BLEED-IN

THE AFROTC has organized this year's Blood Drive. Donators may come to Wright Auditorium October 16 and 17.

Red Cross Urges Student Participation In 'Bleed-In'

"Blood is a commodity that cannot be substituted by something man-made," commented Joe Clark, Chairman of the Pitt County chapter of the American Red Cross. "I appeal to each student to donate a pint of their blood which will be used to help save someone's life."

The "Bleed-In", as it has been called, will begin October 16 and will continue through October 17. The drive is being held in Wright Auditorium. Hours for donating on October 16 are from 12 noon to six in the evening, and on October 17 from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The AFROTC has volunteered to organize and carry out the blood drive.

predonation level in six to eight weeks. However, a hemoglobin determination is done each time a person comes to give blood, and if for any reason he does not pass the high standard for acceptance he is not eligible as a blood donor.

Registered nurses specially trained in Blood Program techniques take the medical histories and perform the veinpunctures. A licensed physician is always present on every operation and has responsibility for all medical aspects of the program. In addition, trained volunteers assist the professional staff.

Donations Help Servicemen

By participating in the "Bleed-In", two important goals will be reached by the Red Cross. Primarily, there will always be an ample supply in the regional hospital in Norfolk, Virginia. Secondly, the blood will be used (in addition to the private hospitals) to treat wounded servicemen in the area's military hospitals.

Anyone in Pitt County who needs

the blood may obtain it at no charge through the Red Cross. However, the hospital will charge a small fee for the cost of matching the patient's blood and for receiving the transfusion. The blood used does not have to be replaced, but it is hoped that donations will be made in the future in the receiver's name. Following this procedure, there will always be a supply of blood for those who need it in an emergency.

Eligibility To Give

Anyone between the ages of 18 and 59, who weighs more than 110 pounds, and who has no disease or medical history which would make it undesirable for them to share their blood with others is eligible to donate.

"This is a good chance for students to get their blood pressure and hemoglobin checked without any charge," added Mr. Clark, "but we urge all donors to eat regular meals before donating to prevent such after effects as fainting."

Job Recruiters Interview EC Students Next Week

Between 75 and 100 North Carolina General Assembly members and wives are expected to attend the annual Legislators Night at East Carolina University this Saturday, Oct. 14.

They will be guests of the university for the ECU-University of Louisville football game under the lights of Ficklen Stadium. Game time is 7:30.

Before the game the guests will be treated to a social hour and buffet dinner at the Greenville Moose Temple.

The annual Legislators Night program is planned each football season to give the lawmakers a special opportunity to visit the campus of East Carolina, one of North Carolina's tax-supported universities.

This weekend's football fare for the visiting senators and representatives is a key game for East Carolina. The Pirates of Coach Clarence Stasavich have gone undefeated in four games this season. Saturday night they put that record on the line against the strong Cardinals from Louisville, a team which dumped them 21-7 last season.

Awards To Donors

Awards will be given in five different divisions to groups who contribute the most in their division. The divisions are: the fraternity giving the most; the sorority donating the most blood; the men's dormitory; the women's dormitory; and the AFROTC squadron which donates the most blood. The awards are computed on the group having the highest percentage of donors in its membership.

The Tidewater Region National Red Cross has requested 550 pints of blood from ECU donors. Last year such an overwhelming response was received to the plea for blood that the doors had to be closed to willing donors due to lack of facilities.

The process of donating blood takes some 45 to 60 minutes to complete. It is possible with the careful medical screening done on the operation to have individuals present themselves as donors every eight weeks. The average individual builds up his hemoglobin to his

Fraternities Plan Last Rush Week

This weekend is the next to the last in Formal Rush for fraternities. Last night many of the twelve fraternities on campus held combo dances for rushees and their dates.

All day today all fraternities will have open house until 10:30 p.m. Rushees and their dates are invited. There will be no alcoholic beverages permitted during this time.

Tomorrow open house will be held all day for all rushees, but no dating is allowed in order to give brothers a chance to talk with the prospective boys.

On Wednesday, October 18, formal rushing officially begins with a meeting in Old Austin Auditorium of all rushees at 6:30. Rushees are required to visit all of the fraternities on Wednesday and Thursday nights between 7:30 and 10:00 p.m. to meet the brothers and learn about and compare the fraternal groups that they hope to pledge.

On Friday of next week the rushees may return to the fraternities that they are seriously considering. Saturday afternoon between the hours of 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. the boys going through rush return to the specific fraternity of their choice. Sunday, October 22, is quiet period.

During the hours of rush that fraternity houses are not open to rushee, a quiet period will be observed. During this time no rushee may approach a fraternity man about his fraternity.

Bids will be issued from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m. Monday in Whichard Hall (old Music Building). Each boy is expected to accept only one bid (if he decides to accept any). All other bids must be marked rejected.

Guidance Center Adds Ortho-Rater Services

Dr. George Weigand, head of the Guidance and Counseling Division, recently announced another new service being offered to all students. This added free service is an Orth-Rater which is used for examining eyes.

The Ortho-Rater has proved to be quite accurate in checking eyes with or without corrective lenses. If, after being checked, there is any indication of sight problems, the evaluation can be presented to an optometrist.

The student observes a series of test slides through the viewing lenses. The slides test for depth perception, distance, vision, and near vision. The tester asks standard questions concerning the test slides and follows a scoring key. A record card is scored in the proper area after each individual test.

The record card is then placed behind the appropriate job standard templet for rapid evaluation. Each templet is identified as a certain use of the eyes. Student's record card is placed under the templet covering clerical work, as the student's role is primarily in the area of reading.

One student who took the test found that she was unable to perform the required work without corrective lenses, while she had better than 20-20 vision with glasses.

This added service of the Counseling Center is available to students between 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. It has been extremely successful and will benefit the students greatly.

Stomp Hell Out Of Louisville

... Like Southern Illinois

William and Mary, Richmond, Davidson, and Southern Illinois all share a common fate. The mighty Salukis were the last victims of the ECU Pirates, who are seeking their fifth straight win against the Cardinals of the University of Louisville tonight. Bring 'em on!

Number One

The Pirates face a very formidable foe tonight. The sports experts rate this game 56-55 giving us just 1 point percentage of winning tonight. We know that this rating must be rigged! The Pirates can take on anyone and come out with better odds.

This will be seen tonight as EC "Stomps Hell out of Louisville." So get out and yell your heads off.

The Spirit Committee has a special cheering section for one thousand students. Where ever you sit shout so loud the team has to call for time to hear the signals.

It's alright. Remember, "WE're number one."

A Drop Of Blood

Monday will mark an important event in the lives of many people. The Bloodmobile will come to East Carolina.

Yes, there will be some who laugh and say, "Ah, ain't he sweet givin' his blood to some dolt he don't even know." However, as one who cares for more than just himself; as one who looks to aid his environment rather than just live in his society as a parasite, the concerned student should make an effort to aid in these donations.

Many persons in this region, some of whom are military men back from Vietnam, desperately need blood donations to live. Donating blood takes far less time than other civic services. Collecting money or clothes takes, at the least, the better part of a day. Raising funds through sales takes days of planning. Giving a pint of blood takes at the most 60 minutes of one's time.

When there are so many social reforms being demanded by college students all over the nation, there is one social problem that can be settled by each individual student. This need is greater than any other and requires the prompt attention in a civilized society. The need? Physical help from those who care.

There is an old saying that one may search the world over for precious treasures to bestow on his friends; but none can match his richest gift (which indeed is the least costly)—a drop of his blood for his fellowman. Please give Monday.

By Damn

Dear Editor, Alumni, Staff, Student body:

In reply to the letter of October 12 reprimanding the varsity cheerleaders; the Student Government Association spent several hundred dollars this past summer to send cheerleaders to a national cheering camp. These students worked very hard to bring back new cheers.

All the cheerleaders came back early this Fall to learn and practice these new cheers. Since this time they have devoted many hours to practice of these cheers.

It seems that the spectators do not pay enough attention to the cheers or they would know the difference between "God Damn" and "By Damn." The cheer in question is:

"Highty tighty, Gosh almighty, Who the hell are we? Flim flam, bim bam, EC, by damn."

We ask: "What is wrong with this?"

Sincerely,
Your Varsity Cheerleader

N. H. Speaks

To the Editor:

As a person who was involved in the campus elections, I became well aware of the rule that a candidate may not attach a poster to a tree using tacks or staples. Violation of this rule was considered sufficient grounds for disqualification.

The election is now over, but another frantic campaign is now going on, Fall Rush. One fraternity is so anxious to publicize their party that they have attached (by any means available) their posters to ask the trees down Fifth Street.

I do not object to fraternities publicizing their projects, but I do think that the rules allowing them to do so should be brought in line with the rules concerning other activities on campus.

Sincerely yours,
N. H.
