Vienna Choir Boys to give concert here Tuesday night

By MARGE SIMPKINS

The Vienna Choir Boys bring their 470 year-old talent to Wright Auditorium at 8:15 Tuesday.

The choir, composed of 22 boys between the ages of eight and 14, has won fame around the world.

Their program will be in the traditional form which the organization uses in its many appearances throughout the world.

The concert will be divided into three parts. The first third will be devoted to religious selections, including sacred songs in Latin, some written in the 16th and 17th centuries and stemming from the Choir's original function as singers in the Hapsburg Court Chapel.

These will be followed by a complete switch in mood as the boys change from their traditional sailor suits to highheeled shoes, dresses and wigs and perform a rollicking operetta by Offenbach.

The concert ends with a set of some of the most familiar Viennese waltzes and Austrian folk songs by Schubert and Strauss.

The history of the Vienna Choir Boys dates back to 1498, when the Holy Roman Emperor Maximilian I ordered his Chamberlain to acquire and maintain "singers" for the Court Chapel in Vienna.

A dozen boys were engaged and the choirmaster, in addition to directing their musical activities, was granted funds for their board and education.

When the lads reached the age when their voices changed, they received "mustering out pay" and fare home. Those who decided to study were sent to an ecclesiastical state boarding school on a three-year scholarship which covered tuition and living expenses, provided by the emperor.

Describing their New York debut, the New York Times reported: "It began with a performance of the Star Spangled Banner in English beguilingly quaint. As the capacity audience got to its feet, and the 22 youngsters, grouped on each side of the piano informed one that 'ze flak vass still zere', it was easy to see that the house was theirs before the concert began."

Before enrollment is possible in the organization, the prospective choir boys must pass rigid examinations of their scholastic ability and musical talents.

The present tour features the twenty-fourth group of youngsters to arrive here since 1932. The school is divided into three choirs for touring purposes and each unit receives an opportunity to visit the numerous countries on the choir's itineraries.

The Vienna Choir Boys were featured in Walt Disney's "Almost Angels" and have made appearances on several special television shows as well as many recordings on various labels. Their current tour will take them to some 50 North American cities.

Tickets for students and student guests are on sale now at the Central Ticket Office for 50 cents. Faculty and staff tickets are $2.50.

Legislature hears 'Carousel' plans

The schedule for ticket sales for Carousel Weekend was outlined by Rudolph Alexander, assistant dean of Student Affairs, at a meeting of the Student Legislature Monday.

5,000 student and 1,000 student guest and general admission tickets will be on sale at the Central Ticket Office Jan. 12-16 with only campus wide publicity during the week Alexander said.

This limited publicity would limit general admission sales during the first week so that student sales could be evaluated in order to make adjustments in the general admission quota to meet student demand.

In other business, four new legislators were approved by acclamation and appointed to office.

The new legislators are as follows: Susie Clifton, Umstead; Sally Bryant, Ragsdale; Betsy Jeanett, Fleming; and Robert Gray, Aycok.

A resolution giving SGA support to Fountainhead publishing more than twice weekly was passed by acclamation. The resolution was introduced by Robert Adams.

A resolution, also introduced by Adams, was passed which made provisions for the erection on campus of lighted fixtures each displaying a map of campus buildings and Greek houses.

A pep band to play at all instate basketball games was provided for in a bill sent to committee for study.

A special committee was set up to study a bill that would allow for a report on the Grade Appeals Board. The bill was introduced by Chip Sell.

A bill that would create a report on the traffic committee was sent to the student affairs committee for study. The bill was introduced by Barbara Copeland.

'Macbeth' tryouts slated for tonight

Tryouts for the third East Carolina Playhouse production, Shakespeare's "Macbeth", are scheduled for tonight.

Director Edgar R. Loessin will hold auditions in McGinnis Auditorium from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.

Professional performers Claude Woolman and Amanda Muir will be featured in the tragedy as Macbeth and Lady Macbeth.

Woolman has performed with the Shakespeare troupe in Stratford, Conn. and is a veteran of Broadway, television and motion pictures.

Miss Muir has appeared off-Broadway, on network television, and with numerous stock companies, including the East Carolina Summer Theatre.

Loessin has invited all students, faculty and interested non-university persons in the area to audition for the 30 remaining roles.

Copies of the script are on reserve in Joyner Library for advance study by auditioners. Each candidate will be given a private audition to read a scene of his own choosing.

Rehearsals for "Macbeth" will begin shortly after auditions are completed. Performances are scheduled for Feb. 17-21 in McGinnis Auditorium.

Sorry, but we goofed

The Fountainhead would like to apologize for erroneously crediting Dean Mallory with a statement in the Dec. 18 issue. The statement was made by a GAP spokesman concerning the Rap session on academic freedom, held Tuesday, Dec. 16.

The last two paragraphs of the article should have read:

"The spokesman added, 'The small number of students attending the session, we feel, is an insult to all those who did participate.'"

"Dean Mallory said, that we have always had an apathetic campus. That may begin to change now, but not if the students continue to refuse to open their eyes and begin to work for their own education."

ARC program aids alcoholics in their return to society

By BARBARA FUSSELL

To help alcoholics return to a useful role in society, the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center began its program of treatment and training in Greenville, July, 1969.

The rehabilitation program has two phases; regional and local, said Howard Dawkins, regional program coordinator and assistant program director.

He said the regional phase includes 32 eastern North Carolina counties with 12 community areas having Alcoholic Rehabilitation Centers (ARCs) to serve them.

An ARC is a short term intensive treatment center Dawkins said, while Cherry Hospital in Goldsboro is a long term center.

The majority of the local centers are in coordination with Mental Health Centers and three areas have additional Alcoholic Information Centers (AIC). Greenville has an AIC under the direction of Mrs. Helen Barrett.

Dawkins said he hoped that now and in the future if an alcoholic is interested in obtaining help he would first contact the AIC, the Mental Health Center, or his physician. In turn, after evaluation of his case, the alcoholic may be referred to the ARC or Cherry Hospital.

Herb Waldrop who works with treatment and

be referred to the center by a community physician. If possible, this referral should be made through an established local Mental Health Center or AIC.

After admission, the patients enter an orientation program. They participate in lectures, discussion groups, film discussion groups, and groups where the rules and programs of the center are explained.

Each Wednesday the entire treatment staff meets and discusses all newly admitted patients. Later the patients are assigned to therapy groups on the basis of their medical, psychological, and social make-up, Waldrop said.

He also related that the patient's participation in group therapy is a major part of the treatment and rehabilitation program. The different types of therapy include occupational (arts and crafts), recreational, industrial, and vocational rehabilitation.

Patients are also encouraged to attend a closed Alcoholic's Anonymous meeting and participate in psychodrama at ECU under the direction of Bob Chase of the Drama Department. Chase tries to motivate the patients into reenacting their "hang-ups" said Waldrop.

On Thursdays the immediate family may visit the seven building facility on Highway 43 and participate in a family therapy group. Patients pay seven dollars a day to attend all phases of the Center's programs of four to five weeks.

Waldrop added that the social services at the local ARC are provided by contract with the Social Services Department of ECU.

The basic function of the social services branch is discharge planning with each patient in an attempt to understand his home and his vocational possibilities.

Dawkins also said the local center was set up to be a research area in conjunction with the School of Allied Sciences here.

Students majoring in nursing, social services, psychology, vocational rehabilitation, recreation, and drama participate, under supervision, in counseling patients and observing them.

Dawkins added that this summer an institute of rehabilitative services at Greenville's ARC explained the Center's program. He said the aim is that "every patient here will know where he can go for help if he needs it after returning to society."

Waldrop said there are five conditions prior to a person's admission in the ARC: He must be a resident of one of the 32 eastern counties of North

be sober 72 hours, coherent and manageable have no court action pending during the projected treatment period have no major mental or physical impairments which would restrict rehabilitation efforts

Alcoholism Studies will be conducted in conjunction with the University.

Abbey Singers to give concert at ECU tonight

As part of the Chamber Music Festival, the Abbey Singers will present a concert at 8:15 p.m. on Jan. 8 in the Recital Hall of the Music building. A masterclass will be held at 9 a.m. on Jan. 9 in room 101 of the building.

The concert and masterclass are free and the public is urged to attend.

The Abbey Singers are a quintet of concert and opera soloists who joined to perform chamber music.

In addition to a vigorous concert schedule, the Abbey Singers have appeared on the Today Show on NBC-TV.

The Chamber Music Festival is being sponsored by the SGA with the assistance of a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Snooty Sez

Design, Line, Form

A garment's design is as important as its color. Good design, through its arrangement of lines, forms, colors and textures, accounts for beauty in the finished garment.

The eye seems to follow lines which may be vertical, horizontal, curved straight, radiating, diagonal, angular, down-sweeping or up-sweeping. They make it possible to camouflage figure faults.

Obviously, a heavy woman, wearing horizontal stripes, is going to seem heavier. However, if she chooses a style incorporating vertical lines, she will appear slimmer.

Costume design must adapt its form to the lines of the body but a garment that follows the bodyline too closely seems tight and restrictive. A design completely opposed to figure lines, is not attractive. A good design suggests the form and curves of the body without being either restrictive or in opposition to it.

Snooty sez...you'll find fashions for every occasion at THE SNOOTY FOX. We're just one block from campus, and our friendly sales staff is always on hand to help you. Best of all, we cater to you, the college coed! Visit us soon, THE SNOOTY FOX, 203 East 5th St., phone 758-4061. Open daily 9:30 till 6.

School of Music News

The presentation of the Charles A. White Applied Music Scholarship has been announced by Dean Thomas W. Miller of the School of Music.

The 1969-1970 White scholarships were awarded by the scholarship committee after considering a large number of applications.

Sandra K. Little, a junior, received the Nancy Lay White Scholarship. Miss Little is a music education major who is studying voice and piano. She is a member of the Concert Choir and SAI music sorority.

Linda S. Pescatore, a sophomore, received the Charles A. White Scholarship. Miss Pescatore is an applied music major studying the French Horn. She is a member of the Symphonic Band and the University Symphony Orchestra.

Dean Thomas W. Miller of the School of Music announced today that the University has been selected as one of 11 schools in the nation to present a summer workshop sponsored by the Manhattanville Music Project.

First summer institutes under this program were held in 1968 at 12 universities and proved so successful that the program is being repeated at different schools.

The two week session, open to a selected number of graduate students and selected music educators, will be concerned with developing new strategies for the music teaching in the public schools.

The workshop will take place in the School of Music from June 22 through July 3 and will have two national figures in music education as consultors.

They will be on the campus for the two weeks and will be involved in the daily teaching of the Institute.

Dr. Ralph Verrastro, assistant professor of music education, will coordinate the program on this campus.

Verrastro also serves as the University's representative to the National Council for the Manhattanville College Curriculum Study recently announced.

The School of Music recently played host to three visiting scholars. The purpose of their visit was to examine the Comprehensive Musicianship program of the School of Music.

The Comprehensive Musicianship program is an operational two year sequence of instruction required of all freshman and sophomore music majors. It is the result of an experimental program funded by the Contemporary Music Project and identified as the Institute for Music in Contemporary Education (IMCE).

Professor David P. Willoughby of Elizabethtown College was on campus December 4-5 attempting to determine the effects of IMCE at various participating institutions.

Sister Mary Helene Juettner developing a Comprehensive Musicianship Program based upon our program here.

Mr. James Searl, Chairman of the Comprehensive Musicianship Program has been invited to visit the College of St. Benedict for the purpose of aiding in the establishment of such a program.

Russian epic will be shown tonight

The Russian film "And Quiet Flows the Don" will be shown tonight at 8 p.m. in Wright Auditorium.

The epic story by Mikhail Sholokon has been hailed as "a Russian 'Gone With The Wind.'"

As Cossacks of a little village on the Don, the Melekov family lives during the terrors of World War I and the following upheaval.

The war proves to open the eyes of a fiery young Cossack hero.

Filmed on location, its authenticity and detail make this movie an international index to pre-Soviet Cossack life.

Students will be admitted by I.D. cards.

The local chapter of the ACLU will meet tonight at 8 p.m. in the Baptist Student Center.

University to become center of eclipse study in March

North Carolinians will turn their eyes heavenward March 7 for the second time to witness one of this century's five total solar eclipses over the United States. Many of those who watch with greatest interest will be on the campus here, which is situated dead center of the width of totality.

So rare are total eclipses over any given locale that they occur on an average of once every 360 years. In London there have been only two total eclipses in 14 centuries. In North Carolina, there will have been two in 70 years.

As the only major institution in the state so favorably located, and as the center of the most favorable vantage point in the country, ECU will play host to students, scientists and educators from throughout the country for the event. The Greenville campus will be at the center of scientific activity for the eclipse.

Only one other spot in the world is more favorable for telescopic observation—the mountainous area of Oaxaca, Mexico. Because of its altitude and the greater duration of totality, Oaxaca will be the primary area of telescopic observation.

Activity in Greenville will focus primarily on the educational aspects of the eclipse, but scientific observation via radio, photography and telescope will be conducted.

The largest telescope expected to be put to use here during the eclipse is a 10-inch Newtonian Reflector owned by an ECU student from Chesapeake, Va.

Conditions permitting, Gallimore's telescope, which is capable of resolution of a one-half mile area of the moon, will facilitate some detailed study of the action of solar flares during totality. An amateur astronomer and telescope maker since his childhood, Gallimore also plans an attempt to photograph the eclipse.

Dr. R.M. Helms, professor of physics and resident expert on solar eclipses, says the eclipse will begin at 12:14 p.m. March 7 as the moon moves between the sun and the earth. Totality will begin at 1:31 and end at 1:34, and the moon will slide completely out of line with the sun at about 2:48:56 p.m.

"In North Carolina," Helms says, "the center of totality passes near Elizabethtown, LaGrange, Greenville, Williamston and Windsor. The totality path enters the United States near Perry, Florida, grazes Tallahassee, passes along the coast of Georgia, South and North Carolina, leaves land at Virginia Beach, passes coastal Nova Scotia and Newfoundland."

"The eclipse will be visible as at least partial in all of North America except Alaska, and will be prominent in nearly all of the U.S.A."

The last total eclipse seen in North Carolina was on May 28, 1900. Other totalities occurred on June 30, 1954 in Minnesota and July 20, 1963 in Maine. The only remaining totality in this century after March 7 will come in 1979 in the state of Washington.

Preparations for the eclipse are already under way here, and are being coordinated through a committee of professors and administrators including Helms. Invitations have already been extended to many students, educators and scientists and more will be made.

Although no predictions are possible yet, Helms expects the campus to be a beehive of activity on the dawn of March 7. A tentative program following the eclipse will include a report by telephone from Oaxaca on the results of observation, and reports from various scientists who observe the eclipse here.

"Although we anticipate some fine opportunities to study by radio certain interesting aspects of the eclipse, our primary concern will be for the educational value," Helms says.

"The eclipse provides a unique opportunity for ECU to be of great service to the education of scientists."

Worth Baker, Registrar, has announced that Pre-registration will be held Jan. 12-16 in Wright Auditorium from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

General College advisors will be in the Memorial Gym.

There will be no January meeting of the League of Scholars.

GAP will meet tonight, at 5:30 p.m. in the Legislature office on the 3rd floor of Wright Auditorium. All students are invited to attend. Members are urged to be present at this meeting.

The Sociology Club will sponsor a trip to the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center Tuesday, Jan. 13.

All interested students should contact Dr. David Knox in Nursing Building, 246.

Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority and Pi Kappa Phi fraternity gave a Christmas party for underprivileged children on Dec. 17.

With the help of the Greenville Welfare Department, the organizations provided refreshments and entertainment. Special gifts were distributed during a visit by Santa Claus.

The Biology Club will sponsor a field trip to Lake Mattamuskeet Saturday, Jan. 10.

All students interested should sign the list on the Biology Departmental Bulletin Board before noon Friday. Dates are welcomed.

Those going will leave the Memorial Gym parking lot at 10 a.m. and will return around 7 p.m.

Those going should dress warmly and bring a picnic lunch. Transportation expenses will be shared.

The girl's intercollegiate swim team will meet at 4 p.m. Thursday and Friday, Jan. 8 and 9, at the Memorial Gym pool.

Anyone who is not able to come, please contact Miss Stallings in Memorial Gym.

Bill Cain, business manager of athletics, has announced that 400 student tickets for the N.C. State University game in Raleigh, Thursday, Jan. 15 will go on sale Monday morning.

The tickets will be $1 each and will be sold on a first come, first serve basis, Cain said.

McGee becomes new head football coach; three staff assistants named

By SONNY LEA
Sports Editor

Mike McGee, a 31-year old ex-Duke All-American, was named the head football coach at ECU Dec. 19.

Since his appointment, McGee has named three assistants to his staff.

His first choice was his brother Jerry McGee, who comes here from Southern Illinois where he was head defensive coach. The new head coach also named Henry Trevathan and former ECU assistant Henry Vansant to his staff.

The new Pirate mentor is from the University of Minnesota where he was an assistant for three years. Before going to Minnesota he assisted at Duke and the University of Wisconsin.

Following his graduation from Duke in 1960, McGee played for the St. Louis Cardinals in the National Football League for three seasons.

Both the McGees are natives of Elizabeth City and are familiar with eastern North Carolina.

Trevathan is from Wilson's Fike High School. During the past three seasons, Trevathan has led the team to three straight North Carolina 4-A Football championships.

Trevathan, who is a graduate of ECU, began his coaching career at Windsor before moving to Rocky Mount as an assistant. Then, he took the head coaching job in Wilson where he has been for the past six years.

Before he made the move to Wilson, the team had lost 28 straight games. This season his team finished 13-0.

Vansant is not new here. He assisted coach Clarence Stasavich for the past eight years. He came to ECU from Hopewell, Va. in 1962 and served as freshman coach for five years before becoming a varsity assistant as offensive line coach. This season he was in charge of the defensive line.

His freshman team in 1966 was undefeated. An ardent recruiter, he spends most of his time in his homestate of Virginia looking for prospects.

MIKE MCGEE new head coach for Pirate football.

Pirates hold winning streak

By SONNY LEA

The Pirates finally broke the Furman jinx here Tuesday night as the Bucs rolled to their third straight win and their fourth in five games, 81-66.

In five previous games, the Pirates had never beaten the Paladins on the hardwood but came close twice, losing by one point in two games in 1968.

The win was ECU's second straight Southern Conference victory, boosting its record to 2-1 in the league and 7-5 overall.

The Pirates began their latest surge in the Sunshine Classic in Tampa, Fla., over the holidays. In the opening round, the Bucs blasted Florida A&M 71-57 but fell to Tampa in the championship 89-78.

Then the Bucs came home New Years Day to stop Georgia Southern 88-78. The next night in Washington, D.C., the Pirates knocked off the Southern Conference leader, George Washington, handing them their first loss in four league starts, 72-62.

The reason for the sudden surge after the Pirates had dropped four straight, is simply Tom Miller, Jim Fairley, Jim Gregory, Jim Modlin and several reserves.

Miller, perhaps one of the most outstanding guards in the conference has upped his scoring average almost four points since the Christmas break and was voted the outstanding player in the Sunshine Classic. Against both Georgia Southern and George Washington, the senior guard tossed over 20 points.

Fairley, a sophomore forward, is not the team's leading rebounder and does not seem to be eager to give up the top spot after he hit the boards for 16 rebounds against Furman. In the last three games, he has scored 22, 22 and 18 points respectively.

Modlin has been constantly in double figures and is still the team's leading scorer. Against Furman Tuesday night, he scored 31 points, his second high for the season. He scored 42 points in the opening game against Western Carolina.

Gregory, who at the first of the season was the most consistent scorer, has not been as deadly in the last few games. Still he owns a scoring average in double figures and is the second leading rebounder, averaging just over 10 per game.

Reserves Julius Prince and Joe Harvey, as well as starter Jim Kiernan, have been playing well since the break. Against Florida A&M Harvey scored a career high of 10 while both Prince and Kiernan broke double figures against Tampa.

The Pirates will host VMI here Saturday night in an attempt to win their third straight conference game. Next week, the Pirates hit the road, travelling to Davidson Tuesday and then going to N.C. State University Thursday.

Wrestlers defeat Bears; maintain perfect record

The wrestling team remained undefeated in the last match before the vacation when it handed the grapplers from Ohio Northern University a 25-9 defeat in Minges Coliseum.

The Pirates had too much depth as they won seven of the 10 weight classes. The Polar Bears won only in the 126, 177 and heavyweight classes. John Carroll (150) and Mike Spohn (167) came up with pins for the Bucs. Carroll had to pin his opponent twice as a mixup in rules nullified his first pin.

Tom Ellenberger (118), Steve Morgan (134), Robert Corbo (142), Stan Bastian (158), and Sam McDowell

(190) came up with victories on decisions. Roger Lundy gave an indication of things to come when, in an exhibition match, he pinned his opponent with five seconds remaining. The match didn't count in the team score, however.

The Wilkes Tournament, scheduled over the holiday, was cancelled but some of the wrestlers participated in the D.C. Open with Joe Daversa finishing fourth at 177-pounds, the highest Pirate finish.

East Carolina, now 3-0, will have a little more time off before hosting Fort Bragg Army, Jan. 17, and Cherry Point Marines a week later.

Swim team returns tomorrow

The swimming Pirates will be at home against the University of South Carolina at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

In the four previous matches between the two schools, the Pirates have won only one.
