

UN Fellowship Winners Study Services Of EC

Nine members of the Adlai E. Stevenson Memorial Fellowship from the United Nations will visit the ECU campus Wednesday, April 3 through Friday, April 5. President Jenkins has invited the Fellows to spend two days on the campus as guests of the University.

Each year, the U.S. Congress appropriates funds to support the Adlai E. Stevenson Memorial Fellowship Program, which is being administered by the United Nations Institute for Training and Research in New York. Nine award recipients from five different continents were selected in September, 1967. They are now participating in various UN programs.

The objective behind the visit to ECU is to provide the visitors with an opportunity to study the advantages of a non-metropolitan education and ECU's services to the community.

President Jenkins would like the group to get to know the University and the Student Government as well as its programs. They have never been exposed to a small university. He would like them to get to know the University community relationships.

Dr. H.H. Inhoff, professor of political science, said that the group will be eating in the cafeteria and wishes to emphasize that all students are welcome to join them at their table. The visitors will be on a tight schedule that they will have little time for meeting requests.

It is also to be emphasized that these people are senior people in their own field. Many are from the foreign office of their country, some are in the academic field, and one is a publicity correspondent.

The group includes nine visitors and their director, Dr. George H. Benett, UNITAR Director of the Fellowship. Members of the group are Ousman Ahmadou Sallah, assistant secretary in the Prime Minister's Office, of Gambia; Mustapha Thili, political correspondent, of Tunisia; Abdul Nasser - Ziayee, member of the Ministry for Foreign Affairs, of Afghanistan; Kazuomi Ouchi, associate professor of international law, of Japan; Mario D. Zamora, Chairman of the Department of Anthropology, of the Philippines; Thelma Ocon Solorzano, member of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, of Nicaragua; Jorge A. Vargas Silva, member of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, of Mexico; Herbert H. Werlin, assistant professor of political science, of the US; and Jean Ziegler, professor political science, of Switzerland.

The visitors will arrive in New Bern at 5:27 p.m. Wednesday. They will dine with the SGA at the Candlewick Inn and will meet later with student groups at the Sigma Sigma Sigma building on 5th Street.

Thursday the visitors will meet with President Jenkins and several of the deans. They will visit the offices of the SGA, East Carolinian, and The Rebel. A news conference will be held at 3:00 p.m. at Rawl. In the evening the group will attend the Playhouse production of "The Thieves' Carnival" at McGinnis Auditorium.

Friday the visitors will meet Mr. West, Mayor of Greenville, and Mr. Haggerty, City Manager. They will also visit Pitt Technical Institute. They will depart at 4:22 p.m. Friday.

After leaving New York, the Fellows will visit several European countries as an extension of the UN program.

Beach Boy's Entertainment Highlights Weekend Concert

The Beach Boys will come to town Saturday, April 6, to perform at East Carolina University. The rock'n'roll ensemble now in their fifth year of appearances around the world have been engaged by the SGA.

The concert is scheduled at 8 p.m. in Mingos Coliseum. Appearing with them are the Buffalo Springfield and the Strawberry Alarm Clock.

Tickets ($3 each) are available to the general public at the Central Ticket Office in Wright Auditorium, open 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays.

The Saturday program is next to the last of four pops concerts on the SGA entertainment calendar for 1967-68. Johnny Rivers, guitarist and singer, is scheduled for Saturday, April 27.

The Beach Boys have won not only the adoration of fans all over the world; they have also earned the respect of their contemporary musicians. Their clean, cathedral-choir-correct harmonies are acknowledged as the best.

According to one critic, "Whenever the Beach Boys travel, they convey an aura of simplicity. They are the spokesman, musically, for the honest, no-nonsense grassroots American."

"They seem able to cope with a career which is becoming more and more complex and there seems to be no limit to what they can do."

Another has written: "In London, the Beach Boys were triumphant on several major network TV shows; in Paris, all-time records were broken at the old and famous Olympia Music Hall; and in Sweden, Stockholm's sedate Concert Hall rang and rattled and reverberated to the rafters with the roar of Scandinavian enthusiasm."

Entertainment Committee Completes Fall Bookings

The East Carolina Popular Entertainment Committee has lined up 9 big name acts for Fall quarter, 1968.

Orientation Day, September 10, the Royal Guardsmen, the rock'n'roll group of "Snoopy and the Red Baron" fame, will appear in Wright Auditorium for the annual beginning of school dance.

Parent's Day, Sept. 21: The Carl Boxer Trio, one of the top modern jazz trios will entertain the students and their parents. The Pops entertainment committee saw this group perform and they are certain that Carl Boxer will appeal to everyone.

For the second week in October, the committee has scheduled The 5th Dimensions, who first hit the charts with their record "UP, UP and Away!" and who recently came out with "The Carpet Man."

Sat. October 26: The great Soul Man, Lou Rawls, will appear in an afternoon concert. Though not definite, the entertainment committee is confident that they can book him. Called the "King of Soul," Lou Rawls has hit the top charts with "Deadend Street," and "Tobacco Road." Rawls puts on a show similar to that of James Brown and appears with his own orchestra.

Homecoming Weekend: The Platters, perennial favorites because of their soft sound, will appear on Friday night. Two of their favorite "oldie goldies" are "Twilight Time" and "The Great Pretender;" one of their most recent hits is "I love you 1,000 times." Saturday night of that big weekend, Paul Anka will appear in Mingos Coliseum. Though he has been around a long time, Paul Anka has worked up a new act which includes a 17 piece orchestra and he sings all the recent hits in his distinctive style.

The Beach Boys, popular recording group whose sand and sea sound has repeatedly put them on the best-selling charts, perform in Mingos Saturday at one p.m. Tickets for the show, which also features the Strawberry Alarm Clock and the Buffalo Springfield, are available at the Central Ticket Office for a one dollar service charge. Tickets must be picked up prior to the show, or they will cost three dollars at the door.

Playhouse Produces 'The Thieves Carnival'

The East Carolina University Playhouse is presenting Jean Anouilh's madcap comedy, "The Thieves' Carnival" in McGinnis Auditorium April 3-6.

It is the first production of the Spring season and part of the annual theater series sponsored by the Student Government Association.

The romance between Gustave and Juliette is portrayed by Lindsay Bowen and Evelyn Marshall. Gustave's partners in crime, Peter-bono and Hector, are played by Jim Fleming and Cullen Johnson.

Jane Barrett, known for her recent portrayal of Shakespeare's Juliet, now becomes Anouilh's sophisticated Eva. Joan Bass of the ECU faculty will make her debut on the ECU stage as Lady Hurt.

The cast of 18 is directed by Victor Cook. Assisting him is John Snelten as set director, George Schreigber as lighting director and Mary Stephenson as costumer.

After 54 Hours AEPi Off Rocker

Swingers of the early 1950's remember Bill Haley and his Comets for their recording, "Rock Around the Clock." Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity men made a new record on the same subject last weekend.

Instead of a record for the Top Ten, it was a record of endurance for 19-year-old Paul Breitman of Charlotte. Breitman rode a rocking chair for 54 hours without stopping as a gimmick to stimulate Easter Seal donations.

He began at 12 noon Thursday, March 28, and continued until 5 p.m. Saturday, March 30. There was a speech by ECU President Leo W. Jenkins. Also on the rocker platform were Mayor Eugene West, City Manager Harry Haggerty, Dean of Men James B. Mallory and AEPi adviser Graham J. Burkholder Jr.

While the rocking went on, Breitman's fraternity brothers and their girls collected contributions to the Society for Crippled Children from passersby.

The society is the beneficiary of the annual sale of Easter Seals.

Breitman set his "Rock-Around the Clock" record on a roped off platform at Five Points in downtown Greenville.

LINDA WEST OF ANGEL FLIGHT

Angel Beauty Queen Competes For General

A blue-eyed "Angel" from East Carolina University will fly to New York this weekend to compete for a national beauty title.

Linda Lee West, 20-year-old junior business major from Burlington, will represent Area B-2, one of the nation's 17 areas, in competition for Little General of the Air Force ROTC's Arnold Air Society (AAS). Little General contestants are members of campus Angel Flights who have won Little Colonel titles in the 17 areas. The Angel Flight is the coed auxiliary organization to AAS.

Judges will pick five finalists. From them the cadets and officers attending the National AAS Conclave will elect the Little General for 1968. Finalists are selected for their beauty, scholarship, personality and Angel Flight activities. Miss West and other representatives from East Carolina will arrive in New York on Sunday, April 7. Conclave sessions and the Little General competition will take place April 8-11 at Manhattan College.

Miss West has brown hair and blue eyes. She stands 5-foot-4 and weighs 115. A 1965 graduate of Williams High School of Burlington, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noah H. West, 1509 Oklahoma Ave., Burlington.

At East Carolina she was Military Ball Queen in 1966 and a Buccaneer Queen runner-up this year. She is active at the local and area levels of Angel Flight and is treasurer of her sorority, Delta Zeta.

In Burlington she is well-known as the official Miss Burlington of 1968. She won that title early last year and gave it up last weekend as her successor for 1969 was crown-

Too Sudden A Change

Last week a directive came down from the Department of Business Administration, stating that a business administration major may not drop a course after the drop-add period has ended, unless he is willing to accept a failing grade.

This order was passed on the Office of the Registrar and has already gone into effect. The memorandum citing this change in policy made this quite clear, and requested that business administration advisors notify their advisees of the change.

This action by the Department of Business is a violation of the policy set in the East Carolina University handbook, which states that a student may drop a course after the drop-add period for a justifiable cause. Certain procedures for such dropping of courses must be followed, but the spirit of the policy clearly indicates that such action for good reasons is permissible.

Any change of this nature by any one of the many departments on campus has the result of invoking a double standard on the student body. The policy of all the departments should be uniform, especially in cases where the handbook makes such an obvious ruling.

It is true that under the present handbook policy the head of a department is to be consulted on any dropping of courses after the drop-add period is over. This does not give him the right to make such radical changes, especially in the middle of a quarter.

The Department of Business Administration should, and probably does, have good reasons for this change. They cannot be criticized, for their goal is to improve the standards of their department. What can be criticized, however, is their approach to the solution of the problem.

If such changes were proved necessary by circumstances in the department, it would have been much better for the department head to make an honest attempt to incorporate the revision in the school's general policy. If such an effort should fail, it would be the correct procedure for the department head to at least inform those students in the department of any such radical changes prior to the quarter of their institution.

Let's Not Be Hasty . . .

Members of the SGA subjected the grade requirements for holding of campus office to rather extensive scrutiny in meetings this week.

The requirements for elective office have in the past been a "C" (2.0) average. A recently proposed amendment to eliminate this requisite was downed by the SGA last week, and proposal to require a 2.2 average for elected offices was instituted.

This is not the kind of thing that can be approached lightly by the SGA. It can not be disposed of hurriedly, due to the far-reaching effects of any ruling on the subject.

Perhaps it would be best for the SGA to hold off any decision on the matter until a thorough check into what other schools are doing with regard to the problem has been made. This would give the proponents of both sides ample time to prepare their arguments, and would serve to provide some guidelines for the legislative body to follow.

Suggestions from other schools would not have to be followed by the SGA; but their value as measuring sticks for any proposed reform could prove invaluable.

Opportunities At Hand

Jim Gardner, Republican candidate for the G.O.P. nomination for governor, made a campaign visit to Greenville Monday, and Dr. Reginald Hawkins, a contender for the Democratic nomination for the gubernatorial office, paid a visit Wednesday, rounding out the slate of major candidates, all of whom have visited Greenville and the East Carolina area in the past months.

Earlier, Republican Jack Stickley and Democrats Mel Broughton and Bob Scott made campaign tours of the ECU area.

Regardless of one's personal political leanings in the upcoming primaries and elections, the opportunity to observe grass roots politics in North Carolina has been ample in the last month.

These visits by these well-known state political figures can give students a great deal of practical knowledge of the workings of state politics. Every student here will one day take a place in the realm of self-government, whether active or passive. Any experience gained while in college will be greatly beneficial in later political life, whether running for elected office or taking part in P.T.A. Thus, these unscheduled "educational events are very worthwhile to the student, and should be taken advantage of at every opportunity.

Business Ruling

To The Editor:

According to page 69, paragraph 2 of the official East Carolina "College" catalog, "After the last day to register or make any change in class schedule, a student who is passing may, for a justifiable cause, drop a course or courses with the approval of the Dean of the School or Chairman of the Department of the student's major area of study. If permitted to drop, no grade shall be recorded on the course or courses."

This held true for the university up until March 27, 1968. No longer, can a business administration major drop a course after the drop-add period without receiving a failing grade. Notice that this rule refers only to business administration majors. As of March 27, one individual saw fit to set all business administration majors apart from this rule.

In the words of the Chairman, a business administration major may drop a course after the drop-add period but upon doing so he will automatically receive a failing grade, regardless of what his grade may be.

Why is it not a student's prerogative to drop a course while passing and not receive credit? No longer does a student have the right to present his case to the chairman of the department.

To help justify his ruling, the chairman stated, "Any student who is overburdened or falling behind in one of his courses will have ample time during the Easter vacation to catch up."

It was also stated, "That the vast majority of students would not be affected by this rule."

If the vast majority are not affected by this rule, then why did he see fit to send out this memorandum?

Our question is this, why is the administration allowing this rule to take effect in the middle of the quarter?

Discrimination

To the Editor:

As a business administration major, I was one of the many students who were disturbed by the recent memorandum which was read in all business classes. According to the memorandum, no longer can a business administration major drop a course after the drop-add period without receiving a failing grade in the course. This policy change pertained only to business administration majors.

What is happening to the Business Department? Why do they make business administration majors exceptions to the catalog rule? Alas, why has the business department seen fit to "release" several professors with their terminal degrees while presently the school of business does not meet the requirements as a member of the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business?

If the chairman of the business administration department feels that he has the right to deny a student the right to show justifiable cause for dropping a course, why did he wait until the middle of the quarter to do so? Why wasn't the change in policy made known before the quarter began or made effective at the beginning of the next quarter?

Could it be that the Chairman of the Business Administration Department feels that he is "too busy" to hear a student's reason for dropping a course?

Is this the result of one individual's discriminatory practices???

Pseudoman's Beach Tips

By Charlie Mock & Larry Mulvihill

Since the Easter Beach Massacre's are drawing nigh, we of the EAST CAROLINIAN decided to present a look at what the well-dressed beachnik will be wearing at the beach riots of Easter break.

Of course a very necessary part of his beach wardrobe is a durable steel grey helmet with built-in sunglasses, for protection against sun-sand, and billy clubs. The helmet with sunglasses sells for five marks from Panzer Ltd.

Other necessary beach implements are a Family Living Textbook with the chapter on birth control underlined in red. (CU bookstore $6.95)

"Neck hugger" swim trunks, with alligator belt and money pocket for bail, is always a necessity. The trunks are sold by Mr. Pseudo $35.99.

Certainly no well-equipped beach boy would be caught without his six-pack of liquid nourishment. The six-pack is available anywhere for $1.50 and up.

The beach police are armed with the best riot control material this spring, so why not you too? You can buy your very own gas mask that doubles as a carrying bag for only $2.53 at any Army Surplus store.

Shoes are important to protect your feet from being burned, stepped on and run over. The very latest in shoes this year is Alligator tassel, wing top sandals from Conformity Productions, only $29.95.

And, of course, very important, is a dog tag, reading "If lost or passed out please return to . . ."

This first part of my column is directed to you — the reader. Some roach, of a censor got a hold of my last three columns and made me seem almost conciliatory toward the WRC. Those last three columns were mine essentially, only the words were changed to distort the meaning.

I now have a new editorial boss. He is a hard drinking bullet-dodging editor, whose first official act was to machine gun my censors. Oh, joy!

In case anyone is interested, I have two super columns sealed in a secret envelope. In the event of my dying mysteriously, they will be released to the public.

This is a salute to the Sigma Chi Delta's for a highly successful Derby Day. Sorority competition was, to say the least, very strong. It was like the Civil War all over again . . . sister against sister.

One unidentified boy tried to "hog" the limelight, by hiding in a sleeping bag. The sorority girl who scrambled into that sleeping bag was indeed surprised. All in all, the Sigma Chi's helped to unite the Greek of ECU much closer together.

Thrift Shop Department: Have you ever wondered what the SGA does with all their money? Well now it's out. There is approximately 90,000 American dollars tucked away in a nice bank, just sitting there drawing interest. What happens, if, in the future, some weak-willed treasurer decides to withdraw the money and go to Argentina?

The first Pi Kappa Phi "Woodsie" of the year was held this past weekend. With the exception of a smoky fire and rather wet ground, the "woodsie" went over quite well. Anyway, no one was drowned in the river and no one was carried off by the giant Tar River Mosquitoes.

Well, somebody finally destroyed the "Dixie - Study" Committee of last quarter. They were destroyed by . . . of course the SGA. I can think of no better way to stifle an issue than to relegate it one of the SGA Committees. The SGA committee system is a study in suspended animation.

'Report' Establishes Identity Point For Alumni

By RICHARD FOSTER
Manager Editor

The growth of the Alumni Association at East Carolina has been very evident in the past few years.

With the growth of the school has also come the growth of the Alumni.

One of the many recent efforts made by William P. Eyerman, director of Alumni Affairs, has been the REPORT, a 21 page publication for the alumni of ECU.

Eyerman said "We call the publication REPORT, because it is one. We try to give the alumni an idea of what is going on at EC and what changes have been made.

The basic plan of the magazine is to give a brief history of what has occurred at EC, a section concerning what is going on now, and a larger portion devoted to the projection of future occurrences. Eyerman feels that the Alumni are becoming more interested in the plans of the University.

"This is just the beginning," said Eyerman. "This is the first such publication for EC, but it is hoped that many more will follow. There is presently a tentative plan for three 30 page issues next year."

The three issues would deal respectively with instruction, research, and service at the University. Each aspect will be viewed in the light of yesterday, today, and tomorrow.

"Communication is very important to the University today in view of the increasing expansion of the institution," said Eyerman. "It is important for us to keep in touch with, and keep the support of the alumni.

One of his main problems, he feels, is trying to get EC's graduates of 1916 to identify with the ECU of today. The 1916 Alumnae graduated from a closely knit "woman's school," and find nothing familiar in today's University.

"Some schools have completely academic publications, and others have completely literary. ECU tries to be between the two, and have the best characteristics of both," said Eyerman.

The objective in having this type publication is to try to reach as many of the 20,000 Alumni as possible with things interesting to them.

Another important duty of the REPORT is to tell the Alumni how their money is spent, since the Alumni Association is self-supporting through contributions. Last year, the Alumni received $15,000 from 1400 contributors, which gives an average of about $12 per contributor.

It is interesting to note that the most active Alumni are those who were most active as undergraduates. Eyerman would like for all the students at ECU to realize that they will some day be Alumni of the institution. "For as student interest increases, the feeling for the Alma Mater also increases, and interest must continue after graduation."

Eyerman likened the Alumni Association to the SGA, except that, "the SGA is an outlet for student emotions, and the Alumni Association is an outlet for the emotions of Alumni." This comparison can be illustrated by the fact that both groups handle the same people, the SGA when they are undergraduates, and the Alumni Association after graduation.

However, Eyerman expressed a desire to see the ECU Alumni Association be as effective in its field as the SGA is on campus. He would like to see the Alumni voice felt at ECU, and this can be done only "if the Alumni care enough to make their feelings known."

Poli Sci 233 Conducts Class Tour Of Europe

By TOM HOSTETTER

Political science class meets in Western Europe from June 8 to July 20.

Dr. Hans H. Indorf will supervise and teach Political Science 233, political processes in Western Europe. The most interesting aspect of this routine course description is that the class meets 7 days a week in London, Paris, Brussels, Bonn, Berlin, Amsterdam, and Luxembourg.

East Carolina is sponsoring a tour of five European countries for 19 students.

Dr. Indorf and the 19 students will depart from New York on June 8 aboard the M-S Aurelia bound for London, England. Also on the ship will be some 2,000 students from throughout the country.

With Dr. Indorf will be 17 East Carolina students, one from Duke University and one from Greensburg College. Their main interest will be in studying the contribution of pressure groups in Western Europe. They will attend lectures and be given interviews with prominent citizens of the communities.

The course gives 9 hours of credit and a research paper must be turned in after the trip has been completed. The student will spend about 6 hours a day listening to lectures and interviewing city leaders. The rest of his day could be spent shopping on Champ-Elysees in Paris or in the Bonn beer gardens.

Dr. Indorf is no newcomer to world traveling. He was born overseas, has been present on many such tours, and has traveled around the world 3 times.

Master Sergeant McNally Joins EC's Ranks

By JOHN FLOARS

Joseph W. McNally is a rather unusual ECU sophomore. First, he is 41 years old. Second, he has completed 24 years of active duty in the Marine Corps, is a Master Sergeant, and has seen duty in World War II, Korea, and Viet Nam.

His wife teaches at Camp Lejeune, and he has a daughter who will be attending school here with her father, an education major, next fall.

From Viet Nam to ECU is a sizeable jump, but by his own admission he has made a good, even a pleasant, adjustment.

He is a likeable person — his friends can vouch for that — and is opinionated in an agreeable way. On being in college: "I had joined the Marine Corps when I was fifteen years old . . . and when I came out I was a little bit leery about how I'd be accepted. I've never had anything to do with civilian life. I mean I was a kid when I first joined the Marine Corps. It was a little strange at first, but I've become accustomed to it.

In student protesters: "I have a dim view of it. I respect everybody's right to protest; I think it should be done. And to the limited extent we have around here, I have no objections to any protest as long as it's in the realm of responsibility. In other words, I'll listen to a protester, but let him listen to me, too."

On continuing education: "Get your four years of college first, then go (into the military). You've got a better chance because you can have a commission, and you don't have to worry about coming back and starting over again."

WW II Marine Goes Collegiate

On the draft: "I agree with Selective Service policy to this extent: You have got to have a standing army. We cannot have it on a voluntary basis. You just figure; I stay up here during the week and see my family on weekends and holidays. I have more time at home now than I have in the past five years. Now in 24 years, if I'd gotten paid for overtime and double time, I'd have had a fortune made.

"So you're not going to have a volunteer army of any kind; you're going to have to draft people . . . as long as there's any trouble in the world."

On the war in Viet Nam: "World War II was bad; Korea was worse. Viet Nam is — a bucket of worms. In Viet Nam, you don't know who your enemy is. A couple of years ago, you could go into town and talk to people during the day, and they'd tell you, 'Listen, don't come around tonight; I'm a VC.' And there was nothing you could do; the South Vietnamese government controls the policy of how civilians are handled.

"Over there, a seven-year-old kid would as soon drop a grenade on you as look at you. It's not a pretty place, and it's not a nice place . . .

"The people back here say 'Why are we doing this? They don't know what they are or what they want.' In the first place, we're Occidentals and they're Orientals, and you've got to think like an Oriental to understand them.

"They don't know what they want, no, but they'd want better than they'd get if we pull out. And we can't pull out. Because if we give up there, we give up Laos, Cambodia, the Philippines, Japan, even Hawaii, including Australia and New Zealand. And we just can't afford that. There may be better ways of doing it, but that's up to the Commander-in-Chief and his people."

On his experiences: "Exciting is something different to every person. When I was a kid, it was to see the summer. When I was grown up, it was to see the world and Father Klein. When I was older it was joining the Marine Corps, my first campaign in World War II, when I met my wife and got married, when my daughter was born, when I got a medal.

Right now, my most exciting experience is — right now, I'm in college; that's it, that's just it."

Gardner Discusses Campaign Issues At Rally

By BEV CARAWAN

Fourth District Congressman Jim Gardner, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor reaffirmed his position of being "strongly in favor of independent university status for East Carolina."

In private interview at his birthday rally Monday, Gardner went on to promise that he would strengthen the independence when the issue comes up during the term of office for which he is aspiring.

The candidate enthusiastically endorsed attempts to lower the voting age to 18.

When asked his opinion of the

Catacombs Boasts Entertainment, Friendly Service

RITA L. BEST
Features Editor

Need a place to go and let down your hair while you are listening to the latest music? Have you tried the Catacombs? The Last Resort will be featured at the Catacombs Friday night at 8:00.

The only charge will be a 50 cents cover charge, however this does not go into the "coffers" of the Catacombs itself. The Catacombs is a non-profit organization that in no way intends to compete with the other establishments in Greenville.

"Although the Catacombs serves hot cider instead of beer, we strive to maintain a high level of personal interest in our customers," according to Keith Lane, manager of the Catacombs. "We provide him with a diversity of entertainment. We offer him our cordial friendship. We use first names. We smile. In summation, we try in every way to give our customers the best, from our well run kitchen to our fast, efficient waiters."

draft law, Gardner indicated that he feels that there should be a revision but emphasized that "the commitment in Vietnam allows no immediate change."

Relating his reactions to the recently announced bombing halt in Vietnam, Gardner proclaimed, "Stopping the bombing gets nowhere. Appeasement of the Communists is impossible," he continued. "We ought to get down to the serious business of winning."

Gardner predicted that "violence and property damage" would be the result of the proposed March on Washington. He warned that rather than accept the "blackmail-like move," Congress would "be more likely to swing the other way" in the struggle for standardized wages.

About 1,000 people, including many EC students, gathered to hear the Republican gubernatorial candidate pledge to help the Eastern part of the state to get her "FAIR SHARE" from the state government. While vowing that he will not be "an Eastern governor", Gardner declared that he was tired of "riding down the same old roads that the Democrats have been 'building' in the East for 67 years."

He announced plans to appoint a "task force of 50 business, professional, farming, and women leaders" to formulate a plan of development that would enable Raleigh to "stop promising, but also start giving some action."

Gardner noted that the 1968 election is the "greatest opportunity in 67 years." He challenged the crowd to "work harder" for what he predicted to be a Republican landslide from the local to the national level.

"I'm not satisfied to sit back and say what's wrong with North Carolina," he emphasized. The candidate continued, "I'm tired of seeing North Carolina rank 44th in education, 40th in teachers salaries, 43rd in per capita income, 50th in industrial wages, and 51st (with Puerto Rico thrown in) in roads."

The rally was in the style of "old time" political gatherings complete with barbecue dinners, a pep band, attractive Gardner Girls, and a new addition — a birthday cake in the shape of North Carolina. Ed Rawl, Pitt County Chairman of Gardner for Governor made the arrangements for the celebration of the congressman's 35th birthday.

Two candidates for the Republican nomination for United States Senate appeared. Ed Tenney of Chapel Hill declined to endorse any one Republican candidate. Instead he endorsed all of his party's slate. Robert Vance Sommers reported his "political suicide in Salisbury" — that of endorsing Gardner for governor. He vows that he will "risk all on the election of Jim Gardner."

Reece Gardner of Kinston, candidate for Congress from the First District, predicted "a great and smashing victory" to be caused by "effort on all parts." He called for "a dedicated, concentrated, and determined effort to bring a real victory for 'common sense' government at home and abroad."

Numerous candidates for Council of State made brief appearances. Included were Dr. John P. East, candidate for Secretary of State; Mr. Claude Green, running for Commissioner of Agriculture; Everett L. Peterson, aspiring to be commissioner of Insurance; and Elton Combs, candidate for Lieutenant Governor.

Praising Richard M. Nixon's qualifications for President, Gardner stated that "Nixon is the leading nominee." His experience would allow him to fill the "vacuum of leadership" left at this time according to Congressman Gardner.

Gardner expressed his opinion that the North Carolina governor should have veto power like his 49 counterparts. He also emphasized that since "it is impossible to start and finish programs in four years," a governor should be allowed to succeed himself.

Wayne, Mitchum Star In Western

Exciting western adventure will be on hand this Friday evening at 7 and 9 in Wright Auditorium. The campus film for this week will be "El Dorado," starring John Wayne and Robert Mitchum.

The plot concerns a feared gunman returning to the town of El Dorado. He has come back to repay an old personal debt to a man who once saved him from a lynch mob.

Beta Gamma Sigma

A new chapter of Beta Gamma Sigma has been organized in the School of Business. Beta Gamma Sigma is an honorary scholastic society for students, faculty members, and alumni of member schools of the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business. In fact, it is the only learned or honor society recognized by AACSB. The Society was founded in 1913 and currently has 114 collegiate chapters and an alumni roster of more than 50,000 members.

The purposes of the Society are set forth in its constitution and are:

- to encourage and reward scholarship and accomplishment among students of business administration;
- to promote the advancement of education in the art and science of business, and to foster integrity in the conduct of business operations;
- Beta Gamma Sigma is the highest scholastic honor that a student in business administration can win. Requirements for membership are an overall B average, with seniors being in the top 10 percent of their class and third-quarter juniors being in the top 4 percent of their class.

There are only two other chapters in North Carolina, Beta (1961) at Wake Forest University and Alpha (1933) at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. Dean Gaines N. Rogers of the School of Business Administration at Wake Forest will be the installing officer. The initiation ceremonies will be held on April 8, 1968 at 6:00 p.m. in Rawl. This will be followed by a banquet at 7:00 in the Buccaneer Room.

Panhellenic Council

The Panhellenic Council has elected new officers for 1968-69.

They are: Patricia Montgomery (ADPi), president; Dawn Flye (AOE), vice-president; Sharon Bradner (Alpha Phi), recording secretary; Jane Ricketts (Alpha Xi Delta), corresponding secretary; Susan Zierath (Chi Omega), treasurer; Ann Breeze (Delta Zeta), rush chairman; Janet Bickham (KD), Parliamentarian; and Sherry Robertson (Sigma Sigma Sigma), chaplain.

The new president, Miss Montgomery, said "We hope to strengthen our organization."

Library Systems Change Widely

A new check-out procedure for library books is now in effect. The return date will be stamped on the white book card which will be left in the book pocket. The green call slip the student fills out will remain in the library as the ONLY record of where the book is. Therefore, it is MOST IMPORTANT that each call slip be carefully printed, giving all the information called for, since errors will create problems for the user and the library.

PROCEDURE FOR OVERDUES: One notice for overdue books will be mailed to the student. Fine is three cents per day if paid when book is returned. Late payment raises the fine to five cents per overdue day.

At the end of the quarter, all students with unpaid fines will be referred to the dean, along with all students still having books overdue.

then the Panhellenic Council even more in the coming year. We have new ideas in almost every phase of Greek life. We also plan to participate in Greek Week this year for the first time in recent years."

The Panhellenic Council is the governing body of the sororities on campus. It works closely with the Interfraternity Council to further the interests of the Greek life. The Council oversees rushing, pledging, initiation, and the general welfare of the sororities.

SAM

The Society for the Advancement of Management (SAM) has elected officers for the 1968-'69 school year. Edward Carlson of Charlotte will serve as president for the coming year. A rising senior, Carlson is a marketing major. He will succeed Ronald Ketcham of Jacksonville.

Serving with him will be Thomas Spivey of Sanford, vice president; John Stone of Goldsboro, treasurer; and Rebecca Yarbrough of Lexington, secretary.

Organized in the ECU School of Business in 1959, SAM is a national professional organization. Its purpose is "to develop human resources and to provide business with a better product to train, mold and refine."

Gamma Beta Phi

The Lambda Chapter of Gamma Beta Phi elected the following officers Monday night, March 25: George W. Bright, III, president; Carolyn Westbrook, vice president; Rebecca Langley, secretary; Judy Coggins, attendance officer; Helen Berry, treasurer; and Frances Scott, historian-reporter. The installation of these officers took place April 1. The induction of the new pledges will be held on Monday, April 22. To become a member of the Gamma Beta Phi Society, a person must have been a member of the National Beta Club in high school, he must have an overall average of at least 2.5 in his college work, and he must display outstanding character.

Gamma Beta Phi is totally a service organization and is concerned with being of help to the various campus-wide and community endeavors. During the past year the two primary service projects were the Faculty Evaluation and Greenville's OPERATION SANTA CLAUS for retarded children. It is around this type of service project that our activities will be centered for the next academic year.

GBPhi acquired a new advisor at the outset of this year to replace Mrs. Elizabeth Dansey. He is Dr. K. L. Swindwani of the sociology and anthropology department.

Sigma Alpha Iota

Sigma Alpha Iota, professional music sorority, has initiated 12 new members.

They are Martha Blakenship of Weaverville, Susan Ann Broadhurst of Wilson, Judith Cliborne of Union Level, Va., Stephanie Fouts of Highland Springs, Va., Trudy Johnson of Fayetteville, Sara Liles of Gibson, Pat Logemann of Rocky Mount, Margaret Long of Severn, Dorothy Mills and Donna King of Raleigh, and Ann Weaver Schooley of Williamsport, Pa.

The new members were chosen for their leadership, musicianship and personality. Each was required to maintain a C average on all academic subjects and a B average on music courses.

190 Applications Filed For English Positions

Approximately 190 applications have been filed for the 6 or 7 vacant positions on the English staff for Fall quarter.

According to Dr. Erwin Hester, Chairman of English Composition, the large number of applications was due to an extensive campaign conducted by Dr. C. G. Wiley, Chairman of the English Department.

At present, 6 applicants have been accepted. They are:

Mary Elizabeth Hart, now teaching at UCLA. She received her A.B. from the University of Arizona and her M.A. from the University of California at Davis, where she is now working toward her Ph.D. She will specialize in 18th century British Literature.

Theodore Ellis, at present teaching at Lake Forest College, Illinois. He received his A.B. at Duke and his M.A. at Northwestern University, where he is working toward his Ph.D. His specialty is drama.

Donald Lawler, presently at Loyola University, Chicago. He was granted his A.B. from Georgetown University and his M.A. from Columbia University, and is working toward his Ph.D. at the University of Chicago. He will concentrate in late 19th century British Literature.

William Pixton, with A.B. and M.A. degrees from George Washington University. He is working toward his Ph.D. at UNC-Chapel Hill, where he is also teaching part time. He will teach the Romantic Period of English Literature.

Mrs. Virginia Ayscue, now working toward her Ph.D. at UNC-Chapel Hill. She received her A.B. from UNC-Greensboro and her M.A. from Appalachian. Mrs. Ayscue has a major in education and a minor in English, and will be primarily supervising practice teachers.

Mrs. Dorothy Mills, now teaching at Patrick-Henry College of the University of Virginia, Martinsville, Va. She received her A.B. from Duke and her M.A. from UNC-Chapel Hill. She has had additional courses at the University of London and UNC-Chapel Hill.

Several members of the English staff who have been absent on leave will be returning next fall. Dr. John D. Ebbs, secretary of the North Carolina English Teachers Association, will be returning after a 2-year leave of absence. He is at present working with the Tri-University project in elementary education at the University of Nebraska. Dr. Ebbs will teach English Renaissance.

Page Shaw will be returning after a leave of absence to work for his Ph.D. at the University of Delaware. Also returning will be Mrs. Myra Cain and Mrs. JoAnne Jones, both absent on maternity leave. This will give the English Department a staff of 48-50 for next year.

Gridders Recruit Rockingham Boys

John Brothers and Matt Walker, who starred last season for Rockingham High's Rickets, have signed football grants with East Carolina University.

The high school teammates were signed by Odell Welborn of the East Carolina coaching staff. They bring to eight the number of boys who have signed grants with the Pirates.

Besides their football ability, both boys are good students, ranking well up in the upper quarter of their classes and scoring above 900 on their college boards.

Brothers is the son of Mrs. A. R. Brothers of 1024 Midway Road, and is an offensive halfback. On defense he played linebacker. Standing 6-0 and weighing 188, he earned all conference recognition in both basketball and football.

Walker, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Worth Walker of 803 Hillcrest, was also a halfback on offense, but was regarded as an outstanding defensive secondary man.

Coach Bill Dutsler is high in his praise of both boys and added of Walker: "He is one of the finest past defense backs I've ever had and has a burning desire to play college football."

"We feel both boys have outstanding futures at East Carolina and I am please they have decided to become Pirates," Welborn said.

The Pirate gridiron coaching staff recently entertained two of their outstanding prospects for next year. Visiting the campus were Bill Eutslee, coach of Rockingham High, and two of his players who are coming to ECU, John Brothers and Matt Walker. They are talking with Odell Welborn of the Buc coaching staff.

Golfers Beat W&M In First Home Match

After breaking even on the road with a loss at Campbell College and a win at St. Andrews College, East Carolina's golf team played their first home match last Monday and beat William & Mary in a Southern Conference match by 15-9. Today, the golfers take on V.M.I. in another SC match.

The match is scheduled to start at 1 o'clock, with all home matches played at the Brook Valley Country Club.

Coach Johnny Welborn feels the team has a good chance of winning the Southern Conference championship. "We hope to more than break even during the regular season play," he said, "but we are directing all our efforts towards preparing for the conference tournament which will be played at The Dunnes Country Club, Myrtle Beach, S.C. on May 6, 7, and 8. That is where the conference championship is decided."

Coach Welborn bases his championship hopes on four returning starters from a team that finished second in the Southern Conference last year, a junior college transfer, three golfers who moved up from last year's freshmen team, and two freshmen that have shown plenty of promise.

Although 37 aspirants tried out for the team, the roster has been cut to only 11 golfers.

The four returning lettermen are:

Mike Schlueter, a junior from Greensboro, who last year finished fifth out of 54 golfers in the conference; Howard Premar, a senior from Greensboro, described by Coach Welborn as, "an excellent golfer who has been number one or two man on the team for the past three years"; Jack Williams, a junior from Hickory, who Coach Welborn described as, "the mainstay of the team last year, and is expected to improve this year"; and Phill Buzzelli, a junior from Anderson, S.C., also returns from last year's team.

Joining the four returning lettermen is Marshall Utterson, a junior from Red Bank, N.J., who transferred from Mt. Olive Junior College, where he was the conference champion. Utterson has done very well in the three matches already played.

Four sophomores and two freshmen make up the rest of the team. Mike O'Briant, a soph from Greensboro, is expected to become one of Welborn's top golfers; Wally Howard, a soph from Durham has shown plenty of promise as he now holds the course record at Brook Valley, where the golfers have their home matches; Vernon and Joe Tyson, sophs from Durham are steadily improving, and the two freshmen, Vance Whicker from Greensboro, and Jerry Hart from Raleigh, round out the team.

Pirates Lose Lead In Ninth As Batters End In 5-5 Tie

The Bucs blew a three run lead in the ninth inning to Brown University and had to settle for a 5-5 tie when darkness set in after Brown came to bat in the 13th inning.

Brown rallied from a 5-2 deficit to tie the game on a double, error, and three singles. Without the error, Brown would have gotten only

Medalist Schlueter Leads Golf Team

The East Carolina golf team, led by medalist Mike Schlueter, beat the William & Mary Indians by 15-9. Winning their second match in three tries, the match was also the first Southern Conference match of the season, as the Bucs took six of the eight matches.

Besides Schlueter, who was medalist with a 73, Marshall Utterson carded a 74, and Wally Howard came in with a 75.

Summary:
Mike Schlueter (ECU) defeated Dan Rizzo, 3-0.
Mike O'Briant (ECU) defeated Leslie Watson, 2-1.
Howard Parmer (ECU) defeated Carl Christensen, 2-1.
Marshall Utterson (ECU) defeated Worth Banner, 3-0.
Wally Howard (ECU) defeated Steve Demchuk, 3-0.
Vernon Tyson (ECU) defeated Mike Eberhardt, 2-1.
Mike Parker (W&M) defeated Joe Tyson, 3-0.
Mike Parker (W&M) defeated Steve Isaacs (W&M) defeated Steve Buzzelli, 3-0.

one run in the ninth and the Bucs would have won by 5-3.

East Carolina scored first on a solo homer by Jimmy Lanier in the Buc half of the first inning.

Brown scored two in the third on one hit as a combination of three walks and two sacrifice bunts loaded the bases. John Rallis then slapped a single to center for two runs and a 2-1 Brown lead.

The Bucs tied it up in the fourth. Dave Winchester singled and went to second on Stu Garrett's ground out. Roy Taylor then sliced a single to right center to tie the game as Winchester scored.

In the sixth, the Bucs broke out on top with two unearned runs for a 4-2 lead. Jim Snyder opened the inning with a walk, but he was erased one out later on Winchester's grounder as the play went to second for the force on Snyder. Stu Garrett reached on an error, putting runners on first and second with two out. Taylor again delivered the big hit as he drilled a double up the alley to left-center scoring both Winchester and Garrett.

Brown had a big threat squashed by Vince Colbert in the seventh. The big righthander got himself into trouble by loading the bases on a single, error, and hit-batsman, and then pitched out of it by striking out the next three batters. He continued his strikeout skein into the eighth where he struck out the first two batters for five in a row before the string was broken by a ground out.

Snyder gave East Carolina a 5-2 lead when he hit his third homer of the year in the eighth.

Then came the almost fatal ninth inning. Colbert was still the Buc pitcher, but Coach Smith had made wholesale changes in the lineup as Garrett was the only starter left in the game.

Mike Maznicki led off the Brown ninth with a double and went to third when Tom Skenderian grounded out. Dan Stewart reached first on an error while Maznicki held ground at third. Rallis then singled in Maznicki with Stewart going to third. Ron Kierdman singled in Stewart, and after Armstrong struck out, DuBay singled in Rallis to tie the game. Dennis Burke came in to retire the side without further damage.

Neither team mounted a threat until the Bucs' rally was cut short in the twelfth.

Carey Anderson reached second when his pop fly to left was dropped. Russ Edmundson was walked intentionally, putting runners at first and second with none out. Anderson scooted to third on a wild pitch that the catcher blocked down the third base line.

Bobby Norman hit a slow grounder to second, but Anderson held his ground and massed the chance to score. The Bucs then tried a suicide squeeze, but Garrett missed the pitch and Anderson was caught in a rundown and tagged out. Garrett then ended the Buc's last chance by striking out.

Crew Team Splashes Ahead To Break Course Records

The East Carolina crew team swept both races from Marist College last Saturday to move their record to 4-6. In both the jayvee and varsity races, the record for the mile and a quarter course was broken.

The jayvees won by two and one half lengths in a time of 7:39.0, which was five seconds faster than the record set last year.

The varsity then came out and went the mile and a quarter in 7:33.0, and won by four lengths.

Coach Vic Pezzhlla was very pleased with the performance of both crews, and he had every right to be.

The next race will also be at home as the crew teams take on the University of Virginia this Saturday on the Tar River. Starting time is 2:00 p.m., with the finishing line at the Evans Street bridge.

Federico Fellini's spectacular film, "Juliet of the Spirits" is presented by the Intercollegiate Film Committee on Tuesday, April 23, at 7 p.m. in Wright Auditorium.

The film, which stars Gullietta Masina, has numerous awards from major countries of the world, including New York Film Critics' Award, the Golden Globe Award, the National Catholic Award, the National Board of Review Award, and placement on ten lists of the year's best films.

The plot of the film is a tale of a woman who lives in the shadow of a beautiful mother and is plagued by her sister's unfaithfulness. She begins to envision spirals and torture her mind in several ways to reach self-consultations with a leader, the hiring of a detective on her husband, and the complete abandonment of her wild solid life. However, she helps and she is still plagued by spirits. Finally she has to grapple with the spirits and the problem for herself.

An interesting aspect of the film is that the apparitions are the same substance as the characters and vice-versa. A confusion between fact and reality is created, which is the film's own confusion of the reality. The film is a colorful riot of out-fashion, exotic
