East Carolinian Studies Much-Divided Activity Fees

By JAMES HORD
AND DON BENSON

Where does the money go that is collected from the student activity fee each quarter?

Many students have asked this question and for the first time the EAST CAROLINIAN has been able to obtain an overall picture of the distribution of this money.

Since the information concerning this year's activity fee is not yet in, we will have to use the figures given for last year's expenditures (fiscal year 1967-68). Each full-time student was required to pay a $27.00 activity fee each quarter during the academic year, and a $14.00 fee for each session of summer school.

The total amount collected last year was $763,317 (less adjustments and withdrawals). This money is allotted to five different areas, or functions. They are as follows:

- Student Fund $225,221 (30% of the total)
- Athletic Fund $168,955 (22%)
- Student Union Fund $138,428 (18%)
- Stadium Revenue Fund $4,773 (1%)
- Coliseum Revenue Fund $200,248 (26%)

Percentages do not total 100 because a special Reserve Fund was set up to provide construction for a sidewalk, and has since been discontinued.

The above distribution of the student activity fee is controlled by the Board of Trustees of East Carolina University. This has been a source of complaint by many students because they do not have any say as to how this money will be spent.

The largest single allotment goes to the Student Fund, which finances the Student Government Association. This accounts for approximately 30% of the total amount collected.

If all the functions dealing with sports were combined, athletics would be the largest expenditure. Totalling the amounts allotted to the Athletic Fund, Stadium Revenue Fund, and the Coliseum Revenue Fund, the result comes to $373,974. In other words, expenditures for sports accounts for approximately 50% of the activity fee.

The amount allotted to the Student Union Fund comes to around 18% of the total. This may have to be increased in the future because of the need for a new student union.

According to Mr. F. D. Duncan, the business manager, "no" money from the activity fee is used to finance or build academic buildings, dorms, or any general campus property.

A general breakdown of how the money has been spent has not been published in the past or distributed to the students. This is because "the SGA hasn't thought it to be necessary," said Mr. Duncan. "After all, it's public information and it's available in my office for anyone who wants to see it."

Even though the information is in his office "available for anyone who wants to see it," members of the staff of the EAST CAROLINIAN were unable to get this information for quite some time. This project began during the first part of July and only last week were we able to obtain the information.

Projections for expenditures during the 1968-69 fiscal year are as follows: Student Fund—28% of total, Student Union Fund—17%, Athletic Fund—21%, Stadium Fund—10%, and Coliseum Fund—24%.

These figures are based on a student activity fee of $29.00 per quarter during the 1968-69 academic year.

BONNIE AND CLYDE?—No, these are members of the East Carolina Playhouse cast of "U. S. A.," the dramatic revue by Paul Shyre and John Dos Passos, which runs in McGinnis Auditorium December 9-12 and in Wilmington December 13-15. The cast includes Amanda Muir (replacing Carmen Smith), Mark Ramsey, Harriet Flanagan, Cullen Johnson, Jim Boswell, and Barbara Simpson.

AFROTC Cadets Win Renown For March Of Dimes Effort

By DANNY WILLIAMS

Cadets of the AFROTC detachment at East Carolina University have received national honors for their creative efforts in their campaign for the National Foundation of the March of Dimes.

The foundation selected the best fund-raising project held last year in each of six southern states. The Marchathon held by the AFROTC Cadet Corps and the Angel Flight at East Carolina was selected as the best in North Carolina.

Senior Ashby D. Elmore was selected to address the convention of the foundation concerning this project on the basis of his capability and his holding the position of AFROTC Group Commander for the fall quarter. His ten minute address was honored with a lengthy standing ovation from the 600 persons attending the convention. As a result of Ashby's efforts and the success of the Marchathon in Greenville, details of ECU's project will soon be sent to every Air Force ROTC detachment in the nation by the National Foundation of the March of Dimes.

Mrs. Louise Carrigan, Pitt County chairman for the March of Dimes presented this award to ECU president Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, AFROTC commander Lt. Col. Douglas Carty, Cadet Col. Ashby Elmore, Cadet Lt. Col. John Davis, and Sandra Hill, representing the Angel Flight. The award was a ceramic and wood plaque signed by foundation president Basil O'Connor and cites the cadets for "distinguished voluntary leadership in the fight against birth defects".

The Marchathon raised $2500 last year and it is hoped that this year's campaign will yield even a larger sum. The Drill Team plans to march this year in late January or early February on the Saturday of the March of Dimes week. They will march and continue without rest until the other cadets and members of the Angel Flight located throughout the city and Farmville collect contributions from the passing motorists and pedestrians until the total exceeds that of last year.

Thanks to the cadets of AFROTC, East Carolina will soon be known as the home of the original Marchathon.

Dr. Jenkins Indicates Necessity For Activity Fee Application

"The student activity fee is necessary if we are to have first rate activities at ECU, and it may have to be raised in the future."

This is the point made by Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, president of East Carolina University, in an interview regarding the student activity fee.

He made it clear that he favors state appropriations for the activities, but the state legislature will not give money to support these functions and bonds cannot be obtained.

A new student union, better housing for married students, and the continuation of first rate cultural entertainment—such as Vance Packard—are activities which the student activity fee will cover.

"The only way we are going to be able to get these things is for the students to pay for them. After all, they are going to be the ones using them," stated Dr. Jenkins.

He pointed out that other schools in the state use the same set-up.

An analogy was made with the gasoline tax. This money is used to build highways, and is paid for by the motorists. The same principle can be applied to the activity fee.

Dr. Jenkins cited the need for a new student union. The present union can handle only about 5,000 students adequately, and the enrollment here is expected to reach 12,000 in the next few years. The only way can provide for a new student union is through use of the activity fee.

He made the point that the consensus of the students indicates that they are willing to pay for these things in order to create a better school.

Speaking of the SGA, Dr. Jenkins stated that it is "near the top of the pile." Other schools are surprised to hear the large amount of money that our SGA handles," he said. "This shows that we put a lot of trust in our students here."

He also pointed out that the "Rebel" was voted as one of the top college literary magazines in the nation, and the prospect that the EAST CAROLINIAN may go daily someday. "The only way to maintain these publications is by activity fees."

Several expenditures that he hoped would not be necessary—such as the ones for buildings—later became so. What it boils down to is this: Either we can have these activities or not—but in order to have them, the students must pay the price.

EC Players Tour After Home Stint

The East Carolina Playhouse production of "U.S.A." is going on the road. Yes, immediately following the final curtain of the Greenville run, the cast, crew, and staff currently rehearsing the Paul Shyre-John Dos Passos revue will pack their set, music, and lights and travel to Wilmington for a three-night stint at historic Thalian Hall.

Because of the tour, dates for the performances in McGinnis Auditorium have been pushed up to December 9-12 to permit performances in Wilmington on December 13-15.

According to director Edgar Loessin, the chance to perform "U.S.A." in Wilmington's Thalian Hall is a rare opportunity to match material and atmosphere.

SERVICE AWARD—East Carolina president, Leo W. Jenkins, receives an award honoring the AFROTC for participation in the National Foundation for the March of Dimes. Giving the award is Mrs. Louise Carrigan of the Foundation, as Cadet Col. Ashby Elmore, Lt. Col. Douglas Carty, Sandra Hill, and Cadet Lt. Col. John Davis look on.

Book-Buying Racket

Once again the ugly monster of the book-buying "racket" has raised its head, leaving students once again at financial short ends.

Every quarter new text books are required in many courses, which are worth only one half their original price at the end of the quarter. These are, in turn, sold for three-quarters of the original price.

However, the same book, if sold again, will follow the same process, allowing the same margin of profit for as many quarters as the book remains usable. If this book were used for five quarters, as many books are, profits from reselling would equal the cost at its original sale.

This however, is not the major problem with the book situation on this campus. The problem is accentuated by the fact that many professors choose to change textbooks for a particular course every quarter. This leads to a situation in which the student, having finished the course, is unable to sell the book for any price.

Add to this the fact that some courses are available only one quarter per year. Textbooks purchased for this course will not be bought at the previously mentioned half-price. A shipping fee will be allotted to the student wishing to sell such a book. This usually amounts to 10-25% of the original cost, giving the student a 75-90% loss on the book.

A host of solutions have been proposed for this problem. Perhaps the most feasible is to require all professors to use a textbook for a certain number of quarters. This would allow each student to know the text being used and to know how long it will be used. The decision of buying either new or used books could be made on the basis of that information.

Some reform is necessary in the business of buying and selling textbooks, due to the rising costs of obtaining an education. Economies can best be made in the area of books, but some change in the present system will have to be made.

Democratic Process?

Each year, nearly $800,000.00 is paid by the student body in the form of student activity fees. This money is included in the fees which are payable at the beginning of each academic quarter.

This student activity fee is turned over to the Board of Trustees for appropriation. This group divides these funds into six categories, which include Student, Athletic, Student Union, Reserve, Stadium, and Coliseum Funds.

Students have no representation on the Board of Trustees and thus have no voice in the allocation of student activity funds.

Many members of the student body disagree with this policy of the university, feeling that students should be included on discussions leading toward the allotment of this vast sum of money.

It is not the intention or the prerogative of the student to formulate policy for this university. However, it is the general feeling that the addition of students to this group would go a long way toward insuring that these funds would be more adequately appropriated to areas of students' interest.

The administration has indicated that they feel this money is being spent in the student interest, and that, the addition of students to discussions by the Board of Trustees is unnecessary.

It would be, then, of little significance to the Board of Trustees if students were added to the meetings dealing with the appropriation of the activity fee; on the other hand, it would go a long way toward an improvement of student confidence in the work of the Board of Trustees, with regard to such financial matters.

These student members would not necessarily be voting members of the Board; they would, however, serve in an advisory capacity. Logical selections from the student body would include outstanding student government workers, such as the president, treasurer, and legislators. These would certainly be able to speak much more adequately for the student body than any member of the administration, no matter how well-intentioned.

Crew Difficulties

Dear Editor:

I am a member of the East Carolina crew. I have read Mr. Roberson's articles with interest concerning the sport.

East Carolina currently has a club which participates on a varsity level with other colleges across the nation. The club is now in its third year. The crew is a club and as such is not a part of the Athletic Department, nor is our coach, Vic Pezzulla.

Recently (November 19) Mr. Roberson suggested high school teams be initiated in Eastern North Carolina. Most East Carolina oarsmen can inform you of the tribulations a beginning crew must undergo. East Carolina's crew receives very little school support. Without Dr. Jenkins' encouragement and intervention last year the crew would probably not exist.

East Carolina works out nine months a year, most high schools would not advocate such a stringent and demanding sport. Boredom is not a problem, but money and outside interest are. East Carolina's crew lack both it seems.

I would like to see the area high schools form a league. Northern Virginia, New York, Pennsylvania, Florida, and Massachusetts high schools have crew as a standard sport. North Carolina certainly has the resources and personnel to participate in School Boy competition, it lacks only interest.

Rowing means hard work. East Carolina's crew has accepted such a challenge and it is paying off. We managed to post a winning season last year while acquiring a reputation for bad luck. And we will return this season if determination has any bearing on the matter.

Only, tell me: how does one go about beginning an expensive sport for a high school when Eastern North Carolina's own university refuses to support the sport?

Yours truly,
Brown Mims

Two Questions

Dear Editor:

I've been following your editorials and letters in the Forum concerning the concerts. It seems that both have brought needed attention to an unpleasant situation. My only addition is that the artist themselves have added to the problem by their frequent late starts. Many persons have plans following the concerts, others have babysitters at home, and long shows make it necessary for them to leave.

To keep your column busy I am submitting two questions which I hope will be answered through your paper by the SGA. Several years ago we (student body) voted to pay a service charge for more and better entertainment which we certainly "have" received. It doesn't seem however that since we pay this service charge for every concert that any of our activity fee is now being used. What have the concerts this fall cost? What did they use to cost? What has the revenue been from service charges and general admission? The service charge should offset what we use to pay and what the costs are today.

My second question is: Why should the faculty be able to obtain and use extra tickets so freely when students must pay general admission prices for their guests? It is only good policy that the faculty should be given their tickets, but is it good policy that they should obtain extra tickets when student must pay? A check at the doors will bear this fact out. Children unattended by adults presenting faculty tickets. How many of these tickets get into the hands of their friends?

Which Statement?

To the Editor:

I read your article in the November 19th edition of the "East Carolinian" concerning the students arrested on drug possession with considerable interest. The first thing I noticed was the basic contradiction between the headline and the story. The headline authoritatively asserts that there were six ECU students arrested. The third paragraph asserts with equal authority that there were two ECU students involved.

I really have no way of knowing which statement is accurate, but I am willing to be benevolent and allow this error to pass without the withering comment about accurate journalism that this gross mismanagement of information deserves.

I found the last paragraph of your so-distant article particularly taxing. Concerning the board which is being set up to judge the University's attitude toward drug offenders, you state, "The reasons for a separate ruling body for the University are that a case may be thrown out of court, etc. on technicalities even if the student is guilty." After reading this statement several times to be absolutely sure my eyes weren't playing tricks on me, I immediately flew into a purple rage which lasted approximately seven hours. When I finally came to my senses, I reread the statement again and was immediately arrested by the word "etc". Since this made absolutely no sense to me because I was always under the impression that a court either found the accused guilty or innocent which left no room for "etc." I decided to pretend it wasn't in the sentence at all.

Once that problem was out of the way, I tried to think about the situation rationally (no small feat considering the absurdity of the reasoning) and I came to several conclusions concerning our administration.

1. I concluded that the members of the ECU officialdom apparently consider themselves to be omnipotent when compared to the US constitution and the legal system of the United States since they obviously feel that our present system allows a number of hardened criminals to go unpunished. The administration obviously feels that even though the court may fail to do justice, justice will be done by those straight-shooting, clear-eyed, individuals in the administration building.

2. I next speculated about the legal implications of such a board action. First, I considered the possibility of double jeopardy and decided that this did not apply since the accused would be tried at different levels, the University level apparently higher than the court system. Second, I speculated a little about due process, but you, clear, concise, well-written article cleverly declined to mention whether the accused would be allowed the benefit of due process, I.E., whether the accused would be allowed to appeal through the student court system or whether they would just be quietly ejected from the University like a convicted sex murderer.

3. Finally, I came to the overall conclusion that the people who are so intent upon running this University are quite capable of doing whatever they please concerning the students; civil courts, criminal courts, US constitution, and Jesus Christ notwithstanding.

Indeed it was with a heavy heart and a feeling of apprehension when I finally decided to call it a day. I wonder when the University is finally going to realize that their zeal is sadly misplaced. The responsibility of the University should not be to correct the alleged errors of the legal system of the United States, but rather to provide quality education for the students population. When I considered, in retrospect, the futility of writing this letter as a means of initiating some action to save us from ludicrous leaders, I decided to embark upon a program of active apathy. Administration, you get exactly what you deserve, etc!!

Irrevocably yours,

Bob Bowman

Painless Entertainment

To the Editor:

As a member of East Carolina's down-trodden minority of out-of-state students, I wish to publicly lodge a long overdue complaint concerning our so-called entertainment.

How long will the Entertainment Committee continue to foster the parochial, reactionary, and rural attitudes of the student body by booking obsolete crooners like Paul Anka and plastic "soul" groups like the Platters?

Obviously, the powers-that-be cannot hope to quench every variety of musical thirst on campus, limited a spectrum though it is. Some progressive thinking on the part of the leaders of this university of the "New South" might lead them to stumble over a simple proposal: why not have 3 or 4 really top-rate performers each year, one group from each category? First class entertainment would be a painless, faltering step towards reversing the tide of antebellum decadence that has enveloped us.

Hopefully y'all

Publish Names?

Editor

I was very shocked in reading an article in the Nov. 19th issue of the EAST CAROLINIAN concerning the arrest of six EC students on drug possession charges. What shocked me was that the article included the names of some of the people arrested. If this was not bad enough, their home addresses, major, and year in school were also given. I really can see no need of subjecting these people to further ridicule.

The newspaper at "Carolina," THE DAILY TAR HEEL, has had a policy for a long time that the names of people involved in some sort of trouble be withheld from the news article. This rule applies not only to such things as students arrested, but to students brought before honor council and students suspended or expelled from school.

I believe this would be a wise policy for the EAST CAROLINIAN to follow. I do not know any of the students involved, but I see no need of exposing them to further ridicule than what they will, or have already, received. It really seems "low rent" to include these people's name.

Respectively,

Class Studies Negro In American Culture

Austin, Texas (I.P.)—The American Studies Program at the University of Texas, directed by William Goetzmann, has devised a course entitled "The Negro in American Culture." The course is being taught during the current semester by a Negro.

The teacher is George Washington, Jr., an attorney and a 1954 graduate of the UT Law School who will hold the rank of teaching associate while he works on a doctorate in American Studies.

According to Professor Goetzmann, who also is chairman of the History Department, the new course is interdisciplinary, touching on the fields of literature, film, anthropology, law, the arts, history and the social sciences. The seminar-type course meets for two hours each week. Twenty-five junior and senior students are enrolled in the course so new it was not even printed in the announcement of fall courses.

"This is a reading course which seeks to examine the position of the Negro in American life and culture, the changes sought and wrought in that position, the process of change and its effect on the individual," Dr. Goetzmann explained.

Various class sessions are devoted to discussion of "The Negro in American Slavery," "Acculturation vs. Deculturation: Personality in Trauma," "Structuring the Backlash: Cultural Isolation," "Survival Amidst Change," "The Negro Response to Freedom," "North to Freedom: Escape by Migration" and "The Negro Accommodates to Separation: Black Power as a Defense," among others.

Critic Vance Packard Speaks Monday Evening In Wright

One of the most perceptive social critics of our time, Vance Packard is the author of many phenomenal best-sellers that continue to provoke discussions in millions of homes and thousands of classrooms, both here and abroad. His platform appearances are always eagerly awaited in communities throughout the country. He will speak in Wright Auditorium on the topic, "The Changing American Character," Monday, December 16. He will express what is happening in the American character Monday, and how we can find individual dignity, freedom, integrity and fulfillment in a confused and subtly changing world. Internationally recognized for his incisive, meticulously researched investigations of trends in modern society that endanger individual liberty, Vance Packard's name has literally become a household word. The titles of his books have a way of catching on and becoming part of the language even where English isn't ordinarily spoken. This is because he is able, in an unforgettable phrase, to pinpoint an aspect of modern life that everyone instantly recognizes. That sense of recognition is frequently sudden and astounding, because as a documenter of our way of life Vance Packard is by now without peer. He is always investigating tomorrow today.

Vance Packard's three books, "The Hidden Persuaders", "The Status Seekers" and "The Waste Makers" all reached the No. 1 position on best-seller lists. He is the only author in recent years to have three successive books in a row to reach the top rung in the non-fiction field.

Vance Packard's concern for human liberty is an unceasing one which he fortifies by massive research, resulting in the unique authenticity of some of the most important social documents of our time.

Tickets to the general public for Vance Packard's lecture on "The Changing American Character" on Monday night, December 16, are on sale in Wright Auditorium for $2.00 each. ECU students and faculty will be able to pick up free tickets.

O. K. girls go out and buy you a bottle of Nervine to get ready for a hectic and fun filled week of rush February 8 through the 15! The first step toward going through rush is convocation, which will be Wednesday night, December 11 at 7:00 in Wright Auditorium. Convocation is required for any girl planning to go through rush. The only excuse will be if you have a class at that time or if you have an infirmity excuse saying that you are sick. The reason for this is that application forms will be given out and all necessary information will be given concerning rush rules. The eight sorority presidents will speak on the various phases of sorority life, explaining the principles of sisterhood, finances involved, etc. After convocation any applicant who decides not to go through rush must return her material on rush to the office of the Dean of Women and have her name taken from the list of rushees.

In order to go through rush a girl must have passed 15 hours at East Carolina University, be taking 12 regular hours and have an overall "C" average.

During rush week you will visit all the sorority houses and meet the sisters and pledges. At the end you will be given a bid or bids and you will choose the sorority that you would like to join.

Air Force ROTC Supports SGA Project Gratification

The East Carolina Air Force ROTC detachment is making an extra special effort in the gratification project for Dr. Leo W. Jenkins.

The cadets have banded together to show their gratitude for the university president by beginning their own contribution effort and have named it "Project Appreciation". The project is being headed by Cadet Capt. Gary Phipps, who is also the IFC president, and Cadet Lt. Rex Meade, SGA vice-president. Capt. Phipps was available for comment and made the following statement:

"We, at ROTC, believe that this is an excellent way to show our appreciation for Dr. Jenkins' efforts to promote the AFROTC detachment here at East Carolina. We wholeheartedly support this project and we will do our best to insure its success."

The cadets plan to have a separate rock bin next to the bin being placed by the Student Government Association. These rocks will be donated to the SGA at a later date as a contribution of AFROTC.

Library Announces Changes In Present Card System

Change are being made in the Joyner Library card system to improve its service to users. In this change, the card catalog is to be divided into three areas: author, subject and title. Additional cabinets are being added, so it will be dividing and expanding at the same time.

The library staff has this to say: "We will try to put up notes designating where cards are found and put some type of temporary label on the drawers. However, things will change from day to day and this will cause an even greater inconvenience—believe it! we will move as rapidly as possible."

Poetry Forum Will Sponsor Contemporary Poet Blackstock

"Greenville people are in for a treat when they hear Walter Blackstock read his original verse in the Joyner Library Auditorium Wednesday night," says Vernon Ward, director of the East Carolina University Poetry Forum. "Blackstock is not only a very fine poet—possibly the best contemporary Southern poet—but an interesting reader and a fascinating personality."

Born in Atlanta fifty-two years ago, Blackstock attended the University of Georgia where he became a member of Phi Beta Kappa and was the poet of his graduating class. He received his Master of Arts degree from Vanderbilt in 1944, and, after teaching English at Georgia Tech, went to Yale, where he received his Ph. D. in 1952. Later he studied at Harvard with a Ford Foundation Faculty Fellowship to finance his post-doctoral study. He studied under Archibald McLeish, former Librarian of Congress and one of America's outstanding poets, and McLeish gave Blackstock's poetry the highest praise.

Blackstock is soon to publish his ninth volume, "Not As Leaves are Shaken;" it is from this new collection that he will read selections at 8:00 P.M. Wednesday, December 11. Since Blackstock won awards on three earlier volumes, the Oscar A. Young Memorial Award on two, and the Roanoke-Chowan Award (North Carolina's highest honor to its poets) "On leaves Before the Wind," his most recently published volume, there would seem to be good reason for those who come out to hear Dr. Blackstock to expect an unusually good reading.

Members of the ECU Poetry Forum will also present some of their original work in brief readings to fill about half of the evening's program.

Mountaineers Ruin Opener For Quinn's Cage Pirates

The hardcourt Bucs started their season off with a thriller against West Virginia before the Mounties pulled away in the final 30 seconds with their foul shooting.

The Bucs were down by nine points twice in the game, but battled back after each Mountaineer scoring spree to close the gap.

Co-captain Richard Keir led the Buc attack with 21 points. He was followed by Jim Gregory with 19 and Tom Miller with 16.

Bob Hummell paced the Mounties with 25 points with Carey Bailey adding 14 points. Wayne Grimm and Larry Woods each contributed 12 points to the Mountie attack.

West Virginia jumped out to a 5-0 lead before Miller popped in two buckets to trim the lead to one, at 5-4. Bailey then scored to make it 7-4.

The Mounties edged out in front by six on a 8-5 spurt that made the score 15-9. Again, the Pirates came back to cut into the Mounties' lead.

With 7:33 left in the half it was 25-21. West Virginia then outscored the Pirates by 7-2 to take a nine point edge at 32-23. The Pirates fought back to take the lead at 33-32 with little over a minute left in the first half.

Grimm dropped in two free throws for a 34-33 Mountaineer lead before Keir hit to make it 35-34 in favor of the Pirates.

Hummell then hit on two free throws and Ludwig one to put the Mounties on top again at 37-35. Keir then tied it all up at 37-37 with 34 seconds left in the half.

The Mounties got two free throws from Hummell with eight seconds left to give them their 39-37 half-time advantage.

The Mounties spent the second half by scoring six straight points to make it 45-37. Keir and Jim Modlin each hit to whittle the lead down to 45-41. The Mountaineers then hit on five straight points for a nine-point advantage at 50-41.

The Pirates fought back, outscoring the Mounties by 17-6 to take their first lead since just before halftime, at 58-56. The Mounties then tied it up and went ahead at 62-59. The Pirates bounced back to tie at 62-62 on a Gregory free throw and a Keir field goal with 8:20 left.

West Virginia then pulled out to a 74-70 advantage with 2:20 left in the game.

The Pirates pulled to within two at 76-74 on Bob McKillop's goal. The heartbreaker fell when Collins tried to tie the game and saw his shot rim the bucket and stop. Tapping it in, the goal was disallowed because the ball was touching the rim.

Instead of a tie, the Mounties still had a precarious two point lead which they extended to four only seconds later at 78-74.

In the closing seconds, fouls by the Pirates in an effort to regain possession failed as the Mounties outscored the Bucs by 4-1 to win by 82-75.

Baby Bucs Fall To Duke Imps

The Duke Blue Imps pulled away from the East Carolina Baby Bucs in the second half enroute to a 89-69 victory. For the Baby Bucs, it was their first game.

East Carolina took the early lead but Duke battled back to take the lead about midway through the half. The Blue Imps maintained a slight advantage for the remainder of the half and pulled out to a 37-30 lead at the half.

In the second half, the Baby Bucs pulled to within three points on numerous occasions before the Dukes put on a surge that carried them to their easy victory.

One of the major reasons for the poor Buc showing was their shooting. The Baby Bucs couldn't hit the nets with any consistency as they shot a paltry 35 percent with 25 field goals in 71 attempts.

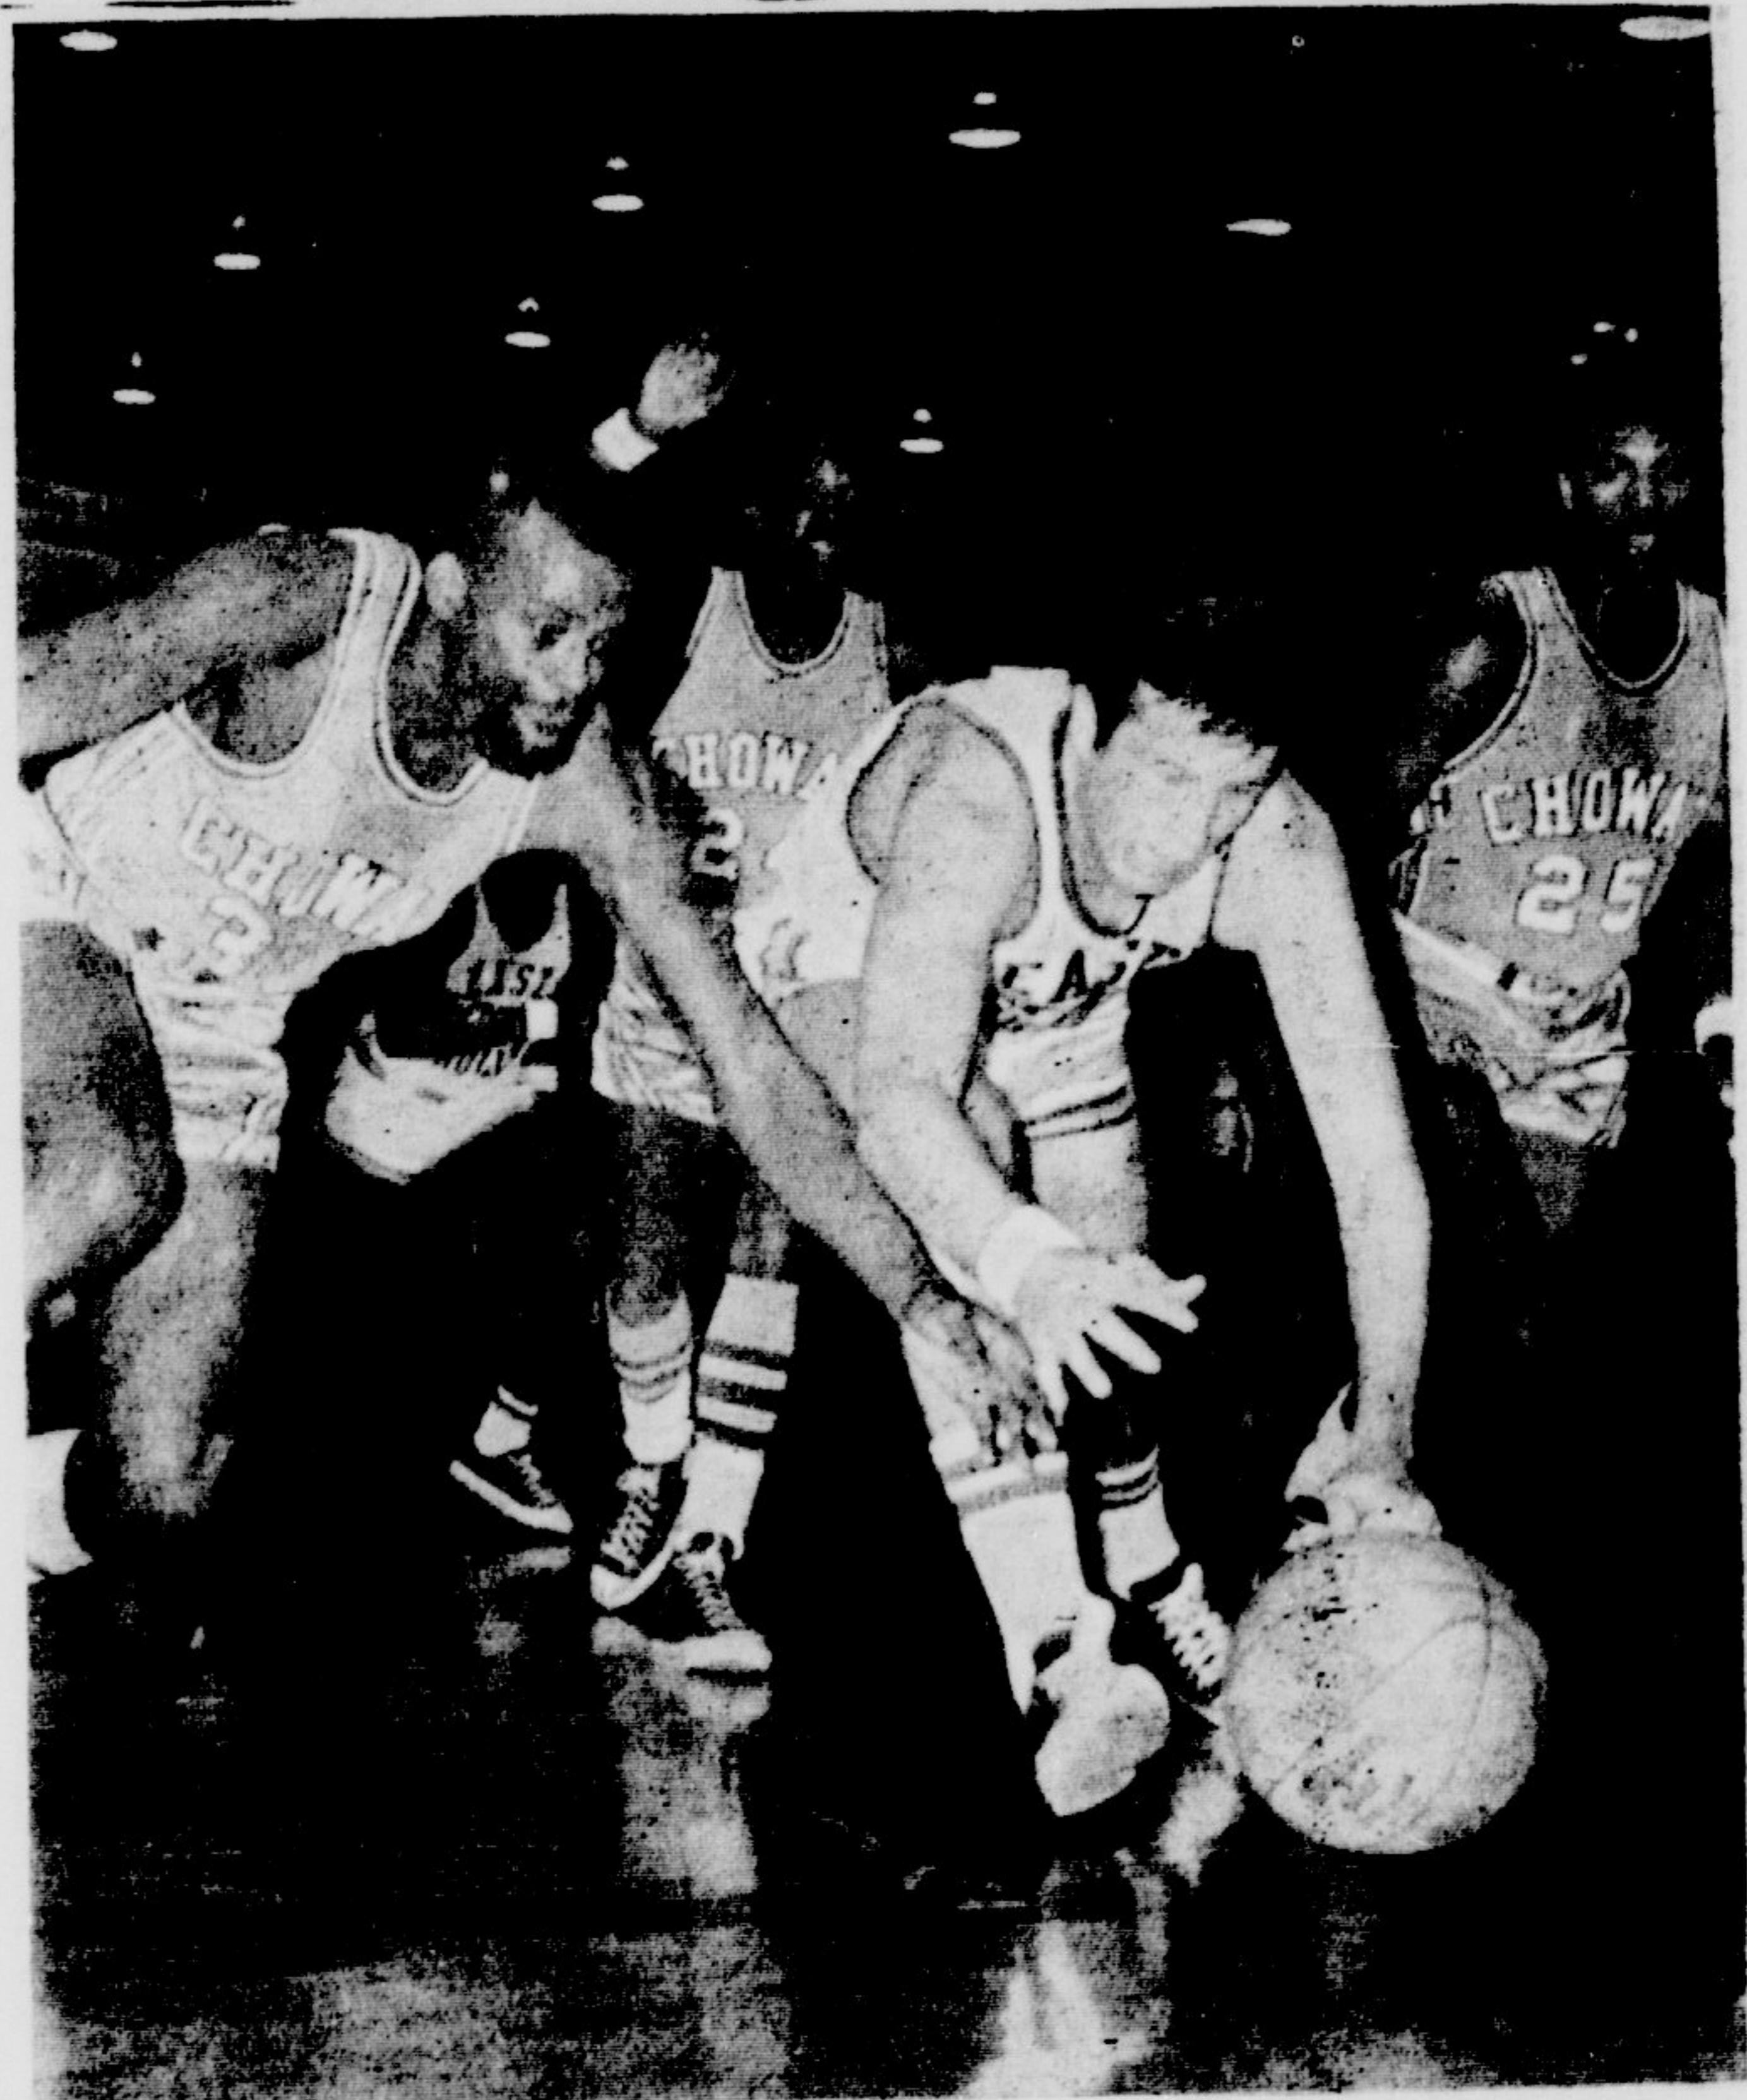

The Dukes placed three men in double figures as Stuart Yarborough led the way with 29 points. Don Blackman added 18 points and Robbie West chipped in with 15. Blackman was the game's top rebounder with 12 recoveries, while Yarborough garnered 10.

For the Baby Bucs, who also put three men in doubles, Ronnie LePors led the way with 17 points. Jim Fairley and Randy Longworth contributed 14 points each.

Fairley led the Buc rebounding effort with ten retrieves while LePors got nine.

Overall, the taller Dukes out-rebounded the Baby Bucs by 44-43.

The Buccannets swam to their second and third straight wins of the year as they downed William & Mary and Mary Washington in a triangular meet.

East Carolina rolled up 70 points as William & Mary finished a distant second with 38 points. Mary Washington finished with 27. The meet also marked the first time in twenty five years that the William & Mary team had been beaten.

The Buccannets took six of the nine events while W&M took one event and Mary Washington captured two.

In swimming to their lopsided win, the Lady Pirates set four new

Thompson Paces Buc Cagers In 126-111 Romp Over ACC

Earl Thompson and Tom Miller teamed up in the backcourt to bomb 61 points through the nets as the Bucs poured on the coals to burn the Atlantic Christian Bulldogs by 126-111 in a record shattering performance.

The 126 point outburst by the Bucs broke the old mark of 120 set against High Point in 1958. The two-team total of 237 easily surpassed the old mark of 211 points scored by East Carolina and Guilford in 1960. The third record set was for most points scored by an opponent as Ed Carraway bombed the nets for 29 points, breaking the record of 28 set by Clyde Stallsmith of ACC in 1966 and Jim Lawrence of Furman, also in 1966.

Overall, each team had four players scoring in double figures, with three on each team topping 20 points. For the Bucs, Richard Keir hit for 23 points to join Thompson and Miller in the 20-point gun club.

For ACC, joining Carraway were Gilmore with 28 points and Stallsmith with 26 points.

Jim Gregory had 15 points to round out double figure scorers for EC while Robert Covington had 16 for ACC.

In the shooting department, ACC was very good, hitting on 47 percent of their shots, but the Bucs were phenomenal. After hitting on 66 percent of their shots in the first half, the Bucs outdid themselves by scorching the nets for an unbelievable 81 percent in the second half. Overall, the Bucs hit on 44 of 60 attempts for 73.4 percent. They also hit on 38 of 48 free throws for 79 percent.

In a foul plagued game which saw 60 fouls committed and each side losing four players via disqualification, the Bucs had a hard time overcoming the stubborn and fired-up Bulldogs.

The Bulldogs moved out quickly to a 6-1 and 12-4 leads before the Bucs finally started to move.

Forward Jim Gregory led the way in the rally that finally saw the Bucs tie it up at 19-19 on a three point play by Tom Miller, with 12:33 left in the half.

The stubborn Bulldogs kept even or ahead by two to four points until Miller hit to make it 28-27 with 9:16 left. Carraway put the Bulldogs into the lead for the last time on a driving shot to make it 29-28.

The Bucs pulled out to a 36-32 lead, but the Bulldogs kept on scrapping and pulled into a tie at 36-36 with about six minutes left in the half.

Thompson then scored six straight points on two buckets and a pair of free throws to make it 42-36 with 4:47 left in the half.

The Bucs then blitzed the Bulldogs with a 20-9 spree that shoved the margin out to 17 points at 62-45 as halftime saved the Bulldogs from a complete rout.

At the start of the second half, Tom Miller hit on two jumpers to give the Bucs a 21-point bulge. The Bulldogs then bounced back into the fray.

Carraway led the way as the Bulldogs snapped back into contention with a 20-9 spree that cut the margin to ten at 75-65 with 14:00 left in the game.

The Buc lead finally dropped below 10 points as Gilmore hit on two charity tosses to make it 81-72 with 11:48 left in the game.

The two teams battled on almost even terms, but the Bucs edged out to a 13-point lead at 91-78 with about eight minutes left to go.

The Bucs then began to move further in front of the Bulldogs as Mike Dunn put them over the century mark on a driving layup for a 16-point advantage at 101-85.

With 4:45 left to go, the Buc lead reached its zenith at 109-89 for a 20-point bulge as Dunn hit on a layup.

With the Buc front line of Collins, Modlin, Keir and Gregory fouling out, the Bulldogs were able to close the gap to the final 15-point margin at 126-111.

Thompson hit on 15 out of 20 tries from the floor and 10 of 12 at the line for his 40 points. Keir hit on 13 of 15 charity tosses to lead in that area.

The Bucs outrebounded the Bulldogs by 44 to 38 as Jim Gregory led the way with 13 rebounds. Thompson had six and Dunn five, while Collins, Keir and Modlin each grabbed four.

For the Bulldogs, Covington, Gilmore, and Stallsmith each grabbed six rebounds.

The Bucs travel to Williamsburg to battle William and Mary tomorrow night and then return home to meet Old Dominion.

Frosh Cagers Win In 108-90 Rally

The Baby Bucs exploded in the closing minutes to overwhelm the Chowan Braves by 108-90 to even their record at 1-1. In a foul-plagued game that saw a parade to the free throw line, the Baby Bucs took the lead from the start and never relinquished it enroute to their first win of the young season.

The Bucs pulled steadily ahead, but a stubborn Chowan team wouldn't quit and the Baby Bucs went into halftime with a 54-47 lead after seeing a 17 point advantage almost disappear.

In the second half, the Braves led the lead down to three points but couldn't cut it any closer. Then the Baby Bucs started to pull away. In the closing minutes, the frantic Chowan defense fell apart as the Bucs moved out to the final 18 point margin at 108-90.

Five players, led by Julius Prince's 30 points, hit double figures for the Baby Bucs. C. C. Crouse had 28, Ron LePors had 13, and Randy Longworth had 13, and Jim Fairley had 11.

Fairley snared 15 rebounds for the Baby Bucs while LePors grabbed seven.

For Chowan, William Brown poured in 35 points to take game scoring honors. Harry Flipping added 17 points, while Todd McDaniel and Harry Gray got 12 and 11 points respectively.

Flipping retrieved 16 rebounds while Brown got 12 rebounds.

The Baby Bucs will face the William & Mary Papposes tomorrow night in the preliminary game before the varsity Pirates take on the W&M Indians in Williamsburg.

Gamecocks Down Bucs On Diving Prowess

South Carolina beat the Pirates by 60-53 in the opening swimming meet held in Minges Natatorium Friday afternoon as the Gamecock divers spelled the difference.

The South Carolina divers, who are nationally ranked with schools like Indiana and Yale, swept the first two places in both the one and three-meter diving events to gain their winning margin. Vic Laughlin put on two splendid diving performances to take two firsts. Jim Thoder finished second in both events as the Gamecock divers outclassed the Bucs.

The Gamecocks won for the second year in a row as they took seven of the 13 events.

The Bucs set three new records, all by freshmen. Gary Frederick set two of the marks while Jim Griffin set the other.

Frederick, in finishing second in the 1,000 freestyle, set his first record as he finished in 10:57.77. Later, he won the 500-freestyle with a record time of 5:14.79.

Griffin set the standard in the 200 freestyle as he won in 1:53.25.
