WECU Provides On-Campus Music & Radio Experience

By MARY ALLEN

Many students at East Carolina University (mainly the freshmen) are not completely aware of the fact that there is an on-campus radio station located on the second floor in the library. Since WECU is owned and operated by the students, everyone should at least know a little about how it operates.

WECU is 570 on the dial and the broadcasting hours are from 1:00 p.m. until 100 a.m. every day.

The staff consists of six executive officers, fourteen disc jockeys, and approximately thirty students who are interested in learning about some aspect of radio broadcasting. Mr. Carlton Benz is the faculty advisor and is consulted when problems arise that the students themselves cannot handle.

Recently elected to the position of Station Manager is Jimmy Stephens. He was selected by the advisor and last year's Station Manager. He then appointed his staff which consists of Business Manager, Jay Paul; Chief Announcer, Royal Bruce; Program Director, Jack Fisher; Record Librarian, Susan McConnell; and Secretary, Susan Lucas.

The station is independently operated by ECU students and funds are appropriated by selling commercial spots to local businessmen. Profits last year were $1800 and that amount has almost been equalled thus far this quarter.

There were around thirty members on the staff last year but this year that amount has already doubled.

Progress has been made in many areas concerning the station. Another step forward includes the reworking of the entire campus by a group headed by Jack Fisher.

Jay Paul states that the executive staff has two main objectives: To train people to go into the broadcasting world with at least partial experience; and, to find a new location.

The first objective is easily understood but one would not actually be able to realize the meaning of the second without knowing the conditions under which the staff is presently working.

Naturally, the great increase in staff would cause the space to be limited, but they are being crowded into an even smaller area. The space now occupied is approximately 25'x25'. There are already three desks in this office along with a filing cabinet and a couple of machines. Into this already overcrowded room must be moved additional files, approximately 8,000 45 rpm records, and 1,000 albums. All of this material is to be moved out of the room it now occupies and somehow arranged in the office in order to give enough working space and yet maintain accessibility to the records and files.

Although the staff members are continually being over-crowded, there is still a friendly, informal atmosphere in the office. However, when anyone enters the broadcasting room, all humor is put aside and one gets down to the business of operating a radio station. All the members of the actual staff are serious about their jobs and take pleasure in doing these jobs right.

Anyone who is interested in any aspect of radio broadcasting is welcome to go up and talk to any of the staff members about the business of working at a radio station. If any students have any profitable suggestions to offer the staff, they would be happy to know them and will take them into consideration. There is usually someone in the office all during the day and the staff members will be glad to explain station procedures to anyone interested.

NEW STAFF—Members of the staff of WECU radio take a break from their busy work schedule to make plans for the upcoming broadcasting season. The staff is presently faced with the space problems in the wake of increased personnel.

President Jenkins Requests $2.7 Million Climb In Salaries

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins recently requested some $2.7 million for faculty salary increases and over $900,000 for the establishment and support of a School of Allied Health Professions at East Carolina. The request was made in an address to the State Advisory Budget Commission.

The funds, totaling $3,614,119 for the two priorities, are part of the 1969-'71 biennium "B" budget requests of East Carolina.

Dr. Jenkins, in his address to the commission yesterday morning cited the salary increases as the top priority item. "Our teachers," he said, "are the most important ingredient in the educational process and that is why we list faculty salaries as our number one priority."

Requested were appropriations totaling $890,748 in 1969-'70 and $1,100,589 in 1970-'71. The funds would provide for a 12 per cent salary increase for each year of the biennium. The total appropriation for the biennium would be $2,701,337.

"Within a 50-mile radius of East Carolina University there are eight communities with an average population of 25,000 each, containing a total of 1,200 hospital beds. It is anticipated that by 1973 these communities will contain a total of 1,800 hospital beds.

"With the completion of these health construction projects the current manpower shortage will be even more critical. East Carolina University has planned a program that will assist in solving this problem, directly and indirectly, by educating additional health professionals in several categories and by developing a continuing education center for health professionals employed within the region."

New health-related professional curricula within the school have been organized and approved by the appropriate academic and administrative university committees and are being evaluated by the North Carolina Board of Higher Education, Jenkins noted. "Their approval by the board is virtually assured," he said, "by the fact that the board approved the entire program concept."

Four new BS degree programs would include physical therapy, occupational therapy, medical record librarianship and dental hygiene.

"Our needs are legion," Jenkins told the commission, "and we have submitted requests to you only in terms of necessities to catch up with the rapid growth and demands of our services."

"That I do not dwell at length on each request is not to be construed as a lack of interest on my part but the result of the limited time I have with you today."

Newman Club Offers Weekly Campus Mass

The ECU Newman Club is an organization for Catholic college students, under the guidance of chaplains and a faculty advisor. Primarily, it provides a community where members may freely discuss spiritual, moral, and theological issues of contemporary importance, as well as problems common to them as Catholics and college students.

Beginning with last spring, the ECU Newman Club initiated a kind of revolution. The main purpose was simply to make ECU Catholics aware that there was a weekly campus Mass and an organization especially for them. The first major movement was to offer a campus Mass on Sunday, in addition to the regular weekday service. This year, Sunday Mass is at 12:30 p.m. in Rawl 130; weekday Mass and Confessions is held on Wednesdays at 5:00 p.m. in the Y-Hut. Both are folk-guitar Masses.

The second movement was a complete reorganization of the Newman Club. There is an executive board consisting of the co-chaplains, Father Maurice Spillane and Father Charlie Mulholland; the faculty advisor, Dr. Carl Adler; the officers, president Paul King and secretary-treasurer Diana Durns; committee chairmen and other students and faculty. Throughout the year, there will be lectures, films, discussions, and charitable and social activities palmed by all the students according to their interests.

Anyone at ECU who is willing to play guitar, serve as lector at Mass, make posters, or help in any other way is encouraged to contact an officer or committee chairman. The goal is to have total participation of ECU Catholic students and faculty, as well as interested non-Catholics, at Mass and other Newman Club activities.

Mr. Herbert M. West has taken over management of the campus cafeterias. His policy is to provide the best food at the lowest prices.

West Assumes Head Of Campus Food Service

Mr. Herbert M. West was named the ECU Food Service Director for all the main cafeterias on campus, including Jones Cafeteria. He assumed his duties August 12, 1968, after the retirement of Mr. Julian, former director.

According to Mr. West, the basic philosophy of the cafeteria operation will remain the same. This philosophy is, "to provide the best quality of food at the lowest price."

Changes that have already been made are better service, and a wider selection of food. The few price increases made so far this year are a result of higher raw food costs—not due to a general price increase.

Mr. West comes to ECU from Montreat, N.C., where he was Food Service Director for a Presbyterian church center, and Montreat-Anderson College. Before that, he was cafeteria manager for a large industrial catering chain.

Mr. West is a native of Boone, N.C., and was graduate from Washington State College, Pullman, Washington, with a degree in Hotel and Restaurant Administration. He is married and has three children.

In closing, Mr. West stated that he is proud to be with ECU, and was "looking for a good year and better food service for the students."

Republicans Sweep Poll With Nixon-Gardner Landslide

The Republican Party and GOP candidates cut the traditional Democratic tie on students of East Carolina University in a special preferential poll held in connection with the campus-wide elections last Wednesday.

The GOP swept through with large majorities in three major areas of the poll, as it won the section for party preference, the section for preference in the presidential election, and the section for the choice of gubernatorial candidates.

Former Vice President Richard Nixon downed both Vice President Hubert Humphrey and independent candidate George Wallace by an overwhelming margin, one which followed closely the line of recent national polls which placed Nixon the probable winner in the three-man race, followed by Wallace and Humphrey in that order.

Nixon massed 1,115 and 57.50% of the total 1,992 votes cast, while Wallace took 503 votes for 25.94% and Humphrey finished third with 321 votes and 16.55%.

Republican gubernatorial candidate James Gardner gained a clear victory over his Democratic opponent Bob Scott, taking 1,085 votes for a whopping 59.32%. Scott finished up with 744 votes and 40.68%.

Congressman Gardner has agreed to appear on campus this Friday afternoon in order to meet the students and to show his appreciation for the support given him by the students of East Carolina University.

The running was much closer in the slot set aside for the choice of political parties on a national scale, but the GOP still managed to come out on top with 861 of the votes cast, for a percentage of 44.61. The National Democratic Party finished second with 654 votes and 33.88% while George Wallace's American Independent Party wound up third with 415 votes and 21.50%.

The poll was sponsored by the ECU Law Society as a project. After the votes were collected from the SGA ballot boxes, they were tabulated by computers in the computer lab in New Austin.

More Polls Needed

Campus elections are once more over, with the exception of the run-off balloting for candidates who failed to gain a majority.

The election committee reported a successful turnout in the regular elections, which was a surprise to many, since the fall elections are usually "off" with regard to student voter turnout.

As high as the turnout was, there is always room for improvement. Several things about the electoral procedure on this campus are in definite need for that improvement.

It is almost a sure fact that some potential voters failed to do so last week because of the crowded lines at the polls. In many cases, students had to kill as much as fifteen minutes waiting to receive and mark ballots. For the "between classes" voter, this kind of time is not available.

More polling places are desperately needed, in order to accommodate the increasing numbers of students voting on this campus. Contrary to what seems to be common belief, some East Carolina students do not enter the University Union every day. This prevents them from being reminded to vote by the presence of the polls.

The introduction of additional on-campus polling places would help to alleviate both the problem of overcrowding and of imperfect placing. Having polls set up in the cafeterias and possibly outdoors would aid in the solution of these problems.

Another gripe of students about the conduction of the voting last week was that the polls were not open early enough. Surely the elections committee can see the value of opening the polls in time to catch the students on his way to an eight o'clock class. If only one extra vote could be cast from the extension of the polling hours, the additional effort would be well spent.

The election committee deserves a great deal of credit for having brought a good turnout in last week's fall elections. It is certain that the members of that committee devoted a great deal of time and effort in handling the large number of voters as efficiently as they did. However, in the interests of bringing even better results in the next balloting, they should not be content to rest upon their laurels, for the need for improvement is great.

And judging from their results last week, reforms will be made.

The WORD Speaks

By Bob Lindfelt

What are people confronted with during their day to day living? What is the background that sets the stage for our lives? This writer would like to show his production of the stage setting for people seem to be setting for themselves in their lives and in their quest to live a more abundant life.

People, especially young people, are seeking answers and are looking for truth; something that fits logically and makes common sense; something concrete that they can get a hold of to live the more abundant life in truth.

But look at the setting permeating through our lives and setting the whole scene of our everyday life. The setting is negativism including characters as Fear, Worry, Doubt, and Disbelief. A man once said, "One of the first things a baby learns is to love—which he does until someone disappoints him."

The disappointment comes from our "stage setting" of negativisms commanded by four words: Fear, Worry, Doubt, and Disbelief. These four words stem into what we hear from day to day—words such as murder, hate, and violence—on our television newscasts and radio reports. When a person reads the newspaper and other magazines, what does he read? He reads about death, hate, and violence which are illustrated by very appealing and gruesome pictures.

Fear, worry, doubt, and disbelief are quite evident character parts in our "stage setting." So let's stop the cameras and take a real look at the tens of millions of people who worry about money, school, war, the future, etc., and who fear with doubts of what will happen to them through their day to day lives.

It is no surprise that pills and aspirins are becoming the fastest expanding industry in America. Looking closer at our cast, we even see many people having disbelief in the love of God, turning away even from their creator, so they cannot really be sure of anything.

Maybe this writer has integrated too many dramatics in the "stage setting" but he just wants to make it evident that people are basically living negatively through, Fear, Worry, Doubt, and Disbelief. Just look at these indications in our advertisements, movies, TV, magazines, and in our everyday actions and conversations. It is too bad that the more a fellow knows about what is going on in the world, the less likely he is to be happy.

Let's cast a whole new stage production for Americans to live the more abundant life through the characters of Confidence, Trust, Faith, and Believing. People could really live in this "stage set-up" without the characters of negativism. No fear to hold you back, for the BIBLE says that fear is the sand in the machinery of life. Faith in yourself and others, knowing what is truth.

For a knowledge of truth, something that fits and is logical, will make a person acknowledge exactly what he is, what he can do, and therefore he can act with confidence, trust, and believing because he knows, that he knows, that he knows. Wherever is the source of truth that a many may know how to live the more abundant life with all his questions answered?

The answer is the accuracy and the greatness of the Word of God in its fitting together with an accuracy and exactness that no man with a logical brain and any common sense can deny!

The next article will contain the explanation of this script of truth being cast in the stage setting of our lives.

Maybe again this writer is going too far in his production. Most people may rather watch the first production of Fear, Worry, Doubt, and Disbelief because they have played their parts for so long, but would not a person rather have his life in abundance with Confidence, Trust, Faith, and Belief?

"For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind." II Timothy 1:7

The PENDULUM swings

By WHITNEY HADDEN

While in my last column I spoke against the type of law and order prescribed by George Wallace and others like him (Alabama, by the way, has the highest murder rate of any state in the country, and Birmingham's murder rate is 4.7 per 100,000 population higher than the murder rate in Washington, D.C.) in this column I would like to speak on what could be an effective and helpful method of crime prevention. This is control over the sale and possession of guns.

While the immediate effect of gun registration would be little, the long range effect might be very worthwhile. As guns were gradually taken out of circulation, except for those weapons that were duly registered, it would be come more and more difficult for an individual to buy a gun without accepting the responsibility for it. It is often pointed out that criminal elements could still smuggle guns through the black market, thus leaving honest people defenseless.

There are several mistakes in this type of generalization. First of all, it is seldom that the victim of a criminal assault on the streets is armed even though he might have a gun at home. It seems almost as if the mugger looks for victims that would not be carrying weapons and could not put up much of a fight. Secondly, if the police suspected an individual, the mere possession of an unregistered gun would be grounds for arrest.

Being the case that most murders are committed within the home by members of the immediate family or "close friends," another exception to this argument might be that the criminal "element" is not as much of a danger to society at large as the average person in a drunken fit, or in a state of uncontrollable rage. Many murders go unsolved because it is not possible to accurately trace their guns, and gun registration would help both in preventing the wide spread possession of guns, and in tracing those guns involved in crimes.

To The Right

By REID OVERCASH

In our last column, my radical adversary, Whitney Hadden, indicated that my idea of law and order is "the type of order that prevailed in Germany during the Nazi reich." Today we are going to discuss an issue that really could result in our becoming such a totalitarian society.

Gun control, although pushed to the background by more exciting issues such as Vietnam and civil disobedience, is still a serious subject facing the American voter.

We need new gun laws, but these laws should be formulated with a rule of reason applied. I think having an age limit on the purchase of guns and a short list of those certain individuals such as the mentally ill who are not allowed to purchase guns are good ideas.

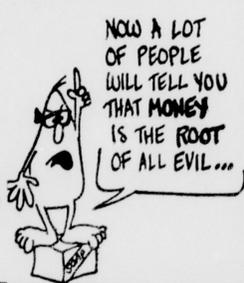

However, the responsibility for passing these laws should be left entirely up to the states. Each state has its own regional attitudes toward guns. Some states such as North Carolina provide good hunting grounds and other states, such as New Jersey, do not. These two states need entirely different gun laws. States which have higher crime rates would need stricter laws than others. In other words, gun control need not be a national issue but should be a state or regional one.

There is one more point that needs to be discussed here, and that is gun registration. I would like my liberal friend to explain to me why an effective law enforcement is seeming fascist and gun registration is not. This point is a dead issue for it is much easier to steal a gun than to buy one and register it.

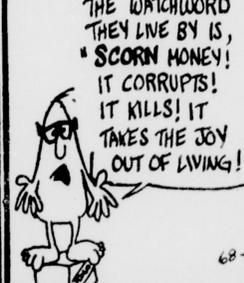

EDITOR'S NOTE — If and when the election committee turns in the election results they will be published in the EAST CAROLINIAN. RHF

The Suffragettes are parading here today . . . all dressed in white and yellow streamers and banners. Five thousand marching from the White House to the Capitol where they will call upon Congress to give them ballots . . . From all indications it looks as if the women will eventually win their suffrage."

Thus wrote William H. Osborn as he watched the protestors march by his Washington, D.C. office on a Saturday morning in the spring of 1914. Colonel Osborn was Director of Internal Revenue during President Wilson's first term (1913-1917) and his observation on the demonstration of the Suffragettes was only one of many carefully recorded entries in his 1914 diary. The diary, along with other papers belonging to this North Carolina Democrat, has recently been donated to the East Carolina Manuscript Collection at East Carolina University by his niece, Miss Caroline Cunningham of Raleigh.

The diary gives a day by day account of life and politics in the nation's capital during 1914 as Colonel Osborn commented on patronage, a threatened war with Mexico, the oleomargarine scandal, the operation of the Treasury Department, President Wilson's refusal to become a "Spoilsman," distrust of Catholics in government, splits within the Democratic Party, Washington gossip and other items of contemporary interest.

Regarding the beginning of World War I, Osborn observed that ". . . Japan has joined England and declared war against Germany. Our people are very uneasy about the situation . . ." Concerning government employees he confided that ". . . Men in the government service as a rule are not as loyal as the men we find on the outside. Nearly every man feels he has a right to beat the government out of time or money, generally they are time servants, spend most of their time watching the clock." In one entry he admitted that "In keeping this diary I express myself as I feel at the time, I may be mistaken in some of the statements recorded, if so I am honestly mistaken and write as matters look to me at the time."

Numerous entries praise Woodrow Wilson, William McAdoo (Secretary of Treasury and son-in-law of the President) and other members of the administration, while at other moments he revealed some degree of disillusionment because "Loyalty by a Democrat does not count for much in this administration. If I wanted promotion in the Treasury Department I would stand a much better show if I was a Republican."

William H. Osborn was born in Oxford, N.C. in 1856 and in 1894 he married Elizabeth Caroline Cunningham of Greensboro. After engaging in the tobacco business in Durham for several years, Osborn became president of Keeley Institute in Greensboro. He served as mayor of that city from 1901 to 1905.

His resignation from the Treasury Department in 1917 was due to ill health, but Colonel Osborn continued to preside over the Keeley until his death in 1921.

Miss Cunningham has expressed her hope that additional papers belonging to her uncle may be located. She and her sister, Mrs. R. M. Middleton of Lexington, are continuing to search for documents which can be added to the William H. Osborn Papers at ECU.

Fiat Safe Driving Essay Contest Awards Convertible, Trips, Cash

A red convertible Fiat 124 Sport Spider designed by Pininfarina is the first prize in a new national competition for college students.

The Fiat Motor Car Company has announced the establishment of its Safe Driving Essay Competition for College Students, and invited all matriculating students at accredited colleges and universities to enter. In order to qualify for the 4-cylinder convertible, with its 1,438 cc capacity and $3,181 prize tag, students must submit essays of between 100 and 200 words, detailing a personal experience in which one or more safe-driving habits prevented or minimized an accident.

Second and third prizes in the competition are all expense paid trips to Spring Auto Shows, and fifth and sixth place winners will receive $100 each. In addition, a state winner will be selected in each state from which entries are received and will be awarded $5.

The ten thousand entry brochures are being distributed around the country, each of which lists 10 top safe driving rules.

"We feel it imperative to make young people aware of what it takes to drive safely, and how important it is," explained Vincent Garibaldi, U.S. representative of Fiat, in announcing the competition.

"By requiring an essay, we hope to encourage our entrants to really think about the ways in which their driving habits can save lives. And, of course, we expect to reach many thousands of students with the rules of the road which are printed on the entry brochures."

Headed by Vincent Garibaldi, U.S. representative for Fiat, the judges' panel includes Richard F. Plum, Educational Consultant in the Traffic Engineering & Safety Department of the American Automobile Association, Robert Cochran, Automotive Editor of NEA, Robert M. Lienpart, Managing Editor of Automotive News, and Paul O'Shea, Manager, Automotive Division of Applications Research Corp.

The names of all winners of this competition, including 6 national winners and 50 state prize holders will be announced to college and daily newspapers throughout the United States. In addition, the names of all 56 winners will be prominently posted in the windows of all Fiat dealerships.

Entries to the competition may be obtained from this newspaper or from Fiat Dealers, or by writing to: Fiat Safe Driving Essay Competition, Fifth Floor, 598 Madison Avenue, New York, New York.

Hawks vs. Bullets At Minges Atlanta's Zone Press Returns

The Atlanta Hawks who play the Baltimore Bullets at Minges Coliseum Saturday night, October 12, may have created a monster last season with their vaunted zone press.

It seems now every club in the league wants to get into the act. Last season, the Hawks had the best defensive mark in the league allowing only 110.3 points a game in 82 efforts. The Boston Celtics with a per-game defensive mark of 112.0 markers were the next best defensive club.

"I think (Richie) Guerin's idea of pressing all over the court is a great one especially if you have the personnel to do the job," New York Knicks coach, Red Holzman, explains. "We took a couple of ideas from the Hawks' press and used it last year and that was the big reason we finished third in the East."

It might be added that the Knicks finished over the .500 mark for the first time in nine years.

"We had the forwards who can pick up over the court as do the Hawks and we expect to use the press even more this coming season," the former NBA star of yesterday added.

Guerin devised the zone press three years ago with the idea of using it as a come-from behind measure. It worked so well that he Hawks mentor refined the idea and now uses it early in the contest to obtain the lead rather than to play "catch up."

"Of course you must have the real quick forwards and guards because if you are slow in the game, the press is the easiest thing to beat," Guerin points out. "You have to overplay two and sometimes three key men and force the principal handler on the other club to make the bad pass. We won a game from San Francisco last year by scoring five points in the last 20 seconds and we lost one to Boston the same way. Both times it was the press that either won or lost the game."

Louisiana Tech sparred with East Carolina for the first quarter before blitzing the Bucs by 35-7, sending the Bucs reeling after their second straight loss. The game was an encore to last week's game against William and Mary and bids grim forebodings about this week's foe, Southern Mississippi, which lost to Alabama by less than a touchdown.

The Bulldogs, who upset Mississippi State last week, showed no signs of letting up and except for the first quarter, completely dominated the game. The swarming Bulldog defense mass tackled all night and allowed the Bucs only five running plays of over ten yards while dropping the Bucs for losses on 13 occasions.

For the second week in a row, the Bucs were held to under 100 yards rushing and under 200 yards in total offense. The passing game did perk up some, but the only difference was a last ditch TD that just averted another shutout.

First Quarter
The Bucs took the opening kickoff and began to march, featuring the running and passing of Mike Mills, who was starting his first game at tailback. The Bucs drove to the Bulldog 13 yard line, but Mills was smeared for a big ten yard loss trying to pass and Tyson's attempted field goal of 38 yards fell short.

Tech, which then took over on their own 20, and East Carolina battled on even terms for the rest of the quarter which ended in a scoreless deadlock.

Second Quarter
Mike Mills' first pass attempt in the second period was picked off by Mike Graham on the Tech 13, and the Bulldogs' offense took over.

After a one yard gain by Golmon, a 15 yard penalty against the Bucs moved the ball to the 30 for Tech's initial first down of the game. A 19 yard pass from Bradshaw to Golmon put Tech into East Carolina territory. Two more running plays netted 13 yards and another first down to the 35. But here fate smiled on the Bucs as the Bulldogs were called for holding, and the penalty moved Tech back to their own 39.

On fourth down, Tech kicked the ball away, but East Carolina couldn't move it and returned the favor—with interest. On Wight-man's low kick, Butch Daniels was able to make a good return and romped 32 yards down to the East Carolina 36. Eight plays later and Golmon kicked the point.

The Bucs received the kickoff and then proceeded to go one, two, three, kick, and Daniels did it again, this time grabbing Wightman's low driving boot on his own 31 and going all the way to paydirt 69 yards away. Golmon booted the extra point and it was 14-0, and stayed that way into halftime.

Third Quarter
Tech took the second half kickoff, but penalties killed their drive and they had to give up the football.

The Bucs gained three yards on three plays and again faced the dilemma of kicking to Daniels. This time Daniels scooted only 29 yards to the Tech 46. A four yard run put the ball at midfield and then Bradshaw hit Spinks at the 30, and with a personal foul added, the ball moved down to the 15. Bradshaw again passed to Spinks on the four and then hit Herrin in the end zone for the score.

The kick failed and the score was 20-0.

The Bucs then had a budding drive thwarted when Lucius Conway intercepted a Mike Mills pass on the Tech 42.

Five plays later the score was 26-0 after Herrin got his third (Continued on page 6)

Baby Bucs Celebrate 'Coming Out' With 38-17 Win Over Davidson

East Carolina's Baby Bucs stealing a page from their namesakes, held their coming out party Friday afternoon and the forage produced a 38-17 decision over Davidson's freshmen before a handfull of faithful at Picklen Stadium.

Ater a lightning thrust worth 42 yards on a pass from Pete Wooley to William Mitchell had been wiped out by a Davidson touchdown pass of nine yards, the East Carolina freshmen clocked off three touchdowns in the second quarter and were in command from then on.

Mitchell, a 5-9, 170-pound streak from Fayetteville, scored three times for East Carolina. After the first one, he caught a nine-yarder from Wooley to put the Baby Bucs ahead for keeps and later on added a 47-yard punt return for a score.

But he had to share the offensive spotlight with Billy Wallace, a 5-11, 183-pounder from Edenton and Ronnie Peed, a 6-2, 183-pounder from Hurdle Mills. Wallace ran 22 times for 114 yards and two touchdowns and Peed gained 78 yards in 13 carries and chipped in with a score.

It was an awesome offensive attack that the East Carolina freshmen unloaded on Davidson. When it was all over, the Baby Bucs had gained 427 net yards on offense and on only one play in 67 did they find themselves losing ground from scrimmage.

Davidson, after gaining the lead at 7-6 with their first touchdown could not maintain the pace and by halftime, the outcome was inevitable.

The Wildkittens churned up 245 yards on total offense, 186 of it in the air, but they didn't have the necessary punch with the ground game to stay in the battle.

It was the opening game for Coach Bill Cain and the 1968 freshmen crew, conceded to be the best group ever to show up at East Carolina at one time. They wasted no time in getting on the scoreboard.

Stymied the first time they got the ball by a fumble, the Bucs were in business a few minutes later when Mitchell returned a punt nine yards to his own 43.

Ronnie Peed, Pete Wooley and Wallace worked up a first down and then some to the Davidson 2 before Wooley took to the air for the first time and nailed Mitchell down the right sideline on the 42-yard play.

Early in the second quarter, Davidson hit the scoreboard on a nine-yard pass and kicked the point to lead, 7-6, but the Bucs swarmed back like a bunch of angry bees to hit the score board three times before intermission. Another Wooley pass for nine yards got one, Wallace climaxed a drive with a one-yard plunge, and then Mitchell wheeled off with his 47-yard punt return for a 25-7 halftime score.

Davidson scored on a field goal and touchdown in the third period and early in the fourth quarter to get within eight points, but again the Baby Bucs cranked up their offense to pull completely out of reach with two fourth quarter scores. Wallace scored his second touchdown on a plunge to run the score up to 31-17. Moments later, Ronnie Peed ended the scoring with a beautiful 23-yard gallop. Peed headed up the middle, cut to his right, faked a Davidson defender out of his shoes at the ten, and scored the Baby Bucs' sixth and final touchdown. Gammache kicked the extra point for the final 38-17 margin.

The Baby Bucs get a week off before they play again on October 11. In that game, the N.C. State Wolflets come to do battle with the Baby Bucs. The Friday afternoon tilt will start at 3:00 P.M.

FROSH ROUT—The East Carolina Baby Bucs opened up their season with a bang Friday, as they bombed the visiting freshmen from Davidson to the tune of 38-17. Here a Pirate ball carrier runs into a little heavy traffic in the contest. The freshmen take a rest this weekend, but return to action October 11 when they tangle with the Wolflets of N. C. State in a Ficklen contest.

 score of the night and the conversion attempt was blocked by Stu Garrett. One big play that hurt the Bucs saw an interception by Tommy Bullock wiped out by a roughing-the-passer penalty which gave the Bulldogs the ball and a first down.

Fourth Quarter
 East Carolina again kicked and Daniels did it again, but for only 20 yards, to midfield. However, a clipping penalty at the 33 put the ball back to the Tech 18. Four first downs and nine plays later, the Bulldogs had a first and goal at the four where Sanchez ran it over and Golmon kicked for a 33-0 lead.

After receiving the kickoff, the Bucs again counted to three and then kicked, and Tech was in business at their 20, as Daniels lost 10 yards trying to get to the outside for a return.

The Bulldogs drove 79 yards and saw their last chance for a TD evaporate when John Adams fumbled the ball away inside the one yard line. East Carolina recovered, but all the play did was save five points as fullback Mike McGuirk was nailed in the end zone for a safety on the next play to run the count up to 35-0.

For the next few minutes, both teams exchanged punts, until with 1:38 left in the game, the Bucs got the ball on their own 41. Passing on every play Mills hit on three passes in five attempts to move the Bucs down to the Tech 36 yard line. With only :06 left in the game, Mills again dropped back to pass and found Jimmy Adkins in the end zone after the gun for a 36 yard touchdown to avert the shutout. Don Tyson came in and kicked the extra point for the final 35-7 score.
