

Meares vs. Getsinger In Treasurer Run-Off

JOHN K. MEARES

John Meares, Student Party candidate for treasurer, and Layton Getsinger, University Party candidate, were interviewed about the run-off election Monday, April 3. The run-off election was ordered by Dr. Tucker, Dean of Student Affairs, and Ed Tipton, chairman of the elections committee, when neither of the candidates secured a simple majority in the election Wednesday, March 22.

Meares Comments

When asked about his chances in the upcoming election Meares said, "I appreciate the effort given by the students in my behalf . . . I ask for their continued support in the election Monday, April 3."

Meares was interviewed about his qualifications, of which he summed up as, "treasurer of the Young Republicans Club and the Student Party, plus my work on the SGA Budget Committee."

Meares continued, ". . . the biggest help to me has been my work on the Budget Committee . . . the committee goes over budgets of the various organizations of the SGA and attempts to work them into a feasible budget. This has given me a great amount of insight into the various problems of the different organizations and how these problems can be worked out."

He explained the job of treasurer as "not just keeping records. His job is to find out the wants and needs of the various organizations and see if he can't fit those wants and needs into a workable budget."

Meares was asked if he felt the treasurer should have the qualification of business or economic major to serve more effectively. He said, "the last two treasurers of the SGA were not business or economic majors."

WECC radio invited both Getsinger and Meares to participate in a press conference Tuesday, March 28. Meares was asked how he felt about Getsinger not accepting the invitation.

He said, "I'm sorry he chose not to attend the press conference . . . I believe the treasurer is a vital part of the SGA and that anytime there could be discussion about the treasurer the students of EC have a right to know where each candidate stands . . ."

Meares was asked how he felt about the large amount of money that passes through the treasurer's office each year, and the responsibility of the office.

He answered, "$222,520.16, which is the amount approved this year by the SGA, is a lot of money . . . all students should way the choice of treasurer in this light for it is a huge responsibility."

Getsinger Comments

Getsinger said of the upcoming election that "all along I thought it was going to be close . . . I want this position mightly bad. I have the interests of the students in (Continued on page 5)

Model UN General Assembly Opens Doors To 45 Colleges

Delegates from 45 colleges and universities will arrive at East Carolina Wednesday, April 5, for the Middle South Model United Nations General Assembly. Students in the Middle South region will come from schools in North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Kentucky, West Virginia, Georgia, Florida, New York and Washington DC.

There will also be students from 14 foreign countries who will attend the sessions as observers. 400 students from East Carolina are involved in the Model UN. Of these 250 to 300 are pages. Thirty-six delegates from EC will represent China, Albania, Byelorussian SSR, Ethiopia, Jordan, Luxembourg, Portugal, Congo (B) and Italy.

The President of the General Assembly is Doug Adams from Duke University. The Vice President, John Kernodle, is also a student from Duke as is the Chairman of the Social Cultural Committee, Skip Coleman.

Other committee heads are Bill Deal, East Carolina, chairman of Political Committee A, Bruce Fagle; University of Illinois, Chairman of Political Committee B and David Lloyd from East Carolina, Chairman of the Economic Committee.

Bruce Fagle, Chairman of Political Committee B is President of the Security Council and of the Midwest Model UN, Secretary General of the University of Illinois Model United Nations, Vice Chairman of the Model UN National Council, Vice President of the University of Illinois Student Senate and Chairman of the Committee for Student Affairs. Mr. Fagle will graduate in June cum laude with an AB in Political Science and next year will attend the University of Illinois College of Medicine.

The opening address will be delivered Wednesday night at 7:30 by Dr. Kim, member of the Political Science faculty. His topic is "The Challenge of United Nations: Today and Tomorrow". Following the keynote address the General Assembly will form legal committees which will handle two resolutions.

The Model UN will be discussing 40 different resolutions. Each of the four committees has agenda relating to its specific topics. In order to prepare for this General Assembly session delegates from East Carolina have been meeting bi-weekly since the first week in January. They have attended both seminars and debating sessions where they have worked on the preparation of their individual committee agenda.

Albania, in Political Committee A, will present the bill concerning the seating of the People Republic of China. Another important bill will be presented in Political B by Nationalist China. Their bill will condemn Red China for its overt acts of aggression against nations of the world.

All students and faculty members may attend any session. The balcony in Wright Auditorium will be open at all times. Secretary General Jim Kinsey in an interview Tuesday urged "all students to extend every courtesy possible to those delegates and guests from other schools. The Model United Nations is quite an undertaking for East Carolina."

THE TOWN CRIERS

Versatile 'Town Criers' Entertain EC Friday

The Town Criers are coming to the East Carolina College for their third performance here. This group is composed of five young men: Bill Patterson, Ron Stephenson, Jim Moody, Ed Wing, and David Borse — each with a different personality, background, and approach to music. They will appear Friday, March 31, at 8:15 p.m. in Wright Auditorium. Tickets are available in the Central Ticket office.

Bill's excellent voice and amazing range have earned him the title "The Big Voice" of the Town Criers. Added to this is Ron's magnetic personality. Dave's vibrant baritone voice and quick wit, Ed's unique comic style, and Jim's hilarious comic antics. Together they blend to form a refreshing musical group. Their performance will include music from Broadway, blues, original tunes, pop songs, and comedy. The Town Criers accompany themselves with amplified and acoustic guitars, drums, bass, and banjo.

The Town Criers have previously appeared at North Carolina State, Furman University, the University of Miami, and many other colleges. They have also appeared at the Playboy Club in Atlanta and the Crossways Inn in Miami.

Vote: Judiciary, Amendment

For the office of treasurer, there will be a run-off between John Meares (SP) and Layton Getsinger (UP), on Monday, April 3.

Coeds running for Women's Judiciary in Monday's election are Gwen Elizabeth Bullock, Anne Cushman, Cornelia Whitehurst, Linda Knox, Sally Askew, Dale Brinson, Johann Vaughan, Betsy Ann Allen, Jo Ann Schafford, Beverly Ann Matthews, Marjory Jane Hendricks, Diane King, Linda Ivey, Judi Bradford, Judy B. Wilson, Jane Hinton, Dee Kivett, and Ann Powell.

Other coeds seeking election for Women's Judiciary are Ann Duke, Carlotta Pfau, Donna Whitley, Carolyn Edwards, Joyce Marie Perry, Anne Thomas, Suzanne Whitson, Gayle Shaw, Judy Christian, and Sharon Kaye Bradsher.

Winners in last week's Student Government elections are: Steve Moore, President; David Lloyd, Vice - President; Sandy Wentzel, Secretary; Sherry Robertson, Historian.

Marshals elected for 1967-68 are Carleen Hjortsvang, Jean Joyner, Anne Hendershot, Peggy Davis, Elizabeth Cooke, Ann Yelverton, Frances Kay Ivey, Cyndie Potter, Linda Tetterton, Lynn Foushee, Pan White, Nancy Lawson, Cynthia Freeman, Judith Ann Joyner, Gay Winstead and Gwyn Foushee.

Proposed amendments to the Constitution shall go into effect on the signature of the president of the SGA unless:

Article V, Section 4

a. Two percent of the student body has signed a petition stating that they wish the proposed amendment to go before the entire student body in a campus referendum. A petition shall be provided by the Student Government Association and posted in a public place; however, any such petition presented to the President of the SGA containing the required number of student signatures shall be considered as a valid petition. Time allotted for signatures to be collected shall be two weeks from the date the proposed amendment reaches the President of the Student Government Association.

b. The Legislature, by a two-thirds (2-3) vote, has ordered the proposed amendment to go before the entire student body in a campus referendum.

If either of the above conditions are met, the proposed amendment must be presented to the student body in a campus referendum within six weeks after the proposed amendment reaches the President of the Student Government Association.

Students interested in tending polls Monday between 10:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. should contact Dean Hardee, SGA Secretary, Third Floor, Wright Annex.

Girls, Reserve Rooms Now!

All girls who wish to sign up for a dormitory room for next year should take note of the following procedures.

A deposit of $10.00 must be made in the Cashiers office as soon as possible. Application cards which may be picked up in the dormitory by dorm students and in Room 215 of the Administration Building by Day Students, must be filled out in ink before going to the Cashiers office. Your application card is not valid unless stamped "paid" by the Cashier.

Girls who wish to retain rooms in the same dormitory which they are now rooming should follow this procedure:

1. On Monday, April 3, take your room application marked "paid" to your dormitory counselor and sign up for your room.

2. Leave the application card with your dormitory counselor.

Students in Freshmen dorms, those in upper class dorms who wish to move to another dorm and all day students should take their applications marked "paid" to Room 109 in Jarvis Hall and sign up for a room. The schedule goes as follows: Tuesday, April 4 — Seniors; Wednesday, April 5 — Juniors; Thursday, April 6 — Sophomores and freshmen.

This is the last opportunity girls will have to sign up for rooms for next year. A balance of $50.00 must be paid by June 15.

'Roomie, you just can't trust anyone anymore.'

The Party System? . . .

A few weeks ago there existed a vague question as to whether or not a two party political system had come into its own at East Carolina.

Today, there is adequate and convincing evidence that political parties are probably with us to stay and oddly enough in a very balanced fashion.

To date, the executive slate of officers shows up with two UP members and two SP members. The party that will hold the majority power in the SGA next year depends solely on whether Layton Getsinger (UP) or John K. Meares (SP) captures the office of Treasurer.

The party system is not terribly strong as indicated by the recent election. In the beginning, it appeared that the two parties had the confidence of the students as no independent candidates appeared on the final ballot for executive positions. Fortunately or unfortunately . . . the students of East Carolina did not truly support the two party system. Once again students voted for the person and not the party. Apparently the candidate for office still holds priority with the people.

It will be interesting to see how well a split-executive branch can work together. Steve Moore (SP), SGA President and David Lloyd (UP), Vice President, have before them a task which will require a united team in order to represent the students. These two executive officers apparently have the ability to do the job before them if they do not allow individual party goals to rule their thinking while in office.

Steve Moore has frequently stated that his ultimate goal is to serve the students of East Carolina through the SGA, putting all other ties behind him. We hope the same will be true of all the newly elected executive officers. It may be difficult to begin with a split-up among the two parties, but in the end the SGA will only function effectively if the party bind is thrown off by all officers.

A balance of power in the SGA looks basically safe, fair and challenging to every one involved. The Student Government Association should be the heart, soul and spirit of our student body. The SGA officers elected to serve the student body have the potential to bring the students into the inner workings of the SGA. Since our SGA is based primarily on a democratic constitution, it is only right and fitting that it should be the students' voice.

Under the guidance of a capable and sincere leader such as Steve Moore, we have the spirited concern and interest needed to bring the Student Government to the students.

Theoretically the SGA is the vehicle through which each student may express his wants and ideals, his goals and desires. The students must not sit back and let only a few take action. Each of us should take the responsibility to follow the work of our SGA executives closely and to speak up loud enough to be heard when we disagree with their representation of the students.

The day of one candidate elections has come to an end. A party spirit has been aroused, an interest in the SGA has been shown by over 3,000 students. The students' spirit at East Carolina is our most imperative need. Without the students there is no need for a Student Government.

The recent SGA elections pointed in life's direction. We must look up, beyond. We must vote in Monday's election.

Letters To The Editor

STEVE MOORE

To The Student Body:

I would like to thank each of you for your participation in last Wednesday's election.

I appreciate the support you gave me and the Student Party and promise to give an all out effort to fulfill the duties which go along with the office of SGA President. However, completion of these duties is not my only concern. Even if next year's Student Government Association is very productive, I will not be satisfied unless you feel that the SGA is your voice speaking for you.

I encourage each of you who may be interested in working with SGA in any of its various branches to drop by the office. There will be plenty of room for you during the next year and there is plenty of work to be done. Looking forward to serving.

Sincerely
Steve Moore

DAVID LLOYD

Fellow Students:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank each and every one of you for the support you gave me in the past election. Let me assure you that the confidence which you have placed in me will not be pushed aside.

Elections are not won by an individual alone, but by those with whom you work. I was fortunate enough to have so many of you who share my goals for the Student Government dedicate your time and energy during my campaign.

If, in the execution of my duties this coming year, I may ever be of service to any of you, please remember that the door to the Vice President's office will always be open, and I would welcome any student.

Sincerely,
David Lloyd

JOHN K. MEARES

To The Editor:

You, the student body have elected four of the five officers who will be the center of the Student Government next year.

The only position yet to be filled is that of Treasurer. This Office ranks second in importance to that of President and should not be taken lightly.

Having served as Treasurer this year, I know what the job of Treasurer requires. More so than in any other position, the person elected must know the internal organization of the SGA, the needs of each member organization and how that organization fits financially into the total picture. If a person has this knowledge, then in no way does being a business major help him fulfill his duties.

John K. Meares has these qualifications. While serving on the Budget Committee he has shown much interest and ability in discussing and approving budgets. You can not go wrong by casting your vote for JOHN K. MEARES.

Sincerely,
Steve Moore
SGA Treasurer

LAYTON GETSINGER

Fellow Students,

The job of SGA Treasurer is one that is demanding both in personal time and knowledge. The hours are long, the work intricate, and the decisions are many and varied. Having been SGA Treasurer, I know the work involved, and what is expected of the Treasurer as a person.

I believe that Layton Getsinger would be a good Treasurer. Having worked closely with Layton, I know that he is conscientious about his work and is dedicated to any project which he undertakes. He has the personal zeal that is necessary in this job. As he has worked with many of our campus organizations, he is aware of their needs and I feel that he would be just in budgeting the SGA funds which are entrusted to the Treasurers care.

I wholeheartedly endorse Layton Getsinger for SGA Treasurer and hope that you too will give him your support in the April 3rd election.

Sincerely
Jim Kimsey

Dear Students,

For the past year and a half I have worked closely with Layton Getsinger on several committees. It is my belief that he will serve you as well as anyone possibly can. I know that Layton will work hard to make this a better Student Government Association.

I give Layton my full support for the office of Treasurer and I ask you to do likewise. This is not support for any party name, but for the man himself.

Sincerely,
Frank Rice,
SGA Vice President

Love And Death

Reprint from New Republic

President Johnson knows as well as anybody that Republicans will call almost any negotiated settlement with Hanoi a sellout. This has happened to every American President after every recent war. It pushes a President, alas, toward a demand for unconditional surrender. Harry Truman would have been denounced as "appeaser" for the same compromise settlement that General Eisenhower later made in Korea. We don't imagine this factor is decisive with LBJ, but we suppose it influences him. (We think the country is so sick of war it would now bless almost any settlement, GOP to the contrary notwithstanding.)

The Johnson - Ho exchange will be endlessly argued; both sides seemed to be making extreme demands. The disclosure that Mr. Johnson is really sending notes to Hanoi strengthens the President, we think. He did not make the disclosure himself even under the temptation of his row with Bobby Kennedy, but now Ho Chi Minh has made it for him. To this extent we think Ho handed him a propaganda victory.

The word from Guam is, according to the AP's report from top but unnamed "US officials," that "Vietnam communists are often short of food and ammunition, diseased and low in morale, yet still pressing the battle." There is no sign that their "resolve is crumbling." So the outcome is apt to be as Senator Fulbright put it the other day. We will first decimate the country. All we want is an admission of defeat. Then we will love them to death. We will build them roads and rebuild their houses. We will, of course, also restore landlords and money-lenders. When this happy goal is reached they will have a nice American-style civilization. "It will not," added Fulbright, "in my opinion, result in an acceptable society from the point of view of the Asians."

Duke Deans Oppose Action For Unitary Student Govt.

DURHAM, N. C. (CPS)—A referendum to establish a strong unitary student government at Duke University has been challenged by several deans at the school and declared void by the Student Senate.

In an overwhelming vote of approval last week, students backed a plan by a specially formed Inter-government Council to establish a central student government in place of the existing four student governments of the men's campus, the women's campus, the nursing school, and the engineering school.

Although the new plan was supported by 82 per cent of the students voting, the Student Senate declared the election void. The Senate claimed that several students who opposed the change voted twice.

A final decision on the validity of the referendum will be made by the Student Judicial Board.

The election came one week after 70 student leaders signed a letter to university President Douglas Knight saying "rule by fiat of the deans is illegitimate and need not be accepted by the student body."

The letter was accompanied by the resignation of Joe Schwab, Men's Student Government Association president, who said that "students are capable of a greater level of maturity than is the entire academic administration."

The student attacks on the administration followed rejection of the new plan by several deans. The deans had met with the Inter-governmental Council last week and had opposed any unitary student government with power over the existing four.

In his letter of resignation, Schwab said, "I no longer respect enough administrators as people, as individuals, to fulfill my official responsibilities. I can no longer play a game that has no meaning for me."

Petitioning for offices in the new government is already underway, according to John Modlin, chairman of the Inter-governmental Committee, even though administrators refuse to approve the action.

"The referendum gives us the power," Modlin said. "We didn't expect any approval. Elections will be held as soon as possible." Modlin's committee has worked on the constitution since October 1965.

President Knight was reported "displeas'd" with the proposed changes, but he is waiting for the decision by the Judicial Board on the validity of the referendum.

Encampment For Citizenship Deals With Urban Problems

Partial and full scholarships are available for public affairs-minded students interested in attending six-week Encampment for Citizenship this summer, in New York City or on a mountainside in Puerto Rico.

Problems of poverty, civil rights and developing nations are examined and discussed, in the New York and Puerto Rico Encampments, by young men and women of all racial, religious, ethnic and economic backgrounds, many nationalities, and varied political views. A staff of a dozen teachers and social scientists at each site includes returned Peace Corps Volunteers.

The Encampment for Citizenship, founded in 1946, is non-partisan, non-sectarian and non-profit; it is sponsored by the American Ethical Union. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was for 17 years chairman of the Encampment Sponsors Committee, a post now held by New York's Republican-Liberal Mayor John V. Lindsay.

Encampment activities includes workshops on volunteer tutoring, community development, housing and school integration, world affairs and other subjects, as well as lectures, films, discussion groups and fieldtrips. Two days a week will be devoted to community service work in low-income areas.

The New York Encampment, to be held July 2-August 12 on the 15-acre campus of the Fieldston School, 45 minutes from midtown Manhattan, will focus on urban area problems and on world affairs. The Inter-American Encampment, drawing participants from throughout the Americas, will be held June 25-August 5, on the mountain El Yunque, in Luguillo National Forest, Puerto Rico. Its program emphasis will be on community development and human rights in the Americas.

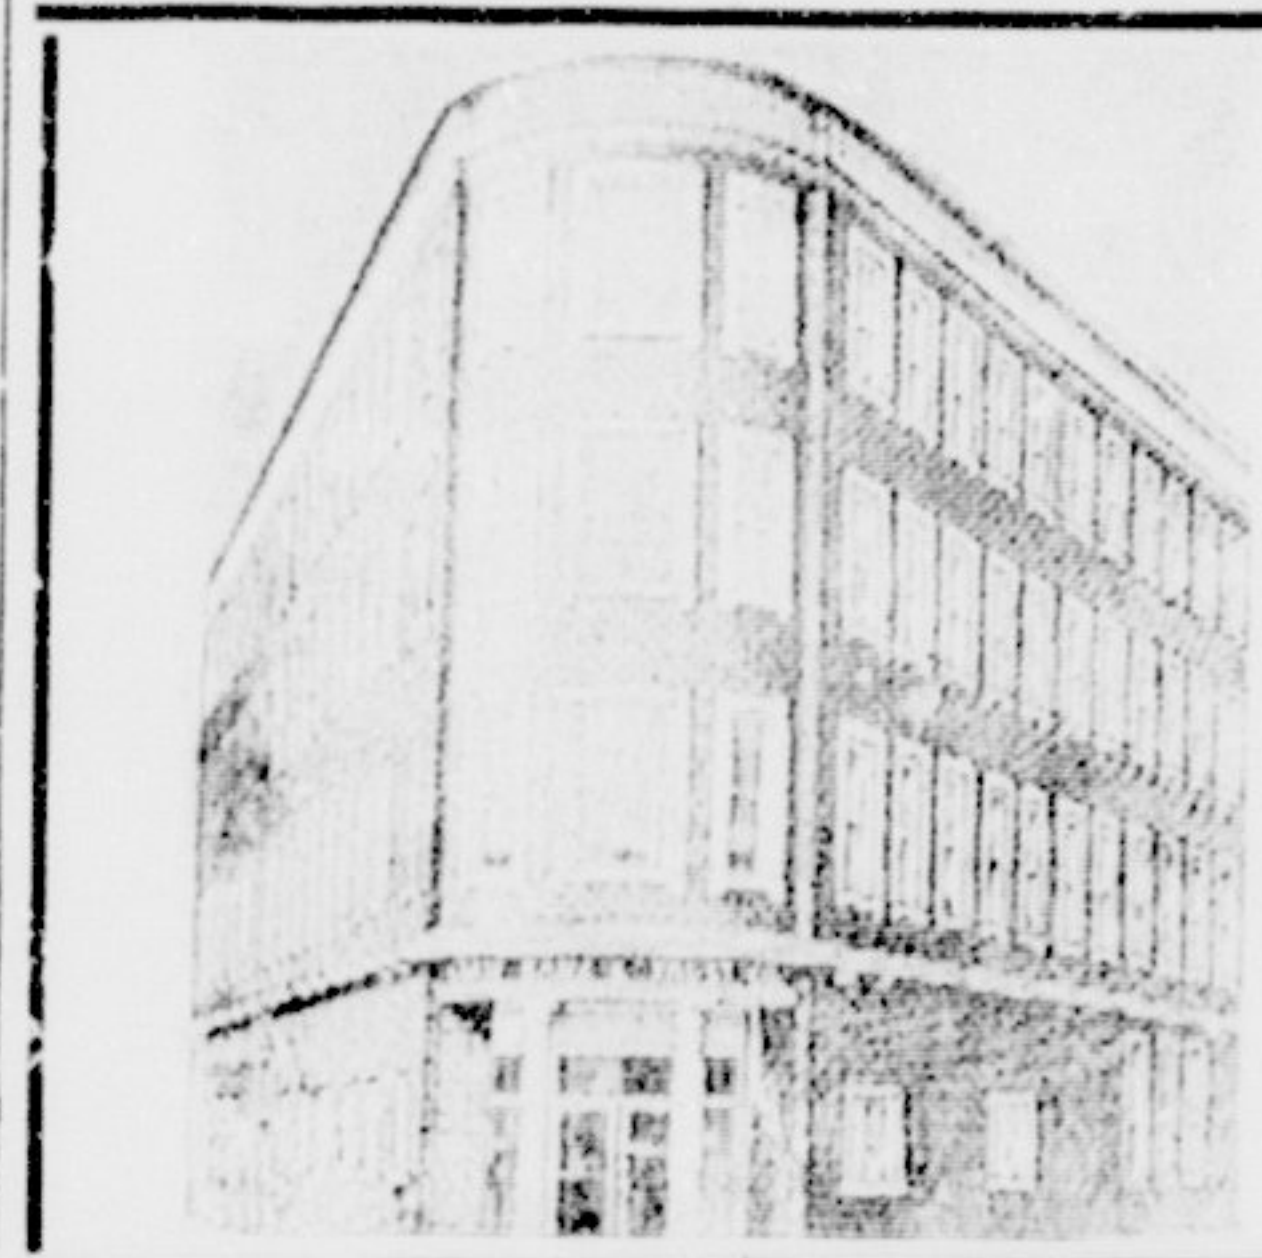

The age range for both Encampments is 17 through 21. Cost of board, room and tuition for the six weeks, in either location, is $500; full and partial scholarships are available on the basis of need. (Round trip air coach, New York-Puerto Rico, is $121.50.) Applications are available from the Encampment for Citizenship, Inc., 2 West 64th Street, New York City 10023.

APO's Protect Coeds

Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity reported after a meeting Monday night that the fraternity has decided to offer its services toward protecting coeds from "such attacks as have been prevalent during the past few days."

Ten fraternity brothers will be outside Joyner library from 9:30 until 10:30 p.m. to escort coeds back to their respective dormitories. This service will be offered to coeds upon return from Easter vacation and will continue for a month or so until there is no apparent danger.

"As students of East Carolina and members of the college community, our fraternity feels that it is a part of our duty to protect our coeds from any unfortunate incidents which might occur," explained Lou D'Ambrosio, president and spokesman for APO.

"This service is rendered solely as a safety measure by APO to protect our college campus," D'Ambrosio concluded.

"We are in no way connected with the investigation of recent attacks made on EC coeds. This is simply an aid offered to coeds for their own protection."

AAS Molds Future Air Force Officers

The goal of Arnold Air Society is to advance air and space citizenship; to further the mission, tradition, and concepts of the United States Air Force; and above all, to build the men who will be future Air Force Officers.

The General Chennault Squadron of the Arnold Air Society here at East Carolina College is a professional honorary service organization of selected Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps cadets. To be eligible for brotherhood, a cadet must have at least a "B" average in his Aerospace Studies curriculum and maintain a "C" average in overall scholastic work.

With the able leadership of the new advisor, Major Kevin T. Ryan, the Chennault Squadron holds up its tradition of being an outstanding squadron in the area. AAS sponsors Angel Flight, an auxiliary branch of this service organization; as well as the nationally recognized East Carolina Drill Team, a precision drill unit which annually tours parts of the East Coast. In addition to these two fine organizations, AAS also sponsors an Area Blood Drive for the National Red Cross, the annual March-a-thon for the March of Dimes, a high school visitation program, an annual Christmas Party for underprivileged children in the area, an orphanage in Viet Nam, the Military Ball, a float for the Homecoming Parade, and many other projects on the local, national, and international scale.

Service is the primary objective, but service is not the entire story. Arnold Air Society holds many social activities during the academic year. These include ball games, picnics, beach trips, and various parties. Many of the brothers are planning to go to this year's National Conclave in Miami Beach, Florida. This year, Arnold Air is especially proud of one of its many assets, Miss Jeanne Smith of the Angel Flight, this year's Buccaneer Queen.

The present Commander of the General Chennault Squadron of Arnold Air Society is Cadet Frank F. Freudig. The National Honorary Commander of the Arnold Air Society is Bob Hope, who like thousands of other people, recognizes the value of the mission of Arnold Air Society and supports Arnold Air Society to the fullest degree.

Curriculum Change Shifts Concentration For Phys. Ed. Majors

Physical education majors at East Carolina College are now tending to concentrate on one comprehensive field instead of dividing their time between the physical education field and another minor or second teaching field, according to the department chairman.

In an essay in the March issue of "North Carolina Education," Dr. Nephi M. Jorgensen supports "this significant curriculum and certification change in the field of physical education."

He says the change came as a result of an "approved program approach" to teacher education and certification by the State Board of Education in 1962. He says East Carolina felt that four years is not enough time to prepare physical education students to teach in a second field "and still do a good job in the first area."

Dr. Jorgensen lists some of the advantages of this concentration in one field: better qualified physical educators; training on the elementary as well as secondary level; more teachers to meet the growing needs in North Carolina; more coaches to meet the need arising from consolidation; and instructors in driver education.

Funeral Rites Held For Anna Jacobsen

Funeral services for Anna Carlsen Jacobsen, 79, wife of Jacob A. Jacobsen and mother of Mrs. Leo W. Jenkins of Greenville, N. C., were held Thursday at 2 p.m. at the Van Hise-Callahan Funeral Parlor at nearby Point Pleasant Beach, N. J.

Mrs. Jacobsen, a native of Norway who had lived for many years at Lavallette, N. J. died Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. Her daughter, Mrs. Jenkins, is the wife of Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, president of East Carolina.

With a range in music from Broadway to originals, blues to comedy, The Town Criers will appear for the third time this year in Wright Auditorium, March 31.

Dr. Press Directs Drama Production

Tickets for the upcoming four-night run of "The Spoon River Anthology" at the East Carolina College Playhouse went on sale Tuesday, March 28, at the Central Ticket Office in Wright Auditorium.

The drama, based on poetic character sketches of the people who lived in Spoon River, will play Wednesday through Saturday nights, April 5-8, at 8:15 p.m. in McGinnis Auditorium. Reserved seat tickets, issued free to faculty and students, are available to the general public at $2 each.

Central Ticket Office hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays only. The production has a student cast of four, features a specially-constructed stage that extends into the auditorium and is directed by Dr. David Press, guest professor of drama at ECC this year.

Leading players, each portraying several different characters, are Lola McDermott and Mark J. Masey, R. Gregory Zittel, and Jane Barrett.

Edgar Lee Master's account of the people who lived in Spoon River brings a wide variety of character interpretations, thus requiring great versatility of its players.

Sets are by John Eneaden, costumes by Mary Stephenson and lighting by Georg Schreiber, all members of the drama faculty. Background music is provided by Roger Luckey and Judy Tuttle. Stage manager is Craig Denby.

Faculty Highlights

NEW PRESIDENT

Sam D. Bundy, principal of Bundy Elementary School in Farmville, is the new president of the East Carolina Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa professional education fraternity.

He succeeds Ed N. Warren, principal of Ayden High School.

Other officers for 1967-'68 are Dr. Frank Arwood, vice president; Dr. Amos Clark, secretary; and James W. Carruth, treasurer. All three are faculty members in the ECC School of Education.

Dr. Cecil H. Allen, a retired ECC faculty member, was re-elected chapter historian.

LIBRARIAN PROMOTED

Dr. Mildred D. Southwick, reference librarian in East Carolina's Joyner Library, has been promoted to the position of associate librarian in charge of collection development.

In her new duties, Dr. Southwick will be responsible for the long-range development of library collections and the coordination of library purchases. Inter-library loan services will also be one of Dr. Southwick's responsibilities.

Dr. Southwick has AB and MA degrees from Vassar College, a PhD in biology from the University of Wisconsin and a bachelor's degree in library science from the University of California.

Attention: Men

The Men's Residence Council is sponsoring its annual Ugliest Man on Campus (UMOC) Contest. The contest is open to all campus organizations, dormitory students, and day students. In order to enter the UMOC Contest, an 8 x 10 photograph of your candidate must be turned in to Dean Mallory's Office (Room 2215 in the Administration Building) or to Buford Davis in 210-C Belk during the entry period from March 22, 1967 to April 6, 1967.

The photographs for the contest will be taken free of charge by the campus photographer. Appointments for photographs may be made by calling Bruce Whitaker, campus photographer, at 752-3741 (Day) or 758-4689 (Night).

The photographs will be put on display in the lobby of the College Union during the week of April 7-16 to be voted on by penny-votes. The winner of the UMOC Contest will be given a "Free Weekend on the M.R.C." This weekend will include a date with an East Carolina Beauty Queen and an evening of dining and dancing at the Fiddlers Three.

Also, the winner will receive special gifts from the Campus Corner and the Book Barn. The photograph of the Ugliest Man on Campus will also be shown in the East Carolinian.

Student-FBI Collaboration Creates Duke Controversy

By DAVE CULLEY
Co-News Editor

Recently, a controversy has arisen at Duke University over the giving of information about students to the FBI. It all began when Tommy Taft, a Duke junior, admitted to another student, Doug Adams, that he had given the FBI information about Adams.

Adams was startled and asked for details. Taft told him that he had reported to the FBI about Adams' connection with an anti-Vietnam war demonstration in the spring of 1965, but that he now repented because he realized Adams was a good guy. Taft also admitted that there were other informers on campus, but gave no names. He later denied this and other purported statements after a talk with FBI officials.

Adams was disturbed mostly because he could not conceive the reason the information was gathered. In his talks to Adams and later in an article in the Duke Chronicle, Taft explained his involvement with the FBI.

Taft, in his freshman year, sent anti-Vietnam literature found on campus to Washington. The literature described such things as the torture of Vietnamese women by American soldiers. He then was contacted by Durham agent Rufus Powell. Taft gave him what information he had about the anti-war literature and then, at Powell's request supplied information about students participating in the University Liberal Action Committee.

Taft claims that there were no other contacts made after the one in his freshman year. According to Adams, Taft changed his story considerably after his talk with the FBI. A touchy point in conflict concerns Rufus Powell, now secretary of the university. It seems that Taft told Adams that he had contacts with Powell during his freshman and sophomore years. When Taft was a sophomore, Powell was assistant dean of the law school. Adams and other concluded from this that he (Powell) was working for both the university and the FBI.

Powell stated that he had been working for the FBI for 24 years, but when he resigned, he resigned. Dr. Douglas M. Knight, President of Duke University, came to Powell's defense stating that, "He is a man of the highest honor, and it is unfortunate that he has been placed in the position of having his integrity questioned." Knight also strongly denied any link between the school and the FBI.

Taft had originally admitted, to the horror of Adams and other, that he had reported comments made by students in classroom discussions. Adams wrote in a Duke Chronicle article that this was particularly dangerous because students often assume positions in class to explore new and different ideas which they don't really believe.

Taft then came out and said that he had never reported any classroom comments. An FBI spokesman in Washington said that the agency had no comment on the alleged link.

Student Reaction

Student reaction seems to be divided. Many have been concerned for some time about FBI activities on campus. Other students say the whole affair has been greatly blown out of proportion.

Another source of information which can be tapped are files kept on each student. These files include character reports by house-masters, reports from the counseling service, the Judicial Board, the campus police, and other students. Even reports from maids about tidiness of rooms are kept on file.

John D. Johnston, Jr. of the law school contends that university policy should be made firmer concerning what non-academic information should be compiled about each student, how long it should be kept, and under what conditions it might be revealed.

Meanwhile, students are wondering how and to what extent FBI investigations will affect them.

One of Adams' friends was quoted as saying, "If this is going on at Duke (a relatively conservative school), what do you suppose the FBI is doing on other campuses?"

mind. I plan to have a bi-quarterly news conference to let the students know where the money goes."

When Getsinger was asked about qualifications he said, "My main qualification is being a business major with a minor in accounting . . . essentially because you are dealing with a large sum of money, $222,520.16, and it takes someone with an accounting mind to keep up with this money."

Also about qualifications he said, "chairmanship of the Model United Nations financial advisory committee, where here again you are dealing with a large sum of money. I've also been on the entertainment committee, secretary of the Men's Judiciary and am a member of the Theta Chi fraternity. I have served on the UN advisory board, the homecoming committee, and the Buccaneer staff, and as a student delegate to N. C. Student Council Congress."

When asked as to why being in a fraternity was among the qualifications, Getsinger replied, "It has taught me to deal with individuals, and work as a group whether you see eye to eye with everyone or not, for the betterment of the whole. I feel this basically is how the SGA executive council works . . . they must work together at all times for the betterment of the student body."

Getsinger said of the responsibility in handling such a large amount of money that "I think its exciting. Its a challenge for myself and for the whole school. Its next to impossible to find someone with the experience of handling this much money previously. I know I can handle the position as well as anyone else . . . and I would like to have the chance to prove it. I realize it will take long hours and hard work and I'm willing to make this sacrifice."

When questioned about why he chose not to attend the WECC press conference that both he and Meares was invited to attend, he said, "having an interview or debate on the radio is next to useless because not that many people listen to WECC . . . I feel I can accomplish more if I spend my time in contacting the students personally."

EC Baseballers Share Top Spot With Citadel

Competition in the Southern Conference baseball wars are now in full swing. Presently, the Citadel and East Carolina are sharing the top spot. William and Mary, however, have a 5-0 overall record and a 1-0 conference record.

Thus far this season the Pirates have a 4-1 record, winning over George Washington twice and the University of Virginia twice. The Pirates have had a number of star performances; one of the best was the pitching of sophomore Marshall "Scotty" Dellinger.

Richard Giffon and Jim Daniels have both come through with the long ball. The consistent hitting of Richard Narron and outfielder Ed Thorne.

In the next six weeks, the Pirates will play 20 games. A conference championship is the goal for the Pirates this year and another shot at the regional championships.

Peter Kriz, conference record holder and Pirate star place kicker of '65 season, has signed on as kicking specialist with NFL team.

Pirate Star Kicker Kriz Signs With Atlanta Falcons

The Pirate football team yielded its first draftee to the Atlanta Falcons March 19. Peter Kriz, our star place kicker of the '65 season and conference record holder for the most points recorded in a game, signed on to become kicking specialist for the NFL team. He begins this autumn.

After joining the EC team in mid-season, 1964, Kriz completed thirteen out of eighteen extra point attempts. This excellent record was made more impressive by the fact that he had never played football before entering the squad.

His best season was in 1965. He kicked thirty-four out of thirty-seven extra point attempts, scored three field goals, and scored the winning field goal in the George Washington game. His performance made him the number two high scorer on the team, with a season total of forty-three points.

Kriz completed his second year with the team by scoring nine points in the Tangerine Bowl of 1965 and setting a new Southern Conference extra point record.

Coch Clarence Stasavich said of Kriz "He is very coachable, he's anxious to learn and willing to do the work required of him to be an outstanding performer."

Kriz came to ECC in his second year, after completing his first year at the Lejeune Center during his enlistment with the Marines.

At his first football game, he noticed the kicking was very poor. The following week he volunteered to become the extra point specialist for the Pirates, although he didn't know anything about football.

Kriz was looking forward to his senior year with the team, and he was planning to aim at national college kicking records. He was, however, declared ineligible because he was teaching.

After the NFL-AFL merger, bonuses were cut down. Kriz decided to practice with the Continental League in Norfolk. Norfolk coach Barry Glick helped him to develop punting skills.

Kriz admitted "There is definitely a large adjustment from kicking off the ground to punting, but I work out (regularly) on picking up my punting."

After keeping in touch with professional football teams all winter, he signed with the Falcons.

Kriz hopes to complete his education either at Emory University or at Georgia Tech while playing for Atlanta; eventually getting a Ph.D. in Education.

Trackmen Open New Season

By Clem Williams

The Pirate trackmen open their outdoor season at Baptist College of Charleston. Baptist College has one of the top teams around. The Pirates finished the indoor season with a 2-3 record. Prospects, however, are looking good for the outdoor season.

Mike Bridges, top sprinter for the Pirates, may be out for the remainder of the season because of an injured ankle. However, Bill Cothren, a sturdy 185-pounder and Clem Williams should provide the Pirates with two good sprinters. The opposing teams will shudder when they see the Pirate quarter-milers core composed of Mac Howard, who placed in the Southern Conference Championship last year and All-Stater Richard Whitfield and Ed Whyte who may be considered East Carolina's "Mr. Everything." Charlie Hudson will be back again to provide the Pirates with a strong half-miler.

Jim Carzill, the leading scorer, will be a solid favorite everytime he runs the hurdles. Carzill is also a triple jumper and high jumper.

Ed Whyte could very easily be put into the same category as Carzill. Whyte competes in the long jump, triple jump, high jump, and several races.

The Pirates are not to be slighted in the field events. Clem Williams and Ed Whyte provide the Pirates with a strong twosome. Peter Moe and Jerry Allen provide two good high jumpers. Moe, a sophomore, has cleared 6'7". Bill Ervin, Roger Dalton, and Henry Coble provide the Pirates with three shot putters who better the 40' mark. Ervin set a Pirate indoor mark of 44'4 and one-half inches. Javelin throwers are few in this part of the country, but the Pirates have come up with two: Bruce Johnson and Henry Coble. John Osborne, and Terry Taylor, who incidentally are training for the Boston Marathon, are running the two-mile event. The Pirates are expecting a good season, so let's give them the support.

CAROLINA SKIDS

Carolina's nationally ranked basketball team lost both games in the NCAA finals. Many questions and answers have been offered as to Carolina's poor performance.

Fatigue and tight defense were offered as the excuse for Carolina's loss. The Tarheels have a good nucleus for next year. Maybe they will be there again.

Varsity Band Presents Variety Concert

The Varsity Band, conducted by George W. Knight, will give its annual spring concert of classical and contemporary music at 8:15 p.m. Thursday in Wright Auditorium.

Terry Paul Rothermich of St. Charles, Mo., gave his junior piano recital in fulfillment of the requirement for his bachelor's degree in the School of Music. The recital was performed in the Recital Hall of the School of Music Wednesday, March 29.

EC Crew Hosts Marist College In First Regatta In Carolinas

The East Carolina Crew will start its home racing schedule by hosting Marist College of New York in the first crew meet ever scheduled in North Carolina. The Race is scheduled to commence at 2:00 p.m. Friday, March 31, with the Junior Varsity race, followed at approximately 2:30 p.m. with the Varsity race.

This is the first such regatta ever held on the Tar River and the first in the Carolinas. The race will be the standard 2000 meter (about 1 and one-quarter miles) Olympic course. The race will start downstream of Warren Street and will finish at the foot of Evans Street.

The Bucs just completed a disappointing series of races in Florida. However, with the moving of Al Hearn to stroke and Jerry Kidd up from the Junior Varsity, the Varsity appears smoother and stronger.

The Junior Varsity also will have a new stroke in Cliff Riordan and added power in Bruce Donharl, who will man the important six-seat.

Friday's activities will also include the presentation of the award for the "Name the Shell" Contest now under way.
