Members of East Carolina County Clubs rallied for a meeting in Old Austin Auditorium Thursday night. Topics and questions discussed during the informal convocation were linked with the public hearings to be held on university status at East Carolina College in Raleigh on Thursday.

Answering questions for EC students were President Leo Jenkins, SGA President Steve Moore and Dean of Student Affairs, Dr. James H. Tucker.

SGA President Moore announced that the House Committee Public Hearing on the ECU bill is scheduled to start at 9:00 a.m. Thursday. Members of the Student legislature, county club chairmen and two representatives of the press are scheduled to attend the hearing.

President Moore, who will address the House Committee on behalf of EC students, stated that the SGA is chartering a bus from Seashore Bus Lines to carry student leaders to Raleigh for the hearing. The bus will leave from the front of Wright Building at 8:30 Thursday morning. Committee hearings will last from 9:00 a.m. until 11:00 a.m. Students will leave from Raleigh to return to EC at 1:30 p.m.

Students were encouraged to continue their involvement in the Committee Hearings by contacting their parents and other influential people who can help EC's drive toward university status.

Several students questioned exactly what they could do as individuals to further the ECU cause.

It was concluded that students could probably express their interest for university status most effectively by writing personal letters to their individual legislators as most legislators will listen more readily to the voice of their constituents.

When asked if there was anything that students could do to help the 400 legislators who will be in Greenville tomorrow, Jenkins replied that the legislators were on an Eastern Swing Tour and that they would only be taking a short bus tour of the East Carolina campus.

He noted that legislators are being brought to Eastern North Carolina on a special train supplied with ECU conductor hats. The 400 legislators, pages and pagettes will be hosted at a noon luncheon at the Moose Lodge. They will make visits to several Greenville homes during the day.

President Jenkins told students about a recent Rotary Meeting in Charlotte where he served as guest speaker. Raising the question that he asked at the Charlotte meeting, Dr. Jenkins asked: "Who will be the victor if the East is defeated?" After pointing out that one-third of East Carolina's in-state students come from the 17 counties of the Piedmont crescent and that nearly a fourth of them come from the six counties of the state which are classified as metropolitan — Buncombe, Durham, Forsyth, Guilford, Mecklenberg and Wake, Jenkins then explained:

"You see we are not as regional as some people seem to think. I should ask you, then, 'who' will be the victor if the East is beaten down in its attempt to have East Carolina elevated to independent university status?"

"Will Charlotte be a greater city?" he asked. "Will North Carolina have greater educational opportunity?"

"And if Charlotte has a celebration, what will it be celebrating? Will there be a sense of pride and (Continued on page 5)

Howard Mitchell conducts the National Symphony Orchestra on campus this Wednesday. Known as the "Orchestra of Presidents," the National Symphony has moved to the front ranks under the leadership of Mr. Mitchell.

National Symphony Presents Concert Wednesday, April 19

By NANCY NEW
Staff Writer

The late President John F. Kennedy, said of the National Symphony Orchestra and its conductor, Howard Mitchell "That the city of Washington has achieved the stature as one of our nation's leading centers of cultural activity is attributable in good measure to Howard Mitchell. Under his devoted leadership, the National Symphony has moved to the front rank of American Orchestras. His services to the community and to the cause of American music has given added vitality and brought wide recognition to the National Symphony."

The Washington National Symphony was founded by Hans Kindler and played its first concert in January of 1930. Mr. Kindler conducted until he retired at the behest of the assistant conductor of the orchestra was appointed to the position. Since Howard Mitchell's appointment as conductor, the orchestra has grown remarkably in every respect. The season has lengthened to forty weeks, the number of concerts to 200, and there are now 95 talented musicians.

Known as the "Orchestra of Presidents" the National Symphony has played for inaugurations of every president since its founding.

It's also known to have the highest attendance in the U.S. for their many youth concerts. Each spring, the National Symphony plays its "Music for Young America" concerts, a series of free concerts for the teenage students who travel to Washington on tours. These beginning of the 1948-49 season, and Howard Mitchell, solo cellist and certs are possible through the generosity of Mrs. Merriweather Post.

Howard Mitchell's theory on how to educate young listeners is to acquaint children with good music in their early years so that it will be a vital part of their lives as adults.

The conductor, Mr. Howard Mitchell, was born in Lyons, Nebraska and grew up in Stoupe City, Iowa.

He took up the cello at age fifteen and was winning prizes in only a few months.

After high school he was awarded a scholarship to Peabody Conservatory of Music where he was an outstanding student for four years. He then won a scholarship to Curtis Institute of Music from which he graduated, with high honors, in 1935.

Though still a student, he joined the Washington National Symphony as first cellist. In 1941 he was appointed assistant conductor and in 1949 succeeded Hans Kindler.

Mr. Mitchell and the National Symphony were chosen in 1958 to participate in the Ford Foundation plan for the commissioning and performance of new works by American composers. One of the works given on the symphony's Constitution Hall series was John La Montaine's "Concerto for Piano and Orchestra." The "concerto" was chosen for the Pulitzer Prize awarded in May, 1959.

The National Music Council's "distinguished services to American Music" award has been presented to Mr. Mitchell five times in ten years. No other conductor has had this award more than once.

In 1965 Mr. Mitchell was invited to inaugurate the first American style "free enterprise" orchestra in Latin America.

In 1966, he was presented an Honorary Doctor of Music from his alma mater, the Peabody Institute, and an Honorary Doctor of Music from Western Maryland College in Westminster, Maryland. Mr. Mitchell also has the honorary degree, Doctor of Music from American University.

In June 1966 he went to Moscow to be an observer at the International Tchaikovsky Competition as the only official United States guest of the Soviet Union.

EC Young Democrats Club Elects McLawhorn President

East Carolina's Young Democrats got off to an early start last Tuesday night as they elected club officers for the 1967-68 year.

Heading the new slate of YDC officers is President Sonny McLawhorn. Other officers filling the slate are David Culley, vice president, Nellie Jo Lee recording secretary, Becky Barrow, corresponding secretary, and Allan Caraway, treasurer.

In his acceptance address for the office of President, McLawhorn stated: "This is a crucial time in the history of the Democratic Party in Eastern North Carolina. Never before has this area been so seriously challenged for the approval of the voting public. Never before has our task been so important, for the Young Democrats at East Carolina are now a very real part of the political scene in this area."

The enthusiastic new president reminded Young Democrats that "the other party" is making its appeal to youth. Young Democrats, he reminded, "have an ill-lustrious record of service to their party... and there is no need for us to wait for the appeal of our seniors."

"We must effect a simple approach to the problem of a closer relationship to the senior Democratic Party. We can create a service to Democratic candidates who are faced with opposition in the general election. Many of these candidates seek the help of young people but are without an effective organization to accomplish this goal. Here stands an organization established for that purpose, and we can serve the candidates in many ways."

McLawhorn stated that as a result of having worked on Capitol Hill, he had gained a greater insight of "cooperation between the youth and senior parties, something which is not always found in local areas where there is a wide gap between the so-called conservatives and liberals... the creation of a coalition with the senior party will help close this gap... and insure Democratic Unity."

Speaking on behalf of the YDC, McLawhorn noted that local appearances of national party leaders would be a feature of his administration. "Through the help of local leadership," he explained, "and the drawing card of this institution's size, there is no reason why we cannot have prominent political speakers to come to this campus."

"The year 1967 will be full of political excitement — of speculation, power changes, and new ideas," McLawhorn concluded. "And as we come closer to the Presidents and President Makers of our time, we can become a part of this new era."

Outgoing YDC President, Walter Frisby Hendricks, congratulated newly elected officers and encouraged them to uphold the reputation that East Carolina's YDC has gained throughout the state.

Hendricks reminded club members that the appearance of the Second Secretary to the Embassy of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, Vladimir I. Trifonov, was the first time there had been a speaker on the East Carolina campus to test the Speaker Ban Law. Trifonov, whose appearance on the EC campus was a co-sponsored effort on the part of the Young Democratic Club and the Collegiate Council for the United Nations, spoke last night on the topic, "Soviet Foreign Policy... To What End?"

The installation banquet for new YDC officers and club members was set for May 3.

Dr. Cathleen Stokes will continue her duties as advisor for the 1967-68 Young Democrats Club.

Political Tactics . . .

East Carolina students who are actively involved in presenting their case for university status to hometown legislators might be wise to be informed about the political maneuvers within the General Assembly as well as their supporting facts for ECU.

Students who meet with the discouraging story that there are enough opposition votes in the Senate to defeat the university status bill for East Carolina, should not take such a story as fact.

If we recall the manner in which the consultants' report on EC's readiness for university status was skillfully branded to make it appear unfavorable before it was officially released, we might also consider the possibilities not mentioned when rumors go buzzing around that EC won't get enough votes to be a university.

EC students who read the report made by the consultants realize that it was anything but unfavorable. In fact, the report was very complimentary to the educational program being conducted here.

However, some people just don't believe the truth when they are exposed to it. Even the esteemed Democratic Governor of North Carolina insists upon saying that the consultants' report was indeed opposed to the recommendation that East Carolina be granted university status. . . not to even mention independent university status.

Since some legislators were critical enough of the consultants' report to note that the facts in the report were a little twisted, the ECU opposition segment apparently decided to catch the public sentiment with a new fist-full of political tactics. The basic idea in this little plan is to pass the word around that there are so many opposition votes running through the Senate that the ECU bill cannot possibly pass.

It seems that some people will say anything to make others think that the ECU battle is dying and quickly. And if legislators will believe such rumors, then the tactic disbursts reason somewhat optimistically that the wavering votes will go to the stronger opposition. And then supposedly the bill has failed even before it's up for a vote.

As East Carolina students we have the right facts where the consultants' report is concerned and we have the right reasons for wanting university status. Such poor political tactics should not discourage any of us who are involved in the fight for ECU.

As Dr. Jenkins stated for all of us: "The extent to which we can lift ourselves up and solve our own problems, the more our state will benefit."

Good Luck . . .

It is Sunday night and the eve of another election, an election that will determine the success or failure of the EAST CAROLINIAN. Last week at this time both candidates for editor, John Reynolds and Bill Rufty, were scheduling trial editions so as to give the Publications Board an accurate representation of their capabilities as a potential editor.

At this time, I cannot say that I would choose either candidate in preference to the other. In my own personal opinion, I think their proposed trial editions would have given the insight necessary in order to endorse one candidate over the other.

Bill Rufty, presently news editor and formerly managing editor, has worked with the EAST CAROLINIAN since his freshman year. A sophomore, Bill is not a newcomer to the world of student politics or affairs that concern the inter-workings of a newspaper.

He exhibits a great deal of enthusiasm and talent which can easily be channeled into the editorship of the paper. He is thoroughly involved with campus affairs, committees, etc.

John Reynolds, managing editor—who will be a second quarter sophomore at the beginning of fall quarter, brings to the newspaper a bountiful supply of journalistic idealisms. Industrious, a real go-getter, and level-headed are John's key qualifications. He is tasty notes tacked to my door in the dorm assured me that friendship would be no problem. Why just last year I had a wonderful job in the cafeteria. Two friends and I worked on the dishwasher and Mr. — saw that we remained there. I finally realized what was going on. I just love to be called a "Black S.O.B." I have never felt better than I did a few weeks ago when a group of guys and girls rode by and befriended me with a "Hello Nigger" greeting. Ask the Housing Officer why the names of Negroes were underlined in red. What do you think my chances are of joining a fraternity on this liberal campus.

Whoever is editor for next year by the time today's paper is off the press, I would like to say that you have one hell of a job to contend with. You'll have to play politician as well as copy boy and there is no circumstance or job that concerns the paper for which you will not be held responsible.

The EAST CAROLINIAN needs both of you. I would encourage the guy who loses to stay with the paper. It is not always the chief man on the staff who makes the greatest contribution.

An Eye For An Eye...

By Frisby Hendricks

Eight lives, all dedicated to the profession of saving life, were eliminated. With one swift act, Richard Speck took the responsibility of the massacre.

Richard Speck, former Marine, a drifter, is a menace to society. He has not contributed one constructive element to his country.

It took less than fifty minutes for five women and seven men to decide that he was guilty. The jury asked for a gas chamber death.

Richard Speck should live. Why? For the simple reason that he is a human being — a sick human being.

We are as human as Richard Speck. What gives us the right to say that he should be put to death rather than to be helped? If we were divine, then we could take life.

Can we say that these twelve jurors had divine right in the fifty minutes they deliberated? Did Governor Ronald Reagan have divine right when he used the power of execution in California last week?

A Spark of Hope In California
We would like to give a standing ovation to the Episcopal bishop who asked last week that all of the churches in his diocese toll the bells at 10:00 a.m., the moment a man was to be executed. We would also like to congratulate the priest who said mass in front of the penitentiary during the moment of execution.

If enough citizens point out the fact that capital punishment is murder, our nation's representatives will wipe out this antiquated law. We condemn the Nazis for gassing the Hebrews and yet we are one of the last countries to retain capital punishment. It has not proven to be a deterrent to crime, only the poor and underprivileged are executed, and many have innocently died because of this inadequate form of "justice."

REQUIEM FOR A SQUARE

You, like any other lovable, clean-living, freckle-faced American kid, want to be a BMOC. How can you make it? Well sir, there are several ways, none of which will work.

You're too puny to be an athlete, too lazy to be a valedictorian, and too hairy to run for Homecoming Queen.

As for becoming a best-dressed man, how are you going to buy clothes with a miser for a father?

Are you licked then? Is there no way to make BMOC? Yes, there is! And you can do it! Do what? This:

Become a hippie! Get cool! Get alienated! Have an Identity Crisis! Be one of the Others!

How? Well sir, to become a hippie, simply follow these five simple rules:

1. Read all of Tolkien in the original dwarf.
2. Have your Sophomore Slump in the freshman year.
3. Wear buttons that say things like this:
NATIONALIZE DAIRY QUEEN
ASTHMATICS, UNITE
LEGALIZE APPLE BUTTER
HANDS OFF AIR POLLUTION
4. Go steady with a girl who has long greasy hair, a guitar, enlarged pores, and thermal underwear.
5. Attend Happenings regularly.

LETTER

Dear Editor,

Quote: "Racial discrimination on the campus of East Carolina College has seldom been a problem with which students have had to cope." Exactly to whom were you referring when you made this statement? Were you speaking of Negro or white students? Are you being discriminated against? Have you asked any Negro students if they were being discriminated against? After answering these questions you may want to rephrase your statement.

To speak for myself, there is definitely racial discrimination on this campus. Where? It exists in the hearts and minds of narrow minded people who for some selfish reason refuse to overlook the typical Negro stereotype and form an unbiased opinion. It exists among the administration, faculty and student body. It is definitely present and no civil rights bill will alter the situation.

Everybody on campus is so friendly. That is the reason why I live off campus. A few cruel pranks and nasty notes tacked to my door in the dorm assured me that friendship would be no problem. Why just last year I had a wonderful job in the cafeteria. Two friends and I worked on the dishwasher and Mr. — saw that we remained there. I finally realized what was going on. I just love to be called a "Black S.O.B." I have never felt better than I did a few weeks ago when a group of guys and girls rode by and befriended me with a "Hello Nigger" greeting. Ask the Housing Officer why the names of Negroes were underlined in red. What do you think my chances are of joining a fraternity on this liberal campus.

These points and more should be adequate enough to convince you and everyone connected with this campus that the situation is no good at all. I don't expect this place to be a Utopia but I would appreciate the respect that everyone is entitled.

Respectfully yours,
Steve A. Baldwin

Ed. Note: The editorial in question was written by one individual. Several persons on the editorial staff disagree with the first paragraph of Tuesday, April 11's editorial. May we reiterate the fact that statements on the editorial page do not represent the views of East Carolina College.

This last item may require some explanation, for it is possible that Happenings haven't reached your campus yet. Be assured they will because Happenings are the biggest college craze since mononucleosis.

A Happening, in case you don't know, is the first formless art form. Things just happen. For example, eighty naked men come out and squirt each other with fire hoses containing tinted yogurt. Then eighty more naked men come out and light birthday candles in the navels of the first eighty men. Then one girl, clothed, comes out and pulls three thousand feet of sausage casing through her pierced ear. Then eighty more naked men come out and eat a station wagon.

There is, of course, a musical accompaniment to all these fun things. Usually it is "Begin the Beguine," played by 26 trench mortars, a drop forge, and a rooster.

There used to be, some years ago, still another requirement for becoming a hippie: a man had to have a beard.

But no longer. Beards were worn in the past not so much as a protest, but because shaving was such a painful experience. Then along came Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades.

Today if you don't want to shave, well, that's your hangup, isn't it, baby? I mean when you've got a blade like Personna that tugs not neither does it scrape, what's your copout, man? I mean like get with it; you're living in the past. Shaving used to hurt, used to scratch, used to gouge, used to give you all kinds of static. But not since Personna. It's a gas, man. It's a doozy; it's mom's apple pie. You dig?

I mean, man, you still want a beard? Crazy! But you don't have to turn your face into a slum, do you? Shave around the bush, baby, neatly and nicely with Personna. I mean like Personna comes in double-edge style and Injector style too. I mean like any way you try it, you gotta like like it.

Hey, man, like how about doubling your shaving cool? Like how about wilting those crazy whiskers with some Burma-Shave? Like regular or menthol? Like have you got a better friend than your kisser? Like treat it right, right? Ye-ye!

WESTERN SAMOA, the first independent Polynesian nation, has requested up to 300 Peace Corps Volunteers to assist in mounting major health, education, and agriculture programs for its 134,000 citizens. Although retaining its Polynesian traditions, such as the Kava ceremony (photo), Western Samoans seek to enter the 20th century.

Peace Corps Searches For Collegian Recruits

The Peace Corps begins April 17 an urgent nationwide campus recruiting drive to find 300 volunteers to serve in health, education and agriculture programs in the Polynesian nation of Western Samoa, with a likely need for up to 1,000 more volunteers to meet anticipated requests from other Pacific territories.

Modeled on a similar program in neighboring Micronesia — for which 2,500 collegians volunteered last spring — the Western Samoa project requires Volunteers with liberal arts background to conduct a health campaign to control parasites and diseases which afflict most of the island's people.

The program also includes Volunteer English teachers for Samoan elementary and intermediate schools and some Volunteers to work in agricultural extension and with marketing cooperatives.

Training for the health and agriculture projects begins this summer and in the fall for the teachers.

Applications and further information on the Western Samoa program are available from the Peace Corps Liaison on campus or by writing immediately to: Polynesia Desk, Peace Corps, Washington, D. C. 20525. Completed applications should be sent to the same address.

In its sixth year of independence, Western Samoa faces serious development problems compounded by one of the fastest-growing populations in the world. Its 134,000 people, living on the two largest of nine islands, are expected to double in 20 years.

Samoan officials have had little trouble in assigning priority to concerns of health and education. Parasites sap an estimated 90 per cent of the people of their energy to work and their resistance to more serious maladies such as tuberculosis, leprosy and yaws.

As health "auxiliaries," Volunteers will staff a government health program that is to survey health needs on the islands of Savai'i and Upolu, activate disease and environmental health control projects such as village water supplies, water-seal latrines and clinics, and improve health practices.

The teachers, who will train in the fall and arrive in Samoa in early 1968 for the beginning of the school year, will instruct both students and Samoan teachers in English, which is the language of instruction in the middle and upper grades. They will also aid the health campaign by teaching health and hygiene in school and in the villages.

If the example set so far by Volunteers in Micronesia is an indication, Volunteers in Western Samoa will be drawn closely into Polynesian village life and find that their assigned jobs are but one facet of their presence in the community.

The Peace Corps' new operation in the United States' own Trust Territory in Micronesia will receive another 200 Volunteers later this year in addition to the 450 already working among the 97 inhabited islands in education, health, community development, public administration, law and engineering.

Other new Peace Corps country programs entering training this summer and fall are The Gambia, Upper Volta and Lesotho in Africa, and Ceylon, the first nation to reinvite the Peace Corps after an earlier program has been discontinued.

The old laundry plant, presently in operation, will be replaced by the new laundry plant now being constructed off fourteenth street. Use of the old plant will gradually cease over the next five years.

EC Laundry Director Patton Tells Plant's Future Plans

By PAT BERRY

An interview with Mr. J. H. "Pat" Patton, who took over as ECC Laundry Plant Director last December when Mr. Boswell retired, revealed several interesting facts about the laundry plant operation and future plans.

With regard to the proposed new laundry plant, Mr. Patton revealed that although nothing definite has been decided yet about the proposed new plant, it is believed that the laundry plant will be located near the new power plant now being constructed off Fourteenth Street and will cost about $250,000 to $400,000. Although no definite date has been set to begin work on the plant, Mr. Patton said that he had hopes of phasing out the old plant over the next five years.

Regarding the Wash and Dry service offered by the laundry, Mr. Patton stated that, while the service is not new, very few people know about it. Under this service, which is available to both faculty and students, laundry is washed and dried (but not ironed), and the customer is charged by the pound rather than by the piece. Special laundry tickets must be used for the wash and dry service, and those tickets may be picked up at the Laundry Office anytime Monday-Friday between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Mr. Patton further stated that he was presently in the process of upgrading the service and the quality of the laundry.

In closing, Mr. Patton emphasized that "We are here to serve the students and the staff. We want to give them the best service and the best quality of work possible, and if no one will tell us how they like or dislike the service, we don't know how we are doing. If anyone has any questions, suggestions, complaints, or compliments, please feel free to come by my office any time and let me know how you feel. My employees deserve the credit for the quality of work, and if you are pleased with it, I would like them to know about it."

Business School Hosts First Realtors' Pay

The relationship between North Carolina Realtors and the ECC School of Business was clearly evidenced Monday evening, April 10, with the holding of the First Annual Realtors' Day Program in Rawl 130.

This program was the culmination of about a year's work in preparing a Real Estate and Business Law curriculum in the School of Business, which began when Mr. Lester Turnage, a local realtor, brought the question of a Real Estate Curriculum up before Dr. E. R. Browning, Dean of the School of Business.

Dr. Browning was receptive to the idea, and Mr. Turnage went to the North Carolina Association of Realtors for assistance in arranging to have a Real Estate and Business Law Program begun in the School of Business.

Mr. Samuel Thomas Hill, Associate Professor in the School of Business; Mr. Charles P. Landt, President of the North Carolina Association of Realtors; Mr. Joseph A. Robb, President of the North Carolina Real Estate Education Foundation; Mr. James L. Bichsel, Executive Director of the North Carolina Real Estate Education Foundation; Mr. Charles W. Gaddy, Trustee of the North Carolina Real Estate Education Foundation; Mr. Lester Turnage, of Turnage Realty Company, Greenville; and Dr. Paul T. Henderson, Assistant Dean of the School of Business, worked together in arranging both the Real Estate Curriculum and the Realtors' Day Program.

The program began at 6:45 p.m.

when Dr. E. R. Browning, Dean of the School of Business, welcomed the guest speakers, other distinguished guests, and the approximately 120 students present.

Dr. Browning was followed by Mr. Charles P. Landt, President of the North Carolina Association of Realtors, who spoke on "What Is A Realtor." The second speaker on the program was Mr. Charles W. Gaddy, Trustee of the North Carolina Real Estate Education Foundation, who spoke on the Operation of a Real Estate Office.

A ten-minute break followed Mr. Mr. Joseph A. Robb, President of Gaddy's talk; and after the break the North Carolina Real Estate Education Foundation spoke on "The Functions of An Appraiser."

The final speaker of the evening, Mr. James R. Hawkins, a Durham Realtor and Property Manager in the firm of Allenton Realty and Insurance Company, spoke on "The Functions of a Property Manager." After the final speaker, there was a general question and answer period, during which questions from the floor were directed to all four of the speakers.

This First Annual Realtors' Day program was sponsored by the Real Estate and Business Law Curriculum of the School of Business and the five business organizations on campus. Representatives of each of these clubs worked with Mr. Samuel Thomas Hill, of the Real Estate and Business Law Curriculum, and Mr. Henry Howard, Director of the ECC News Bureau in preparing publicity and other details of the program.

EC Awards First Contracts On Science Building Complex

East Carolina announced Wednesday the award of first contracts on a new $3.85-million science building complex.

The project's first part, valued at $2,070,000, is scheduled to be under construction within 30 days on a site between Rawl Building, New Austin Building and Memorial Gymnasium. Construction is expected to require about 18 months.

A Charlotte firm, Boyd and Goforth, Inc., has the general contract at $1,025,867. Others are Durham Plumbing and Heating Co. of Durham, plumbing, $156,316; Bolton Heating and Air Conditioning Co. of Raleigh, heating and air conditioning, $350,000; Bryant Electric Co. of High Point, electrical work, $172,260; Metalab Equipment Co. of Hicksville, N. Y., casework (laboratory and other specialized fixtures) $177,473; NACO Electronics Corp. of Raleigh, intercommunications system, $3,745.

The first phase of the project will include a three-story physics building and the first of two four-story biology wings. The second phase will add the other biology wing, a greenhouse, experimental animal quarters, a major lecture auditorium, administrative offices and final lobbies and corridors to connect all three wings.

Vice President F. D. Duncan said

preparations have been made to contract for construction of the second part of the project, pending legislative approval of funds already recommended by Governor Moore and the Advisory Budget Commission.

Construction of both parts could then be carried on together so that the entire complex could be ready for use at about the same time.

Financing of the entire project is based on a two-thirds, one-third state-federal matching formula. Thus if the legislature approves the pending authorization of $1.78-million for the final part of the project, the total price tag of $3.85-million would include about $2.56-million in state money and about $1.29-million in federal funds.

Contracts have been awarded to clear the wooded area on College Hill Drive from Jones Dormitory to the creek. The area is to be graded to afford a playing area and in the future a possible building area. Work will begin in two weeks and guesses have confirmed it will be completed by early summer. Further proposed construction on campus includes a three-story classroom between New Austin and the New Music Building. This building is to be twice the size of any classroom building on campus, about the size of New Austin and Rawl combined.

ECU's Legislative Proposal Draws GOP Horse Trading

From Raleigh News & Observer

Reliable sources indicate that Democratic sponsors of legislation to make East Carolina College an independent university are considering a Republican offer of support which carries "a high price tag."

One State House source, who refused to be quoted, said the GOP offer was for "a long term alliance—at least until the budget comes out of the Appropriations Committee."

Senator Robert Morgan, D-Harnett, chairman of the ECC Board of Trustees and a leader in the drive for university status, reportedly "whistled at the high price they wanted."

A source in the ECC legislative camp wouldn't confirm there had been an offer but admitted leaders are now convinced the bill's success depends on Republican support.

One legislator said the Republicans would go along with the eastern Democrats on ECC if they could get credit for the move and thus strengthen their position in the east.

They also reportedly want help in getting legislative approval for a teacher salary hike substantially above what the governor has recommended and in passage of some smaller bills which will carry Republican nametags.

One of the smaller issues involves continuing the North Carolina Advancement School at Winston-Salem under the leadership of the Learning Institute of North Carolina (LINC).

The State Board of Education wants to take over policy control of the experimental school with the State Department of Education.

A GOP-sponsored resolution on the school ran into trouble this week in the Senate Education Committee. Sen. Julian Allsbrook, D-Halifax, went to its rescue.

The Democratic senator, who sponsored the ECC bill, saved the bill when he asked for a favorable report "with the understanding that this problem is going to get further consideration in the Appropriations Committee."

Pirates battle it out in Saturday's intrasquad game.

State Oust Pirates; EC Downs AC 120-25

By DAVE McCARVELL
Associate Sports Editor

Last Wednesday, April 12th, the East Carolina track team lost a non-conference contest to a tough N. C. State squad. The final score was State 91, and the Pirates 54. Terry Taylor, Ken Voss, and Peter Moe continued to break school records. Taylor set the school two-mile record with a 9:54 clocking. Voss ran the same distance in 9:37 to set a freshman record that he already held, and Moe broke his old record in the triple jump with a leap of 45' 1 1/2".

On Saturday (April 15th) while an intrasquad game was in progress in Ficklen Stadium, the EC track team toyed with a hapless Atlantic Christian College squad. The final score of the holocaust was ECC 120, and Atlantic Christian 25.

One record was broken by Allen Hall of EC. He tossed the Discus 130' 7" to break the old mark of 129' 5" by more than a foot. It may be noted that EC has had five meets this year, and that a school record has been broken in each meet. The quality of track has improved somewhat under the leadership of Coach Baxter Berryhill in the past few years.

The highlight of the meet came in the mile relay. Trying to show some mercy, the Pirates put together a team of three weight men and a middle distance runner. Henry Coble, a 24-pound shot putter; Roger Dalton, another shot putter; Bill Wooten, a Javelin thrower; and Dave Crotts, a half-miler; literally ran away from the best AC had to offer.

If the Pirates had used their first rate runners in each event, AC would have been able to get 9 points out of a possible 145 points. The only thing AC out-did us in was spectators. They brought 16 fans, and we had only 10. That's up three from that last track meet. If we continue to have an increase of 40 percent in the amount of spectators, by the end of the season we should have a turnout of 314. Let's go fans! Let it be noted that 314 fans would equal 3.2 percent of our total student body.

Pirates Meet On Gridiron In Annual Purple-Gold Game

By BRUCE SUMMERFIELD
Staff Writer

There were no pretty cheerleaders, the stands were by no means full, and the weather wasn't cold. However, football was in the air as East Carolina staged its annual Purple-Gold intrasquad game.

Paired off into two evenly matched teams, the boys competing for the starting jobs next fall went at each other with reckless abandon. Dennis Young, superb tailback from Winston-Salem, led the Gold team in every offensive department except pass receiving. Young rushed for 114 yards, showing both speed and maneuverability. He completed nine of twenty throws for close to two hundred yards passing. Midway through the third quarter, Young teamed up with Senior wingback Todd Hicks in a 66 yard pass-run touchdown that provided the winning margin.

The Purples did not look like underdogs, after trailing 7 to 0. The Purples took advantage of a fumbled punt and scored on an 8 yard run by Sophomore fullback Butch Colson. Don Tyson converted the point and knotted the score with 2-38 to go in the first half. The score remained the same until intermission.

Fumbles were numerous as the hitting on both sides was vicious. Nine fumbles in all were recorded but only one was lost to the opposing side and it cost the Gold a touchdown.

The Purple used the pass interception on 4 different occasions to stop drives by the Gold. After a 49 yard interception return by Paul Weathershee, another product of the unbeaten freshman team, Purple scored a fourth period touchdown on a five yard pass from Bryan McClure. McClure showed a great deal of poise under a pass rush from such people as Wayne Lineberry, Jim Flowe, and Harold Glaettle. He completed 11 of 18 tosses for 98 yards.

George Gay and Charles Forbes picked up 54 and 38 yards rushing respectively for the Gold, Gay getting his yardage in the first half and Forbes in the second half.

Butch Colson led the Purple rushers by far, picking up 81 net yards gained. This is astounding when you consider the Purple only picked up 96 yards the whole game.

From a statistical point of view the game should have been lopsided in favor of the Gold. They outrush the Purple 184 to 96 yards and outpassed them 237 to 98 yards.

The punting on both sides left a lot to be desired. Neither team averaged more than 36 yards a kick.

In the past the closer this annual spring game has been the better the record of the varsity the next fall. If history indeed repeats itself we are in for our best football season ever next fall.

William and Mary, the first opponent next year, sent two scouts to the game and they left cursing the day they let East Carolina in the Southern Conference.

Dellinger, Burke Win Two For EC

By LAURIE KELLER

ECC tightened its clamp on the Southern Conference title championship last Saturday as Dellinger hurled a 3-hitter, 13-0, in the two-game series against Virginia Military Institute, followed by a fantastic no-hitter by Dennis Burke, resulting in a 6-0 victory.

In the first game of the double-header, the third inning proved to be a free-for-all for the Pirates. They collected 8 runs on 4 hits—one a spectacular triple by first baseman Richard Hedgecock that bounced on the right field fence, bringing in 3 of the 8 runs.

In the 5th inning, the Pirates collected 4 runs on 2 hits, by Ed Thorne and Steve Fornash.

Dellinger gave up 3 hits to make his record 4-0 for the season.

In the second game, Burke clamped down on VMI as EC won 6-0. EC collected 3 runs in the first inning and two in the 3rd as Jim Snyder hit a sparkling triple.

Narron proved to be the power hitter of the day as he went 4-5 at the plate.

Coach Smith's team is now sporting a 7-1 conference record and a 15-2 overall record.

Pirates Dump Duke "9"

East Carolina's baseball team toppled powerful Duke in a showdown of the top powers in North Carolina recently.

The Pirates were led by catcher Dennis Barbour in the 6-2 win over the Blue Devils. The Bucs are on the move now and it looks like no one is going to stop them.

Crew Splits With GW

EC's Crew team split a meet with George Washington University Friday, winning the Junior Varsity event, but losing in the varsity race.

The losing team was bothered by rowing difficulties in both races and lost leads. The junior varsity crew stopped GW with a time of 6:45 for the mile and a quarter course. GW finished in 6:50. In the varsity race, GW finished off in 6:25 with EC coming across in 6:34.

Rough water hampered both boats in each race. EC coach Andre Broseau said that performance by the varsity was their worst all season.

Lacrosse Team Loses

Roanoke College edged East Carolina, 9-7, as the Bucs opened the lacrosse season yesterday.

East Carolina was led by Gary McCulloch who scored four goals.

Crew Splits With GW

Kirk Voorhees had two, plus an assist, while Rob Williams scored the remaining goal.

Dexter Goodwin led Roanoke with three goals and one assist.

The Bucs meet the UNC freshmen at Chapel Hill tomorrow.
