Legislators Attend Hearing

The house committee public hearing on the ECU bill is scheduled for Thursday, April 20, at 9:00 a.m. The student leaders of East Carolina are scheduled to attend the hearings, in which SGA President Steve Moore will address the committee.

According to Moore, the SGA is chartering a bus from Seashore Bus Lines. The bus carrying student legislators, press representatives, and county club chairmen will leave at 6:30 a.m. Thursday morning.

The hearing will last from 9:00 a.m. until 11:00 a.m. The students plan to return at 1:30 p.m.

Student leaders will get a chance to hear the committee meetings and possibly a chance to say something themselves. Steve Moore will address the committee on behalf of the students and their interests.

Moore was in high hopes of the success of the forthcoming trip.

Steve Sniteman, former President of the Student Government Association congratulates the newly installed SGA President Steve Moore.

Officers Receive Awards To Highlight SGA Banquet

By SANDY MIMS
Co-News Editor

"The work done by those before us has set up the guidelines and the frame work which we shall follow. The past and the present both stand for the same thing — the betterment of student life," stated Steve Moore, immediately following his installation as President at the SGA Banquet Tuesday night. More stressed the need for better communication, saying that in recent years enrollment has grown and student government has grown but communication between the two has failed to grow at the same rate. He went on to cite examples of how the new administration intends to remedy this breach in communications.

"If we can correct this SGA deficiency as well as succeed in accomplishing a good part of our program, I feel that we will have succeeded in making Student Government the voice and the servant of the student," concluded Moore.

President Steve Sniteman, in his outgoing address to the SGA, stated: "Farewell addresses always seem to deal with tangibles. Five years from now, I will not remember the bills passed in my administration . . . but the underlying factors, the people involved."

In addressing the new administration, Sniteman said that everyone would have a lot of criticism to face . . . but that criticism just for the sake of criticism is no better than praise solely for the sake of praise. "It is meaningless because it lacks sincerity."

Sniteman closed by commending the many hard workers in the various facets of the SGA for giving of their time and efforts untiringly. Those to whom he directed his comments, as well as an endless list, were Barry Blick, Jay Barber, Sandy Wentzel, Jo Ann House, Jo Ann Vaughn, Jim Kimsey, Jim Franklin, John Meares, Dean Hardy, Frank Rice, Bill Moore and Bill Deal.

Awards

Frank Rice presented East Carolina Rings to Jo Ann House, Steve Moore, Sandy Wentzel and Steve Burns.

Dean Ruth White presented Jan Jackson a plaque for "Most Outstanding Woman Judicial Member."

In presenting the "Most Outstanding Man Judicial Member Award" to Jim Franklin, the Dean of Men James B. Mallory said: "The East Carolina Judicial System is unique — because of the dedication of its members, we have a good judicial system and it is because of men like you."

Outgoing President Steve Sniteman awarded Carleen Hjortsvang a plaque for "Most Outstanding Committee Member."

Poverty Experts Direct Seminar

By JOHN REYNOLDS
Managing Editor

East Carolina was the center of activity Monday and Tuesday, April 10-11, as the Department of Sociology and Anthropology sponsored a Regional Seminar on Poverty (Problems and Solutions) in conjunction with the North Carolina Fund, Durham, and the Office of Economic Opportunity, Washington, D. C.

Highlighting the seminar was the "Profile on Poverty," an exhibition of 450 documentary photographs by some 100 of the nation's leading photographers.

The show, which was prepared at the request of Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey, opened in Wright Auditorium Saturday morning. Between sessions, lectures, and work groups Monday and Tuesday guests of the college were conducted through the exhibit.

Specialists from the Office of Economic Opportunity and the North Carolina Fund conducted the discussion on poverty — the problems and solutions.

Jim McMillen, Special Events Consultant from the North Carolina Fund, said about the panelists, "Many people do not realize these people are the brains of the war on poverty . . . they are the top-notch people of their field in America."

Three specialists from the Office of Economic Opportunity held discussions and lectured on poverty. Carl Auvil, Regional Administrator, Job Corps Division, Mid-Atlantic Regional Office, presented a lecture on the Job Corps and led a work session on poverty.

James Draper, District Supervisor for North Carolina lectured on "Community Action" and also participated in a work session.

Bruce Babbitt, Assistant to the Director of VISTA, lectured on VISTA and led a work session on the problems and solutions of poverty.

N. C. Fund Specialists
Specialists from the North Carolina Fund conducting the seminar were John E. Murray, Community Education Specialist; Nathan T. Garrett, Deputy Director; Mrs. Carol Van Alstyne, Staff Economist; Rocco R. Fazio, Program Developer; Michael P. Brooks, Director of Planning; Moses C. Burt, Staff Legal Counsel; and William L. Flowers, Assistant Deputy Director.

Some of the topics during the panel discussions and work sessions were "Involvement of the Poor and Race," "North Carolina Economics & Poverty," "Welfare Programs & the Poor," "Education and Poverty," "Major Current Manpower Programs," "The Church & the Poor" and the "Role of Research in the War on Poverty."

Other panelists participating in the seminar were W. Burns Jones, Jr., M. D., Assistant State Health Director; Miss Katherine Wilson, Supervisor of Day Care Unit, N.C. State Department of Public Welfare; and Rev. W. W. Finlator, Pastor, Pullen Memorial Baptist Church, Raleigh.

The seminar opened Monday morning and continued through Tuesday afternoon, including panel discussions, lectures to classes, work sessions, and the "Profile of Poverty" exhibit in Wright Auditorium.

Heading the seminar for East Carolina was Melvin Williams, PhD, Chairman of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology, and Ralph R. Napp, EdD, of the department.

The work sessions were held about the campus in Old Austin auditorium, the library auditorium, the Y-Hut, and the Education-Psychology auditorium.

MEETING OF ALL COUNTY CLUBS TONIGHT

7:30 P. M.
Old Austin Auditorium

All students are urged to attend this meeting in order to plan and organize support for the ECU Bill which comes up for a Public Hearing on Thursday, April 20.

Size Of Cheering Squad Causes Concern In SGA

Cheerleaders and campus constitutions were the main topics for consideration at regular meeting of the Student Legislature at five o'clock Monday afternoon.

The first order of business for the Student Legislature was the reading of a letter from newly elected student body president Steve Moore.

In the letter the president expressed his concern over an announcement that was placed in the EAST CAROLINIAN concerning cheerleader tryouts. Moore said what had caused him the most concern was the proposed size of the squad, and the fact that the announcement came from the cheerleading committee and not from the Legislature.

Moore recommended that the Legislature take action to correct the situation.

The Speaker then called for old business, there being none, he moved on to new business.

Under new business, Courtney Andrews, chairman of the Rules Committee, presented several motions that called on many campus organizations to present their constitutions to the SGA for filing or approval. The reason that she had to present several motions, was that certain changes had to be made in different constitutions for them to meet SGA standards. All of the motions passed without debate.

Under further new business, Gail Adams, presented a resolution calling for the administration to place center and right hand railing on the front steps of Wright Auditorium.

The last action taken was the introduction and referral to the rules committee of the constitution of the College Artist of the School of Art.

Bill Deal announced that there would be a cheerleader committee meeting immediately following the Legislature meeting.

The speaker then adjourned the Legislature for two weeks.

ECU Challenge . . .

As students representing East Carolina College, each of us will have an opportunity to show our support for East Carolina University tonight. All of us have great pride in this institution and with the "Pride of the East" there is nothing that we cannot accomplish.

Speaking for the Students and the Student Government Association, we of the East Carolinian urge each of you to attend the meeting of all county clubs in Old Austin Auditorium tonight.

The future of East Carolina College rests at heart with its students. We are East Carolina College and it is up to us to let everyone in this state and elsewhere know just what sort of institution we represent.

The following article comes from the "Technician" of North Carolina State University and is a parable on the question of ECU. Written by Craig Wilson, a former Pitt County resident, the article reflects more truth than fantasy.

The article was originally printed with the headline that went: "Beware of Greeks Bearing Requests." It ended "Unfortunately the results were not recorded and the decision was lost to posterity."

As students of East Carolina, we encourage each of you to do all in your power to insure that the latter phrase will not be the result of the public hearing on East Carolina University.

We must join forces and show the state of North Carolina that our requests for university status are not to be taken lightly, but in the light of truth that we bare our hopes and dreams for the future.

"On a recent archaeological expedition to Italy I uncovered one of the last books of Livey. And since my skill as an archaeologist is exceeded only by my ability as a linguist I present you with a complete translation:

"In the year that Moorius was first made consul, envoys came to Rome from the East and demanded to speak before the Senate. Moorius, indignant at their attitude and by nature contemptuous of the fickle Greeks, asked of them their names and origin and decided to hear the case himself. The Senate was then engaged in fierce debate over sending an army to Carthage, and to disrupt its work with foolishness would have been unwise. But if the envoys cause, in the opinion of Moorius, was important enough, he was to let the Senate hear it also.

"The eldest of the group stepped forth and introduced himself as Ienkinos of East Cariolanus. 'My people,' he said, 'wish to make a treaty with Rome. The terms of such an alliance would have been unwise. But if the envoys' cause, in the same time provide us the protection and support of the Republic.'

"And Moorius without hearing out the envoys as to the reasons behind the request, expressed great displeasure, for he realized that taking a new and unproven people into the Roman family would meet with great displeasure among the peoples of the state; and since there remained only five months in the consulship and Moorius had five bills to be put to vote he decided to pass the decision to the Senate. So the third day before the Ides was appointed as the day the Senate would debate the issue.

"The Senate having been called to the Session, Moorius introduced the envoys to the assembled elders of Rome. Ienkinos alone of the Greeks was allowed to speak:

"Gentlemen of the Republic, we of East Cariolanus come seeking admission to the great world empire of Rome. We have long been a world power ourselves and now wish to be known as such — but we make it clear we wish to govern our own affairs. But we need the sanction of Rome to improve our state and we need the distinction of being a member of the Republic to increase our prestige. We of course realize our constitution needs much revision. But being a people of great resource we are prepared to take significant steps to remedy the situation. I need not remind you that in scarcely more than one Olympiad we have progressed from a small village of tutors and intellects to a dynamic city state with responsibility to the entire East. Perhaps the Senate recalls the board of Decemvirs dispatched to Athens by Rome to study the greatest city of the East. But you do also know that this board made a side trip to East Cariolanus and left with nothing but glowing praise for our city. I end my speech here with great respect for Rome and a fervent hope you will rule favorably on our request.'

"Much debate followed. Cato the Elder, long an enemy of the Greeks spoke of the danger to Rome if East Cariolanus were admitted. 'The Empire will be left in chaos. We cannot destroy our present system. East Cariolanus must be destroyed.'

"Yet perhaps the most fiery speech was given by the brave senator Morganus who was an admirer of the ways of Hellas. 'East Cariolanus has great members which can flock to our standards,' he said. 'They are also men of sound body, for they have demonstrated great powers every Olympiad at the games in a new sport they call football. I call for their immediate admission.'

"Now Moorius, hearing the words of Morganus, delivered a speech himself echoing the thoughts of Cato. The Senate then took the vote."

Unfortunately the results were not recorded and the decision was lost to posterity.

Letters To The Editor

Motorcycles

Sirs,

I have a suggestion to put before the people who run the traffic control on the EC campus — whoever they are. The instructors at ECC certainly have a point when they complain of the noise caused by motorcycles on campus during class hours. After passing the muffler inspection, many cyclists run back home and stick their old, gutted pipes back on their machines, true. But this could be stopped by enforcement of the loud-muffler regulations by the campus police. And this, surely, cannot be a blanket excuse to ban all cycles from campus.

And now, a problem develops. Nobody seems to know who is responsible for such a ban; or who to contact to complain about it. Why should cycles be banned? And why, on days when classes are not in session? This is my suggestion: Keep cycles off campus until after 3:00 p.m. on class days. After three, there are few enough classes to allow fellows to ride through campus to enjoy the view offered by the lovely co-eds. And there is no reason why bikes should be banned from campus on week-ends, especially during spring quarter, when ECC has so much scenery to offer.

So far this year, there has been adequate space to park bikes that are used to come to classes in the mornings on the edge of the campus. Undoubtedly, the number of cycles will increase if the ban on them is lifted, but parking space can be found for them on the Hill. But parking space for them should not even be considered in this suggestion. The question is: May cycles be used to ride around the campus on days that are fine for just riding around the campus, to pick up dates for cycle rides in the great outdoors of the Greenville area. It would save on gas for cars and would save a helluva lot of walking.

The problem exists. A solution is necessary. And with spring quarter well under way, a solution is necessary immediately. So let's get on the stick, somebody, and get something done for once.

Sincerely,

Gary West

Vietnam Demonstration

Dear Editor:

We would like to announce the mobilization in New York City to end the War in Vietnam on Saturday, April 15. We will assemble at 11:00 a.m. at the Central Park Sheep Meadow (66th Street). At noon we will march through Midtown to the U.N. where a rally will begin at 3:00 p.m. Our speakers will be Dr. Martin Luther King, Stokely Carmichael, Dr. Benjamin Spock, Dave Dellinger, and others.

The demonstration has been organized as part of a national mobilization centered in New York and San Francisco by the SPRING MOBILIZATION COMMITTEE TO END THE WAR IN VIETNAM. The Mobilization will muster perhaps the largest demonstrations ever held in this country to protest the current course of United States policy in Vietnam. Leaders from a variety of groups in the political spectrum will constitute a united front against the war. Other sponsors range from Michael Zagarell, Na-

Knight's Account Mistaken? Tieger Gave No Release

Reprint of The Duke Chronicle, Thursday, April 6, 1967.

By DOUG ADAMS

Dr. Douglas Knight's statement to the Durham Morning Herald of March 27, 1967, was mistaken in several points. Regarding the release to the FBI of University records on Buddy Tieger, Dr. Knight said, "The only records the FBI or anyone else saw where those which were given to Tieger himself, at his request." On the phone Tuesday morning Buddy Tieger told me that he neither gave nor authorized release of the information which is listed in his FBI resume as obtained from "The Records of Duke University." In the Herald, Dr. Knight said "it is very definitely against university policy to make student records available to anyone without the consent of the student." In point of fact, Duke still has no University policy to guarantee the student that information in his record will be kept private except upon his request.

I am shocked that Dr. Knight should say in reference to this whole affair, "I don't see anything for (faculty and students) to be concerned about." Dr. Knight has had brought to his attention instances of other personnel working with government intelligence agencies. This information has been withheld from the public at the University request. The Administration has led us to believe that they were deeply concerned and committed to putting an end to such connections. I now question that commitment.

The Administration claims that some of the dangling statements in the FBI resume were falsely accredited to university representatives. Nearly a year ago on May 17, 1966, I wrote President Knight a letter calling upon him to write to Buddy's appeals board and say that the FBI resume was in error. He said not a word when his statement might have helped Buddy Tieger, but left such tasks to lesser officials. Now, after Buddy has lost his appeal, Dr. Knight speaks out to protect the University; but it's word is too late to help Buddy.

Are College Students Strange?

(ACP) — "Is there something really wrong with today's crop of college kids?" So began a recent editorial in the Peoria (Ill.) Journal Star, notes the University of Nebraska Daily Nebraskan.

Compelled to comment on the editorial, the Daily Nebraskan continued:

So you say college students aren't strange? Well, then, the Journal Star asks, why is it that a group of University of Illinois students wanted to meet with the dean of students to confront him with questions like these:

Why does the university have the authority to tell you where to live until you're 23 years old? Why is the university an accomplice in deciding which students 'qualify' to be sent to Vietnam (i.e., reporting students' grades)? Why can the Navy, Marines, etc., use the "Student Union and not an unrecognized student group, the W.E.B. Du-Bois Club? What is (are) the established channel (s) for voicing student grievances and obtaining meaningful action?

The Journal Star said it doesn't know how the dean consoled "these youngsters" but it hopes he told them to bury their sorrow by hitting the books a little harder. "Whatever, the fact remains that these college kids are a different breed."

And what's responsible for corrupting these "youngsters" — for making them a different breed? The Commies? Fluoridation? No, the Journal Star said, it's television.

Because Mickey Mouse made kids into young adult Mousketeere who think society exists to entertain them. Because children raised in the electronic world of "white hats" and "black hats" can't be expected to conclude that anything counts but a fast draw

Because kids who watched news programs showing South American students spitting on Nixon automatically conclude it's okay to spit on college deans and disregard university rules. Because kids "who saw independence and chaos go national Youth Director, Communist Party, to the San Francisco Young Democrats, and include such distinguished leaders as Floyd McEisick, National Director, CORE; Julian Houston, Student Body President, Boston University; Sheldon Sachs, Student Government President, City College of New York; and Howard Zinn, Professor Department of Government, Boston University.

Those who would like to participate, as well as those who are definitely going to participate and will drive up should write to Box 4781, Duke Station, so that transportation may be provided for all. If anyone needs to stay over, bring sleeping bags and blankets and call or write this address for accommodations: Mike Segar, 29 Park Row, New York City; (212) 964-0070.

We the undersigned members of Duke University urge your participation:

Doug Adams, Harvel Alper, Harry and Sara Boyte, Joe Harris, Clint Wilson, Jim Teal and Randy Shannon.

hand and hand in the Congo" think "the mob scene was the highest expression of liberty."

Looking back on these foolish student protests, it is hard to imagine that students ever thought they should be concerned with where and how they live, whether they have to spend several years in military service, pay fee money for ridiculous buildings, or have an established channel for voicing grievances.

Not even the staunchest critic of the dean could ever claim that, his mind addled by television, he ever thought of paying attention to these kids who object to things that are none of their business.

This is good to know.

Success Characterizes Playhouse Production

By JIM FLEMING
Staff Writer

Last week the Playhouse presented Charles Aidman's stage arrangement of Edgar Lee Masters' "Spoon River Anthology."

The stage version consists of only a portion of Masers' work. From these poems, the Playhouse, under the direction of David Press, presented a performance with an amazing amount of unity and communication. Four actors portrayed successfully about seventy-three roles in "Spoon River."

Jane Barrett proved again her talents, especially in such sensitive roles as Lois Spears, a blind girl, and Minerva Jones, an unpublished poetess who was raped and died after an abortion.

Lola McDermott showed her versatility and ease on stage with her moving performances of Emily Sparks, the teacher; Yu Bow, a Chinese girl who has kept to her religion; Lucinda Matlock, who cannot understand the weakness of the younger generation; and Russian Sonia who fooled Spoon River by living with one of its citizens for years without benefit of clergy.

The men were played by Mark Ramsey and Gregory Zittel. Ramsey, although only a freshman, gave exciting yet tender performances, including his Shack Dye, a Negro; Willie Metcalf, the boy who was known by the horses, and the optician who made people see beauty. Zittel's variety of character projection and voice were especially well illustrated by his portrayal of Piddler Jones, who had no time to work; the dead soldier; and William, who was the husband of Emily played by Miss Barrett. His Barney Hainsfeather, the Jew who was accidentally buried in Spoon River, stopped the show. Zittel also was property manager.

The quality of the performance was, as a whole, very good. The actors performed well individually and as a group. Only once, in the early part of the second act, was the communication between the actors and the audience lost. The actors were backed up by two folk singers, Soger Luckey and Judy Tuttle. Their playing and singing moved in and out of the production, giving it totality and without once interrupting inappropriately.

The set designed by John Sneden gave the performance and added, "peaceful feeling of a cemetery," which prevailed throughout the show. The most informative piece of scenery was the picture frame through which appropriate images appeared. Brown tints and shades were used to give the set the feeling of an old photograph. George Schreiber did the lighting of the scenery and designed the projection system for the picture frame.

The costumes, by Mary Stevens, also gave the performance a feeling of oldness. The actors wore clothes from about 1870, also made in brown tints and shades. The folk singers were dressed in very modern clothes, mostly black. Especially nice was Miss Tuttle's mini-dress. Componently and as a whole, "Spoon River" was an aesthetic success.

Mark Ramsey, Jane Barrett, Gregory Zittel, and Lola McDermott rendered exciting and versatile performances to the Playhouse production of "Spoon River Anthology."

UN Delegates Propose Toast To East Carolina Hospitality

By Nancy New
Staff Writer

Wednesday, April 5, dawned bright and sunny — a beautiful day for picketing. Up and down in front of Wright Auditorium marched persistent objectors, some in unruly fashion, some with quiet determination.

As the sun crept higher, the delegations and members of the executive council began arriving. The stage was set for the convening of the ninth annual Middle South Model United Nations.

As the visiting delegates attempted to register, they were frequently way-laid and subjected to the scrutiny of the press; How did they get interested in U. N. work? What was most enjoyable about being a delegate? How did they like East Carolina so far? Pleasing to the reporter who had a notebook to fill, and a story to write, most of the visitors were eager to talk.

Generally, the delegates were selected by a faculty-student committee after applying for the position. Motivation for application ranged from an intense interest in world affairs to the "suggestion" of a fraternity president or a favorite professor.

They came by all modes of transportation, the most frequent being automobile, and seemed very pleased with their reception. According to Jim Winkates, of the University of Virginia, a delegate from Sweden, the idea of the pickets was an exciting way to "generate interest right off the bat."

The boys seemed to enjoy registering, thanks to the help of some "lovely girls" who did their best to make it "a pleasure." The main discordant notes were sung by a few visiting girls, one of whom said "registration was intolerable."

Most of the delegations were situated by late afternoon, and some of them began to hit the high spots. The delegates from Duke and U. Va. joined forces with a few of ECC's own, and down at the Rat began to propose toasts, among other things, to the beauty of Southern girls!!! to the hospitality of ECC students!!! to the permanent alliance of Sweden (a male delegate) and Poland (a female delegate)!!

Asked about their accomodations, just about everyone was fairly pleased, although the girl who found registration intolerable was none too happy with her room and far less than pleased with the hours she was forced to keep. Knowing she was to be quoted, Bunny Small, from Duke, a delegate from Poland, said, "Coming from a liberal University, I was shocked and appalled to find that a college seeking University status should have such archaic rules governing their women!" Actually, those who were displeased were few and far between.

When the convention got down to business Wednesday night, it soon became apparent that here was a group of young men and women who had made it their business to know and be concerned with the affairs of our world. The four days at East Carolina College was the climax to much diligent research and hard work.

Possibly bound by the idea that they were working together for the betterment of the nations of the world, a wonderful aura of good fellowship surrounded this meeting of the Model United Nations. Good friends were made by all, good times were had by all, but circulating around with the fun was the fine realization that these students are the determiners of tomorrow, and they are capable.

'The Island' Captures Life In Its Beauty

(Editors Note: The Island, a modern Japanese film, will be shown at Wright Auditorium at 7:00 p.m. this evening. The following is a review of the film by Maria H. Koonce of ECC's Spanish Department.)

The Island is a wordless poem. Somehow, the Japanese were able to capture the rude essence of life with the majestic beauty of the struggle for survival and the dignity of true human emotions. Words would have been distracting in the movie; we simply do not need them to penetrate the basic feelings that are in all of us. Words seem also foolish now, in trying to review this delightful piece. It is the purest of all arts: a contact between the creation and the audience which needs no interpreters. It is all there, on the screen, so powerfully alive that it reaches out to every one of us who need not be intellectually prepared but human beings to receive it.

The little family whose hard routine we share day by day, season after season, awakens in us an overflowing love toward all men. Their uncomplaining, silent, never-ending fight with nature, their reward which is nothing but a continuation of the same resigned struggle; their moving happiness when the unexpected capture of a big fish by one of the children breaks their monotone existence, all is man at his best, man all over the universe in his proud search for a place in life. It goes back to the beginning of our race, to man's relations with nature when he is big, and pure, and full of dignity. But he is also very small and powerless when nature strikes him. No complicated schemes; just man and God. But there is no spy or mystery movie that could convey the intense suspense that the spectator feels during the pathetic race of the father against death. Neither false effects, nor artificial, worn-out tricks to gain our emotions are necessary. It is all open reality and truth. We are even in our own world so tragically and desperately impotent against providence.

And then, amidst this ocean of pain, they must live on. One of the most touching symbols in the movie is the man's reaction to his wife's wastefulness of valuable water. The first time he slaps her, since in their normal existence, one drop of water means a mouthful in the future. But, the second time, when the worse of human sufferings is tearing her apart and she loses her mind in an anguished, bitter, useless rebellion destroying in her rage their own promise of food, then he understands, but with greater wisdom, he bends down to his task, quite older than before.

To people used to thinking of movies exclusively as entertainment, full of complicated plots, this one may come as the shock of the unexpected and the different. But its supreme values will soon enhance our very soul. The Island is a complete unified work of art, where each element has the same delicate subtlety, the same sober good taste and the same perfection, to bring us life itself, the acting, the music, the photography and the theme which is too grand for petty events. The theme is life, at its best and at its worst; life in its beauty, its simplicity, its grandeur, its infinity and its poesy.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

In intramural softball, Lambda Chi has victories over Alpha Kappa Psi, Kappa Alpha, Phi Epsilon Kappa, and a defeat by Sigma Phi Epsilon. In bowling Lambda Chi Alpha has defeated Pi Kappa Phi and Alpha Phi Omega.

At the model U. N. session last weekend, Lambda Chi Alpha had approximately thirty-five brothers and pledges participating.

CHI OMEGA

The Rho Zeta Chapter of Chi Omega had the presentation of its formal pledge class at the annual White Carnation Ball on April 1 at the American Legion Hall. Preceding the formal dance an afternoon party was held at the Candlewick Inn. The Innmen, Ltd. of Raleigh, N. C. provided the music.

Sister Joan Evans is to be congratulated for being chosen 2nd runner-up in the Miss Pitt County Contest, and Miss Beverly White for being chosen Miss Elizabeth City, and Diane McCaslin as Miss Newton-Conover.

On April 5, the Chi Omegas were honored with a social with the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity. The sisters and pledges want to thank them for an enjoyable time.

Miss Sally Brodyhill represented Virginia in the Miss Cherry Blossom Festival this past week-end in Washington, D. C.

Rose Takes Over Commander Post

Last Monday night, the General Chennault Squadron of the Arnold Air Society here at East Carolina College held an election for its new officers for the oncoming year.

Most important on the list was the election of the new AAS Commander, Carl Ray Rose, a junior cadet here in the Air Force ROTC program, won this election. Mr. Rose of Smithfield, North Carolina pledged Arnold Air during his freshman year of school.

Since entering the Arnold Air Society, the ROTC Dept. has awarded Mr. Rose with the Accommodation Medal three times, the Competitive Flight Drill Medal, and the Academic Star.

The past Commander, Frank F. Freudig will hold an installation ceremony for the new officers next Monday night at the AAS headquarters.

Other officers were: Ronald O. Brock, Don M. Holloman, Lynn E. Judice, Jerry R. Edwards and Erwin A. Hightower.

brated Founders Day with a special dinner and each member wore the ribbons in recognition of their founding.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI

The new spring pledge class includes: Chip Reed, Bob Kelly, Jim Brenson, Ron Cain, Bill Watson, and Fisher Beasley. The class will hold a car wash at P&G Texaco at 10th and Evans Street Saturday.

This past weekend, brothers Skip Huff, Phil Coleman, Jack Slapay, and David Whaley attended a district convention at Norfolk, Va.

Recently installed brothers are David Whaley and Vernon Tyson. Alpha Kappa Psi ended its basketball season number 2 in the league and is presently tied with KA for the top spot in softball.

Beach weekend is at Nags Head Beach and scheduled for April 22-23.

KAPPA ALPHA

Last weekend the KAs traveled to the "Plantation" at Enfield, N. C., the home of the KA advisor, Ovid W. Pierce. There was a Bar-B-Q dinner on Saturday afternoon. This has become an annual affair that everyone looks forward to. "Doc" our advisor, has just completed his new book, "The Devil's Half," published by Doubleday which should come out this fall.

In sports, the KAs after winning the interfraternity championship, defeated the 2nd floor Belk in the first round of the playoffs by the score of 54 to 46. In the championship game with the Green Hornets the KAs won by the score of 72 to 70. This marked an undefeated season of 12 wins and no losses. In softball the KAs defeated Sigma Chi Delta 6 to 5.

A lawn party during IFC week-end will be held at Brother Bill Mosier's home.

PHI ALPHA SIGMA

The brothers of Phi Alpha Sigma fraternity held a car wash Saturday, April 8. All proceeds went to the American Cancer Society.

Phi Alpha Sigma would like to thank Alpha Phi Omega for the invitation to co-sponsor last Tuesday night's social with Alpha Phi sorority. The brothers would also like to thank the Alpha Phi's and APO's for the enjoyable time they had.

DELTA ZETA

Omega pledge class of the Zeta Lambda Chapter of Delta Zeta Sorority recently held a car wash to increase both pledge class spirit and the sorority treasury. This project was directed by the pledge class officers: Judy Wilson, President; Cathy Chandler, vice-president; Lyn Lovelace, secretary; Jane Hinton, treasurer; and Ann Breeze, song leader.

On the lighter side, the sisters recently sent the pledges on a scavenger hunt to all the fraternity and sorority houses. The hunt ended at Dr. Jenkins' home, where the pledges wished the president luck on the East Carolina University situation.

Sister Becki Barrow was presented the quarterly activities award. This award is presented each quarter to the sister who has devoted the most time and effort to extra-curricular activities.

Zeta Lambda Chapter presented an Easter program of music at the local Convalescent home on March 20. This community service is performed monthly.

Delta Zeta State Day was held at the Voyager Inn in Greensboro on April 1. The East Carolina Chapter was official hostess for the event. Other colleges represented were Western Carolina, Lenoir-Rhyne, and Atlantic Christian.

PI OMEGA PI

B. Scot Ober has been elected president of Pi Omega Pi honorary business education society at East Carolina for the 1967-'68 school year.

A Junior from Edenton, Ober is a student representative to the national council of Pi Omega Pi.

Other officers elected by the fraternity include: Peggy Cook, vice president; Mary Beth Hunter, secretary; Gale Adams, treasurer; Sue Crawley and Betty McCandless, historians.

Membership in Pi Omega Pi is reserved for business education majors who have a B average in business and education courses. Objectives of the fraternity are to recognize and encourage superior scholarship, to develop community service, to encourage members to accept responsibility and to provide an organization for outstanding business students.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

The Brothers of Alpha Phi Omega are pleased to announce the initiation of four new brothers. They are David Tutterow, Wayne Murschell, Glenn Gulleage, and Stephen Gaskey.

Spring rush for Alpha Phi Omega was very successful with the induction of eight new pledges. They are Stephen Hayes, Joe Balok, Mike Harrell, Jimmy Everett, Charles Mock, Ken Caldwell, Roland Pridgen, and Don Smith.

Elections were held on April 3, 1967. The new officers of Alpha Phi Omega are President, Marc Coker; First Vice-President, Bill Rogers; Second Vice-President, James Perkinson; Treasurer, John Bogatko; Corresponding Secretary, Sid Keeter; Recording Secretary, Gil Beety; and Sergeant-at-Arms, Herman Allen. Congratulations to all the new officers.

DELTA SIGMA PI

Delta Sigma Pi was honored to have as its speaker last Tuesday night Mr. Paul T. Vaness, Personnel Manager of IBM in Washington, D. C. He spoke about the growth of IBM, its different fields of operation, and the opportunities it offers to the college graduate. We enjoyed Mr. Vaness' speech and thank him for his time and effort in coming down from Washington.

The new officers of Delta Sigma Pi for next year are: Steve Murray, President; Harold Kidd, Senior Vice President; Robert McInerney, Vice President; Freddie Goins, Secretary; Jay Katon, Treasurer; Phil Ellis, Historian; John White, Social Chairman; Claude Hendershot, Professional Chairman; and Doug Glass, Correspondent.

Two new brothers inducted at the beginning of this quarter are Mike Conley and Doug Glass. New pledges for Spring quarter are Ernest Destefano and Dennis Lamparter.

PHI BETA LAMBDA

was the guest speaker at the April meeting of the Omicron Chapter of Phi Beta Lambda. He was invited to teach here in the School of Business by Dr. E. R. Browning, Dean; and he teaches Economics 111 and 112. Dr. Das answered questions that ranged from the Indian social custom of parents choosing mates for their children to the banking system of India.

Members Don Ragan and Danny Connell were appointed to a committee to screen eligible candidates for the Outstanding Senior Award and to choose the winner of the award.

Patrick Berry, who is presently serving as local President and State Treasurer of Phi Beta Lambda was nominated and elected by acclamation to receive the chapter's Outstanding Service Award for the 1966-67 school year.

Members of the Omicron chapter of Phi Beta Lambda will assist with the annual District Typewriting Contest, which will be held on Thursday, April 20, in the School of Business.

It was decided that meetings will be held next year on one Wednesday of each month at 5:00 p.m.

Phi Beta Lambda is open to all interested Business students, and they may join at any meeting during the year.

PI KAPPA PHI

Beta Phi Chapter announces the invitation of ten new brothers. They are: Steve Anderson, Jim Culp, Terry Hary, Mike McGuirk, Frank Muir, Larry Mulvihill, Bicky Woodard, Archie Simmons. Congratulations to these new brothers.

In sports, the Pi Kappas remain in the winning column. Currently they are undefeated in Softball, hold down second place in bowling, and have finished up a fine basketball season.

On Monday night, April 10, the men of Beta Phi held elections of officers. The following men were elected to hold office: Bill Dryden, Archon; Cam Frazier, Treasurer; Bill Marks, Secretary; Terry Harpe, Historian; David Carter, Chaplain; Reese Helms, Warden; and Larry Muvihill, Corresponding secretary.

This past weekend the Pi Kappa held an extremely successful Rose Ball at the Ocean Plaza Hotel in Myrtle Beach. Miss Wanda Harris was chosen our new Rose Queen.

PHI U COLONY

In a recent election of the Phi U Colony, the following members were elected to office: President, Margaret Rumbley; vice-president, Alice Riddick; Corresponding secretary, Rebecca Buck; chaplain, Linda Nelms; history, Marjorie Drake; Cante Editor, Sue Barden; Librarian, Linda Watson.

In accordance with national rules, treasurer, Cathy Henry, was appointed. In the week before elections, approximately 50 members were initiated into the Phi U Colony on the basis of scholarship and leadership. The Colony is petitioning for a charter for membership in Phi Upsilon Omicron, national home economics fraternity.

Eleven AFROTC Cadets Complete Flight Program

Eleven cadets of the East Carolina College AFROTC detachment have successfully completed the Flight Instruction Program (FIP) of the United States Air Force at the Pitt - Greenville Airport. Tim Wooten, Bart Edelen, Gary Newcome, Lester Welty, Steve Blanchard, Gary Davis, Carl Guthrie, Douglas Rosier, Guy Sumpter, Mac Coleman, and Kenneth Joyner finished this week, the program that began last fall and that will take them into further Air Force flight training.

The Flight Instruction Program is given to AFROTC cadets who are classified I-P (pilot classification) to determine their capability to become Air Force pilots. The cadets receive training in a Cessna 150 aircraft for 36 hours which includes soloing this aircraft, performing all required maneuvers, solo and dual cross country flying, and evaluation flights which are performed by the flight instructor or a Federal Aviation Association (FAA) representative. Upon completion of 35 hours flying time the cadets are given a final evaluation check ride and the cadets are evaluated and recommended for further Air Force flight training if they are qualified and capable to become an accomplished Air Force pilot.

EC's Family Life Conference Discussed Sex And Marriage

By JACK HART Staff Writer

"Morality: Playboys Versus Playgirls" was the topic of the Family Life Conference held April 10 through 12 at East Carolina College.

Dr. Elizabeth Corkey of Charlotte spoke to the male students Tuesday night at the Methodist Student Center on the topic of "The Woman's Expectations in Marriage."

"Women need to get more out of marriage than do men," commented Dr. Corkey. "They need to know why they exist, they need respect and assurance from their husbands. If they possess talents such as music they should receive recognition of these talents from their husbands," said Dr. Corkey.

According to Dr. Corkey, a marriage is made of something besides sex. "Every wife expects to be supported," said Dr. Corkey, "and this involves more than take-home pay. There must be a sense of financial knowhow existing between the husband and the wife. This quality could make all the difference between a successful marriage and one that fails.

Getting to the subject of sex in marriage, Dr. Corkey said many people rush into sex without affection, especially in the lower class of people. In commenting on the definition of "affection," she said that tenderness and consideration is as close to a definition as one could get.

"There is a great difference between a man and a woman on this point," said Dr. Corkey. "Women need a far greater show of affection than do men."

An important question raised by Dr. Corkey was "what does a woman expect in sex after marriage?" "This should be a spontaneous behavior, and any normal couple, in love, should continue where they left off before marriage," said Dr. Corkey.

"In discussing the sex act itself, and the frequency, Dr. Corkey commented that usually the frequency slacks off after the honeymoon, but wholly depends on the couple in question. "Twice a week is fairly common for intercourse after the honeymoon," explained Dr. Corkey. Usually the wife prefers the husband to take the lead in the act, but they should both try to achieve several objectives. Both partners should show consideration for the other, and affection in order to work out a satisfactory relationship, constantly changing.

According to Dr. Corkey, the concept of the woman's role in the sex act has changed. In the old days, the pleasure of the act was to be enjoyed by the male, the female deriving her pleasure from having the child. "This has all changed," said Dr. Corkey. "The sex act today is the ultimate expression of the deepest love which one mate has for the other. Besides releasing tension, it increases the feeling of well being if used properly," explained Dr. Corkey.

In her closing remarks about the attitudes of the wife on sex, Dr. Corkey said, "If a man is to understand his wife, he must understand her as a person and not a thing."

College Fashion Board Selects 'In-Clothes'

The 1967 College Fashion Board for Penney's in Pitt Plaza, was announced Tuesday by Advertising Manager William Best. The board consists of eight representatives from each sorority and two independent members of East Carolina College.

"The excitement and enthusiasm is tremendous among the girls," reports Best, "and with the assistance of these representatives, Penney's buyers will undoubtedly select the 'most-wanted' styles, fabrics, and colors that the fashion-conscious people of Eastern North Carolina desire!"

Board members will review price lists and model garments for next season's fashions, then make their appraisals and suggestions to further make Penney's the fashion-center for Eastern North Carolina.

To gain experience in merchandising and fashions, the board members will participate in numerous fashion shows and visit with customers either by 'in-store' modeling or assisting customers in their selections of fashions. The young ladies selected to serve on the board were elected by their respective sorority and the two independent members by Mr. Best.

Serving as Board Members for the '67 period are: Pat Ballint, representing Alpha Omicron Pi; Pam Nelson representing Alpha Delta Pi; Debbi Davis, representing Alpha Pi; Kathy Carlson, representing Alpha Xi Delta; Susan Zierath, representing Chi Omega; Sara Bell, representing Delta Zeta; Carol Lewis, representing Kappa Delta; Sherry Robertson Sigma Sigma Sigma; Kristina Allen, serving as an independent member; and Diane May, serving as an independent member of the board. These representatives will serve from April '67 until April '68.

Making their first official appearance, the Fashion Board members will present "Surf-Mates '67," a swimwear fashion revue at Penney's Pitt Plaza store on Friday evening, April 14, at 8:00 p.m. in coordination with a "Moonlight Madness" event scheduled by the store. The public is cordially invited to attend and to meet the fashion board members during their 'In-store' modeling immediately following the fashion show.

Fashion Board: Penney's chose these comely East Carolina coeds to serve as their Fashion models and experts for the 1967 year. They appear in their first Swimwear Fashion Show tomorrow night at 8:00 p. m.

Local Govt. Offers 3-Month Program

College students interested in a career in local government are urged to participate in a three-month summer internship program sponsored by the Institute of Government.

Twenty-two students will be selected and placed in one of the twelve local governments participating in the program. Students will be given a variety of assignments of a research or administrative nature and will work out of the office of a city or county manager or the head of a major city department. Students interested in applying for this summer program should apply immediately to Donald Hayman, Institute of Government, Chapel Hill, North Carolina.

Versatile Josh White, Jr. Performs In College Union

By PAT BERRY

The East Carolina College Union is proud to present Josh White, Jr. in the final session of its Coffee House series for this year. He will appear in CU 201 on Monday-Thursday, April 24-27, at 8:00 p.m. Tickets may be picked up at the College Union Desk beginning on Monday, April 17.

Josh White Jr. began his career in show business at the age of four, when he appeared for the first time with his father, Josh White, Sr. As he grew older, his appearances with his father grew more numerous. Finally, in 1961, the time came when Josh, Jr.'s talent demanded that he be presented in his own right, first as a club performer and then as a concert artist. Since that time, he has been acclaimed in nightclubs, folk music rooms, and concert halls across North America and Europe.

Josh White, Jr.'s ability to entertain, however, is not limited to his musical work. An extremely versatile performer, he has played dramatic roles in five Broadway shows, including "Only in America" and "The Long Dream." In addition, he has appeared on such network television shows as "Hootenanny," "Ben Jarod," "The Armstrong Circle Theater," "The Today Show," and many others.

Although in recent years his style has increasingly differed from that of his father, Josh Jr. is quick to admit his debt for the techniques that were developed during his years of apprenticeship. From time to time their busy individual schedules meet and then, to the delight to audiences, they are heard together in concert.

"I'm On My Own Way," Josh White, Jr.'s first solo album, has been recently released by Mercury Records, and it presents the many moods of this versatile young artist.

SGA Banquet...

The "Most Outstanding Legislator Award" went to Steve Burns, presented by Dr. James H. Tucker. Newly elected SGA President Steve Moore and past Treasurer received the "Most Outstanding Executive Council Member Award" which was presented by Dean Rudolph Alexander.

Dr. Robert Holt said of Steve Sniteman, while presenting the "Most Outstanding Member of the SGA Award," that "You don't have to be told what this person has done because you have seen him in action day after day, week after week."

The last presentation was made to Dr. Fritz Hugh Duncan by Steve Sniteman. Sniteman thanked Dr. Duncan for the many outstanding contributions he had made to the SGA. Duncan was awarded a full set of luggage.

Steve Sniteman installed new SGA President Steve Moore. Moore in turn installed the other newly elected officers.

Afterthoughts

Setting the pace for the SGA banquet and the work accomplished this year by the SGA, Steve Sniteman reflected... "The ideas that emerge from Student Government should be working realities, not idealistic afterthoughts."

NOTICE: COEDS

EC Tramples Davidson; Whyte Sets Record

By DAVIO McCONNELL
Associate Sports Editor

On Tuesday afternoon, the East Carolina track team turned their 440 oval into a crematory, and completely demoralized the Davidson track team by the humiliating score of 101 to 44.

Ed Whyte, captain of the Bucs, celebrated his twenty-first birthday in grand style by setting the school record in the long jump. Ed glided 23' 3 and three quarters inches to top his old mark by three inches.

The team won twelve firsts, and their second conference track meet of the year. They are now 2-1 overall. The freshmen did not see action, but will be tested this Saturday by Atlantic Christian College.

It may be noted that there were three double winners for the Bucs in the meet. Jim Cargill completely dominated the 120 high hurdles and the 440 lows; Bill Cothorn sprinted to the 100 and 220 victories; and Peter Moe from Norway catapulted to the high jump and triple jump wins. He broke the high jump record by one inch, setting a new record for 6 feet 2 inches.

Finally, there will be a dual meet against Atlantic Christian College here, Saturday April 15. It may also be noted that there were seven faithful spectators to cheer our boys on to victory. That's not bad out of 9,000 students.

Dellinger Wins Again!

By Clem Williams

Narron and Dellinger Sparkle
What a combination "Scotty" Dellinger, the winningest pitcher on the Pirate baseball team did it again. Dellinger tossed a two-hitter to starve of a strong University of Richmond baseball team.

Dellinger's record is now 3-0. Richard Narron, who incidentally caught all of Dellinger's pitches helped him to his second victory by hitting a two-run homer. Narron previously was out for two games with a sprained ankle.

Glover, Snyder, and Thorne Lead Way

Rick Glover, another of East Carolina's sophomore pitchers, hurled a three-hitter in the night cap against the Spiders of the University of Richmond. Jim Snyder and Ed

Thorne led the assault as both collected three hits a piece to lead the 15 hit assault on the Spiders. The two wins give the Pirates a 5-1 conference record and 12-2 overall record.

Football Saturday

East Carolina's 67 edition can be seen April 15th. In case you are wondering what the '67 edition is, it's the "Fighting Pirates" for the 1967 season. Many changes will be made in the lineup when both teams come on to the field.

The Pirate offense line will boast quite a bit of size. Kevin Moran and Paul Schurr have been switched to offense. Others on the starting line may include Wotke Springs, Jimmy Adkins, Jimmy Shuffler, and Ben Grieb.

The Pirates have three tremendous fullbacks in George Gay, Jim Flowe, and Butch Colson. If you want to see a good game come on out and see next year's team in action.

Kyedetts vs. EC

County Clubs Discuss 'ECU' Public Hearing

By EILEEN WEINER
Staff Writer

At 7:30 p.m. on April 13, there will be a meeting in Old Austin Auditorium of the county clubs and all other students interested in university status for East Carolina College. The topic of discussion will be the public hearing to take place in Raleigh on April 20, during which there will be an attempt to publicize East Carolina and its goals.

"The important point," Dr. Jenkins stressed, "is that the students become actively involved in this hearing by contacting their parents and other influential people who can help ECC's drive toward university status."

The county clubs provide an opportunity for students within the various counties to become acquainted with one another. It also serves as an outlet for talented students to display their skills in promoting East Carolina. One such student from Yonkers, New York, Howard Rollin, has written a song calling for East Carolina to become a University.

"The idea of county clubs is not a new one," Dr. Jenkins explained. "These clubs have existed at East Carolina for about ten years. They were organized not as pressure groups, but to promote East Carolina among their families and friends."

WECC Acquires New Hours

WECC — A.M. radio has recently expanded its broadcast hours to 8:00 a.m. til 1:00 a.m. Sunday through Friday.

When asked about this expansion Jerry Beaver, General Manager of WECC, replied, "We are trying to set up the type of programming such as we did last spring."

"With spring quarter here, our new announcers have had two quarters to become competent with our broadcast facilities, so now we feel we can expand our hours while keeping a good sound going over the air. We are doing our best to serve the students of E.C.C. and we believe the expansion of hours to be an extension of that service. We run a rock format from 8:00 a.m. until 12:00 midnight featuring "TOP 40" and plenty of "OLD GOLD".

"From midnight until 1:00 a.m. recorded hour of semi-popular music. On Friday nights we expand our broadcasting hours until 2:00 a.m. or sometimes 3:00 a.m. We slow the pace down with a pre-feeel this to be the type of programming the students desire."

WECC — A.M. broadcasts on 570kc, and may be received by any student in the dormitories.
