ADVENTURE CAMERAMAN—Stanton Waterman, noted photographer-adventurer and producer of "Man Looks To The Sea" readies his camera for action underwater. The travel-adventure film will be shown Monday night in Wright.

Waterman Brings Adventure Of Ocean Life To Screen

Stanton Waterman, professional diver, explorer, and photographer, will present his travel-adventure film, "Man Looks To The Sea," Monday, October 7, at 7 p.m. in Wright Auditorium. This will kick-off the 1968-69 ECU Lecture Series, consisting of ten programs.

"Man Looks To The Sea" is a colorful, humorous, stirring, dramatic story of the sea. It concerns the explorers, hunters, and scientists in their quest for adventure and challenge.

The film is a composite of three expeditions in both the Atlantic and Pacific. Living and working with the native fisherman, he documented the Polynesian's relationship to the sea, as well as the life and ecology of the lagoons and deep reefs. By using refined techniques and specially designed equipment, he has recorded detail and action unique in underwater films.

Stanton Waterman heads his own movie production company, making television and lecture films, and research documentaries. Awards that he has won include the "Underwater Photographer of the Year," presented by Jacques Cousteau; and three top honors from the United Kingdom International Underwater Film Festival.

Stanton Waterman graduated from Dartmouth College, continued graduate work at Columbia University, and is a member of the Explorers Club. His films have appeared periodically on ABC Television. He is married and has three children.

According to Dean Alexander Assistant Dean of Student Affairs, "Stanton Waterman really makes a terrific show. This is his third consecutive season at ECU, and I'm sure that everyone will be well pleased with the performance."

Angel Flight Opens Rush To Pretty Side Of AFROTC

The General Chennault Flight at East Carolina University invites all interested coeds to Angel Flight Fall rush. Rushes must have fifteen ECU hours and a "C" average. There is no military obligation.

Rush will be held on Monday and Tuesday, October 7 and 8, at 7:00 p.m. in Room 201 of the Union. School clothes will be appropriate.

Angel Flight is an honorary service organization of dedicated college women who have the interests of the United States Air Force, the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Program, the Arnold Air Society, and their universities at heart. There are flights serving over 100 colleges in the United States and Puerto Rico and comprising over 3,000 women in this non-profit organization.

The purpose of the national Angel Flight are: to advance and promote interest in the Air Force, to educate the college women to military service and to promote the Arnold Air Society million. Angel Flight is recognized by the United States Air Force and receives support from the Air Force Association through the Arnold Air Society's sponsorship.

The first Angel Flight was founded at the University of Omaha in February, 1952. Angel Flight became a national organization in April, 1957.

In eight years ECU's Angel Flight has grown from a girl's drill team helping the Air Force ROTC with secretarial services to a thirty-one member service sorority whose purposes are: to maintain a high morale within the AFROTC unit of East Carolina University by serving as official hostesses; to further, through service, the recognition of the AFROTC of East Carolina University; to acquaint members of Angel Flight with the Air Force, Air Force ROTC, the air age and air education. Angels participate in the annual blood drive on campus, the Marchathon, Air Force ROTC Week, Parent's Day and various other campus activities.

The General Chennault Flight has several local honors which come periodically throughout the school year. These are the Homecoming Candidate, the Little Colonel, the Military Ball Queen, the Best Pledge award and the Leadership award. The Flight has been honored by having Who's Who students, Homecoming Queen and finalists, the Buccaneer Queen and finalists, city beauty queens and officers in various campus organizations.

Girls interested in Angel Flight, the Air Force and campus and community service, are welcome at Fall Rush. Remember there is no obligation in the service after graduation.

James C. Gardner, Republican nominee for Governor of North Carolina will be on campus this Friday to meet and talk with the students of East Carolina. All interested persons are invited to attend the informal meeting which will be held in the CU between 2:45 and 3:30 p.m. The visit is sponsored by the Young Republicans Club of ECU. The Rocky Mount native last week won a preferential election as the ECU students' choice for the next state governor.

Frances Heads Youth For Nixon; Active YRC Sees Wallace Threat

George R. Francis, Jr. was officially appointed to head up the North Carolina Youth for Nixon Campaign at a press conference held by Charlie Jonas, Jr. — Chairman of the State Nixon for President Campaign, and Willis Smith — Chairman of the United Citizens for Nixon-Agnew.

Francis is a Jr. at East Carolina majoring in Political Science and Economics. Presently he is serving as President of the State Student Legislature of North Carolina, and is Chairman of the University Party here at East Carolina.

Formerly he has served in the legislature as Speaker Pro Tempore and Parliamentarian and was Chairman of the ECU Young Republicans. Last summer Francis represented the U.S. at ISMUN Conference in Geneva, Switzerland.

Very active in Republican politics for many years, he has recently worked with the National Youth for Nixon-Agnew, and the United Citizens for Nixon-Agnew.

Francis pointed out that in "Choice 68" returns, Richard Nixon was the choice of well over half the campus's in N.C.

When asked what he thought would be the major threat to Nixon's N.C. Campaign Francis said, "I consider Mr. Wallace to be the major threat to the Nixon Campaign in N.C."

Flue Vaccine

The Infirmary has a limited supply of flu vaccine. It will be available in a series of two injections for those students who have not had the series. The first shot should be taken in the first of October; the second in the first of December. For those students who just need a booster, they can obtain it during the first of December. Please come by the Infirmary between 12 Noon and 2 P.M. Monday through Friday.

The Right Of Dissention

Last week the EAST CAROLINIAN began an editorial column dealing with a columnist's views of religion. Also on the column agenda are essays dealing with style, liberal political thought, conservative political thought, and campus political thought.

Some people may wonder about the justification of placing these works in a student newspaper for consumption by more than 8,500 people. The very diversity of subjects covered provides a ready explanation.

This publication does not ask that the members of the East Carolina University student body agree with the thought of all, or even any, of these editorial columns. They are included in this newspaper to present a divergence of views about a variety of topics. It is the intent of their writers to inform and to provoke careful thought about the issues presented.

The right of dissention with the views of these columnists is one inherent to each member of this student body. These writers even expect some of their readers to disagree with some of the opinions presented in their works.

The EAST CAROLINIAN has a special area prescribed for those persons who wish to put their disagreement in writing. The EC Forum is designed specifically for that purpose, and also serves as an outlet for student opinion on a variety of other subjects.

Every student on this campus can find some aspect of life here with which he would like to disagree and improve. Only when those disagreements are aired openly can any meaningful reform occur. The ECU Forum is designed to fill that void in campus life.

Politics Looks Eastward

The campus Gardner for Governor group has announced that gubernatorial candidate Jim Gardner will be on the East Carolina University mall Friday in an informal session.

Gardner's popularity with the students of ECU was revealed last week, when he swept a mock election that pitted him against his Democratic opponent, Lt. Governor Bob Scott.

Friday's visit by the Congressman and gubernatorial candidate points out the importance of East Carolina University and the East in the upcoming election. Both candidates have been openly courting the student body, in hopes of gaining their and their parents' votes in November.

It also demonstrates quite vividly the increase in prestige of this institution since it became a full-fledged university last year. Prior to that date, candidates for election often overlooked the value of personal campaigning in the ECU area. It has become "good politics" to openly campaign in this area, as demonstrated by Gardner's Friday visit (one of several in the past six months). The Democrats also have been quick to realize the value of East Carolina University and eastern North Carolina to their campaigns, as Scott has also made trips to speak in the area.

Perhaps this type of attitude toward East Carolina and the East reveals a changing trend in state politics; perhaps the often-criticized drive for university status by this institution's president has paid off in increased emphasis on the East in state political circles.

If such is the case, Dr. Leo W. Jenkins deserves a great deal of gratitude from the people of eastern North Carolina for his efforts in this area. Though his primary motives may have been directed exclusively at obtaining university status for East Carolina, the side-effects seem to have been quite favorable to the residents of the seaboard side of this state.

Visits by such political figures as Gardner and Scott do more than emphasize the increased prestige of East Carolina University; they build it to even greater heights.

When a one year old university can command such attention from important political figures, the direction of the political wind seems to be taking a definite change for the better . . . and that change is largely the result of the work of this university's president.

East Carolina University and the people of eastern North Carolina owe Dr. Jenkins a debt of gratitude for his work.

ECU Forum

Hats Off

I could not believe that the EAST CAROLINIAN published an Editorial concerning the Greenville Police. Have you lost your mind? Do you question this fine University and the law that protects the students from each other? Well it's about time you did! The EAST CAROLINIAN is the only unifying aspect of our University; it is your responsibility to do so.

Did you contact the Greenville Police Department and ask how many ABC officers and policemen were on the South side and how many people were questioned about drinking on the South side. Maybe the Police don't think there is any drinking in that Section. If this is the case, you should tell them — there is.

Perhaps you should also survey the Parking Problem. For example you find out how many parking spaces are available on campus for Day students, Dorm students, etc. Then see how many students of each category are registered at ECU. Find out how many students had their cars towed off by the Greenville Police since school started. You might be amazed at your answers.

Ask the Administration for the number of available parking spaces for students on campus — then count them yourself. Also investigate the legality of the five dollar registration fee for automobiles on campus when as published in the EAST CAROLINIAN the money is used to build parking lots. These are problems of the students but it is your job, duty and responsibility to find the true answers and tell the students.

If you do not accept this responsibility then you have no right to encourage the students not to join these radical groups that are arising on our campus. I believed student riots are caused because responsible people ignore new problems. Perhaps in your article "Police Blow their Cool" you have begun to accept your responsibility — Hats off to the EAST CAROLINIAN.

Sincerely,

R. W. Johnson

Fraternities

What in the hell is James Hord trying to do to me? I am referring to his editorial in the September 19 issue of the EAST CAROLINIAN.

Knowing that typical ECU apathy is still ruling the roost, I deem it necessary to write a letter in defense of the Greek system.

I certainly like to see my name in the paper, but not when I find Hord turning my own creation (the Pseudo Man) against me.

Fraternities when used properly are a great asset to any campus. They bring a person out. This can be seen by a quick look through last year's BUCANEER.

Look at the pictures of (1) the student government, (2) the Marshalls, (3) the Who's Who section. A great deal of these people are members of a fraternity or a Sorority.

In May, when I began my self-imposed exile out here, I was confronted with hippies, beards, bells, and bangles; levis, torn jeans, and paint splattered sweatshirts. After several months of this, an individual will begin to lose his happy frame of mind.

In a big university an individual is lost. That is a plain fact. A person needs to find a loyal group of people to depend on. One may find such a group in your dorm suite-mates, a newspaper, a club, a literary magazine, or a fraternity.

Certainly fraternities have their faults but doesn't every group? It just depends on one's sense of identity. Dress is a matter of one's own tastes. Among college students, it is different all over the nation.

In closing, I would like to state that a fraternity can produce individuality. One is encouraged to go out and do things for his school, his fraternities, and his brothers.

Thank you, Mr. Hord. Aside from my few comments, I find your editorial quite enjoyable.

Larry Mulvihill

'Pseudo-man'

Mr. Larry Mulvihill:

One point I would like to clarify. I was not alluding to the controversial "pseudo-man" in a derogatory or facetious manner. Instead, I was merely using his image in an objective manner to convey my point.

In order to acquaint the freshmen and new students with "pseudo-man," I would like to quote from your column "The Watering Hole," Jan. 11, 1968. You wrote, " . . . 'pseudo-man' has established himself as the all-time campus clod. Two days ago, he walking through the C.U., with his head so far up in the clouds, that he tripped over the tassels on his loafers and slammed his head into the mouth of a nearby trashcan."

Or, to borrow a quote from the Oct. 12, 1967 issue in which you were describing "pseudo-man," "Picture this if possible: One cool, suave male, sunglasses, hair immaculate and his tassel loafers polished to a blinding glare. Couple these with pants pulled up to his armpits, sweater tucked into his waistband, and shirt with the fly-away collars."

Any slur which you may have read into my article is unfortunate. Anyway, thanks for your comment. Dissention is welcomed at any time.

— James Hord, Editorial Editor.

The WORD Speaks

By Bob Lindfelt

Last week I opened a stage setting of life that fits nearly all people in the world today. This setting was based on the negatives that surround us and permeate through our life. Fear, Worry, Doubt, and Disbelief were the key characters in the setting, for these influence man more than anything else. Just look at our mode of life, TV, radio, newspapers, and our everyday conversation. All these are centers of references for injecting negativism in our life.

In this article, I would like to show a source that is the only thing in the world that can eliminate these characters of Fear, Worry, Doubt and Disbelief, and replace them with an abundant life of confidence, trust, faith, and believing.

People today, especially young people, want something that makes sense, something that they can really get a hold of and work in their life to get some questions answered about life, death, the future and be able to live the more abundant life. The source is the integrity and inerrant accuracy of the Word of God.

Now let us use logic and common sense. If God is Perfect, the creator of the heavens and earth, then logically his word must be perfect. And if it is perfect then it cannot be split into a thousand different versions as our denominations have. If we want truth, we have to get back to the author of truth. And only in studying his word in its accuracy and greatness can we find truth.

What I propose is that people go back to the word of God, rightly dividing it, so that they might know what God truly has to say.

"For the word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing assunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart." Hebrews 4:12.

Next issue completing this series is "The Way Home."

Students Concerned Over Campus Housing

By BILL DIUGUID

One of the problems facing East Carolina in its campus growth is in the area of campus housing. Many ECU students are concerned over the policy of dorm construction. Most of the new mens' dorms are being constructed at the top of College Hill Drive and the new womens' dorms are being constructed at the other extreme end of the campus in the area of Fletcher and Greene Dorms. Students feel that this policy of segregated dorm construction defeats one of the purposes of a co-ed institution.

Once East Carolina starts expanding across Fifth Street from Fletcher Dorm and builds dorms all the way down to the river, all of them womens' dorms, imagine the walk a student living on the "Hill" will have, to go get his date, who lives in a dorm facing the Tar River.

Many of the universities of the nation and the South have experimented with Co-Ed Dormitory Complexes, that is, one dorm men and one dorm women, located in close proximity, with communal recreation and eating accommodations. Some of the more progressive schools have tried co-ed single dorms set up on a basis of one floor women and one floor men or one suite women and one suite men. These schools have witnessed a distinguishable drop in the level of promiscuity and other provocative incidents such as pregnancies and have found that the level of maturity observable in co-ed dormitory students was decidedly higher than segregated dorm students.

One of the main arguments presented against this type of setup is the women are oftentimes not ready for this type of living, but if they are able to leave their homes and go to a large city and get an apartment without any supervision, they certainly are ready for integrated living with the opposite sex in Greenville, North Carolina.

Attention

The EAST CAROLINIAN will accept all notices of interest to the student body subject to the approval of the staff. Notices for the Tuesday issue must be in by 4 p.m. on Sunday; and by 1 p.m. Tuesday for Thursday issue.

What is "The Dickey" what the EAST CAROLINIAN out to discover.

The music of "The Dickey" has been described as raga, psychedelic - jazz - and everything else. But in fact, the group simply simplification. The music is different and definite.

Their major influence is drummer Lyndon Warren. "Classical, Rusty Warren." The most of their own is they also draw from blues and the music of whom they greatly admire, Ian Craig.

The lead singer is a brunette who calls "trend" toward girl groups, she replied, "bore. It's not really a just something that I've heard."

When "The Dickey" together two years ago, pop groups with few were "We Five" and "the Papas." No several including Janis Joplin, but "don't feel that this r go much further than ready.

'The Dickens' Swing Out To Groovy Beat Of People

By ROYALL NEWTON

What is "The Dickens"? That is what the EAST CAROLINIAN set out to discover.

The music of "The Dickens" has been described as raga - rock - folk-psychedelic - jazz - and just about everything else. But in point of fact, the group simply defies classification. The music is fresh and different and definitely their own. Their major influences, according to drummer Lyndon Henthorn, have been "Classical, Musak, and Rusty Warren." The Dickens write most of their own material, but they also draw from traditional blues and the music of Bob Dylan, whom they greatly admire. As guitarist, Ian Craig says, "We've been influenced by everything we've ever heard."

The lead singer is a dark-eyed brunette who calls herself Zak. When asked about the current "trend" toward girl singers in rock groups, she replied, "I think it's a bore. It's not really a trend at all, just something that happened."

When "The Dickens" first got together two years ago, the only pop groups with female vocalists were "The Mamas" and "The Papas." Now there are several including Grace Slick and Janis Joplin, but "The Dickens" don't feel that this movement will go much further than it has already.

The group came originally from Canada though Zak is a naturalized American citizen. Lyndon has several stories about how he came to join the group. According to one, he swam across Niagara Gorge and then worked in New York. Another more likely story is that he stole his mother's purse and bought a plane ticket. Jim Ackroyd, leader and bass player, offers a brief explanation of Lyndon. "He's wierd." The group has played in Greenwich Village and other parts of the country. At the conclusion of their current tour they plan to release their first album.

As to their goals as a group, Ian says, "We have the same pretty, materialistic goals as everyone." (Laughing in the background)

"We want to make people happy," adds Jim. "We thrive on people."

"My goal is to get some new soles for my shoes," says Lyndon, as he displays a gaping hole in the bottom of his boot. Then he continued in a more serious vein. "We just want to make people groove — make them smile."

'C' Average Tags Leaders On Campus

East Carolina University has accomplished a feat that man has been working on since the beginning of time. EC has placed a definite tag, a "C" average, on leadership, beauty, the ability to make decisions, the ability to get along with others, ingenuity, skill, and the general ability to function as a part of the University.

I, not being one to gripe, would like to give a few examples of the aspects of good character that have been "tagged."

First, student legislators have to have a 2.0 average. This assuredly eliminates some very capable and concerned students who just don't happen to have a "C" average at the time of elections, or who possibly have never had a 2.0. Thus, leadership is "tagged."

Secondly, and possibly more ridiculous, is the fact that in order to be a contestant in Homecoming or any school sponsored contest of this nature, one must have that of "C". Here we have personality and beauty pinned with a "TAG". Most campus organizations require the basic "C" for membership. Unreasonable as it may seem, the 2.0 average is a prerequisite for being an integral part of East Carolina University.

In offering a solution, I feel that as a Freshman one must be required to gain a favorable average to participate in school activities as well as to get off to a good start in academic affairs. However, after the freshman year, ones study habits are very basically set. Then after the first college year, arbitrary rules are unfair if not openly discriminatory.

Rumor has it that beginning next quarter a "C" average is required for use of water fountains, bathroom facilities, Soda Shop privileges, etc.

NEW SCIENCE STRUCTURE—Work on the new Science Building draws near conclusion, as workmen attempt to ready the structure for use next fall.

'Rosemary's Baby' Brings Suspense To Local Screen

Movies in the Greenville area this week are of only routine interest with the exception of the Plaza Cinema's current attraction, "Rosemary's Baby." The film, which stars Mia Farrow and John Cassavetes, is based on the best-selling suspense novel of the same name by Ira Levin. Those who have read the book will enjoy the director's detailed faithfulness to the original and will find themselves being caught up in the suspense even though they know the story. For those who haven't read the book, the story concerns a young married couple who move into an old apartment building where strange things happen. After becoming pregnant, the young wife begins to suspect everyone from her neighbors to her husband of trying to tamper with her unborn. The suspense builds to an unsuspected, surprise climax. Go see it; it's a chiller. The film plays until Wednesday the 9th.

For a good laugh, you might take in the Friday free flick (Wright, 7 and 9 pm), "The Ghost and Mr. Chicken." Don Knotts stars as a timid typesetter on a small town newspaper. He is persuaded by his boss to stay overnight in a haunted house to get a good story and become a full-fledged reporter.

The State Theater is playing "Any Gun Can Play" until Saturday the 5th. The film is a run-of-the-mill western starring Ed Byrnes and Gilbert Roland. "Paris in the Month of August," with Charles Aznavour and Susan Hampshire, will then play through Tuesday, the 8th. The plot centers on a husband and father who becomes a summer bachelor in Paris and finds a new romance with a visiting English model. She leaves for home, but not before the brief encounter turns into full-blown love. "Villa Rides," a Mexican western starring Robert Mitchum, begins Wednesday the 9th.

Today is the last day to see the new Taylor-Burton film, "Boom!" at the Pitt Theatre. The film, which was critically panned, is based on Tennessee Williams' Broadway flop, "The Milk Train Doesn't Stop Here Anymore." Beginning tomorrow and playing through Wednesday the 9th will be another tragi-comic western, "Bandelero!," starring Dean Martin, James Stuart, and Raquel Welch. In it, Dino and his band of desperatos are about to be hanged. The visiting hangman is in reality one of their men (James Stuart) and he helps them escape. They all go to the Bandelero country of Mexico, where they capture a senorita (Raquel Welch) for hostage to use against the posse that is hunting for them.

For those who can get to a TV, The CBS Thursday Night Movie tonight will be Tennessee Williams' "Night of the Iguana," with Richard Burton and Ava Gardner.

Students interested in making $3.00-$5.00 per hour part-time may contact Doug Emerson at The Fixture House. Great part-time opportunity for men or women. Transportation is necessary. Phone 752-6618.

Dirty Dozen, APO Lead

Intramural Football Kicks Off At EC

Intramural football entered its second week of action with great balance among the teams. Inter-league play this week found the Dirty Dozen leading the Independent League with a 2-0 record by way of a forfeit from the Shady Oak team and a 40-6 victory over AFROTC. The Little Bombers shelled the Rebels 33-7 in their first game and the Yankees rallied to tie them 6-6 in the second game. The Bombers are tied for the second position with the Yankees with 1-0-1 records by virtue of a 12-6 win by the Yankees over Tuckerstein's Raiders in their first game.

In Fraternity League action last week, Alpha Phi Omega emerged as the only undefeated team with a 3-0 record. They had victories over Phi Kappa Tau and Delta Sigma Pi. Lambda Chi was beaten by Theta Chi handily and then rebounded to upset previously undefeated Pi Kappa Phi 19-15, on a brilliant display of scoring by Bill Austin, who tallied all of Lambda Chi's points.

Phi Epsilon Kappa remained in strong contention for the top spot with victories over Sigma Phi Epsilon and Kappa Sigma. Pi Kappa Alpha, which lost its opening game has jumped back into contention with three straight wins to join Lambda Chi, Phi Epsilon and Pi Kappa Alpha in a tie for second place, all with 3-1 records.

The deadline date for Cross-country and badminton is Friday, October 4, and Volleyball competition will start this coming Monday, October 7 at 4:00 p.m. Schedules may be picked up in the intramural office at Minges Coliseum.

Bullet Guard Expects To Flare With NBA During '69

He may be nearing his "Last Hurrah" but veteran guard Don Ohl of the Atlanta Hawks feels the coming National Basketball Association season will be one of the finest of his pro career.

Ohl, who was obtained from Baltimore last January 21, had a 14.0 point per game average last season in 70 games—31 in Hawks livery.

Ohl, a former University of Illinois All-American, will be starting his ninth season of pro ball, but his first full campaign with the Hawks when the Atlanta Club meets his old mates in Minges Coliseum on October 12th. He was originally drafted by Philadelphia (in 1958) but decided to play a couple of seasons of amateur basketball with the famed Peoria Cats before turning to the pro ranks.

Philadelphia sold the rights to his contract to Detroit in 1960, and Ohl proceeded to set scoring marks with the Pistons during his four-year stay with that club. He was traded to Baltimore in a seven-player deal in 1964.

He has appeared in five NBA All-Star games, a tribute to his overall play.

The past two seasons have not been especially happy ones for the Edwardsville, Illinois native. He suffered a knee injury with Baltimore three years ago and the ailment hampered his play during that period. And Ohl claims the Bullets failed to set-up a proper conditioning program for him last summer.

"I've worked on a recovery program every day at Jewish Hospital in St. Louis the past summer," Ohl said. "and the knee is 100 per cent better than it was when the season ended."

"Our former team doctor, Stan London, is one of the best bone men in the country and he feels the leg should be stronger than before the injury," Ohl relates. "I know I have much more mobility than I had before and that means I can get my shot away quicker. We had a happy club last year at St. Louis and I wasn't ever happy at Baltimore. That's one reason I'm looking forward to playing this season. I still feel I have at least two good years left."

East Carolina Cross-Country Flees Away With Victories

The East Carolina Cross-Country team started their season off on the right foot by trouncing the University of Richmond and Virginia Military Institute as Ken Voss and Don Jayroe, the Bucs' two top runners, each came in with a first place finish. Voss finished second in the Richmond meet to Jayroe and came in first against V.M.I. when Jayroe was unable to compete, along with two other ECU runners.

Against Richmond on Saturday, East Carolina captured 11 of the top 12 positions in a field of 25 runners. For ECU, Don Jayroe came in first with a fine time of 26-minutes and 48 seconds over the five mile course, and Ken Voss was second in 27 minutes and 15 seconds. The final score of the meet, with low score winning, was ECU 18, Richmond 45.

On the following Monday, the

ECU Swim Team Elects Co-Captains

Seniors John Sultan and Robert Moynihan have been elected co-captains of the 1968-69 edition of the East Carolina University Swimming Team by their teammates.

Both Sultan, who hails from Fitchburg, Mass., and Moynihan, who is from Alexandria, Virginia, are two year lettermen. Sultan is a philosophy major while Moynihan is majoring in math.

Moynihan, who did not swim in high school, begins his fourth year of competitive swimming for the Pirates. He swims strictly freestyle and is the 1968 Southern Conference champion in the event.

Sultan was Massachusetts State Champion in the 100 yard freestyle in 1965 when he was a senior in high school. In 1963, he broke a Southern Conference record in the 400 yard individual medley with a time of 4:40.26.

Sultan received an honorable mention for All-American while competing in the NCAA Swim Championships held last season in Atlanta, Georgia.

Both Moynihan and Sultan were members of the relay team which set a varsity record in the 400 yard relay.

Pirate harriers beat V.M.I. by the perfect score of 15 to 50. Ken Voss set the pace for the Pirates as he finished with a time of 26 minutes and 31 seconds for the hilly 5.2 mile course. The Pirates swept the first seven places in the meet enroute to their smashing victory.

The next test for the Pirate distance runners will be on Saturday October 5, at the Daytona Beach Invitational in Florida.

Bucs Yardage Rise Despite Defeats

Sophomore tailback Mike Mills netted 149 yards in total offense last week in his first start, to move into third place in the East Carolina University statistical picture.

Billy Wightman, who saw limited duty last week because of an injury, remains the total offense leader with 179 yards in three games. Fullback Butch Colson, who personally had more net yards than the entire team in rushing against Louisiana Tech last week, has climbed into second place. Colson has 147 yards rushing in three games and three passing on two completions in four attempts.

Jimmy Adkins is the leading pass receiver with six to his credit for 117 yards and two touchdowns. Bob Withrow snared four against Louisiana Tech and now has 80 yards with six receptions for the season.

As a team, the Pirates are averaging 211 yards a game to 276 for the opposition. The Bucs have given up 319 yards rushing and 509 passing.

SWIM CAPTAINS—Members of the 1968-69 East Carolina swimming team have selected John Sultan and Robert Moynihan as captains for the upcoming season. Both are veterans of the Pirate pool wars of last year.

Big problem.

Simple solution:

New Honda.

This lean, lithe Honda 125 Super Sport can be the answer to a lot of problems besides parking.

Consider price. You can buy this beauty at an impressively low initial price; fuel it for a fraction of what you'd spend on a four-wheel gas gulper. And, of course, there are the pleasantly painless costs of maintaining and insuring a Honda.

The 125 Super Sport couples lightweight economy with red hot performance features. Its dependable four-stroke parallel twin engine produces a dazzling 13 bhp; acceleration that matches the best of them.

And styling. The 125 Super Sport is nothing but class from its streamlined pipes to its sculptured tank to its rugged telescopic front forks. The sleek and sassy 125 Super Sport. Is there a better way to solve your problems?

GARDNER FOR GOV—Gardner made a campaign meeting about 300 students.

Gardner For Gov

Stressing the need for a new port of youth, Republican candidate John Gardner addressed a large group of students in the College Union building last night.

The session was an open house in which Gardner met with students present and answered questions during a question period, forsaking a prepared text.

Richardson For Speaker

A stiff fight is expected in the SGA legislature today as the Student Party and the Union Party square off in a contest for the new speaker of the house.

Bill Richardson, Student Party entry in the SGA election, and C. Stokes, the 1968 Summer School speaker, are expected to enter the final round.

Both candidates and their respective parties have amassed a long list of qualifications for their respective offices.

Richardson, who has been named chairman of the legislature's important committees, has also served on the State Student and Model United Nations committees and is also a member of the national committee and the national relations committee.

Stokes, in addition to his past service in the present chamber, is the present chairman of the East Carolina delegation to the State Student Legislature and the National Model United Nations.

Nat'l Teacher

East Carolina University has been designated as the site for administering the National Teacher Examination on November 9. Eligible to take the exam are college seniors who are currently teaching or who have held teaching positions in school systems. The applicant must submit a score of 80 or higher on the scores. Bulletins of information regarding registration and containing registration forms may be obtained from the Department of Education and Psychology at ECU, or by writing to the National Teacher Examination Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey.
