SGA Candidates Question Opposing Party's Platform

Earle Beasley and David Lloyd, who will represent the Student and University parties respectively as candidates for the SGA presidency squared off on WECU radio and television in a debate Tuesday night.

Lloyd, who presented the platform of the University Party, opened the debating period. He asked for the inclusion of the presidents of the WRC and MRC on the executive council of the SGA, providing them with a vote; establishing a liaison between the student, faculty, and administration; setting up a committee of foreign students to promote the enrollment of more international students at East Carolina; increase the scope of the external affairs committee to promote more East Carolina participation in student activities outside the campus; and to establish a Secretariat of Public Relations to send out East Carolina students to aid the admissions office in obtaining qualified applicants from high schools.

UP Proposes All-Night Dorms For Qualified Women

Lloyd also included a proposal to establish two all-night dorms for women students who qualify, in conjunction with a plan to extend later permission for women; a plank to establish a ratio of out-of-state tuition to in-state tuition that is equivalent to that of the other state-supported institutions in the state; and a proposal to improve and remodel the soda shop in order to make it more attractive and useful.

In conclusion, Lloyd said that the "aim of the University Party is to look out for you (the student)."

Lower Voting Age Suggested By SP

Earle Beasley, the Student Party candidate for the highest office, then outlined the platform of his party. Included as planks were plans to form a congress of leading students, faculty, and administration to deal with problems common to all three groups; to institute a campaign by the East Carolina SGA to push a bill through the state government to lower the North Carolina voting age to 18; to set concrete guidelines for the distribution of SGA funds to campus organizations; to implement a pass-fail system on an experimental basis to promote academic freedom; and to begin work on an analysis of dorm regulations and dorm life.

Beasley also cited as planks the establishment of another committee to study race relations that would be able to investigate claims and verify their accuracy; a strengthening of the concept of innocence until proof of guilt by a policy of explaining various facets of it to the entire campus judicial system; the integration of the WRC and the MRC into all campus activities; and the implementation of a day set aside for study between the last day of classes and the first day of exams.

Also included were a proposed increase in clerical pay for members of publications, the institution of a telephone service committee to study proposals to improve the local phone system, and the allowing of a co-ed vice president for the executive council.

Beasley concluded by pointing out that such reforms as included in the Student Party platform would go a long way in the establishment of a true university image for East Carolina.

Opposing Strengths And Weaknesses

Both presidential candidates complimented the platforms adopted by the opposing party in their rebuttals, but both also pointed out certain weaknesses of these platforms.

Beasley, who spoke first in the rebuttal session, pointed out that the University Party platform failed to include a plank on race relations and that the University Party plan to more efficiently and equally apportion tuition rates for out-of-state students did not take into consideration that such changes must be made by the state legislature. He said that though the idea was a good one, an attempt to put such pressure on the law-making body might provoke repercussions on the more than $700 scholarship subsidized by the state for students at the present.

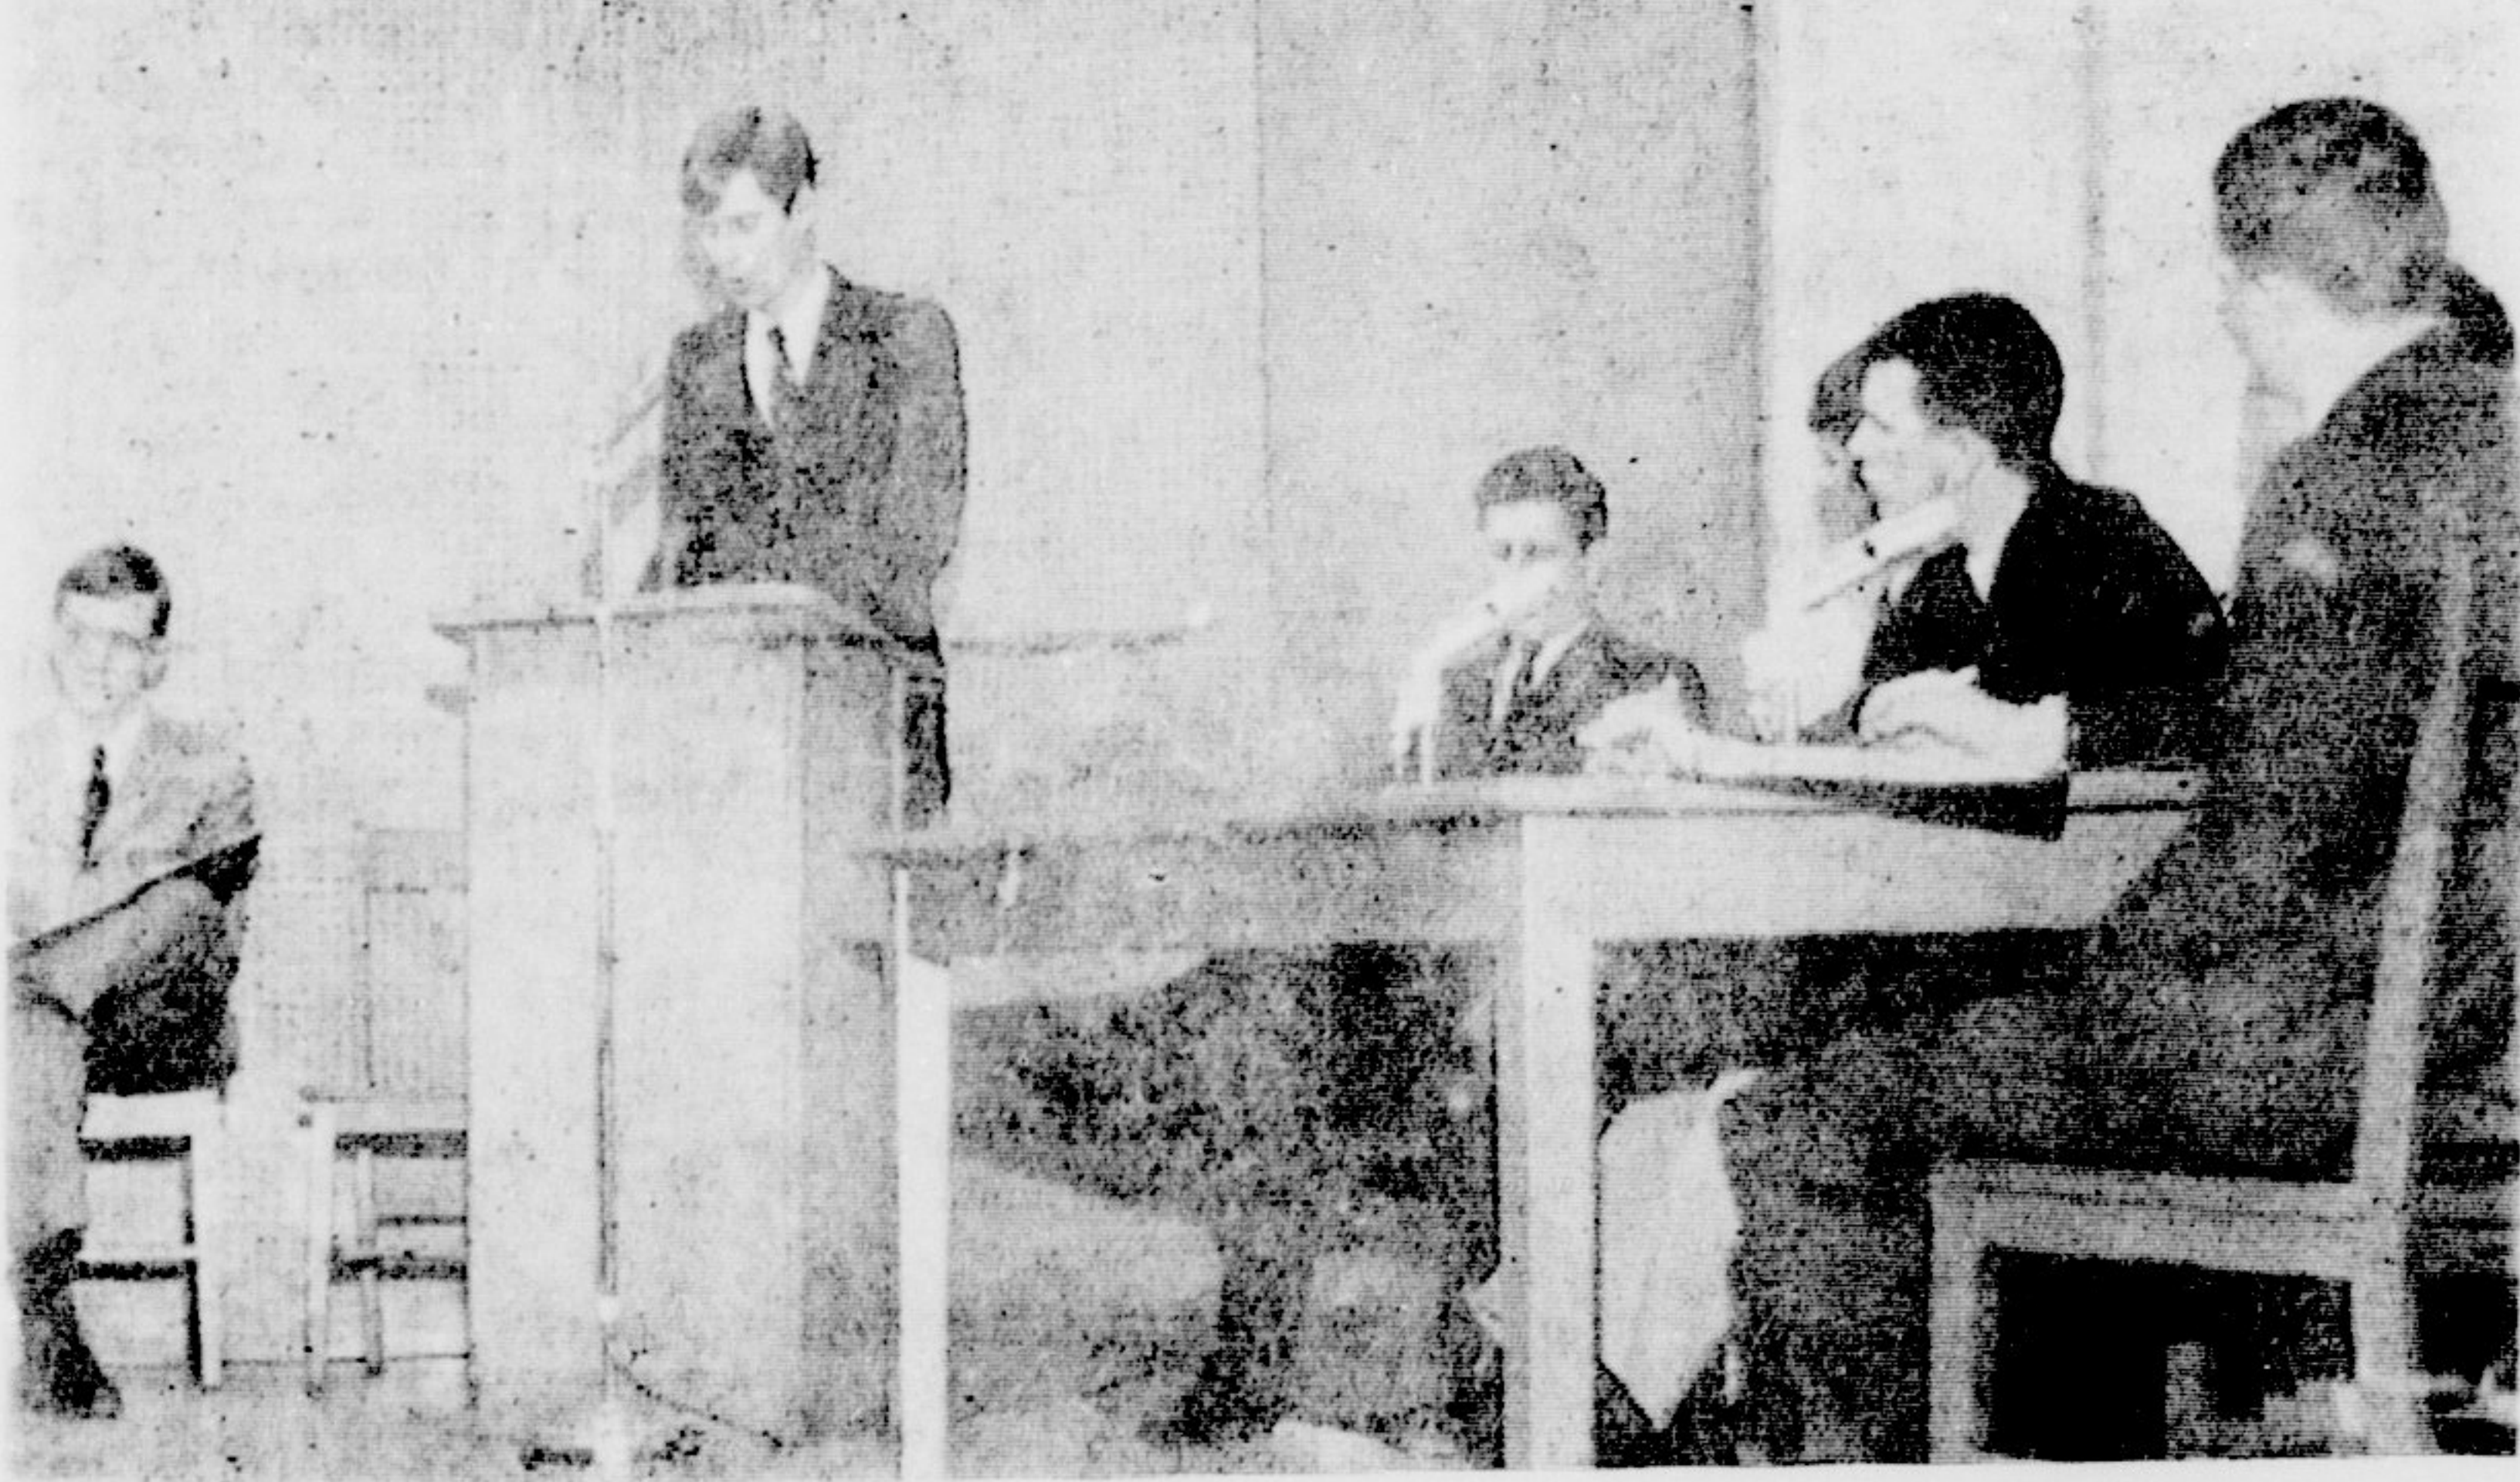

UP Challenges

Pass-Fail System

Lloyd, in his rebuttal, questioned the plank of the Student Party platform that asked for the institution of a pass-fail system, questioning its workability in terms of what effect it would have on graduate school applicants and law school applicants. He also stipulated that the present court system on campus needs no overhaul and that it is now the most advanced of any in the state. He also queried the plank on the establishment of any new committee on race relations, saying that the present one was quite capable of dealing with the problem.

Both presidential candidates then submitted to extensive questioning by members of the press, clarifying points made in their arguments and elaborating on their respective platforms.

The broadcast was carried live by both the campus radio and television facilities, as will be the election day, which will be next Tuesday.

Radio Station WECU sponsored a debate for the two candidates for SGA president Tuesday night. Action involved both candidates and members of the press.

Lloyd Stresses Action; Beasley Promises Dynamism

DAVID LLOYD

Thank you for this opportunity to express my ideas and hopes for the Presidency of the SGA to the students of East Carolina University. When a student hears the term Student Government Association, not very much comes to mind except "Do-nothing politicians" and "What's that?" Are these thoughts necessary; do they have to be associated with SGA?

As your SGA President, I will change these thoughts to thoughts of action, progress, and respect. As Vice President of the SGA in the past administration, I have gained invaluable insight as to what the problems of our SGA are and what the needs of ECU's students are.

The problems of the SGA can be summed up by saying that there is a general lack of interest among the student body for our government. Why! Because there hasn't been a student body President in the past few years who would stand up and let the students, faculty, and administration know his position on all the issues at hand. Too long has our SGA had a middle-of-the-road, sitting-on-the-fence President. This middle-of-the-road position is not one of action or progress.

There are many needs of our ECU students, too. There is the need to have a few more comforts and conveniences of home (for instance, water fountains, phones, and bearable living conditions), to have a soda shop of which one can be proud, and to have a university atmosphere that is so badly needed at ECU.

If we can these problems be solved? The only way is to elect a president with enthusiasm and imagination to solve these problems the quickest way possible. Too long has there been committee after committee formed only to never accomplish one thing. Too long has each year rolled by with no progress, no action . . . in fact, a backward movement. The SGA has continued to stay at the same position while enrollment increases with each new dorm. We must get the SGA up and ahead of the students in order to truly be THEIR government.

I ask for your support for my candidacy for President. I respect each one of you and I will stand up and be heard. I will keep your interest at heart.

EARLE BEASLEY

Dynamic, but dignified — these are the key ingredients of a top-notch SGA.

The first component, dynamism is a byproduct of action. Student Government should not be content to fret over its limitations. Rather it should strive for the fullest expansion of its position in order to most adequately serve the student body.

But, at the same time, a Student Government must be dignified. In order to command the respect necessary for getting the job done, a SGA must have leaders with the ability of capturing the finest opinions of those with whom they must deal. SGA leaders should not be puppets of the administration but they should be of personal character sufficiently acceptable to obtain the respect of those people they encounter from day to day.

Once dynamism and dignity have been instilled in Student Government, then that government can best begin its quest for the quality of services it wishes to offer.

This year the Student Party offers an action slate of respected candidates who are ready and willing to get the job done. The platform of the Student Party offers reasonable guidelines for bringing to the student body what seems to be the most beneficial policies and programs the students of this sechool have ever known.

We look forward to working toward an experimental college, a state-wide campaign toward lowering the voting age, unrestricted hours in selected women's dorms, improved telephone service, and badly needed reform of our campus courts.

We have promised to support responsible leadership of minority factions on campus, but at the same time, we have proclaimed that we will not assist irrational activists with impure motives.

The Student Party offers fresh alternatives designed to spur student enthusiasm and participation in campus life. Guidelines will be established whereby you, the student, will receive financial assistance for your clubs and organizations in order to help them contribute more fully to the campus life.

Campus courts will be reorganized to support the concept of "innocent until proven guilty." Thus, it will no longer be necessary to prove your innocence when facing a court.

The Student Party Slate stands firmly behind the insuring of your right as a defendant in a campus court.

Check with our platform, notice what it has to offer. Look at the qualifications of our candidates, and then realize that the Student Party team is the one to do the job for you.

SGA can and should be dynamic and dignified. All we ask is that you give us the chance.

Strike A Blow For Us!

"Why have an election?" "What do those guys do anyhow?" "Who keeps promises anymore?"

Inevitably these and similar questions, concerning the functions of the Student Government Association come up each year at election time. Of course many are drops in the old Complaint Bucket when there is little else to gripe about. But some of these complaining questions are genuine. They are posed by students who, although possibly not directly involved in SGA operations, are none-the-less concerned over what is being done with their money.

The answers to these three commonly voiced questions might well serve as a basis toward strengthening the SGA and broadening the understanding of student government at East Carolina.

The reasons for the SGA elections are simple and clear. Although some cynics declare the SGA of no use, they perhaps are most likely to be the ones who would cry the loudest if the students were denied the right to govern themselves. One quarter of a million dollars is allotted for student activities each year. Who should know better how to spend it than the students?

As for the claims that the Student Government does not accomplish anything or that it is composed of a small clique of students; these critics are admitting their own faults. By not using their rights (the rights afforded to every student at EC) to either campaign for office or to participate in voting, they prove what real interest they have in the students governing themselves.

If the question must be asked as to what the SGA does or has accomplished, just a segment of the possible counter-questions can provide more than a positive amount of answers:

How do you, the students, feel to having all entertainment, all lectures, all publications, all special events decided upon by an administrative or a faculty committee? How would students feel about paying for each publication, dance, concert, lecture, and play separately as is the practice in several colleges and universities?

Who would plan homecoming, special events, race relation procedures, student living improvements and keep them organized? Who would provide the coordination for a continuous flow of these activities?

It would be possible not to have a student government. But any fool can understand that one central organized and planned unit, set up to provide all levels of service to the students, can be more effective than forty or fifty completely separate bodies.

In dealing with the third question, it would be naive to assume that all campaign promises have been kept and that all platforms have been followed in the past. However it must be considered that perhaps the students themselves have seldom insisted upon action for those certain programs which have failed.

There is no denying that in the past the Student Government has not performed at its best. But we, the student body, are the sole blame and it is our sole responsibility. For we are the Student Government.

Therefore strike a blow for us! Get out and vote in Tuesday's election.

Voting A Privilege

Dear Students:

I trust that each of you will take part in the coming election of Student Government officers. This is YOUR student government.

On the eve of the election of new officers I should like to commend the present Student Government Association for the fine work they are doing. I am sure that you are familiar with many of the events in which they have participated and honors won in competition with other colleges and universities. We are proud of the delegates who took part in the National Model United Nations and in the State Student Legislature. This apprenticeship in government is highly desirable, and the effectiveness of the work done is demonstrated by the fact that many of our present laws originated in student assemblies.

The student body is to be congratulated on the support given these officers. I know that each of you will consider voting in the coming election a privilege as well as a responsibility.

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins
President

Rex Meade would make the type of Vice President that the SGA needs during the coming year. He was nominated on his ability and experience — NOT on how many votes he could potentially garner. His nomination was won in open forum — NOT in some back room by political bosses only. It is a shame that the phrase "man of the people" has become trite with overuse because it certainly describes Rex to the letter.

As I have been a member of the Student Party since entering East Carolina politics, I feel an explanation of why I support the University Party is in order. The reasons are quite simple. Steve Moore, SP and Student Government President, has violated the trust the student body put in him last March. It would be bad enough to just say that he hasn't adequately initiated the programs in his platform but he has done such things as completely ignore the SGA constitution when he feels it suits his purpose. It is time for a change. It is time to replace political expediency with honesty and integrity. David Lloyd and Rex Meade will make these changes.

Steve Burns

Jean Harvey

To the Editor:

Every year at this time there are many letters written endorsing candidates for office. Most of these letters state the qualifications of the candidates and try to say something nice about them. However, I would like to say that I have worked with Jean Harvey in the Legislature for two years and have observed her activities on the Entertainment Committee and as chairman of the Special Events committee. No one attacks a job with more enthusiasm and energy than Jean Harvey. She has done a fine job in Legislature and I have depended on her to do much time-consuming committee work. I am sure that if she is elected S.G.A. Secretary she will do the job with as much efficiency and energy as she has done her many other jobs. I hope you will support and vote for Jean Harvey for Secretary.

UP Serves Students

To the Editor:

It is not my intention to burden your readers with promises, etc., regarding the coming elections. However, I would ask that every student consider seriously the issues, the candidates, and the platforms being presented for their approval on March 19. I don't think there can be any doubt as to where the UP stands. We sincerely hope that you will consider the merits of our efforts. It is our purpose to serve the students of East Carolina University.

Chairman
University Party

David Lloyd

Dear Editor:

East Carolina University is growing! In order to keep up with the growth requirements that accompany University status, East Carolina needs a growing S.G.A.

David Lloyd is the candidate that can best contribute to the overall growth of E.C.U. and its student government. He is now serving as Vice President of the S.G.A., and in this capacity he has already proven his capabilities. David sold 1260 class rings, 500 more than any Vice President has ever sold. During homecoming, he was responsible for the largest parade ever held in the history of the city of Greenville.

David has also brought many outside honors to East Carolina and caused our S.G.A. to rank high across the nation. He was selected to receive the Best Debater Award in the N.C. Model Security Council. He represented E.C.U. at the National Model United Nations in New York, bringing back the Best Delegation award out of 170 colleges represented. David was also elected President of the Senate of the State Student Legislature.

With these qualifications, a sincere concern for each member of the student body and a deep desire to put progress in our S.G.A., David Lloyd will be YOUR president. David Lloyd deserves full support as President of our student government.

Donna Clayton

Rex Meade

To the Editor:

This letter is in support of the University Party in general and Rex Meade in particular. I have known Rex since he first came to East Carolina and have always found him to be resourceful and competent. He is the type of person that will sit back, examine a problem fully and then come up with a solution that is both practical and original.

Bill Richardson

Fellow Students:

This letter serves to recommend to you the Student Party candidate for Treasurer of the Student Government Association, Mr. Bill Richardson.

Of all people I have seen seek S.G.A. office in four years at East Carolina, none are more qualified or as deserving as Bill. I know enough about Bill and the position he is seeking to know that he is more than capable of fulfilling the many responsibilities that accompany this position.

Bill lists the following as his qualifications: Political Science major, Business Administration minor, Day Student Representative in the S.G.A., Rules Committee Chairman, Vice-president of the Political Science Club, Freshman and Transfer Orientation Counselor, delegate to the State Student Legislature, delegate to the Model United Nations Security Council, Dean's List, Faculty Evaluation Committee, Law Society, A.F.R.O.T.C., and the Race Relations Committee. In giving me this list, Bill overlooked the most important qualification, an honest and sincere desire to serve you, his fellow students, to the utmost of his ability.

One of the first things that really impressed me about Bill was his work with Don Benson in getting the amendment concerning ratifying the Summer School constitution defeated. This was the first amendment in the school's history to be defeated. He felt that this bill should be defeated and he wasn't afraid to put up a fight in spite of the odds against him. This is true in all cases: Bill Richardson is not afraid to stand up for what he feels is right. He is very sincere and has the best interest of the students at heart.

I urge you to vote in your upcoming elections. Your S.G.A. is only as good and as strong as you make it. You have a voice in the S.G.A. and I can think of no better or more effective way to use it than to vote for BILL RICHARDSON for TREASURER of your Student Government for next year.

Well, the day of campus politics is here again. That one glorious time of the year when the parties come out of hibernation to thrill our hearts to the marrow. I'm not trying to destroy the party system, but an ugly rumor seems to be going around concerning "mud-slinging." A certain high-ranking SGA figure has called for "mud-slinging" in this campaign. I hardly think that's fair, but since the WRC is always accusing me of besmirching its virginal name, I have no room to talk.

With this school's great rush to become the biggest and best university in the country, help has come from all over. For instance, the great British inventor, Sir Mallory White, has come up with something for our school. It's a dehydrated dorm for girls. It comes in a shoe box. You choose the location for the dorm, pour water on the box and stand back.

Hark! The boys in blue (ROTC) have come to our rescue. Alarmed at reports that Viet Cong troops were planning an invasion of the fertile Pitt County farm lands, the ROTC has swung their military might into defense of school and country. Their motto, of course, "Arm-Pitt County."

The MRC is still playing footsies with reality. I think they must hold their meetings in the Twilight Zone. They continue to hold these high-schoolish beer bashes in an attempt to get people to like them and support them. Well, it doesn't work on everyone. I just publicly burned my MRC card. This has no reflection on my feelings on war, it is symbolic of my freedom from hall proctors. Oh, one more thing. There is no truth to the rumor that a male dorm student was shot for not joining the MRC. No truth whatsoever.

One of the most idiotic rules on this campus is the no-smoking rule in the women's dormitory lobbies. Imagine some poor boy standing in the lobby waiting for his blind date and not being allowed the liberty of a soothing smoke. Don't tell me housemothers are allergic to cigarette smoke! But of course, knowing some of these housemothers, I'd believe almost anything.

Pseudoman has returned. However this is only on a trial basis. The old boy feels that if "pseudo-human" Ronnie Gollobin doesn't like him, then maybe no one else does, either. He asks all his supporters and enemies to let it be known where he stands. Address your letters to "Pseudoman" care of the EAST CAROLINIAN.

And now for Pseudoman's adventure, possibly his last. While he was away on his vacation, Pseudoman became a highly successful prize fighter out West. The key to Pseudoman's success does not lie so much in his strength, but in the fact that prize fighting rules state: "No hitting below the belt". This left only Pseudoman's head undefended and so — success.

Dignity And Maturity

To the Editor:

It pleases me to be able to take this opportunity to endorse the candidacy of Earle Beasley for SGA President.

Since first meeting Earle in 1964, I have come to know him to be an able leader and a superb administrator. He knows how to spot problems, determine solutions, and get the job done.

Dignity and maturity are ingredients of Earle's character which will prove highly complementary to the functioning of our SGA. Not only does he thoroughly understand the intricacies of SGA structure, but he also offers fresh viewpoints for expanding and streamlining the SGA in order to achieve the most benefits for the most students.

I am only one of many who would urge you, for the sake of our SGA, to vote Earle Beasley for SGA President.

Effective Function

Dear Students:

As President of your Student Government, I have had the opportunity to observe many of the candidates for SGA office in action around the campus and am thoroughly convinced that the candidates offered by the Student Party are the best qualified to command our SGA.

It might seem natural that I would support the candidates of my own party but, in truth, my allegiance is more solidly founded. I have seen the work done by many of the candidates and I believe that, without regard to party affiliation, the Student Party candidates will prove to be by far the most efficient and productive officers.

The candidates understand the workings of our SGA. They are not bound to personal political pursuits. Instead, they are devoted to the most effective functioning of our Student Government.

I have given you my sincere feelings regarding these elections. I hope you will heed them. If you are still not convinced, I challenge you to investigate the past performances and actions of the candidates. I am sure that you will realize that the Student Party is a student party.

Sincerely,
Steve Moore, President
Student Government Assn.

Martin Lassiter

Dear Editor:

The time has come for those students who sit back in their rooms and complain about poor leadership, and lack of enthusiasm on the part of those indifferent people who have been elected to SGA offices, to wake up, to get out and vote in the upcoming election. I'd like to urge them all to vote for Martin Lassiter for SGA vice-president. I know Martin to be a conscientious and sincere worker. As Sophomore and Junior Class president, and as treasurer of the MRC, he has worked to serve the students who elected him.

Above all else, Martin Lassiter is running as an Independent. He's a qualified person free from the petty "Mickey Mouse" political obligations of the two other major candidates. He doesn't have the financial resources to wage a mass proliferation campaign which some of our "tinker toy" candidates claim is needed to win an election on their campus. But even if he had the money he wouldn't insult the students' intelligence by doing so. Here's hoping other students will join me in voting for the best candidate for SGA vice-president, G. Martin Lassiter.

George Blanchard

Buford Davis

Fellow Students:

A strange thing happened on February 5th, 1968 at East Carolina University; the University Party held an actual nominating convention that was not dictated by an elite inner circle of campus politics. This was an unprecedented achievement in the three year history of parties at ECU. Another milestone was reached that same night when the party saw fit to nominate a candidate for Treasurer of the SGA on the basis of his qualifications and record of achievement, rather than his looks or the fraternity to which he belongs. The story becomes even more intriguing when one realizes this candidate is a resident of the hill; he, a member of the MRC. This once in a lifetime candidate is Buford Davis.

Rather than spend the usual three and half columns exaggerating my candidate's qualifications, I will merely list them and let them speak for themselves. Buford Davis has served his school as President of the Men's Residence Council, Vice-President of same, Lieutenant Governor of Belk Hall, Floor

D. Stuart Overman
Cathi Webb

Dear Editor,

I am writing to support a candidate for office in the upcoming March 19 SGA election.

Cathi Webb, a Student Party candidate for the office of Historian, has exemplified strong leadership qualities, as reflected in her performance, in her first three years at East Carolina. She has served as Vice-President of her sorority Kappa Delta and as a representative on the Pan-Hellenic Council. She also serves as a representative on the Student Legislature and serves on many of its committees.

Her proven ability has convinced the Student Party that she is the most capable person for this task and has given her the party nomination and placed her on the slate.

As a rising senior I think Cathi Webb would better know what the scrapbooks and records of our University must include.

One would not be wrong to support and vote for Cathi Webb, being assured that she would conscientiously and ably put together a record of next year's activities in the capacity of SGA Historian.

Round One Of Proxy Race Ends With Romney Knockout

(Reprinted From The New Republic)
From George to Nelson

George Romney's big, virile face seemed all jaw as he came forward to announce he was dropping out of the Republican race. The startling bulletin came over the AP wire from Detroit at 2:19 p.m. Romney would hold a 5 p.m. press conference, it said, and withdraw. A capacious, green-and-blue subterranean room in the Washington Hilton was jammed as the hour approached, till the management defensively slid back partitions. As a connoisseur of high political drama we can say the next few moments were tops.

And so we may get a chance for Rockefeller after all. Reporters were not quite sure on what terms the relinquishment would come, though it was obvious that the Romney campaign was withering. Yet there were those tales of "dogged determination" and rumors of Romney anger at the Rockefeller write-in drive.

Governor Romney seemed anything but depressed. With his frosty temples and craggy forehead he is a strikingly handsome person; we have never found his evangelical righteousness easy to take but he always liked the man. He has been saying fierce, angry things in New Hampshire against the Vietnam misadventure, and upbraiding Nixon as the "me-too" candidate.

It seemed to us that Romney was making a consciously dramatic contrast between the manner of his withdrawal and that other scene in mid-morning, November 7, 1962, in California, when Nixon, just defeated by Gov. Pat Brown, met reporters. In an embarrassing, whining denunciation of the press, Nixon said that this would be his "last press conference . . . You won't have Nixon to kick around any more." Later that month Nixon telegraphed certain newspapers, this was "my last campaign for public office."

Romney did not mention Nixon by name but with a smile delivered a wicked thrust. With mock solemnity, as he finished reading the withdrawal text, he said that he would anticipate the first question; then with a big laugh — "No, this will not be my last press conference!"

Maybe he had been storing that up; maybe it made him feel a lot better.

As this is written Washington churns with speculation. We don't even know whether Rocky is hawk or dove. But we think we have seen a political bridal bouquet tossed from Romney into the New York governor's lap.

What's New in Nixon?

As a matter of fact before all this happened we strapped on our snowshoes and mushed up to New Hampshire. It was obvious the Romney campaign was getting nowhere. But that wasn't the story in the Stevens High gymnasium. The Jaycees were giving their 27th annual distinguished service award. And there at the head table he stood, his black hair glossy and wavy, his temples a little higher, perhaps but otherwise unchanged; speaking pleasantly and fluently without notes, with a kind of eager breathlessness as he reached the point in his talk that he calls "the lift."

Think of it, said Richard Nixon — the tremendous, exciting, possibilities of this most fascinating of all eras; this nation, the most powerful on earth — the leadership it can exert.

He sighed as though he felt a little ashamed of the ardor he had betrayed (as a strong man will when he bares his heart too openly) and he resumed his relaxed, low-keyed, darting exposition of world affairs — an exposition that at the time anyway seemed likely to carry him to the nomination.

Three Seek SGA Vice-Presidential Post

REX MEADE

University Party — Q.P. 3.0
The main duties of Vice-President revolve around Homecoming Parade, Class Ring Sales, Cheerleaders and Spirit Committee. I wish to present some of my thoughts about each, which would yield the highest benefits to both student and University.

The 1967 "Mardi Gras" Homecoming Parade was our biggest and best ever, with 98 units and 12 bands participating. I propose to continue the general "Mardi Gras" theme, with a specific title to be decided on later. The number of bands can easily be increased to 15 or more by simply inviting more bands. Through consultation with Mr. Creech of the Greenville Merchant's Bureau, I find that it is possible to form a Parade on the largest scale and scope yet. The Merchant's Bureau is willing to approve and support the entry of merchant floats in next year's Homecoming Parade. An award will be given for the best merchant float. Also, with the aid of the Merchant's Bureau, I plan to initiate a week long "Mardi Gras" sale that will coincide with Homecoming Week.

Ring Sales this year have surpassed 1200, an increase of 500 over last year, which is due to the tireless efforts of SGA Vice-President David Lloyd. By working closely with Mr. Lee Blackwell, representative of the L. G. Balfour Co.

Campus Enthusiasm Mounts As Pitch Of Campaign Heightens

By RITA BEST

Executive officers of the Student Government Association, college marshalls and members of the Women's Judiciary Council will be elected on Tuesday, March 19.

Voting for the SGA elections will be held in the respective dormitories for on-campus residents and day students will vote in the lobby of the University Union. Students must present ID and Student Activity cards in order to vote. Balloting will be done by the Australian or secret ballot method.

Returns for the elections will be televised over WECU closed-circuit from the elections headquarters on the third floor of the Library. If there arises a need for run-offs, they will be held Tuesday, March 26.

"I think things have been going good so far," remarked Susan Yow, SGA elections chairman. "I hope that all the enthusiasm will keep up when voting day comes."

About 26 students are in competition for college marshalls. With the exception of an independent candidate for the SGA vice presidency and the four women seeking positions on the Women's Judiciary Board, the only persons campaigning are those who are supported by the two main EC political parties.

Campaigning for the SGA elections began Tuesday, with a meeting held Monday evening in order to discuss the organization of the campaigns. This year expenses al-

I truly believe I can top 1200 also. Nevertheless, I want to give everyone eligible the opportunity to buy the official East Carolina University ring from Balfour, rather than the bootlegged one from the Robertson Co.

As for cheerleaders and Spirit Committee, I hope to install new ideas and more activity. The cheerleaders will be placed in charge of the Spirit Committee, and also will be responsible for half-time shows at all home basketball games. This will fill a void that should not be present at a major conference school, and also add more flair to basketball at ECU. Last year two members of the cheerleading squad were sent to camp in Mississippi. I plan to send three. This will provide better trained leaders, that will be able to develop a superior squad.

The office of Vice-President is necessarily subordinate, but not necessarily inferior or ineffective. A truly effective Vice-President needs a strong, friendly President. Working together the President and Vice-President can accomplish much for the University. Working against each other, they will both be handicapped, and turn the Student Government Association into a useless political carnival.

East Carolina University has progressed greatly in the past few years. It has grown and developed without equal in this region of the United States. As in everything that grows East Carolina's physical portions have expanded ahead of its mental elements. It is time for us to turn toward a more Progressive mind. To do this, we need new and fresh thinking on Third Floor Wright. Vote and look U. P.

G. MARTIN LASSITER

G. Martin Lassiter, Independent Vice-Presidential Candidate, is one of the more qualified candidates running in this election. He is running on a platform of his past service with a promise of more service to the student.

Martin's record of service to East Carolina University and its organizations best shows his willingness to work and his ability to do the job. Consider these activities if you will:

Class President (2 yrs.), Summer School Legislator, Legislature Member (3 yrs.), Chm. - International Films Committee (2 yrs.), Executive Council (2 yrs.), Ring Committee (2 yrs.), Dean's Advisory Council (2 yrs.), Associated Arts Board (2 yrs.), MRC Floor Representative, MRC Treasurer, MRC Executive Council, Secretary of Wake County Club, Social Standards Committee, Secretary of Entertainment (on Presidents Cabinet), Popular Entertainment Committee, College Union Assistant, Dormitory Floor Manager, Ex-Officio Member of: Fine Arts Committee, Lecture Committee, Popular Entertainment Committee, Popular Movies Committee, Phi Alpha Sigma Fraternity, Secretary, Chaplain Pledge President, IFC Representative, Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities - 1968.

Martin is now an Independent, the only Independent running, because he feels the non-partisan students need a voice in the SGA. Promises for next year include a bigger and better Homecoming parade, more personal contact with the student, and establishment of a Campus Beautification Committee. This Committee will work for a continuity of design in our new campus buildings and for a better landscaped campus.

The campus radio and television facilities will provide coverage for election returns next Tuesday night. Here station manager Ryan Keith checks out equipment in preparation for the show.

BILL MOSIER

There is more to the SGA than meet the eye. There is organization, concerted effort, talent, and above all, POTENTIAL.

The potential is obvious. I feel that the office of vice-president is an integral part of this potential. To fulfill the duties of this position one must become well aware of the responsibility to strive and achieve cohesion among all of the officers, especially the president. The officers must work closely together to change this potentiality into tangibles for the upbuilding of our school.

The SGA in order to keep abreast with our rapidly expanding university should, in the immediate future, include with its present officers a co-ed vice-president. This office would enable the co-eds on campus to have a very active and equal voice in the executive branch of the SGA. With the large numbers of girls attending this school, they deserve a meaningful and high position in their student government.

The SGA needs responsible and experienced officers to lead the university's most important organization. The officers must have a mature outlook in the presentation of a feasible platform. Endorsement of a platform is relatively simple but to achieve the goals set forth — this can be accomplished only through experience, and with a great deal of admiration for one's fellow man.

Having served on the Men's Honor Council and serving as president of the Interfraternity Council, I have become aware of the responsibility to the students who I am serving. I don't want the position just to become a ring salesman or parade organizer but to take an active part in all areas for a more efficient student government.

Tucker Praises Participation On State And National Level

"Prestige for a college or university can be built in many ways, including athletics, student government activities, and other functions of the student body," said James H. Tucker, Dean of Student Affairs in an interview Tuesday.

Dean Tucker was addressing himself primarily to the recent honors won by members of East Carolina's delegations to Model United Nations and State Student Legislature.

Members of the EC delegation to SSL brought back four elected offices and a host of accomplishments in the 31st annual session. George Francis was named president of the SSL body, David Lloyd was voted president of the SSL senate, Reid Overcash was elected speaker pro-tempore of the House, and Cherry Stokes was elected to a reading clerk position.

In the Model United Nations meeting in New York in February, the East Carolina group was named Best Delegation in competition with the 170 other schools represented. George Conley further distinguished East Carolina by scoring second high on a competency test given to all 2000 delegates attending.

Dean Tucker praised the participants in these functions, saying "These students have proved that our students can hold their own with, and in most cases surpass, those of the so-called prestige schools."

WECU Plans Coverage Of Student Elections

WECU campus radio and television station plans coverage of the Spring SGA elections in a special program Tuesday. The election special is tentatively scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. and to last until the returns are in.

According to the programs' producer, Paul Boylin, simultaneous radio and TV broadcast is a public service for which the station and crew are receiving no monetary compensation.

To facilitate vote counting, the SGA Elections Board will meet in the WECU studios where the dormitories and the College Union polls will report their vote count.

Returns on voting for the five major SGA executive offices will be posted as soon as the returns are in. Because of the large number of candidates for judicial board and marshalls, and due to space limitations, returns for these offices will be posted on a less frequent basis.

WECU has invited all candidates, and campaign managers of the two parties and the independent candidate to view the returns in the station's lounge.

President Jenkins, Dr. Tucker, the SGA executive officers and the vice-presidents of the MRC and WRC have also been invited.

Guests will be interviewed on the air from time to time during the evening as the returns are posted. Only SGA executive officers will be allowed in the studios in order to prevent any accusation of election corruption.

The program may be viewed on TV sets in the CU lounge, the snack bar area and the library auditorium. If students are unable to view or hear the broadcast, Boylin said, they may telephone WECU at 758-3426, extension 281.

Announcers for the election special will be Paul Boykin, Ryan Keith, Geoff Church, and Bill Ruffy. Church is also in charge of technical aspects of preparing for the show. Susan Lucas is in charge of posting returns.

Other crew members are Bob Caprio, director; Nick Barnes and Jack Fisher, floor managers; Susie McConnell, in charge of video; Jimmy Stephens, audio.

Cameramen are Ace Adkins and Bob Gurganus. Gurganus is also in charge of lighting, for which WECU is receiving help from the EC Playhouse.

Some technical equipment is being supplied by WNCT-TV.

Quality Candidates Step Out To Vie For SGA Treasurer

Bill Richardson, Student Party candidate for treasurer.

BILL RICHARDSON
Student Party — Q.P. 2.6

Many of you have asked me my qualifications and why I want the Treasurer's job. Well, let me explain why I accepted the SP nomination and why I feel that I am qualified for the position.

With my minor in Business Administration, I feel that I will have no trouble with the accounting and business aspects. I have found that the Treasurer is more concerned with budgets and that he works with the Student Fund Accounting Office on the actual accounting. Satisfied that I knew the technical aspects, I went to the SGA Treasurer, Layton Getsinger, to discuss the job and its requirements.

I left the office feeling that the Treasurer should have a lot of experience in the Student Government, especially with the campus organizations and the administration.

Many of you are unaware that we have thirteen campus organizations, ranging from the Buccaneer ($62,000) to some small organizations operating on a budget of $1,000, that receive part of our total budget of a quarter of a million dollars. Our SGA budget is the second largest in the nation, and to manage it requires a person who has been in the SGA and knows the organizations. Experience is the best teacher for this office and my work through the Rules Committee (Chairman) and the Legislative Steering Committee have enabled me to know the campus organizations, and I feel that I understand their needs.

The next Treasurer should also be able to work with the administration. I had my first taste of close cooperation with the administration this summer by working with the Freshmen and Transfer Students. From these students I was able to learn of the many areas that need improvement. However, my greatest involvement with the administration came this winter when I was Chairman of the Graduate Activity Card Committee. I had to work in close connection with the Business Office in determining the cost and feasibility of Graduate Cards.

My technical knowledge of the Treasurer's job, my SGA experience, with the campus organizations that will require budgets, and my proven ability to work with the administration convinced me that I am capable to hold the office. Many of you have already demonstrated with your support that you think I am qualified. I would consider it a great honor to serve as your treasurer, and I would do my best to serve you well.

BUFORD DAVIS

University Party — Q.P. 2.3

I, Buford Davis, am running for the position of S.G.A. Treasurer. Presently, I am the President of the Mens Residence Council. I have also served as Vice President of the Mens Council, Lt. Governor of Belk Dorm, member of 1965 Freshman Football Team, a Business Administration Major (3 quarters of Accounting), and a year's apprentice under a Public Accountant at Tar Heel Home Supply, Inc., Greenville, N.C.

As Treasurer of the SGA, I plan to continue the "A" and "B" Budget System presently used by the SGA. This system is set up so that a budget ("A" Budget) will be set up this Spring for the SGA organizations until the original budget ("B" Budget) can be set up next Fall Quarter.

I plan to make the Drama Department separate from the SGA Budget. It will have its own budget and will no longer have to come to the SGA Legislative Body for money. This will reduce the many headaches the Drama Department has to go through to get the necessary requisitions for last minute preparations in putting on a play.

Also, I plan to make the newspaper, The EAST CAROLINIAN, separate from the SGA as far as salaries. The actual cost of printing the newspaper will still come under the control of the SGA. My main objectives, of course, will be handled by myself and my Budget Committee. By working closely with my budget committee, I believe I can prevent a waste of the students' money and cut spending in many ways.

Now, I ask for your support in helping me accomplish these objectives by giving me your vote

Buford Davis, University Party candidate for treasurer.

Webb Unopposed In Current Election Of SGA Historian

As a candidate for SGA Historian, I would like to take this opportunity to acquaint you with some of my qualifications. I am a junior and have been active in many aspects of Student Government and other campus organizations. I have been a member of the Student Legislature, SGA Steering Committee, SGA Internal Affairs Committee, Teacher Evaluation Committee, Student Party, Panhellenic and Vice-President of Kappa Delta Sorority. I have always been active in Student Government and my participation in these activities have caused me to run for SGA Historian.

When elected I will keep accurate records of all student activities, and maintain the official Student Government Scrapbook, and perform all other duties incident to my office.

Not only do I realize the great honor that the office of SGA Historian will hold, but also, the many responsibilities. I am quite willing to accept these responsibilities and to fulfill them to the best of my ability. As an old friend of mine once told me, don't make promises, just keep them.

Cathi Webb, Student Party candidate for historian.

SP Suggests Plans For Policy Changes

1. The formation of a congress of leading students, faculty, alumni, and administrators for the purpose of handling problems of importance to the most efficient functioning of our campus.

2. A campaign taken to the North Carolina General Assembly directed toward lowering the voting age for all national, state, and local elections.

3. The establishment of guidelines for the distribution of SGA funds to worthy campus organizations.

4. A study of the merits of the pass-fail system of grading and the possible implementation of such a system on an experimental basis for select classes.

5. Unrestricted hours for certain women's dormitories and an analysis of dormitory regulations with consideration of potential modifications.

6. A policy of improving campus race relations by assisting leaders of minority groups who can adequately and responsibly demonstrate a true case of unjust discrimination.

7. A campaign to gain adherence to the concept of "innocent until proven guilty" in all campus courts from House Councils to the Review Board.

8. To permit students to register as members of campus political parties, and, having registered, to vote in party primary elections thus giving the student body a direct hand in selecting the candidates to be endorsed by the campus political parties.

9. The integration of the WRC and the MRC into the fullest participation of Student Government activities.

10. Implementation of the long-promised study-day prior to exams.

11. Increasing the salaries for clerical staff members of the campus publications.

12. A campaign for improved telephone service for the student body with the possible expansion of facilities into the rooms of all dormitories.

13. The addition to the Executive Council of a Co-ed Vice President.

University Party Platform Calls For Reforms In Women's Dorms

I. Amend Art III Sec. 3-A of the Constitution to include the Presidents of the WRC and MRC to the Executive Council, giving them a voice and a vote. This will bring the organizations under the control of the SGA so that there will be less friction between the students and the organizations.

II. Establishment of an "ombudsman" to serve as a liaison between the administration, faculty, and the SGA, to be appointed by the SGA President and approved by the SGA Legislature. Matters will be presented to his attention through the Executive Council. This will be an impartial faculty member.

III. Formation of International Students Committee to encourage more foreign student enrollment at East Carolina University. Committee is to include members of the student body now enrolled who are foreign students.

IV. Promote an increase in the activities of the External Affairs Committee to build and promote the name and image of East Carolina University throughout the state and the United States.

V. Establish a Secretary of Public Relations to promote Freshman Enrollment of ECU, to be appointed by the SGA President and approved by the SGA Legislature. The Secretary is to be a member of the Presidential Cabinet.

Since the increase of the Freshman enrollment is one of our primary concerns, we plan to have the Secretary contact the college Public Relations Director to all schools to give a students view of ECU.

VI. Arrange to have two dorms on an all night basis for a trial period for girls 21 years; Junior and Senior girls with parent's permission. Girls would be given keys to the doors. (Jarvis and Fleming recommended). This arrangement would give the girls more responsibility and freedom of movement. These dorms were chosen because of the size and location.

VII. Hour extension for all other women students; until 12:00 p.m. on weeknights and 1:30 a.m. on weekends.

VIII. For the SGA to investigate the possibilities of establishing a proportionate and equal tuition rate in all North Carolina State supported institutions.

This is only to investigate these possibilities. East Carolina needs more out of state students, and so by establishing an equal tuition ratio we can increase our chances of obtaining a broader student body.

IX. Establishment of a Secretary on Institutional Improvement.

A. Remodding of the Soda Shop to make it a more enjoyable place for students and to make it a place to which students will want to bring their friends. In essence, it will be a showplace for East Carolina.

B. To establish a review board to study the merits of housemothers. This will curb the disenchantment of the students by having a place to bring their grievances.

V. To make the EAST CAROLINIAN independent as far as salaries are concerned. Advertisements will pay salaries and these salaries will be audited by the State auditors. The SGA will pay the cost of printing. By this independence the initiative of the staff will be increased and a better newspaper will be presented to the students. The advertising staff will receive a commission on the advertising sold.

Harvey, Holland Seek Secretariat

JEAN HARVEY
Student Party — Q.P. 2.7

As a candidate for the office of Secretary of S.G.A. I feel that you should know my activities at East Carolina, and what I plan for the office of secretary, if elected. During my freshman year I was a member of the student legislature and a delegate to the Model United Nations. This year I was again elected to the legislature and served on several legislative committees. In addition to legislative activities I was active in the executive branch. Appointed to the position of Special Events Chairman by the S. G. A. President, I was in charge of Homecoming among other key events. As secretary of the Popular Entertainment Committee, I was a delegate to the Block Booking Conference.

My legislative experience has given me several ideas on ways in which the secretary can perform her duty more effectively. One such idea is to keep the motions of the legislature in a permanent file in which the secretary or other S.G.A. members can have easy access to important legislative actions.

Your support and vote for myself and other Student Party candidates would be greatly appreciated.

DIANE HOLLAND
University Party — Q.P. 2.4

Anyone that has taken notes under some of our fast talking professors knows how difficult it is to catch all of those facts, figures, and dates that they manage to throw out in a short 50 minutes. So it is with the office of Secretary of the Legislature. Being Secretary now, I know how it is to try and get all the motions, discussion, and questions asked that fly at each meeting of the SGA Legislature. It's fun, exciting, and a lot of hard work. I love it. That's why I'm running again for next year. Please vote Dianne Holland March 29 in your dorm or in the CU.

Diane Holland, of the University Party, and Jean Harvey, of the Student Party, are candidates for secretary.

SGA Elects Two To WHC

In its regular weekly meeting Monday the SGA Legislature elected two members to the Women's Honor Council, established a new Screening and Appointments Committee, and considered several other matters, including a controversial popular entertainment measure.

Patricia Burden and Marty Almon were elected to the Honor Council for Spring quarter as regular members; Janet Bickman and Ada Sanford, as alternates. They will replace regularly elected members who cannot serve the remainder of their terms.

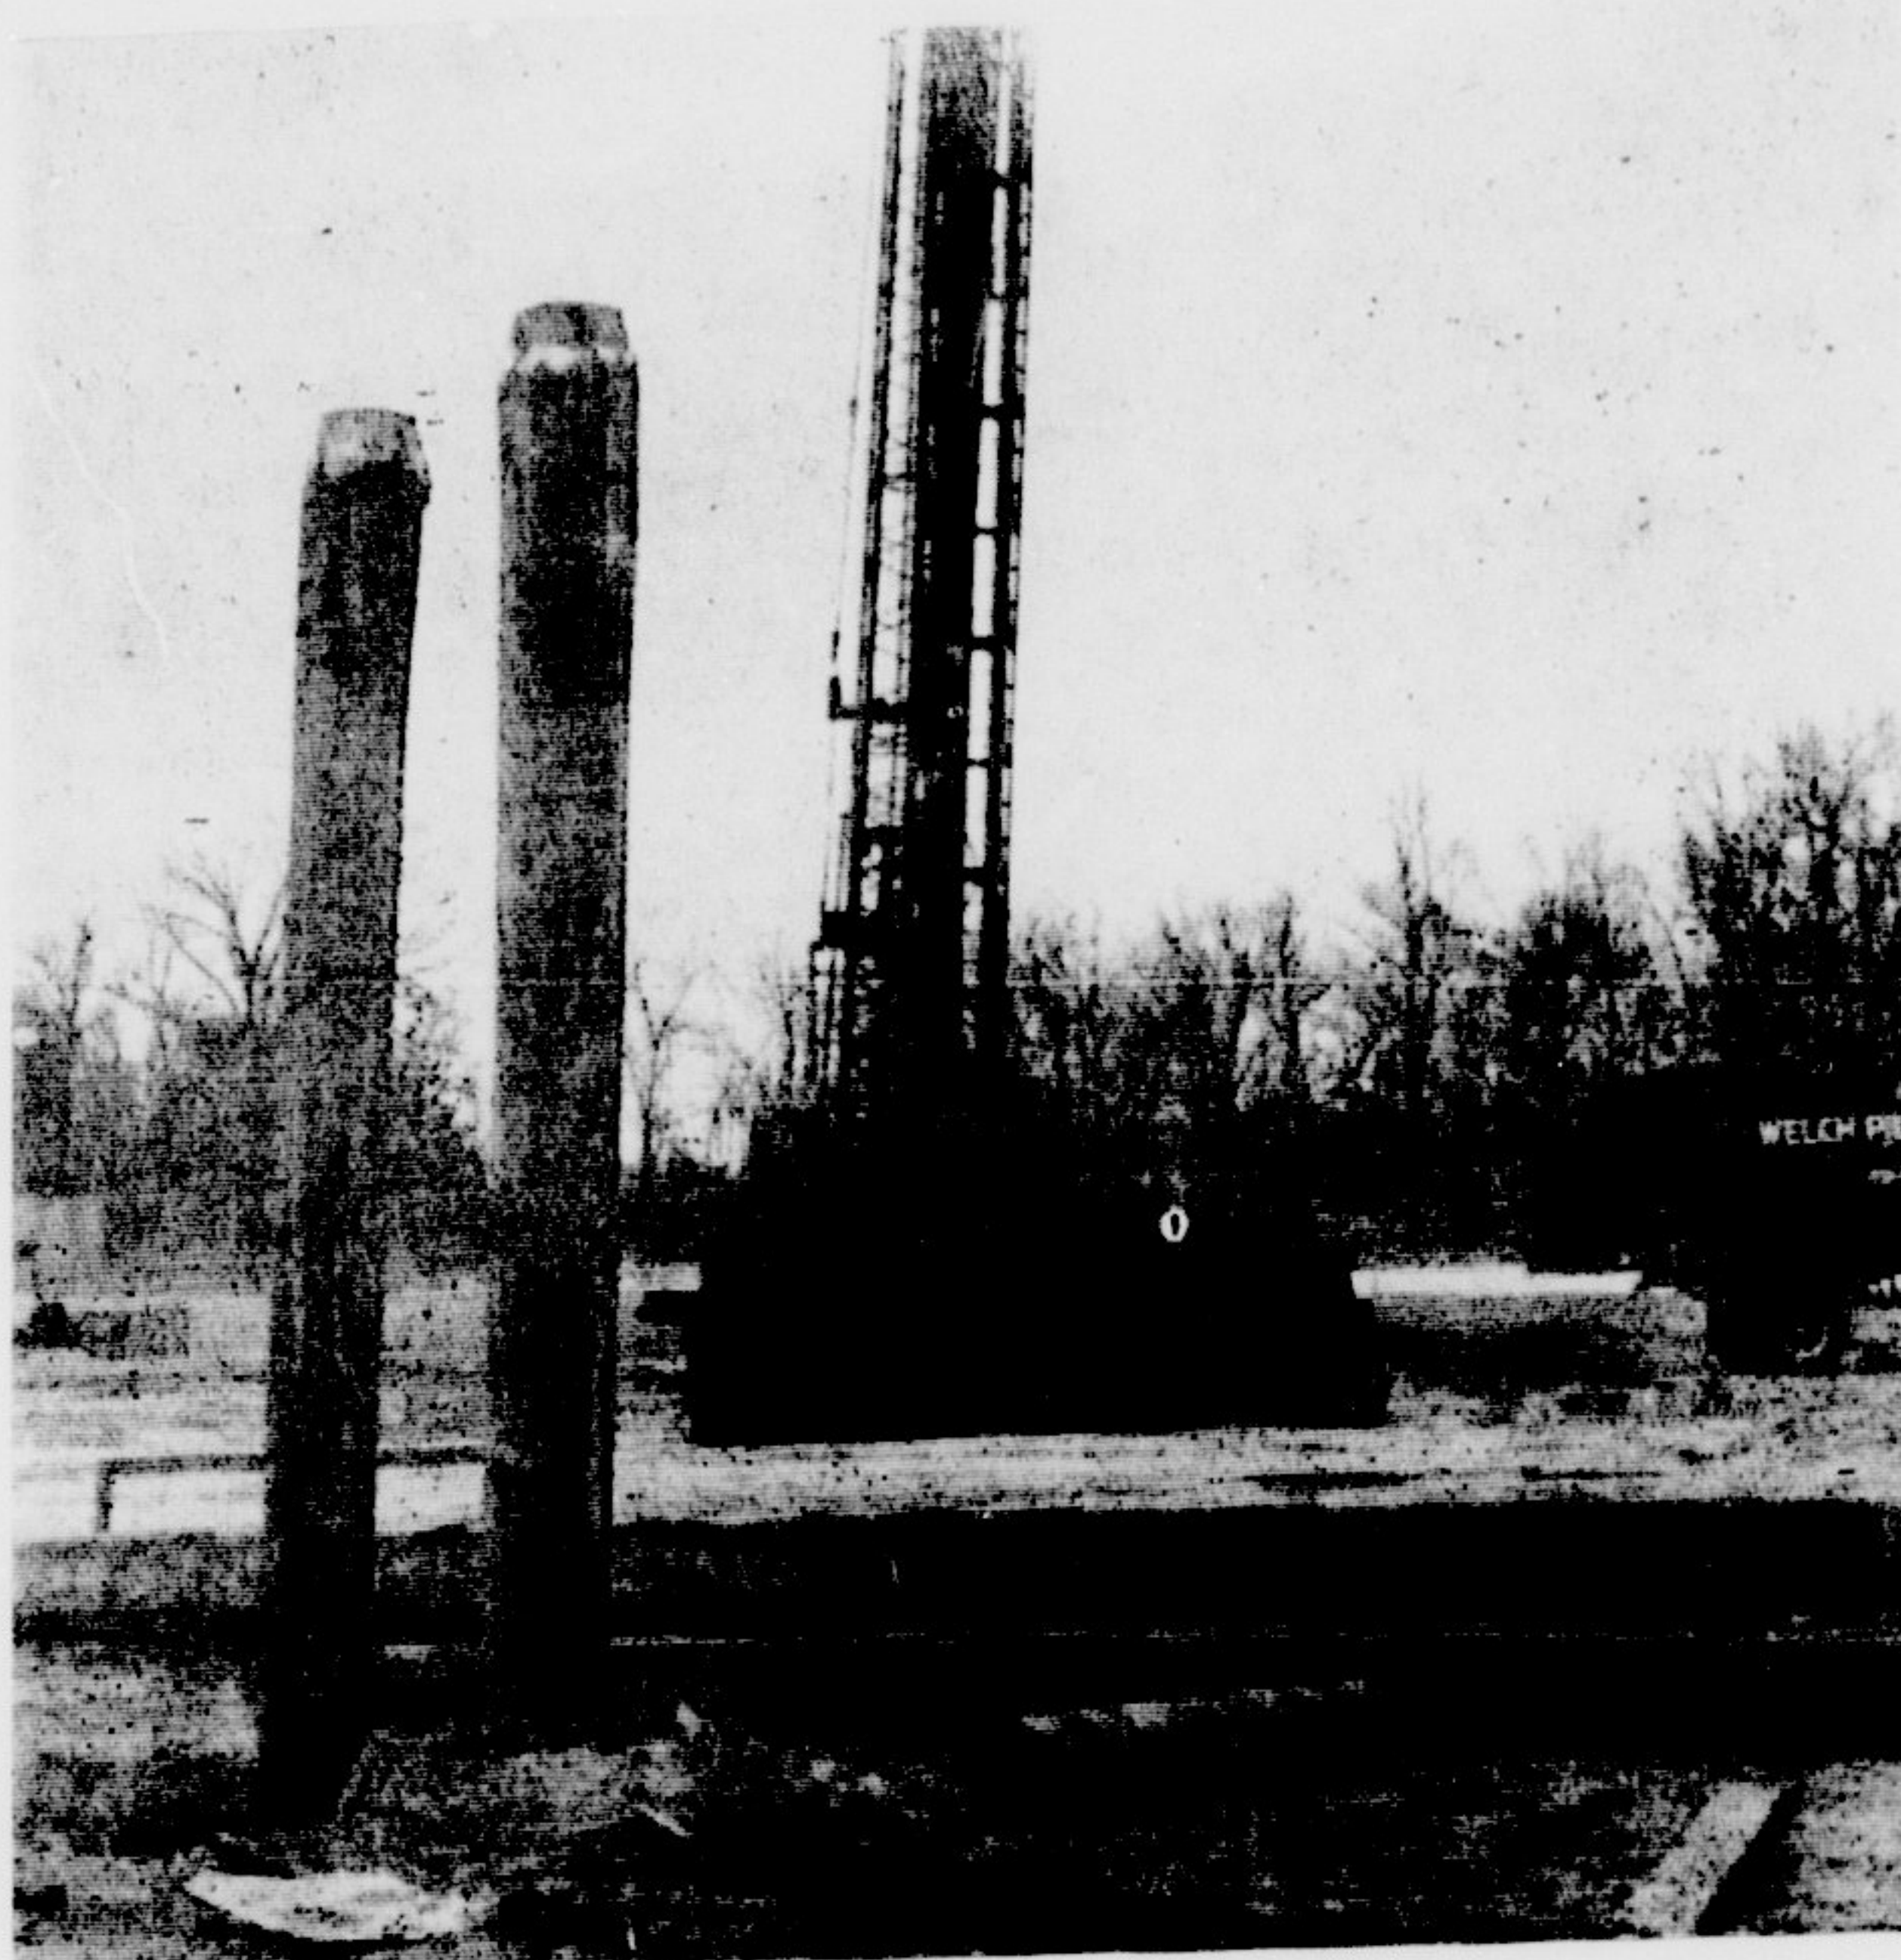

A bill to establish a Screening and Appointments Committee was taken from the table. The measure calls for a committee of four legislators who would screen candidates for appointive positions and make recommendations to the speaker. The speaker would then make nominations subject to legislative approval.

The bill was amended to establish a time limit of two weeks before final appointment deadlines to assure ample screening time.

A controversial measure, which originated in the SGA Popular Entertainment Committee, was discussed at length. The bill would establish rules for non-SGA groups wishing to book entertainment on campus.

It specifies that such groups may book a maximum of three performances per year, provided there would be no conflict with SGA entertainment, and that there would be no duplication of SGA shows within a twelve-month period.

According to Jerry Sutherland, ECU Director of Operations, there are no grounds for the rumor that the new high-rise men's dorm under construction opposite Scott Hall will be named for former governor of North Carolina, Terry Sanford.

Being built at a cost of $1.4 million, with R. N. Rouse as general contractor, the nine story dorm will have interior corridors and communal baths unlike the suite arrangement of Scott and Belk. The dormitory will house 500 male students.

'Family Life' Talk Probes Morality

The eighth annual Family Life Institute at East Carolina University through Wednesday, March 11-13, featured two experts who led a detailed study of "Morality or Morals."

Both experts, Dr. Vladimir de Lissovoy of Pennsylvania State University and Dr. Sarah T. Morrow of Greensboro, gave public addresses Monday in Old Austin Auditorium. Dr. Lissovoy opened the institute with a 10 a.m. address, "Morality or Morals." At 7 p.m. Dr. Morrow spoke on "Family Planning."

Five other sessions on campus were open to students only. The institute closed Wednesday with two hours of conferences involving the two visiting experts and university students.

To focus attention on major issues of the institute theme, Dr. De Lissovoy and Morrow talked with student groups on such topics as "Male, Female and Marriage," "Sex Education for Children" and "The Playboy Philosophy and Its Implications."

Dr. De Lissovoy, author of many articles in his field, has taught at the universities of Colorado, New York, Tennessee and at Rutgers. He has degrees from Colorado (BA, BE and MA) and Cornell (PhD).

Dr. Morrow, associate health director of Guilford County since 1960, has a BS degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, an MPH from the UNC School of Public Health and an MD from the University of Maryland School of Medicine.

The Thieves' Carnival

Conscience Troubles Thief

The East Carolina Playhouse will present "The Thieves' Carnival" by the French playwright Jean Anouilh, April 3-6 in McGinnis Auditorium.

"The Thieves' Carnival" is set in the palatial home of two attractive young girls who are invaded by three affectionate thieves and one country bumpkin.

During the course of the play, a romance buds between the youngest thief, Gustav, played by Lindsay Bowen and one of the girls.

As time progresses, Gustav's conscience causes him to waver; not being an honest fellow, he feels that he cannot accept Juliette's love. He turns again to stealing, more than he did before he met Juliette. As it turns out, Juliette is craftier in her wiles than Gustav is in his.

Joan Bass of the English faculty portrays Lady Huef, with Jim Fleming and Cullen Johnson portraying the two thieves, Peterbeno and Plector, respectively.

Other parts include Jane Barrett as Eva, Mark Ramsey as Lord Ed-gard, Roy Dicks as Dupont Dufont Senior, and Jack Scarry as Dupont Dufont Junior. Andrew Taylor will portray the Town Crier, Butch Leonard, the Musician, and Nancy Byrum, a little girl.

Bob Campeau, Gary King, and Bill Bender are the policemen; and Ann Sermons, Jill Woodlief, and Linda Taylor are the nursemaids.

This four-act play will be directed by Victor Cook, with Laura Homme as stage manager.

Tickets may be picked up at the Central Ticket Office from March 26 through April 5. Curtain time for "The Thieves' Carnival" is at 8:15 p.m.

English Poet Highlights Foreign Presentation

The International Film Committee will present two English films, "The Guest" and "A Tribute to Dylan Thomas," tonight at seven o'clock in Wright Auditorium.

"The Guest" is a film version of Harold Pinter's successful Broadway play "The Caretaker." Alan Bates, Robert Shaw and Donald Pleasance, who played the original roles on Broadway, recreated their roles in this film.

The story concerns two brothers who live in a cluttered attic of a rundown house somewhere in London. One of them invites a bum to share the lodgings, and what follows is a game of verbal volleyball among the three. The bum is used by one brother to abuse and get at the other brother.

"A Tribute to Dylan Thomas" is a half-hour film short dedicated to the famous English poet. A portrait of the poet is given through shots of the land in which he lived and loved. The film is narrated by Richard Burton.

N. C. Art Works On Exhibit Here

The Associated Artists of North Carolina are holding an exhibit at the Art Department of East Carolina during the month of March.

The works were judged Friday afternoon by Mr. Charles Minott who is an Associate Professor of Art at the University of Pennsylvania. Four Honorable Mention Awards will be announced in the near future.

The Association is composed of artists who have either been born in North Carolina or who have been residents of the state for five years. Several members of the EC Art Faculty are exhibiting in this show. All the works in this exhibit are done in either graphics or drawings.

This is the seventh in a series of exhibits that have been presented by the Art Department this year. There will be two more this year, the one during April will be of Contemporary European works, and the May show will be the annual student exhibit.

McQueen, Robinson Gamble In Flick

Tomorrow night's campus movie will be "The Cincinnati Kid," starring Steve McQueen, Edward G. Robinson, Ann-Margret and Karl Malden. The film will be shown in Wright Auditorium at 7 and 9 p.m.

The plot concerns a gambling card shark who is weary of New Orleans and the small stakes there. He wants to go on to bigger and higher stakes in the larger gambling cities, but stays to meet the challenge of an older, famed gambler from Chicago.

The card-playing duel between the two is the highlight of the film. The personal lives of the two players affect the eventual outcome of the game.

'68 CHEVROLET
prices start lower than any other full-size models. Look at it. Chevrolet's 4-door sedan is roomier than any other American car except one luxury sedan. Drive it. You tell by its smooth and silent ride that Chevrolet quality runs deep. Buy it! Get a Chevrolet instead of a medium-priced name and you can have, say, power steering, power brakes and a radio besides!

'68 CHEVELLE
prices start lower than any other mid-size models. Obviously nothing's newer in mid-size cars than Chevelle. There's fresh styling, the long-hood, short-deck look. There are two nimble-footed wheelbases now—both on a wider, steadier tread. You get big-car power, big-car ride in a quick-size package. No wonder Chevelle outsells everything in its field.

'68 CHEVY II NOVA prices start lower than any other economy car so generously sized. Nova is big enough for a family on vacation, yet it slips into parking spaces others pass by. With its new wide stance and computer-tuned chassis, Nova rides as silent and steady as cars costing a lot more, and it comes with the biggest standard V8 in its field. Nova's the not-too-small car.

Pirate Cagers Finish Season With Marked Improvement

East Carolina's cage Bucs finished up the final stages of the 1967-68 season by winning three out of four games to finish with an overall mark of 9-16.

The Bucs won their last three regular season games, and were pitted against the powerful Mountaineers of West Virginia. In a foul plagued game, the Mounties beat the Bucs by 76-71 due to stronger bench strength and better foul shooting.

While the Bucs' 9-16 mark is no winning record, it does show improvement over last year's 7-17 mark. The Bucs also improved within the confines of the Southern Conference as they were 6-7 this year as opposed to last year's 4-8 record.

Thompson Leads Attack

Junior guard Earl Thompson, in his premiere season at East Carolina, led the Buc attack with a 16.8 scoring average. Thompson also set a school scoring record with his 41 point performance against Atlantic Christian College. He also posted three other team highs for the season. He made 15 field goals against Washington and Lee to match Charlie Alford who had scored 15 goals against both St. Peter's and William and Mary. Thompson also attempted 13 free throws and made all 13 to set season highs. Co-captain Vince Colbert also had 13 attempts against N.C. State.

Following Thompson in the point parade was center Charlie Alford at 14.7, Vince Colbert at 14, and Jim Modlin at 10.6.

In the battle of the boards, Alford led the Bucs with an average of 9.4 recoveries per game. He was followed by Colbert at 7.4 rebounds a game and Jim Modlin at 4.8.

As a team, the Bucs averaged 77.2 points per game to 79.5 for the opposition. Off the boards, the Bucs averaged just over 50 per cent of the rebounds.

Lost To Mounties Last Year

Last year, the Bucs lost in the opening round of the Southern Conference tournament to top seeded

West Virginia by 82-53. This year, the Bucs were again pitted against the potent Mountaineers and lost, but not before the Bucs had kept the final outcome in doubt until the final 18 seconds of play before bowing by 76-71.

"You are never pleased when you lose a game," Coach Tom Quinn said of the finale against West Virginia. "but I was very proud of the effort our team put forth and I was encouraged by the difference in this game and the one we played against West Virginia in the open-

Batter Up!

Bucs Swing Into Play

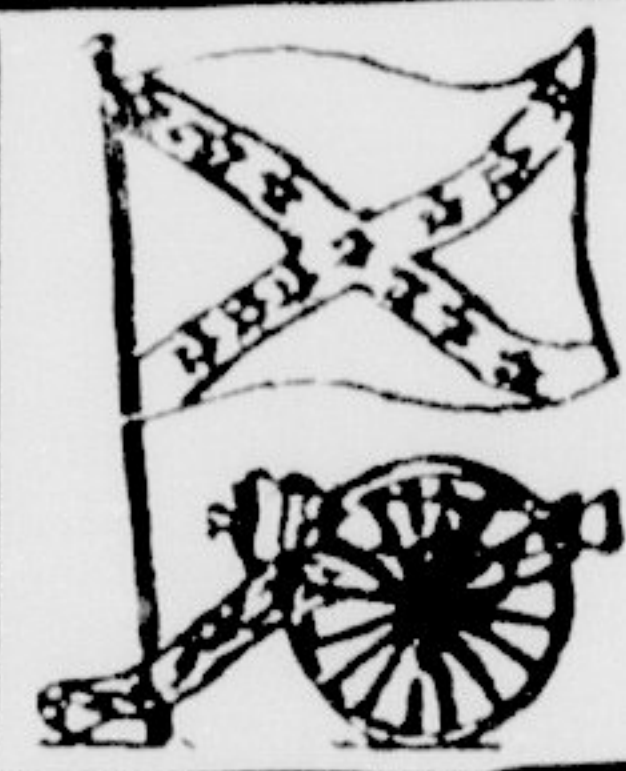

The East Carolina baseball team, headed by Coach Earl Smith, begins their 30 game slate on March 29, against Ithaca College. The Bucs will be at home for their first eight games before playing Furman in Greenville, S. C., on April 3.

The Southern Conference is also instituting divisional play this year with the conference divided into two divisions. In the northern division will be West Virginia, George Washington, William & Mary, Richmond, and V. M. I. In the southern division, besides East Carolina, are Furman, Davidson, and the Citadel.

West Virginia, George Washington, and William & Mary are expected to battle it out for divisional honors. In the southern division, East Carolina and Furman are expected to be the top teams. The two divisional winners will then meet in a playoff, with the winner going on to the NCAA Regionals.

The schedule is as follows:

March 20, Ithaca College; March 21, Ithaca College; March 23, UNC; March 25, University of Virginia; March 26, UVA; March 28, Dartmouth College; March 30, William & Mary; April 1, Brown University; April 3, at Furman; April 5, Colby College; April 6, The Citadel; April 9, at Duke; April 11, Atlantic Chris-

Sports Lowe Down:

Sports Move With 'Spring'

By John Lowe

By JOHN LOWE

Spring is almost upon us, the "thump - thump - thump - swish" sound of the basketball season are coming to an end and it's time for the spring sports to take hold.

Four sports get into the swing of things in the next two weeks, and a fifth started over the quarter break. However, a stranger is also beginning to stir on the gridiron as the football team begins its spring practice in an effort to fill nine starting spots vacated by graduating seniors.

Crew Team Gets Jump

The crew team got the jump over everybody by heading to sunny Florida over the quarter break. Both the varsity and jayvee crews went on the trip.

Last year, down in the land of sunshine and oranges, the Pirates lost all eight matches as both the varsity and jayvees each came up empty in four tries. This year, the varsity came out still looking for their first win, but the jayvees broke even at 2-2. In all fairness, they rowed well, and even in losing, changed the attitudes of many Florida people who thought the Buc were nothing but "hillbillies."

The crew teams are working towards their next meet which will be against Marist, on March 29.

Other teams beginning action are the tennis, golf, track, and baseball teams. All start their seasons within the next ten days.

Buc Baseballers Schedule 30 Games

Coach Earl Smith and his baseball team start a 30 game slate with eight straight home games, beginning March 20. Of the 30 games, 20 of them are at home on 18 dates. There are two doubleheaders.

The Bucs were co-champs of the Southern Conference with West Virginia last year, and are expected to be in contention again this year.

The golf and tennis teams get down to serious work this weekend, while the track teams waits until a week from Saturday to start in the news-Piedmont Relays in Greenville, S.C.

Football Drills

The slumbering giant is awakening on the gridiron as Coach Stasavich and his aids begin to build a new backfield around fullback Butch Colson and fill holes in the line and defensive backfield. The hardest lineman to replace will be all-conference guard Kevin Moran who signed with the Dallas Cowboys of the NFL.

Regionals Come Into View

The basketball season is coming to a close, and all Tarheels can be proud of the fact that three North Carolina teams are ranked in the Top Ten. Tarheel basketball is led by number four Carolina, and number eight, Davidson which will be representing the ACC and SC in the NCAA Regionals in Raleigh this weekend. Duke, ranked tenth, will be in the NIT for the second year in a row. The Blue Devils will be facing the Oklahoma Chiefs in the opening round tonight. Carolina and Davidson go against St. Bonaventure and Columbia respectively, tomorrow night.

Here's wishing them the best of luck in their tournament play.
