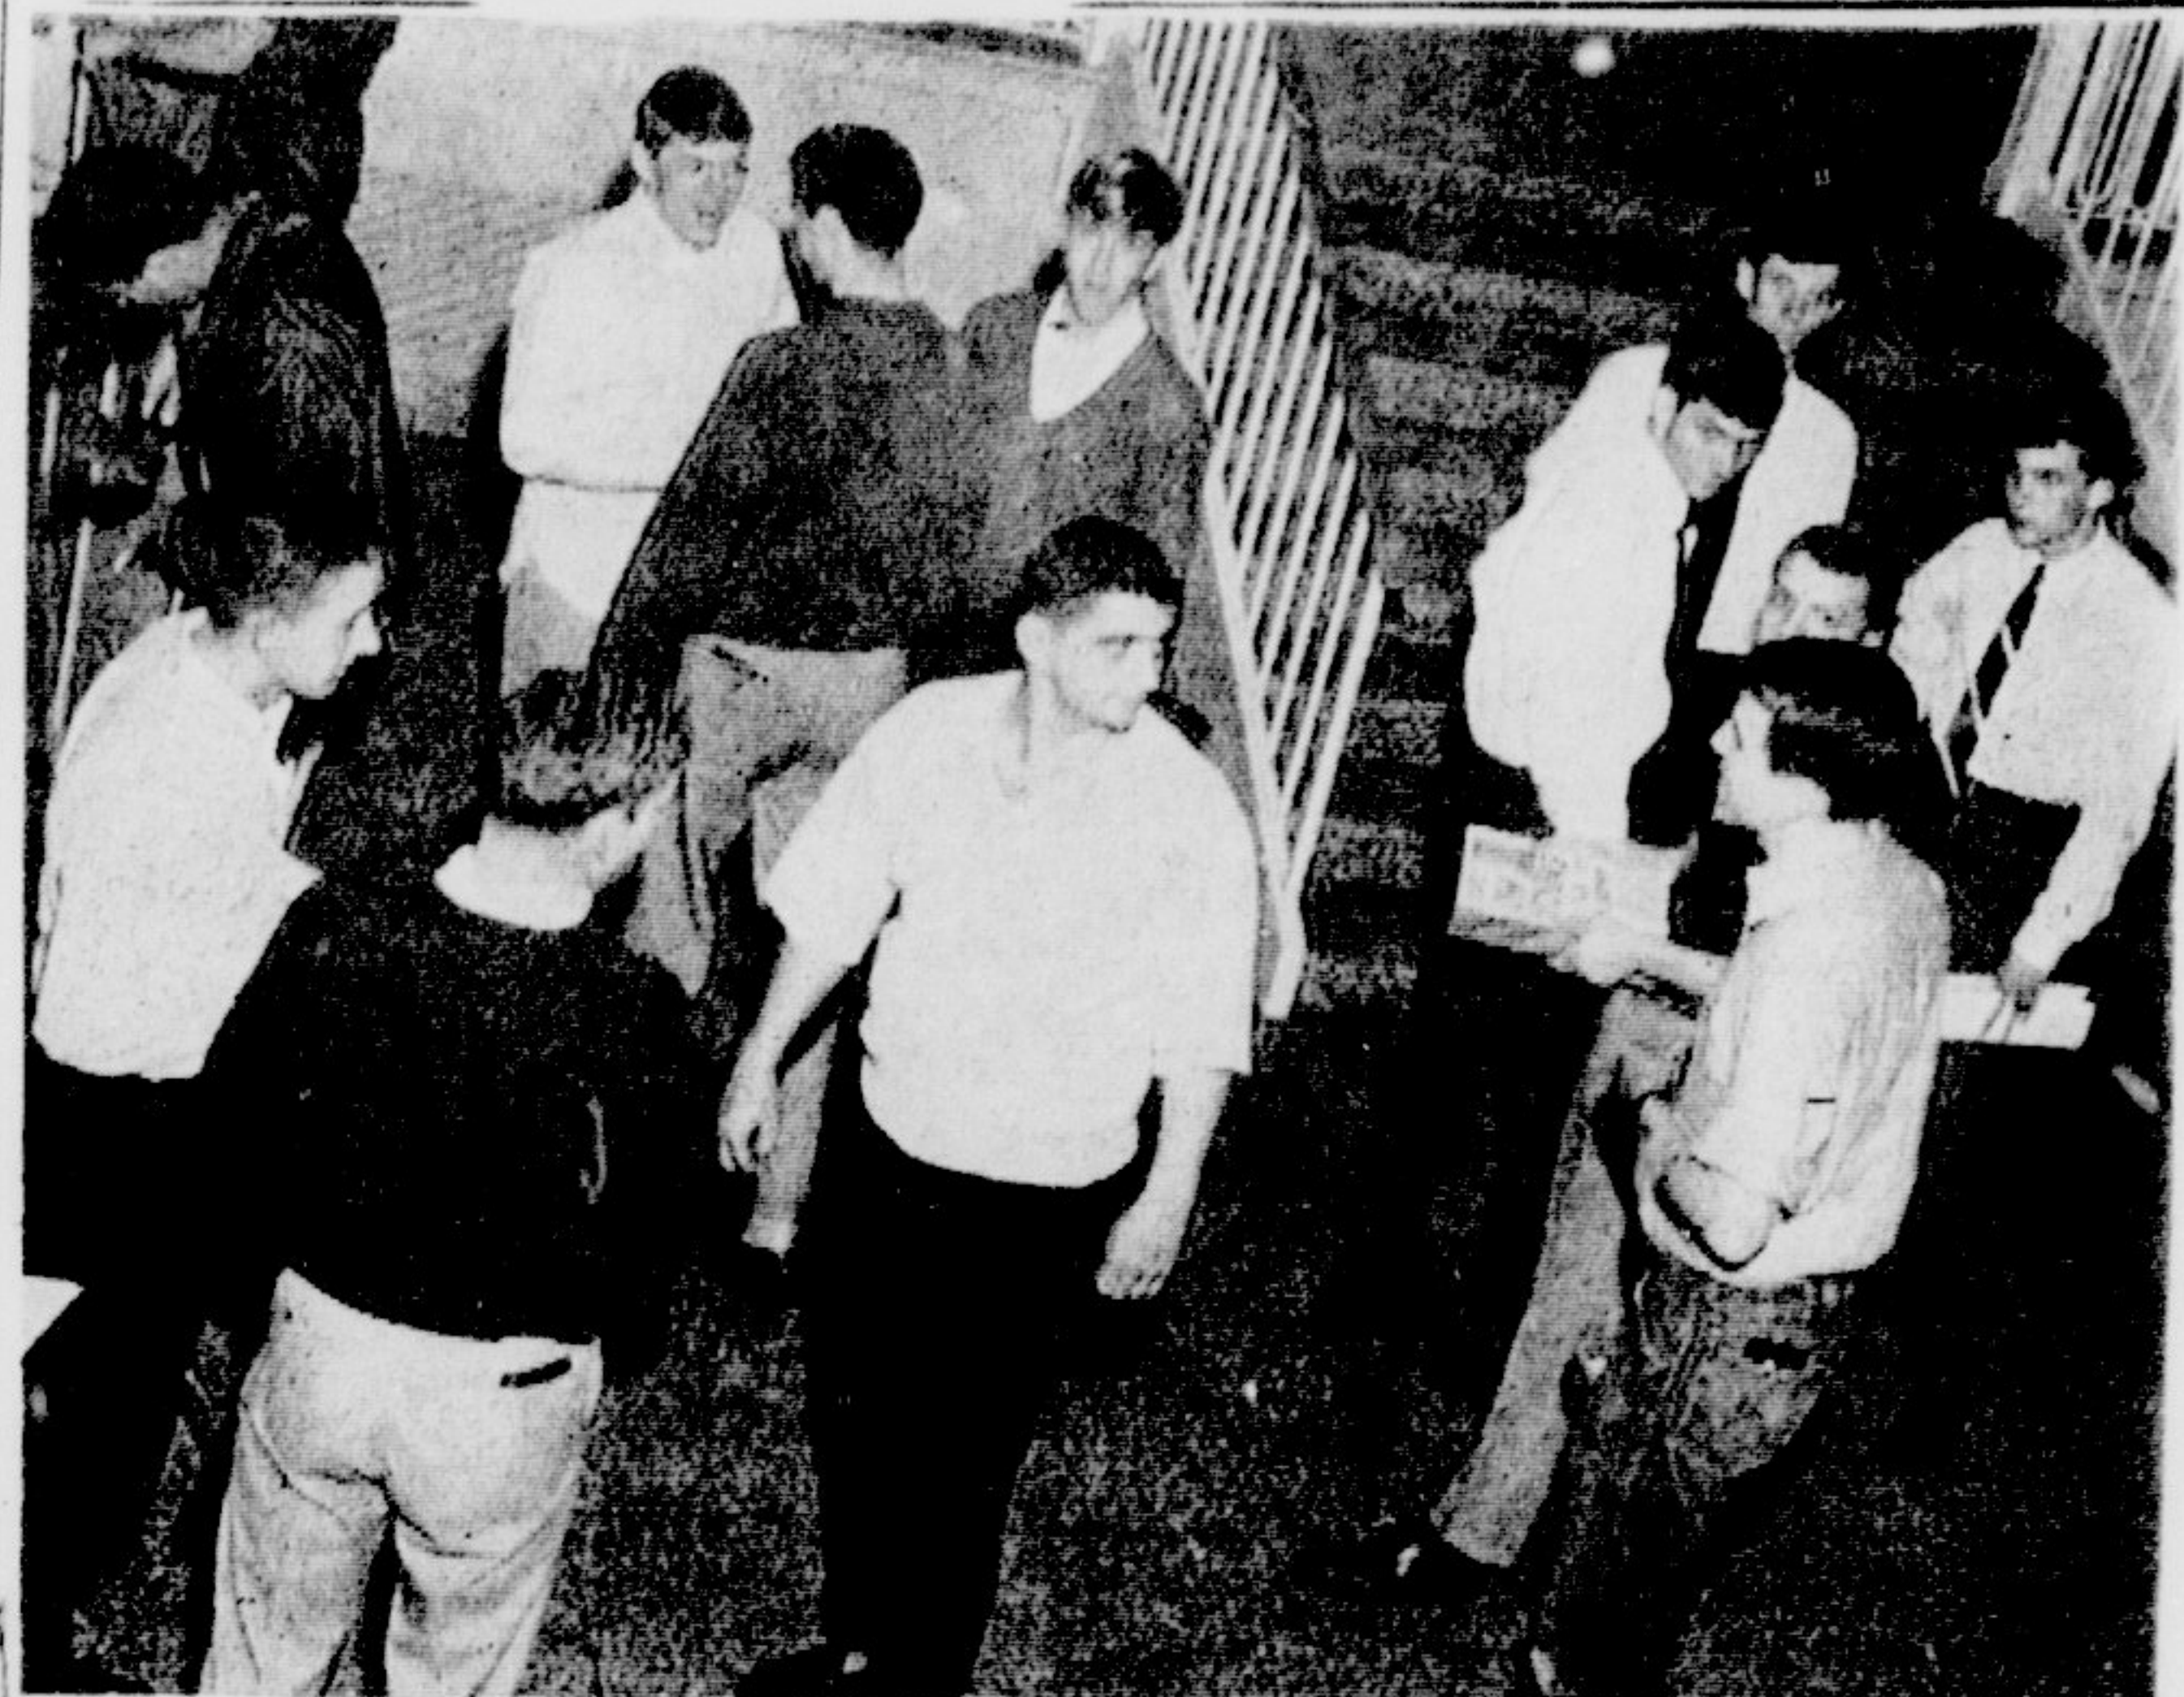

—More than 70 percent of American students are not satisfied with the present Selective Service System.

—More than 70 percent of American students would prefer to have non-military service, e.g. Peace Corps, VISTA, Teachers Corps, as an equal alternative to military service.

—Over 60 percent of American students do not feel that students should be deferred just because they are students.

Last November USNSA issued a call for campus wide referenda on the relation of the colleges and universities to the Draft and on various alternatives to the Selective Service System.

"We worked especially hard to assure a wide diversity of types of colleges and universities in the polling sample," said Groves. "In this regard we were very successful. The diversity of the schools responding makes the consistency

Campaigners scurry around Tuesday night in anticipation of the spring elections. Both parties had their candidates before the public by Wednesday morning, as the campus begins to be plastered with signs.

Young Cites Platform: UP Already In Action

University Party members heard Jim Young, UP candidates for president, cite portions of the platform already enacted, voice a stand for independent status for the East Carolinian and give pep talks to campaign workers in a pre-election briefing Monday night.

Young announced that one of the party's platform points had already been achieved. The UP traffic committee proposed to Dr. Jenkins that the traffic barricade on campus be removed from Friday through Sunday. Jenkins agreed on a trial of the idea this weekend.

Young said, "We have accomplished in two days what the SGA has not been able to accomplish in two years." He continued, "The legislature has been inactive because of the executive council. You can't run a student body sitting behind a desk."

By proposing that the SGA get out and find out what the students want, Young reiterated the fact that the students are the ones to enact policy and get things done.

Turning to committees Young said, "The SGA is a grapevine of committees but who ever hears from them?" Young proposed that all the committee work be brought out in a bi-quarterly news conference. Young also suggested that the cabinet set regular meetings to be able to work more closely together.

From past experience, Young was editor of the East Carolinian. Young said that he felt the paper should be independent of the SGA.

Under Young's plan all money from the advertising from the East Carolinian would go back into the paper budget rather than the Student Fund as it now does. He felt the paper should gradually obtain financial and editorial freedom from the SGA, but that a certain degree of editorial control would be retained by the Publications Board.

In closing Young discussed the controversial student "discount card". He felt that merchants would work closer with the students for their (the students) business.

After a long organizational meeting, Bill Deal, chairman of the University Party, said there "is no doubt in my mind that the UP will sweep the slate."

Faculty Notes

Rees Address
James L. Rees, East Carolina radio services director, is scheduled to address the annual meeting of the North Carolina Speech Association at Duke University this weekend. His Saturday morning talk will be based on research he did last year on the young people's concerts conducted on television by Leonard Bernstein. Joining Rees as a delegate to the NCSA meeting will be Dr. Helen V. Steer of the ECC drama and speech faculty.

National Convention
Five members of the East Carolina industrial and technical education faculty are attending the National American Industrial Arts Association convention in Philadelphia this week.

They are Dr. Kenneth Bing, department chairman, Dr. Thomas Haigwood, Dr. William Hoots, Robert Leith and Paul Waldrop. Waldrop was scheduled to present to the convention a paper titled "Applications of Mechanics and Power for Industrial Arts Programs."

ECC Laboratory Nursery School Has New Teachers
The nursery school operated by the home economics department of East Carolina has new teachers, according to department chairman Dr. Miriam B. Moore.

Dr. Moore said Mrs. Esen Ozgener and Mrs. Willene O'Neal, both members of the home economics faculty, are now teaching the three- and four-year-olds enrolled in the program.

Miss Lambie is temporary coordinator of a federal program for training workers for Eastern North Carolina child development centers. Mrs. Shea is working toward a PhD degree in child development at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Durland Print Show At ECC This Month
Prints and drawings by the chairman of the commercial design department in the East Carolina School of Art are on display this month at the college.

The one-man show by D. L. Durland is a collection of serigraphic, colligraphic and lithographic prints, and charcoal drawings. It will be shown in the Hallway Gallery of Rawl Building until March 31. Then it will be on exhibit at the Rocky Mount Art Center during April, and at the Tarboro City Library during May.

SS 396

Suddenly, you're elsewhere

One drive in an SS 396 and you'll find yourself committed to a new way of changing the scene. Chevrolet took its spirited new 325-horsepower V8 and teamed it with a special 3-speed full-synch transmission, put it all in a sleek Fisher Body . . . and there it is: Quick-Size departure from whatever's been boring you.

There's a 350-horsepower version available for that extra kick and, as you'll quickly discover, the Turbo Hydra-Matic is the most advanced transmission Chevrolet has ever offered. Shift it yourself, or put it on "D" and forget it.

Former EC Students Serve Peace Corps

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The Peace Corps is moving toward its seventh year with 6 former students from East Carolina now serving overseas. A total of 13 local students have entered Peace Corps service since its inception on March 1, 1961.

1966 saw the Peace Corps' first major expansion in two years with the addition of eight new countries hosting Volunteers. More than 12,000 now serve in 52 nations and territories. The Peace Corps expects to send first contingents of Volunteers into as many as ten more countries in 1967.

With more requests for Volunteers coming from foreign governments than can be filled, the Peace Corps has doubled its recruiting efforts this year to insure finding the more than 10,000 trainees needed for 1967 programs. The target is 50,000 applications, up from last year's 45,000.

Peace Corps officials said they expect increasing need for liberal arts graduates in the Peace Corps, but pointed to serious shortfalls in some programs requiring persons with agricultural, math-science and other specialized skills.

Sports Tidbits

World Series To Start on Weekend
NEW YORK — The World Series will begin on a Saturday, either in 1967 or 1968, according to an article in the current issue of Sport Magazine, and at least one and possibly two midweek games will be scheduled at night.

The article goes on to explain that the break with the traditional Wednesday start and all day-time scheduling has been forced upon baseball by the realization that pro football is surpassing baseball in popularity. The Super Bowl game drew a television audience of 65,000,000 more than twice the peak viewing audience of 28,000,000 for a World Series game.

The Saturday start for the Fall Classic means that a long Series will cover two weekends, and night play will significantly increase the midweek television viewing audience.

Coaching Secret

When asked in a post-game interview if he went into something special when he lost his best player against Louisville, Hartman answered: "Well, yes, I sort of went into a fit of hysterics."

Yanks Topped Dodgers, Too

Yankee pitcher Hal Reniff couldn't understand why the audience applauded after watching movies of the 1966 World Series showing the Orioles beating the Dodgers in four straight games.

"What's so great about that?" said Reniff. "We lost five straight to them last season."

They Had His Number

Michigan basketball coach Dave Strack modestly revealed that he and Cazzie Russell are the only two players in school history to have their uniforms retired.

"Of course we both wore No. 33," admits Strack.

Alcindor Unhappy At UCLA

NEW YORK — Seven-foot one-inch college basketball All-American Lew Alcindor is not happy at U.C.L.A., and indicates that he would be happier at Stanford, Michigan, or the University of California at Berkeley.

"It's the quality of the people out here that disturbs me," says Lew. "They are not for real. They do not seem to know what's going on around them."

"I am disappointed in the atmosphere here," he continues. "Most of the students seem out of it. They do not know how people in the rest of the world live. They have a limited point of view, as opposed to the people in New York City. That is my experience."

Lew, just a sophomore and with two more years ahead at U.C.L.A., if he decides to stick it out, says he feels alienated and misses New York.

"I would like to be in New York, but because I am in school and busy, I do not miss it too much."

"I choose U.C.L.A. because it was the school which offered the most, and not just in basketball," admits Alcindor. "But had I known then what I know now, I would have picked Stanford, Michigan or Berkeley."

Tankmen Go To Nationals
After an outstanding performance in the Southern Conference Championships the East Carolina tankmen will participate in the National Collegiate Athletic Association Swimming Championships. The Pirates are considered the team to beat in the college division.

Owen Paris and Mike Tomberlin will be shooting for All-American status again as will diver Les Gerber. Keep your fingers crossed for what could be East Carolina's first national championship.

wrestling (123 pound class) is East Carolina's lone wrestler going to the nationals. Metzgar who has lost but one match should have a fair chance to reap the reward.

Berryhill, Coach of

Dave Patrick (Ryun Killer)

Many of you probably saw Dave Patrick of Villanova top Jim Ryun in the half mile last week. Patrick, a lean, tall blonde from Maryland was coached by Baxter Berryhill in high school. Berryhill is currently track coach at East Carolina College. Coach Berryhill has provided that he can produce good distance runners, which is quite evident by looking at the accomplishments of the cross country team. This past fall they (the cross country) finished second in the Southern Conference and second in the North Carolina State Meet.

Baseball Saturday

Coach Earl Smith and his Pirate nine will open their season Saturday against Dartmouth College. The Pirates have been practicing for about a month and look like they are going to be in the running for a Conference title. Let's all be present and give them a solid cheering section.

MIKE TOBERLIN—EC All-American and national champion backstroke.
