Parents' Day Saturday

Campus Doors Open Wide For Annual Pirates Parents' Day

By MARY ALLEN

This coming Saturday, September 21, ECU will observe its annual "Parents' Day" in a campus-wide open house program for parents of ECU students, sponsored by the Student Government Association and the University Union.

Jackie Daniel of Raleigh, student chairman of special events, says the event is planned to give parents a special opportunity to see the growing ECU campus. Upon arriving on campus, the parents will view the great changes which have occurred since "Parents' Day" only a year ago.

Some new buildings have been constructed and are in use and a few of the original buildings have been destroyed in order to provide adequate space for new womens' dorms.

Wilson Dorm, previously occupied by women students, was torn down during the early part of the summer and temporarily in its place is a much needed parking area used by dorm students. Old Austin, originally a classroom building, is also being destroyed, and in the space gained from this will be used to construct a new dormitory.

The new additions to the ECU campus include the construction and occupation of the School of Nursing and Home Economics complex, the School of Music, a new womens' dorm, and Minges Coliseum.

Several buildings are presently under construction. These include a new womens' dorm, the new science complex, a new classroom building which will be the largest on campus, and a new high-rise mens' dormitory.

At 2:00 p.m. the football game will begin at Ficklen Stadium where the parents will note the newly dedicated students' section which will seat 10,000 people.

Jerry Hicks, chairman of the Union Social Committee, is planning a special open house following the football game. Open house will begin at 4:00 p.m. and last until 5:30 p.m. Special refreshments will be served and everyone will be entertained by the jazz music of the Allen Moore Trio.

Dan Snead, president of the Union, states, "The Union Committee members cordially invite all students to bring their parents and other guests to our open house."

Also open to visitors will be classroom buildings and fraternity houses.

There will be a concert presented on the mall at 8:00 p.m. which will bring "Parents' Day" to a close.

PLANS CONCERT—The Karl Boxer Trio, will provide entertainment for Parent's Day Saturday, as they perform in a mall concert. Other items on the agenda for the big day for mammas and pappas are the football game in Ficklen and an open house in the University Union.

Karl Boxer Trio Set EC Mall In Swing For Parents

By JAMES HORD

The Karl Boxer Trio, well-known jazz group, will appear in concert at 8:00 p.m. Saturday on the ECU Mall, as part of the Parent's Day attractions to be held all day Saturday.

Accompanying pianist Karl Boxer will be drummer Tim Smith, and bassman Dave Young.

Hailing from New York, Karl Boxer has performed at many colleges, night clubs, and is currently performing at the Pecan Grove Supper Club in Charlotte, N. C.

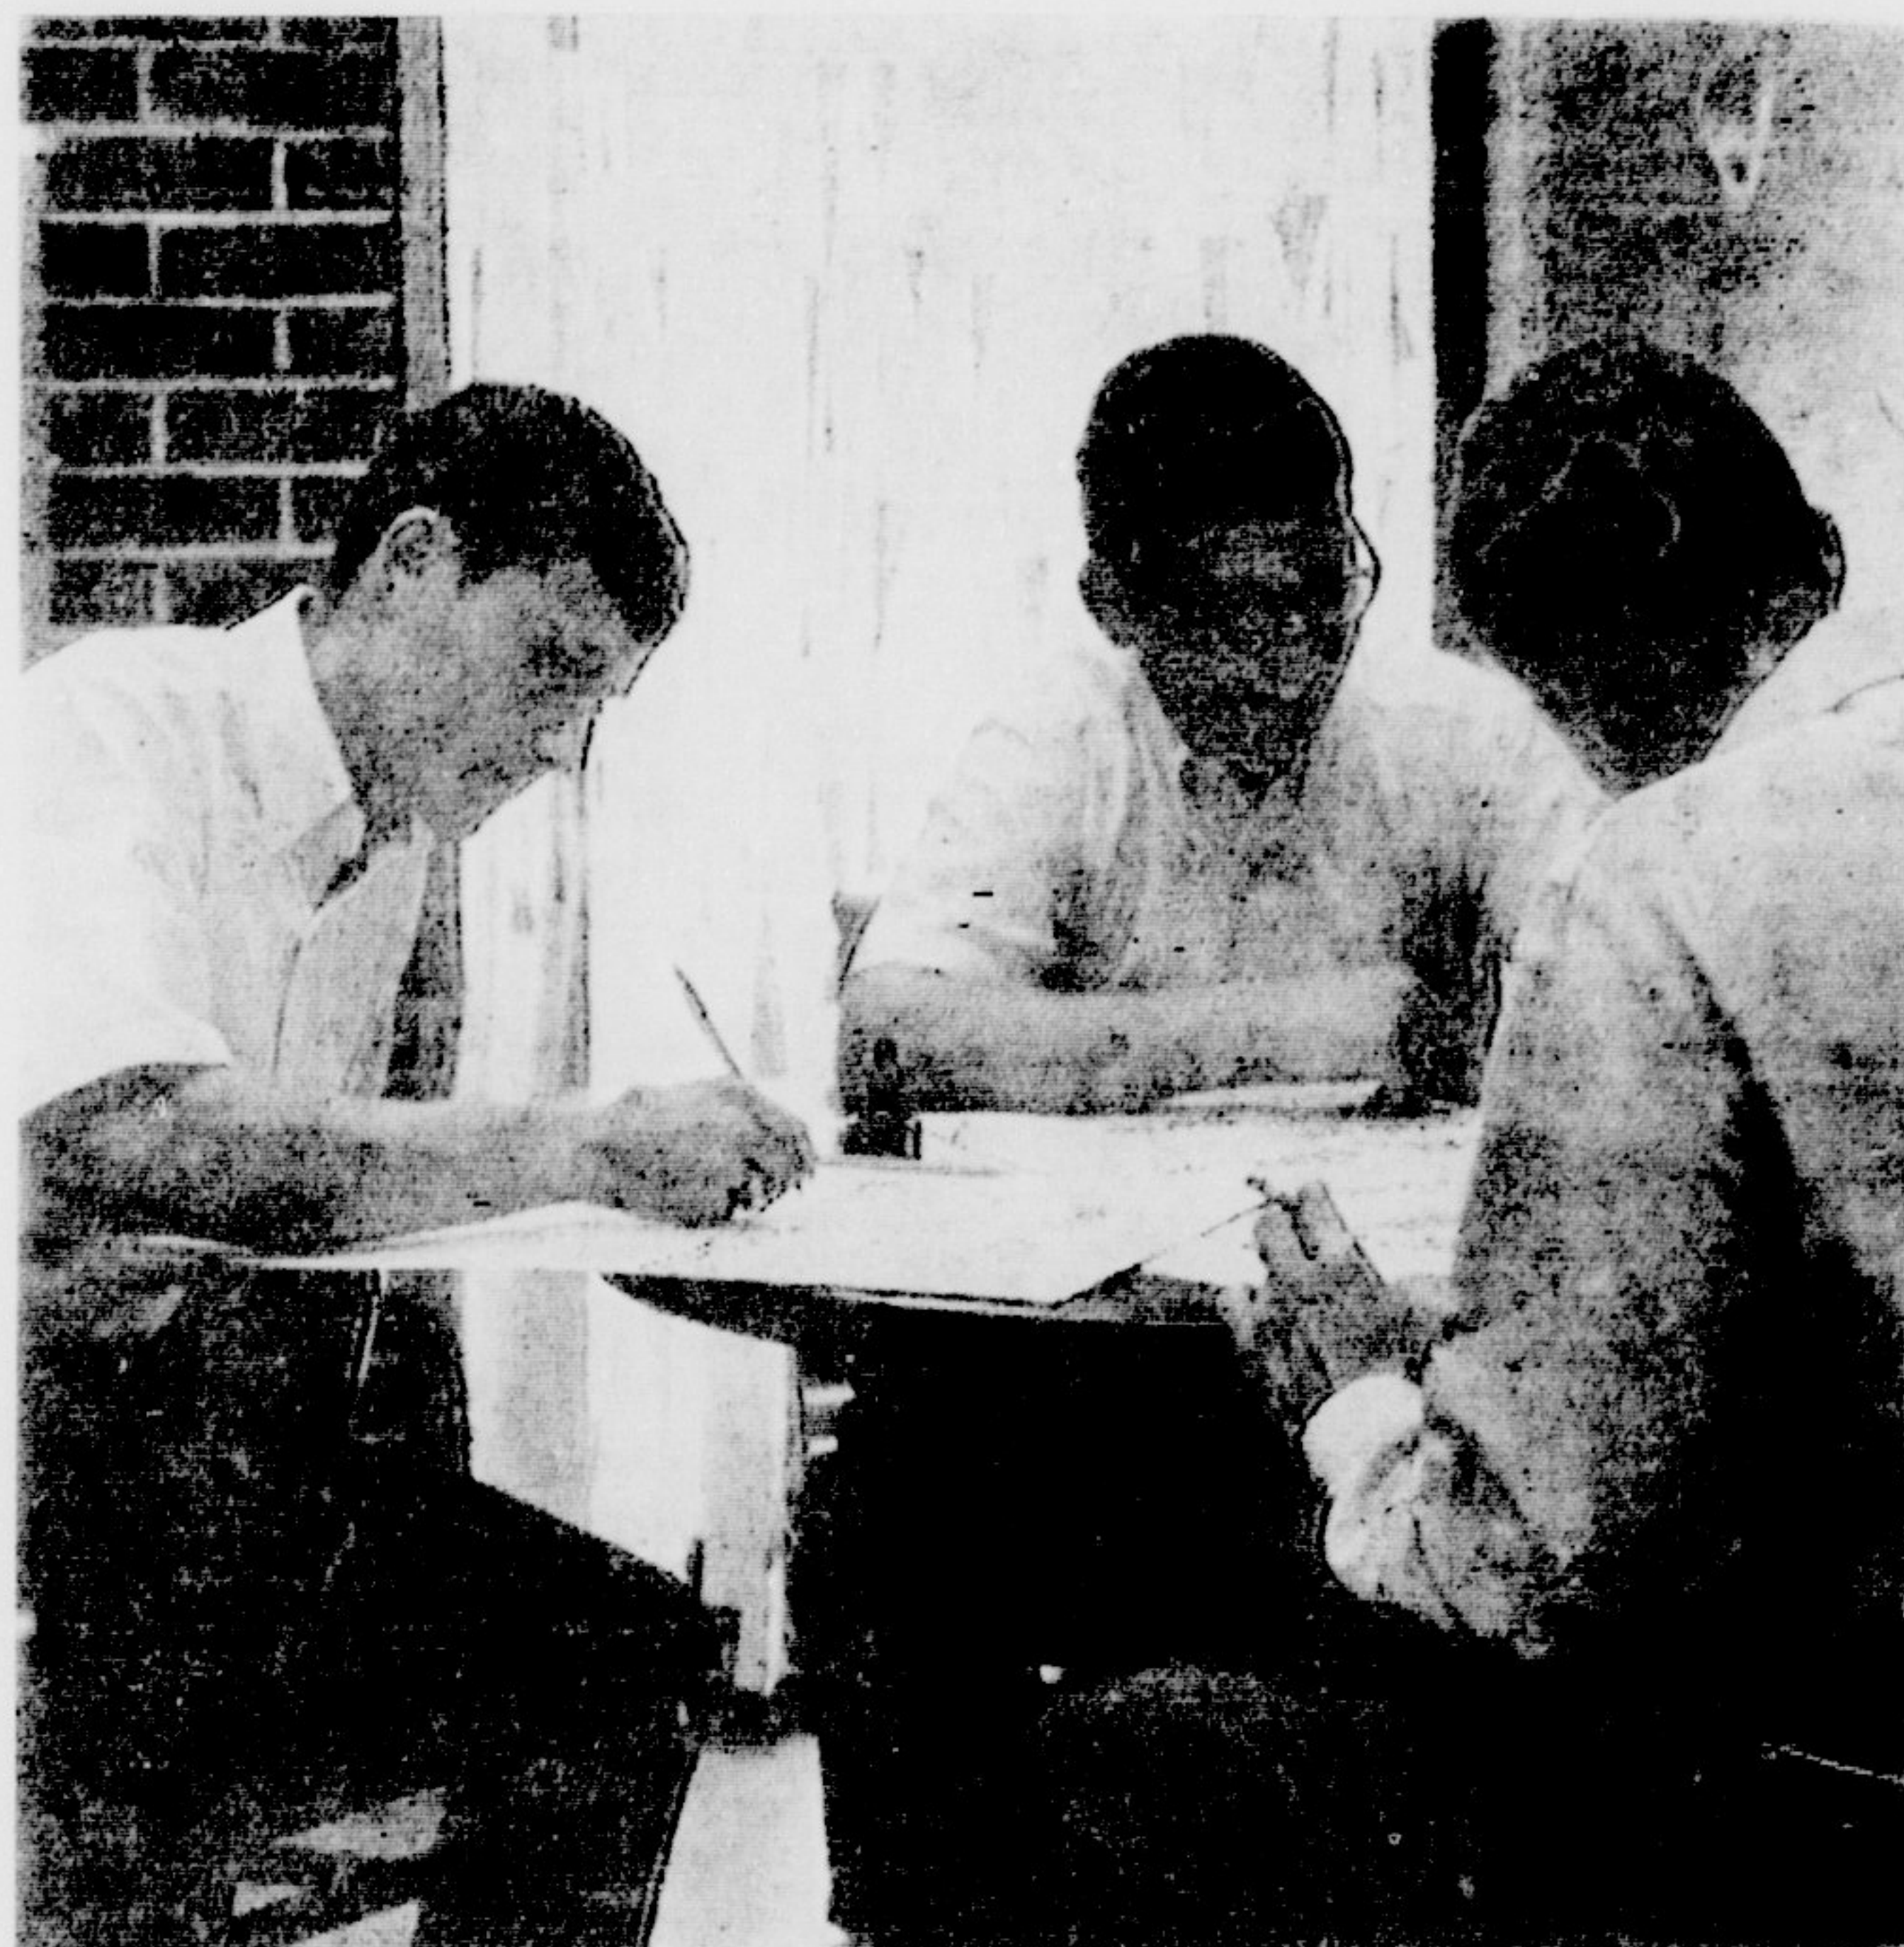

Press reviews have ranged from "bursting with fresh ideas" to "brilliant performance."

The Trio may be described as the most recent example of a musical group becoming an overnight success. Before Karl Boxer started recording for Dot Records, many years were spent playing with pit bands, unknown jazz combos, house bands, etc. He decided to support and augment his command of the keyboard with the instrumentation of brass and drums. This was the key to his instant success. Now he could fully express himself in a truly creative manner.

His music may be described as a blend of classics and jazz, interwoven with his own unique style that appeals to young audiences.

Admission is free to the concert, and all students, faculty, and parents are invited to attend. Other Parent's Day attractions include the football game with William & Mary, and open house for all parents. Campus coordinators for Parent's Day are Jackie Daniel (SGA), and Cynthia Mendenhall (CU).

SETTING UP—Members of the committee in charge of the University Union open house for Parent's Day Saturday have been hard at work making posters and devising other publicity for the event.

Playhouse Secures Rights To Broadway-Bound Play

The East Carolina University Playhouse, which two years ago scored a coup with the first non-professional company production of "Marat/Sade," may repeat this season.

Director Edgar R. Loessin, who doubles as producer of the professional ECU Summer Theatre, has announced that the only non-professional company production rights to "The Sorrows of Frederick" by Romulus Linney have been secured for the third playhouse production of the 1968-'69 season.

The ECU production is scheduled next Feb. 12-15, before the show makes its Broadway debut in the 1969-'70 season.

The Linney play, which drew highly favorable reviews after its premiere at the Mark Taper Forum Theatre in Los Angeles, tells the story of Frederick the Great.

In the Los Angeles production, directed by Albert ("Man of La Mancha") Marre, Fritz Weaver starred in the title role.

Playwright Linney will be on hand for the ECU production, Loessin said, and a Broadway actor will play Frederick.

Loessin also announced a playhouse schedule which includes the musical, "Oliver" (Oct. 22-26), and the Paul Shyre-John Dos Passos cavalcade, "U.S.A.," a concert-type play of biography, news and fiction woven together in an early 20th century setting (Nov. 11-14).

Books And Crooks

Books, an item considered by most educators as the very cornerstone of an education, are rapidly becoming the cornerstone of controversy and headaches for most East Carolina students.

The problem with textbooks centers around two major areas on this campus: book thefts and textbook changes. Both are sufficiently important to warrant attention.

Each quarter is characterized by a wave of book thefts in its opening days, followed by a corresponding increase some time later in the number of cases before student judicial bodies.

Ideally, textbooks should be respected as private property by the entire student body. However, every quarter there are some few foolish souls who attempt to steal their fellow students' books and then sell them to bookstores. It is indeed a sad fact that such a situation exists among supposedly mature students at a major university.

Almost as sad as the actual wrong of such thefts is the utter absurdity of the commission of such an act, for the chances of being caught for the theft are almost 99 percent.

Under the system used by both the campus bookstore and its downtown counterpart, stolen books are very easy to trace back to their seller, who is then turned over to the university for disciplinary action.

The other aspect of the textbook problem is equally frustrating. There still exist on this campus some professors who seem to have been out of school for so long that they fail to realize the high costs of textbook changes for a course every quarter.

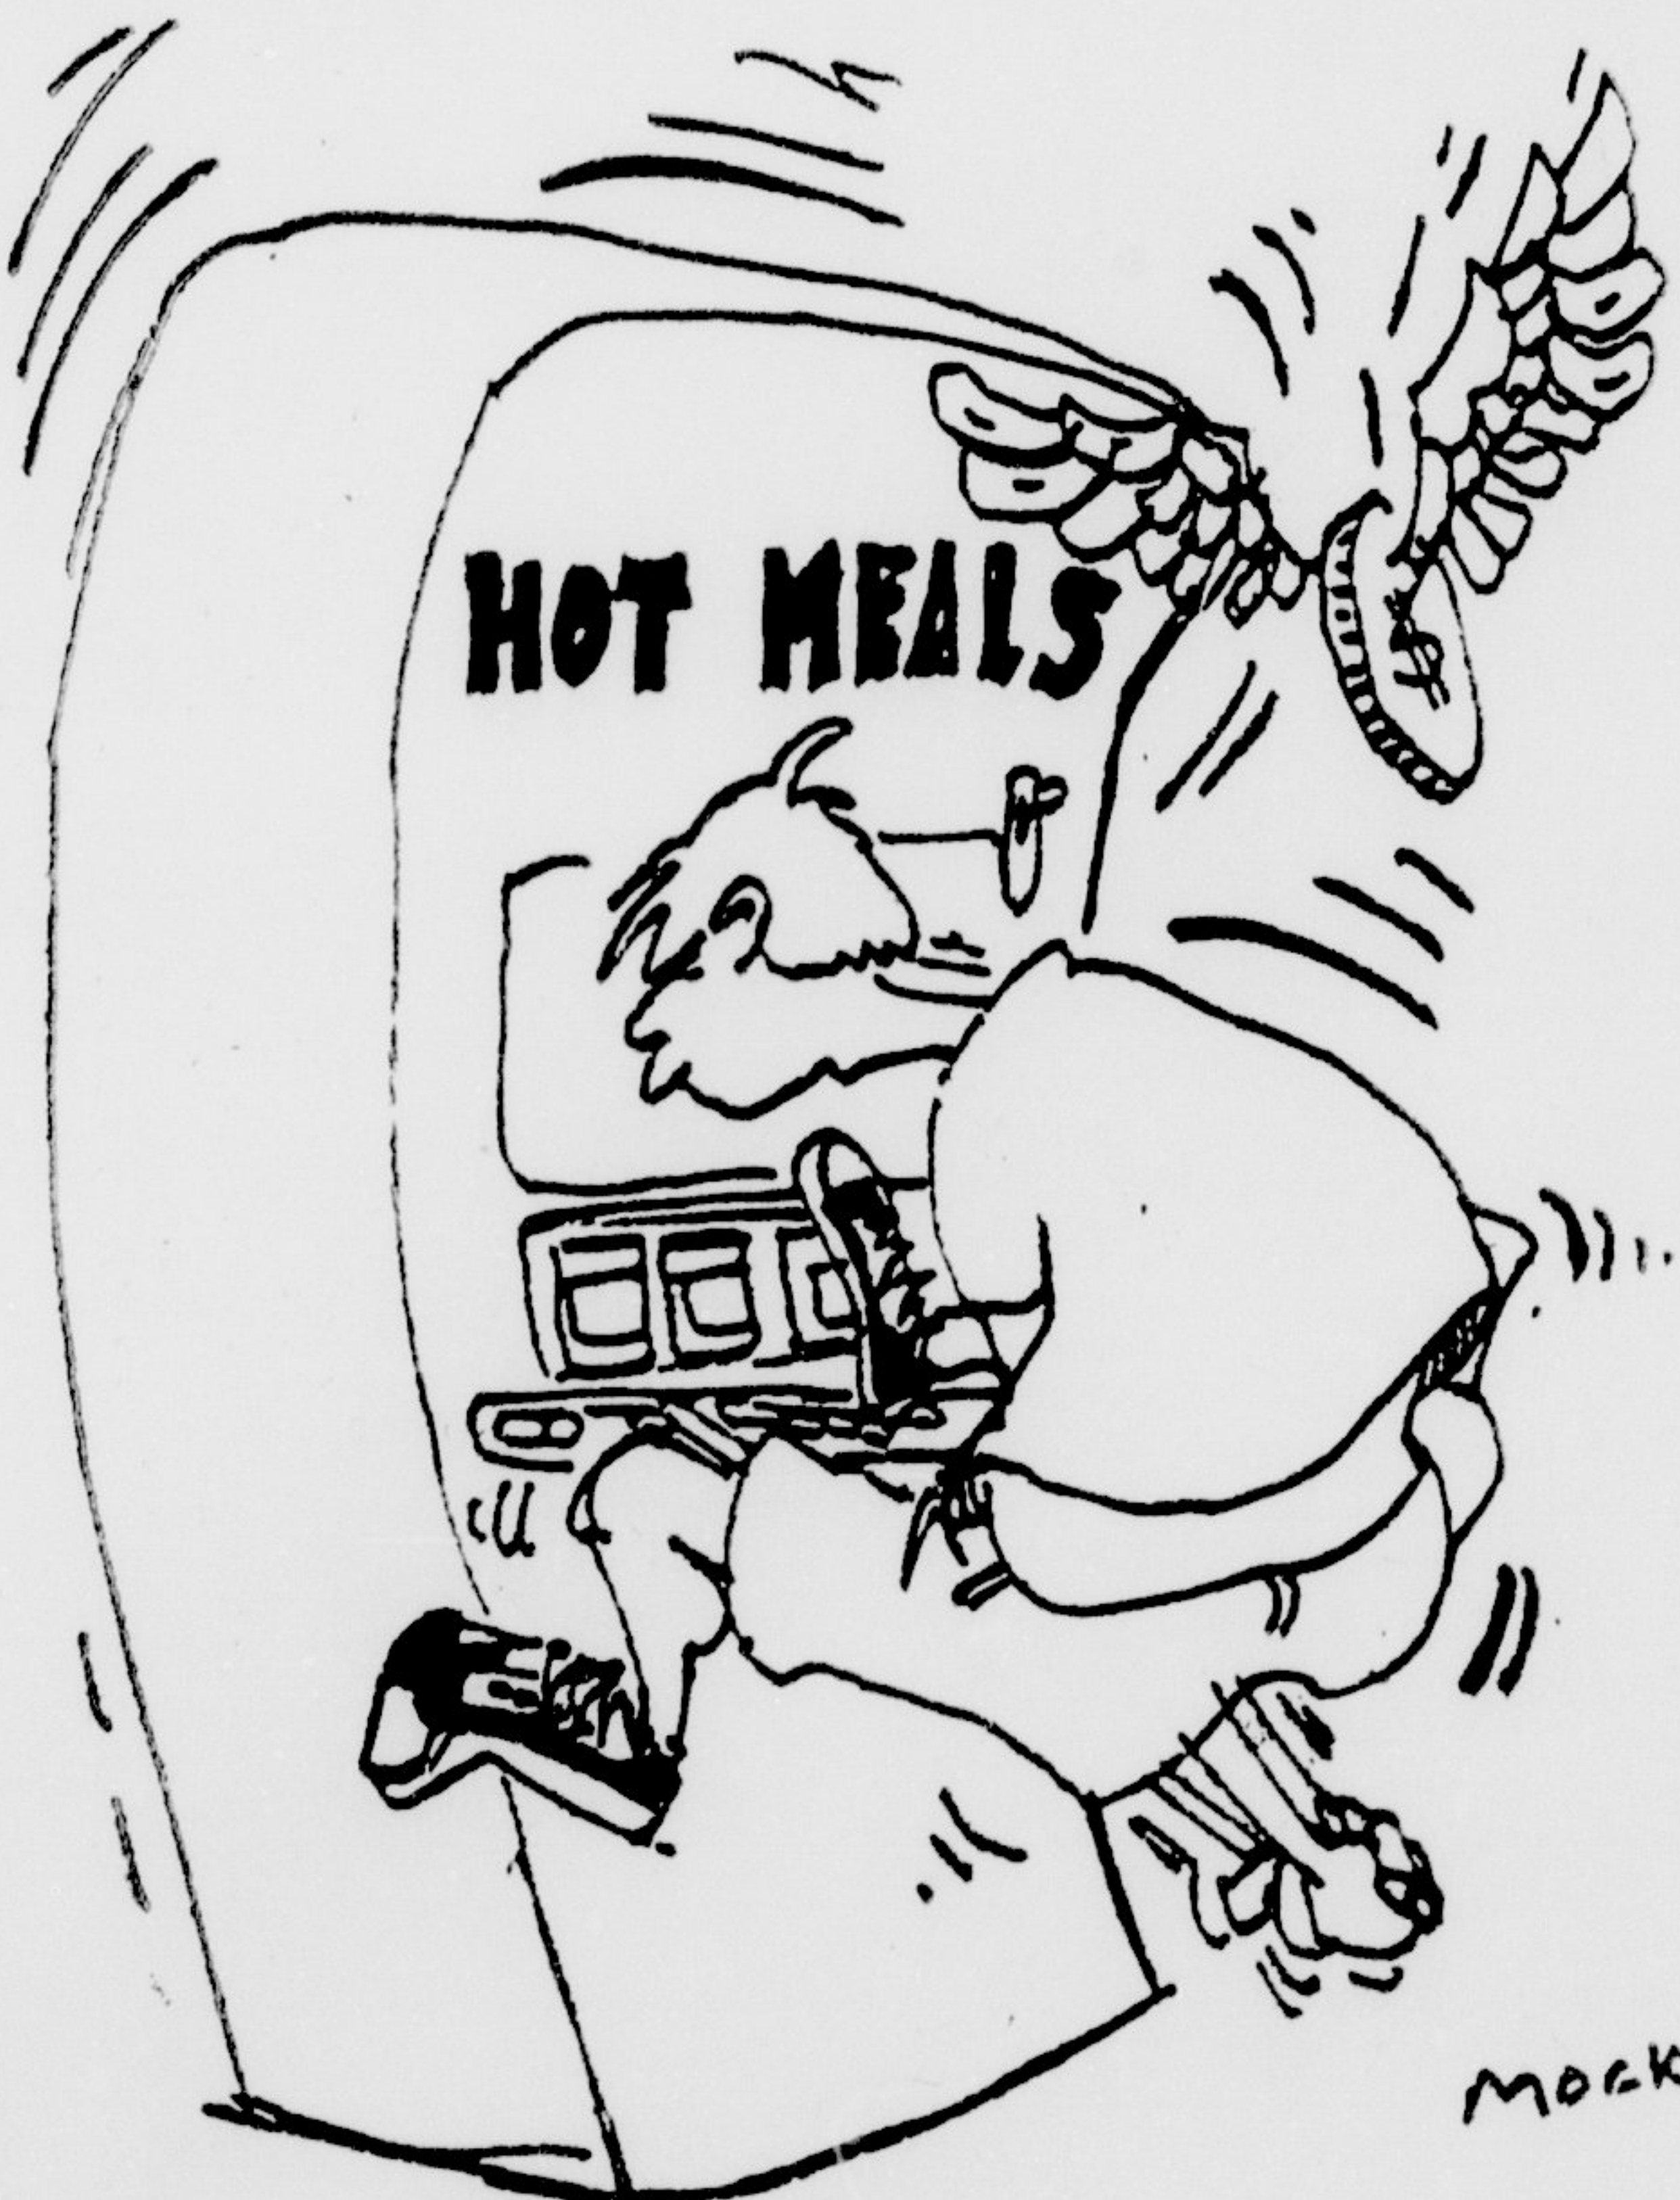

In too many cases, professors pick out expensive hard-back volumes for use in courses and then change them to another book or edition the very next quarter, leaving the student with a book which he can not sell.

A large number of students are here on limited budgets, and count on textbooks sales from the preceding quarter to partially pay for those to be used in his present quarter. When changes are made, the student is left with both an unbalanced budget and an unusable book.

The simplest solution to the problem would be for professors to understand the problems which their indecision in choosing textbooks can cause the student, and to put some restraint upon themselves in their course renovations.

This has been suggested many times before, but the problem still remains. Therefore, more stringent measures need to be taken. Perhaps the easiest solution, bypassing the professor, of course, is for each department to determine which books will be used by that department for courses for a period of one year. The individual professors would be able to make their suggestions for preferred texts and have them incorporated in the final departmental decision. After the final approval is given by the chairman of the department, the list formulated should be published and made available to the student body, giving them an indication of just how long the book they are buying would be in use.

Changes needing to be made could then be decided on and published before the end of the validity period for textbooks, allowing the students to have some idea of the books needed for upcoming quarters.

Read The Rights

I am a little worried. And, I have a complaint. I have been trying to get people to sign the GAP petition on a bill of rights for East Carolina University. Many people have signed. But many people have refused. And it is not this that disturbs me. It is the reason why they refused to sign the petitions—because they have not read it. It upsets me a little when people who are supposedly at an institution for what educational experience they can wrench out of it, will not even take the time to read a petition concerning the rights they have, academic and personal freedom.

When they will not listen to the arguments for the bill of rights—that it has been endorsed by the SGA president, studied by a state constitutional expert and revised to be completely consistent with the state constitution, that it is something many other schools have had for a long time and many other schools are adopting similar programs, that it is modeled after the "Joint Statement on the Rights and Freedoms of Students" endorsed by the American Association of University Professors and the National Student Association.

If our forefathers had been as unconcerned with questions of freedom and human rights, we might still be singing "Rule, Britannia!"

So, I have registered my complaint. I believe I will abandon writing letters to editors, and leave meddling with the universe to more persevering souls.

Sincerely,

John R. Reynolds

VOTE!

Dear Students:

As Election Committee Chairman, I urge each of you to actively participate in the fall elections of the SGA Legislators and Class Officers. We have a great number of interested supporters of the SGA who have filed for office. These candidates need your interest, your support, your ideas in order to serve you the students as a stronger organization. Although you cannot run for an office, you may still participate in the upcoming election by casting your vote for the candidates of your choice. We need the interest and support of the voters equally as much as we need the people to run for office.

The Election date is Wednesday September 25. A polling place will be set up in each dorm lobby for dorm students and the U. U. Lobby for day students from 9:00-5:00. In order to vote, you must show the poll attendant your I.D. card and your Activity Card.

I cannot stress the importance of your cooperation in actively supporting YOUR SGA. My personal goal is to see that the election is run efficiently and that we have a clean, hard fought campaign by the candidates. The candidates' goal is to win the election. You, as students, can help us achieve our goals by doing your share. VOTE! Your assistance is greatly appreciated.

Thank You

Dan Summers
Elections Chairman

The PENDULUM

To The Left

By WHITNEY HADDEN

A seventeen year old girl walked out of a drugstore to start back for the Eugene McCarthy headquarters in Chicago's Conrad Hilton. As she turned toward the hotel, a policeman pushed her back toward the drugstore, and his heavy nightstick opened a large gash across her mouth.

Down the street, thousands of young demonstrators, spectators, and reporters were being brutally beaten off the sidewalks by Mayor Daley's ill-trained police.

There is a big difference between maintaining law and order and enforcing a police state. Unnecessary brutality on the part of police always tends to alienate people from the law enforcement agency and to increase rather than dispel trouble.

Campaign '68 seems to feature a great number of men who promise law and order. Their platforms seem to be the same, but in actuality could be quite the opposite. If a candidate proclaims a brand of law and order that means suppression and hardline riot control rather than the just and equal enforcement of the law, serious and concentrated attempts to alleviate the problems that cause trouble, and restraint and careful training in the nation's police forces, the man is advocating the same strategy that Hitler used to restrict dissent.

Only temporary and dangerous results can follow the use of these tactics. Police brutality and lack of restraint tear at the very fabric of democracy that is dependent on trust in the law and its enforcement agencies.

The voter must be careful to listen to the total program advocated by a candidate and the emphasis placed on each aspect of that program. Law and order must not be misconstrued as the type of order that prevailed in Germany during the Nazi reich.

To The Right

By REID OVERCASH

Law and order is perhaps the number one issue of all the major campaigns across the nation. George Wallace has based his entire campaign around law and order and his success is evidence of the concern of the American people on this subject. Richard Nixon has also taken a strong stand on this issue.

The problem, however, will not be solved by merely talking about the issue, but by a concentrated effort to enforce the laws in order to protect the individual from the actions of militant extremist groups. There can be no logical apology for burning class room buildings on college campuses, or houses and apartment buildings just to prove a radical point.

There is no excuse for looting and sniper fire just to demonstrate one's overreaction to an issue. Just because someone is poor doesn't give him the right to burn an entire city block in protest. We've observed the riots in Watts, Harlem, Cleveland, Detroit, and Washington, where Black Power agents disrupted a community to bring death and destruction. We watched as S.D.S. invaded Columbia and took over the campus to take administrative officials captive.

These actions are not just childish tricks, but are the actions of serious radicals trying violently to disrupt the status-quo. What we need now is a concentrated effort to avoid further problems. The lawmakers and the courts need to demonstrate that respect for the law takes precedence over any issue.

We need to realize that we can no longer put up with the revolutionary tactics of the so-called "freedom-seekers."

Greeks; Flip Side

By JAMES HORD

Fraternities. Yes, the season is upon us again. Rushes, cocktail parties, bids, pledges, and all the other paraphernalia that the fraternity blue-bloods have to offer us are now in full swing.

All over campus, posters abound inviting students to attend their parties, smokers, meetings, or whatever. Special combos are used for entertainment, charter buses for transportation to the games, and in some cases, dates are provided for the fraternity-minded student in order to woo him over.

What are the pros and cons for joining a fraternity? The usual reason for joining are: 1) the individual is provided with a sense of belonging to a small group, 2) participation in a social activity, 3) development of a sense of cooperation in working with groups, and 4) the acquisition of social skills.

But the disadvantages of joining are equally as numerous. To wit: One may develop the "pseudo-man" mentality, as characterized by Larry Mulvihill. In essence, this is the CU Soda-Shop kid with his pants pulled up to his armpits, sunglasses on top of his head, discursing in Greek jargon concerning esoteric undertakings, while a fraternity pin dangles from his $30.00 Alpaca sweater.

In other words, some fraternities tend to promote 1) snobbery (based on false standards), 2) conformity to group standards (resulting in loss of individuality), and 3) placement of undue stress on trivial matters. Of course, another important disadvantage is the emphasis on social activities at the expense of scholastic achievement.

The purpose of this article is not to pass judgement on whether a student should join a fraternity or not. The student should decide for himself. But before joining, he should be aware of the advantages — and disadvantages.

Attention

There will be an organizational meeting for all interested students in support of Bob Scott for governor of North Carolina. The meeting will be held in Rawl 130 on October 1, 1968 at 8:00 p.m. All interested students are invited to attend.

If you are interested but unable to attend, please contact David Allen, Room 213-B Scott Hall—phone 758-9970. Take as active role in "your" government!

New Dorm Tests Coeds' Stamina

By CHLOE CRAWFORD
Features Editor

The New Girls Dorm is definitely an example of modern convenience, as a ??? dollar building should be. Students are quite satisfied with their accommodations. And why shouldn't they be? There is no pencil sharpener in the entire dorm, there is no water fountain except on the ground floor, the hot and cold of the showers is backwards, the beds are made into the desks so that it is impossible to make them, and either one or none of the two elevators work at the same time. However these minor nuisances can be overcome by the adaptable ECU coeds. Everyone likes to do their math homework with ball point pens, drink warm water on those mornings when one tends to be especially thirsty, be surprised by a sudden blast of cold water in his shower, bump her head on her desk during the night, and be late for class because she has to either wait thirty minutes for an elevator or walk down ten flights of stairs.

However there is one advantage of living in the New Girls Dorm, one can be easily recognized by her wrinkled clothes because there are no washing and ironing facilities in the newest girl's housing establishment.

The Maria D. Graham Mathematics club at East Carolina University has elected officers for the 1968-69 school year.

Carolyn Westbrook of Graham will serve as president for the coming year.

Serving with her will be Donald Willis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Willis of Davis, first vice president, Michael Marcus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Moore of Norfolk, Va., was elected to the post of second vice president. Serving as treasurer will be Judy Flanagan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack G. Flanagan of Goldsboro, and Frances Benditz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Benditz of Greensboro will serve as secretary.

Austin Bell Tower Restoration Begins

Students don't be alarmed! The University Party has not let you down. You were promised the bell tower of Old Austin as a memorial to be placed on the mall, and every possible action was taken to bring this about. However, due to poor construction when Old Austin was built 62 years ago, the "to-be" memorial was crumbled.

Materials are to be obtained for the restoration of the dome and the Industrial Arts Department will be asked to do the work. The materials will run approximately $200. But, isn't it worth $200 to begin a little much-needed tradition to the campus?

SPIRIT SQUAD — Cheerleaders are an integral part of the spirit of a college community. East Carolina has a squad this year that has pledged itself to promoting more of that intangible substance on the campus, and judging from Saturday night, is doing just that.

Moments Of Silence Replace Notes Of Alma Mater

What has happened to that "good ol' college spirit" which is supposed to be so prevalent that it has become a much used cliché? A few throaty yells from the student section would not be at all out of order. This year shows promise of being the very best in the history of East Carolina's team as we could just go all the way to Florida.

Layton mentioned the fact that the enthusiasm at Saturday night's game was improvement over last year. Nevertheless, students need to get to know the cheers and chants so that they can help the cheerleaders out.

We have a very enthusiastic cheerleading squad this year. Our cheerleaders have been working diligently to bring new catchy and peppy cheers. Two members of the squad went to the University of Southern Mississippi for the National Collegiate Cheering Association's summer cheerleading school.

Only at East Carolina could one attend a football game where the Alma Mater is played and no one sings the words. However, we do have an excuse for the past game as no one knew the words, so here they are:

Praise to your name so fair,
Dear old East Carolina.
Your joys we'll all share,
And your friends we'll ever be.

We pledge our loyalty
And our hearts' devotion.
To thee, our Alma Mater,
Love and praise.

FIRST CONCERT—The Royal Guardsmen kicked off the 1968 Popular Entertainments series with a concert for Registration Day last week. Originally planned for the mall, the show was moved to Minges because of a threat of rain. The Entertainments Committee reports that five more shows are planned for the fall session.

Fall Session Swings

Four Seasons Returns

The calendar for special programs at East Carolina is quite full for the fall session, as the committee in charge of entertainments announces six pops concerts, two lectures, and one program each under the travel-adventure series, artists series, and theatre productions.

Kicking off the 1968 fall session was the pops concert featuring the Royal Guardsmen September 10. Following will be the Karl Boxer Trio for Parent's Day, September 21. The Karl Boxer show will be on the mall, and will require no tickets.

The next concert will be Saturday October 26, when the Lemon Pipers and Neil Diamond combine forces for a show in Minges. A service charge of one dollar will be assessed for this show, in order to offset the costs of the concert.

The Platters, popular recording group, return to the campus November 8 to kick off Homecoming with a Friday night concert in Minges, which will require a 50c service charge for each student ticket.

The following night, after the football game in the Stadium, Paul Anka brings his band to Minges for a concert, which will require no service charge for tickets.

The Four Seasons bring their popular show back to the campus the following Friday night, November 15, for a Minges concert. There will be a one dollar service charge for this performance.

Also slated is the travel-adventure film, "Man Looks to the Sea", which will be October 7 in Wright. Admission will be by ID card.

Richard C. Hottelet, noted newsman will be on campus October 28 for a lecture under the lecture series. Tickets will be free for the event, upon presentation of the ID and activity card.

The Artists Series presents the Roger Wagner Choral November 6 in Wright, a performance for which a 50c service charge will be assessed.

November 12 marks the date of a lecture by Jules Bergman in Wright, for which tickets will be free to students and faculty.

Search For Maid Of Cotton Leads To EC Beauties

Applications for the glamorous role of the American cotton industry's fashion and good will ambassador will be accepted from now until December 1, according to the National Cotton Council.

The selection is open to girls between the ages of 19 and 23 who were born in a cotton-producing state and have never been married. Minimum height requirements are five feet five inches tall.

The girl who will succeed Susan Holder of Jackson, Mississippi, as the Maid of Cotton will be chosen from 20 finalists here January 2-3. She will be outfitted in a high fashion all-cotton wardrobe created by leading U. S. designers for her international travels. These travels will be on behalf of the cotton industry. At the conclusion of her six months' tour, the Maid will be presented with a 1969 automobile by the Memphis District Ford dealers.

East Carolina coeds may obtain application forms by writing the National Cotton Council, 1918 North Parkway, Memphis, Tennessee, 38112. Now in its 31st year, the selection is sponsored annually by the Council, the Memphis Cotton Carnival Association, and Cotton Exchanges of Memphis and New York.

Coeds, Politics Head Recap Of 1968 Summer Session

For those of you who were not in school this summer, here is a brief recap of some of the highlights and major news events of the summer. The EAST CAROLINIAN has a bound volume of all summer editions.

Dr. James H. Bearden was appointed Dean of the School of Business following the resignation of Dr. Elmer R. Browning. Dr. Browning resigned to take a post on the faculty of his Alma Mater, Marshall University, at Huntington, West Va.

Sherry Robertson, 20 year old East Carolina coed, was chosen as "Miss Waves" at the Sun Fun Festival at Myrtle Beach, S. C.

North Carolina College Queen, Linda Tetterton participated in the National College Queen Contest. The ECU coed was one of fifty participants.

Miss Elisa Annette Johnson won the title of Miss North Carolina as one of the four ECU coeds who reached the finalist portion of the judging.

Cherry Stokes served the students as president of the student government this past summer. Serving with him were Chipper Linville, Dianne Holland, and Beauford Davis.

East Carolina presented to the Advisory Budget Commission a request for $26,481,500 to finance 18 capital improvement projects in the 1969-1971 biennium.

The Old Austin Dome fell about thirty feet to the third floor level and was damaged. A later fall did even more damage even though the tower, according to contract, was to be removed intact.

The Henry Belk Journalism Library was established with the personal collection of Jonathan Daniels as the beginning nucleus. The new library became the cornerstone of the journalism program East Carolina is seeking to develop.

Vicki Ann Lee, a 22 year old East Carolina Coed from Kinston, was crowned Summer School Queen. She was chosen by a student penny vote.

Debbie Williams was chosen by the East Carolinian staff as "Coed of the Summer." Chosen for looks and charm, Debbie is a very vibrant and active coed.

"The Odd Couple" ended the fifth successful season of the East Carolina Summer Theater. 1968 hits included, "The King and I" and the "Desert Song."

Fraternities Mark 12 Years In Hub Of Campus Life

By DEAN JAMES MALLORY

In their twelve years of existence at East Carolina University, fraternities have been the hub in the wheel of progress. Since their inception, fraternities have constantly stressed service, scholarship, cooperation, teamwork, friendship, and self-improvement.

The twelve national social fraternities at East Carolina University comprise around 12 percent to 15 percent of the total male students. These men are not very homogeneous. A truer cross-section of the entire campus enrollment would be hard to find. Socially, culturally, intellectually, athletically, and politically, these men are among the leaders in these facets of university life.

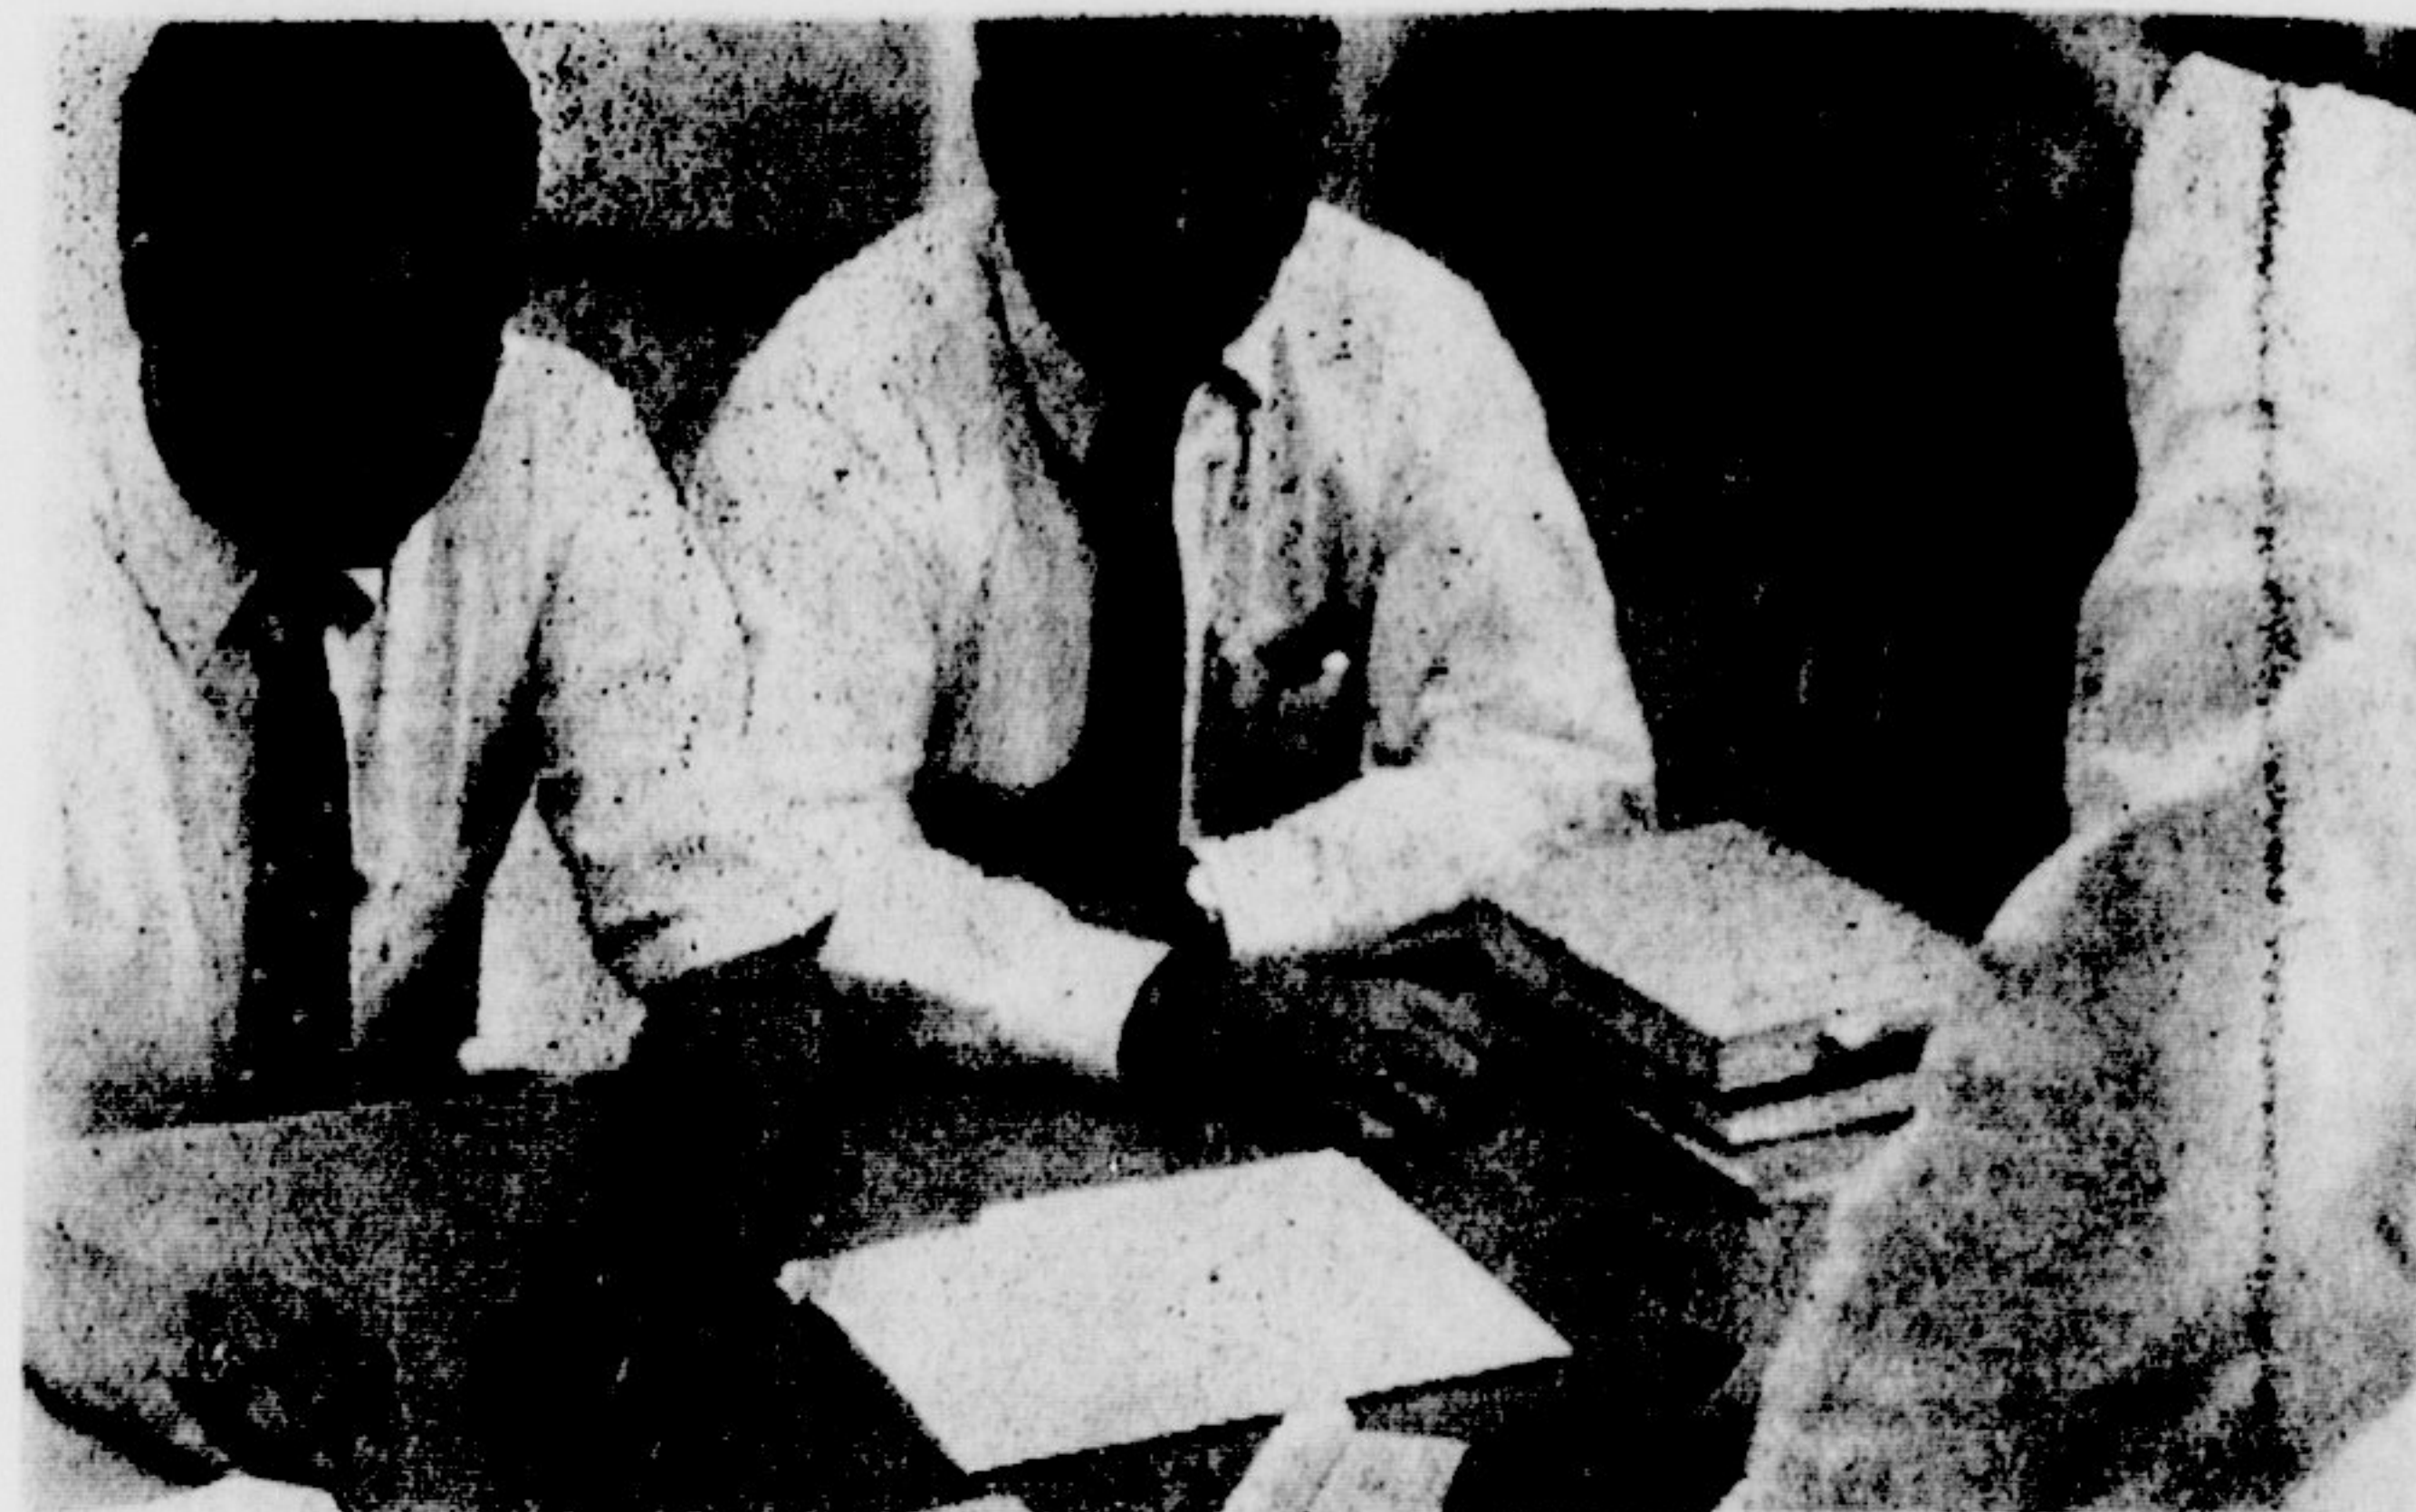

The governing body of the fraternity system is the Interfraternity Council. It consists of the presidents and two chosen members from each fraternity. The power of the vote resides with the two chosen members. The officers of the Council are the president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer. Gary Phipps, a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity, is the able and energetic President of the Council.

As advisor to the fraternity system of East Carolina University, I would like to take this opportunity to state six reasons why joining a fraternity will be of benefit to the individual. These reasons are as follows.

1. Fraternities encourage superior scholarship.
2. Fraternities increase chances of graduating.
3. Fraternities inspire high standards of conduct.
4. Fraternities create a sense of "belonging."
5. Fraternities develop leadership ability.
6. Fraternities instill a spirit of good citizenship.

NCAA Gridi

This year, the NCAA committee changed several rules. It is felt, would help the spectator understand the game, and to make the play, here are some of the significant rule changes for this season.

- 1) The time-out period has been reduced from two minutes to one minute and a half minutes.
- 2) The game clock will stop on all first downs.
- 3) The offensive line must take a position with one or near the ground shift before the snap.
- 4) The numbering of players is required by rule so that the spectator can easily identify the players by position and to know if they are eligible and in the game.
- 5) The offensive team must have five (5) interior linemen between 50 and 79 on the line of scrimmage. These numbers are ineligible to receive the ball regardless of the position.
- 6) Players numbered 1 and up are eligible to receive the ball.
- 7) Backs 1-49; Centers 50-69; Tackles 70-79; Ends 80-89.
- 8) Offensive interior linemen must be at least 235 pounds.

NCAA Changes Improve Gridiron Play And Viewing

This year, the NCAA Rules Committee changed several rules, which it is felt, would help the game. To help the spectator understand the new changes, and to better appreciate the play, here are the most significant rule changes for the 1968 season.

1) The time-out period has been reduced from two minutes to one and a half minutes.

2) The game clock will be stopped on all first downs and will be started when play is ready.

3) The offensive interior line (from tackle to tackle) may not take a position with his hand(s) on or near the ground and then shift before the snap. Penalty is five (5) yards.

4) The numbering of the players as required by rule will assist the spectator to easily identify players by position and to assist them in knowing eligible and ineligible pass receivers.

The offensive team must have five (5) interior linemen (number between 50 and 79) on the line of scrimmage. These numbered players are ineligible to receive a pass regardless of the position they take prior to the snap.

Players numbered 1 to 49 and 80 and up are eligible to receive passes if they have lined-up according to the rule.

Backs 1-49; Centers 50-59; Guards 60-69; Tackles 70-79; Ends 80 and up.

5) Offensive interior linemen on scrimmage kicks (punts) may go down field on the snap of the ball. This year, they do not have to wait until the ball is kicked.

6) Once a player gives the fair catch signal, whether he catches the ball or not, he cannot make contact with an opponent. Penalty of 15 yards from spot of foul.

7) One (1) player at a time may go to the side lines and talk to the coaching staff. (last year he could only talk to one coach). Also, after the first player confers and leaves, another player may go to the side-lines to talk with the coaches.

OLD FORM—East Carolina fullback Butch Colson, who was the 1967 Southern Conference Player of the Year, shows his old style of running the pigskin in action in the Parsons tilt last week. The Bucs open the Southern Conference schedule this Saturday afternoon, as they meet the tough Indians of William and Mary.

Indian Coach Levy Finds Pirates 'Very Potent' Team

By JOHN LOWE
Sports Editor

William and Mary, which has had three straight winning seasons under Coach Marv Levy, should find it more difficult to make it four straight. The Indians lost 23 players to graduation and 16 were starters. The biggest losses for the Indians were their two fine quarterbacks, Mike Madden and Dan Daragh.

This was the paramount problem, to find a suitable replacement at the quarterback slot. In this search, Coach Levy did better than expected. He found two quarterbacks.

Jim Laycock, a returning letterman, and Wes Meeteer, a promising sophomore, showed Coach Levy in practice that they could carry the load.

Even though the Indians were hard hit by graduation, they still have 16 returning lettermen to form a nucleus.

The first offensive and defensive teams are good, but beyond that, the Indians have relatively little depth, and even less experience.

The offensive backfield appears set with either Laycock, who is a good passer, or Meeteer, a good runner, at the controls.

In the offensive line, a few holes must be filled as only two interior linemen who lettered return. They are tackle Ralph Beatty and two-time letterman guard Bill McKinnon. Promising sophomores are expected to fill the remaining holes. The two bright spots in the offensive line are the ends, who both starters return. Split end Jim Cavannah, who caught 48 passes, and tight end Ted Zychowski who caught 25, give the Indians a pair of top-flight receivers.

On defense, the Indians only have two starters returning, but again, sophomores, and a sprinkling of returning lettermen are expected to ably fill the spots.

Ward Ellis is the only returning defensive lineman and Jimmy Barton, who is a safety, is the only returner in the defensive secondary. The weakest area defensively will be in the secondary, which must come of age quickly if William and Mary is to have another winning season.

East Carolina, which whipped the Indians by 27-7 last year in the teeth of Hurricane Doria, is the first game for the Indians this year. Coach Levy, who personally scouted the Pirates in their game against Parsons, calls the Pirates "very potent."

In many quarters, the Indians are favored to beat the Pirates, which would seriously hurt East Carolina's drive for the Southern Conference championship and a berth in the Tangerine Bowl. The game should be a real head knocker, but unless the Indians and their sophomores come of age fast, the Pirates should win with their defense again playing a big role. The Pirates will win by two touchdowns, but with a lot of help from their sophomores, the Indians could make it a lot closer.

side of the "Stasovich Single Wing" seemed to enjoy fouling up the Parsons secondary and was also tagged as playing one of his best games during his career at East Carolina.

Players Of The Week

Staff Picks Adkins & Lineberry

Seniors Jimmy Adkins and Wayne Lineberry have been named East Carolina Players of the Week by the coaching staff for their efforts in the Parsons game Saturday night at Ficklen Stadium.

Adkins, an offensive split end, caught four passes for 71 yards and a touchdown, and was also named Southern Conference Offensive Player of the Week for his efforts in the 37-7 shellacking the Pirates handed Parsons.

Lineberry, a 237 pound defensive tackle, pressured the Parsons offense and led the Pirate defensive charge which limited the Wildcats to minus six yards rushing.

"I thought Lineberry played the best game of his career," Coach Clarence Stasovich praised.

The defensive crusher, who calls Wadesboro his home, recovered a fumble for the Pirates in a key situation and also dumped the Parsons quarterback for a big loss in the Pirates' rout.

Adkins, a 195-pound pass catcher from Kinston, proved a long summer's work a big success with his performance Saturday night.

Adkins, who worked on his pass catching this summer with Leo Hart, quarterback at Duke, hauled in a 28-yard pass from senior tailback Fella Rhodes in the end zone for East Carolina's second touchdown of the game.

The Kinston native, who was moved from tight end to split end this season, also was honored by being named Southern Conference Offensive Player of the Week for his efforts against Parsons.

Although the offense played the major role in the game, Lineberry and his defenders made it easier. Lineberry was not credited with a large amount of tackles but his overall play really impressed the Pirate coaches.

Lineberry, a High School All-American, seemed to have a knack of being where the ball was. One thing is for sure, the Parsons offensive backfield will have a hard time forgetting No. 62, who seemed to make a habit of blowing through the Wildcat offensive line.

Adkins caught but four passes but all of his receptions came in key situations to keep drives moving. Although very few passes came his way in the Parsons game, the Kinston native convinced the Wildcat secondary he had glue on his hands.

The Pirate coaching staff also noted that Adkins made several key blocks. The split end on the weak

Sports Lowe Down:

Bucs Meet Rival, W & M

By John Lowe

The Pirates entertain the William and Mary Indians this Saturday afternoon at 2:00 p.m. In addition to being the Parents Day Game, it is also the first Southern Conference clash of the year, with the winner taking sole ownership of first place for at least a week. Of course the loser will also have last place to themselves.

Richmond and Davidson clash one week later, but the conference does not really open up until October.

Jimmy Adkins won the Southern Conference Offensive Player of the Week award, but two other players, Fella Rhodes and Billy Wightman, should also be commended for their play.

Rhodes, who started the game at tailback, and Wightman, who alternated with him during the game, together accounted for 281 of the 337 yards in total offense the team ran up against Parsons. In 15 carries, Rhodes netted 67 yards for a 4.5 per carry average. He also passed 12 times, completing five for 63 yards and one touchdown.

Wightman rushed for 119 yards on 19 carries for a 6.3 average. He also completed two out of three passes for 32 yards. In addition, Wightman also punted seven times for a 39.9 average.

Both players had one of their passes intercepted during the game.

Adkins, who caught four passes for 71 yards, including a 28 yard scoring pass from Rhodes, is now four scores away from tying Dave Bungarner's record for touchdowns.

receptions which is 11. He is 456 yards away from Bungarner's career record of 1,023 yards, but could set a record for yards with 407 more in the next nine games. Bungarner's season record for receptions is 37, set in 1964.

In his previous two seasons, Adkins had 25 receptions for 493 yards and six touchdowns.

The 182 yards in penalties against Parsons was the most ever for an East Carolina opponent. The Pirates in turn were hit for 102 yards, which was 25 short of the team record set against Richmond last season.

For those of you who wanted to let Tyson try another field goal, would have seen a record set had he connected. No Pirate has ever kicked more than one field goal in a game, and the season record is three, held by Peter Kriz.

Parsons, with five players lugging the pigskin became the first team to be held to minus yards rushing by the Pirate defensive team. Of the five runners, two actually came out on the plus side, with 26 yards in ten carries, but alas, the other three lost 32 yards in 23 carries.

East Carolina has been picked to finish in the Top 30 in the nation, on a schedule that is rated as 119th toughest, which simply says that there are 118 major colleges playing tougher schedules.
